But for the second kind of hypocrisie, this cousening of a mans own soul, this tiring and personating in the closet, this inventing of arts and stratagems to send himself comfortably and believingly to the Devil, this civil intestine treachery within, and against ones self; this is the grand imposture that here the Pharisee is noted for. An easiness and cheateableness that costs the bankrupting of many a jolly Christian soul. He, saith Plutarch, that wants health, let him go to the Physicians, but he that wants εὐεξία a good durable habit of body, let him go to the γυμνασὰς ἄγων. (the masters of exercise) otherwise he shall never be able to confirm himself into a solid firm constant health, call'd thereupon by Hippocrates ἕξις ἀθλητικὴ, the constitution of wrestlers; without which, health it self is but a degree of sickness, nourishment proves but swellings, and not growth, but a tympany. Both these, saith he, Philosophy will produce in the soul, not only teaching men θεοὺς σέβεσθαι (where by the way, he repeats almost the whole decalogue of Moses, though in an heathen dialect) to worship the Gods, &c. which is ὑγίεια ψυχῆς, the health of the soul, but τόδε μέγιστον, that which is above all, μὴ περιχαρεῖς ὑπάρχειν μήτε ἀκλύτως, not to be overjoyed or immoderately affected in all this. This which he attributes to Philosophy in general, is, saith Aristotle, an act of intellectual prudence, or sobriety, μειζόνων ἢ ἀξιῶ ἑαυτὸν μὴ ἀξιῶν, not to vouchsafe higher titles to himself than he is worthy of; not to think himself in better health than he is, which is not the dialect of a mere heathen, but the very language of Canaan, Rom. xii. 3. φρονεῖν εἰς τὸ σωφρονεῖν, the very word in Aristotle, which cannot be better expresst than by that περίφρασις to have a moderate sober equal opinion of ones own gifts; not to overprize Gods graces in our selves, not to accept ones own person, or give flattering titles to ones self; in Jobs phrase. This Chrysostom calls ταπινοφροσύνη, a word near kin unto the former, the meekness or lowliness of heart, ὅταν τὶς, &c. when a man having attain'd to a great measure of grace, and done great matters by it, and knoweth it too, yet μηδὲν μέγα fancies no great matter of himself for all this. As the three Children in Daniel having received a miracle of graces, which affected even the enemies of God, yet were not affected with it themselves; enabled to be Martyrs, and yet live. Or as the Poet of Callimachus that stood after he was dead---- τί μ' ἔπεμπες εἰς ἀθανάτους πολεμιστὰς; βάλλομεν, ἠ πίπτομεν, τετρώσκομεν, ἠ φοίνισσι; Which is Nebuchadnezzars phrase, walking in the midst of the fire, and yet they have no hurt. Yet in their ἐυχαριστικὸν their Song of praise, all that they say of themselves is this, and now we cannot open our mouths, ver. 9. for this, saith Chrysostom, we open our mouths, that we may say this only, that it is not for us to open our mouths. By this low modest interpretation every Christian is to make of his own actions and gifts, you may guess somewhat of the Pharisees misconceits.

Rom. xii. 3.

c. 5. pag. 261.

Pantelim.

Song of 3. child. ver. 9.

For first, were he never so holy and pure, of never so spiritual Angelical composition, yet the very reflecting on these excellencies, were enough to make a Devil of him. The Angels, saith Gerson, as the Philosophers intelligences, have a double habitude, two sorts of imployments natural to them; One upwards, in an admiration of Gods greatness, love of his beauty, obedience to his will, moving as it were a circular daily motion about God, their Center; (as Boethius of them Mentemque profundam circumeunt:) another downward, of regiment and power in respect of all below, which they govern, and move and manage. Now if it be questioned, saith he, which of these two be more honourable, for the credit of the Angelical nature, I determine confidently, that of subjection, pulchriorem & perfectiorem esse, quam secunda regitiva dominationis, 'tis more renown to be under God, than over all the world besides. As the service to a King, is the greatest preferment that even a Peer of the Realm is capable of. And then if an Angel should make a Song of exultance to set himself out in the greatest pomp, he would begin it as Mary doth her Magnificat, For he hath regarded the low estate of his servant: So that the blessed Virgins mention of her own lowliness, was not a piece only of modest Devotion, but an ὕψος of expression, and high Metaphysical insinuation of the greatest dignity in the world. And then, let the Pharisee be as righteous as himself can fancy, come to that pitch indeed, which the contemptuous opinionative Philosophers feigned to themselves, ἀγγέλους μὲν δύνασθαι μηδενὸς, in Tatianus, which is in the Church of Laodicea's phrase, I am rich and am increased in spiritual wealth, and have need of nothing; or

Tri. i. in Magnif.

p. 161.

St. Luke xvi. 19. the fools in the Goſpel, I have ſtore laid up for many years; nay to St. Pauls pitch, wrapt ſo high, that the ſchools do queſtion whether he were viator or comprehenſor, a traveller, or at his journeyes end; yet the very opinion of Gods graces would argue him a Phariſee; this conceiving well of his eſtate, is the fouleſt miſconceit. For if he be ſuch a complete righteous perſon, ſo accompliſh't in all holy graces, why ſhould he thus betray his ſoul, by depriving it of this παπεινοφροσύνη, which the very Heathens could obſerve ſo abſolutely neceſſary; this humility and lowlineſs of mind, this uſeful and moſt ingenuous vertue, always to think vilely of himſelf; not to acknowledge any excellence in himſelf, though he were even put upon the rack. The Philoſophers that wrote againſt pride, are cenſured to have ſpoil'd all, by putting their names to their Books. Modeſty, like Dina, deſiring never ſo little to be ſeen, is raviſhed. The ſanctifying ſpirit that beautifies the ſoul, is an humbling ſpirit alſo, to make it unbeauteous in its own eyes. And this is the firſt miſconceit, the firſt ſtep of Phariſaical hypocriſie, thinking well of ones ſelf on what ground ſoever; contrary to that virgin grace, humility, which is a vertue required not only of notorious infamous ſinners (for what thanks or commendation is it for him to be on the ground, that hath faln and bruiſed himſelf in his race? for him that is ready to ſtarve, to go a begging?) but chiefly and mainly of him that is moſt righteous; when he that knows a great deal of good by himſelf, μεγάλα καλοῤῥάμαλα, a great deal of good ſucceſs in the ſpirit, yet μηδὲν μίγα φαντάζεται, is not advanced a whit at the fancy of all this.

Cerſ. tr. 10 in Magnif.

The Phariſees ſecond miſconceit is a favourable overprizing of his own worth, expecting a higher reward, than it in proportion deſerves. When looking in the glaſs, he ſees all far more glorious in that reflect beam, than it is in the direct, all the deformities left in the glaſs, and nothing but fair return'd to him, a rough harſh unpleaſing voice, ſmoothed, and ſoftned, and grown harmonious in the Echo: there is no ſuch cheating in the world, as by reflexions. A looking-glaſs by ſhewing ſome handſom perſons their good faces, and that truly, hath often ruin'd them by that truth, and betrayed that beauty to all the uglineſs and rottenneſs in the world; which had it not been known by them, had been injoyed. But then your falſe glaſſes, what miſchief and ruine have they been authors of? how have they given authority to the deformed'ſt creatures, to come confidently on the ſtage, and befool'd them to that ſhame, which a knowledge of their own wants had certainly prevented? What difference their may be betwixt the direct ſpecies of a thing, and the ſame reflected, the original and the tranſcript, the artificial famous Picture of Henry the Fourth of France, will teach you; where in a multitude of feign'd devices, a heap of painted, phantaſtical Chimæra's, which being look'd on right, reſembled nothing, being order'd to caſt their ſpecies upon a pillar of poliſh't metal reflected to the ſpectators eye, the moſt lively viſage of that famous King. He that hath not ſeen this piece of Art, or hath not skill in Catoptricks enough to underſtand the demonſtrable grounds and reaſons of it, may yet diſcern as much in nature, by the appearance of a rainbow, where you may ſee thoſe colours reflected by the cloud, which no Philoſopher will aſſert to be exiſtent there. And all this brings more evidence to the Phariſees indictment, and demonſtrates his opinion of his own actions or merits, to be commonly deceiveable and falſe.

Pag. 8. He ſees another mans actions radio recto, by a direct beam; and if there be no humour in his eye, if it be not glazed with contempt or envy, or prejudice, he may perhaps ſee them aright. But his own he cannot ſee but by reflexion, as a man comes not to ſee his own eyes, but in the ſhadow, and at the rebound; whereupon Alcinous the Platonick calls this act of the ſoul, ἡ ψυχῆς πρὸς ἑαυτὴν διάλογον, a dialogue of the ſoul with it ſelf, and the knowledge that comes from thence, ἀναζωγράφησιν, a reſemblance by ſhadowing. The ſoul underſtands, and wills its object; this act of it by its ſpecies is caſt upon the fanſie, and from thence, as even now from the column of braſs, or Bell-metal, 'tis reflected to the underſtanding: and then you may gueſs, what a fair report he is likely to receive, when a Phariſees phancy hath the returning of it. He that with his own cleareſt eyes could take a gnat for a taller unwieldier creature than a Camel, and rhereupon ſtrains at it, Mat. xxiii. 24. what would he do if he ſhould come to his multiplying glaſs? he that when he ſees a mote, and that radio recto, in others eyes, can miſtake it for a beam, how can he, think you, improve the leaſt atome of good, when he is to look on it in himſelf? how will his phancy and he, the one a cheat from the beginning, the other full greedy of the bait, fatten and puffe up a ſacrifice, that he himſelf hath offer'd? O how fair ſhall it appear, and ready to devour all the ſeven fat ones, though it be the thinneſt of Pharaoh's lean kine, lank and very ill favoured? how ſhall the reflexion of his beggarlieſt rags return to his eye the picture of a King? and the ordinarieſt vapour, or cloud of his exhaling, be deckt over with all the beauty and variety of the Rainbow? what Ariſtotle ſaid of the Sophiſts, that they did φυλετικῶς ἐμφυσᾶν ἑαυτὸς, though it be a puzling place for the Criticks, this Cenſor or Ariſtarchus in my Text, will interpret by his practice; he blows up himſelf, as they were uſed to do their meat, againſt a φυλετικὸν δεῖπνον, a Tribunes or a Sheriffs feaſt, that it may look the fairer, and not deceive others only, but himſelf; forgets what he has done, and now thinks 'tis his natural complexion: as the Carpenter in the thirteenth of Wiſdom; that piece of wood which himſelf had juſt now carved into an Idol, he preſently prays to and worſhips as a God: or as lyars, that by telling a tale often, at laſt begin to believe themſelves; ſo hath he befool'd himſelf into a credulity: the farthing Alms he hath given ſhall by a ſtrange kind of uſury (yet not ſtranger, perhaps, than what he deals in daily) be phanſied into a mountain of gold; and the bare calves of their lips, become Hecatombs. If he have abſtained from fleſh, when the Market would yield none; or forborn to eat a ſupper, after a notorious feaſt, he will call this, faſting twice in the week, verſe 12, and avouch himſelf an obedient abſtemious ſubject and Chriſtian, though good Friday be witneſs of his unchriſtian Epicuriſm. If he afford the Miniſter the tenth of his houſe-rent, and annual benevolence far below that that his dues would come to, which by taking

Elench. l. 1.

Mat. xxiii. 24.

Wiſd. xiii.

verſe 12.

of

of a jolly Fine at first, is for ever after pared into but a larger sort of quit-rents (though his extortion bring in no revenue to any but the Devil and himself) he will yet be confident with the Pharisee, I pay tithes of all that I possess.

A pittance of vertue in a Pharisee, is like the Polypod's head, to which Plutarch compares Poetry, hath some good, but as much or more ill in it also; sweet indeed and nutritive, saith he; and so is all vertue, though simply moral, good wholsom diet for the soul; but withal παρακλιδη, it sends up vapours into the brain, and ends in whimseys and strange and troublesom dreams: the man phansies, I know not what, presently of himself; like learning in an ill natur'd man, all about him are the worse for it; one moral vertue tires sometimes the whole vicinity of natural good disposed gifts: 'twere well perhaps for his ingenuity and modesty, that he were not so vertuous; that one drop of water being attenuated into Air, hath taken up all the room in the bladder: 'twere as good for the heart to be shrivel'd up, as thus distended, it must be squeez'd again, to make place for some more substantial guest, and be emptied quite, that it may be fill'd. In brief, 'tis the small measure, and this, only of airy, empty piety, that hath puft up the man. As they say a little critical learning makes one proud; if there were more, it would condensate and compact it self into less room. Mor. lib. 1. pag. 25.

And generally the more there is within, the less report they give of themselves; as St. Matthew mentioning himself before his Conversion, doth it distinctly, Matth. ix. 9. by the name of Matthew, and his Trade sitting at the receit of custom, Matthew the Publican, by that odious re-naming of sin; (whereas all the other Evangelists call him Levi, or the son of Alphæus) but leaves out the story of his own feasting of Christ, (only as Christ sate at meat in the house) which St. Luke sets down exactly, and Levi made him a great feast, Luke v. 27. or as in the history of St. Peters fall and repentance, in the Gospel according to St. Mark, (which the Primitive Church agree that St. Peter had a hand in it) his denial is set down with all the aggravating circumstances, more than in all the rest put together, Mar. xiv. 71. He began to curse, and swear, I know not this man of whom you speak: two Evangelists say only, he denied him the third time; to this St. Matthew adds; he curs'ed, and sware, saying, I know not the man. But he in his own witness, most exactly in aggravating the sin, I know not this, &c. But when he comes to the mention of his repentance, when the two other say, ἔκλαυσε πικρῶς, he himself, or St Mark from him, only ἔκλαιε, he wept; always speaking as much bad, and as little good of themselves as can be. verse 10.

A little windy opinionative goodness distempers the empty brain, 'tis Charity must ballast the heart; and that's the grace, according to holy Maximius his opinion, that all this while we have requir'd, but not found in the Pharisee, and that's the reason that the brass sounds so shrill, and the cymbal tinkles so merrily. And this is the Pharisees second misconceit, his overprizing his own good deeds and graces. The third is, ἀεὶ ἀγαθ.

His opinion of the consistence and immutability of his present estate, without any, either consideration of what he hath been, or fear what he may be again; he hath learn't, or rather abus'd so much Scripture, as that the yesterday and the morrow must care for themselves; Prometheus or Epimetheus are prophane heathen names to him; he is all in contemplation of present greatness; like the heathen gods, which are represented to have nothing to do, but admire their own excellencies. I thank God that I am not, &c. The Pharisee having a first-borns portion from the hand of God, will not be rude or importunate with him for new and fresh supplies; nor will he disparage himself so much as to suspect the perpetuity of his injoyment. Καλὸς παῤῥησίας ἀναμίξας ἐυγένεια, saith Plutarch, a man that is honourably and freely born, hath a fair treasure of confidence, and so a natural advantage of other men; but bastards and men of a crack't race ὑπόχαλκον ἢ ἀργυρίδηλον ἔχοντες γένος, that have a great deal of copper or dross mixt with their Or and Argent, ταπεινοῦσθαι πέφυκε, these men are born to be humble and shamefac'd. But amongst these contemplations, he may do well to consider the Amorite his father, and his mother the Hittite, the pollutions and blood he was clothed with in the day that he was born, Ezek. xvi. the accursed inheritance as well of shame as sin derived unto him. For then certainly he would never so plume himself in his present sunshine. If he have not gotten in the ὑπόκαυσιν, among the Adamites in Epiphanius, and there set up for one of Adams sect before his fall, or the Valentinians which call'd themselves the spirituals, and the seed of Abel, who indeed never had any natural seed we hear of: if he will but grant himself of the ordinary composition and race of men, come down from Adam either by Cain or Seth, I am sure he shall find sins past enough, either in his person or nature, to humble him, be he never so spiritual. And then for the time to come, Christ certainly was never so espoused to any soul, as to be bound to hold it for better for worse. That if he find ought in that spouse contrary to the vow of wedlock, he can ἀποπέμπειν (the word used in divorces amongst the Athenians on the husbands part) send the soul out of his house or temple; especially if she do ἀπολείπειν (the phrase used on the womans part) if she leave or forsake the husband; if she draw back or subduce her self out of his house, Heb. x. 38, &c. by an evil heart of unbelief, openly depart from the living God, Heb. iii. 12. It is observ'd by the Criticks, as an absurd ridiculous phrase in some Authors, to call the Emperours Divi in their life time, which saith Rittershusius, when the propriety of the Roman Tongue was observed, capitale fuisset, had been a grand capital crime. And as absurd, no doubt, is many mens ἀποθέωσις and ἀπαθανατισμὸς, their Canonizing, securing and besainting themselves in this life, upon every slight præmature perswasion that they are in Christ. That which Aphrodisius on the Topicks, observes of the leaves of Trees, may perhaps be too true of the spiritual estate and condition of men; that the Vine and Fig and Plane tree, which have thin broad leaves, and make the fairest shew, φυλλορροῦσι, do thereupon shed them presently; some few indeed, the Olive, Bay, and Myrtle, which have narrow solid leaves, are able to keep them all the Year long ἀειφύλλα and ἀειθαλῆ, always green and flourishing. And God grant, such laureli may for ever abound in this Heb. x. 38. Heb. iii. 12.

this Paradiſe, this garden of the land; that the children of this mother, may environ her like olive plants round about her table; this perhaps you will count an high thing, to ſhed the leaf, but what think you of extirpation, and rooting up? even this you ſhall hear denounced, and executed on thoſe that caſt a fair ſhadow, either as on degenerous or unprofitable trees; either for bad fruit, or none at all, Cut it down why cumbreth it the ground?

But to our purpoſe; when St. Paul therefore reſolves that nothing ſhould ever ſeparate him from the
Rom. viii. love of God, Rom. viii. ſin is there left out of the catalogue; be he never ſo poſſeſt of that inheritance, for ought he knows this very confidence may root him out again. His Brethren the Jews thought their eſtate as irreverſible as the Phariſees here; and upon as good grounds as he can pretend; the very promiſe of God to Abrahams ſeed indefinitely; and yet by that time this Parable was ſpoken, they can bring him word of the repeal of that promiſe, within a while ſeal'd and confirm'd by their παναλέθρια their inſtant utter deſtruction; a forerunner of which, (if not the cauſe) was this confidence of their immutable eſtate.

Mor. l. 1. p. 43. It was a phancy of the Stoicks mention'd by Plutar. περὶ πάντα κατορθῦν ἀ ἀσῶον, that a wiſe man could do nothing amiſs, that all that he did was wiſe and vertuous. And they that will have men ſaved and damned by a Stoical neceſſity, now adays, may borrow this phancy of the Stoicks alſo: but Homer, ſaith he, and Euripides long ſince exploded it. I am ſure St. Paul will fairly give any man leave, that takes himſelf to be in a good eſtate now, to fear a bad before he die; to expect a tempeſt in a calm; or elſe he would not have been ſo earneſt with him that thinks he ſtands, to 1 Cor. x. 12. take heed leſt he fall, 1 Cor. x. 12. It was the confidence of a Turk (i. e.) a Stoick reviv'd, in
pag. 170. Nicetas Chon. that ſaid he knew they muſt overcome, on now for ever, as having got ἕξιν τῦ νικᾶν, an habit of conquering: and it was well if this aſſurance did not take the pains to loſe it him again. It is the Rhetorick of diſcreet Captains to their Soldiers in Thucydides, and other Hiſtorians, to exhort them to fight on comfortably and couragiouſly, as having overcome, in remembrance of their paſt victories as pawns, and pledges of the future: but 'tis always on condition and preſumptions of the ſame diligence and valour, which formerly they ſhewed; and the ſame military encouragements and munition, the Fathers frequently furniſh us with againſt our ſpiritual warfare, but all rather to increaſe our diligence than ſecurity; to ſet us to work on hope of ſucceſs, not to nouriſh us in idleneſs in hope of a victory. If we ſhould ſuffer the Devil from this propoſition, he will give his Angels charge that a child of his ſhall not daſh his foot againſt a ſtone; and then that aſſumption, thou art the child of God; to conclude, that thou canſt not hurt thy ſelf with a fall, he would ſtraight back that with a Mitte te deorſum, Caſt thy ſelf down to ſhew what thou canſt do; and then if thou haſt not another ſcriptum eſt to rejoynder, thou ſhalt not tempt, (then this confidence is tempting of God) I know not how thou wilt be able to eſcape a precipice, a bruiſe if not a breaking. The Valentinian having reſolved himſelf to be πνευματικὸς, ſpiritual, confeſt indeed
lib. 1. p. 26. that other men muſt get ſome ſtore of faith, and works to help them to Heaven, ἑαυτὸν δὲ μὴ δεῖσθαι διὰ τὸ φύσει πνευματικὸν εἶναι, Iren. But they had no need of either, becauſe of their natural ſpiritualneſs; that which is ſpiritual cannot part with its ſpiritual hypoſtaſis, what ever it do or ſuffer; no more than gold by a ſink can loſe its luſtre; or the Sun-beams be defam'd by the dunghil they ſhine on. They commit all manner of impurity, ſaith he, and yet they are σπέρματα ἐκλογῆς, ſeeds of the election; the ſeeds indeed, deep ſet in the earth, that take root downward, but never bare fruit upward; they never ſpring at all, except it be towards Hell; nor ſprout out any branch or ſtalk of works, unleſs it be of darkneſs. Theſe forſooth have grace ἰδιόκτητον, as their proper poſſeſſions, all others but to uſe; and ſo it ſeemed, for they of all others made no uſe of it. There was another like fancy in the ſame Irenæus, of Marcus and his followers, that by the ἀπολύτρωσις a form of baptizing, that they had, that they were become ἀόρατα τῷ κρίνῃ inviſible to the judge, then if ever they were apprehended 'twere but calling to the mother of Heaven, and ſhe would ſend the helmet in Homer, that they ſhould preſently vaniſh out of their hands. Thus have men been befool'd by the Devil to believe that their ſacred perſons could excuſe the fouleſt acts, and, as it was ſaid of Cato, even make crimes innocent; thus have ſome gotten the art of ſinning ſecurely, nay religiouſly, as he that in our Engliſh Hiſtory would put his Neighbours in a courſe to rebell legally. But I hope all theſe fancies have nothing to do, but fill up the Catalogues in Irenæus and Epiphanius; I truſt they ſhall never be able to tranſplant themſelves into our brains or hearts: but pray God there be no credence of them ſcattered here and there among haſty, ignorant overweening Chriſtians. A man ſhall ſometimes meet abroad ſome reaſon to ſuſpect it, yet 'twere pity to fear ſo far as to ſet to confute them. There may be indeed a ſtate and condition of Chriſtians ſo well ſetled and riveted by Chriſt in grace, that their eſtate may be comfortably believed immutable, an election under oath, perhaps that mentioned by the Pſalmiſt, I have ſworn by my holineſs, I will not fail David; for ſpiritual bleſſings are frequently in Scripture conveyed along with temporal. But it is much to be doubted, that thoſe men that have boldneſs to believe this of themſelves, have not ballaſt enough of humility and fear, to make it good. Porphyry had ſo much Divinity in him, as to obſerve that καθάρσια were the only ἐκλογικὰ, that perpetual waſhings, and purgings and luſtrations, were the only means to defend or deliver from evil, either to come or preſent; the only Amulets and ἀλεξίκακα in the world; 'tis the rainbow in the Heaven reflected thither from a cloud of tears below, that is, Gods ingagement never again to drown the earth. But then there muſt be alſo another bow in the heart, that muſt promiſe for that, that it ſhall not be like a deceitful bow, go back again to folly, Exod. xvii. never again be drowned with ſwiniſh, beſtial, filthy luſts. In the ſeventeenth of Exodus, the Iſraelites prevailed againſt Amalek, and that miraculouſly without any ſenſible means;
verſe 16. and verſe 16. the promiſe is made for the future, that the Lord will fight with Amalek for ever; where, by the way, the LXX. put in ἐν κρυφαίᾳ χειρὶ, God will fight againſt Amalek as it were under hand, by ſecret hidden ſtrength; which addition of theirs (if it were inſpired into the Tranſlators, as St. Auguſtine is of opinion, all their variations from the Hebrew are θεόπνευστα, and ſo Canon) then happily that κρυφαία χεὶρ may ſignifie ſome ſecret infuſion of ſupernatural power into Moſes his hands, hands, that there is promiſed, anſwerable to that ſame effuſion of grace, to enable all the People of God in our fight with ſin, the ſpiritual Amalek, by which grace Moſes and the Chriſtians have aſſurance to prevail. And this may be ground enough for a Chriſtian; Chriſt hath prayed, and God promiſed, that your faith ſhall not fail. But then all this while, the ſtory of the day will tell us, on what terms this ſecurity of victory ſtood, if ſo be Moſes continue to hold up his hands; noting 1. the power of prayer; 2. of obedience; 3. of perſeverance; and upon theſe terms even a Phariſee may be confident without preſumption: but if his hands be once let down; if he remit of his Chriſtian valour (for ſo manus demittere ſignifies in Agoniſticks) Amalek prevails, Verſe 11. Juſt as it fared with Samſon; he had an inconceivable portion of ſtrength, even a ray of God's omnipotence beſtowed on him, but this not upon term of life, but of his Nazarites vow (i.e.) as the LXXII. render it, Numb. vi. 2. ἐυχὴ ἁγιάσαι ἁγνίαν κυρίῳ, a prayer as well as a vow; and that, of ſeparating or hallowing purity and ſanctity to the Lord; and his vow being broken, not only that of his hair, but with it, that of his holy obedience; that piece of Divinity preſently vaniſhed, and the Philiſtines deprived him of his eyes and life. And thereupon it is obſervable, that Numb. xv. 9. that which is in the Hebrew in performing a vow is rendred by the LXXII. μεγαλύναι τὴν ἐυχὴν, to magnifie a vow; then is the vow or reſolution truly great, that will ſtand us in ſtead, when it is performed. As for all others, they remain as brands and monuments of reproach to us; upbraiding us of our inconſtancy firſt, then of diſobedience; and withal, as ſigns to warn, that God's ſtrength is departed from us. I doubt not but this ſtrength being thus loſt, may return again before our death, giving a plunge, as it did in Samſon, when he pluckt the Houſe about their ears at laſt, Jud. xvi. But this muſt be by the growing out of the hair again, Verſe 22. the renewing of his repentance and ſanctity with his vow, and by prayer unto God, verſe 28. Lord God, or as the LXXII. κύριε κύριε δυναμέων, Remember me, I pray thee, and ſtrengthen me; but for all this, it was ſaid before in the 19. verſe, his ſtrength, and in the 20. verſe, the Lord was departed from him. And ſo no doubt it may from us, if we have no better ſecurity for our ſelves than the preſent poſſeſſion, and a dream of perpetuity. For though no man can excommunicate himſelf by one rule, yet he may by another, in the Canon Law; that there be ſome faults excommunicate a man ipſo facto; one who hath committed them, the Law excommunicates, though the Judge do not: you need not the application; there be perhaps ſome ſins and Devils like the Carian Scorpions, which Apollonius and Antigonus mention out of Ariſtotle, which when they ſtrike ſtrangers, do them no great hurt, ἐπιχωρίους δὲ ἀυτίκα ἀποκτείνει, preſently kill their own country-men; ſome Devils perhaps that have power to hurt only their own ſubjects; as ſins of weakneſs and ignorance, though they are enough to condemn an unregenerate man, yet we hope, through the merits of Chriſt into whom he is ingrafted, ὀλίγα δήκωσι καταξάντες, ſhall do little hurt to the regenerate, unleſs it be only to keep him humble, to coſt him more ſighs and prayers. But then, ſaith the ſame Apollonius there, your Babylonian ſnakes that are quite contrary, do no great hurt to their own Country-men, but are preſent death to ſtrangers; and of this number, it is to be feared, may preſumption prove, and ſpiritual pride; ſins that that ἐπιχώριοι, the Devils natives, ordinary habitual ſinners need not much to fear; but to the ſtranger, and him that is come from far, thinking himſelf, as St. Paul was, dropt out of the third Heaven, and therefore far enough from the infernal country, 'tis to be feared I ſay, they may do much miſchief to them. And therefore as Porphyry ſays of Plotinus in his life, and that for his commendation; that he was not aſhamed to ſuck when he was eight years old, but as he went to the Schools frequently diverted to his nurſe; ſo will it concern us for the getting of a conſiſtent firm habit of ſoul, not to give over the nurſe when we are come to age and years in the ſpirit, to account our ſelves babes in our virility, and be perpetually a calling for the dug, the ſincere milk of the word, of the Sacraments, of the Spirit, and that without any coyneſs or ſhame, be we in our own conceits, nay in the truth, never ſo perfect, full grown men in Chriſt Jeſus.

Ver. 11. Numb. VI. 2. Numb. XV. 9. Jud. XVI. ver. 22. ver. 28. ver. 19. ver. 20. hiſt. comment. cap. 11. cap. 19. Cap. 12.

And ſo much be ſpoken of the firſt point propoſed, the Phariſees flattering miſconceit of his own eſtate; and therein implicitely of the Chriſtians premature deceivable perſwaſions of himſelf; 1. thinking well of ones ſelf on what grounds ſoever; 2. overprizing of his own worth and graces; 3. his opinion of the conſiſtency and immutability of his condition, without either thought of what's paſt, or fear of what's to come. Many other miſconceits may be obſerved, if not in the Phariſee, yet in his parallel the ordinary confident Chriſtian; as 1. that God's decree of election is terminated in their particular and individual entities, without any reſpect to their qualifications and demeanors. 2. That all Chriſtian faith is nothing but aſſurance, a thing which I toucht ἐν παρέργῳ in the Preface, and can ſcarce forbear now I meet with it again. 3. That the Goſpel conſiſts all of promiſes of what Chriſt will work in us, no whit of precepts or prohibitions. 4. That it is a ſtate of eaſe altogether and liberty, no whit of labour and ſubjection; but the Phariſee would take it ill if we ſhould digreſs thus far, and make him wait for us again at our return. We haſten therefore to the ſecond part, the τὸ ἦτον, or natural importance of the words, and there we ſhall find him ſtanding apart, and thanking God only perhaps in complement; his poſture and language give notice of his pride, the next thing to be toucht upon.

Pride is a vice either 1. in our natures, 2. in our educations, or 3. taken upon us for ſome ends: The firſt is a diſeaſe of the ſoul, which we are inclined to by nature; but actuated by a full diet, and inflation of the ſoul, through taking in of knowledge, virtue, or the like; which is intended indeed for nouriſhment for the ſoul, but through ſome vice in the digeſtive faculty, turns all into air and vapors, and windineſs, whereby the ſoul is not fed but diſtended, and not fill'd but troubled, and even tortured out of it ſelf. To this firſt kind of pride may be accommodate many of the old phancies of the Poets and Philoſophers, the Gyants fighting with God, (i.e.) the ambitious daring approaches of the ſoul toward the unapproachable light, which coſt the Angels ſo dear, and all Mankind in Eve, when ſhe ventured to taſte of the Tree of Knowledge. Then, the phancy of the Heathens mentioned by Athenagoras, that the ſouls of thoſe gyants were Devils; that 'tis the Devil indeed that old Serpent, that did in Adam's time, and doth ſince animate and actuate this proud ſoul, and fet it a moving. And Philoponus ſaith, that winds and tumours (i.e.) luſts and paſſions, thoſe

pag. 28. B.

thoſe troubleſome impreſſions in the ſoul of man, are the acceptableſt ſacrifices, the higheſt feeding to the Devils; nay to the very damned in Hell, who rejoyce as heartily to hear of the converſion of one vertuous, or learned man to the Devil, of ſuch a brave proſelyte, I had almoſt ſaid, as the Angels in Heaven at the repentance and converſion of a ſinner. This is enough I hope to make you keep down this boiling and tumultuouſneſs of the ſoul, leſt it make you either a prey, or elſe companions for Devils; and that's but a hard choice, nay a man had far better be their food than their aſſociates, for then there might be ſome end hoped for, by being devoured; but that they have a villanous quality in their feeding, they bite perpetually but never ſwallow, all jaws and teeth, but neither throats nor ſtomachs; which is noted perhaps by that phraſe in the Pſalmiſt, Death gnaweth upon the wicked, is perpetually a gnawing, but never devours or puts over.

Pride in our education, is a kind of tenderneſs and chilneſs in the ſoul, that ſome people by perpetual ſoftneſs are brought up to, that makes them uncapable and impatient of any corporal or ſpiritual hardneſs; a ſqueaſineſs and riſing up of the heart againſt any mean, vulgar or mechanical condition of men; abhorring the foul clothes and rags of a beggar, as of ſome venomous beaſt: and conſequently as ſupercilious and contemptuous of any piece of God's ſervice, which may not ſtand with their eaſe and ſtate, as a ſtarch't Gallant is of any thing that may diſorder his dreſs. Thus are many brought up in this City to a loathing and deteſtation of many Chriſtian duties, of alms-deeds, and inſtructing their Families in points of religion; of viſiting and comforting the ſick, nay even of the ſervice of God, if they may not keep their ſtate there; but ſpecially of the publick prayers of the Church, nothing ſo vulgar and contemptible in their eyes as that. But I ſpare you, and the Lord in mercy do ſo alſo.

The third kind of pride is a ſupercilious affected haughtineſs, that men perhaps meekly enough diſpoſed by nature, are fain to take upon them for ſome ends; a ſolemn cenſorious majeſtick garb, that may entitle them to be patriots of ſuch or ſuch a faction; to gain a good opinion with ſome, whoſe good opinion may be their gain. Thus was Mahomet fain to take upon him to be a Prophet, and pretend that 'twas diſcourſing with the Angel Gabriel made him in that caſe, that his new wife might not know that he was Epileptical, and ſo repent of her match with a beggar, and a diſeaſed perſon. And upon theſe terms Turciſm firſt came into the world, and Mahomet was cried up μέγιστος προφήτης, the greateſt Prophet (to omit other witneſs) as the Saracen fragments tell us, that we have out of Euthymius. Thus are imperfections and wants, ſometimes even diſeaſes both of body and mind, aſſumed and affected by ſome men, to get authority to their perſons, and an opinion of extraordinary religion; but rather perhaps more Oyl to their Cruſe, or cuſtom to their trading. But not to flutter thus at large any longer, or purſue the common-place in its latitude, the Phariſees pride here expreſſeth it ſelf in three things; 1. his poſture, ſtanding apart; 2. his manner of praying, altogether by way of thankſgiving: 3. his malicious contemptuous eye upon the Publican. The firſt of theſe may be aggravated againſt the ſchiſmatick that ſeparates from the Church, or cuſtoms, but eſpecially Service and Prayers of the Church. 'Tis pride certainly that makes this man ſet himſelf thus apart, whereas the very firſt ſight of that holy place ſtrikes the humble Publican upon the knees of his heart afar off; as ſoon as he was crept within the gates of the Temple, he is more devout in the Porch, than the Phariſee before the Altar. The 2*d*. againſt thoſe that come to God in the pomp of their ſouls, commending themſelves to God, as we ordinarily uſe the phraſe, commending indeed not to his mercy, but acceptance; not as objects of his pity, but as rich ſpiritual Preſents; not tears to be received into his bottle, but jewels for his treaſure. Always upon terms of ſpiritual exultancy, what great things God hath done for their ſouls; how he hath fitted them for himſelf; never with humbled bended knees in acknowledgment of unworthineſs with St. Paul, who cannot name that word, ſinners, but muſt ſtraight ſubſume in a paren-
1 Tim. I. 15. theſis, of whom I am the chief, 1 Tim. i. 15. and for the expreſſion of the opinion he had of his own ſanctity, is fain to coyn a word for the purpoſe, ἐλαχιστότερος, a word not to be met with in Epheſ. III. 8. all Greek Authors again before he uſed it; leſs than the leaſt of the Saints, Epheſ. iii. 8. And Jacob
Gen. XXXII. 10. in a like phraſe, I am leſs than all thy mercies, Gen. xxxii. 10. The Litany that begins and ends with ſo many repetitions importuning for mercy, even conjuring God by all powerful names of rich mercy that can be taken out of his Exchequer, to have mercy upon us miſerable ſinners, this is ſet aſide for the Publican, the ſinners Liturgy; nay as ſome ſay, for the profane people only, not to pray but to ſwear by. But this only as in tranſitu, not to inſiſt on. The 3*d*. expreſſion of his pride is his malicious ſullen eye upon the Publican, and that brings me to the next thing propoſed at firſt, the Phariſees cenſoriouſneſs and inſinuated accuſations of all others, I am not as other men, extortioners, &c. or even as this Publican.

'Twere an ingenuous ſpeculation, and that which would ſtand us in ſome ſtead in our ſpiritual warfare, to obſerve what hints and opportunities the Devil takes from mens natural inclinations, to inſinuate and ingratiate his temptations to them; how he applies ſtill the fuel to the fire, the nouriſhment to the craving ſtomach; and accommodates all his propoſals moſt ſeaſonably and ſuitably to our affections; not to enlarge this, καθόλου, in the groſs, nor yet καθέκαστον, to each particular; you may have a νῶξις or taſte of it in the Phariſee.

To an eaſie natur'd man whoſe ſoul is relax't, and has its pores open to receive any infection or taint, the Devil preſents a multitude of adulterers, drunkards, &c. Thereby to diſtill the poyſon ſoftly into him; to ſweeten the ſin and ſecure him in the commiſſion of it, by ſtore of companions: But to a Phariſee, rugged, ſingular, ſupercilious perſon, he propoſeth the ſame object under another colour. The many adulterers, &c. that are in the world not to intice, but to incenſe him the more againſt the ſin; not to his imitation, but to his ſpleen and hatred; that ſeeing he can hope to gain nothing upon him, by bringing him in love with their ſin, he may yet inveigle him, by bringing him in hatred with their perſons; and plunge him deeper through uncharitableneſs, than he could hope to do by luſt. He knows well the Phariſees conſtitution's too auſtere to be caught with an ordinary bait, and therefore puts off his title of Beelzebub prince of flies, as ſeeing that they are not now for his game; but trowls and baits him with a nobler prey, and comes in the perſon of a Cato or Ariſtarchus, a ſevere diſciplinarian, a grave Cenſor, or as his moſt Satanical name imports, διάβολος, an accuſer, and then the Phariſee bites preſently. He could not expect to allure him forward, and therefore drives him as far back as he can; that ſo he may be the more ſure of him at the rebound; as a skilful woods-man, that by wind-laſſing preſently gets a ſhoot, which without taking a compaſs and thereby a commodious ſtand, he could never have obtain'd. The bare open viſage of ſin is not lovely enough to catch the Phariſee, it muſt be varniſh'd over with a ſhew of piety; with a colour of zeal, and tenderneſs in God's cauſe; and then, the very deviliſheſt part of the Devil, his malice and uncharitableneſs, ſhall go down ſmoothly with him. And that this ſtratagem may not be thought proper to the Meridian only where the Phariſee liv'd; Leo within 500. years after Chriſt, and other of the Fathers, have obſerved the ſame frequently practiſed by the Devil among the Primitive Chriſtians; Ut quos vincere flammâ ferroque non poterat, ambitione inflaret, virus invidiæ infunderet, & ſub falsâ Chriſtiani nominis profeſſione corrumperet; That they whom perſecution could not affright, ambition may puff up, envy poyſon, and a falſe opinion of their own Chriſtian purity, betray to all the malice in the World. Thus have Hereticks and Sectaries in all ages, by appropriating to themſelves thoſe titles that are common to all the children of God, left none for any other, but of contumely and contempt: as ſoon as they fancy to themſelves a part of the ſpirit of God, taken upon them the monopoly of it alſo. Thus could not the Valentinians be content to be πνευματικοὶ themſelves; but all the world beſide, muſt be ψυχικὸς and χοϊκὸς, animal and earthly. 'Twere long to reckon up to you the Idiomes and characters that Hereticks have uſurped to themſelves, in oppoſition and reproach, and even defiance of all others; the Phariſees ſeparati, Sadducees juſti, Novatians καθαροὶ, puri, Meſſalians precantes. As if theſe ſeveral virtues, ſeparation from the world, love of juſtice, purity, daily exerciſe of prayer, were no where to be found but amongſt them. Even that judicious, learned, eloquent, yea and godly Father Tertullian, is caught in this pit-fall; as ſoon as he began to reliſh Montanus his hereſie, he ſtrait changeth his ſtyle, Nos ſpirituales, and all other Orthodox Chriſtians Pſychici, animal, carnal men. The Devil could not be content that he had gain'd him to Montaniſm (an hereſie which 'tis confeſt, only a ſuperlative care of Chaſtity, abſtinence, and martyrdom, brought him to) but he muſt rob him of his charity too, as well as his religion. Not to keep any longer on the wing in purſuit of this cenſorious humour in the Phariſee, and Primitive hereticks, the preſent temper and conſtitution of the Church of God, will afford us plenty of obſervation to this purpoſe: Amongſt other crimes with which the reformation charge the Romaniſts, what is there that we ſo importunately require of them as their charity? that ſeeing with the Apoſtolical ſeat, they have ſeiz'd upon the Keys of Heaven alſo; they would not uſe this power of theirs ſo intemperately, as to admit none but their own proſelytes into thoſe gates, which Chriſt hath open'd to all believers. For this cauſe, ſaith Eulogius in Photius, were the Keys given to Peter, not to John or any other, becauſe Chriſt foreſaw Peter would deny him, that ſo by the memory of his own failings, he might learn humanity to ſinners, and be more free of opening the Gates of Heaven, becauſe he himſelf (had it not been for ſpecial mercy) had been excluded; other Apoſtles, ſaith he, having never faln ſo foully, τάχα ἂν ἀποτομώτερον αὐτοῖς διεκέχρηντο, might like enough have uſed ſinners more ſharply; but 'twas not probable that Peter would be ſuch a ſevere Cato; and yet there is not a more unmerciful man under Heaven, than he that now tyrannizeth in his Chair. Spalatenſis indeed, after his revolt from us, could ingeniouſly confeſs, that he could have expected comfortably, and perhaps have been better pleaſed to have been ſaved in the Church of England, with a 1000 l. a year, as in the Roman with 500 l. But do not all others of them count this no leſs than hereſie in him thus to hope? Cudſemius the Jeſuit denies the Engliſh Nation to be Hereticks, becauſe they remain under a continual ſucceſſion of Biſhops. But alas! how few be there of them, which have ſo much charity to afford us? What fulminations and clattering of Clouds is there to be heard in that Horizon? What Anathematizing of hereticks (i. e.) Proteſtants? what excommunicating them without any mercy, firſt out of the Church, then out of the book of life; and laſtly, where they have power, out of the Land of the living? And yet, would they be as liberal to us poor Proteſtants, as they are to their own Stews and Seminaries of all uncleanneſs, then ſhould we be ſtor'd with indulgences. But 'twas Tertullian's of old, that there is no mercy from them to be expected, who have no crime to lay againſt us, but that we are true Chriſtians. If they would but allow one corner of Heaven to receive penitent humble Proteſtants, labouring for good works, but depending on Chriſt's merit; if they would not think us paſt hopes, or prayers, there might be poſſibly hoped ſome means of uniting us all in one fold. But this precious Chriſtian grace of Charity being now ſo quite periſh't from off the earth, what means have we left us, but our prayers to prepare, or mature this reconciliation? Shall we then take heart alſo, and bring in our action of treſpaſs? Shall we ſit and pen our railing accuſation in the form that Chriſt uſes againſt the Phariſees, Mat. xxiii. 13. Wo unto you Scribes and Phariſees, Hypocrites, for you ſhut up the Kingdom of Heaven againſt men, for you neither go in your ſelves, neither ſuffer ye them that are entring to go in? This we might do upon better grounds, were we ſo revengefully diſpoſed; but we fear to incur our Saviour's cenſure, Luke ix. 55. And he turn'd, and rebuk't them ſaying, Ye know not what manner of ſpirits ye are of. We ſhould much miſtake our Chriſtian ſpirit, if we ſhould not in return to their curſes, intercede with God in prayer for them; Firſt, that he will beſtow on them the grace of meekneſs or charity; then, ſincerity and uprightneſs, without wilful blindneſs and partiality; and laſtly, to intercede for the ſalvation of all our ſouls together. And this is the only way St. Paul hath left us, Rom. xii. 20. by returning them good to melt them, hoping and praying in the words of Solomon, that by long forbearing, this great Prince of the Weſt will be perſwaded; and that our ſoft tongues may in time break the bone. But whilſt we preach charity to them, ſhall we not betray partiality in our ſelves, by paſſing over that uncharitable fire that is breaking out in our own Chimnies? 'Twere to be wiſhed that this Chriſtian grace, which is liberal enough of it ſelf, would be entertain'd as gratefully as it is preach't; we ſhould not then have ſo many בְּנֵי אֵשׁ ſons of fire amongſt us as we have; who being inflam'd, ſome with faction, others with ignorant prejudice, de Jejun.

the

pag. 1600. C.

de deſp. Cal. vini cauſâ.

Apol.

Mat. XXIII. 13.

Luk. IX. 55.

Rom. XII. 20.

prejudice, others with doting on their own abilities, fall out into all manner of intemperate cenſures דִּבְרֵי חֶרֶב words of the ſword, all ſharp contumelious invectives againſt all perſons, or doctrines, or lives, that are not ordered or reviſed by them. For what Photius out of Joſephus obſerves among others to have been one main cauſe or prognoſtick of the deſtruction of Jeruſalem, the civil wars betwixt the Ζηλωταὶ and the Σικάριοι, the Zelots and the Cut-throats, pray God we find not the ſame ſucceſs amongſt us. Whilſt the Zelots, ſaith he, fell on the Sicarii, the whole body of the City πικρῶς καὶ ἀνηλεῶς διεσπάσθη, was bitterly and unmercifully butcher'd betwixt them; and under one of thoſe two names all the People were brought to ſuffer their part in the maſſacre. I deſire not to chill or damp you with unneceſſary fears, or to ſuſpect that our ſins ſhall be ſo unlimited, as utterly to out-vie and over-reach God's mercies. But, beloved, this ill bloud that is generally nouriſh't amongſt us, if it be not a Prognoſtick of our fate, is yet an ill Symptome of our diſeaſe. Theſe convulſions and diſtortions of one member of the body from another as far as it can poſſibly be diſtended, this burning heat, and from thence raving and diſquietneſs of the ſoul, are certainly no very comfortable Symptomes. When the Church and Kingdom muſt be dichotomiz'd, preciſely divided into two extreme parts, and all moderate perſons by each extreme toſſed to the other with furious prejudice, muſt brand all for Hereticks or carnal perſons, that will not undergo their razor: And then, the contrary extreme, cenſure and ſcoff at their preciſeneſs, that will not bear them company to every kind of riot. Theſe, beloved, are ſhrewd feaveriſh diſtempers, pray God they break not forth into a flame. When the boat that goes calmly with the ſtream, in the midſt of two impetuous rowers, ſhall be aſſaulted by each of them, for oppoſing or affronting each; when the moderate Chriſtian ſhall be branded on the one hand for preciſeneſs, on the other for intemperance, on the one ſide for a Puritan, on the other for a Papiſt, or a Remonſtrant, when he that keeps himſelf from either extreme, ſhall yet be intituled to both; what ſhall we ſay is become of that ancient Primitive charity and moderation? The uſe, beloved, that I deſire to make of all this, ſhall not be to declaim at either; but only by this compaſs to find out the true point that we muſt ſail by. By this, ſaith Ariſtotle, you ſhall know the golden mediocrity, that it is complained on both ſides, as if it were both extremes; that may you define to be exact liberality, which the covetous man cenſures for prodigality, and the prodigal for covetouſneſs. And this ſhall be the ſumm not only of my advice to you, but prayers for you; that in the Apoſtles phraſe, your moderation may be known unto all men, by this livery and cognizance, that you are indited by both extreams. And if there be any ſuch Satanical art crept in amongſt us, of authorizing errors or ſins on one ſide, by pretending zeal and earneſtneſs againſt their contraries; as Photius obſerves that it was a trick of propagating hereſies, by writing books intitled to the confutation of ſome other hereſie; the Lord grant that this evil ſpirit may be either laid or caſt out; either fairly led, or violently hurried out of our coaſts.

Eth. 2. 8.

P. 249. β. 397. t.

I have done with the Phariſees cenſoriouſneſs, I come now in the laſt place to the ground, or rather occaſion of it; his ſeeing the Publican, comparing himſelf with notorious ſinners, I thank thee that, &c.

That verſe 1 Cor. xv. 33. which St. Paul cites out of Menanders Thais, that wicked communication corrupts good manners, is grounded on this moral eſſay, that nothing raiſeth up ſo much to good and great deſigns as emulation; that he that caſts himſelf upon ſuch low company, that he hath nothing to imitate or aſpire to in them, is eaſily perſwaded to give over any farther purſuit of virtue, as believing that he hath enough already, becauſe none of his acquaintance hath any more: thus have many good wits been caſt away, by falling unluckily into bad times, which could yield them no hints for invention, no examples of poetry, nor encouragement for any thing that was extraordinary. And this is the Phariſees fate in my Text, that looking upon himſelf, either in the deceivable glaſs of the ſinful world, or in compariſon with notorious ſinners, extortioners, adulterers, Publicans, ſets himſelf off by theſe foils, finds nothing wanting in himſelf, ſo is ſolaced with a good comfortable opinion of his preſent eſtate, and a ſlothful negligence of improving it. And this, beloved, is the ordinary lenitive which the Devil adminiſters to the ſharp unquiet diſeaſes of the conſcience, if at any time they begin to rage, the only conſerve that he folds his bitterеſt receipts in, that they may go down undiſcern'd; that we are not worſe than other men; that we ſhall be ſure to have companions to Hell; nay, that we need not neither at all fear that danger; for if Heaven gates be ſo ſtrait as not to receive ſuch ſinners as we, the rooms within are like to be but poorly furniſht with gueſts; the marriage feaſt will never be eaten, unleſs the lame, and cripples in the ſtreet or hoſpital be fetch't in to fill the table. But, beloved, the comforts with which the Devil furniſheth theſe men, are, (if they were not meerly feigned and phantaſtical) yet very beggarly and lamentable, ſuch as Achilles in Homer would have ſcorn'd, only to be chief among the dead, or Princes and eminent perſons in Hell. We muſt ſet our emulation higher than ſo, ſomewhat above the ordinary pitch or mark. Let our deſigns flie at the ſame white, that the skilfulleſt marks-men in the army of Saints and Martyrs have aimed at before us; that the ἀσκηταὶ and ἀθληταὶ and τροπαιοφόροι of the Church, the religious exerciſers and champions and trophe-bearers of this holy martial field have dealt in. 'Tis a poor boaſt to have out-gon Heathens and Turks in vertue and good works; to be taller than the dwarfs, as it were, and Pygmies of the world; we muſt not be thus content, but outvy even the ſons of Anak, thoſe tall, giantly ſupererogatory undertakings of the proudeſt, nay humbleſt Romaniſts. O what a diſgrace will it be for us Proteſtants at the dreadful day of doom! O what an acceſſion not only to our torments, but our ſhame, and indignation at our ſelves, to ſee the expectation of meriting in a Papiſt, nay the deſire of being counted vertuous in a Heathen, attended with a more pompous train of charitable magnificent deeds, of conſtant magnanimous ſayings, than all our faith can ſhew, or vouch for us. Shall not the Romaniſt triumph and upbraid us in St. James his language, Chap. ii. 18. Thou haſt faith, and I have works; and all that we can fetch out of St. Paul, not able to ſtop his mouth from going on, Shew me thy faith without thy works, as our Engliſh reads it out of the Syriack and vulgar Latine, and I will ſhew thee my faith by my works? 'Twill be but a nice diſtinction for thee then to ſay, that works are to be

Jam. ii. 18.

ſeparated

ſeparated from the act of juſtification, when they are found ſeparated à ſuppoſito, from the perſon alſo. But not to digreſs, the Phariſee ſeems here pretty well provided, No extortioner, no adulterer, guilty of no injuſtice. And how many be there among you, that cannot go thus far with the Phariſee? Some vice or other perhaps there is, that agrees not with your conſtitution or education; drunkenneſs is not for one man's turn, prodigality for anothers, and I doubt not but that many of you are as forward as the Phariſee to thank God, or rather require God to thank them, that they are not given to ſuch, or ſuch a vice. But if you were to be required here, to what the Phariſee undertakes, if you were to be arraigned at that ſevere tribunal, I ſay not concerning your thoughts and evil communications, but even the groſs actual, nay habitual ſins; if a Jury or a rack were ſet to inquire into you throughly, how many of you durſt pretend to the Phariſees innocence, and confidence, that you are not extortioners, unjuſt, adulterers? Nay, how many be there that have all the Phariſees pride and cenſoriouſneſs, and all theſe other ſins too into the vantage? Certainly there is not one place in the Chriſtian world, that hath more reaſon to humble it ſelf for two or all three of theſe vices, than this City wherein you live. I am ſorry I have ſaid this, and I wiſh it were uncharitably ſpoken of me; but though it will not become me to have thought it of you, yet 'twill concern you to ſuſpect it of your ſelves, that by acknowledging your guilts, you may have them cancell'd, and by judging your ſelves, prevent being judged of the Lord. And here Saint Chryſoſtome's caution will come in very ſeaſonably toward a concluſion of all, that the Publicans ſins be not preferr'd before the Phariſees works, but only before his pride. 'Tis not his ſtore of moral virtues that was like to prove the Phariſees undoing, but his over-valuing them, παράθες ὑ τὰ πράγματα, ἄλλα δόγματά, ſaith the Stoick, appliable to this alſo. 'Tis not his innocence that hath ſo encumbred him all this while, but his opinion of it. The faſting and the tithing muſt not be caſt away, becauſe the Phariſee was proud of them, this were a furious diſcipline which would down with all violently, that had ever been abuſed to idolatry or ſin; or with him in Plutarch, that becauſe Poetry had ſome ill conſequences ſometimes, would have the Muſes and their favourites diſpatched into Epicurus his boat. His counſel was more ſeaſonable, that to prevent drunkenneſs, appointed them to mix water with their wine, that the mad god might be allay'd with a tame ſober one; and that is the caution that I told you of, that you abſtract the Phariſees works from his pride; and then borrow the Publicans humility from his works; that you come to the Temple of God with all the proviſion a Phariſee can boaſt of, and then lay it down all at the Publicans feet, and take up his miſerere, his ſighs, his dejection, his indignation at himſelf inſtead of it, then ſhall you be fit to approach to that templum miſericordiæ which Gerſon ſpeaks of, ſine ſimulacro, &c. that had not a picture or image of a Saint in it, no manner of oſtentation or ſhew of works, non ſacrificiis ſed gemitibus, &c. not to be viſited with ſacrifices but ſighs, not to be filled with triumphant ἐπινίκια, ſongs of rejoycing and victories, but with the calm and yet raviſhing Rhetorick of the Publican, θεὸς ἱλάσθητί μοι ἁμαρτωλῷ, Lord be merciful to me a ſinner. Even ſo, O Lord, deal thou with us, according to thy mercies, viſit us with thy ſalvation, draw us with thy mercies, and enlighten us with thy ſpirit, thy humbling ſpirit to ſeaſon us with a ſenſe of our ſins and unworthineſs; thy ſanctifying ſpirit to fill us here with all holy ſincere requiſite graces; and in the ſpirit of thy power to accompliſh us hereafter with that immarceſſible crown of glory.

Arrian. in Epict.

Mor. l. 1. p. 26.

Now to him, &c.

SERMON IX.

MATT. III. 3.

Prepare ye the way of the Lord.

THAT our Preface may afford ſome light to our proceeding, that it may prepare the way and ſtand us in ſtead hereafter in our diſcourſe of preparation, we will imploy it to obſerve that natural progreſs and method of all things, which conſiſts in ſteps and degrees: travelling on by thoſe ‖ gifts which nature hath ſet them from one ſtage to another, from a lower degree of perfection to an higher, built upon this ground of nature, that the firſt things are always leaſt perfect, yet abſolutely neceſſary to the perfection of the laſt: and in ſumm, ſo much the more neceſſary, by how much leſs perfect. Thus is the foundation more neceſſary to an houſe, than the walls, and the firſt ſtone than the whole foundation, becauſe the walls are neceſſary only to the ſetting on of the roof, not to the laying of the foundation; the foundation neceſſary both to the walls and roof, but not to the firſt ſtone; becauſe that may be laid without the whole foundation: but the firſt ſtone neceſſary to all the reſt, and therefore of greateſt and moſt abſolute neceſſity. The courſe of nature is delineated and expreſs'd to us by the like proceedings and method of Arts and Sciences. So thoſe general principles that are moſt familiar to us, are the pooreſt and yet moſt neceſſary rudiments required to any deeper ſpeculation: the firſt ſtage of the underſtanding in its peregrination or travel into thoſe foreign parts of more hidden knowledg, is uſually very ſhort; and 'tis moſt requiſite it ſhould be ſo; for beginning at home with ſome κοιναὶ ἔννοιαι, and taking its riſe at its own threſhold, thereby it advances the length, and ſecures the ſucceſs of the future voyage. Thus in Politicks hath the body of Laws from ſome thin beginnings under Lycurgus, Solon, Phaleas, and the like, by daily acceſſions and farther growth at laſt increaſed into a fair bulk; every age perfecting ſomewhat, and by that degree of perfection, making the matter capable of a farther; ſo that the very Politicks themſelves, as well as each Commonwealth, have been obſerved to have their infancy, youth, and manhood, the laſt of which is the only perfect ſtate; which yet this body had never attain'd to, had it not been content to ſubmit it ſelf to the imperfection of the former. Thus alſo in practical Philoſophy there be ſome præambula operationis, ſome common precepts which muſt be inſtill'd into us, to work a conſiſtency in our tempers, firm enough for the undertaking and performing all moral tasks. One excellent one Ariſtole learnt from Plato, in the ſecond of the Ethicks, χαίρειν τὰ δ' λυπεῖσθαι οἷς δεῖ, a skill of ordering thoſe two paſſions aright, joy and ſorrow, an habit never to rejoyce or grieve but on juſt occaſion: which leſſon we muſt conn perfectly when we are young; and then with years an eaſie diſcipline will bring on vertue of its own accord. Laſtly, in the tranſcendent knowledge of Metaphyſicks, which Ariſtotle would fain call wiſdom; 'tis the Philoſophers labour, which they were very ſedulous in, to invent and ſet down rules to prepare us for that ſtudy: the beſt that Ariſtotle hath, is in the third of Metaph. to examine and inform our ſelves, περὶ ὧν ἀπορῆσαι δεῖ πρῶτον, which things are chiefly worth doubting of, and ſearching after: in which one thing if we would obſerve his counſel, if we would learn to doubt only of thoſe things which are worth our knowledge, we ſhould ſoon prove better Scholars than we are. Jamblichus, beyond all the reſt, moſt to the purpoſe preſcribes retiredneſs and contempt of the World, that ſo we might ταῖς διεξόδοις τῶν νῶν ζῆν, even live and be nouriſhed by the excurſions of the mind towards God; where indeed he ſpeaks more like a Chriſtian than a Pythagorean, as if he had learnt Chriſt, to deny himſelf and the world, and follow him, and intended to come to that pitch and ἀκμὴ which St. Paul ſpeaks of, Gal. ii. 20. The life which I now live in the fleſh, I live by faith, &c. But to conclude this præcognoſcendum, there be throughout all works of nature, and imitations of art, ſome imperfect grounds on which all perfection is built, ſome common expreſſions with which the underſtanding is firſt ſigned: ſome ground-colours without the laying on of which, no perfect effigies or pourtraicture can be drawn. Nay thus it is in ſome meaſure in ſpiritual matters alſo; we are men before we are Chriſtians: there is a natural life, and there is a ſpiritual life. And as in the reſurrection, 1 Cor. xv. 46. ſo alſo in the ſpiritual παλιγγενεσία of the ſoul, firſt that which is natural, and after that which is ſpiritual: and in the ſpiritual life there be alſo its periods, the infancy, the youth, and virility of the ſpirit; the firſt being moſt imperfect, yet moſt neceſſary, and preparing the way to the laſt perfection. To bring all home to the buſineſs in hand: thus did it not befit the Saviour of the World to come abruptly into it; to put on fleſh, as ſoon as fleſh had put on ſin: the buſineſs was to be done by degrees, and after it had been a long time in working, for the final production of it, the fulneſs of time was to be expected. The Law had its time of pædagogy to declare it ſelf, and to be obeyed as his Uſher for many years: and after all this, he

‖ f. gifts

Jambl. Protrept. p. 36, & 37.

he appears not in the World, till his Baptist hath proclaimed him; he makes not toward his Court till his Harbinger hath taken up the rooms. He comes not to inhabit either in the greater or lesser Jewry, the World, or Man's heart, till the Præcursor hath warn'd all to make ready for him, and this is the voice of the Præcursor his Sermon and the words of my Text, Prepare ye the way of the Lord.

Instead of dividing the words I shall unite them, and after I have construed them to you, contrive that into one body which would not conveniently be dismembred. Ἑτοιμάζειν signifies to fit, to prepare, to make ready. Ye] are all those to whom Christ should ever come. The ways of the Lord] are whatsoever is capable of receiving of Christ or his Gospel, peculiarly the hearts of the elect. The form of speech imperative, notes the whole complexum to be one single duty required of all the Baptists and my Auditors, sub hac formâ, that every man's heart must be prepared for the receiving of Christ, or punctually to imitate the order of the words in my Text, the preparation of the soul is required for Christ's birth in us. For there is in every elect vessel a spiritual παρθενωσις, or mystical incarnation of Christ, where the soul like Mary is first overshadowed by the Holy Ghost, then conceives, then carries in the womb, grows big, and at last falls into travail and brings forth Christ. My Text goes not thus far, to bring to the Birth, neither will I. My discourse shall be happy if it may be his Baptist, his πρόδρομος in your hearts, to prepare them for his birth, which I shall endeavour to do, first by handling preparation in general; 2. The preparation here specified of the soul; 3. In order to Christs birth in us.

And first of preparation in general: ἑτοιμάζετε, prepare ye, or make ready: the necessity of this performance to any undertaking, may appear by those several precedaneous methods in common life, which have nothing in themselves to ingratiate them unto us, but cost much toil and trouble, yet notwithstanding are submitted to. If the Earth would answer the Farmer's expectation without any culture or husbandry, he would never be so prodigal towards it. But seeing it hath proposed its fruitfulness under condition of our drudgery; we plow and harrow and manure and drain and weed it, or else we are sure to fare the worse at harvest. The variety of preparations in these low affairs, was by Cato and Varro and Columella accounted a pretty piece of polite necessary learning. And a Christian, if he will apply their rules to his spiritual Georgicks, the culture of his soul, shall be able to husband it the better; and by their directions, have a further insight into those fallow-grounds of his own heart, which the Prophet speaks of. 'Twere a great, and perhaps unnecessary journey, to trace over the whole world of creatures, to perfect this observation: almost every passage of nature will furnish you with an example. Hence is it, that they that had nothing but natural reason to instruct them, were assiduous in this practice, and never ventured on any solemn business, without as solemn endeavours to fit themselves for the work they took in hand; those series of preparations before the ancient Athletica, as anointing, and bathing, and rubbing and dust, 'twere fit enough for a Sermon to insist on, the exercise which they prepared for, being reputed sacred and parts of their solemnest worship; and the moral of them, would prove of good use to discipline, and to bring us up to those spiritual Agones mentioned in Scripture, as πάλη, Eph. iv. 14. πυγμὴ, 1 Cor. ix. 26. and in the same place, δρόμος ἐν σταδίῳ, and its preparative ὑποπιάσμὸς Wrestling, cuffing, and running, three of the five Olympian games adopted as it were into the Church, and spiritualiz'd by the Apostle for our imitation. But to pass by these and the like as less apposite for our discourse, what shall we think? Was it superstition, or rather mannerliness, that made the Græcian Priests so rub and wash and scour themselves, before they would meddle with a sacrifice? δεισιδαιμονία, it was, and that we construe superstition; but indeed it signifies an awe and reverence to the Deity they worship, and a fear and a care lest the unpreparedness of the Priest, should pollute their sacrifice; as 'tis much to be feared, that our holiest duties, for want of this care, are turn'd into sin; the vanities and faults of our very prayers, adding to the number of those guilts we pray against, and every sacrifice even of atonement it self needing some expiation. To look a while on the highest part, and as it were the Sacraments of their Religion, their Eleusinia sacra, resembling in one respect Christian Baptism, in another, holy Orders: What a multitude of rites and performances were required of every one, before his admission to them? For their μυστήρια being divided into two classes, the less or lower sort were praludia to the greater, or as the Scholiast on Aristophanes hath it more clearly to our purpose, προκάθαρσις καὶ προάγνευσις τῶν μεγάλων, a præmundation or præsanctification of them that sued to be admitted higher: as Baptism, Confirmation, and a Christian education in the Church, fits us for the participations of those mysteries which the other Sacraments present to us; so that it punctually notes that preparation we here talk of: for before they were admitted to those grand τελεταὶ and ἐποπτεῖαι, they were (saith Suidas) to spend a year or two in a lower form, undergo a shop of purgations, λύτρα, καθάρσεις, and many more; so that Tertullian could not without wonder and praise of their solemnities, observe tot suspiria epoptarum, & multam in adytis divinitatem. 'Twas no mean toyl nor ordinary merit, that was required to make them capable of these ἁγίαι τελεταὶ, as Aristophanes calls them. The ground of all the ceremony we may observe to be the natural impurity which the Heathens themselves acknowledge to be in every man: as may appear most distinctly by Jamblichus, though they knew not clearly at what door it came in at: sure they were they found it there, and therefore their own reason suggested them, that things of an excellent purity, of an inherent or at least an adherent sanctity, were not to be adventured on by an impure nature, ἀλλὰ μετὰ τινων καθαρμῶν, saith Clement, till it had by some laborious prescribed means, somewhat rid it self of its pollutions; and this the Barbarian did μόνῳ λούτρῳ, (saith he) thinking the bare washing of the outward parts sufficient: but the Græcians, whom learning had made more substantial in their Worship, required moreover an habituate temper of passions, longam castimoniam & sedatam mentem, that the inward calmness and serenity of the affections, might perform the promises of the outward purity. In summ, when they were thus qualified and had fulfill'd the period, or circle of their purgation required to their μύησις, they were at length admitted intra adyta ad epoptica sacra, where all the mysteries of their Theology were revealed to them. All which seems to

Hos. xii. 12.

Plut. p. 48.

Init. l. 31 Valen.

Plut. ibid.

Protrept.

me (as much as can be expected from their dim imperfect knowledge) to expreſs the ſtate of grace and ſaving knowledge in the world; and alſo the office of miniſtring in ſacred things, into which no man was thought fit to be received or initiated, but he which had undergone a prentiſhip of purgations; for although thoſe Eleuſinia of theirs, at a Chriſtian's examination, would prove nothing but religious deluſions, containing ſome prodigies of their mythical divinity; in ſumm, but grave ſpecious puppets and ſolemn ſerious nothing; yet hence it may appear, that the eye of nature, though cheated in the main, taking that for a ſacred myſtery, which was but a prodigious vanity, yet kept its ſelf conſtant in its ceremonies; would not dare or hope to approach abruptly to any thing which it could believe to be holy. Now ſhall we be more ſawcy in our devotions, and inſolent in our approaches to either the throne of Majeſty or grace of our true God, than they were to the unprofitable empty τελεταὶ, of their falſe? Shall we call the mannerlineſs of the Heathen up in judgment againſt the Chriſtian rudeneſs? 'Twill be an horrid exprobration at the day of Doom, when a neat, waſh't, reſpectful Gentile ſhall put a ſwiniſh, miry, negligent Chriſtian to ſhame; ſuch a one who never took ſo much care to trim himſelf to entertain the bridegroom, as the Heathen did to adore an empty gaud, a vain ridiculous bauble. Yet is not their example preſcribed you as an accompliſh't pattern, as the pitch to aim at and drive no higher; but rather as a τελετουργικὸν a ſarcaſm or contumely engrav'd in Marble, to upbraid you mightily if you have not gone ſo far. All that they practiſed was but ſuperficial and referring to the body, and therein, the waſhing of the out-ſides; yours muſt be inward, and of the ſoul: which is the next word in the doctrine, the ſpecification of it by the ſubject noted in the Text by τὴν ὁδὸν, the way, and expreſſed in the latter part of the ſubject of my propoſition, the Preparation of the ſoul.

This Preparation conſiſts in removing thoſe burthens, and wiping off thoſe blots of the ſoul, which any way deface or oppreſs it; in ſcouring off that ruſt and filth which it contracted in the Womb, and driving it back again as near integrity as may be. And this was the aim and buſineſs of the wiſeſt among the Ancients, who conceived it poſſible fully to repair what was loſt, becauſe the privation was not total: and finding ſome ſparks of the primitive flame ſtill warm within them, endeavour'd and hoped hard to enliven them. To this purpoſe a great company of them, ſaith St. Auſtin, puzled themſelves in a deſign of purging the ſoul per ſuffragia, & conſecrationes theurgicas, but all in vain, as Porphyry himſelf confeſſes; No man, ſaith he, by this theurgick Magick could ever purge himſelf the nearer to God, or wipe his eyes clear enough for ſuch a viſion. They indeed went more probably to work, which uſed no other magick or exorciſm to caſt out theſe Devils, to clear and purge the ſoul, but only their reaſon, which the Moraliſt ſet up and maintain'd againſt θυμὸς and ἐπιθυμία, the two ringleaders of ſenſuality. To this purpoſe did Socrates, the firſt and wiſeſt Moraliſt, furniſh and arm the reaſonable faculty with all helps and defenſations that Philoſophy could afford it, that it might be able to ſhake off and disburthen it ſelf of thoſe encumbrances which naturally weighed and preſſed it downward, ut exoneratus animus naturali vigore in æterna ſe attolleret: where if that be true which ſome obſerve of Socrates, that his profeſſing to know nothing, was becauſe all was taught him by his δαιμόνιον; I wonder not that by others his δαιμόνιον is called θεὸς, and conſecrated into a Deity: for certainly, never Devil bore ſo much charity to Mankind, and treachery to his own kingdom, as to inſtruct him in the cleanſing of his ſoul; whereby thoſe ſtrong holds of Satan are undermined, which cannot ſubſiſt but on a ſtiff and deep Clay foundation. From theſe beginnings of Socrates, the Moraliſts ever ſince have toil'd hard at this task, to get the ſoul ἐκ γενέσεως, as Jambl. phraſes it, out of that corruption of its birth, that impurity born with it, which the ſoul contracts by its converſation with the body, and from which, they ſay, only Philoſophy can purge it. For it is Philoponus his obſervation, that that Canon of the Phyſicians, That the inclinations of the ſoul neceſſarily follow the temper of the body, is by all men ſet down with that exception implied, unleſs the Man have ſtudied Philoſophy; for that ſtudy can reform the other, καὶ μὴ ἕπεσθαι ποιεῖν, make the ſoul contemn the commands, and arm it againſt the influences and poyſons and infections of the body. In ſumm, the main of Philoſophy was to this purpoſe, to take off the ſoul from thoſe corporeal dependances, and ſo in a manner reſtore it to its primitive ſelf; that is, to ſome of that divine perfection with which it was infuſed, for then is the ſoul to be beheld in its native ſhape, when 'tis ſtript of all its paſſions. At other times you do not ſee the ſoul, but ſome froth and weeds of it; as the gray part of the Sea, is not to be called Sea, ἀλλὰ τὰ φύκια ἃ περιέκλυσε, ſome ſcurf and foam and weeds that lye on the top of it. So then to this ſpiritualizing of the ſoul, and recovering it to the ſimplicity of its eſſence, their main precepts were to quell and ſuppreſs τὸν ἐν ψυχῇ δῆμον, as Maximus Tyrius ſpeaks, that turbulent, pragmant common people of the ſoul, all the irrational affections, and reduce it εἰς πολιτείαν, into a Monarchy or regal government, where reaſon might rule Lord and King. For whenſoever any lower affection is ſuffered to do any thing, there, ſaith Philoponus, we do not work like men, but ſome other creatures. Whoſoever ſuffers their lower nutritive faculties to act freely, δοῦλοι κατὰ δυνάμεις ἀναδενδράδες γίνονται, theſe men are in danger to become trees; that is, by theſe operations they differ nothing from meer plants. So thoſe that ſuffer their ſenſitive appetites, luſt and rage to exerciſe at freedom, are not to be reckoned men, but beaſts; τότε μόνον ἐσόμεθα ἄνθρωποι, &c. then only will our actions argue us men, when our reaſon is at the forge. This was the aim and buſineſs of Philoſophy to keep us from unmanning our ſelves, to reſtore reaſon to its ſcepter, to reſcue it from the tyranny of that moſt atheiſtical uſurper, as Jambl. calls the affections; and from hence, he which lived according to thoſe precepts of Philoſophy, was ſaid both by them and Clement, and the Fathers, κατὰ νοῦν, and in Auſtin, Secundum intellectum vivere, to live according to the guidance of the reaſonable ſoul. Which whoſoever did, ſaith Plotinus, though by it in reſpect of divinity he was not perfect, yet at laſt ſhould be ſure to find a gracious providence, firſt to perfect, then to crown his natural moderate well tempered endeavour, as Auſtin cites it out of him, L. 10. de civit. Dei. This whole courſe and proceedings and aſſent of the ſoul, through theſe Philoſophical preparations, to ſpiritual perfection, is ſummarily and clearly ſet down for us in Photius out of Iſidorus, Philoſophically obſerved to conſiſt in three ſteps; τὰ μὲν πρῶτα, &c. The firſt buſineſs of the ſoul ſoul is to call in thoſe parts of it which were ingaged in any foreign fleſhly imployment, and retire and collect it ſelf unto it ſelf: and then ſecondly, it learns to quit it ſelf, to put off the whole natural man, ἴδια ἤθη, its own faſhions and conceits; all the notions, all the pride of humane reaſon, and ſet it ſelf on thoſe things which are neareſt kin to the ſoul, that is ſpiritual affairs: and then thirdly, ἐνθουσιᾷ καὶ παραλλάττει, it falls into holy enthuſiaſms and ſpiritual elevations, which it continues, till it be changed and led into the calm and ſerenity above the ſtate of man, agreeable to the tranquillity and peace which the Gods injoy. And could the Philoſophers be their own Scholars, could they exhibit that felicity which they deſcribe and phanſie, they might glory in their morality, and indeed be ſaid to have prepared and purged the ſoul for the receit of the moſt pure and ſpiritual gueſt. But certainly their ſpeculation out-ran their practice; and their very morality was but Theorical, to be read in their books and wiſhes, far more legible, than in their lives and their injoyments. Yet ſome degrees alſo of purity, or at leaſt a leſs meaſure of impurity they attained to, only upon the expectation and deſire of happineſs propoſed to them upon condition of performance of moral precepts; for all things being indifferently moved to the obtaining of their ſummum bonum; all, I ſay, not only rational agents, ἀλλὰ καὶ φύσει κινούμενα ἀλόγως, as Andronicus ſaith on the Ethicks, which have nothing but nature to incite them to it; the natural man may, upon a ſight and liking of an happineſs propoſed on ſevere conditions, call himſelf into ſome degrees of moral temper, as beſt ſuiting to the performance of the means, and obtaining of the end he looks for; and by this temper be ſaid to be morally better than another, who hath not taken this courſe to ſubdue his paſſions. And this was evident enough among the Philoſophers, who were as far beyond the ordinary ſort, in ſeverity of converſation, as depth of learning; and read them as profitable precepts in the example of their lives, as ever the Schools breathed forth in their Lectures. Their profeſſion was incompatible with many vices, and would not ſuffer them to be ſo rich in variety of ſins as the vulgar: and then whatſoever they thus did, an unregenerate Chriſtian may ſurely perform in a far higher meaſure, as having more choice of ordinary reſtrainment from ſin, than ever had any heathen; for it will be much to our purpoſe to take notice of thoſe ordinary reſtraints by which unregenerate men may be, and are curbed, and kept back from ſinning; and theſe, ſaith Auſtin, God affords to the very reprobates, Non continens in ira ſuas miſericordias. Much to this ſame purpoſe hath holy Maximus in thoſe admirable Sections, περὶ ἀγάπης, where moſt of the reſtraints he ſpeaks of, are competible to the unregenerate, φόβος ἀνθρώπων, &c. 1. Fear of men. 2. Denunciation of judgments from Heaven. 3. Temperance and moral vertues: nay ſometimes other moral vices, as κενοδοξία, vain glory or oſtentation of integrity. 4. Natural impreſſions to do to others as we would be done to. 5. Clearneſs of judgment in diſcerning good from evil. 6. An expectation of a reward for any thing well done. Laſtly, ſome gripes and twinges of the conſcience: to all, add a tender diſpoſition, a good Chriſtian education, common cuſtom of the Country where one lives, where ſome vices are out of faſhion: nay at laſt, the word of God daily preached; not a love, but ſervile fear of it. Theſe I ſay, and the like may outwardly reſtrain unregenerate men from riots; may curb and keep them in, and conſequently preſerve the ſoul from that weight of the multitude of ſins which preſs down other men to a deſperation of mercy. Thus is one unregenerate man leſs ingaged in ſin than another, and conſequently his ſoul leſs polluted; and ſo in all likelihood, more capable of the ordinary means of ſalvation, than the more ſtubborn habituate ſinner; when every averſion, every commiſſion of every ſin doth more harden againſt grace, more alien and ſet at a greater diſtance from Heaven: and this briefly we call a moral preparation of the ſoul; and a purging of it, though not abſolutely from ſin, yet from ſome meaſure of reigning ſin, and diſpoſing of it to a ſpiritual eſtate: and this is no more than I learn from Bradwardine in his 16. de cauſa Dei. ch. 37. A ſervile fear, a ſight of ſome inconvenience, and moral habit of vertue, and the like, Multum retrahunt à peccato, inclinant ad opera bona, & ſic ad charitatem, & gratiam, & opera verè grata præparant & diſponunt. And ſo I come to my laſt part, to ſhew of what uſe this preparation of the ſoul is, in order to Chriſts birth in us, the ways of the Lord.

Ariſt. 2. Phy. c. 23.

I take no great joy in preſenting controverſies to your ears out of this place; yet ſeeing I am already fallen upon a piece of one, I muſt now go through it; and to quit it as ſoon as I can, preſent the whole buſineſs unto you in ſome few propoſitions, of which ſome I ſhall only recite as conceiving them evident enough by their own light; the reſt I ſhall a little inſiſt on, and then apply and drive home the profit of all to your affections. And in this pardon me, for certainly I ſhould never have medled with it, had not I reſolved it a Theory that moſt nearly concerned your practice, and a ſpeculation that would inſtruct your wills as well as your underſtandings. The propoſitions which contain the ſumm of the buſineſs are theſe.

1. No preparation in the world can deſerve or challenge Gods ſanctifying grace: the ſpirit bloweth where it liſteth, and cannot by any thing in us be predetermin'd to its object or its work.

2. The Spirit is of power to work the ‖ converſation of any the greateſt ſinner: at one minute to ſtrike the moſt obdurate heart and ſoften it, and out of the unnatural womb of ſtones, infinitely more unfruitful than barrenneſs and age had made the womb of Sarah, to raiſe up children unto Abraham. According to the ὑπόθεσις of Ariſtotle, νόσους ὑγιάζει πολλάκις ὅταν πολὺ ἔχῃ τις, diſeaſes are ſometimes cur'd, when the patient is at the extremity or height of danger, in an ecſtaſie and almoſt quite gone. ‖ converſion Sect. 1. pro. 1.

3. 'Tis an ill Conſequence, that becauſe God can and ſometimes doth call unprepared ſinners, therefore 'tis probable he will deal ſo with thee in particular, or with unprepared men in general. God doth not work in converſion as a phyſical agent, to the extent of his power, but according to the ſweet diſpoſition and counſel of his Will.

4. In unprepared hearts there be many profeſt enemies to grace, ill diſpoſitions, ambition, Atheiſm, pride of ſpirit, and (in chief) an habit in a voluptuous ſetled courſe of ſinning, an indefatigable reſolute walking after their own luſts. And therefore there is very little hope that Chriſt will ever vouchſafe to be born in ſuch polluted hardned ſouls. For 'tis Baſil's obſervation, that that ſpeech of the fools heart, there is no God, was the cauſe that the Gentiles were given over to a reprobate ſenſe, and fell headlong εἰς πάσα βδελύγματα, into all manner of abominations. Hence it is, that Jobius in Photius, obſerves that in Scripture ſome are called Dogs, Mat. xv. 26. ſome unworthy to receive the myſteries of the Kingdom of Heaven, Mat. xiii. 11. that ſome hated the light and came not to it, John iii. 20. as if all thoſe had taken a courſe to make themſelves uncapable of mercy, and by a perfect hoſtility frighted Chriſt out of their coaſts. In the liberal diſpenſation of miracles in the Goſpel you would wonder to ſee Chriſt a niggard in his own Country; yet ſo, in reſpect of other places, he was, and did not many miracles there, becauſe of their unbelief, Mat. xiii. 58. not that their incredulity had manacled him, had ſhortned his hand, or ſtraitned his power; but that miracles, which when they met with a paſſive willingneſs, a contentedneſs in the patient to receive and believe them, were then the ordinary inſtruments of faith and converſion, would have been but caſt away upon obdurate hearts: ſo that for Chriſt to have numbred miracles among his unbelieving Country men no way prepared to receive them, had been an injurious liberality, and added only to their unexcuſableneſs; which contradicts not the Axiom of St. Paul, 1 Cor. xiv. 22. That ſome ſigns are only for unbelievers: for even thoſe unbelievers muſt have within them τὸ ἐπιτήδειον & ὑπακοῆς, a proneneſs or readineſs to receive them with belief, καὶ εἰσοικίζεσθαι, &c. in Jobius, to open to the ſpirit knocking by thoſe miracles, and improve them to their beſt profit.

of

5. Though God needs not, yet he requires moral preparation of us, as an ordinary means to make us more capable of grace: for although according to Saint Auſtin, Ne ipſâ quidem juſtitiâ noſtrâ indiget Deus: yet according to Salvian's limitation, Eget juxta præceptionem ſuam, licet non juxta potentiam; eget ſecundum legem ſuam, non eget ſecundum Majeſtatem. We are to think that God hath uſe of any thing which he commands, and therefore muſt perform whatever he requires, and not dare to be confident of the end, without the obſervation of the means preſcribed. 'Tis too much boldneſs, if not preſumption, to leave all to his omnipotent working, when he hath preſcribed us means to do ſomewhat our ſelves.

Vid. Wiſd. 3. 14. 6. Integrity and Honeſty of heart, a ſober moral life, and chiefly humility and tenderneſs of ſpirit; in ſumm, whatever degree of Innocence, either ſtudy, or fear, or love, or natural diſpoſition can work in us, ſome or all of which may in ſome meaſure be found in ſome men not yet regenerate, are good preparations for Chriſts birth in us: ſo ſaith Clement of Philoſophy that it doth προπαρασκευάζειν, &c. make ready and prepare the way againſt Chriſts coming, συνεργῶν, cooperate with other helps that God hath given us; all with this caution, that it doth only prepare, not perfect; facilitate the purſuit of wiſdom to us, ἃ μήπω ἀθηρᾶτα ὄντας διὰ αὐτῆς, which God may beſtow on us without this means. To this purpoſe hath Baſil a notable Homily, to exhort Scholars to the ſtudy of Foreign, humane, eſpecially Gracian Learning, and to this end ſaith he, that we prepare our ſelves, εἰς τὰ ἄνω, to the Heavenly ſpiritual Philoſophy. In the like kind the Fathers preſcribe good works of Charity, obſerving out of the xix. of St. Matthew, that the diſtribution of all their ſubſtance to the poor, was a præludium in the Primitive believers to the following of Chriſt, Prius vendant omnia quàm ſequantur: from whence he calls Alms-deeds, exordia quaſi & incunabula converſionis noſtræ. The like may be ſaid, though not in the ſame degree of all other courſes, quibus carnalium ſarcinarum impedimenta projicimus: for if theſe forementioned preparations be meer works of nature in us, as ſome would have them, then do they naturally incline the ſubject for the receiving of grace when it comes, and by fitting, as it were, and organizing the ſubject, facilitate its entrance; or if they be works of Gods reſtraining preventing grace, as 'tis moſt orthodoxly agreed on, then are they good harbingers for the ſanctifying ſpirit; good comfortable ſymptoms, that God will perfect and crown the work which he hath begun in us.

7. Gods ordinary courſe, as far as by events we can judge of it, is to call and ſave ſuch as are thus prepared. Thus to inſtance in a few of the firſt and chiefeſt. 'Twas appointed by God that ſhe only ſhould be vouchſafed the bleſſed office of dignity, of being the θεοτόκος Chriſt's Mother, who was πάσαις πάσαις ἀρεταῖς ὑπερανέλθουσα, ſaith he in Photius, fuller of vertues than any elſe of her ſex could brag off. In like manner, that the reſt of the family, Chriſts Father and Brethren, in account on earth, ſhould be ſuch whoſe vertues had beſtowed a more eminent opinion, though not place upon them amongſt men: ſo was Joſeph and his Sons δικαιοσύνῃ διαλάμποντες, famous for very juſt men, James the brother of the Lord ἐκ κοιλίας ἁγίου, holy from the womb (as Euſebius cites it) called by the Jews ὠβλίας, ſaith he, out of Hegeſippus, which he interprets περιοχὴ τοῦ λαοῦ, ἡ δικαιοσύνη, the ſtay of the people and juſtice it ſelf. In brief, if a Cornelius be to be called from Gentiliſm to Chriſtianity, ye ſhall find him in the beginning of his character, Acts x. 1. to be a devout man, and one that feared God with all his houſe, gave much Alms to the people, and prayed to God alway: one cut out as it were εἰς ἀπαρχὴν ἐθνῶν, to be the firſt-fruit of the Gentiles. Now though none of theſe vertues can be imputed to nature in the ſubſtance of them, but acknowledge a more ſupernatural ſpiritual agent in them, yet are they to be reckoned as preparations to Chriſts birth in them, becauſe they did precede it: for ſo in reſpect of his real Incarnation in the world, the type of his ſpiritual in the ſoul, Mary was a vertuous pure virgin, before the Holy Ghoſt overſhadowed her, Joſeph a juſt man, before the Holy Ghoſt appeared to him, Mat. i. 19. James holy from the womb, and Cornelius capable of all that commendation for Devotion and Alms-deeds, Acts x. 1. before either Chriſt was preach't to him in the 37. or the Holy Ghoſt fell on him, in the 44. verſe.

8. The Converſion of unprepared hardned blaſphemous ſinners, is to be accounted as a moſt rare and extraordinary work, of Gods power and mercy, not an every days work, like to be beſtowed on every habituate ſinner: and therefore 'tis commonly accompanied with ſome evident note of difference, to point it out for a miracle. Thus was Paul called from the chief of ſinners, 1 Tim. i. 15. to the chief of Saints; but with this mark, that Chriſt Jeſus might ſhew forth all long-ſuffering, &c. which was in him firſt, and perhaps laſt in that degree: that others in his pitch of blaſphemies, might not preſume of the like miracle of mercy. And indeed, he that is thus called, muſt expect what Paul found, a mighty tempeſt throughout him, three days at leaſt without ſight or nouriſhment, ment, if not a παράλυσις or λειποψυχία a ſwoon, a kind of ecſtacy of the whole man, at this tumultuary driving out of this high, rank, inſolent, habituate body of ſin. 'Tis obſerved, that when the news of Chriſts birth was brought by the wiſe men, the City was ſtraight in an uproar; Herod was much troubled, and all Jeruſalem with him, Mat. ii. 3. for it ſeems, they expected no ſuch matter; and therefore ſo ſtrange and ſudden news produced nothing but aſtoniſhment and tumult: whilſt Simeon, who waited for the conſolation of Iſrael, makes no ſuch ſtrange buſineſs of it; takes him preſently into his embraces, and familiarly hugs him in his arms, having been before acquainted with him by his Faith. Thus will it, at Chriſts ſpiritual ἐνεδρώσει, be in an unprepared heart; his reigning Herod-ſins, and all the Jeruſalem and Democracy of affections, a ſtrange tumult of repining old habituate paſſions, will ſtruggle fiercely, and ſhake the whole houſe before they leave it. If a ſtrong man be to be diſpoſſeſſed of houſe or abode, without warning, a hundred to one he will do ſome miſchief at his departure, and draw at leaſt ſome Pillar after him: when as a prepared Simeon's ſoul lays hold as ſoon as he hears of him, is already organiz'd, as it were, for the purpoſe, holds out the arms and boſom of faith, and at the firſt minute of his appearance takes him into his ſpiritual embraces. This very preparation either had denied the ſtrong man entrance, or elſe binds his hands, manacles that blind Sampſon, and turns him out in peace, and then the ſpirit enters into that ſoul (which it ſelf or its harbingers have prepared) in a ſoft ſtill wind, in a ſtill voice, and the ſoul ſhall feel its gale, ſhall hear its whiſpering, and ſhall ſcarce diſcern, perhaps not at all obſerve the moment of its entrance.

Laſtly, by way of Corollary to all that hath been ſaid, though God can, and ſometimes doth, call blaſphemous ſinners; though nothing in us can facilitate Gods action to him, though none of our performances or his lower works in us, can merit or challenge his ſanctifying grace; though in brief, all that we can do, is in ſome reſpect enmity to grace; yet certainly there is far more hope of the juſt careful moral man, which hath uſed all thoſe reſtraints which are given him, that he ſhall be called and ſaved: of ſuch a one we are to judge far more comfortably, and expect more confidently, than of another more habituate ſinner, negligent of the commands of either God or nature. And this I conceive I have in ſome meaſure proved through each part of the former diſcourſe, and ſo I ſhould diſmiſs it, and come to application, but that I am ſtayed and thwarted by a contrary propoſition maintained by a ſort of our popular Preachers, with more violence than diſcretion, which I conceive to be of dangerous conſequence, and therefore worth opening to you. In ſetting down the pitch that an unregenerate man may attain to, and yet be damned, ſome of our preaching writers are wont duly to conclude with this peremptory Doctrine, That of a meer moral man, though never ſo ſevere a cenſor of his own ways, never ſo rigid an exactor of all the precepts of nature and morality in himſelf; yet of this man there is leſs hope, either that he ſhall be converted or ſaved, than the moſt debauched ruffian under Heaven. The charity and purity of this Doctrine you ſhall judge of, if you will accompany me a while, and firſt obſerve, that they go ſo far with the meer moral man, and drive him ſo high, that at his depreſſion again, many a regenerate man falls with him under that title; and in iſſue, I fear, all will prove meer moraliſts in their doom, which do fall ſhort of that degree of zeal, which their either faction or violent heats pretend to; and ſo as Tertullian objects to the Heathen, expoſtulating with them why they did not deifie Themiſtocles and Cato, as well as Jove and Hercules, Quot potiores viros apud inferos reliquiſtis? they leave many an honeſter man in Hell, than ſome of thoſe whom their favour or Faction hath beſainted.

Secondly, obſerve to what end or uſe this Doctrine may ſerve, but as an allay to civil honeſty in a Commonwealth, and fair, juſt dealing, which forſooth, of late is grown ſo luxuriant, the world is like to languiſh and ſink, 'tis ſo overburthened with it; and on the other ſide, an incouragement to the ſinner in his courſe, an ingagement in the purſuit of vice to the height and ἀκμὴ, as the pitch and cue which God expects and waits for, as they conclude on theſe grounds, becauſe he lookt upon Peter not till the third denial; and then called Paul, when he was moſt mad againſt the Chriſtians: as if the neareſt way to Heaven were by Hell-gates, and Devils moſt likely to become Saints; as if there were merit in abominations, and none in the right way to Chriſtianity, but whom Atheiſm would be aſhamed of; as if, becauſe the natural man underſtands not, &c. all reliques of natural purity were ſolemnly and pro formâ to be abandoned, to make us capable of ſpiritual. 'Tis confeſſed, that ſome have been and are thus Converted, and by an ecſtaſie of the ſpirit, ſnatched and caught like firebrands out of the fire; and though ſome muſt needs find their ſpiritual joys infinitely increaſed, ἐκ παραλλήλου, by that gall of bitterneſs, from which they were delivered, and are therefore more abundantly ingaged to God, as being not the objects only, but the miracle of his mercy: but yet for all this, ſhall one or two variations from the ordinary courſe, from the ὡς ἐπὶ τὸ πολὺ, be turned into a ruled caſe? ſhall the rarer examples of Mary Magdalen, or a Saul, preſcribe and ſet up? ſhall we ſin to the purpoſe, as if we meant to threaten God, that 'twere his beſt and ſafeſt courſe to call us? ſhall we abound in rebellions, that grace may ſuperabound? God pardon and forbid.

Thirdly, conſider the reaſon of their propoſition, and you ſhall judge of the truth of it, and beſide their own phancies and reſolution to maintain them, they have none but this, The meer moral man truſts in his own righteouſneſs, and this confidence in the arm of fleſh, is the greateſt enemy to ſanctifying grace, which works by ſpiritual humility. To which we anſwer diſtinctly, that the foreſaid pride, truſt or confidence, is neither effect nor neceſſary adjunct of morality; but an abſolute defection from the rules thereof; and therefore whatſoever proceeds either as an effect, or conſequent from pride or confidence, cannot yet be imputed to morality at all, or to the moral men per ſe, no more than the Thundring or Lightning is to be imputed to my walking, becauſe it thunders whilſt I walk; or preaching to my ſtanding ſtill, becauſe whilſt I ſtand ſtill I preach; ὃ γὰρ διὰ τὸ βαδίζειν ὑστερεῖν, ἀλλὰ συνίζησιν τοῦτο, ſaith Ariſtotle in the firſt Poſt. c. 4. It doth not lighten becauſe I walk, but that is an accident proceeding from ſome other cauſe. To ſtrive againſt the motions of the ſpirit, and ſo to render Converſion more difficult, is an effect perhaps of pride or truſt, but yet is not to be imputed to morality, though the moral man be proud or ſelf-truſting, becauſe this pride or ſelf-truſting is not an effect, but an accident of morality; and therefore their judgment ſhould be able to diſtinguiſh, and direct their zeal againſt the accidental vice, not the eſſential innocent vertue, againſt pride, not morality. Beſides, this pride is alſo as incident to him who is morally evil; nay, either ſuppoſes or makes its ſubject ſo, being formerly a breach of morality. For that σωφροσύνη belonging to the underſtanding, which is, not to think more highly on ones own worth than he ought, ἀλλὰ φρονεῖν εἰς τὸ σωφρονεῖν, Rom. xii. 3. Do we not find it commended and dilated on by Ariſtotle 4. Eth. 3. μειζόνων ἢ ἄξιος, &c. not to overprize his own worth, or to expect an higher reward than it in proportion deſerves? So that he that truſts in his morality for Heaven, doth eo nomine offend againſt morality, according to that of Salvian, Hoc ipſum genus maximæ injuſtitiæ eſt, ſi quis ſe juſtum præſumat; and indeed Ariſtotle and Seneca could ſay as much: and ſo then the accuſation is unjuſt and contumelious; for to a moral man if he be truly ſo, this pride or confidence is incompatible: for do we not find that treble humility, ταπεινοφροσύνη of the heart, πραότης of the tongue, μακροθυμία of the actions, Epheſ. iv. 2. handled alſo and preſcribed by the Philoſophers? In ſumm, that which in all moral precepts comes neareſt pride or high-mindedneſs, is that μεγαλοψυχία, Eth. 4. 3. part of which is ſetting value on ones ſelf. But if you obſerve, this goes no farther than τὰ ἔξω ἀγαθὰ, honour or worldly pomp: as for the immortal bleſſedneſs of the ſoul, 'twas a thing infinitely above the pitch of their hope or confidence: the moſt perfect among them never pretended any jus meriti to it, and if they did, they had by ſo much the leſs hopes to attain to it. Now if it be ſuppoſed, as I fear is too true, that our moral men fall far ſhort of the antient Philoſophers, if they be now adays confident and truſt in their works for ſalvation, then they do not make good their name; they are only ſo ὁμωνύμως and καταχρησικῶς, abuſively and notionally. And yet even theſe equivocal moral men ſeem to me in as good, if not better caſe, than the other term of compariſon, the careleſs negligent debauch't men. For upon their grounds, is it not as eaſie for the Converting ſpirit to enter and ſubdue one Lucifer, one proud Devil in the heart, otherwiſe pretty well qualified, as to deal with a whole Legion of blaſphemous, violent, riotous, railing, ignorant Devils?

not

I have done all with the confutation of this looſe groundleſs opinion, which if 'twere true, would yet prove of dangerous conſequence to be Preached, in abating and turning our edge, which is of it ſelf blunt and dull enough toward goodneſs: nay, certainly it hath proved ſcandalous to thoſe without; as may appear by that boaſt and exultancy of Campian in his Eighth Reaſon, where he upbraids us Engliſh-men of our abominable Lutheran, licentious Doctrine, (as he calls it) Quanto ſceleratior es, tanto vicinior gratiæ: and therefore I do not repent that I have been ſomewhat large in the refuting of it; as alſo, becauſe it doth much import to the clearing of my diſcourſe: for if the meer moral men be fartheſt from Heaven, then have I all this while buſied my ſelf, and tormented you with an unprofitable, nay, injurious preparation; whereas I ſhould have preſcribed you a ſhorter eaſier call, by being extreamly ſinful, according to theſe two Aphoriſms of Hippocrates, ἀεὶ ὑπ' ἄκρου, &c. the ſtrongeſt bodies are in greateſt danger, and εἰς τὰ ἴσχαλα, the ἀκμὴ and height of a diſeaſe is the fitteſt opportunity for a miraculous cure.

But beloved, let us more conſiderately bethink our ſelves, let us ſtudy and learn and walk a more ſecure probable way to Heaven; and for thoſe of us which are yet unregenerate, though we obtained no grace of God, but that of nature and reaſon, and our Chriſtianity to govern us, yet let us not contemn thoſe ordinary reſtraints which theſe will afford us: let us attend in patience, ſobriety, and humility, and prayers, the good time and leiſures of the ſpirit; let us not make our reaſonable ſoul, our profeſſion of men, of Chriſtians, aſhamed of us; let not the heathen and beaſts have cauſe to bluſh at us; let us remain men, till it may pleaſe him to call us into Saints; leſt being plunged in habitual confident ſinning, that Hell and Tophet on Earth, the very omnipotent mercy of God be in a manner foiled to hale us out again: let us improve, rack, and ſtretch our natural abilities to the higheſt; that although, according to our thirteenth Article, we cannnot pleaſe God, yet we may not mightily provoke him. Let every man be in ſome proportion to his gifts, Chriſts Baptiſt and forerunner, and harbinger in himſelf, that whenſoever he ſhall appear or knock, he may enter, lodge and dwell without reſiſtance. Laſtly, after all thy preparations, be not ſecure; if the Bridegroom will not vouchſafe to reſt with you, all your proviſion is in vain; all the morality and learning, and gifts, and common graces, unleſs Chriſt at laſt be born in us, are but embryo's, nay abortives, rude, imperfect, horrid, νήπιοι καὶ εἰσὶν οἱ φιλόσοφοι, that Philoſopher dies in his nonage in whom Chriſt was never born: the higheſt reach of years and learning is but infancy without the virility and manhood of the ſpirit, by which we are made perfect men in Chriſt Jeſus. Wherefore above all things in the world, let us labour for this perfection; let us melt and diſſolve every faculty and ſpirit about us in purſuit of it, and at laſt ſeal, and bleſs, and crown our endeavours with our Prayers; and with all the Rhetorick, and means, and humility, and violence of our ſouls, importune and lay hold on the ſanctifying ſpirit, and never leave till he hath bleſſed and breathed on us. O thou mighty, controuling, holy, hallowing Ghoſt, be pleaſed with thine effectual working to ſuppreſs in us all reſiſtance of the pride of nature, and prepare us for thy Kingdom of Grace here, and Glory hereafter.

Now to him which hath elected us, hath Created and Redeemed us, &c.

SERMON

XXXI

SERMONS

PREACHED

On Several Occaſions

BY THE

REVEREND and LEARNED

Henry Hammond, D.D.

How ſhall they hear, without a Preacher? And how ſhall they Preach, except they be ſent? Rom. x. 14, 15.

Go ye into all the World, and preach the Goſpel to every creature. St. Mark xvi. 15.

LONDON,

Printed for RICHARD ROYSTON, Bookſeller to the KING's moſt Sacred MAJESTY; and Richard Davis, Bookſeller in OXFORD. MDCLXXXIV.

XXXI.

SERMONS

PREACHED

On Several Occasions.

BY THE

REVEREND Mr HARRIS

Henry Hammond, D.D.

LONDON.

Printed for R. Royston, Bookseller to the most Sacred Majesty, and Richard Davis, Bookseller in Oxford. MDCLXXXIV.

SERMON X.

JOHN VII. 48.

Have any of the Phariſees believed on him?

IT is obſervable from Hiſtory with what difficulty Religion attempts to propagate, and eſtabliſh it ſelf with the many: what Countenance and encouragement it hath required from thoſe things which are moſt ſpecious, and pompous in the World: how it hath been fain to keep its dependencies and correſpondencies, and ſubmit to the poor condition of ſuſtaining it ſelf by thoſe beggarly helps which the World and the fleſh will afford it. Two main Pillars which it relies on, are Power and Learning, the Camp and the Schools, or in a word, authority of great ones, and countenance of Scholars; the one to force and extort obedience, the other to inſinuate belief and aſſent; the firſt to raviſh, the ſecond to perſwade. One inſtance for all: if we would plant Chriſtianity in Turky, we muſt firſt invade and conquer them, and then convince them of their follies: which about an hundred years ago Cleonard propoſed to moſt Courts of Chriſtendom, (and to that end himſelf ſtudied Arabick) that Princes would join their ſtrength, and Scholars their Brains, and all ſurprize them in their own land and language, at once beſiege the Turk and his Alcoran, put him to the Sword, and his Religion to the touchſtone; command him to Chriſtianity with an high hand, and then to ſhew him the reaſonableneſs of our commands. Thus alſo may we complain, but not wonder, that the Reformation gets ground ſo ſlow in Chriſtendom, becauſe the Forces and potent Abettors of the Papacy, ſecure them from being led captive to Chriſt; as long as the Pope is riveted ſo faſt in his Chair, and as long as the Rulers take part with him, there ſhall be no doubt of the truth of their Religion; unleſs it pleaſe God to back our arguments with ſteel, and to raiſe up Kings and Emperours to be our Champions, we may queſtion, but never confute his ſupremacy. Let us come with all the power and Rhetorick of Paul and Barnabas, all the demonſtrations of reaſon and ſpirit, yet as long as they have ſuch Topicks againſt us, as the authority of the Rulers and Phariſees, we may diſpute out our hearts, and preach out our Lungs, and gain no Proſelytes: all that we ſhall get, is but a ſcoffe and a Curſe, a Sarcaſm and an Anathema, in the words next after my Text, This people which know not the law, are curſed, there is no heed to be taken to ſuch poor contemptible Fellows. Ver. 49. To bring all home to the buſineſs of the Text, Let Chriſt come with all the enforcement, and violence and conviction of his Spirit, ſublimity of his Speech and Miracles, all the power of Rhetorick, and Rhetorick of his power, ſo that all that ſee or hear, bear witneſs that never man ſpake as this man, yet all this ſhall be accounted but a deluſion, but an inchantment of ſome ſeduced Wretches, unleſs the great men, or deep Scholars will be pleaſed to Countenance them. And 'tis much to be feared, they are otherwiſe poſſeſſed, and rather than this ſhall not be followed, Chriſt ſhall be left alone; rather than they ſhall ſpeak in vain, the Word it ſelf ſhall be put to ſilence: and if they which were v. 32. appointed to take and bring him to judgment, ſhall be caught by him they came to apprehend, and v. 46. turn their accuſations into reverence, the Phariſees will not be without their reply, they are Doctors in the Law, and therefore for a need, can be their own Advocates: Then anſwered the Phariſees, are v. 47, 48. ye alſo deceived, have any of the Rulers or Phariſees believed on him?

Concerning the infidelity of the rulers in my Text, as being not ſo directly appliable to my audience, I ſhall forbear to ſpeak. My Diſcourſe ſhall retire it ſelf to the Phariſee, as being a Profeſſor of learning, brought up at the Univerſity in Jeruſalem, and God grant, his vices and infidelity be not alſo Academical.

The words we ſhall divide not into ſeveral parts but conſiderations, and read them either as ſpoken by the Phariſee, or recorded by the Evangeliſt. In the firſt, we have the τὸ λογικὸν, the rational force of them, as they are part of an argument, that they which believed in Chriſt, were deceived, ſub hâc formâ; he that would judge of the truth of his life, is to look which way the greateſt Scholars are affected; and then, though in that caſe it concluded fallaciouſly, yet the argument was probable, and the point worth our diſcuſſion; that the judgment of learning and learned men, is much to be heeded in matters of Religion.

In the ſecond we have the τὸ φυσικὸν and τὸ ῥῆμα, the rational ſenſe of the words being reſolved, as affirmative interrogations are wont, into a negative Propoſitio', Have any, &c. The Phariſees did not believe on him, i. e. the greateſt Scholars are not always the beſt Chriſtians. And firſt of the firſt, the authority of learning and learned men in matters of Religion, noted from the logical force of the words, Have any, &c.

Amongſt other acts of Gods Providence and wiſe Oeconomy of all things, there is not one more obſervable than the ſucceſſion of his Church, and diſpenſation of his moſt precious gifts attending it; you ſhall not in any age find the flouriſhing of learning ſever'd from the profeſſion of Religion; and the propoſition ſhall be granted without exception; Gods people were always the learneſt part of the World. Before the Flood, we are not ſo confident as to define and ſet down the ſtudies and proficiency in all kinds of knowledge amongſt thoſe long-liv'd ancients; how far ſoever they went, belongs little to us. The Deluge made a great chaſm betwixt us, and 'twould be hard for the livelieſt Eyes to pierce at ſuch diſtance through ſo much Water; let thoſe who fancy the two Pillars, in which all learning was engraven, the one of brick, the other of marble, to prevent the malice either of Fire Joſeph. lib. 1. cap. 4.

or Water, pleaſe themſelves with the Fable, and ſeem to have deduc'd all arts from Adam. Thus far 'tis agreed on, that in thoſe times every Father being both a Prieſt and a King in his own Family, beſtowed on his Son all knowledge both ſecular and ſacred which himſelf had attained to: Adam by tradition inſtructing Seth, and Seth Enoch in all knowledge as well as righteouſneſs. For 'tis Joſephus his obſervation, that whileſt Cain and his Progeny employed themſelves about wicked and illiberal inventions, groveling upon the Earth, Seth and his bore up their thoughts as well as Eyes towards Heaven, and obſerved the courſe and diſcipline of the Stars; wherein it was eaſy to be exquiſite, every mans age ſhewing him the ſeveral conjunctions and oppoſitions, and other appearances of the luminaries, and ſo needing no Succeſſors to perfect his obſervations. Hence Philo calls Abraham Ἀνδρὰ μετεωρολογικὸν, and ſays his knowledge in Aſtronomy led him to the notice of a Deity, and that his ſublime ſpeculation gave him the name of Abram a high exalted Father, before his Faith had given the better Compellation of Abraham, Father of many Nations: hence from him, 1. Chaldæa, 2. Ægypt, 3. Greece, came all to the skill they brag of; ſo that Proclus made a good conjecture, that the Wiſdom of the Chaldæans was, δόδοτον καὶ διοπαεῖδοτον, a gift of ſome of the gods, it coming from Abraham who was both a Friend, and in a manner an acquaintance of the true God, and far ancienter and wiſer than any of their falſe. In ſumm, all learning as well as religion was pure and claſſical only among the Hebrews, as may appear by Moſes in his ἑξάμερον, the only true natural Philoſophy that ever came into the World: ſo that even Longinus, which took the ſtory of the Creation to be a Fable, yet commends Moſes his expreſſion of it, Let there be light, and there was light] for a Speech admirably ſuited to a God; for the greateſt ὕψος or ſublimity that any Rhetorician could ſtrain for. And Demetrius Phalareus commends the Pentateuch to Ptolomy ὡς φιλοσοφώτερον καὶ ἀκριβέστερον, &c. as the moſt Philoſophical, accurate diſcourſe he had ever heard of. And if by chance any ſcraps or ſhreds of knowledge were ever ſcattered among the Gentiles, they certainly fell from the Chaldæans table: from whence in time the poor beggarly World gathered ſuch Baskets-ful, that they began to feed full, and be in good likeing, and take upon them to be richer than their Benefactors, and Athens at laſt begins to ſet up as the only Univerſity in the World. But 'tis Auſtins obſervation, that 'twas in reſpect of Chriſt, and for the propagation of the Church, that learning was ever ſuffered to travel out of Jewry: Chriſt was to be preached and received among the Gentiles, and therefore they muſt be civiliz'd before-hand, leſt ſuch holy things being caſt abruptly before ſwine, ſhould only have been trampled on: or as Moſes his Books falling among the Poets, have been only diſtorted into Fables, turned alſo into Prodigies, Metamorphoſes, and Mythical Divinity. Cum enim prophetæ, &c. Under Abraham and Moſes, whileſt the learning and the Sermons of the Prophets were for Iſraels uſe, the Heathen World was as ignorant as irreligious; but about Romulus his time, when the Prophecies of Chriſt which belonged alſo to the Gentiles, were no longer whiſpered, but proclaimed by the mouth of Hoſea, Amos, Iſaiah, Micah, and Jonas from the reign of Uzziah, to Hezekiah Kings of Judah, then alſo began learning to flouriſh abroad among the Nations, to dilate it ſelf over the World: Greece began to hearken after wiſdom, and brag of its σοφοὶ, Thales and the like, ut fontes divina & humanæ ſapientiæ pariter erupiſſe videantur. That then ſecular knowledge might dare to ſhed it ſelf among the Nations, when Chriſt began to be revealed, the expectation of the Gentiles. 'Twere an infinite diſcourſe to preſent unto you the like proceedings through all Ages, the continual marriages, the Combinations, and never any divorce betwixt Learning and Religion. The Fathers before mentioned are large in drawing it down to our hands in tables of collateral deſcent throughout all generations; and I hope the preſent ſtate of the World will ſufficiently avouch it. For what is all the beggarly skill of the Arabians in Phyſicks and the Mathematicks, all the Cabaliſms of the Jews; in ſumm, all the rather folly than wiſdom, that either Aſia, or Africa, pretend to? what hath all the World beſide that dare look a Chriſtian in the face? I doubt not but this corner of Europe where we live, may challenge and put to ſhame, nay upbraid the ignorance of the learneſt Mahometan, and be able to afford ſome Champions which ſhall grapple with the talleſt Giant, with the proudeſt Son of Anak that Italy can boaſt of. I will hope and pray, and again dare to hope, that as all Europe hath not more moderation and purity of Religion than this Kingdom, ſo it never had a more learned Clergy; never more incouragement for learning from Religion; never more advantages to religion from learning. But all this while we hover in the air, we keep upon the wing, and talk only καθ' ὅλα, at large and in Theſi: we muſt deſcend lower to the καθ' ἕκαστον and hypotheſis here; where heed is to be taken to the Phariſee, to the Doctor in my Text. The Diſciples were but Fiſhermen and Mechanicks, illiterate enough, and yet a word of theirs ſhall more ſway mine aſſent, and rule my faith, than the proudeſt dictates out of Moſes Chair. And thus indeed are we now adays ready to repoſe as much truſt in the Shop as in the Schools, and rely more on the authority of one Lay-Profeſſor, than the ſageſt Elders in theirs or our Iſrael. Learning is accounted but an oſtentatious complement of young Scholars, that will never bring the Paſtor or his Flock the nearer to the way toward Heaven. But to recal our judgments to a milder temper, we are to learn from Clemens, that although the Wiſdom of God, and Doctrine of the Goſpel be αὐτοτελὴς καὶ ἀπερρύτους, able to maintain, and fence, and authorize it ſelf, yet even Philoſophy and ſecular learning is of uſe, nay neceſſity to defeat the treacheries and ſophiſms, and ſtratagems of the Adverſary: And although the truth of Scripture be the bread we live on, the main ſtaff and ſtay of our ſubſiſtence; yet this exoterical learning, τὰ ἔξωθεν μαθήματα, as Sophronius calls them, this παιδεία of the Schools muſt be ſerved in ὡς παρεμβλήματα καὶ τραγήματα, as cates and dainties to make up the Banquet; nay they are not only for ſuperfluity, but ſolid and material uſes. 'Twas a cuſtom of old, ſaith Dionyſius Halic. to build Cities συνεχεῖς ἐπὶ τοῖς ὄρεσι, never far from ſome Hill, or Mountain, that beſide the natural ſtrength, the hold from the foundation, they may receive ſome ſecurity and ſafeguard from ſo ſtout and tall a Neighbour: thus will it ſtand us upon, ſo to build our Faith upon a Rock, that we may alſo have ſome ſhelter near us to fence and fortify our Fabrick, when the wind or tempeſt ſhall ariſe. Had not Peter indeed and the reſt at Chriſts call left their ignorance with their nets, and trades: had they not been made Scholars as well as Diſciples, all trades promiſcuouſly might juſtly have challenged and invaded the Pulpit, and no man denied to preach, that was able to believe. But you are to know that their calling was an inſpiration, they were furniſh't with gifts gifts as well as graces; and whatever other learning they wanted, ſure I am they were the greateſt Linguiſts in the World: Yea, the power and convincing force of argument, which the Heathen obſerved in Peter, made them get the Oracles to proclaim that he had learnt Magick from his Maſter. To drive the whole buſineſs to an iſſue in brief, take it in ſome few Propoſitions. Auguſt. de civ Dei, l. 18. c. 53.

Bell. Jud. l. 2. c. 4.

Euſeb. l. p. 206.

l. 1. p. 9.

1. There is not ſo great a dependence betwixt learning and religion in particular perſons, as we have obſerved to be in Ages and Countries: ſo that though plenty of knowledge be a ſymptom or judiciary ſign, that that Church where it flouriſhes is the true Church of God, yet it is no neceſſary argument, that that man where it in ſpecial reſides is the ſincereſt Chriſtian; for upon theſe terms is the wiſeſt man, the Scribe, the diſputer of the World, the loudeſt braggers of Jews or Grecians are found guilty of ſpiritual ignorance, 1 Cor. 1. as the laſt part of our Diſcourſe ſhall make evident.

2. Matters of Faith are not Ultimò reſolubilia in principia rationis, therefore not to be reſolved any farther than the Scriptures; they are not to beg authority from any other Science; for this is the true Metaphyſicks, ἀρχικωτάτη καὶ ἡγεμονικωτάτη, the miſtreſs and commandreſs of all other knowledges, which muſt perpetually do their homage to it, as Servants always to attend and confirm its Propoſals, never to contradict it, as Ariſtotle hath it, Met. 2. 2.

3. Though Faith depend not upon reaſon, though it ſubſiſt entirely upon its own bottom, and is then moſt purely Faith when it relies not on reaſon, and adheres wholly to the αὐτοπιστία of Gods word, yet doth the concurrence, and agreement, and evidence of reaſon add much to the clearneſs, and beauty, and ſplendor of it: takes away all fears and jealouſies, and ſuſpicious ſurmiſings out of the underſtanding, and beſtows a reſolution and conſtancy on it. For Faith, though in reſpect of its ground, Gods word, it be moſt infallible, yet in its own nature is, as the Philoſopher defines it, a kind of opinion, and in our humane frailty ſubject to demurs, and doubts, and panick terrors, for fear it be falſe grounded, and therefore Ariſtotle ſaith of it, that it differs from knowledge ὡς νοσώδης ὑγιοῦς, as a ſickly man from a ſtrong, 'tis very weak and aguiſh, ſubject to ſweats, and colds, and hourly diſtempers: whereas the evidence and aſſurance of ſenſe and reaſon added to it, beſtows a full health and ſtrength upon it, an ἀθλητικὴ ἕξις, a perfect ſtate that it ſhall never be forced or frighted out of. In brief, where reaſon gives its ſuffrage, it unvails Faith, and to adherence ſuper-adds evidence, and teaches us to feel, and touch, and handle what before we did believe; to gripe, and hold, and even poſſeſs what before we apprehended: and theſe are believers in a manner elevated above an Earthly condition, initiated to the ſtate which is all Viſion, where every thing is beheld γυμνὸν καὶ τετραχηλισμένον, naked and diſplay'd, as the entrals of a Creature cut down the back; or with open face beholding as in a glaſs, 2 Cor. iii. 28. Heb. iiii. 13. 2 Cor. iii. 28.

4. There be ſome difficulties in Religion at which an illiterate underſtanding will be ſtruck in a maze; ſome depths of myſtery where an Elephant can ſcarce tread Water, a Lamb muſt not hope to wade. Many above the apprehenſions of the moſt capacious brain, where reaſon being not able to expreſs, muſt be content to ſhadow, and deſcribe in ſome rude lines what it cannot perform in pourtraicture: and here, I ſay, learning, though it cannot reach, yet can heave up and point at; profit, though not perfect us, help us to ſome images and reſemblances, to conceive that which we cannot fully comprehend: ſo ſaith Philoponus, will Mathematical abſtractions facilitate the ſimplicity of Gods Eſſence to our underſtandings, the lucid nature of the Sun expreſs the brightneſs of his glory, and the myſterious numbers of the Pythagoreans, repreſent the Trinity to our phanſies. And thus doth Zoroaſtes in Patricius, Philoſophari de Deo, ſubdue, as it were, divinity to reaſon, and raiſe up reaſon to join iſſue with divinity, and by his πατρικὸς βύθος ἐν τρισὶ συγκείμενος τρισσῶν, that paternal depth made of three threes, compriſe all the ſecrets of the Godhead. But beſides theſe ſecrets of the upper Cabinet, theſe ſupernatural depths, there are others ſecundæ altitudinis, and as Halicar. calls thoſe which are above the reach of all but Philoſophers, φυσικὰ θαύματα, and Ariſtotle θαυμαζόμενα κατὰ φύσιν, natural miracles, which none but Scholars can attain to. And theſe I hope ſhall never be diſcuſt upon a Shop-board, or enter into any brain that is not before well ballaſt with weight and ſubſtance at the bottom: I need not name them to you, you may know them by this, that when they come into an empty brain, they breed Winds, and turn all into vertigoes and dizzineſs. There be yet farther lights of a third magnitude, which yet every one hath not Eyes to gaze on, and of this condition are almoſt all the ſpeculations in divinity; nay the ordinarieſt truth in a Catechiſm can ſcarce be forced into a vulgar underſtanding; his brain is not ſet that way, and many of our ſubtileſt Worldlings have miſtaken the Virgin Mary for an Angel, and the Apoſtles Creed, where only they find mention of her, for a prayer: and then you cannot imagine what ſtead a little learning would ſtand theſe men in, what even Miracles 'twould work upon them. l. 1. p. 11.

5. 'Tis but neceſſity and exigence of nature that thoſe which are the weak ſhould apply themſelves for help and directions to thoſe that are ſtronger; the Child in a Cradle muſt be put to a Nurſe, which may give it ſuck till it be able to eat, and for a while bear it in her arms, that it may be taught to go. There be in nature, ſaith Ariſtotle in his Mechan. many wants; ſhe performs not all our needs, and therefore Engines were invented to ſupply defects. Thus is Art a Machina or invention, πρὸς τὰς τοιαύτας ἀπορίας βοηθῶν μήτηρ, to furniſh us with thoſe abilities which nature was a niggard in: and therefore to deprive our ſelves of this guidance when it is offered, is μονόφθαλμον τυφλῶν, to put out an eye of his, that hath but one in all, which was of old a great aggravation to the injury in the Rhetor. indeed to leave our ſelves deſperately blind. Περὶ πυθαγορείων ἀνεὺ φωτὸς μὴ λάλει, in Iambl. In matters of Religion we muſt not ſo much as ſpeak, nay, not think without a Candle, we ſhall want the guidance of ſome Teacher to direct every ſuch word out of our mouths or thought into our hearts. An ignorant man muſt not have leave ſo much as to meditate on God without a guide; for he is mad, ſay the Philoſophers, and then every thought of his will be a kind of delirium or phrenzy. 'Tis the law of nature, ſaith the Hiſtorian, ἄρχειν ἀπλῶν τοὺς κρείττονας, that ſuperiours ſhould have a kind of ſovereignty over all that are inferiour to them, a magiſterium and command over them, to rule and order them; and this ſuperiority and ſovereignty hath the learned Paſtor, or generally the Scholar over all ignorant men, be they never ſo rich or potent; and whoſoever denies or ſcorns thus to obey, I ſay not, is to be ſlain (as the Law was in the ancient Wars) ἀκέντος, without an aſſizes; but to be con- Ariſt. Rhet. l. 1. c. 7. Clem. p. 56. Dion. Hal. l. 1. p. 6. Ibid. p. 533.

demned of much peeviſhneſs and more ſtupidity, and his puniſhment is, Let him fall into his own hands, i. e. be ruled by a fool or mad man.

6. Much of the ſpeculative part of Religion may be had from a Phariſee as well as a Diſciple. Chriſt himſelf bears witneſs of him, that he was Orthodox in matters concerning the Law: They ſit in Moſes Chair, and therefore whatſoever they bid you, that obſerve and do, Mat. xxiii. 3. They err indeed in preſcribing their additions to duty, as divine command, but the chief obliquity was in their lives: they were Hereticks, nay Apoſtates from their Doctrine, and therefore do not after their works, for they ſay and do not, verſe 4. If I am reſolved of ſuch a mans abilities in learning, but ſee him a ſcandalous Liver, I will borrow of his gifts, and pray God to encreaſe his graces. In matters of ſpiritual joy and ſorrow, I will, if I can, be counſelled by an heart which once was broken, that I may ſee how he recovered, and repair my breaches by a pattern; and yet even theſe things may be learnt from him which never had them, but in his ſpeculation; as the Phyſician may cure a Diſeaſe, though himſelf was never ſick of it. But for the ordinary Theories of Religion, I will have patience to receive inſtructions from any one, and not examine his practices, but in modeſty, and in ſubmiſſion, and humility receive the Law at his mouth. But all this with caution, ὡς ἀγεμόνι ἀκροατὴς, as to a guide not a Monarch of my Faith; rule he ſhall my belief, but not tyrannize over it. I will aſſent to my teacher till I can diſprove him, but adhere, and anchor, and fix my ſelf on the Scripture.

7. In matters of ſuperſtruction, where Scripture lays the foundation, but interpreters, i. e. private ſpirits build upon it, ſome gold, ſome ſtubble, &c. and I cannot judge or diſcern which is firmlieſt rooted on the foundation; I will take the Philoſophers Counſel in the firſt of his Rhetor. and obſerve either τὰ πάλαια or πρώτατα, be guided either by the ancienteſt, if they have ſhewed themſelves in the cauſe, or elſe men alive, which be beſt reputed of for integrity and judgment: I ſhall ſcarce truſt the honeſteſt man you can commend to me, unleſs I have ſome knowledge of his parts; nor the learned'ſt you can cry up, unleſs I can believe ſomewhat in his ſincerity.

8. All the contradictions and new ways of my own brain, oppoſite or wide from the current of the learned, I muſt ſuſpect for a work of my own phanſie, not entitle them to Gods ſpirit in me. Verebar omnia opera mea, ſaith Job, whatever a man can call his own, he muſt be very cautious and jealous over it. For 'tis no leſs than atheiſm which the ſcorners of the laſt age are to fall upon by walking after their own luſts, 2 Pet. iii. 3. And thus was the Phariſees practice here, who makes uſe of his own authority to deny Chriſt; 'twas the Phariſees that ſaid, Have any of the Phariſees believed on him? There is not a more dangerous Mother of Hereſies in the midſt of Piety, than this one, that our phanſy firſt aſſures us that we have the ſpirit, and then that every phanſie of ours is Theopneuſt, the work of the ſpirit. There are a multitude of deceits got altogether here; 1. We make every idle perſwaſion of our own the evidence of Gods Spirit, then we join infallibility to the perſon, being confident of the gift; then we make every breath of our Noſtrils, and flame that can break out of our hearts an immediate effect of the ſpirit and fire which hath ſpiritually enlivened us, and then we are ſure it is authentical; and all this while we never examine either the ground or deductions from it, but take all upon truſt from that everlaſting deceiver our own heart, which we ought to ſit upon and judge of by proofs and witneſſes, by comparing it with other mens dictates, probably as godly, perhaps more learned, but certainly more impartial Judges of thee, than thou canſt be of thy ſelf.

Laſtly, If the word of God ſpeak diſtinctly and clearly, enforce, as here by miracles done before, all men to their aſtoniſhment and redargution, then will I not ſtay my belief to wait on or follow the learneſt man in the world: when Chriſt himſelf ſpeaks to my Eyes, the proudeſt, eminenteſt Phariſee in Earth or Hell, nay if any of their Sect have crowded into Heaven, ſhall not be able to charm my Ear, or lay any clog upon my underſtanding. So that you ſee the Phariſees argument in that caſe was ſophiſtical, (the matter being ſo plain to them that they needed no advice, His works bore witneſs of him, John v. 36.) yet in the general it holds probable, and learning remains a good guide ſtill, though an ill Maſter in matters of Religion, ὅπερ ἦν δεῖξαι, the firſt thing we undertook to demonſtrate.

And this we ſhould draw down yet lower to our practice, and that variouſly, but that almoſt every Propoſition inſiſted on, hath in part ſpoken to your affections, and ſo prevented ſtore of uſes. This only muſt not be omitted; For Scholars, to learn to ſet a value on their precious bleſſing which God hath vouchſafed them above all the World beſide; to bleſs God infinitely that they underſtand and conceive what they are commanded to believe: this I am ſure of, there is not a greater and more bleſſed priviledge, beſides Gods ſpirit, which our humane condition is capable of, than this of learning, and ſpecially divine knowledge, of which Ariſtotle himſelf witneſſeth, ἀμείνων δὲ ἀρετὴ, none is better than it. As long as we have no evidence or demonſtration from that (which yet it moſt nearly concerns us to rely upon) we cannot enjoy without an immediate ſupernatural irradiation, a tranquillity and conſiſtency of ſpirit, we cannot peremptorily have reſolved our ſelves that we have built upon the rock: every temptation proves a diſcouragement to us, many horrours take hold of us, and ſometimes we muſt needs fall to that low ebb, not far from deſpair, which the Apoſtles were in, Luke xxiv. 22. We had truſted, but now we know not what to think of it, that this was he that ſhould have redeemed Iſrael. But to ſee all the Articles of my Faith ratified and confirmed to my underſtanding, to ſee the greateſt treaſure and inheritance in the World, ſealed and delivered to me in my hand, written in a Character and Language that I am perfectly skilled in; O what a comfort is this to a Chriſtian Soul! O what a fulneſs of joy, to have all the myſteries of my Salvation tranſcribed out of the Book of the Lord, and written in my heart, where I can turn and ſurvey, and make uſe of them, as much and as often as I will! Nay, where I have them without Book, though there were neither Father nor Bible in the World, able out of my own ſtock to give an account, nay, a reaſon of my faith before the perverſeſt Papiſt, Heathen or Devil. This ſerves me inſtead of having lived, and converſed, and been acquainted with Chriſt. By this I have my fingers put into the print of the nails, and my hands thruſt into his ſide, and am as ſure as ever Thomas was; I ſee him as palpably as he that handled him, that he is my Lord and my God.

'Twas

'Twas obſerved by the Philoſopher as an * act generally practiſed among Tyrants, to prohibit all Schools and means of learning and education in the Commonwealth, μήτε σχολὰς, μήτε συλλόγους σχολαστικοὺς, to ſuffer neither learning, nor Schools, nor common meetings, that men being kept blind might be ſure to obey, and tyrannical commands through ignorance be miſtaken for fair Government. And thus did Julian interdict the Chriſtians all manner of literature, and chiefly Philoſophy, for fear, ſaith Nazianzen, they ſhould be able to grapple with the Heathen, and cut off Goliah's Head with his own Weapon. The continuance of theſe arts of ſpiritual Tyranny, you may obſerve in the preſcribed ſtupidity and commanded ignorance of the laity through all Italy. All which muſt call for a ſuperlative meaſure of thanks, to be expreſt, not in our tongues and hearts only, but in our lives and actions; from us I ſay, who have obtained not only a knowledge of his laws, but almoſt a Viſion of his ſecrets, and for as much as concerns our eternal bliſs, do even ſee things as they were acted, having already comprehended in our reaſon, (not only in our Faith) the moſt impoſſible things in nature; the breadth, and length, and depth and height of the conceived, incarnate, and crucified God: and if all that, will not ſerve our turn, but we muſt preſs into his Cabinet-ſecrets, invade the Book of Life, and overſee, and divulge to all men abſcondita Domini Dei noſtri, then are Gods mercies unworthily repaid by us, and thoſe indulgences which were to beſtow civility upon the World, have only taught us to be more rude. In ſumm, the realleſt thanks we can perform to God for this ineſtimable prize, is modeſtly and ſoftly to make uſe of it, 1. To the confirming of others Faith, and 2. to the expreſſing of our own. For 1. he is the deepeſt Scholar, ſaith the Philoſopher, who is διδασκαλικώτερος, beſt able to teach other men what himſelf conceives: and then 2. he hath the habit moſt radicated, who hath preſt it down into his heart, and there ſow'd a Seed which ſhall encreaſe and fructify, and ſpread, and flouriſh, laden with the fruits of a lively Faith. He is the trueſt Scholar that hath fed upon learning, that hath nouriſhed and grown, and walked, and lived in the ſtrength of it. And till I ſee you thrive and beſtir your ſelves like Chriſtians, I ſhall never envy your learning: the Phariſees were great Scholars, well ſeen in the Prophets, and 'tis much to be ſuſpected, could not chooſe but find Chriſt there, and acknowledge him by his Miracles; they ſaw him plain enough, and yet not a man would believe on him; My ſecond part, The greateſt Scholars are not always the beſt Chriſtians.

* ſ. art.

σημεῖον ἀσθενοῦς τοῦ λογικοῦ διδασκαλικοῦ.

'Tis obſervable in the temper of men, that the cowardly are moſt inquiſitive, their fears and jealouſies make them very careful to foreſee any danger, and yet for the moſt part, they have not ſpirit enough to encounter, and they are ſo ſtupid and ſluggiſh, that they will not get out of its way when they have foreſeen it: the ſame baſeneſs and timorouſneſs makes them a ſort of men moſt diligent at a diſtance to avoid, and near hand moſt negligent to prevent. Thus in Dan. iv. 5. Nebuchadnezzar dreams and is affrighted, and a Proclamation is made for all the Wiſdom of the World to come in and conſult and ſit upon it, and give their verdict for the interpretation of the Dream; and when he had at laſt got the knowledge of it by Daniel, that his fears were not in vain, that the greateſt judgment that ever was heard of, was within a twelve Month to fall on him, then, as though he had been a Beaſt before his time, without all underſtanding, he goes and crowns himſelf for his ſlaughter. Juſt when, according to the Prophecy, he was to ſuffer, then was he walking in his pride; whileſt he was ignorant, he was ſenſible of his danger, and now he ſees it before his Eyes, he is moſt prodigiouſly blind. At the end of twelve months, when his ruine was at hand, ver. 29. he walked in the Palace of the Kingdom of Babylon, and the King ſpake and ſaid, Is not this great Babylon that I have built, &c. In brief, he that was moſt earneſt to underſtand the Dream, is moſt negligent of the event of it, and makes no other uſe of his knowledge of God's Will, but only more knowingly and wilfully to contemn it. And this generally is the ſtate of corrupt nature, to keep a diſtance and a bay betwixt our knowledge and our wills, and when a truth hath fully conquer'd and got poſſeſſion of our underſtanding, then to begin to fortify moſt ſtrongly, that the other Caſtle of the Soul, the affections may yet remain impregnable. Thus will the Devil be content to have the Out-works and the Watch-Tower taken, ſo he may be ſure to keep his treaſure within from danger: and will give us leave to be as great Scholars as himſelf, ſo we will continue as prophane. And ſo we are like enough to do for all our knowledge: for Wiſdom, ſaith Ariſtotle, is terminated in it ſelf, ἀθεμίτως γὰρ ἔχει γνώσεως, it neither looks after, nor produces any practical good, ſaith Andronicus, ἃ γὰρ τέλος ἔχει πρακτὸν ἀγαθὸν, nay there is no dependence betwixt knowing and doing: as he that hath read and ſtudied the ἀθλητικὰ, may perhaps be never the better Wraſtler, nor the ſkilfulleſt Phyſician the more healthy: experience and tryal muſt perfect the one, and a good temperature conſtitute the other. A young man may be a good Naturaliſt, a good Geometer, nay a wiſe man, becauſe he may underſtand θαυμαστὰ, χαλεπὰ, δαιμόνια, wonders, depths, nay Divine matters, but hee'l never be φρόνιμος, prudent or actually vertuous, i. e. a good Moraliſt: τὰ μὲν ἃ πεπόνασιν ὅτι τοιοῦ, ἀλλὰ λέγουσιν, moral precepts they cannot be ſaid to believe, they have not entred ſo far, they float only in their memories, they have them by heart, they ſay them over by rote, as Children do their Catechiſm, or Plato's Scholars (ſaith Plutarch) his depths of Philoſophy: they now recite them only, and ſhall then underſtand them, when they come of Age, when they are ſtayed enough to look into the meaning of them, and make uſe of them in their practice. The Mathematicks, ſaith Ariſtotle, have nothing to do with the end or chief good that men look after: never any man brought good or bad, better or worſe, into a demonſtration; there's no conſultation or election there, only plain downright diagrams, neceſſary convictions of the underſtanding. And therefore for theſe meer ſpeculations, which hover only in the brain, the youngeſt Wit is nimbleſt; for δεινότης, ſharpneſs of apprehenſion, is a ſprightfulneſs of the mind, and is there livelieſt, where there be moſt ſpirits: but prudence and active vertue requires an habituate temper of paſſions, a ſtayedneſs of the mind, and long tryal and experience of its own ſtrength, a conſtancy to continue in vertue, in ſpight of all foreign alluremens or inward diſtempers. And the ground of all this is, that thoſe things that moſt incumber the Will and keep us from practice, do nothing clog or ſtop the underſtanding; ſenſuality or pleaſure hinders us not from knowing τὶ τὸ τρίγωνον, &c. that a Triangle hath three angles equal to two right ones, and the like. Nay the moſt inſolent tyrannizing paſſions which domineer over us, which keep us in awe, and never ſuffer us to ſtir, or φυσικὴ ἕξις τῆς δεινότητος τῆς ψυχῆς. Ethic. 6. 13.

2 Met. 2.

Ethic. 6. 5.

or move, or walk, or do any thing that is good, will yet give us leave to underſtand as much as we would wiſh; they have only fettered our hands and feet, have not blinded our Eyes; as one ſhut up in the Tower from the converſation of men, may be yet the greateſt proficient in ſpeculation; The affections being more groſs and corporeous (from thence called the heels of the Soul) and ſo eaſily chained and fettered; but the underſtanding moſt pure and ſpiritual, and therefore uncapable of ſhackles: nay, is many times moſt free and active, when the will is moſt dead and ſluggiſh. And this may be the natural reaſon that even Ariſtotle may teach us, why the greateſt Scholars, are not always the beſt Chriſtians: the Phariſees well read in the Prophets, yet backwardeſt to believe, becauſe faith which conſtitutes a Chriſtian, is a ſpiritual prudence, as 'tis beſt defined, and therefore is not appropriate to the underſtanding: but if they be ſeveral faculties, is rather ſeated in the Will; the objects of Faith being not meerly ſpeculative, but always apprehended and aſſented to, ſub ratione boni, as being the moſt unvaluable bleſſings which ever we deſired of the Lord, or can require. The ſpeculative part of divine wiſdom may make us Δαίμονας, intelligent ſpirits, nay poſſibly do it in the worſt notion, render us Devils. Real practical knowledge, only prudence, will make Angels, miniſtring ſpirits unto God, teach us to live and be better than we did. So then, in the firſt place, learning doth neither make nor ſuppoſe men Chriſtians: Nay ſecondly, it doth per accidens many times hinder, put a rub in our way, and keep us from being Chriſtians. Philoponus and Syneſius (Miracles of learning) were therefore hardeſt to be converted, they were ſo poſſeſt and engaged in Peripatetical Philoſophy; that however they might be perſwaded to the Trinity, they will not believe the Reſurrection. 'Twas too plain a contradiction to philoſophical reaſon, ever to enter theirs.

πίστις, &c. Ethic. 6. 7.

1 Cor. i. 21. Thus in the 1 Cor. i. 21. the World by wiſdom knew not God: they ſo relyed on their reaſon, and truſted in it for all truths, that they concluded every thing impoſſible, that would not concur with their old Principles. But this reſiſtance which reaſon makes, is not ſo ſtrong, but that it may eaſily be ſuppreſt; and therefore Syneſius was made a Biſhop, before he explicitly believed the reſurrection, becauſe they were confident, that he which had forſaken all other errors, would not long continue perverſe in this, and ſo good a Chriſtian in other things, ἂν ἂν οὐκ ἀλλαμφθεὶς, could not chooſe but be illuminated in time, in ſo neceſſary a point of Faith: and indeed ſo it happened in them both.

But there are other more dangerous engins, more inſidious courſes which learning uſes to ſupplant or undermine belief; other ſtratagems to keep us out of the way, to anticipate all our deſires or inclinations, or thoughts that way-ward: and theſe are ſpiritual pride, and ſelf-content. Men are ſo elevated in height of contemplation, ſo well pleaſed, ſo fully ſatisfied in the pleaſures and delights of it, that the firſt ſort ſcorn to ſubmit or humble themſelves to the poverty and diſparagement of believing in Chriſt; the ſecond are never at leaſure to think of it. For the firſt, ſpiritual pride, 'tis ſet down as a reaſon that the natural man receives not the things of the ſpirit, 1 Cor. ii. 14. receives them not, i. e. will not take them, will not accept of them, though they are freely given him; for they are fooliſhneſs unto him, i. e. ſo his proud brain reputes them. The pride of Worldly wiſdom extremely ſcorns the fooliſhneſs of Chriſt, and conſequently, is infinitely oppoſite to Faith, which is wrought by ſpecial humility.

Secondly, for ſelf-content: σοφοὶ μὲ δεῖνται φίλων, ſaith Heraclitus in Heſych. Wiſe men need no friends, they are able to ſubſiſt by themſelves without any help: they will have an happineſs of their own making, and ſcorn to be beholding to Chriſt for a new Inheritance, they are already ſo fully poſſeſt of all manner of contents. Let any man whiſper them of the joys of the new Jeruſalem, of the Interceſſor that hath ſaved, of the way thither and made it paſſable, of all the priviledges and promiſes of our adoption, they will hear them ὡσεὶ λῆρος, as old wives fables; they have the fortunate Iſlands too, their exacteſt tranquillity and ſerenity of mind in a perpetual contemplation, and all the golden Apples in Paradiſe ſhall not tempt or allarm them out of it. 'Tis ſtrange to ſee when ſuch a man is called, what a do there is to get him out of his Dream, to hale him out of his ſtudy to the Church, how ſleepy, and drowſy, and lethargical he is, in matters of Religion: how ſoon a little devotion hath tired him out, that could have pored over a Book inceſſantly all his life long, and never thought thus to have been interdicted the delights of humane learning, thus to have been pluckt and torn from the embraces of his Athenian Idol. His converſion is much unlike another mans: that which calls others into compaſs, ſeems to let him looſe, thruſt him abroad into the World, teaches him to look more like a man than ever he meant, makes him a member of the Common-wealth, that was formerly but an Anchoret, and forces him to walk and run the way of Gods commandments, that had once decreed himſelf to a Chair for ever. In brief, there is as little hopes of one that indulges himſelf, and gives himſelf up to the pride and contents of any kind of learning, of him that terminates knowledge either in it ſelf, or elſe in the oſtentation of it, as of any other that is captiv'd to any one ſingle worldly or fleſhly kind of voluptuouſneſs. This of the brain, in ſpight of the Philoſopher, is an intemperance, as well as that of the throat and palate, and more dangerous, becauſe leſs ſuſpected, and ſeldomer declaimed againſt; and from this Epicuriſm, eſpecially of the Soul, good Lord deliver us.

Not to heap up reaſons of this too manifeſt a truth, (would God it were not ſo undeniable) take but this one more, of the unſufficiency of learning never ſo well uſed, to make a man a Chriſtian. Let all the knowledge in the World, prophane and ſacred, all the force and reaſon that all Ages ever bragg'd of, let it concur in one brain, and ſwell the head as big as his was in the Poem that travell'd of Minerva: let all Scriptures and Fathers join their power and efficacy, and they ſhall never by their ſimple activity produce a ſaving faith in any one; all the miracles they can work, are only on the underſtanding, the will diſtinctly taken, is above their ſphear or compaſs: or if their faculties are not diſtinguiſht, and to will is preſent with me, Rom. vii. 18. as well as to underſtand; yet they can produce only an abſolute ſimple general will, that is, an aſſent and approbation of the abſolute goodneſs of the thing propoſed, not a reſolute will to abandon all other Worldly purpoſes to perform that which I will. Knowledge and right apprehenſion of things may convince me firſt of the Hiſtory, that all that is ſpoken of, or by Chriſt, is true, and then, of the expedience to apply all his merits to my Soul; but when I ſee, all this cannot be done without paying a price, without undoing my ſelf, without pawning all that I have, my learning, my wealth, my delights, my whole worldly being, without self-denial, then the general aſſent, that abſolute will, is grown chill and dead; we are ſtill (whatever we believe) but Infidels; all the Articles of the Creed thus aſſented to, are not enough to make us Chriſtians. So that the iſſue of all is, all knowledge in the World cannot make us deny our ſelves, and therefore all knowledge in the World, is not able to produce belief; only the ſpirit muſt breath this power into us, of breathing out our ſelves, he muſt preſs our Breaſts, and ſtifle, and ſtrangle us; we muſt give up the natural ghoſt, he muſt force out our Earthly Breath out of our Earthly Bodies, or elſe we ſhall not be enlivened by his ſpiritual. Thus have you reaſons of the common divorce betwixt knowledge and faith, * i.e. the no manner of dependence betwixt them in nature. Secondly, the open reſiſtence in ſome points betwixt reaſon and Scripture. Thirdly, the more ſecret reluctancies betwixt the pride and contents of learning and the ſpirit. And laſtly, the inſufficiency of all natural knowledge, and tranſcendency of ſpiritual, ſo that he cannot know them, becauſe they are ſpiritually diſcerned. I ſhould now in very charity releaſe you, but that there is one word behind of moſt important neceſſity to a Sermon, and that is of Application.

without

* f. firſt.

That laying to our hearts the important documents of the Text, our righteouſneſs and faith may exceed that of the Phariſees, Mat. v. 20. our preaching and walking may be like that of Chriſts, in power, and as having authority, and not as the Scribes, Mat. vii. 29. and we not content with a floating knowledge in the Brain, do preſs and ſink it down into our inferiour faculties, our ſenſes and affections, till it ariſe in a full Harveſt of fruitful, diligently working Faith. It was Zenophanes his phanſy, ὅλον ὁρᾶν θεὸν, and that God was all Eyes and all Ears, but breathed not, there was no uſe of that in him; and ſo is it with us, who are always exerciſing our knowledge, powers to ſee and hear what e're is poſſible; but for any breath of life in us, any motion of the ſpirit, we have no uſe of it: it is not worth valuing or taking notice of, nothing ſo vulgar and contemptible in them that have it, nothing of which we examine our ſelves ſo ſlightly, of which we are ſo eaſily miſtaken, ſo willingly deceived, and nothing that we will be content to have ſo ſmall a meaſure of. A little of it ſoon tires us out, 'tis too thin aery diet for us to live upon, we cannot hold out long on it; like the Iſraelites, ſoon ſatiated with their bread from Heaven, nothing comparable to their old food that Nilus yielded them, Numb. xi. 5. We remember the fiſh that we did eat in Egypt, but now our Soul is dryed away, there is nothing but this Manna before our Eyes, as if that were not worth the gathering.

Pythagoras could ſay, that if any one were to be choſen to pray for the people, to be made a Prieſt, he muſt be a vertuous man, ὡς θεῶν τύτοις προσεχόντων, in Iamblichus, becauſe the Gods would take more heed to his words: and again, that many things might be permitted the people, which ſhould be interdicted preachers. It was the confirmation of his precepts by his life, and practice, σύμφωνος βίος, that made Italy, μέγας Ἕλλας, all the Country his School, and all that ever heard him his Diſciples. Nothing will give ſuch authority to our Doctrine, or ſet ſuch a value on our calling, as a religious Converſation. He that takes ſuch a Journey, as that into Holy Orders, muſt go on, ἀμεταστατὶ according to his 15. Symbolum, muſt not return to his former ſins as well as trade, ſaith Iamblichus: the falling into one of our youthful Vices, is truly a diſordering of our ſelves, and a kind of plucking our hands from the Plow. A Phyſician, ſaith Hippocrates, muſt have colour and be in fleſh, εὐχρὼς τε καὶ εὐσαρκος, of a good promiſing healthy complexion, and then men will gueſs him a man of skill, otherwiſe the patient will bid the Phyſician heal himſelf, and having by his ill look a prejudice againſt his Phyſick, his phanſy will much hinder its working. You need no application; He again will tell you, that the profeſſion ſuffers not ſo much by any thing as by raſh cenſures, and unworthy Profeſſors. In brief, our very knowledge will be ſet at nought, and our gifts ſcoffed at, if our lives do not demonſtrate that we are Chriſtians as well as Scholars. No man will be much more godly for hearing Seneca talk of Providence, nor be affected with bare words, unleſs he ſee them armed and backt with power of him that utters them. Conſider but this one thing, and withal, that my Doctrine is become a Proverb, and he is a proud man that can firſt draw it upon a Scholar, his learning and his clergy make him never the more religious. O let our whole care and carriage, and the deareſt of our endeavours, ſtrive and prevail to croſs the Proverb, and ſtop the mouth of the raſheſt declamer. That Comedy of Ariſtophanes took beſt, which was all ſpent in laughing at Socrates, and in him involved and abuſed the whole condition of learning; though through Alcibiades his Faction it miſcarried and miſt its applauſe once or twice, yet when men were left to their humour, 'twas admired and cried up extremely. Learning hath ſtill ſome honourable Favourers which keep others in awe with their Countenance; but otherwiſe, nothing more agreeable to the people, than Comedies or Satyrs, or Sarcaſms dealt out againſt the Univerſities: let us be ſure that we act no parts in them our ſelves, nor perform them before they are acted. Let us endeavour that theirs may be only pronunciations, a ſtory of our faults as preſented in a Scene, but never truly grounded in any of our actions. One wo we are ſecure and ſafe from, Wo be to you when all men ſhall ſpeak well of you] we have many good Friends that will not let this Curſe light on us. O let us deliver our ſelves from that Catalogue of woes which were all denounced againſt the Phariſees for many Vices, all contained in this accompliſht piece, They ſay but do not, Mat. xxiii. 4. And ſeeing all our intellectual excellencies cannot allure, or bribe, or woo Gods ſpirit to overſhadow us, and conceive Chriſt, and bring forth true and ſaving Faith in us; let all the reſt of our ſtudies be ordered in a new courſe; let us change both our method and our Tutor, and having hitherto learnt God from our ſelves, let us be better adviſed, and learn our ſelves from God. Let us all ſtudy all learning from the Spring or Fountain, and make him our inſtructer, who is the only Author worth our underſtanding, and admit of no Interpreter on him but himſelf. The knowledge of God ſhall be our Viſion in Heaven, O let it be our ſpeculation on Earth. Let it fill every conceit or phanſie that we at any time adventure on. It is πάσης πραγματείας τελεσιούργημα, the laſt work in which all the promiſes, all our poſſible deſigns are accompliſhed: O let us in part anticipate that final revelation of him, leſt ſo ſudden and ſo full a brightneſs of glory be too excellent for the Eyes of a Saint: and labour to comprehend here, where the whole comfort of our life is, what we ſhall then poſſeſs.

Vit. Pyth. p. 61.
p. 107.
p. 164.
p. 157.
περίλαι.
Luke vi. 26.

And

* f. wracking. And if all the ſtretches, and * cracking, and torturing of our Souls will prevail, the diſſolving of all our ſpirits, nay, the ſighing out of our laſt breath will do any thing, let us join all this, even that God hath given us, in this real ſervice to our ſelves, and expire whilſt we are about it, in praying, and beſeeching, and importuning, and offering violence to that bleſſed ſpirit, that he will fully enlighten and enflame us here with zeal as well as knowledge; that he will fill us with his grace here, and accompliſh us with his glory hereafter.

Now to him that hath elected us, hath created us, and redeemed us, &c.

SER-

SERMON XI.

MATTH. X. 15.

It ſhall be more tolerable for the land of Sodom and Gomorrha in the day of judgment, than for that City.

THE whole new Covenant conſiſts of theſe two words, Chriſt and Faith; Chriſt beſtowed on Gods part, Faith required on ours; Chriſt the matter, Faith the condition of the Covenant. Now to bring or preſent this Faith before you, as an object for your underſtandings to gaze at; or to go farther to diſſect (and with the diligence of Anatomy inſtruct) in every limb, or joynt, or excellency of it; were but to recal you to your Catechiſm, and to take pains to inform you in that which you are preſum'd to know. The greater danger of us is, that we are behind in our practice, that we know what Faith is, but do not labour for it; and therefore the ſeaſonableſt work will be on our affections to produce, if it were poſſible, this pretious vertue in our ſouls, and to ſink and preſs down that floating knowledge which is in moſt of our brains, into a ſolid weighty effectual Faith, that it may begin to be ἔργον πίστεως, a work of faith, which was formerly but a phanſie, dream and apparition. To this purpoſe to work on your wills, no Rhetorick ſo likely, as that which is moſt ſharp and terrible, no ſuch Phyſick for dead affections as Corroſives, the conſideration of the diſmal, hideous, deſperate eſtate of infidels here in my Text; and that, both in reſpect of the guilt of the ſin, and degree of the puniſhment, proportioned to it, and that above all other ſinners in the World, It ſhall be more, &c. Where you may briefly obſerve, 1. the ſin of infidelity, ſet down by its ſubject, that City which would not receive Chriſt being preach't unto it, v. 14. 2. the greatneſs of this ſin, expreſt by the puniſhment attending it; and that, either poſitively, it ſhall go very ſore with it, and therefore it is to be eſteemed a very great ſin, implyed in the whole Text; or elſe comparatively, being weighed with Sodom and Gomorrha in judgment, it ſhall be more tolerable for them than it: and therefore 'tis not only a great ſin, but the greateſt, the moſt damning ſin in the world. And of theſe in order plainly, and to your hearts rather than your brains, preſuming that you are now come with ſolemn ſerious thoughts to be edified not inſtructed, much leſs pleaſed or humor'd. And firſt of the firſt: The ſin of infidelity, noted in the laſt words, that City.

To paſs by thoſe, which we cannot chooſe but meet with, 1. a multitude of ignorant Infidels, Pagans and Heathens; 2. of knowing, but not acknowledging Infidels, as Turks and Jews; We ſhall meet with another order of as great a latitude, which will more nearly concern us; a world of believing Infidels, which know and acknowledge Chriſt, the Goſpel and the promiſes, are as fairly mounted in the underſtanding part as you would wiſh, but yet refuſe and deny him in their hearts, apply not a Command to themſelves, ſubmit not to him, nor deſire to make themſelves capable of thoſe mercies, which they ſee offered by Chriſt * in the World; and theſe are diſtinctly ſet down in the verſe next before my Text, Whoſoever ſhall not receive you, i. e. entertain the acceptable truth of Chriſt, and the Goſpel preached by you, as 'tis interpreted by the 40. verſe, He that receiveth you, receiveth me, i. e. believes on me, as the word is moſt plainly uſed, Mat. xi. 14. If you will receive it, i. e. if you will believe it, this is Elias which was for to come. And John i. 12. To as many as received him, even to them that believe in his name. For you are to know, that Faith truly juſtifying, is nothing in the World, but the receiving of Chriſt. Chriſt and his ſufferings and full ſatisfaction was once on the Croſs tender'd, and is ever ſince by the Goſpel and its Miniſters offered to the world: and nothing required of us, but an hand and an heart to apprehend and receive: and to as many as received him, he gives power to become the ſons of God, John i. 12. So that Faith and Infidelity are not acts properly determined to the underſtanding, but indeed to the whole Soul, and moſt diſtinctly to the Will, whole part it is to receive or repel, to entertain or reſiſt Chriſt and his promiſes, the Author and Finiſher of our ſalvation. Now this receiving of Chriſt, is the taking or accepting of the righteouſneſs of Chriſt, and ſo making it our own, as Rom. i. 17. being rightly weighed, will enforce. Read and mark, Δικαιοσύνη γὰρ θεοῦ ἐν αὐτῷ ἀποκαλύπτεται ἐκ πίστεως εἰς πίστιν, thus, ἐν αὐτῷ, in it, or by it, the Goſpel mentioned in the former verſe δικαιοσύνη θεοῦ ἐκ πίστεως the righteouſneſs of God by Faith, as Rom. iii. 22. i. e. the not legal but Evangelical righteouſneſs, which only God accepts, directly ſet down Phil. iii. 9. That righteouſneſs which is through Faith of Chriſt, the righteouſneſs which is of God by Faith; ἀποκαλύπτεται εἰς πίστιν, is revealed to Faith, is declared that we might believe; that finding no life or righteouſneſs in our ſelves, we may go out of our ſelves, and lay hold on that which is offered us by Chriſt: and this you will find to be the cleareſt meaning of theſe words, though ſomewhat obſcured in our Engliſh reading of them. Now the accepting of this righteouſneſs, is an act of ours, following a propoſal or offer of Chriſt's, and conſummating the match or bargain between Chriſt and us. Chriſt is offered to us as an Husband in the Goſpel, we enquire of him, obſerve our own needs, and his excellencies and riches to ſupply them, our ſins and his righteouſneſs; and if upon advice we will take him, the match is ſtruck, we are our beloved's, and our beloved is ours; we are man and wife, we have taken him for our husband, and with him are entituled to all his riches: we have right to all his righteouſneſs, and enjoy by his Patent all the priviledges, all the promiſes, all the mercies of the Goſpel. But if, the offer being

* f. to.

Mat. xi. 14.

Rom. iii. 22.
Phil. iii. 9.

thus made by God, to give us his Son freely, we ſtand upon terms, we are too rich, too learned,
John xii. 43. too worldly-minded, too much in love with the praiſe of men, John xii. 43, i. e. fixt upon any worldly vanity, and reſolve never to foregoe all theſe, to diſclaim our worldly liberty, our own righteouſneſs, and to accept of ſo poor an offer as a Chriſt; then are we the Infidels here ſpoken of, We will not come to him, that we might have life, John v. 40. When he is held out to us, we will not lay hold on him, we have ſome conceit of our ſelves, and therefore will not ſtep a foot abroad to fetch his righteouſneſs home to us. And indeed if any worldly thing pleaſe you; if you can ſet a value upon any thing elſe, if you can entertain a Paramour, a Rival, a Competitor in your hearts,
John v. 44. if you can receive the praiſe of men, how can you believe? John v. 44. So that in brief, Infidelity conſiſts in the not receiving of Chriſt, with a reciprocal giving up of our ſelves to him, in the not anſwering affirmatively to Chriſts offer of himſelf, in the not taking home and applying Chriſt to our ſouls. And this is done, either by denying to take him at all, or by taking him under a falſe perſon, or by not performing the conditions required or preſumed in the making of the match. They that deny to take him at all, are the prophane, negligent, preſumptuous Chriſtians, who either never hearken after him, or elſe are ſo familiar with the news, as to underprize him: have either never cheapned Heaven, or elſe will not come to Gods price; like Ananias and Sapphira, perhaps offer pretty fair, bring two parts of their eſtate, and lay them at the Apoſtles feet, but will give no more; fall off at laſt for a trifle, and peremptorily deny Chriſt, if they may not have him on their own Conditions. Some ſuperfluities, ſome vanities, ſome chargeable or troubleſome ſins perhaps they can ſpare, and thoſe they will be inclinable to part withal; but if this will not ſerve, Chriſt muſt ſeek for a better Chapman, they ſtand not much upon it, they can return as contentedly without it as they came. And this ariſes from a neglect and ſecurity, a not heeding or weighing of Gods juſtice, and conſequently undervaluing of his mercies. They have never felt God as an angry Judge, and therefore they now ſcorn him as a Saviour: they have liv'd at ſuch eaſe of heart, that no legal terrour, no affrightments, or ghaſtly repreſentations of ſin, can work upon them: and if the reading of the law, that killing letter, have been ſent by God to inſtruct them in the deſperateneſs of their eſtate, to humble theſe libertine ſouls to the ſpirit of bondage, and ſo ſchool them to Chriſt, they have eyes, but ſee not, ears, but hear it not, they are come to this τῦς ἀδόκιμον, Rom. i. 28. a reprobate ſenſe, or as it may be rendred, an undiſcerning mind, not able to judge of that which is thus read and propoſed to it: or again, a ſenſe without ſenſe, not apprehenſive of that, which no man that hath eyes can be ignorant of: nay in Theod. phraſe τῦς ἀντίτυπον, an heart that will reverberate any judgement or terrour, receiving no more impreſſion from it than the Anvil from the Hammer, violently returns it again, ſmooth'd ſomewhat over perhaps by often-beating, but nothing ſoftned. Nay if the law cry too loud, and by an inward voice preach damnation in their bowels, and reſolve to be heard before it ceaſe; then do they ſeek out ſome worldly employment to buſie themſelves withal, that they may not be at home at ſo much unquietneſs: they will charm it with pleaſures, or overwhelm it with buſineſs, as Cain, when his Conſcience was too rough, and rigid for
Gen. iv. 16. him, Gen. iv. went out from the preſence of the Lord, ver. 16. and as 'tis obſerved, built Cities, v. 17. got ſome of his progeny to invent Muſick, v. 21. perhaps to ſtill his tumultuous raving Conſcience, that the noiſe of the hammers and melody of the Inſtruments, might outſound the din within him, as in the ſacrifices of Moloch, where their children, which they offered in an hollow brazen veſſel, could not chooſe but howl hideouſly, they had tymbrels and tabrets perpetually beating, (whereupon Tophet, where theſe ſacrifices were kept, is by Grammarians deduced from תֹּף tympanum) to drown
2 King. xxiii. 10. the noiſe of the childrens cry; Theſe I ſay, which will not be inſtructed in their miſery, or better'd
Seld. de diis Syr. l. 1. c. 6. by the preaching of the law, which labour only to make their inward terrors inſenſible, to skin not cure the wound; are Infidels in the firſt or higheſt rank, which deny to take him at all, will not ſuffer themſelves to be perſwaded that they have any need of him; and therefore let him be offered for ever, let him be proclaimed in their ears every minute of their lives, they ſee nothing in him worth hearkning after; and the reaſon is, they are ſtill at home, they have not gone a foot abroad out of themſelves, and therefore cannot lay hold on Chriſt. He that never went to ſchool to the law, he that was never ſenſible of his own damned eſtate, he that never hated himſelf, ὁ μὴ μίσων, will never receive, never accept of Chriſt.

Secondly, Some are come thus far, to a ſenſe of their eſtate, and are twing'd extremely, and therefore fly preſently to the Goſpel; hearing of Chriſt, they faſten, are not patient of ſo much deliberation, as to obſerve whether their hands be empty, they are in diſtreſs, and Chriſt muſt needs ſave them ſuddenly; they lay hold as ſoon as ever they hear a promiſe, and are reſolved to be ſaved by Chriſt, becauſe they ſee otherwiſe they are damned. And theſe take Chriſt indeed, but under a falſe perſon: either they take the promiſes only, and let Chriſt alone; or take Chriſt the Saviour, but not Chriſt the Lord: Are willing to be ſaved by him, but never think of ſerving him: are praying for ever for Heaven and glory, but never care how little they hear of grace: the end they faſten on, the Covenant they hug and gripe with their embraces, but never take the condition of repentance and obedience: this is not for their turn; they abſtract the cheap and profitable attributes of Chriſt, his Prieſtly office of ſatisfaction and propitiation; but never conſider him as a King; and ſo in a word, lay hold of the eſtate, before they have married the husband, which they have yet no more right to, than a meer ſtranger: for the communicating the riches of a husband, being but a conſequence of marriage, is therefore not yet made over, till the marriage (which is the taking of the husbands perſon) be conſummate. And this I ſay, is a ſecond degree of infidelity, ſomewhat more ſecret and leſs diſcernable, when by an errour of the perſon, by taking Chriſt the Saviour for Chriſt the Lord, or his promiſes abſtracted from his perſon, we believe we ſhall be ſaved by him, but deny to be ruled; deſire to enjoy all the priviledges, but ſubſtract all the obedience of a Subject.

In the third place, they which have accepted and received the true perſon of Chriſt, as a Maſter, as well as a Jeſus, they which have taken him on a reſolved vow of performing this condition of homage and obedience, are not in event as good as their engagements: when they think the match is faſt, and paſt danger of recalling, when they ſeem to have gotten a firm title to the promiſes, and are in a manner entred upon the goods and estate of their Husband, they do begin to break Covenant, and either wholly substract, or else divide their love; they married him for his wealth, and now they have that, they are soon weary of his person: they came with the Soul of an Harlot, looking only what they should get by him, and now, they have many other old acquaintances they must needs keep League with; their self denial, their humility, their vows of obedience, were but arts and stratagems that want and necessity put them upon, and now they have got their ends, all those are soon out-dated; they have Faith, and so are justified, and sure of their estate, and so now they may sin securely, there is no condemnation to them, they are in Christ, and all the sins, nay, all the Devils in the World, shall never separate them. And this is a sanctified religious piece of infidelity in men, which think they have made sure of the main, and so never think of the Consectaries; they have Faith, and so 'tis no matter for good works; the Lease is sealed, the Wedding solemniz'd, and then never dream or care for Covenants. And these mens fate is like to be the same spiritually, which we read of Samson's bodily strength: he vowed the Vow of a Nazarite, and as long as he kept unshaven, no opposition could prevail against him; but as soon as he broke his Vow, when he had let his Mistress cut his Locks, his strength departed from him. All the promises and priviledges of our being in Christ, are upon condition of our obedience; and our Vow being broken, the Devil and the Philistins within us, will soon deprive us of our eyes and life. Whatsoever livelihood we presume we have in Christ, we are deceived, we are still dead in trespasses and sins. Thus do you see the three degrees of infidelity frequent amongst Christians, 1. a not taking him at all; 2. a mistaking of his person; 3. a breaking off the Covenants: now that you may abhor and fly from, and get out of each of them by a lively Faith, my next particular shall warn you, the greatness of this sin, and that first positively in its self, it shall be very * tolerable for that City.

and

* intolerable.

Faith may be conceived in a threefold relation, either to men, the subjects of it, and those Sinners; or 2. to Christ and his sufferings, the objects of it, with all the effects, remission of sins, and Salvation attending it: or 3. to God the Father, the Author and Commander of it, as the only condition annext to all his promises. And consequently infidelity, ἐν παραλλάλῳ, shall be aggravated by these three depths or degrees, each adding to its exceeding sinfulness.

As Faith respects its subject, and that a sinful miserable one, engaged and fixt in an unremediable necessity of sinning and suffering for ever; so is it the only means upon Earth, nay in the very counsel of God, able to do us any help; all the arts and spiritual Engins even in Heaven besides this, are unprofitable. Nay, the second Covenant now being seal'd, and God for ever having established the rule and method of it; I say, things thus standing, God himself cannot be presum'd to have mercy upon any one, but who is thus qualified; it being the only foundation on which our Heaven is built, the only ground we have to hope for any thing, as is manifest by that place, Heb. xi. 1. being rightly weighed, Now Faith is the substance of things hoped for, where the Greek phrase, ὑπόστασις ἐλπιζομένων, signifies the ground or foundation of every of those things which can be the object of a Christians hope. So that where no ground-work, no building; if no Faith, no hope, no possibility of Heaven. If the Devil could have but stoln this Jewel out of the World, he had shut up Heaven Gates eternally, and had left it as empty of Saints, as it is full of glory, not capable of any flesh but what Christ's Hypostatical union brought thither. And this is no more than I conceive the learned mean by necessitas medii, that Faith is necessary as a means, i. e. there is no means besides of power, either absolutely or ex hypothesi, of it self, or on supposition of Gods Covenant, to bring us to Heaven. Nothing is of force besides in reason to prepare, or morally accommodate; and God hath not promised to accept in mercy of any thing else. For whereas the promises are sometimes made to repentance, sometimes to obedience, as whosoever repenteth shall be saved, and the like; you are to know, that it is on this ground, of the necessary union of these graces, that where one of them is truly and sincerely, there the rest are always in some degree, there being no example of penitence or obedience in any subject which had not faith also. For he that comes to God, must believe that he is, &c. Heb. xi. 6. And he that heartily believes he is, and is a rewarder of them that seek him, will not fail to search, pursue, and follow after him. So that though the promises are made promiscuously to any one which hath either of these graces, yet 'tis upon supposal of the rest; if it be made of Faith, 'tis in confidence that faith works by love, Gal. v. 6. and as S. James enforces it, is made perfect by works, James ii. 22. So that in the first place, infidelity is sufficiently aggravated in respect of the subject; it being a Catholick destroyer, an intervenient that despoils him of all means, all hope, all possibility of Salvation: finding him in the state of damnation, it sets him going, suffers him not to lay hold on any thing that may stay him in his Precipice; and in the midst of his Shipwrack, when there be planks and refuges enough about him, hath numm'd his hands, depriv'd him of any power of taking hold of them.

Heb. xi. 1. Heb. xi. 6. Gal. v. 6. James ii. 22.

In the second place, in respect of Christ and his sufferings, the objects of our Faith, so Faith is in a manner the Soul of them, giving them life and efficacy, making things which are excellent in themselves, prove so in effect to others. Thus the whole splendor and beauty of the World, the most accurate proportions and images of nature, are beholding to the Eye, though not for their absolute excellency, yet for both the account and use that is made of them; for if all men were blind, the proudest workmanship of nature would not be worth the valuing. Thus is a learned piece cast away upon the ignorant, and the understanding of the Auditor, is the best commendation of a Speech or Sermon. In like manner, those infinite unvaluable sufferings of Christ, if they be not believed in, are but, as Aristotle saith of divine knowledge, a most honourable thing, but of no manner of use; if they be not apprehended, they are lost. Christ's Blood if not caught up in our hearts by Faith, but suffered to be poured out upon the Earth, will prove no better than that of Abel, Gen. iv. 10. crying for judgment from the ground; that which is spilt, is clamorous, and its Voice is toward Heaven for Vengeance; only that which is gathered up, as it falls from his side, by Faith, will prove a medicine to heal the Nations. So that infidelity makes the death of Christ no more than the death of an ordinary man, in which there is no remedy, Wisd. ii. 1. οὐκ ἔστιν ἴασις, there is no cure, no physick in it; or as the same word is rendred, Eccles. xxviii. 3. no pardon, no remission wrought by it, a bare going down into the Grave, that no man is better for. It doth even fruſtrate the ſufferings of Chriſt, and make him have paid a ranſom to no purpoſe, and purchaſed an Inheritance at an infinite rate, and no man the better for it. Again, Chriſt is not only contemn'd, but injur'd, not only ſlighted, but robb'd, he loſes not only his price and his thanks, but his ſervant, which he hath bought and purchaſed with his blood. For redemption is not an abſolute ſetting free, but the buying out of an Uſurpers hands, that he may return to his proper Lord; changing him from the condition of a Captive to a Subject. He which is ranſomed from the Gallies, is not preſently a King, but only recovered to a free and tolerable ſervice: nay generally, if he be redeemed he is eo nomine, a ſervant, by right

Gen. iv. 10.

Luke i. 74. and equity his Creature that redeemed him, according to the expreſs words, Luke i. 74. That we being delivered, might ſerve him. Now a Servant is a Poſſeſſion, part of ones Eſtate, as truly to be reckoned his, as any part of his Inheritance. So that every Unbeliever is a Thief, robs Chriſt not only of the honour of ſaving him, but of one of the Members of his Family, of part of his goods, his Servant; nay, 'tis not a bare theft, but of the higheſt ſize, a Sacriledge, ſtealing an holy inſtrument, a Veſſel out of Gods Temple, which he bought and delivered out of the common calamity, Luke i. 74. to ſerve him in holineſs, Luke i. 74. to be put to holy, ſpecial ſervices.

In the third place, Faith may be conſidered in reference to God the Father, and that, 1. as the Author or Fountain of this Theological grace; 2. as the commander of this duty of believing; and either of theſe will aggravate the Unbelievers guilt, and adde more Articles to his indictment. As God is the Author of Faith, ſo the Infidel reſiſts, and abandons, and flies from all thoſe methods, all thoſe means, by which God ordinarily produces Faith; all the power of his Scriptures, all the bleſſings of a Chriſtian Education, all the benefits of ſacred knowledge; in ſumm, the Prayers, the ſweat,
1 Cor. v. 20. the Lungs, the Bowels of his Miniſters, in Chriſts ſtead beſeeching you to be reconciled, 1 Cor. v. 20. ſpending their deareſt ſpirits, and even praying and preaching out their Souls for you, that you would be Friends with God through Chriſt. All theſe, I ſay, the Infidel takes no notice of; and by his contempt of theſe inferiour graces, ſhews how he would carry himſelf even towards Gods very ſpirit, if it ſhould come in power to convert him, he would hold out and bid defiance, and repel the Omnipotent God with his omnipotent charms of mercy: he that contemns Gods ordinary means, would be likely to reſiſt his extraordinary, were there not more force in the means, than forwardneſs in the man: and thanks be to that controuling, convincing, conſtraining ſpirit, if ever he be brought to be content to be ſaved. He that will not now believe in Chriſt when he is preached, would have gone very near, if he had lived then, to have given his conſent, and join'd his ſuffrage in Crucifying him. A man may gueſs of his inclination by his preſent practices, and if he will not now be his Diſciple, 'twas not his innocence, but his good fortune, that he did not then betray him. 'Twas well he was born amongſt Chriſtians, or elſe he might have been as ſowre a profeſt Enemy of Chriſt, as Pilate or the Phariſees: an Unbelieving Chriſtian is, for all his livery and profeſſion, but a Jew or Heathen, and the Lord make him ſenſible of his condition.

Laſtly, Conſider this duty of Faith in reſpect of God the Father commanding it, and then you ſhall find it the main precept of the Bible. 'Twere long to ſhew you the ground of it in the law of nature, the obſcure, yet diſcernable mention of it in the moral law, both tranſcendently, in the main end of all, and diſtinctly, though not clearly, in the firſt Commandment; he that hath a mind to ſee may find it in Pet. Baro. de præſt. & dignit. div. legis. 'Twere as toilſom to muſter up all the commands of the Old Teſtament, which exactly and determinately drive at belief in Chriſt, as generally in thoſe places where the Chaldee Paraphraſe reads inſtead of God, Gods Word, as, Fear not Abraham, for I am thy ſhield, ſay they, my word is thy ſhield, which ſpeaks a plain command of Faith; for not to John i. 1. fear, is to truſt; not to fear on that ground, becauſe Gods Word, ὁ λόγος, the Word, Joh. i. 1. i. e. Chriſt, is ones ſhield, is nothing in the World but to believe, and rely, and faſten, and depend on Chriſt. Many the like commands of Faith in Chriſt, will the Old Teſtament afford; and the new is nothing elſe but a perpetual inculcating of it upon us, a driving and calling, entreating and enforcing, wooing and haſtning us to believe. In which reſpect the Schools call it alſo neceſſary neceſſitate præcepti, a thing which though we ſhould be never the better for, we are bound to perform. So that though Faith were not able to ſave us, yet infidelity would damn us, it being amongſt others a direct breach of a natural, a moral, nay, an Evangelical Commandment. And ſo much for the danger of infidelity conſidered poſitively, in relation to the Subject, whom it deprives of Heaven; the Object, Chriſt and his offers in the Goſpel, which it fruſtrates; and laſtly, the Author and Commander of it, God the Father, whom it reſiſts, diſobeys, and ſcorns. You will perhaps more feelingly be affected to the loathing of it, if we proceed to the odious and dangerous condition of it, above all other ſins and breaches in the World, which is my third part, its comparative ſinfulneſs, It ſhall be more tolerable, &c.

And this will appear, if we conſider it, 1. in it ſelf; 2. in its conſequences. In it ſelf, it is fuller of guilt, in its conſequences fuller of danger, than any ordinary breach of the moral Law. In it ſelf, ſo it is 1. the greateſt averſion from God, (in which averſion the School-men place the formalis ratio, the very Eſſence of ſin) it is the perverſeſt remotion and turning away of the Soul from God, and getting as far as we can out of his ſight, or ken, the forbidding of all manner of Commerce or
Heb. x. 38. ſpiritual Traffick, or correſpondence with God, as may appear by that admirable place, Heb. x. 38. The juſt ſhall live by faith, but if any man draw back, my ſoul hath no pleaſure in him: and verſe 39. We are not of them which draw back unto perdition, but of them that do believe to the ſaving of the Soul. Where the phraſe of drawing back oppos'd here to Faith and Believing, is in the original ὑπειλὴ, a cowardly, puſillanimous ſubducing of ones ſelf, a getting out of the way, a not daring to meet, or approach, or accept of Chriſt when he is offered them; the ſame with συςολὴ among the Phyſicians, a contraction of the Soul, a ſhriveling of it up, a ſudden correption and depreſſion of the mind, ſuch as the ſight
2 Mac. vi. 12. of ſome hideous danger is wont to produce, ſo 2 Mac. vi. 12 συςάλειας, &c. to be diſcouraged, and Gal. ii. 12. to forſake the Jewiſh Religion, becauſe of the calamities. So is the word uſed of Peter, Gal. ii. 12. ὑπέςελλε καὶ ἀφώριζεν ἑαυτὸν φοβούμενος, &c. He withdrew and ſeparated himſelf, fearing thoſe that were of the Circumciſion. The Infidel, I ſay, draws back, withdraws and ſneaks out of the way, as if he were were afraid of the mercies of his Saviour, as if it were death to him to be ſo near ſalvation; as if Chriſt coming to him with the mercies of the Goſpel, were the mortal'ſt enemy under Heaven, and there were no ſuch miſchief to be done him, as his converſion. This indeed is an averſion in the higheſt degree, when we fly and draw back from God when he comes to ſave us, when the ſight of a Saviour makes us take our heels. Adam might well hide himſelf, when God came to challenge him about his diſobedience; the guilty conſcience being afraid of revenge, may well ſlink out of his preſence with Cain, Gen. iv. 16. But to tremble and quake at a proclamation of mercy, when God draws with cords of a man, Hoſ. xi. 4. a powerful phraſe expreſt in the next words with the bands of love; when he loveth us, and calls his Son out for us, v. 1. then to be bent to backſliding, in the 7. ver. to draw back when he comes to embrace, this is a ſtubbornneſs and contraction of the ſoul, a crouching of it in, a συσολὴ or ὑποσολὴ, that neither nature nor reaſon would be guilty of: an averſion from God, which no other ſin can parallel, and therefore of all other, moſt intolerable, in the firſt place. Gen. iv. 16. Hoſ. xi. 4.

2. Infidelity gives God the lye, and denies whatever God proclaims in the Goſpel. The reaſon or ground of any ones belief, the objectum formale quo, that by aſſenting to which, I come to believe, is Gods Veracity, the Confidence that God ſpeaks true, the relying on his word, is that which brings me to lay hold on Chriſt; and therefore the Infidel is down right with God; he will not take his word, he'll never be perſwaded that theſe benefits of Chriſts death that are offered to all men, can ever do him any good. Let God call him to accept them, he'll never come; his ſurly, reſolute carriage, is in effect a contradicting of whatever God hath affirmed, a direct thwarting, a giving the lye to God and his Evangeliſts: and this is an aggravation not to be mentioned without reverence or horror, the moſt odious affront in the World: the Lord be merciful to us in this matter.

Next, this ſin is a ſin of the moſt dangerous conſequences of any.

1. It produces all other ſins, and that poſitively, by doubting of his juſtice, and ſo falling into adulteries, blaſphemies, and the like, in ſecurity and hope of impunity; by diſtruſting of his providence and mercy, and ſo flying to covetouſneſs, murmuring, tempting, ſubtilety, all arts and ſtratagems of getting for our temporal eſtate, and ordinary deſpair in our ſpiritual: then privatively, depriving us of that which is the mother and ſoul of our obedience and good Works, I mean faith, ſo that every thing for want of it, is turned into ſin, and thereby depopulating the whole man, making him nothing in the World but ruins and noyſomneſs, a confluence of all manner of ſins, without any concomitant degree of duty or obedience.

2. It fruſtrates all good Exhortations, and forbids all manner of ſuperſtructions, which the Miniſters are wont to labour for, in moving us to charity and obedience, and joy, and hope, and prayer, by not having laid any foundation whereon theſe muſt be built; any of theſe ſet or planted in any Infidel heart, will ſoon wither: they muſt have a ſtock of faith whereon to be grafted, or elſe they are never likely to thrive. As Galba's Wit was a good one, but 'twas unluckily placed, ill-ſeated, there was no good to be wrought by it. The proudeſt of our works or merits, the perfecteſt morality, will ſtand but very weakly, unleſs it be founded on that foundation, whoſe corner ſtone is Chriſt Jeſus.

1. It leaves no place in the world for remedy: he that is an Idolater, a Sabbath-breaker, or the like; he that is arraigned at the law, and found guilty at that Tribunal, hath yet an Advocate in the Goſpel, a higher power to whom he may appeal to mitigate his ſentence: but he that hath ſinned againſt the Goſpel, hath no farther to go, he hath ſinned againſt that, which ſhould have remitted all other ſins; and now he is come to an unremediable eſtate, to a kind of hell, or the grave of ſin, from whence there is no recovery. There's not a mercy to be fetch'd in the world, but out of the Goſpel, and he that hath refus'd them, is paſt any farther treaty: He that believeth not, is condemned already, John iii. 18. his damnation is ſealed to him; and the entail paſt cutting off, 'tis his purchace, and now wants nothing but livery and ſeizin; nay 'tis his patrimony, ἀπόλειαν ἐκληρονόμησεν, Eccluſ. xx. 25. he is as ſure of it, as of any peny worth of his inheritance. And the reaſon is implyed, 1. Cor. xv. 17. If Chriſt be not riſen, you are yet in your ſins: there is no way to get out of our ſins, but Chriſts reſurrection; and he that believeth not, Chriſt is not riſen to him; 'twere all one to him, if there had never been a Saviour; and therefore he remains in his old thraldom; he was taken captive in Adam, and hath never ſince had any other means to reſtore him: the ranſom that was offered all, he would none of, and ſo he ſticks unredeemed, he is yet in his ſins, and ſo for ever like to continue. And now he is come to this ſtate, 'twere ſuperfluous farther to aggravate the ſin againſt him; his caſe is too wretched to be upbraided him, the reſt of our time ſhall be imployed in providing a remedy for him, if it be poſſible, and that muſt be from conſideration of the diſeaſe, in a word and cloſe of application. John iii. 18. Eccl. xx. 25.

The ſin being thus diſplayed to you with its conſequences, O what a ſpirit ſhould it raiſe in us! O what a reſolution and expreſſion of our manhood, to reſiſt and baniſh out of us this evil heart of unbelief! Heb. iii. 12. what an hatred ſhould it work in our bowels, what a reluctancy, what an indignation, what a revenge againſt the fruit of our boſom, which hath ſo long grown and thrived within us, only to our deſtruction! which is provided as it were to eat out ſouls, as an harbinger to prepare a place within us for the worm in Hell, where it may ly and bite and gnaw at eaſe eternally! 'Tis an Examination that will deſerve the moſt precious minute of our lives, the ſolemneſt work of our ſouls, the carefulleſt muſter of our faculties, to ſhrift and winnow, and even ſet our hearts upon the rack, to ſee whether any fruit or ſeed of infidelity lurk in it; and in a matter of this danger, to prevent Gods inqueſt by our own, to diſplay every thing to our ſelves, juſt as it ſhall be laid open before God in judgment, γυμνὸν καὶ τετραχηλισμένον, Heb. iv. 13. naked and diſcernible as the entrals of a Creature cut down the back, where the very method of nature in its ſecrecies is betrayed to the eye. I ſay, to cut our ſelves up, and to ſearch into every crany of our ſouls, every winding of either our underſtanding or affections; and obſerve whether any infidel thought, any infidel luſt, be lodged there: and when we have found this execrable thing, which hath brought all our plagues on us, Heb. iii. 12. Heb. iv. 13.

us, then must we purge, and cleanse, and lustrate the whole City for its sake; and with more Ceremony than ever the heathen used, even with a superstition of daily, hourly prayers, and sacrificing our selves to God, strive and struggle, and offer violence to remove this unclean thing out of our 2 Ki. xxiii. 12. Coasts; use these unbelieving hearts of ours, as Josiah did the Altars of Ahaz, 2 King. xxiii. 12. break them down, beat them to powder, and cast the dust of them into the brook Kidron; that Cedron which John xviii. 1. Christ passed over when he went to suffer, John xviii. 1. even that brook which Christ drank of by
Ps. cx. 7. the way, Psa. cx. 7. And there indeed is there a remedy for infidelity, if the Infidel will throw it in. If he will put it off, be it never so dyed in the contempt of Christs blood, that very blood shall cleanse it: and therefore

In the next place, let us labour for Faith; let not his hands be stretched out any longer upon the cross, to a faithless and stubborn generation. 'Twere a piece of ignorance that a Scholar would abhor to be guilty of, not to be able to understand that inscription written by Pilate in either of 3. languaJohn xix. 19. ges, Jesus of Nazareth, King, John xix. 19. Nay for all the Gospels and Comments written on it, both by his Disciples and his works, still to be non-proficients, this would prove an accusation written in Marble, nay an Exprobration above a συγκλεῖσιον. In a word, Christ is still offered, and the proclamation not yet outdated, his sufferings in the Scripture proposed to every one of you to lay
2 Cor. v. 20. hold on, and his Ministers sent as Embassadors beseeching you to be reconciled, 2 Cor. v. 20. and more than that, in the Sacrament of the Eucharist, his body and blood set before our eyes to be felt and gazed on, and then even a Didymus would believe; nay, to be divided amongst us, and put in our mouths, and then who would be so sluggish as to refuse to feed on him in his heart?

For your Election from the beginning to this gift of Faith, let that never raise any doubt or scruple in you, and foreflow that coming to him; this is a jealousie that hath undone many, in a resolvedness that if they are not elected, all their Faith shall prove unprofitable. Christ that bids thee repent, believe, and come unto him, is not so frivolous to command impossibilities, nor so cruel to mock our impotence. Thou mayest believe, because he bids: Believe, and then thou mayest be sure thou wert predestinated to believe; and then all the decrees in the World, cannot deny thee Christ, if thou art thus resolved to have him. If thou wilt not believe, thou hast reprobated thy self, and who is to be accused that thou art not saved? But if thou wilt come in, there is sure entertainment for thee. He that begins in Gods Counsels, and never thinks fit to go about any Evangelical duty, till he can see his name writ in the book of life, must not begin to believe, till he be in Heaven; for there only is that to be read radio recto. The surer course is to follow the Scripture; to hope comfortably every one of our selves, to use the means, apprehend the mercies, and then to be confident of the benefis of Christs suffering: and this is the way to make our Election sure, to read it in our selves radio reflexo, by knowing that we believe, to resolve that we are elected; thereby we know
1 John iii. 14. that we are past from death to life, if we love the brethren, 1 John iii. 14. And so is it also of Faith; for these are inseparable graces. So Psal. xxv. 14. Prov. iii. 32. Gods secret and his Covenant, being taken for his decree, is said to be with them that fear him, and to be shewed to them, i. e. their very fearing of God, is an evidence to them that they are his elect, with whom he hath entred Covenant. Our Faith is the best argument, or κεῖσεον, by which to make a judgment of Gods decree concerning us. I say, if we will believe, God hath elected us; 'tis impossible any true Faith should be refused, upon pretence the person was predestined to destruction; and if it were possible, yet would I hope that Gods decrees (were they as absolute as some would have them) should sooner be softned into mercy, than that mercy purchased by his Son, should ever fail to any that believes. The bargain was made, the Covenant struck, and the immutability of the Persian Laws are nothing to it, that whosoever believeth
John iii. 15. in him should not perish, but have everlasting life, Joh. iii. 15. Wherefore in brief, let us attend the means, and let what will or can come of the End; Christ is offered to every soul here present, to be a Jesus, only do thou accept of him, and thou art past from death to life; there is no more required of thee, but only to take him; if thou art truly possessor of him, he will justify, he will humble, he will sanctifie thee; he will work all reformation in thee; and in time seal thee up to the day of redemption: Only be careful that thou mistakest not his Person; thou must receive him, as well as his promises; thou must take him as a Lord and King, as well as a Saviour, and be content to be a subject, as well as a Saint. He is now proclaimed in your ears, and you must not foreslow the audience, or procrastinate; To day if you will hear his voice, harden not your hearts. He holds himself out on purpose to you, and by the Minister wooes you to embrace him: and then it nearly concerns you, not to pro-
Psal. ii. 12. voke so true, so hearty, nay even so passionate a friend: if he be not kissed, he will be angry. Lastly, if in this business of believing, so vulgarly exposed, there yet appear some difficulties in the practice, to be overcome before it prove a possible duty: If self-denial be incompetible with flesh and blood; if delights and worldly contentments, if an hardned heart in sin, and a world of high Imaginations, refuse to submit or humble themselves to the poverty of Christ; if we cannot empty our hands to lay hold, or unbottom our selves to lean wholly on Christ, then must we fly, and pray to that spirit of power, to subdue, and conquer, and lead us captive to it self, to instruct us in the baseness, the nothingness, nay the dismal, hideous wretchedness of our own estate, that so being spiritually shaken and terrified out of our carnal pride and security, we may come trembling and quaking to that Throne of Grace, and with the hands of Faith though feeble ones, with the eye of Faith, though dimly, with a hearty sincere resigning up of our selves, we may see and apprehend, and fasten, and be united to our Saviour: that we may live in Christ, and Christ in us, and having begun in the life of Grace here, we may hope and attain to be accomplished with that of Glory hereafter.

Now to him which hath elected us, &c.

SER-

SERMON XII.

ACTS XVII. 30.

And the times of this ignorance God winked at, but now commandeth all men every where to repent.

THE words in our English Translation carry somewhat in the ſound, which doth not fully reach the importance of the Original, and therefore it muſt be the task of our Preface not to connect the Text, but clear it; not to ſhew its dependence on the precedent words, but to reſtore it to the integrity of it ſelf, that ſo we may perfectly conceive the words, before we venture to diſcuſs them; that we may ὑποτυπῶσαι πρῶτον, ὕστερον ἀναγράψαι, as Ariſtotle phraſes it, firſt repreſent them to you in the bulk, then deſcribe them particularly in their ſeveral lineaments. Our Engliſh ſetting of the words, ſeems to make two Propoſitions, and in them a direct oppoſition betwixt the condition of the ancient, and preſent Gentiles; that God had winked at, i. e. either approved, or pitied, or pardoned the ignorance of the former Heathens; but now was reſolved to execute juſtice on all, that did continue in that was heretofore pardonable in them, on every one every where that did not repent. Now the Original runs thus, τὰς μὲν οὖν χρόνους τῆς ἀγνοίας ὑπεριδὼν ὁ Θεὸς, τὰ νῦν παραγγέλλει, &c. that is, in a literal conſtruction, God therefore paſſing over the times of ignorance, as if he ſaw them not, doth now command all men every where to repent. Which you may conceive thus, by this kind of vulgar ἀνάβασις, or ſenſible proceeding in God. God always is eſſentially and perfectly every one of his Attributes, Wiſdom, Juſtice, Mercy, &c. but yet is ſaid at one time to be peculiarly one Attribute, at another time another, i. e. to be at one time actually juſt, at another time actually merciful, according to his determination to the object. As when God fixes his Eyes upon a rebellious people, whoſe ſins are ripe for his juſtice, he then executes his vengeance on them, as on Sodom: when he fixes his Eyes upon a penitent believing people, he then doth exerciſe his mercy, as on Nineveh. Now when God looks upon any part of the lapſed World, on which he intends to have mercy, he ſuffers not his Eye to be fixed or terminated on the medium betwixt his Eye and them, on the ſins of all their Anceſtors from the beginning of the World till that day; but having another account to call them to, doth for the preſent ὑπεριδὼν, ὑπερβλέπων, ὑπεροπτῶν, look over all them, as if they were not in his way, and imputing not the ſins of the Fathers to the Children, fixeth on the Children, makes his Covenant of mercy with them, and commandeth them the condition of this Covenant, whereby they ſhall obtain mercy, that is, every one every where to repent. So that in the firſt place, ὑπεριδὼν παραγγέλλει, muſt not be rendred by way of oppoſition, he winked then, but now commands, as if their former ignorance were juſtifiable, and an account of knowledge ſhould only be exacted from us. And in the ſecond place, ὑπεριδὼν, a word read but this once in all the New Teſtament, muſt be rendred, not winking at, but looking over, or not inſiſting upon; as when we fix our Eyes upon a Hill, we ſuffer them not to dwell on the Valley, on this ſide of it, becauſe we look earneſtly on the Hill. Now if this be not the common Attical acception of it, yet it will ſeem agreeable to the penning of the New Teſtament, in which whoſoever will obſerve, may find words and phraſes which perhaps the Attick purity, perhaps Grammar, will not approve of. And yet I doubt not but Claſſick authorities may be brought, where ὑπεριδὼν ſhall ſignifie, not a winking, or not taking notice of, but a looking farther, a not reſting in this, but a driving higher, for ſo it is rendred by Stephanus, Ad ulteriora oculos convertere; and then the phraſe ſhall be as proper as the ſenſe, the Greek as authentical as the doctrine, that God looking over and not inſiſting upon the ignorance of the former Heathen, at Chriſts coming entred a Covenant with their Succeſſors, the condition of which was, that every man every where ſhould repent.

And this is made good by the Gr. Schol. of the N. T. ὁ οὖν φησιν, &c. that is ſpoken, not that the former heathen ſhould be unpuniſhed, but that their Succeſſors to whom St. Paul preached, if they would repent, ſhould not be called to an account of their ignorance, ſhould not fare the worſe for the ignorance of their Fathers; and at this drives alſo Chryſoſtome, out of whom the Scholiaſts may ſeem to have borrowed it, their whole ἐξήγησις being but λείψανα, gleanings out of the Fathers before them. I might farther prove the neceſſity of this interpretation, if it were required of me: and thus far I have ſtay'd you to prove it, becauſe our Engliſh is ſomewhat imperfect in the expreſſion of it. Δύο κύβοι οὐκ εἰσὶ κύβος, ſaith Ariſtotle, Two Cubes are not a Cube, but another figure very different from it: and indeed our Engliſh Tranſlations by making two Propoſitions of this Verſe, have varied the native ſingle Propoſition in that regard, and made it unlike it ſelf, which briefly (if I can inform my ſelf aright) ſhould run thus, by way of one ſimple Enunciation; God therefore not inſiſting on, but looking over thoſe times of ignorance, doth now command all men every where to repent; of which thoſe three lines in Leo his fourth Sermon de Paſſione Domini, are a juſt Paraphraſe, Nos ſub veteris ignorantiæ profunda nocte peremtes, in Patriarcharum ſocietatem, & ſortem electi gregis adoptavit. So then the words being repreſented to you in this Scheme or ſingle Diagram, are the Covenant of mercy made with the Progeny of ignorant Heathens upon condition of repentance, in which you may obſerve two grand parallel lines, 1. the ignorance of the Heathen, ſuch as in the juſtice of God, might have provoked him

Eth. 1. 7.

Oecumen. Arelas.

Tom. 4.

P. 47.

him to have pretermitted the whole world of ſucceeding Gentiles: 2. the mercy of God, not imputing their ignorance to our charge, whoſoever every where to the end of the world ſhall repent. And firſt of the firſt, the ignorance of the Heathen in theſe words, τὰς μὲν οὖν χρόνους, the times, &c.

If for the clearing of this bill, we ſhould begin our inqueſt at Japhet the father of the Gentiles, examine them all by their gradations, we ſhould in the general find the evidence to run thus; 1. That they were abſolutely ignorant, as ignorance is oppoſed to learning: 2. Ignorant in the affairs of God, as ignorance is oppoſed to piety or ſpiritual wiſdom: 3. Ignorant ſupinely, perverſely, and maliciouſly, as it is oppoſed to a ſimple or more excuſeable ignorance.

Their abſolute ignorance or ἀπαιδευσία, their want of learning, is at large proved by St. Auſtin 18. de Civ. Dei, Euſebius Præpar. 10. Clemens in his Protrep. and others, ſome of whoſe writings to this purpoſe (becauſe it is eaſier for my Auditors to believe me in groſs, than to be troubled with the retail) is this, that the beginnings of learning in all kinds, was among the Jews, whilſt the whole Heathen world beſides, was barbarouſly ignorant; that Moſes appointed Maſters among the tribes, γραμμάτων διδασκάλους, which initiated the youth of Iſrael in all kind of ſecular learning; or if you will believe Patricius and his proofs, that Sem erected, and afterwards Heber enlarged Scholas Doctrinarum, Schools or Seminaries of learning, where learning was profeſſed and taught, that Abraham, as Euſebius cites Nic. Damaſcenus for it, was excellent in the Mathematicks, and diſperſed and communicated his knowledge in Chaldea, from whence the Ægyptians, and from them the Grecians came to them; that Enoch was probably judg'd by Polyhiſtor, to be that Atlas to whom the Heathen imputed the beginning of Aſtronomy; that in the ſumm, all learning was primitive among the Hebrews, and from them by ſtealth and filching, ſome ſeeds of it ſown in Phœnicia, Ægypt, and at laſt in Greece. For they make it plain by computation, that Moſes (who yet was long after Enoch, and Sem, and Heber, and Abraham, all in confeſſo great Scholars) that Moſes, I ſay, was 1500 years ancienter than the Greek Philoſophers, that all the learning that is found and bragg'd of amongſt the Grecians (whoſe ignorance my Text chiefly deals with, St. Pauls diſcourſe here being addreſt to the Athenians) was but a babe of a day old, in reſpect of the true antiquity of learning: that all their Philoſophy was but ſcraps, ἀποσπασμάτια, which fell from the Jews tables; that in their ſtealth they were very imprudent, glean'd only that which was not worth carrying away, ἀδὴν ἢ περὶ Θεὸν, ἢ περὶ σώφρονα βίον, &c. ſtuft their ſacks, which they carried into Ægypt to buy food, only with ſome unprofitable chaff, with empty ſpeculations that would puff up, not fill or nouriſh the ſoul, but brought no valuable real commodity away with them, whereby they might improve their knowledge, or reform their manners; upon which two grounds, 1. the vanity and unprofitableneſs of their learning; 2. the novelty of it in reſpect of the Hebrews from whom they ſtole it afar off; they are not thought worthy of the title of Scholars; and for all the noiſe of their Philoſophy, are yet judged abſolutely ignorant, as ignorance is oppoſed to learning.

In Zoroaſter. P. 4. l. 9. p. 244. Ib. p. 245.

In the ſecond, for their ignorance in the affairs of God, their own Authors examination will bring in a ſufficient evidence. If you will ſort out the chiefeſt names of learned men amongſt them, you will there find the verieſt dunces in this learning. The Deipnoſophiſts, the only wits of the time, are yet deſcribed by Athenæus, to imploy their ſtudy only how to get good chear a free-coſt, δαῖτας ἀεὶ ἀκάπνους δύομεν, they fed deliciouſly, and yet were at no charge for the proviſion; and amongſt them, you ſhall ſcarcely find any knowledge or worſhip of even their Heathen Gods, but only in drinking, where their luxury had this excuſe or pretence of religion, that it was δεῖγμα τῆς δυνάμεως τοῦ Θεοῦ ἀγαθοῦ, an experiment of the power of that good God, which had provided ſuch a creature as Wine for them to abuſe; which perhaps a drunken Romiſh Caſuiſt ſtole from them, where he allows of drinking ſupra modum, ad glorificandum Deum, &c. to the glorifying of God, Creator of ſo excellent a creature, which hath the effect in it of turning men into beaſts. So that it ſeems by the ſtory of them in brief, that the Deipnoſophiſts, men of the fineſt, politeſt conceits, as Ulpianus Tyrius, Calliphanes, and the like in Athenæus, in the multitude of the Grecian Gods had but one Deity, and that was their belly, which they worſhipped religioſo luxu, not ſinging, but eating and drinking praiſes to his name; to this add the Sophiſtæ, Protagoras, Hippias, and the like great boaſters of learning in Socrates his time, and much followed by the youth, till he perſwaded them from admiring ſuch unprofitable profeſſors, and theſe are obſerved by Plutarch, to be meer huckſters of vain glory; getting great ſtore of money and applauſe from their auditors, ἀργύριον καὶ ὄνομα, ſilver and popularity, but had no manner of profitable learning to beſtow upon them, as Plutarch dooms them in his Platonick queſtions, and Socrates in his Dialogues in confutation of them; and certainly by their very profeſſion 'tis plain that theſe men had no God to know or worſhip, except their gain. But not to inſiſt on theſe or other their Profeſſors of more curious, trim, polite learning, as their Philoſophers, Grammarians, and Rhetoricians, it will be more ſeaſonable to our Text to examine St. Pauls auditors here, the great ſpeculators among them: (1.) the deepeſt Philoſophers, and there where you expect the greateſt knowledge, you ſhall find the moſt barbarous ignorance; in the midſt of the πολυθεότης of the Grecians, the Philoſophers (ſaith Clem. and 'tis plain by their writings) finding out and acknowledging in private this multitude of Gods to be a prodigious vanity, and infinitely below the gravity and wiſdom of their profeſſion, took themſelves off from this unreaſonable worſhip, and almoſt each of them in private worſhipped ſome one God. And here you would think that they jump'd with the Jews of that time, in the acknowledging an unity: but if you mark them you ſhall find that they did not reform the popular Atheiſm, but only varied it into a more rational way. Thales would not acknowledge Neptune, as the Poets and people did, but yet he deifies the water, as Clem. obſerves: another ſcorned to be ſo ſenſeleſs as to worſhip wood or ſtone, and yet he deifies the earth, the parent of them both, and as ſenſeleſs as them both; and does at once calcare terram, & colere, tread on the earth with his feet, and adore it with his heart. So Socrates (who by bringing in morality, was a great refiner and pruner of barren Philoſophy) abſolutely denying the Grecian Gods, and thence called ἄθεος, is yet brought in by Ariſtophanes, worſhipping the clouds, ὦ δέσποτ' ἀήρ, &c. and by a more friendly Hiſtorian deſcribed addreſſing a ſacrifice to Æſculapius, being at the point of death. So that in brief, the Philoſophers diſliking the vu'gar vulgar ſuperſtition, went to School, ſaith Clem. to the Perſian Magi, and of them learnt a more Scholaſtick Atheiſm. The worſhip of thoſe venerable Elements, which becauſe they were the beginnings, out of which natural bodies were compoſed, were by theſe naturaliſts admired and worſhipped inſtead of the God of nature. From which a man may plainly judge of the beginning and grounds of the general Atheiſm of Philoſophers, that it was a ſuperficial knowledge of Philoſophy, the ſight of ſecond cauſes and dwelling on them, and being unable to go any higher. For men by nature being inclined to acknowledge a Deity, take that to be their God which is the higheſt in their ſphere of knowledge, or the ſupremum cognitum which they have attained to; whereas if they had been ſtudious, or able, by the dependence of cauſes, to have proceeded beyond theſe Elements, they might poſſibly, nay certainly would have been reduced to piety and religion, which is εὐσέβεια, θεοσέβεια, the knowledge and worſhip of God; but there were many hindrances which kept them groveling on the earth, not able to aſcend this ladder: 1. They wanted that εὐκολία εὐπλοΐα τῆς ψυχῆς, P. 11. which Aphrod. on the Topicks ſpeaks of, that kindly, familiar good temper, or diſpoſition of the ſoul, καθ' ἣν εὐφυΐαν ἀληθῆ καὶ θεῖα ἐστι, by which the mind is able to find out and judge of truth; they wanted either that natural harmony, or ſpiritual concord of the powers of the ſoul, by which it is able to reach thoſe things which now in corrupt nature, are only ſpiritually diſcerned. For it is Clem. his Chriſtian judgment of them, that the Gentiles being but Baſtards, not true born ſons of God, but In προτρεπ.

In προλεπτ. vid. ch. 15. In Neφ. Plato.

Aliens from the Commonwealth of Iſrael, were therefore not able to look up toward the Light, A. 16.
(as 'tis obſerved of the baſtard-brood of Eagles) or conſequently to diſcern that inacceſſible light, till they were received into the Covenant, and made τέκνα φωτὸς γνήσια, true proper Children of light.
A ſecond hindrance was the groſſeneſs and earthineſs of their fancy, which was not able to conceive God to be any thing but a corporeous ſubſtance, as Philoponus obſerves in Schol. on the books de anima, ὅταν θέλωμεν, &c. When we have a mind to betake our ſelves to divine ſpeculation, our fancy comes in, ἡ θορυβὸν κινεῖ, raiſes ſuch a tempeſt in us, ſo many earthly meteors to clog, and over-cloud the ſoul, that it cannot but conceive the Deity under ſome bodily ſhape, and this diſorder of the fancy doth perpetually attend the ſoul, even in the faireſt weather, in its greateſt calm and ſerenity of affections, ὅταν σχολὴν, &c. ſaith Plato, even when the ſoul is free from its ordinary diſtractions, and hath provided it ſelf moſt accurately for contemplation. Philoponus in this place finding this inconvenience, fetches a remedy out of Plotinus for this rarifying and purifying of the fancy, and it is the ſtudy of the Mathematicks, ἀγέλαστον νέοι &c. Let young men be brought up in the ſtudy of the Mathematicks, to ſome acquaintance with an incorporeous nature: but how unprofitable a remedy this ſtudy of the Mathematicks was, to the purpoſe of preparing the ſoul to a right conceit of God, I doubt not but he himſelf afterwards found, when he turned Chriſtian, and ſaw how far their Mathematical and Metaphyſical abſtractions fell below thoſe pureſt Theological conceits, of which only grace could make him capable. So that in brief their underſtanding being fed by their fancies, and both together fatned with corporeous phantaſms, as they encreaſed in natural knowledge, grew more hardned in ſpiritual ignorance, and as Clem. ſaith of them, were like birds cram'd in a Coop; προτρεπ.
fed in darkneſs, and nouriſhed for death: their groſs conceits groping on in obſcurity, and fur- P. 52.
niſhing them only with ſuch opinions of God, as ſhould encreaſe both their ignorance and damnation. That I be not too large and confuſed in this diſcourſe, let us pitch upon Ariſtotle one of the lateſt of the Ancient Philoſophers, not above 340 years before Chriſt, who therefore ſeeing the vanities, and making uſe of the helps of all the Grecian learning, may probably be judged to have as much knowledge of God as any Heathen; and indeed the Colen Divines had ſuch an opinion of his ſkill and expreſſions that way, that in their tract of Ariſtotles Salvation, they define him to be Chriſts Præcurſor in Naturalibus, as John Baptiſt was in gratuitis. But in brief, if we examine him, we ſhall find him much otherwiſe, as ſtupid in the affairs of 1. God, 2. the Soul, 3. Happineſs, as any of his fellow Gentiles. If the book περὶ κόσμου, were his own legitimate work, a man might gueſs that he ſaw ſomething, though he denyed the particular providence of the Deity, and that he acknowledged his omnipotence, though he would not be ſo bo'd with him, as to let him be buſied in the producing of every particular ſublunary effect. The man might ſeem ſomewhat tender of God, as if being but newly come acquainted with him, he were afraid to put him to too much pains, as judging it μήδε καλὸν &c. neither comely nor befitting the Majeſty of a God, to intereſt him- Ariſtot. περὶ ſelf in every action upon earth. It might ſeem a reverence and awe which made him provide the ſame κόσμου. cap. 9.
courſe for God, which he ſaw uſed in the Courts of Suſa and Ecbatana, where the King (ſaith he) lived inviſible in his Palace, and yet by his Officers, as through proſpectives and Otacouſticks, ſaw and heard all that was done in his Dominions. But this book being not of the ſame complexion with the reſt of his Philoſophy, is ſhrewdly gueſt to be a ſpurious iſſue of latter times, entitled to Ariſtotle and tranſlated by Apuleius, but not owned by its brethren, the reſt of his books of Philoſophy; for even in the Metaphyſicks (where he is at his wiſeſt) he cenſures Zenophanes for a Clown for looking up to Heaven, and affirming that there was one God there, the cauſe of all things, and rather than he will credit him, he commends Parmenides for a ſubtle fellow, who ſaid nothing at all, or I am ſure to no purpoſe.

Concerning his knowledge of the ſoul, 'tis Philoponus his obſervation of him, that he perſwades Schol. in lib.
only the more underſtanding, laborious, judicious ſort to be his Auditors in that ſubject, τοὺς δὲ ῥᾳ- de anima.
θυμοτέρους ἀποτρέπει, &c. But deborts men of meaner vulgar parts, leſs intent to their ſtudy, from med- c. 2.
ling at all with this ſcience about the ſoul, for he plainly tells them in his firſt de anima, 'tis too hard for any ordinary capacity, and yet in the firſt of the Metaph. he defines the wiſe man to be one who beſides his own accurate knowledge of hard things, as the Cauſes of the ſoul, &c. is alſo able to teach any body elſe, who hath ſuch an habit of knowledge, and ſuch a command over it, that he can make any Auditor underſtand the abſtruſeſt myſtery in it. So then out of his own words he is convinced to have had no skill, no wiſdom in the buſineſs of the ſoul, becauſe he could not explain nor communicate this knowledge to any but choice Auditors. The truth is, theſe were but ſhifts of pride, and ambitious pretences to cloak a palpable ignorance, under the habit of myſterious, deep ſpeculation; when alas poor man! all that which he knew, or wrote of the ſoul, was ſcarce worth learning, only enough to confute his fellow ignorant Philoſophers, to puzzle others, to puffe himſelf; but to profit, inſtruct, or edifie none.

In the third place, concerning happineſs, he plainly bewrays himſelf to be a coward, not daring to meddle with Divinity. For 1 Eth. c. 9. being probably given to underſtand, or rather indeed plainly convinced, that if any thing in the world were, then happineſs muſt likely be θεοδοτον, the gift of God beſtowed on men, yet he there ſtaggers at it, ſpeaks ſceptically, and not ſo magiſterially as he is wont, dares not be ſo bold as to define it: and at laſt does not profeſs his ignorance, but takes a more honourable courſe, and puts it off to ſome other place to be diſcuſt. Where Andronicus Rhodius his Greek Paraphraſe, tells us he meant his Tract περὶ προνοιας, about Providence: but in all Laërtius his Catalogue of the multitude of his writings, we find no ſuch title, and I much ſuſpect by his other carriages, that the man was not ſo valiant as to deal with any ſo unwieldy a ſubject, as the Providence would have proved. Sure I am he might, if he had had a mind to it, have quitted himſelf of his engagements, and ſeaſonably enough have defined the fountain of happineſs there, in Ethicks, but in the 10. c. it appears that it was no pretermiſſion, but ignorance; not a care of deferring it to a fitter place, but a neceſſary ſilence, where he was not able to ſpeak. For there mentioning happineſs and miſerableneſs after death, (where he might have ſhewed his skill if he had had any) he plainly betrays himſelf an arrant naturaliſt, in defining all the felicity, and miſery, to be the good or ill proof of their friends and children left behind them, which are to them being dead, happineſs or miſeries, ἀλλ' οὐκ αἰσθανομένοις, of which they are not any way ſenſible. But * of what hath been ſpoken it is plain that the Heathen never looked after God of their own accord, but as they were driven upon him by the neceſſity of their ſtudy, which from the ſecond cauſes, neceſſarily lead them in a chain to ſome view of the firſt mover; and then, ſome of them, either frighted with the light, or deſpairing of their own abilities, were terrified or diſcouraged from any farther ſearch; ſome few others ſought after him, but as Ariſtotle ſaith the Geometer doth, after a right line only, ὡς θεατὴς τῆς ἀληθείας, as a contemplator of truth, but not as the knowledge of it is any way uſeful or conducible to the ordering, or bettering of their lives: they had an itching deſire to know the Deity, but neither to apply it as a rule to their actions, nor to order their actions to his glory. For generally whenſoever any action drove them on any ſubject which intrenched on Divinity, you ſhall find them more flat than ordinary, not handling it according to any manner of accuracy or ſharpneſs, but only ἐφ' ὅσον ἰκανὸν τῇ μαθήσει, only as much uſe or as little as their ſtudy in the ſearch of things conſtrained them to, and then for moſt part they fly off abruptly, as if they were glad to be quit of ſo cumberſom a ſubject. Whence Ariſtotle obſerves, that the whole Tract de cauſis was obſcurely and inartificially handled by the Ancients, and if ſometimes they ſpake to the purpoſe, 'twas as unskilful, unexerciſed fencers τύπτουσι καλὰς πληγὰς, they lay on, and ſometimes ſtrike a lucky blow or two, but more by chance than skill, ſometimes letting fall from their pens thoſe truths which never entred their underſtandings, as Theophilus ad Autol. obſerves of Homer and Heſiod, that being inſpired by their Muſes, i. e. the devil, ſpake according to that ſpirit, lyes and fables, and exact Atheiſm, and yet ſometimes would ſtumble upon a truth of Divinity, as men poſſeſt with Devils, did ſometimes confeſs Chriſt, and the evil ſpirits being adjured by his name, came out and confeſt themſelves to be devils. Thus it is plain out of the Philoſophers and Heathen diſcourſes, 1. Of God, 2. The Soul, 3 Happineſs, that they were alſo ignorant, as ignorance is oppoſed to piety or ſpiritual wiſdom, which was to be proved by way of premiſe, in the ſecond place.

Now in the third place, for the guilt of their ignorance, that it was a perverſe, groſs, malicious and unexcuſable ignorance, you ſhall briefly judge. Ariſtotle, 1 Met. 2. being elevated above ordinary in his diſcourſe about wiſdom, confeſſes the Knowledge of God to be the beſt Knowledge and moſt honourable of all, but of no manner of uſe or neceſſity; ἀναγκαιότερα, &c. No Knowledge is better than this, yet none more unneceſſary, as if the Evidence of truth made him confeſs the nobility of this wiſdom, but his own ſupine, ſtupid, perverſe reſolutions made him contemn it as unneceſſary. But that I may not charge the accuſation too hard upon Ariſtotle above others, and take as much pains to damn him, as the Colen Divines did to ſave him, we will deal more at large, as Ariſtotle preſcribes his wiſe men, 1. Met. and rip up to you the unexecuſableneſs of the heathen ignorance in general: 1. By the authority of Clement, who is gueſt to be one of their kindeſt patrons in his προτρεπτ. where having cited many teſtimonies out of them, concerning the unity, he concludes thus, εἰ γὰρ, &c. Seeing that the Heathen had ſome ſparks of the divine truth, ſome gleanings out of the written word, and yet make ſo little uſe of it as they do; they do, ſaith he, ſhew the power of Gods word to have been revealed to them, and accuſe their own weakneſs, that they did not improve it to the end for which it was ſent; that they encreaſed it not into a ſaving knowledge; where (by the way) the word weakneſs is uſed by Clement by way of ſoftning, or mercy, as here the Apoſtle uſeth ignorance, when he might have ſaid impiety. For ſure if the accuſation run thus, that the word of God was revealed to them, and yet they made no uſe of it, as it doth here in Clem. the ſentence then upon this, muſt needs conclude them, not only ἀσθενεῖς, weak, but perverſe contemners of the light of Scripture. Again, the Philoſophers themſelves confeſs that ignorance is the nurſe, nay, mother of all impiety: πάντα ὅσα ποιήσειεν, &c. whatſoever an ignorant man or fool doth, is unholy and wicked neceſſarily; ignorance being μανίας εἶδος, a ſpecies of madneſs, and no mad-man being capable of any ſober action; ſo that if their ignorance were in the midſt of means of knowledge, then muſt it be perverſe; if it had an impure influence upon all their actions, then was it malicious and full of guilt. 2. Their chief ground that ſuſtained and continued their ignorance, proves it to be not blind but affected, which ground you ſhall find by the Heathen objection in Clem. to be a reſolution not to change the religion of their fathers. 'Tis an unreaſonable thing, ſay the Heathens, which they never will be brought to, to change the cuſtoms bequeathed to them by their anceſtors. From whence the Father ſolidly concludes, that there was not any means in nature, which could make the Chriſtian Religion contemned and hated, but only this peſtilent cuſtom of never altering any cuſtoms or laws, though never ſo unreaſonable: οὐ γὰρ ἐμοιγε, &c. 'tis not poſſible that ever any nation ſhould have and fly from this greateſt bleſſing that ever was beſtowed upon mankind, to wit, the knowledge and worſhip of God, unleſs

1 Eth. 9.

Eth. 1. 10.

* f. by.

Eth. l. 1. c. 7.

1 Met. 4.

l. 2. p. 17.

1 Met. 2.

c. 2.

προτρεπτ. p. 36.

V. Clem. προτρεπτ. p. 56.

προτρεπτ. p. 42.

ἀσυνζεῖς ἔθος ὡς νόμῳ ἐφυλάχθη.

Wiſd. xiv. 16.

Tert. Apol.

unleſs being carried on by cuſtom, they reſolved to go the old way to Hell, rather than to venture on a new path to Heaven. Hence it is, that Athenagoras in his Treaty with Commodus for the Chriſtians, wonders much that among ſo many Laws made yearly in Rome, there was not one enacted μὴ εἶργειν τὰ πάτρια καὶ γήλοια ἦθη, that men ſhould forſake the cuſtoms of their fathers, which were any way abſurd. From whence he falls ſtraight to their abſurd Deities, as if it being made lawful to relinquiſh ridiculous cuſtoms, there would be no plea left for their ridiculous gods. So Euſebius Prep. l. 2. makes the cauſe of the continuance of ſuperſtition to be, that no man dared to move thoſe things which ancient cuſtom of the Country had authorized; and ſo alſo in his fourth book, where to bring in Chriſtianity was accounted κινεῖν τὰ ἀκίνητα, to change things that were fixt, καὶ πολυπραγμονεῖν, &c. and to be pragmatical, friends of innovation; and ſo 'tis plain they eſteemed St. Paul, and hated him in that name, as an Innovator, becauſe he preached unto them Jeſus and the reſurrection, Acts 17. 18. So Acts the 16. 21. St. Paul is ſaid to teach cuſtoms which were not lawful for them to receive nor obſerve, being Romans, becauſe, ſaith Caſaubon out of Dio, 'twas not lawful for the Romans to innovate any thing in religion, for ſaith Dio, this bringing in of new Gods, will bring in new Laws with it. So that if (as hath been proved) their not acknowledging of the true God, was grounded upon a perverſe reſolution, not to change any cuſtom of their fathers, either in opinion or practice, though never ſo abſurd; then was the ignorance (or as St. Paul might have called it, the idolatry) of thoſe times impious, affected, not a natural blindneſs, but a pertinacious winking, not a ſimple deafneſs, but a reſolved ſtubbornneſs not to hear the voice of the charmer; which we might further prove by ſhewing you thirdly, how their learning or πολυμαθία, which might be proved an excellent preparative to religion, their Philoſophy, which was to them as the Law to the Jews, by their uſing of it to a perverſe end, grew ordinarily very pernicious to them. 4. How that thoſe which knew moſt, and were at the top of prophane knowledge, did then fall moſt deſperately headlong into Atheiſm; as Hippocrates obſerves, that Ἀθληλικὴ ἕξις, and St. Baſil, that ἡ ἐν ἀκμῇ ἰσχὺς, the moſt perfect conſtitution of body, ſo of the ſoul, is moſt dangerous, if not ſuſtained with good care and wiſdom. 5. How they always forged lies to ſcandal the people of God, as Manetho the famous Ægyptian Hiſtorian ſaith, that Moſes and the Jews were baniſhed out of Ægypt, διὰ λέπραν, becauſe of an infectious leproſie that over-ſpread the Jews, as Theophilus cites it, and Juſtine out of Trogus, and alſo Tacitus; and the Primitive Chriſtians were branded and abomined by them for three ſpecial faults, which they were little likely to be guilty of; 1. Atheiſm, 2. Eating their Children, 3. Inceſtuous, common uſing of women, as we find them ſet down and confuted by Athen. in his Treaty or Apology, and Theophilus ad Autol. &c. 6. By their own confeſſion, as of Plato to his friend, when he wrote in earneſt, and ſecretly acknowledging the unity which he openly denied, againſt his conſcience and the light of reaſon in him; and Orpheus the inventer of the πολυθεΐτας, profeſſing and worſhipping 365. Gods all his life time, at his death left in his will διὰ πάντα θεὸν, that, however he had perſwaded them all the while, there was indeed but one God. And laſtly, how theſe two affections in them, admiration and gratitude; admiration of men of extraordinary worth, and gratitude for more than ordinary benefactions done either to particular men or Nations, were the chief promoters of idolatry; making the Heathens worſhip them as Gods, whom they were acquainted with, and knew to be but men, as might be proved variouſly and at large. If I could inſiſt upon any or each of theſe, it would be moſt evident, what I hope now at laſt is proved enough, that the ignorance of thoſe times was not ſimple, blind ignorance, but malign, perverſe, ſacrilegious, affected, ſtubborn, wilful, I had almoſt ſaid, knowing ignorance in them; which being the thing we firſt promiſed to demonſtrate, we muſt next make up the Propoſition which is yet imperfect, to wit, that ignorance in theſe Heathen, in Gods juſtice, might have provoked him to have pretermitted the whole world of ſucceeding Gentiles: which I muſt diſpatch only in a word, becauſe I would fain deſcend to Application, which I intended to be the main, but the improvident expence of my time, hath now left only to be the cloſe of my diſcourſe.

πρεσβ. χριστιανῶν. p. 1. B. P. 2. A.

P. 47.

P. 78.

Acts xvii. 18.

ἀλλοίωσιν μὴν ποιεῖσθαι.

Aph. 3. P. 230.

Ad Autol. l. 3. P. 130. L. 36.

P. 4.

L 3. p. 119.

Theop. ad Autol. l. 3. p. 117.

2 Chryſoſt. Hom. 1. p. 15.

The ignorance of thoſe times being of this compoſition, both in reſpect of the ſuperſtition of their worſhip, which was perverſe, as hath been proved, and the prophaneneſs of their lives, being abominable even to nature (as might farther be ſhewed) is now no longer to be called ignorance, but prophaneneſs, and a prophaneneſs ſo Epidemical over all the Gentiles, ſo inbred and naturalized among them, that it was even become their property, radicated in their mythical times, and by continual ſucceſſion derived down to them by their generations. So that if either a natural man with the eye of reaſon, or a ſpiritual man by obſervation of Gods other acts of juſtice, ſhould look upon the Gentiles in that ſtate which they were in at Chriſts coming, all of them damnable ſuperſtitious, or rather idolatrous in their worſhip; all of them damnable prophane in their lives; and which was worſe, all of them peremptorily reſolved, and by a law of homage to the cuſtoms of their fathers, neceſſarily ingaged to continue in the road of damnation; he would certainly give the whole ſucceſſion of them over as deſperate people, infinitely beyond hopes or probability of ſalvation. And this may appear by St. Peter in the 10. of the Acts, where this very thing, that the Gentiles ſhould be called, was ſo incredible a myſtery, that he was fain to be caſt into a trance, and to receive a viſion to interpret it to his belief: and a firſt or a ſecond command could not perſwade him to ariſe, kill, and eat, verſe 16. that is, to preach to Gentiles; he was ſtill objecting the τὸ κοινὸν καὶ ἀκάθαρτον, the prophaneneſs and uncleanneſs of them. And at laſt, when by the aſſurance of the ſpirit, v. 15. and the Heathen Cornelius his diſcourſe with him, he was plainly convinced, what otherwiſe he never dreamt poſſible, that God had a deſign of mercy on the Gentiles, he breaks out into a phraſe both of acknowledgment and admiration, Of a truth I perceive, &c. verſe 34. and that you may not judge it was one ſingle Doctors opinion, 'tis added, verſe 45. And they of the Circumciſion which believed, were aſtoniſhed, becauſe that on the Gentiles alſo was poured out the gift of the Holy Ghoſt. Nay, in the 3 to the Epheſians verſe 10. it is plain, that the calling of the Gentiles was ſo ſtrange a thing, that the Angels themſelves knew not of it till it was effected. For this was the myſtery which from the beginning of the world had been hid in God, verſe 9. which was now made known by the Church to principalities and powers, verſe 10. The brief plain meaning of which hard place is, that by St. Pauls preaching to the Gentiles, by this new

Acts x.

Verſe 16.

Verſe 15.

Verſe 34.

Verſe 45.

work done in the Church, to wit, the calling of the Gentiles, the Angels came to underſtand ſomewhat, which was before too obſcure for them, till it was explained by the event, and in it the manifold wiſdom of God. And this Propoſition I might prove to you by many Topicks: 1. By ſymptoms, that their eſtate was deſperate, and their diſeaſe ὀλέθειον κάρτα κακόν, very, very mortal; as that God, when he would mend a people, he puniſheth them with afflictions; when he intends to ſtop a current of impetuous ſinners, he lays the ax to the root, in a παμπληθεία or total ſubverſion of them: but when his puniſhments are ſpiritual, as they were here, when he ſtrikes neither with the rod, nor with the ſword, but makes one ſin the puniſhment of another, as unnatural luſt of idolatry, and the like; when he leaves a nation to it ſelf, and the very judgement laid upon them, makes them only leſs capable of mercy; then is it much to be feared that God hath little mercy intended for that people, their deſertion being a forerunner of judgment without mercy. 2. I might prove it ab exemplo, and that exactly with a nec datur diſſimile in Scripture, that the nine Monarchies which the learned obſerve in Scripture, were each of them deſtroyed for idolatry, in which ſin the Heathen now received to mercy, ſurpaſs all the precedent world, and for all their many deſtructions, ſtill uniformly continued in their provocation. Theſe and the like arguments I purpoſely omit, as * concerning St. Peters viſion mentioned before out of the 10 of the Acts, ſufficiently to clear the point, and therefore judging any farther enlargement of proofs ſuperfluous, I haſten with full ſpeed to Application.

* ſ. conceiving.

And firſt from the conſideration of our eſtate, who being the off-ſpring of thoſe Gentiles, might in the juſtice of God have been left to Heatheniſm, and in all probability, till St. Peters viſion diſcovered the contrary, were likely to have been pretermitted eternally; to make this both the motive and buſineſs of our humiliation: for there is ſuch a Chriſtian duty required of us, for which we ought to ſet apart ſome tithe, or other portion of time, in which we are to call our ſelves to an account for all the general guilts, for all thoſe more Catholick engagements that either our ſtock, our nation, the ſins of our progenitors back to the beginning of the world, nay, the common corruption of our nature hath plunged us in. To paſs by that ranker guilt of actual ſins (for which I truſt, every man here, hath daily ſome ſolemn Aſſizes to arraign himſelf) my text will afford us yet ſome farther indictments; if 1700 years ago, our father were then an Amorite, and mother an Hittite, if we being then in their loyns, were incloſed in the compaſs of their idolatry; and as all in Adam, ſo beſides that, we again in the Gentiliſm of our Fathers, were all deeply plunged in a double common damnation; how are we to humble our ſelves infinitely above meaſure; to ſtretch, and rack, and torture every power of our ſouls to its extent, thereby to enlarge and aggravate the meaſure of this guilt againſt our ſelves, which hitherto perhaps we have not taken notice of? There is not a better μαλακλιμὸν in the world, no more powerful medicine for the ſoftning of the ſoul, and keeping it in a Chriſtian tenderneſs, than this lading it with all the burdens that its common or private condition can make it capable of; this tiring of it out, and bringing it down into the duſt, in the ſenſe of its ſpiritual engagements. For 'tis impoſſible for him, who hath fully valued the weight of his general guilts, each of which hath lead enough to ſink the moſt corky, vain, fluctuating, proud, ſtubborn heart in the world; 'tis impoſſible, I ſay, for him either wilfully to run into any actual ſins, or inſolently to hold up his head in the pride of his integrity. This very one meditation, that we all hear might juſtly have been left in heatheniſm, and that the ſins of the Heathens ſhall be imputed to us their children, if we do not repent, is enough to looſen the toughеſt, ſtrongeſt ſpirit, to melt the flintieſt heart, to humble the moſt elevated ſoul, to habituate it with ſuch a ſenſe of its common miſeries, that it ſhall never have courage or confidence to venter on the danger of particular Rebellions.

2. From the view of their ignorance or impiety, which was of ſo hainous importance, to examine our ſelves by their indictment, 1. For our learning; 2. For our lives; 3. For the life of grace in us. 1. For our learning, Whether that be not mixed with a great deal of Atheiſtical ignorance, with a delight, and aquieſcence, and contentation in thoſe lower Elements, which have nothing of God in them: whether we have not ſacrificed the livelieſt and ſpritefulleſt part of our age, and ſouls, in theſe Philological and Phyſical diſquiſitions, which if they have not a perpetual aſpect and aim at Divinity, if they be not ſet upon in that reſpect, and made uſe of to that purpoſe; κάρα βλάπλει, ſaith Clement, their beſt friend, they are very hurtful, and of dangerous iſſue; Whether out of our circle of humane heathen learning, whence the Fathers produced precious antidotes, we have not ſuckt the poyſon of unhallowed vanity, and been fed either to a pride and oſtentation of our ſecular, or a ſatiety or loathing of our Theological learning, as being too coarſe and homely for our quainter palates; Whether our ſtudies have not been guilty of thoſe faults which curſed the Heathen knowledge, as truſting to our ſelves, or wit and good parts, like the Philoſophers in Athenagoras, ὑ παρὰ Θεοῦ, &c. not vouchſafing to be taught by God, even in matters of religion, but every man conſulting, and believing, and relying on his own reaſon; Again, in making our ſtudy an inſtrument only to ſatisfie our curioſity, ὡς τ' ἀληθῶς θεαταὶ, only as ſpeculators of ſome unknown truths, not intending or deſiring thereby either to promote vertue, good works, or the Kingdom of God in our ſelves, or which is the ultimate end (which only commends and bleſſes our ſtudy or knowledge) the glory of God in others.

Strom. 1. vid. A. 17.

Apol. pro Chriſtian. p. 8. A.

2. In our lives, to examine whether there are not alſo many relicks of heatheniſm, altars erected to Baalim, to Ceres, to Venus, and the like; Whether there be not many amongſt us whoſe God is their belly, their back, their luſt, their treaſure, or that ἄγνωστος θεὸς, that earthly unknown God (whom we have no one name for, and therefore is called at large) the God of the world; Whether we do not with as much zeal, and earneſtneſs, and coſt, ſerve and worſhip many earthy vanities which our own phanſies deifie for us, as ever the Heathen did their multitude and ſhole of gods; And in brief, whether we have not found in our ſelves the ſins, as well as the blood of the Gentiles, and acted over ſome or all the abominations, ſet down to judge our ſelves by, Rom. i. from the 21 verſe to the end.

Laſtly, for the life of grace in us, Whether many of us are not as arrant heathens, as mere ſtrangers gers from ſpiritual illumination, and ſo from the myſtical Commonwealth of Iſrael, as any of them; Clem. Strom. 2. calls the life of your unregenerate man, a Heathen life, and the firſt life we have by which we live, and move, and grow, and ſee, but underſtand nothing; and 'tis our regeneration by which we raiſe our ſelves ἐξ ἐθνῶν, from being ſtill mere Gentiles: and Tatianus farther; that without the ſpirit, we differ from beaſts, only καθ' ὑπαθον φωνὴν, by the articulation of our voice. So that in fine, neither our reaſon, nor Chriſtian profeſſion, diſtinguiſheth us either from beaſts, or Gentiles; only the ſpirit in the formalis ratio by which we excel and differ from the Heathen ſons of darkneſs. Wherefore, I ſay, to conclude, we muſt in the cleareſt calm and ſerenity of our ſouls, make a moſt earneſt ſearch and inqueſt on our ſelves, whether we are yet raiſed out of this heatheniſm, this ignorance, this unregeneracy of nature, and elevated any degree in the eſtate of grace; and if we find our ſelves ſtill Gentiles, and (which is worſe than that) ſtill ſenſeleſs of that our condition, we muſt ſtrive, and work, and pray our ſelves out of it, and not ſuffer the temptations of the fleſh, the temptations of our nature, the temptations of the world, nay, the temptations of our ſecular, proud learning, lull us one minute longer in that carnal ſecurity, leſt after a careleſs unregenerate natural life, we die the death of thoſe bold, not vigilant, but ſtupid Philoſophers. And for thoſe of us who are yet any way Heatheniſh, either in our learning or lives; which have nothing but the name of Chriſtians to exempt us from the judgment of their ignorance; "O Lord, make us in time ſenſible "of this our condition, and whenſoever we ſhall humble our ſelves before thee, and confeſs unto "thee the ſinfulneſs of our nature, the ignorance of our Anceſtors, and every man the plague of his "own heart, and repent and turn, and pray toward thy houſe, then hear thou in Heaven thy "dwelling place, and when thou heareſt forgive; remember not our offences, nor the offences of "our Heathen Fathers, neither take thou vengeance of our ſins, but ſpare us O Lord, ſpare thy peo-"ple whom thy Son hath redeemed, and thy ſpirit ſhall ſanctifie, from the guilt and practice of their rebellions.

Clem. Strom. 2. p. 281.

περὶ Ἑλλ. p. 154.

Now to God, who hath elected us, hath, &c.

SER-

Pars Secunda.

SERMON XIII.

ACTS XVII. 30.

And the times of this ignorance God winked at, but now commandeth all men every where to repent.

THey which come from either mean or diſhonoured Progenitors, will deſire to make up their Fathers defect by their own induſtry, φιλοπονώτεροι γίνονται, ſaith Leo in his Tacticks, Will be more forward to undertake any valiant enterprize, to recover that reputation, which their Anceſtors Cowardice and unworthy Carriage forfeited. So doth it nearly concern the Son of a Bankrupt, to ſet upon all the courſes of Thrift, and ſtratagems of frugality, to get out of that hereditary poverty, in which his Fathers improvidence had ingaged him. Thus is it alſo in the poverty and bankrupt eſtate of the Soul: they who come from prodigal Anceſtors, which have embezled all the riches of Gods mercy, ſpent profuſely all the light of nature, and alſo ſome ſparks out of the Scriptures, and whatſoever knowledge and directions they meet with, either for the ordering of their worſhip, or their Lives, ſpent it all upon Harlots, turned all into the adoring of thoſe Idol-gods, wherein conſiſts the ſpiritual Adultery of the Soul; Thoſe I ſay who are the ſtems of this ignorant, profane, Idolatrous root, ought to endeavour the utmoſt of their powers, and will, in probability, be ſo wiſe and careful as to lay ſome ſtrict obligations on themſelves, to ſtrive to ſome perfection in thoſe particulars which their Anceſtors fail'd in: that if the Gentiles were perverſly blind, and reſolutely, peremptorily ignorant, then muſt their Progeny ſtrive to wipe off the guilt and avoid the puniſhment of their ignorance. Now this ignorance of theirs being not only by Clemens and the Fathers, but by Triſmegiſtus in his Pamander, defined to be μέθη, καὶ ἀσέβεια, καὶ ὕπνος ἄλογος, a prophaneneſs, an irrational ſleep, and drunkenneſs of the ſoul; in ſumm, an ignorance of themſelves, and of God, and a ſtupid neglect of any duty belonging to either; this ignorance being either in it ſelf or in its fruits κακία καὶ ψυχῆς, the wickedneſs of the ſoul, and all manner of tranſgreſſion: The only way for us, the Succeſſors of theſe ignorant Gentiles, to repair thoſe ruins, to renew the Image of God in our ſelves, which their Idolatrous ignorance defaced, muſt be to take the oppoſite courſe to them, and to provide our remedy antiparallel to their Diſeaſe, (i. e.) in reſpect of their ſimple ignorance, to labour for knowledge; in reſpect of the effects of their ignorance, idolatry, prophaneneſs, and all manner of wickedneſs, to labour for Piety and Repentance. Briefly, if their ignorance of God was an heinous ſin, and virtually all kind of ſin, then to eſteem repentance the greateſt knowledge, to approve and ſecond the force and method of S. Paul's argument, to preſcribe our ſelves what ever God commands. For ſo here in this Chapter, having diſcourſt over their ignorance, he makes that a motive of our repentance, and that back't with a ſpecial Item from God, Who now commands every man every where to repent.

Lib. 2. p. 7. 1.

P. 10. m.

We have heretofore divided theſe words, and in them handled already the ignorance of the ancient Heathen, which in the juſtice of God might have provoked him to have pretermitted the whole World of ſucceeding Gentiles. We now come to the ſecond part; the mercy of God, not imputing their ignorance to our charge, whoſoever every where to the end of the World ſhall repent. And in this you muſt conſider, firſt Gods Covenant made with the Gentiles, or the receiving them into the Church, deduced out of theſe words, But now commands, for all to whom God makes known his commands, are by that very cognizance known to be parts of his Church; and with all theſe he enters Covenant, he promiſeth Salvation, upon performance of the condition required by his Commands, Repentance. Secondly, the condition it ſelf, in the laſt words, to repent. And then laſtly, the extent of both; the latitude of the perſons with whom this Covenant is made, and from whom this condition is exacted, all men every where. And firſt of the firſt, the Covenant made with the Gentiles, or the receiving them into the Church, noted in theſe words, But now commands, &c.

'Tis obſervable in our common affairs, that we do not uſe to lay our commands on any, but thoſe who have ſome relation to us: a King will not vouchſafe to imploy any in any peculiar ſervice, but thoſe whom he hath entertained, and by Oath admitted into his Court. And 'tis the livery by which one is known to belong to ſuch a Family, if he be employed in either common or ſpecial ſervice by the Maſter of it. To expreſs it more generally, they are call'd natural members of a Kingdom, who are tyed to Obedience, to all laws or cuſtoms national, who are engaged in the common burthens, as well as priviledges, the ſervices, as well as benefits of a Subject. The Eccleſiaſtical Canons are meant and exhibited only to thoſe, who are either in truth, or profeſſion, parts of the Church: the Turk or Infidel profeſs'd, is not honoured ſo much as to be bound to them. The orders and peculiar liar Laws of a City or Country, are directed to thoſe, who are either Cives, or Civitate donati; and our Oaths and obligations to theſe, or theſe local Collegiate ſtatutes, argue us ἐγγεγραμμένους, to be members of this or that foundation. Now to whomſoever theſe Laws and commands do belong, whoſoever is thus entertained, and admitted into ſervices, is partaker alſo of all advantages which belong to a member of a Family; and is by Covenant to receive all emoluments in as ample a manner as any other of his quality. And this briefly is the ſtate of the Gentiles here in the Text, who, in that God commands them here to repent (which is the law and condition of the New Teſtament) are judged upon theſe grounds to be received into the Covenant of the New Teſtament, and conſequently, made members of the Church. For as once it was an argument, that only Jury was Gods people, becauſe they only received his Commands, and the Heathen had not knowledge of his Laws; ſo now was it as evident a proof, that the Heathen were received into his Church (i. e.) into the number of thoſe whom he had culled out for Salvation, becauſe he made known his Ordinances to them, entertained them in his ſervice, and commanded them every one every where to repent. Appian obſerves in his Proeme to his Hiſtory, that the Romans were very coy in taking ſome Nations into their Dominions; they could not be perſwaded by every one, to be their Lords: he ſaw himſelf many Embaſſadors from the Barbarians, who came ſolemnly to give themſelves up to the Roman greatneſs, ambitious to be received into the number of their Dominions, ὁ δ' ἐβούλετο βασιλέα, and the King would not receive ſuch low unprofitable ſervants. 'Twas eſteemed a preferment, which it ſeems every Nation could not attain to, to be under the Roman Government, and commanded by the Roman Laws: and there were many reaſons, if we may judge by the outſide, why the Gentiles ſhould not be likely to obtain this privilege from God, to be vouchſafed his commands. For firſt they had been * neazled up in ſo many Centuries of ignorance, they had been ſo ſtarved with thin hard fare, under the tyranny of a continued ſuperſtition, which gave them no ſolid nouriſhment, nothing but Huſks, and Acorns to feed on, that they were now grown horrid and almoſt ghaſtly, being paſt all amiableneſs or beauty, ἐς οὐδὲν χρήσιμοι, good for nothing in the World. We ſee in Hiſtories, that perpetual Wars hinder Tillage, and ſuffer them not to beſtow that culture on the ground, which the ſubſiſtence of the Kingdom requires. Thus was it with the Gentiles in the time of their διαμαχία, their hoſtility with God: they generally beſtowed no trimming or culture on the Soul, either to improve or adorn it; and then, receiving no ſpiritual food from God, all paſſages being ſhut up by their Idolatry, they were famiſhed into ſuch a meagerneſs, they were ſo ungainly and Creſt-fala, that all the fat Kine of Ægypt according to Pharaoh's Dream, all heathen learning could not mend their looks, they were ſtill for all their Philoſophy, like the lean Kine that had devoured the fat, yet thrived not on it; they were ſtill poor and ill favoured, ſuch as were not to be ſeen in all the land of Jury for badneſs, Gen. xli. 19.

* ſ. neſtled.

2. They had engaged themſelves in ſuch a courſe, that they could ſcarce ſeem ever capable of being received into any favour with God. Polybius obſerves it as a policy of thoſe which were delighted in ſtirs and Wars, to put the people upon ſome inhumane, cruel practice, ſome killing of Embaſſadors, or the like feat, which was unlawful even amongſt Enemies, that after ſuch an action the Enemy ſhould be incenſed beyond hope of reconciliation. So did Aſdrubal in Appian, uſe the Captive Romans with all poſſible Cruelty, with all arts of inhumanity, fley'd them, cut off their Fingers, and then hanged them alive; to the end, ſaith he, that thereby he might make the diſſentions of Carthage and Rome ἀδιάλακτα, not poſſibly to be compoſed, but to be proſecuted with a perpetual hoſtility. This was the effect of Achitophels counſel to Abſalom, that he ſhould ly with his Fathers Concubines; and this alſo was the Devils Plot upon the Gentiles, who as if they were not enough Enemies unto God for the ſpace of 2000. years Idolatry, at laſt reſolved to fill up the meaſure of their Rebellions, to make themſelves, if it were poſſible, ſinful beyond capability of mercy; and to provoke God to an eternal revenge, they muſt needs join in crucifying Chriſt, and partake of the ſhedding of that blood, which hath ever ſince ſo died the Souls, and curſed the ſucceſſions of the Jews. For it is plain, 1. by the kind of his death, which was Roman; 2. by his Judge, who was Cæſaris Rationalis, by whom Judæa was then governed; or as Tacitus ſaith in the 15. of his Annals, Cæſars Procurator; all capital judgments being taken from the Jews Sanhedrim, as they confeſs, Joh. xviii. 21. it is not lawful for us to put any one to death; 3. by the Prophecy, Mat. xx. 19. They ſhall deliver him to the Gentiles: by theſe I ſay, and many other arguments, 'tis plain that the Gentiles had their part and guilt in the Crucifying of Chriſt, and ſo by ſlaying of the Son, as it is in the Parable, provoked and deſerved the implacable revenge of the Father. And yet for all this, God enters League, and Truce, and Peace with them, thinks them worthy to hear and obey his Laws; nay above the eſtate of Servants, takes them into the liberty and free eſtate of the Goſpel, and by binding them to Ordinances as Citizens, expreſſeth them to be Civitate donatos cœleſti, within the pale of the Church, and Covenant of Salvation. They which are overcome and taken Captives in War, may by Law be poſſeſt by the Victor for all manner of ſervitude and ſlavery, and therefore ought to eſteem any the hardeſt conditions of peace and liberty, as favours and mercies, ἐν χάριτι καὶ δωρεᾷ λαμβάνειν, ſaith Marcus in Polybius: they which are conquered muſt acknowledge themſelves beholding to the Victor, if he will upon any terms allow them quarter, or truce. Thus was it, above all other Sinners, with the Gentiles of that time; after 2000. years War with the one God, they were now fallen into his hands, ready to receive the ſoreſt ſtrokes, to bear the ſhrewdeſt burdens he could lay on them; had it not been then a favour above hope, to be received even as hired Servants, which was the higheſt of the Prodigals ambition? Luke xv. 19. Had it not been a very hoſpitable carriage towards the Dogs, as they are called, Mat. xv. 26. to ſuffer them to lick up thoſe crums, which fell from the childrens table? Yet ſo much are Gods mercies above the pitch of our expectation, or deſerts; above what we are able or confident enough to ask, or hope; that he hath aſſumed and adopted theſe Captives into Sons. And as once by the counſel of God, Jacob ſupplanted Eſau, and thruſt him out of his Birthright; ſo now by the mercy of God, Eſau hath ſupplanted Jacob, and taken his room in Gods Church and Favour; and inſtead of that one language of the Jews, of which the Church ſo long conſiſted, now is come in the confuſion of the Gentiles, Parthians, Medes, Elamites, and the Babel of tongues,

Lib. 1. p. 29.

Ap. B. p. 54.

Luke xv. 19. Mat. xv. 26.

tongues, Act. ii. 9. And as once at the diſperſion of the Gentiles by the miracle of a puniſhment,
Gen xi. 9. they which were all of one tongue, could not underſtand one another, Gen. xi. 9. ſo now at the ga-
V. Leo p. 67. thering of the Gentiles by a miracle of mercy, they which were of ſeveral tongues, underſtood one
Acts ii. 6. another, and every Nation heard the Apoſtles ſpeak in their own language, Acts ii. 6. noting thereby, ſaith Auſtin, that the Catholick Church ſhould be diſperſed over all nations, and ſpeak in as many languages as the world hath tongues. Concerning the buſineſs of receiving the Gentiles into covenant, De Civit. l. St. Auſtin is plentiful in his 18. Book de Civit. Dei, where he interprets the ſymbolical writing, and
18. p. 49. c. reads the riddles of the Prophets to this purpoſe, how they are called the children of Iſrael, Hoſ. i.
Hoſ. i. 11. 11. as if Eſau had robbed Jacob of his name, as well as inheritance; that they are declared by the
Eſa. liv. 1. title of barren and deſolate, Eſa. liv. 1. whoſe fruitfulneſs ſhould break forth, ſurpaſs the number of the children of the married wife. To this purpoſe doth he enlarge himſelf to expound many other places of the Prophets, and among them, the prophecy of Obadiah, from which (Edom, by a pars pro toto, ſignifying the Gentiles) he expreſly concludes their calling, and ſalvation: but how that can hold in that place, ſeeing the whole prophecy is a denunciation of judgements againſt Edom, and ver. 10. 'tis expreſly read, For thy violence againſt thy brother Jacob, ſhame ſhall cover thee, and thou ſhalt be cut out for ever; How, I ſay, from that place, amongſt others, this truth may be deduced, I leave to the revealers of Revelations, and that undertaking ſort of people, the peremptory expounders of depths, and prophecies. In the mean time we have places enough of plain prediction, beyond the uncertainty of a gueſs, which diſtinctly foretold this bleſſed Catholick Truth, and though Peter had not markt or remembred them ſo exactly, as to underſtand that, by them, the Gentiles were to be preach'd to, and no longer to be accounted prophane and unclean, Act. x. yet 'tis more than probable, that the devil, a great contemplator, and well ſeen in prophecies, obſerv'd ſo much; and therefore knowing Chriſts coming to be the ſeaſon for fulfilling it, about that time drooped, and ſenſibly decayed; loſt much of his courage, and was not ſo active amongſt the Gentiles as he had been; his oracles began to grow ſpeechleſs, and to ſlink away before hand, leſt tarrying ſtill, they ſhould have been turned out with ſhame. Which one thing, the ceaſing of Oracles, though it be by Plutarch, and ſome other of the Devils champions, refer'd plauſibly to the change of the ſoyl, and failing of Enthuſiaſtical vapours and exhalations; yet was it an evident argument, that at Chriſts coming, Satan ſaw the Gentiles were no longer fit for his turn, they were to be received into a more honourable ſervice under the living God, neceſſarily to be impatient of the weight and ſlavery of his ſuperſtitions; and therefore it concern'd him to prevent violence with a voluntary flight, leſt otherwiſe he ſhould with all his train of oracles, have been forced out of their coaſts: for Lucifer was to vaniſh like lightning, when the light to lighten the Gentiles did but begin to appear; and his laws were out-dated, when God would once be pleaſed to command. Now that (in a word) we may more clearly ſee, what calling, what entring into covenant with the Gentiles, is here meant by Gods commanding them; we are to rank the commands of God into two ſorts; 1. common Catholick commands, and theſe extend as far as the viſible Church; 2. peculiar commands, inward operations of the ſpirit, theſe are both priviledges and characters, and properties of the inviſible Church (i. e.) the Elect; and in both theſe reſpects doth he vouchſafe his commands to the Mat. xxiv. 31. Gentiles. In the firſt reſpect God hath his louder trumpets, σάλπιγγος φωνῆς μεγάλης, Matth. xxiv. 31. which all acknowledge, who are in the noiſe of it, and that is the ſound of the Goſpel, the hearing of which, conſtitutes a viſible Church. And thus at the preaching of the Goſpel, εἰς πάντα ἔθνη, all the Heathens had knowledge of his Laws, and ſo were offered the Covenant, if they would ac-
Acts i. 25. cept the condition. For however that place, Acts i. 25. be by one of our writers of the Church wreſted, by changing (that I ſay not, by falſifying) the punctuation, to witneſs this truth, I think we need not ſuch ſhifts to prove, that God took ſome courſe by the means of the Miniſtry and Apoſtleſhip, to make known to all Nations under Heaven (i. e.) to ſome of all Nations, both his Go-
Rom. x. 18. ſpel and Commands; the ſound of it went through all the earth, Rom. x. 18. cited out of the xix. Pſal.
Pſal. xix. 4. verſe 4, though with ſome change of a word, their ſound, in the Romans, for their line, in the Pſalmiſt, cauſed by the Greek Tranſlators, who either read and rendred קַוָּם for קָוָּם, or elſe laid ש hold of the Arabick notion of the word, the loud noiſe and clamour which hunters make in their purſuit and chaſe. So Mark xiv. 9. This Goſpel ſhall be preached throughout the world; So Mark xvi.
Mar. xiv. 9. 15. To every creature; Matth. xxiv. 14. in all the world, and many the like, as belongs to our laſt
Mar. xvi. 15. particular to demonſtrate. Beſides this, God had in the ſecond reſpect, his vocem pediſſequam, which Matt. xxiv. 14. the Prophet mentions, a voice attending us to tell us of our duty, to ſhew us the way, and accompany us therein. And this, I ſay, ſounds in the heart, not in the ear, and they only hear and underſtand the voice, who are partakers as well of the effect, as of the news of the Covenant. Thus in theſe two reſpects doth he command, by his word in the Ears of the Gentiles, by giving every man Juſt. l. 24. every where knowledge of his laws: and ſo in ſome Latine Authors, mandare ſignifies to give notice, to expreſs ones will, to declare or proclaim. And thus ſecondly, doth he command by his ſpirit in the ſpirits of the elect Gentiles, by giving them the benefit of adoption; and in both theſe reſpects he enters a Covenant with the Gentiles (which was the thing to be demonſtrated) with the whole name of them at large, with ſome choice veſſels of them more nearly and peculiarly; and this was the thing which by way of Doctrine we collected out of theſe words, but now commands.] Now that we may not let ſuch a precious truth paſs by unreſpected, that ſuch an important ſpeculation may not float only in our brains, we muſt by way of Application preſs it down to the heart, and fill our ſpirits with the comfort of that Doctrine, which hath matter for our practice as well as our contemplation. For if we do but lay to our thoughts, 1. the miracle of the Gentiles calling (as hath been heretofore and now inſiſted on) and 2. mark how nearly the receiving of them into Covenant, concerns us their ſucceſſors, we ſhall find real motives to provoke us to a ſtrain and key above ordinary thanksgiving. For as Peter ſpake of Gods promiſe, ſo it is in the like nature of Gods command (which is alſo virtually a promiſe) it belonged not to them only, but it is to you and your children, and Acts ii. 39. to all that are afar off, even as many as the Lord our God ſhall call, Acts ii. 39. From the firſt, the miracle of their calling, our gratitude may take occaſion much to enlarge it ſelf. 'Tis ſtoried of Bra-

ſidas

ſidas * in the fourth of Thucydides, that imputing the Victory which was ſomewhat miraculous, to ſome more than ordinary humane cauſe, he went preſently to the Temple loaded with Offerings, and would not ſuffer the gods to beſtow ſuch an unexpected favour on him unrewarded: and can we paſs by ſuch a mercy of our God without a ſpiritual Sacrifice, without a daily Anthem of Magnificats and Hallelujah's? Herodotus obſerves it is as a Proverb of Greece, that if God would not ſend them rain, they were to famiſh; for they had, ſaid he, no natural Fountains, or any other help of Waters, ὅτι μὴ ἐκ τοῦ Διὸς μοῦνον, but what God from above ſent. So ſaith Thucydides, in the fourth of his Hiſtory, there was but one Fountain within a great compaſs, and that none of the biggeſt. So alſo was Ægypt another part of the Heathen World, to be watered only by Nilus, and that being drawn by the Sun, did often ſuccour them, and fatten the Land, for which all the Neighbours fared the worſe: for when Nilus flowed, the Neighbouring Rivers were left dry, ſaith Herodotus. You need not the mythology; the Philoſophers, as well as ſoyl, of Greece, had not moiſture enough to ſuſtain them from nature; if God had not ſent them water from Heaven, they and all we Gentiles had for ever ſuffered a ſpiritual thirſt. Ægypt and all the Nations had for ever gaſped for drought, if the Sun-ſhine of the Goſpel had not by its beams call'd out of the Well which had no Bucket, ὕδωρ ζῶν, living or enlivening water, John 4. 6. But by this attraction of the Sun, theſe living Waters did ſo break out upon the Gentiles, that all the Waters of Jury were left dry, as once the dew was on Gideons Fleece, and drought on all the earth beſides, Judg. vi. 37. And is it reaſonable for us to obſerve this miracle of mercy, and not return even a miracle of thankſgiving? Can we think upon it without ſome rapture of our Souls? Can we inſiſt on it, and not feel a holy tempeſt within us, a ſtorm and diſquiet, till we have ſome way diſburthened and eaſed our ſelves, with a pouring out of thankſgiving? That ſpirit is too calm, (that I ſay not ſtupid) which can bear and be loaded with mercies of this kind, and not take notice of its burthen: for beſides thoſe peculiar favours beſtowed on us in particular, we are, as ſaith Chryſoſtome, Tom. 4. in our audit of thankſgiving, to reckon up all the τὰ κοινὰ γινόμενα, all thoſe common benefactions of which others partake with us: for 'tis, ſaith he, an ordinary negligence in us, to recount Gods mercies as we confeſs our ſins, only in groſs, with an ἁμαρτωλοὶ ἐσμεν, εὐεργέτησε θεὸς, we are great Sinners, and God hath abounded in mercies to us; never calling our ſelves to a ſtrict retail, either of our ſins, or his mercies; and this neglect, ſaith he, doth deprive us of a great deal of ſpiritual ſtrength. For 1. the recounting of the multitude of Gods mercies to us formerly, might give us confidence of the continuance of them, according to S. Cyprian, donando debet, God's paſt bleſſings are engagements, and pawns of future. 2. 'Tis, ſaith he, of excellent uſe, πρὸς τὸ οἰκεῖον, to bring us acquainted and familiar with God, and infinitely increaſeth our love to him, and deſire of performing ſome manner of recompence. Which one thing made the Heathen of old, ſo love and reſpect their Benefactors, that they worſhip't them, and would not ſuffer any common real benefaction to be done them, without an ἀναθήνωσι to the Author of it, as might be proved through all ancient Writings; for on theſe grounds was it, that they would needs Sacrifice to Paul and Barnabas, Acts xiv. 13. In the ſecond place, if we conſider how nearly it concerns us, that if they had been pretermitted, we to the end of the World, might probably have lived in the ſame darkneſs; that we now hold our right to Heaven, by the Covenant made to them; that thoſe commands belong alſo to us and our Children; then we muſt in ſome reaſon of proportion, thank God liberally, for that calling of the Gentiles, as we cannot chuſe but do for our preſent adoption, and enlarge our thankſgiving not for our own only, but for that firſt juſtification, ſanctification, and ſalvation of the Gentiles. And this effuſion of our Souls in thanks, will prove of good uſe to us, both to confirm our confidence, and keep us in a Chriſtian temper of humility and cheerful obedience. And therefore I thought good to preſent it to you in the firſt place, as a duty of no ordinary moment.

* Pag. 198.

Eurip. in Pag. 59.

Pag. 130.

Herod. p. 62.

Pag. 81.

Jud. vi. 37.

Pag. 824.

Acts xiv. 13.

2. If God hath commanded, and conſequently expects our obedience; if theſe commands concern us, and contain in them all that belongs to our Salvation; if they are, as hath been proved, Gods Covenant with the Gentiles; then, not to be wanting to our ſelves, but earneſtly to labour and provide, that no one circumſtance of them may be without its peculiar profit, and advantage to our Souls. Polybius from the War betwixt the Numidians and Uticenſes, obſerves, that if a Victory gotten by the Captain, be not by the Souldiers proſecuted to the utmoſt, it likely proves more dangerous, than if they had never had it: if the King, ſaith he, take the City, οἱ δὲ πολλοὶ διὰ περιπέμματα ῥαθυμοῦντες, and the multitude overjoy'd with the news, begin to grow leſs earneſt in the battle; a hundred to one, but the conquer'd will take notice and heart from this advantage, and, as the Uticenſes did, make their flight a ſtratagem to get the Victory. Thus is it in thoſe ſpiritual Combats, where God is our Leader, our Commander, our Conquerer againſt the Devils Hoſt; if we of his command, the οἱ πολλοὶ, the many, who expect our part in the profit of the Victory, do not proſecute this conqueſt to the utmoſt, to the utter diſcomfiting and diſarming of our Fugitive Enemy; if we ſhould grow ſecure upon the news, and neither fear nor prevent any farther difficulties; we may be in more danger for that former Conqueſt, and as 'twas ordinary in ſtory, by that time we have ſet up our Trophy's, our ſelves be overcome. I might preſcribe you many courſes, which it would concern you to undertake, for the right managing of this Victory, which this our Commander, hath not by his fighting, but by his very commanding, purchaſed us. But becauſe my Text requires haſte, and I go on but ſlowly, I muſt omit them, and only inſiſt on that which is ſpecified in my Text, Repentance, which drives to the condition of the Covenant, the matter of the command which comes next to be diſcuſs'd.

Lib. 1. p. 38.

The word Repent] may in this place be taken in a double ſenſe; 1. generally for a ſorrow for our ſins, and on that, a disburdening of our ſelves of that load which did formerly preſs down the Soul; for a ſenſe of our former ill courſes, and a deſire to fit our ſelves for Gods ſervice; for an humbling our ſelves before God, and flying to him as our only ſuccour; and ſo it well may be called the condition of Gods Covenant with us, that which God requires at our hands under the Goſpel: for it was the firſt word at the firſt preaching of the Goſpel, by John Baptiſt, Repent, for the Kingdom of God is at hand, Matth. iii. 2. which, ſaith the Text, was in effect, Prepare ye the way of the Lord, make his path ſtraight, Verſe 3. So that briefly, this repent is a ſtraightning and rectifying all crookedneſs, every diſtortion of the Soul, and thereby a preparing of it for the receiving of Chriſt and embracing his Goſpel. 2. In a nearer relation to the firſt words of the Verſe, repentance is taken more ſpecially by way of oppoſition, for a mending and forſaking of that which of old was the fault, and guilt of the Gentiles, a reforming of every thing which was either formally or virtually contain'd in their ignorance; and what that is, you ſhall briefly judge.

Mat. iii. 2.

'Tis obſerved by Interpreters, that doing or ſuffering, action or paſſion, are expreſt in Scripture by the word knowing; ſo to know ſin, is to commit ſin, to know a Woman, and the like. So Peter to the Maid, Math. xxvi. 70. I know not what thou ſaiſt (i. e.) I am not guilty of the doing what thou imputeſt to me. According to which Hebraiſm, to know God, and his Laws, is to worſhip him, and perform them: and conſequently, to be ignorant of both, is neither to worſhip God, nor practiſe any thing which his Laws command: and ſo, knowledge ſhall contain all piety and godly obedience, or love of Gods Commandments, as God is ſaid to know thoſe whom he loves; and ignorance, all prophaneneſs and neglect, yea and hatred either of God or goodneſs. According to which Expoſition are thoſe two ſayings, the one of Hermes in his tenth Book called ὅτι· ἡ πεισταξία τὸ ἀγνωσία τὸν Θεὸν, the ignorance of God is all manner of ſin; the other of Paſtor in Clemens, μετάνοια ἐστὶν μεγάλη, repentance is a great piece of knowledge or wiſdom. So that briefly, the recovering of the Soul to the pure knowledge of God and goodneſs, the worſhipping, loving, and obeying of God, is the thing here meant by repentance; which yet we may preſs into a nearer room, into one ſingle duty, the directing all our actions to his glory: for this is in effect to worſhip, to obey, to love God, to worſhip for obedience ſake, becauſe he commands it, to obey him for love's ſake, becauſe we deſire he ſhould be glorifyed in our obedience. And this is the excellency and perfection of a Chriſtian, infinitely above the reach of the proudeſt Moraliſts: this is the repentance of a Chriſtian, whereby he makes up thoſe defects which were moſt eminently notorious in the Heathen: this is the impreſſion of that humbling ſpirit, which proud Heathen nature was never ſtamp't with, for 'twas not ſo much their ignorance in which they offended God, (though that was alſo full of guilt, as hath been proved) as their miſuſing of their knowledge to ungainly ends, as either ambition, ſuperſtition, or for ſatisfying their curioſity, as partly hath, and for the preſent needs not farther to be demonſtrated. Only for us whom the command doth ſo nearly concern, of repenting for, and reforming their abuſes; how ſhall we be caſt at the Bar, if we ſtill continue in the ſame guilt? The orderly compoſition of the World, ſaith Athenagoras, the greatneſs, complexion, figure, and harmony of it, are τοῖς θεοσέβειαν ἐνίσχυσιν ἡμῖν, engagements to us and pawns to oblige us to a pious worſhip of God. For what Philoponus obſerves of the doctrine of the Soul, is in like manner true of all kind of learning, εἰς ὅλον τὸν βίον τείνει δόγματα ταῦτα, they extend and have an influence over all our converſation; and if they be well ſtudied, and to purpoſe, leave their characters and impreſſions in our lives, as well as our underſtandings: and from thence aroſe the Gentiles guilt, who did only enrich their intellectual part with the knowledge and contemplation of them, no whit better their lives, or glorify God which made them. But for us, whoſe knowledge is much elevated above their pitch, who ſtudy and ordinarily attain to the underſtanding of thoſe depths which they never fathom'd, the reading of thoſe Riddles which they never heard of, the expounding of thoſe myſteries which they never dream't of, for us, I ſay, who have ſeen a marvellous light, thereby only to enlighten our Brains and not our hearts, to divert that precious knowledge to ſome poor, low, unworthy ends; to gather nothing out of all our ſtudies, which may advance Gods Kingdom in us; this is infinitely beyond the guilt of Heatheniſm; this will call their ignorance up to judgment againſt our knowledge, and in fine, make us curſe that light, which we have uſed to guide us only to the Chambers of Death. Briefly, there was no one thing lay heavier upon the Gentiles, than the not directing that meaſure of knowledge they had, to Gods glory, and a vertuous life: and nothing more nearly concerns us Chriſtians to amend and repent of. For the moſt exquiſite knowledge of nature, and more ſpecially, the moſt accurate skill in Theological myſteries, if it float only in the Brain, and ſink not down into the heart, if it end not in reformation of erroneous life, as well as doctrine, and glorifying God in our knowledge of him; it is to be reputed but a glorious, ſpecious Curſe, not an inriching, but a burthening of the Soul, Aurum Tholoſanum, an unlucky Merchandiſe, that can never thrive with the Owner, but commonly betrays and deſtroys all other good affections and graces in us. Socrates was the firſt that brought Morality into the Schools, ideoq; ad hominum ſalutem natus eſt, ſaid an old Philoſopher: and that made the Oracle ſo much admire him for the wiſeſt man in the World. At any piece of ſpeculation, the Devil durſt challenge the proudeſt Philoſopher amongſt them; but for a vertuous life, he deſpaired of ever reaching to it: this ſet him at a gaze, this poſed and made a Dunce of him, and forced him to proclaim the Moraliſt the greateſt Scholar under Heaven, οἴησις ἱερὰ νόσος, ſaith Heſychius, the making uſe of knowledge to ambition, or puffing up, is a dangerous deſperate diſeaſe, and pray God it be not ἱερὰ alſo in its other ſence, a Diſeaſe that attends our holieſt ſpeculations, even our ſtudy of Divinity. For as Arrian ſaith of thoſe who read many Books and digeſt none, ſo is it moſt true of thoſe who do not concoct their πολυμαθία, and turn it into ſpiritual nouriſhment of the Soul, ἐμοῦσι, ἢ ἀνατρέπουσι, they vomit it up again, and are never the better for it; they are oppreſt with this very learning, as a ſtomach with crudities, and thereby fall many times εἰς σχῆμα καταῤῥοίας, into vertigoes and catarrhes, the firſt of which diſorders the Brain, and diſables it for all manner of action; or if the more claſſical notion of the word take place, it diſaffects the bowels, entangles and diſtorts the entrails, and (as St. Paul complains on this occaſion) leaves without natural affection; and then 2. by the defluxion of the humours on the breaſt, clogs, and ſtifles the vital parts, and in fine brings the whole man to a φθίσις, or corruption of all its ſpiritual graces. Thus have you at once the doctrine and the uſe of my ſecond part, the nature of that repentance which is here meant in oppoſition to the Gentiles fault, which we have ſhewed to be, the directing of our knowledge to a ſober pious end; Gods glory and our own edification; together with the danger and ſinfulneſs attending the neglect of theſe ends, both which are ſufficient motives to ſtir you up, to awake and conjure you to the practice of this doctrine. To which you may add but this one more, that even ſome of the Heathen were raiſed up by the ſtudy of the creatures, to an admiration of Gods excellency, which was a kind of glorifying his power, and thoſe Philoponus calls τελείους φυσιολόγους, perfect exact Naturaliſts; who from phyſical cauſes aſcend to divine. Witneſs Galen, de

Mat. xxvi. 70.

P. 4. 2.

Aug. de civ. Dei lib. 8. cap. 3. &c. Procluſ. v. Patricii Plat. exot. p. 42.

Arrian. in Epict. l. 1. c. 26.

Uſu

Usu partium, where from the miraculous ſtructure of the foot, he falls off into a meditation and hymn of Gods Providence, δημιουργήσαι & ἡμᾶς ὕμνον ἀληθινὸν, a Pſalm or holy Elogy of him that hath ſo wonderfully made us. So Hermes in his firſt Book of Piety and Philoſophy, makes the only uſe of Philoſophy to return thanks to the Creator, as to a good Father, and profitable Nurſe, which duty he profeſſes himſelf reſolved never to be wanting in: and after, in the latter end of his fifth Book, he makes good his word, breaking out into a kind of holy rythme; σὲ δὲ βλέπων ἐυλογήσω σε, ἄνα, κύριε, ἰσω, &c. The like might be ſhewed in ſome meaſure out of others more Claſſick Heathen Writers, which may briefly ſerve to upbraid our defects, and aggravate our offence; if we with all our natural, and ſpiritual light, go on yet in learning, as travellers in peregrination, only either as curious inquiſitors of ſome novelties, which they may brag of at their return; or elſe, having no other end of their travel but the journey it ſelf, without any care to direct our ſtudies to the advancement either of Gods glory in other, or graces Kingdom in our ſelves. For this is the thing no doubt here aimed at, and the performance of it as ſtrictly required of us Chriſtians, and that not ſome only of us, but as many as the commandment is here given to, every man every where. So I come to my laſt particular, the extent and latitude of the perſons with whom this Covenant is made, and from whom this condition is exacted, All men every where.

Galen. de Uſ. part. l. 3. c. 6. Pag. 4.

Now the univerſality of the perſons, reflects either to the preceeding words, Commands; or to the ſubſequent, the matter of theſe commands, Repentance. From the firſt, the point is, that Gods Commands were made known by the preaching of the Goſpel to all men every where. From the 2. that the Repentance here meant, is neceſſary to every man that will be ſaved. For the firſt, it hath been already proved out of Scripture, that the vocal articulation of Gods commands, the ſound and preaching of the Goſpel, hath gone out into all the World, and that not Univerſis, but ſingulis, directed and promulged at leaſt to every Creature, Mar. xvi. 15. the whole Gentile World has title to it. Now for the ſpiritual efficacy of this Voice, the demonſtration of the ſpirit and of power, hath not this alſo waited on the Voice, and in ſome kind or other evidenced it ſelf in the like extenſive latitude? Yes, no doubt; for there being two effects of the preaching of the word, either converting or hardening, either diſſolving the Wax, or ſtiffening the Clay; you ſhall in every man be ſure to meet with one of them.

Mar. xvi. 15. 1 Cor. ii. 4.

For the converſion; what a multitude came in at the firſt noiſe of it, primo manè, as ſoon as ever the Sun of righteouſneſs began to dawn. In the ancient Sea-fights, they had their λεμβάδια, little light Ships, πρωτόπλοι, ſaith Zenophon, πεζοπλοι, ἢ σκόποι, ſay Thucydides and Polybius, which they ſent out as ſpies in the night, or at day break, to bring word how the Seas were cleared; that ſo they might dare to make uſe of the firſt opportunity to go out with their whole Navy. Thus was Job and ſome few other Gentiles before the Goſpel, and Cornelius at the dawning of it, ſent before in a manner, ut lembi ante claſſem, to ſpy and bring word whether the Gentiles might enter and be received; and theſe returning to them like Noahs Dove in Gen. viii. 11. with an olive leaf in her mouth, as a token of Peace and Safety to all that would venture, then did the whole Navy and Troop follow, then did the, τὸ πλῆθος ἢ οἱ πολλοὶ, the many, the * root, the common people of the World, out of all Nations, and conditions ſome, haſten and run and croud for a part in this Salvation, and the Glory of the Lord was revealed, and all fleſh ſaw it together, as it is in the phraſe of the Prophecy, Iſai. xl. 5. or in the words of the Story, They were daily added to the Church ſuch as ſhould be ſaved. Look but on the Doctor of the Gentiles, as he ſits in his Chair in Tyrannus his School, Acts xix. 10. and you ſhall find that at that one Lecture (which indeed was two years long) all the leſſer Aſia heard the word of the Lord Jeſus, both Jews and Greeks. The 3000. Souls which were added to the Church at St. Peters Sermon Act. ii. 4. was a ſufficient hours work, and a thing ſo admired by the wiſe men of the Gentiles, that they imputed it magicis Petri artibus & veneficis carminibus, ſaith Auſtin, to ſome incantations and magical tricks which Peter uſed. And they got the dying oracle to confirm it with ſome ſuppoſititious Verſes, to the purpoſe forged by them; that the Chriſtian religion was raiſed by Peters Witchcraft, and by it ſhould laſt 365. Years, and then be betrayed and vaniſh. But had theſe ſame Gentiles in this humour of malice and prejudice, ſeen a third part of the Roman World, all the Proconſular Aſia converted by one Pauls diſputations, they would certainly have reſolved that all the Sorcery of Hell or Chaldaea, could never have yielded ſuch miraculous enchantments. And this the Sons of Sceva had experience of, Acts xix. 14. who with all their Exorciſms, and the name of Jeſus added to them, could not yet imitate the Apoſtles in any one miracle; but the Devil was too hard for them, wounded, overcame, prevail'd againſt them. Briefly 'twas more than the magick either of Men or Devils, which ſo convinced the Artificers of Hell, that they brought out their Books and burnt them openly; which beſide the price of their moſt profitable skill, were rated at 50000. pieces of ſilver, which is computed to be about 6250 l. So mightily grew the word of God and prevailed, and the firſt effect of it, converſion, was miraculouſly manifeſt, though not on all, yet on many of all people every where.

Acts ii. 4. De Civ. l. 18. c. 53. Acts xix. 14. Acts xix. 19.

Now for the other effect of it, the hardning of obdurate Atheiſts, look on Acts xix. 9. where it is plain, that for all Pauls Logick and Rhetorick, diſputing and perſwading for the ſpace of three months, many were hardned and believed not. They had within them τὸν ἀντίτυπον, as Theodoret calls it, a heart that would reverberate either precept or inſtruction, and make it rebound againſt the hand that ſent it; πνεῦμα παχυνόμενον, as Philoponus phraſes it in his 1. l. de animâ, their ſpirits fatned and incraſſated within them, ſtall'd up and fed to ſuch a brawneſs, that neither the underſtanding nor the affections were capable of any impreſſion, and ſo their condition proved like that of the Anvil, which by many ſtrokes is ſomewhat ſmoothed, but no whit ſoftned; all they got by one days preaching, was to inable them the better to reſiſt the ſecond. Every Sermon of a Paul or Peter was but an alarum to ſet them on their guard of defence, to warn them to caſt up ſome more Trenches and Bulwarks, to fortify themſelves ſtronger againſt any poſſible invaſion of Gods ſpirit; according to that of the Ægyptian Hermes, ſpeaking, περὶ δυνάμεως ἱερῶν λόγων, which is in a Chriſtian phraſe the power of the Scripture; they have, ſaith he, this property in them, that when they meet with evil men, μᾶλλον παροξύνουσιν εἰς κακίαν, they do more ſharpen and egg them on to evil. Thus was the preaching of the word to all men every where attended with some effects or other, according to the materials it met with, never returned unprofitably, but either was the power of God to salvation unto all that believed, or the witness of God to condemnation to those which were hardned. Now if this precious receipt administred to all, find not in all the like effect of recovering, yet from hence is neither the Physick to be under-prized, nor the Prescriber; the matter is to be imputed sometimes to the weakness and peevishness of the Patient, ὡς ἀδυνατῶν τὰ προσταττόμενα ὑποφέρειν, that he cannot or will not perform the prescriptions; sometimes τὴν δύναμιν ἀνιᾶσθαι τῷ πάθει, the fault is to be laid on the stubbornness and stoutness of the disease, which turns every Medicine into its nourishment, and so is not abated but elevated by that which was intended to assuage it, as Hippocrates defines it medicinally in his Book περὶ τέχνης. Pag. 2.

Acts xix. 9. Philop. l. 1. de Anima. P. 5.

So then by way of use, If we desire that these commands, this Covenant offered to all men every where, may evidence it self to our particular Souls in its spiritual efficacy, we must with all the industry of our spirits endeavour to remove those hindrances, which may any way perturb, or disorder, or weaken it in its working in us; προσαπασπάσθω σοι μαλαγμάτων γένος, &c. saith Hippocrates, you must furnish your self before-hand with a Shop of several softning Plasters, and take some one of them as a preparative before every Sermon you come to, that coming to Church with a tender, mollified, waxy heart, you may be sure to receive every holy character, and impression, which that days exercise hath provided for thee; lest otherwise, if thou should'st come to Church with an heart of Ice, that Ice be congealed into Crystal, and by an ἀντιτύπωσις, the warmth of Gods word not abate, but increase the coldness of a chill frozen spirit, and finding it hard and stubborn, return it obdurate. O what a horrid thing is it, that the greatest mercy under Heaven, should by our unpreparedness be turned into the most exquisite curse, that Hell or malice hath in store for us? That the most precious Balm of Gilead, should by the malignity of some tempers, be turned into poyson; that the leaves which are appointed for the healing of the Nations should meet with some such sores, which prove worse by any remedy; that the most soveraign μαλάκτικον, or lenitive in the World, should only work to our obduration, and the preaching of the word of mercy, adde to the measure of our condemnation! This is enough to perswade you by an horror into some kind of sollicitude to prepare your Souls to a capability of this Cure, to keep your selves in a Christian temper, that it may be possible for a Sermon to work upon you, that that breath which never returns in vain, may be truly Gospel, happy in its Message, may convert not harden you; to which purpose you must have such tools in store, which the Physician speaks of, ὄργανα, ἢ μηχαναὶ, ἢ σίδηρον, instruments of spiritual surgery, to cut and prune off all luxuriant cumbersom excrescences, all rankness and dead flesh, which so oppress the Soul, that the vertue of Medicine cannot search to it. And for this purpose there is no one more necessary, of more continual use for every man every where, than that which here closeth my Text, Repentance. Hippoc. περὶ εὐχημοσύνης. Hippocrat. ibid.

And so I come to the second respect, the universality of the persons, as it refers to the matter of the command, repentance, every man every where to repent.

And here I should shew you, that repentance, both generally taken for a sorrow for sin, containing in it virtually faith also, (so the Baptism of repentance is interpreted, Acts xix. 4. John baptized with the Baptism of Repentance, saying unto the people, that they should believe, &c.) and more specially in this place taken for the directing of our knowledge to practice, and both to Gods glory, as hath been shewn; is and always was necessary to every man that will be saved. For according to Aristotles rule, κατὰ παντὸς, noting both an universality of subject and circumstance, is a degree of necessity; and therefore repentance being here commanded, πᾶσι παντα χοῦ, is to be judged a condition necessary to every man, who answers at the command, (i. e.) who expects his part in the Covenant of Salvation; this, I say, I might prove at large, and to that purpose vindicate the Writings of some of the Fathers, especially of Clemens, who I am almost confident, is groundlesly cited, for bestowing Salvation on the Heathen, without exacting the condition of Faith and Repentance, which now 'twere superfluous to insist on. 2. Urge it both to your brains and hearts, and by the necessity of the duty, rouse, and enforce, and pursue you to the practice of it. But seeing this Catholick duty is more the inspiration of the Holy Ghost, than the acquisition of our labours, seeing this fundamental Cardinal Gift comes from the supreme Donor, seeing nature is no more able spiritually to re-inliven a Soul, than to animate a Carcass, our best endeavour will be our humiliation, our most profitable directions will prove our Prayers, and what our frailty cannot reach to, our devotions shall obtain. Acts. xix. 4. 1 Post. c. 4.

And let us labour and pray, and be confident, that God which hath honoured us with his commands, will inable us to a performance of them, and having made his Covenant with us, will fulfil in us the condition of it; that the thundering of his word being accompanied with the still voice of his Spirit, may suffer neither repulse nor resistance; that our hearts being first softned, then stamped with the Spirit, may be the Images of that God that made them: that all of us every where endeavouring to glorify God in our knowledge, in our lives, in our faith, in our repentance, may for ever be glorified by him, and through him, and with him hereafter.

Now to him that hath elected us, hath created, redeemed, &c.

SER-

SERMON XIV.

ROM. I. 26.

For this cause God gave them up unto vile affections.

IN this most accurate Epistle, that ever the Pen of man could lay title to, in which all the counsels, and proceedings, and methods of God in the work of our Salvation, are described, our Apostle in his Discourse goes on the same way that God is said to do in his Decree; lays the foundation of it as low and deep as possible, begins with them as it were in Massa, and though they were already Romans and Christians, yet before he openeth Heaven Gates to them, and either teaches or suffers them to be Saints, he stays them a while in the contemplation of their impurity, and damn'd neglected estate of the stock they come from; looks upon them as polluted or troden down in their own blood, as the phrase is, Ezek. xvi. 6. He plows and harrows, and digs as deep as possible, that the seed which he meant to Sow might be firm rooted, that their Heaven might be founded in the Center of the Earth; and their faith being secur'd by the depth of its foundation, might encrease miraculously both in height and fruitfulness. Thus in the latter part of this first Chapter doth he shew them the estate and rebellions, and punishment of their Heathen Ancestors, that the unregenerate man may in that Glass see his Picture at the length, the regenerate humble himself in a thankful horrour, over-joyed, and wondring to observe himself delivered from such destruction. And that all may be secured from the danger of the like miscarriage, he sets the whole story of them distinctly before their Eyes. 1. How the Law and light of nature was sufficient to have instructed them into the sight and acknowledgment of God; and therefore that they could not pretend want of means to direct them to his worship. 2. That they contemn'd and rejected all the helps and guidances that God and nature had afforded them; and that therefore, 3. God had deserted, and given them up unto the pride, and luxury, and madness of their own hearts, all vile affections: for this is the force of the illation, They abused those instructions which God had printed in the Creature to direct them, and therefore he will bestow no more pains on them to so little purpose; their own reason convinced them there was but one God, and yet they could not hold from adoring many, and therefore hee'l not be troubled to rein them in any longer; for all his ordinary restraints, they will needs run riot, And for this cause God gave them up to vile affections. So that in the Text you may observe the whole state and history of a heathen, natural, unregenerate life, which is a progress or travel from one stage of sinning to another, beginning in a contempt of the light of nature, and ending in the brink of Hell, all vile affections. For the discovery of which we shall survey, 1. The Law or light of nature, what it can do; 2. The sin of contemning this law or light, both noted in the first words (for this cause) that is, because they did reject that which would have stood them in good stead; 3. The effect or punishment of this contempt, sottishness leading them stupidly into all vile affections; And lastly, the inflicter of this punishment, and manner of inflicting of it, God gave them up: and first of the first, the law and light of nature, what it can do.

Ezek. xvi. 6.

To suppose a man born at large, left to the infinite liberty of a Creature, without any terms or bounds, or laws to circumscribe him, were to bring a River into a Plain, and bid it stand on end, and yet allow it nothing to sustain it; were to set a Babe of a day old into the World, and bid him shift for a subsistence; were to bestow a being on him, only that he may lose it, and perish, before he can ever be said to live. If an Infant be not bound in, and squeez'd, and swathed, hee'l never thrive in growth or Feature, but as Hippocrates saith of the Scythians, for want of Girdles, run all out into bredth and ugliness. And therefore it cannot agree either with the mercy or goodness of either God or nature, to create men without laws, or to bestow a being upon any one, without a Guardian to guide and manage it. Thus, lest any Creature for want of this law any one moment, should immediately sin against it's Creation, and no sooner move than be annihilated; the same wisdom hath ordered, that his very Soul should be his Law-giver, and so the first minute of its essence should suppose it regular. Whence it is, that some Atheists in Theophilus ad Auto. which said that all things were made by chance, and of their own accord; yet affirm'd, that when they were made, they had a God within them to guide them, their own conscience, and in sum affirm'd, μόνον εἶναι θεὸν συνείδησιν, that there was no other God in the World. Aristotle observes, that in the Creatures which have no reason, phantasie supplies its place, and does the Bee as much service to perform the business of its kind, as reason doth in the man. Thus farther in them whose birth in an uncivilized Countrey, hath deprived of any laws to govern them, reason supplies their room, λόγος φύσει νόμος, saith Arius Didymus, Reason is naturally a law, and hath as soveraign dictates with it, pronounceth Sentence every minute from the tribunal within, as authoritatively, as ever the most powerful Solon did in the Theatre. There is not a thing in the World purely and absolutely good, but God, and nature within, commends and prescribes to our practice; and would we but obey their counsels, and commands, 'twere a way to innocence, and perfection, that even the Pelagians never dreamt of. To speak no farther than will be both profitable and beyond exception, the perfectest Law in the World, is not so perfect a rule for lives, as this ἔμφυτος καὶ φύσεως νόμος, as Methodius calls it, this law of nature born with us, is for these things which are subject to its reach. Shall I say, Scripture it self is in some respect inferiour to it? I think I shall not prejudice that blessed Volume; for though it be as far far from the leaſt ſpot, or ſuſpicion of imperfection, as falſhood; though it be true, perfect and righteous altogether; yet doth it not ſo evidence it ſelf to my dull Soul; it ſpeaks not ſo clearly and irrefragably, ſo beyond all contradiction, and demur, to my Atheiſtical underſtanding, as that law which God hath written in my heart. For there is a double certainty, one of Adherence, another of Evidence, one of Faith, the other of ſence; the former is that grounded on Gods Word, more infallible, becauſe it reſts on divine authority; the latter more clear, becauſe I find it within me by experience. The firſt is given to ſtrengthen the weakneſs of the ſecond, and is therefore called βεβαιότερον λόγον, 2 Pet. i. 19. A more firm ſure word; the ſecond given within us, to explain the difficulties and obſcurities of the firſt, ἐυόπτοι γενηθέντες, verſe 16. we ſaw it with our Eyes: ſo that Scriptures being conceived into words, and ſentences, are ſubject either not to be underſtood, or amiſs; and may either be doubted of by the ignorant, or perverted by the malicious. You have learnt ſo many words without Book, and ſay them minutely by heart, and yet not either underſtand, or obſerve what you are about: but this unwritten Law, which no Pen but that of nature hath engraven, is in our underſtandings, not in words, but ſence, and therefore I cannot avoid the intimations; 'tis impoſſible either to deny or doubt of it, it being written as legible in the tables of our hearts, as the print of humanity in our Foreheads. The commands of either Scripture or Emperour, may be either unknown or out of our heads, when any caſual opportunity ſhall bid us make uſe of them: but this law of the mind is at home for ever, and either by intimation or loud Voice, either whiſpers or proclaims its commands to us; be it never ſo gag'd, 'twill mutter, and will be ſure to be taken notice of, when it ſpeaks ſoftlieſt. To define in brief what this law of nature is, and what offices it performs in us, you are to know, that at that grand forfeiture of all our inheritance, (goods truly real and perſonal) all thoſe primitive endowments of Soul and Body upon Adams Rebellion, God afterwards, though he ſhined not on us in his full Image and Beauty, yet caſt ſome rayes and beams of that eternal light upon us; and by an immutable Law of his own counſel hath imprinted on every Soul that comes down to a body, a ſecret, unwritten, yet indeleble Law, by which the Creature may be warn'd what is good or bad, what agreeable, what hurtful to the obtaining of the end of its creation. Now theſe commands or preſcriptions of nature, are either in order to ſpeculation or practice; to encreaſe our knowledge or direct our lives. The former ſort I omit, as being fitter for the Schools than Pulpit to diſcourſe on, I ſhall meddle only with thoſe that refer to practice, and thoſe are either common, which they call firſt principles, and ſuch are in every man in the World equally, & ſecundum rectitudinem, & notitiam, ſaith Aquinas; every one doth both conceive them in his underſtanding, what they mean; and aſſent to them in his will, that they are right and juſt, and neceſſary to be performed; and of this nature are the Worſhip of God, and juſtice amongſt men: for that lumen ſuper nos ſignatum, in Bonaventures phraſe, that light which nature hath ſeal'd, and imprinted on our Souls, is able to direct us in the knowledge of thoſe moral principles, without any other help required to perſwade us; or elſe they are particular and proper to this or that buſineſs, which they call concluſions drawn out of theſe common principles; as when the common principle commands juſt dealing, the concluſion from thence, commands to reſtore what I have borrowed, and the like. And theſe alſo if they be naturally and directly deduced, would every man in the World both underſtand, and aſſent to; did not ſome hindrance come in, and forbid, or ſuſpend, either his underſtanding or aſſent. Hindrances which keep him from the knowledge or conceiving of them, are that confuſion and Chaos, and black darkneſs, I had almoſt ſaid that Tophet and Hell of ſenſual affections, which ſuffers not the light to ſhew it ſelf, and indeed ſo ſtifles and oppreſſes it, that it becomes only as Hell fire, not to ſhine but burn; not to enlighten us what we ſhould do, but yet by gripes and twinges of the conſcience to torment us for not doing of it. And this hindrance the Apoſtle calls, ver. 21. the vanity of imaginations by which a fooliſh heart is darkned. Hindrances which keep us from aſſenting to a concluſion in particular, which we do underſtand, are ſometimes good; as firſt, a ſight of ſome greater breach certain to follow the performance of this: So though I underſtand that I muſt reſtore every man his own, yet I will never return a Knife to one that I ſee reſolved to do ſome miſchief with it. And 2. Divine laws, as the command of robbing the Ægyptians, and the like; for although that in our hearts, forbid robbing, yet God is greater than our hearts, and muſt be obeyed when he preſcribes it. Hindrances in this kind are alſo ſometimes bad: ſuch are either habitude of nature, cuſtom of Country, which made the Lacedemonians eſteem theft a virtue; or again, the Tyranny of paſſions; for every one of theſe hath its ſeveral project upon the reaſonable Soul, its ſeveral deſign of malice either by treachery, or force, to keep it hood-winkt, or caſt it into a Lethargy, when any particular vertuous action requires to be aſſented to by our practice. If I ſhould go ſo far as ſome do, to define this law of nature to be the full will of God written by his hand immediately in every mans heart after the fall, by which we feel our ſelves bound to do every thing that is good, and avoid every thing that is evil; ſome might through ignorance or prejudice, gueſs it to be an elevation of corrupt nature above its pitch, too near to Adams integrity; and yet Zanchy, who was never gueſt near a Pelagian, in his 4. Tome 1. l. 10. c. 8. Theſis, would authorize every part of it, and yet not ſeem to make an Idol of nature, but only extol Gods mercy, who hath beſtowed a Soul on every one of us with this character and impreſſion, Holineſs to the Lord; which though it be written unequally, in ſome more than others, yet ſaith he, in all in ſome meaſure ſo radicated, that it can never be quite changed, or utterly aboliſhed. However I think we may ſafely reſolve with Bonaventure out of Auſtin againſt Pelagius, Non eſt parum accepiſſe naturale indicatorium, 'tis no ſmall mercy that we have received a natural glaſs, in which we may ſee and judge of objects before we venture on them, a power of diſtinguiſhing good from evil, which even the malice of ſin and paſſions in the higheſt degree, cannot wholly extinguiſh in us; as may appear by Cain, the Voice of whoſe Conſcience ſpake as loud within him, as that of his Brothers blood: as alſo in the very damn'd, whoſe worm of ſence, not penitence for what they have done in their fleſh, ſhall for ever bite, and gripe them hideouſly. This Light indeed may either firſt * be blindneſs, or ſecondly delight in ſinning, or thirdly peremptory reſolvedneſs not to ſee, be for the preſent hindred ſecundum actum, from doing any good upon us. He that hath but a vail before his Eyes, ſo long cannot judge of colours;

L. 2. p. 82. B.

Euseb. Prep. Ev. l. 15. p. 477.

Photius p. 915.

2 Pet. i. 19.

Verſe 16.

Prima ſecunda, qu. 94. a. 2. d. 39. ar. 1. q. 2.

Verſe 21.

Which Damaſcen. calls, lucem naturalem intellectus, as the Schools have it from him. Wiggerſ p. 160.

* by

lours; he that runs impetuously, cannot hear any one that calls to ſtop him in his career, and yet all the while the light ſhines, and the voice ſhouts: and therefore when we find in Scripture, ſome men ſtupefied by ſin, others void of reaſon; we muſt not reckon them abſolutely ſo, but only for the preſent beſotted. And again, though they have loſt their reaſon, as it moves per modum deliberationis, yet not as per modum naturæ, their reaſon which moves them by deliberation and choice to that which is good, is perhaps quite put out, or ſuſpended; but their reaſon which is an inſtinct of nature, a natural motion of the Soul to the end of its creation, remains in them, though it move not, like a Ship at hull and becalmed, is very ſtill and quiet, and though it ſtir not evidently, yet it hath its ſecret heaves and plunges within us.

Now that the moſt ignorant, clouded, unnurtured brain amongſt you, may reap ſome profit from this Diſcourſe, let him but one minute of his life be at ſo much leiſure, as to look into his own heart, and he ſhall certainly find within him, that which we have hitherto talkt of, his own Soul ſhall yield him a comment to my Sermon; and if he dare but once to open his Eyes, ſhall ſhew him the law and light of nature in himſelf, which before he never dreamt of. Of thoſe of you that ever ſpared one minute from your Worldly affairs to think of your ſpiritual, there is one thought that ſuddenly comes upon you, and makes ſhort work of all that ſpiritual care of your ſelves. You conceive that you are of your ſelves utterly unable to underſtand, or think, or do any thing that is good; and therefore you reſolve it a great pain to no purpoſe, ever to go about ſo impoſſible a project. God muſt work the whole buſineſs in you, you are not able of your ſelves ſo much as either to ſee, or move, and that is the buſineſs which by chance you fell upon, * as ſoon as ſhook off again, and being reſolved you never had any Eyes, you are content to be for ever blind, unleſs, as it was wont to be in the old Tragedies, ſome Θεὸς ἀπὸ μηχανῆς, ſome new ſupernatural power come down, and bore your Foreheads, and thruſt, and force Eyes into your Heads. 'Tis a bleſſed deſire and gracious humility in any one, to invoke God to every thought they venture on, and not to dare to pretend to the leaſt ſufficiency in themſelves, but to acknowledge and deſire to receive all from God: but ſhall we therefore be ſo ungratefully religious, as for ever to be a craving new helps and ſuccours, and never obſerve, or make uſe of what we have already obtained, as 'tis obſerved of covetous men, who are always buſied about their Incomes, are little troubled with diſburſements, ἀνεπαλλήλους λόγους, & Νεύτ. Arr. in Epict. any proportion betwixt their receipts and expences. Shall we be ſo ſenſeleſs as to hope that the contempt of one bleſſing will be a means to procure as many? I told you that God had written a law in the hearts of every one of you, which once was able, and is not now quite deprived of its power, to furniſh with knowledge of good and evil: and although by original, and actual, and habitual ſin, this inheritance be much impaired, this ſtock of precepts drawn low; yet if you would but obſerve thoſe directions which it would yet afford you, if you would but practiſe whatever that divine light in your Souls ſhould preſent and commend to you, you might with ſome Face Petition God for richer abilities, and with better confidence approach and beg, and expect the grace that ſhould perfect you to all righteouſneſs. In the mean time bethink your ſelves how unreaſonable a thing it is, that God ſhould be perpetually caſting away of Alms on thoſe who are reſolved to be perpetually Bankrupts: how it would be reckoned prodigality of mercies, to purchaſe new lands for him that ſcorns to make uſe of his inheritance. As ever you expect any boon from God, look, I conjure you, what you have already received, call in your Eyes into your Brains, and ſee whether your natural reaſon there, will not furniſh you with ſome kind of profitable, though not ſufficient directions, to order your whole lives by; bring your ſelves up to that ſtaidneſs of temper, as never to venture on any thing, till you have askt your own Souls advice whether it be to be done or no; and if you can but obſerve its dictates, and keep your hands to obey your head; if you can be content to abſtain, when the Soul within you bids you hold; you ſhall have no cauſe to complain that God hath ſent you impotent into the World; but rather acknowledge it an unvaluable mercy of his, that hath provided ſuch an Eye within you to direct you, if you will but have patience to ſee; ſuch a curb to reſtrain and prevent you, if thou wilt only take notice of its checks. 'Tis a thing that would infinitely pleaſe the Reader to obſerve, what a price the Heathens themſelves ſet upon this light within them, which yet certainly was much more dimmed and obſcured in them by their Idolatry and ſuperſtition, than I hope it can be in any Chriſtian Soul, by the unrulieſt paſſion. Could ever any one ſpeak more plainly and diſtinctly of it, than the Pythagoreans and Stoicks have done, who repreſent Conſcience not only as a guide and moderator of our actions, but as ἐπιτήρων δαίμονα, a tutelary ſpirit, or Angel, or genius, which never ſleeps or dotes, but is ſtill preſent and employed in our behalf? And this Arrian ſpecifies to be the reaſonable Soul, which he therefore accounts of as a part of God ſent out of his own Eſſence, μέρος τῆς ἀποσπασμάτων, a piece or ſhread, or as others more according to modeſt truth call it, L. 1. c. 14. ἀπαύγασμα, a ray or beam of that inviſible Sun, by which our dull, unactive, frozen Bodies, after the fall, were warmed and re-inlivened. Now if any one ſhall make a diligent inquiſition in himſelf, ſhall, as the Philoſopher in his Cynical humour, light a Candle to no purpoſe, or as the Prophet Jeremy, ſeek and make huy and cry after a man through all Jeruſalem, and yet not meet with him: if, I ſay, any body ſhall ſearch for this light in himſelf, and find all darkneſs within; then will you ſay, I have all this while poſſeſt you with ſome phanſies and Ideas, without any real profit to be received from them; you will make that complaint as the Women for our Saviour, We went to ſeek for him, and when we went down all was dark, and emptineſs, They have taken him away, and I know not where Jo. xx. 13. they have laid him. Nay, but the error is in the ſeeker, not in my directions: he that would behold the Sun, muſt ſtay till the Cloud be over; he that would receive from the fire, either light or warmth, muſt take the pains to remove the aſhes. There be ſome encumbrances, which may hinder the moſt active qualities in the World from working, and abate the edge of the keeneſt metal. In ſumm, there is a cloud, and gloom, and vail within thee, like that darkneſs on the face of the deep, when the Earth was תהו ובהו, without form and void, Gen. i. 2. or like that at Lots Door among the Sodomites, or that of Ægypt, thick and palpable: and this have we created to our ſelves, a ſky full of tempeſtuous, untamed affections; this cloud of vapours have we exhaled out of the lower part of our Soul, our ſenſitive faculty; and therewith have we ſo fill'd the air within us with ſad, black

* and as ſoon ſhook

meteors,

meteor, that the Sun in its Zenith, the height or pride of its ſplendor, would ſcarce be able to pierce through it. So that for to make a ſearch for this light within thee, before thou haſt removed this throng, and croud of paſſions which encompaſs it, and ſtill to complain thou canſt not meet with it; were to bring news that the Sun is gone out, when a tempeſt hath only masked it, or to require a Candle to give thee light through a Mud-wall. Thou muſt provide a courſe to clear the Sky, and then thou ſhalt not need to entreat the Sun to ſhine on thee; eſpecially if this Cloud fall down in a ſhowre, if thou canſt melt ſo thick a viſcous meteor as thoſe corrupt affections are, into a ſoft rain, or dew of penitent tears, thou mayeſt then be confident of a fair bright Sun-ſhine. For I dare promiſe that never humble, tender, weeping Soul, had ever this light quite darkned within it, but could at all times read and ſee the will of God and the law of its Creation, not drawn only, but almoſt engraven and woven into its heart. For theſe tears in our Eyes will ſpiritually mend our ſight; as what ever you ſee through water, thought it be repreſented ſomewhat dimly, yet ſeems bigger and larger than if there were no water in the way, according to that rule in the Opticks, Whatever is ſeen through a thicker medium, ſeems bigger than it is. And then by way of uſe, ſhall we ſuffer ſo incomparable a mercy to be caſt away upon us? Shall we only ſee and admire, and not make uſe of it? Shall we fence, as it were, and fortify our outward man with Walls and Bulwarks, that the inner man may not ſhine forth upon it? Or ſhall we like ſilly improvident Flies, make no other uſe of this Candle, but only to ſinge, and burn, and conſume our ſelves by its flame; receive only ſo much light from it, as will add to our hell and darkneſs? 'Tis a thing that the flintieſt heart ſhould melt at, to ſee ſuch precious mercies undervalued; ſuch incomparable bleſſings either contemned, or only improved into Curſes. Arrian calls thoſe, in whom this light of the Soul is, as I ſhewed you, clouded and obſcured, νεκρὰ & σαρκίδια, dead trunks and carkaſſes of fleſh, and to keep ſuch men in order, were humane laws provided, which he therefore calls παλαιπώρους τοὺς ἐπὶ νεκρῶν νόμους, miſerable hard laws to keep dead men in compaſs, and again, γῆν καὶ ᾅδεσθον, Earth and Hell, the places to which dead bodies are committed. And certainly, if ſo, then by way of contrary, all the life that we poſſeſs, is but by obedience to this law within us; and 'tis no longer to be called life, but either ſleep, or death, or lethargy, every minute that we move out of the circle of its directions. There is not a ſtep, or moment in our lives, but we have a ſpecial uſe, and need of this law to manage us: every enterprize of our thoughts or actions, will yield ſome difficulty which we muſt hold up, and read, and judge of by this Candle; nay, ſometimes we have need of a Glaſs, or inſtrument to contract the beams and light of it, or elſe 'twould ſcarce be able to get through to our actions; paſſion, and folly, and the Atheiſm of our lives, hath ſo thickned the medium. Wherefore in brief, remember that counſel, Mal. ii. 15. Take heed to your ſpirit, and let none deal treacherouſly with the wife of his youth; the Wife of his youth, i. e. ſaith Jeroms gloſs, legem naturalem ſcriptam in corde, the law of nature written in his heart, which was given him in the Womb as a Wife and help to ſuccour him. Let us ſet a value on this polar Star within us, which hath, or ſhould have an influence, at leaſt directions on all our actions; let us encreaſe, and nouriſh, and make much of the ſparks ſtill warm within us. And if Scholars, and Antiquaries prize nothing ſo high as a fair Manuſcript or ancient Inſcription, let us not contemn that which Gods own Finger hath written within us, leſt the ſin of the contempt make us more miſerable, and the mercy profit us only to make us unexcuſable. And ſo I come to my ſecond part, the ſin of contemning or rejecting this law. For this cauſe he gave them up, i. e. becauſe the contempt of his law thus provoked him.

L. 1. c. 19. C. 2. 9. C. 13.

Mal. ii. 15.

The guilt ariſing from this contempt ſhall ſufficiently be cleared to you, by obſerving and tracing of it, not through every particular, but in general through all ſorts of men ſince the fall, briefly reducible to theſe three heads, Firſt, The Heathens, Secondly, The Jews, Thirdly, Preſent Chriſtians; and then let every man that deſires a more diſtinct light deſcend and commune with his own heart, and ſo he ſhall make up the obſervation.

The Heathens ſin will be much aggravated, if we conſider how they reckon'd of this law, as the ſquare, and rule, and canon of their actions; and therefore they will be inexcuſable, who ſcarce be ever at leiſure to call to it to direct them, when they had uſe of it. The Stoick calls it ἐπαγγελίαν ἀνθρώπου, the promiſe that every man makes, the obligation that he is bound in to nature at his ſhaping in the Womb, and upon which condition his reaſonable Soul is at his conception demiſed to him; ſo that whoſoever puts off this obedience, doth (as he goes on) renounce and even proclaim his forfeiture of the very Soul he lives by, and by every unnatural, that is, ſinful action, ἀπολύει τ' ἄνθρωπον, deſtroys the natural man within him, and by a prodigious regeneration is in a manner tranſubſtantiate into a Beaſt of the Field. Which conceit many of them were ſo poſſeſt with, that they thought in earneſt, that 'twas ordinary for ſouls to walk from men into Cocks and Aſſes, and the like, and return again at natures appointment; as if this one contempt of the law of nature, were enough to unman them, and make them without a figure, comparable, nay coeſſential to the beaſts that periſh. 'Twere too long to ſhew you what a ſenſe the wiſeſt of them had of the helps that light could afford them: ſo that one of them cryes out confidently, ἐὰν πάντες οἱ νόμοι, &c. If all other laws were taken out of the world, we Philoſophers would ſtill live as we do; thoſe directions within us, would keep us in as much awe, as the moſt imperious or ſevereſt Law-giver. And again, how they took notice of the perverſneſs of men in refuſing to make uſe of it: for who, ſaith one, ever came into the knowledge of men, without this ἔμφυτον ἔννοιαν, this knowledge and diſcretion of good and evil, as old in him as his ſoul? And yet who makes any uſe of it in his actions? nothing ſo ordinary as to betray, and declare that we have it, by finding fault, and accuſing Vices in other men; by calling this Juſtice, this Tyranny, this Virtue, this Vice in another: whilſt yet we never are patient to obſerve or diſcern ought of it in our ſelves. Τίς ὑμῶν φείδεται, &c. Who ever ſpares to call injuſtice, which he ſees in another, by its own name, for his own reaſon tells him 'tis ſo, and he muſt needs give it its title? But when the caſe concerns his own perſon, when his paſſions counſel him againſt the law within him, then is he content not to ſee, though it ſhine never ſo bright about him; and this was one degree of their guilt, that they obſerved the power of it in their ſpeculations, and made uſe of it alſo to cenſure and find fault with others; but ſeldom or never ſtrived to better themſelves, or ſtraighten their own actions

Arr. Ep. l. 2. c. 9.

Heſych. περὶ σοφῶν. in vit. Æſch.

Arr. l. 2. c. 11.

by

by it. Again, to follow our Apoſtles Argument, and look more diſtinctly upon them in their particular chief ſins which this contempt produced in them, you ſhall find them in the front to be Idolatry and Superſtition, in the Verſes next before my Text: When they knew God, they glorified him not as God, Verſe 21. But changed his glory into an Image, &c. Verſe 24. And then we may cry out with Theodoret in his Διορθωσις. διοχλουσι παλαι γεγραμμενα σκοτουντες ὁι δυσσεβειας πλανοι, the errors and vanities of their worſhip, hath raſed out all the characters that God antiently had written in them. And can any man ſhew a greater contempt to a Book, or Writing, than to tear, and ſcrape, and ſcratch out every Letter in it? The firſt voice of nature in the Creature, which it uttered even in the Cradle, when it was an infant in the World, and therefore perhaps, as Children are wont, not ſo plainly, and ſyllabically, and diſtinctly, as could have been wiſhed, is the acknowledgement and worſhip of one Eternal God, Creator of that Soul we breath by, and World we live in; as one ſimple, incorporeal, Everlaſting Eſſence; and thus far (no doubt) could nature proclaim in the heart of every Gentile, though it was by many of them, either ſilenced, or not hearkned to, which if it were doubted of, might be deduced out of the 19. verſe of this Chap. God hath ſhewed unto them, &c. Now this light ſhining not equally in all Eyes; ſome being more over-ſpread with a film of ignorance, ſtupid conditions and paſſions, and the like; yet certainly had enough to expreſs their contempt of it, ſo that they are without excuſe, ver. 20. All that would ever think of it, and were not blind with an habit of ſottiſhneſs, acknowledged a God, yet none would think aright of him. Some would acknowledge him a ſimple Eſſence, and impoſſible to be deſcribed, or worſhip't aright by any Image; as Varro an Heathen obſerves, that the City and Religion of old Rome continued 170. years without any Images of the gods in it. Yet even they which acknowledged him ſimple from all corporeity and compoſition, would not allow him ſingle from plurality. Jupiter and Saturn, and the reſt of their ſhole of Gods, had already got in, and poſſeſt both their Temples, and their hearts. In ſumm, their underſtandings were ſo groſs within them, being fatned and incraſſate with magical phantaſms, that let the truth within them ſay what it would, they could not conceive the Deity without ſome quantity, either Corporeity, or number; and either multiply this God into many, or make that one God corporeous. And then all this while how plainly and peremptorily, and faſtidiouſly they rejected the guidance of nature, which in every reaſonable heart, counſelled, nay proclaimed the contrary; how juſtly they provoked God's diſpleaſure, and deſertion, by their forſaking and provoking him firſt by their fooliſh imaginations, I need not take pains to inſiſt on. Ariſtotle obſerves in his Rhet. that a man that hath but one Eye, loves that very dearly, ἀγαπητον ᾧ μονον, and ſets a far higher price on it, is much more tender over it than he that hath two; ſo he that hath but one Son, cannot chuſe but be very fond of him, and the greateſt lamentation that can be expreſt, is but a ſhadow of that which is for ones only Son, as may appear, Amos viii. 10. Zach. 12. 10. when 'tis obſerved that, μονογενὴς and ἀγάπητος the only begotten, and the beloved are taken in Scripture promiſcuouſly, as ſignifying all one. And then, what a price ſhould the Heathen have ſet upon this Eye of nature, being μονοφθαλμοι, having no other Eye to ſee by? having neither Scripture nor Spirit, thoſe two other glorious Eyes of the World, to enlighten them; and therefore being ſure, by the contemning and depriving themſelves of this light, to turn all into horrible darkneſs. 'Twould ſtrike a man into agony of pity and amazement, to ſee a World of Gentiles for many years thus impriſoned, and buried in a Dungeon, and grave of invincible idolatrous ignorance; and from thence engaged in inevitable Hell, as 'tis in the Book of Wiſdom; and all this directly by contemning this firſt, and only begotten light in them, which God ſet in the Firmaments of their hearts, to have led and directed them a more comfortable way. And this, or as bad, is every unregenerate mans caſe exactly, if they be not forewarned by their elder Brethren the Heathens Example: as we ſhall anon have more leiſure to inſiſt on.

Verſe 21. Verſe 24. Verſe 19. Verſe 20. Vid. Origen. cont. Celſum, l. 1. p. 7. σαφὲς ἐν, &c. Clem. Strom. l. 1. 1. 6, 7. 4. Amos viii. 10. Zach. xii. 10. Gen. ii. 17. Ezra iii. 12.

Secondly, among the Jews, under which name I contain all the people of God, from Adam to Chriſt, 'tis a lamentable contemplation to obſerve, and trace the law, and the contempt of it, like a Jacob at the heels, ſupplanting it in every Soul which it came to inhabit. Thoſe Characters of verum and bonum, which in Adam were written in a ſtatelier Copy and fairer Manuſcript, than our ſlow undervaluing conceits can gueſs at; nay, afterwards explain'd with a particular explication to his particular danger; Of the tree of knowledge, &c. thou ſhalt not eat, Gen. ii. 17. Yet how were they by one ſlender temptation of the Serpent, preſently ſullied and blurr'd? ſo that all the aqua fortis, and inſtruments in the World, will never be able to waſh out or eraſe that blot; or ever reſtore that handwriting in our hearts to the integrity and beauty of that Copy in its primitive eſtate. And ſince, when by that ſin darkneſs was in a manner gone over their hearts, and there remained in them only ſome tracks and reliques of the former ſtructure, the glory whereof was like that of the ſecond Temple, nothing comparable to the beauty of the firſt; inſtead of weeping with a loud Voice, as many of the Prieſts and Levites did, Ezra iii. 12. or building, or repairing of it with all alacrity, as all Iſrael did through that whole Book; their whole endeavour and project was even to deſtroy the ruins, and utterly finiſh the work of deſtruction which Adam had begun, as being impatient of that ſhelter which it would yet, if they would but give it leave, afford them. Thus that συντήρησις and συνείδησις, two ſparks of that primitive ſacred flame, which came from Heaven, ſtill alive and warm, though weak in them, intended by God to direct them in his will, and for ever ſet either as their Funeral Pile, or their Ordeal Fire, their puniſhment, or acquittal, either as their Devil, or their God, to accuſe, or elſe excuſe them, were both in their practice neglected, and ſlighted; nay in a manner oppreſt and ſtifled. For any natural power of doing good, (God knows) it was utterly departed; and therefore this thin meaſure of knowledge or judgment betwixt good and evil, that was left them (which my awe to Gods ſincere love of his Creature, makes me hope and truſt he beſtowed on them for ſome other end than only to increaſe their condemnation, to ſtand them in ſome ſtead in their lives, to reſtrain and keep them in from being extreamly ſinful:) This, I ſay, they horribly rejected, and ſtopt their Ears againſt that charmer in their own boſoms, and would not hear that ſoft Voice which God had ſtill placed within them, to upbraid their ways, and reprove their thoughts. What a provocation this was of Gods juſtice, what an incentive of his wrath, may appear by that terrible promulgation of the ten Commandments at Mount Sinai. They deſpiſed the law in their hearts, where

God and nature whiſper'd it in calmly, inſenſibly, and ſoftly; and therefore now it ſhall be thunder'd in their Ears in words, and thoſe, boiſterous ones, at which the whole mount quaked greatly, Exod. xix. 18. and the Voice of a trumpet exceeding loud, ſo that all the people that was in the camp, trembled. Thus upon their contempt and peeviſhneſs, was this manuſcript put in print, this Privy Seal turned into a Proclamation, and that a dreadful one, bound and ſubſcribed, with a Curſed is he that continues not in every tittle of it to perform it. Mean while the matter is not altered, but only the diſpenſation of it. That which till then had taught men in their hearts, and had been explain'd from tradition, from Father to Son, Adam inſtructing Seth, and Seth Enoch in all righteouſneſs; is now put into Tables, that they may have Eyes to ſee, that would not have hearts to underſtand, that the perverſe may be convinced, and that he that would not before ſee himſelf bound, may find, and read himſelf accurſed. And after all this, yet is not the old Law within them, either caſt away or cancel'd by the promulgation of the other: for * all the Book is Printed, the old Copy is kept in archivis, though, perhaps, as it always was, neglected, ſoil'd, and moth-eaten, and he ſhall be cenſured either for ambition or curioſity, that ſhall ever be ſeen to enquire, or look after it. Still I ſay, throughout all their wayes, and arts, and methods of Rebellions, it twing'd, and prickt within, as Gods judgments attended them without, and as often as ſword, or plague wounded them, made them acknowledge the juſtice of God, that thus rewarded their perverſeneſs. Nay you ſhall ſee it ſometimes break out againſt them, when perhaps the written Law ſpake too ſoftly for them to be underſtood. Thus did Davids heart ſmite him, when he had numbred the people; though there was no direct commandment againſt muſtering or enrolment, yet his own Conſcience told him that he had done it either for diſtruſt, or for oſtentation, and that he had ſinned againſt God in truſting and glorying in that arm of fleſh, or paid not the tribute appointed by God on that occaſion. To conclude this Diſcourſe of the Jews, every Rebellion and Idolatry of theirs was a double breach, of a double Law, the one in Tables, the other in their heart; and could they have been freed from the killing Letter of the one, the wounding ſenſe of the other would ſtill have kept them bound, as may appear in that buſineſs of Crucifying Chriſt, where no humane Law-giver or Magiſtrate went about to deter them from ſhedding his blood, or denying his Miracles, yet many of their own hearts apprehended, and violently buffetted, and ſcourged, and tormented them. At one time when they are moſt reſolved againſt him, the whole Senate is ſuddenly pricked, and convinced within, and expreſs it with a Surely this man doth many miracles, John xi. 48. At another time at the top and complement of the buſineſs, Pilate is deterr'd from condemning, and though the fear of the people made him valiant; yet, as if he contemn'd this Voice of his Conſcience againſt his will, with ſome reluctance, he waſhes his hands when he would have been gladder to quench the fire in his heart, which ſtill burnt and vext him. Laſtly, When Judas had betray'd and ſold him, and no man made huy and cry after him, his Conſcience was his purſuer, Judge, and Executioner; perſecuted him out of the World, haunted him, would not ſuffer him to live, whom otherwiſe the Law of the Country would have reprieved, till a natural death had called for him.

Laſtly, Even we Chriſtians are not likely to clear our ſelves of this Bill; 'tis much to be feared, that if our own hearts are called to witneſs, our Judge will need no farther Indictments. 'Twas an Heathen Speech concerning this rule of our lives and actions, that to ſtudy it hard, to reform and repair all obliquities and defects in it, and then βεβαιῶν, to ſet it up ſtrong and firm as a pillar in our hearts, was the part and office of a Philoſopher; and then afterwards, to make uſe of it in our whole Converſation, this was the part of a virtuous man compleat and abſolute. And how then will our contempt be aggravated, if Chriſtianity, which Clemens calls ſpiritual Philoſophy, and is to be reckoned above all moral perfections, hath yet wrought neither of theſe effects in us? if we have continued ſo far from ſtraightning, or ſetting up, or making uſe of this rule, that we have not ſo much as ever enquired or mark't whether there be any ſuch thing left within us or no? Theodoret in his ſecond Θεραπ. is very paſſionate in the expreſſion of this contempt of the τὸ νοερὸν φῶς τῆς ἀληθείας, the light of truth ſhining in our underſtandings. There be a ſort of Birds, ſaith he, that fly or move only in the night, called from thence Night-Birds, and Night-Ravens, which are afraid of light, as either an Enemy to ſpy, to aſſault, or betray them; but ſalute, and court, and make love to darkneſs as their only Queen, and Miſtreſs of their actions, ὡς συμβιον, as a creature ſent on purpoſe to preſerve them: and theſe, ſaith he, deſerve not to be chid but pitied, for nature at firſt appointed them this condition of life, ἀπαράγραπτον, 'tis their birthright and inheritance, and therefore no body will be angry with them for living on it: ἡμεῖς δὲ δυθαιμόνες, &c. But for them who were made Creatures of light, and, had it not been for their wilfulneſs, had ſtill continued light in the Lord, who are altogether encompaſt and environed with light, light of nature, light of reaſon, light of religion, nay, the moſt glorious aſteriſm, or conjunction of lights in the World, the light of the Goſpel to walk in; for theſe men meerly out of perverſeneſs of wilful hearts, to hate and abjure, and defy this light, to run out of the World almoſt for fear of it; to be for ever a ſolliciting and worſhipping of darkneſs, as Socrates was ſaid to adore the Clouds, this is ſuch a ſottiſhneſs, that the ſtupidſt Element under Heaven would naturally ſcorn to be guilty of: for never was the earth ſo peeviſh, as to forbid the Sun when it would ſhine on it, or to ſlink away, or ſubduce it ſelf from its rayes. And yet this is our caſe, beloved, who do more amorouſly, and flatteringly court, and woo, and ſollicite darkneſs, than ever the Heathens adored the Sun. Not to wander out of the ſphere my Text hath placed me in, to ſhew how the light of the Goſpel and Chriſtianity is neglected by us, our guilt will ly heavy enough on us, if we keep us to the light only of natural reaſon within us. How many ſins do we daily commit, which both nature and reaſon abhor and loath? How many times do we not only unman, but even uncreature our ſelves? Ariſtotle obſerves, that that by which any thing is known firſt, that which doth diſtinguiſh one thing from another ἀ πρῶτον, ἀρχὴ λέγεται, is to be called the beginning or cauſe of that thing; and that the light of reaſon diſtinguiſhing one action from another, being the firſt thing that teaches me that this is good, that otherwiſe may from thence be termed the beginning of every reaſonable action in us, and then where ever this cauſe or beginning is Ex. xix. 18. Verſe 16.

* ſ. albeit

Ex. xxx. 12.

Jo. xi. 48.

Arr. l. 2. c. 11.

Theod. Therap. 1, 2.

Ariſtoph. in Nub.

Met. 4.

left

left out, and wanting, there the thing produced is not so called a positive act, or proper effect, but a defect, an abortion, or still-born frustrate issue; and of this condition indeed is every sin in us. Every action where this Law within us is neglected, is not truly an action, but a passion, a suffering, or a torment of the Creature. Thus do we not so much live and walk, which note some action, as ly entranced, asleep, nay, dead in sin; by this perverseness 'tis perpetual night with us, nay, we even dy daily; our whole life is but a multiplyed swoon or lethargy, in which we remain stupid, breathless, senseless, till the day of Death or Judgment with a hideous Voice affrights and rouses us, and we find our selves awake in Hell; and so our dark Souls having a long while groped wilfully in the Sun, are at last lead to an Everlasting, inevitable darkness, whither the mercy or rays of the Sun can never pierce; where it will be no small accession to our torment, to remember and tremble at that light which before we scorn'd. Thus, I say, do we in a manner uncreature our selves, and by the contempt of this Law of our Creation, even frustrate and bring to nothing our Creation it self; and this is chiefly by sins of sloth, and stupid, sluggish, unactive Vices, which, as I said, make our whole life a continued passion, never daring, or venturing, or attempting to act or do any thing in Church or Commonwealth, either toward God or our Neighbour; and of such a condition'd man, no body will be so charitable as to guess he hath any Soul, or light of reason in him, because he is so far from making use of it, unless it be such a Soul as Tully saith a Swine hath, which serves it only instead of Salt, to keep it from stinking. For 'tis Aristotles observation, that every one of the Elements, besides the Earth, was by some Philosopher or other defin'd to be the Soul. Some said the Soul was fire, some that 'twas air, some water; but never any man was so mad, as to maintain the earth to be it, because 'twas so heavy and unweildy. So then this heavy, motionless, unactive Christian, this clod of Earth, hath, as I said, uncreatured himself, and by contemning this active reason within him, even deprived himself of his Soul. Again, how ordinary a thing is it to unman our selves by this contempt of the directions of reason, by doing things that no man in his right mind, would ever have patience to think of? Beloved, to pass by those which we call unnatural sins, i. e. so in the highest degree, as too horrid for our nature, set down in the latter end of this Chapter, for all Christian Ears to glow and tingle at, and I had hoped for all English spirits to abhor and loath: To pass these (I say) our whole life almost affords minutely sins which would not argue us men, but some other Creatures. There be few things we do in our age, which are proper peculiar acts of men; one man gives himself to eating and drinking, and bestows his whole care on that one faculty which they call the vegetative growing faculty; and then what difference is there betwixt him and a Tree, whose whole nature it is to feed and grow? Certainly unless he hath some better imployment, he is at best but ζωόφυτον, a plant-animal, whose shape would perhaps perswade you that it hath some sense or Soul in it, but its actions betray it to be a mere plant, little better than an Artichoak or Cabbage: another goes a little higher, yet not far; doth all that his sense presents to him, suffers all that his sensitive faculties lust and rage to exercise at freedom; is as fierce as the Tyger, as lustful as the Goat, as ravenous as the Wolf, and the like; and all the Beasts of the Field, and Fowls of the air, be but several Emblemes, and Hieroglyphicks concurring to make up his character, carries a Wilderness about him, as many sins as the nature of a sensitive Creature is capable of: and then, who will stick to compare this man to the beasts that perish? For 'tis Theophilus his note, that the Cattle and Beasts of the Field were created the same day with man, Gen. i. 25. to note, θηλα τινων ἀνθρώπων, the brutish condition of some men, and that therefore the blessing was not bestowed on them, but reserved for the man which should have the dominion over them, Verse 26, 28. In summ, every action which reason, or Scripture, or Gods spirit guides not in us, is to be called the work of some other Creature of one of these three sorts; either earthly, the work of a plant, or sensual, the work of a Brute, or thirdly, above the condition of both these, devilish.

De anim. l. 1. c. 2.

πολλοὶ ἀνθρώπων αἰδήσει μόνον ζῶσιν, &c. Porphyr. ad. Anth. l. 3. p. 44.

Ad Auto. l. 2. p. 95.

Gen. i. 25.

Verse 26, 28.

Ζωῶδές τι καὶ βοσκηματῶδες. Jambl. Protrept. p. 143.

Thus do you see the sin of the contempt of the light of nature, which although it be dimm'd in us by our corruption, yet shined so bright in the Heathen, that they were left without excuse; in the Jews, that even their own hearts accused them for their rebellions; and in us Christians, that unless we move according to its directions, we are fallen below the condition of men, almost of Creatures. 'Twere now superfluous farther to demonstrate it; our time will be better spent, if we close with some use of it; and that will prove manifold, first by way of caution, not to deify or exalt too high, or trust in this light of nature. It was once a perfect glorious rule, but is now distorted and defaced; it once was light in the Lord, almost an Angel of light, it shone as the Sun in the Firmament, in majesty and full brightness, but is now only as the Moon, pale and dim, scarce able to do us any service, unless it borrows some rays from the Son of righteousness. The fall hath done somewhat with it, I know not what to call it, either much impaired it, and diminisht its light in its Essence, or else much incumbred, or oppresst it in its operations, as a Candle under a Vail, or Lanthorn, which, though it burn, and shine as truly as on a Candlestick, yet doth not so much service in enlightning the room: the Soul within us is much changed, either is not in its Essence so perfect, and active, and bright, as once it was; or else being infused in a sufficient perfection, is yet terribly overcast with a gloom and cloud of corruptions, that it can scarce find any passage to get through, and shew it self in our actions; for the corruptible body presseth down the soul, &c. Wisd. ix. 15. And from this caution grow many lower branches, whence we may gather some fruit; as in the second place, infinitely to humble our selves before God for the first sin of Adam, which brought this darkness on our Souls, and account it not the meanest, or slightest of our miseries, that our whole nature is defiled, and bruised, and weakned: to aggravate every circumstance and effect of that sin against thy self, which has so liberally afforded fuel to the flames of lust, of rage, and wild desire, and thereby, without Gods gracious mercy, to the flames of Hell. This is a most profitable point, yet little thought on; and therefore would deserve a whole Sermon to discuss to you. 3. To observe and acknowledge the necessity of some brighter light, than this of nature can afford us, and with all the care and vigilancy of our hearts, all the means that Scripture will lend us, and at last with all the importunities and groans, and violence of our Souls, to petition and sollicit, and urge Gods illuminating spirit to break out and shine on us. To undertake to interpret any antient Author, requires, ſay the Grammarians, a man of deep and various knowledge, becauſe there may be ſome paſſage or other in that Book, which will refer to every ſort of learning in the World, whence 'tis obſerved that the old Scholiaſts and Ἐξηγηταὶ, were moſt exquiſite Scholars. Thus certainly will not any ordinary skill ſerve turn to interpret and explain many dark ſayings, which were at firſt written in the Book of our hearts, but are now almoſt paſt reading; only that omniſcient ſpirit, that hath no ſhadow of ignorance, the Finger that firſt writ, muſt be beſeeched to read and point out the riddle. We muſt make uſe of that rotten ſtaffe of nature, as far as its ſtrength will bear, and that very gingerly too, never daring to lean, or lay our whole weight upon it, leſt it either wound with its ſplinter, or elſe break under us: our help and ſtay, and ſubſiſtence, and truſt muſt be in the Lord, our Eyes muſt wait on his inlightning ſpirit, and never loſe a ray that falls from it. Fourthly, to clear up as much as we can, and re-inliven this light within us. And that firſt,

Wisd. ix. 15.

By ſtirring up and blowing, and ſo nouriſhing every ſpark we find within us. The leaſt particle of fire left in a Coal, may by pains be improved into a flame; 'tis held poſſible to reſtore, or at leaſt preſerve for a time, any thing that is not quite departed. If thou findeſt but a ſpark of Religion in thee, which ſaith, A God is to be worſhip't; care, and ſedulity, and the breath of Prayers, may in time by this inflame the whole man into a bright fire of Zeal towards God. In brief, whatever thou doſt, let not any the leaſt atome of that fire, which thou once feeleſt within thee, ever go out: quench not the weakeſt motion, or inclination even of reaſon towards God, or goodneſs: how unpoliſh't ſoever this Diamond be, yet if it do but gliſten, 'tis too pretious to be caſt away. And then ſecondly,

By removing all hindrances, or incumbrances that may any way weaken or oppreſs it; and theſe you have learnt to be corrupt affections. That democracy, and croud, and preſs, and common people of the Soul, raiſes a tumult in every ſtreet within us, that no voice of law or reaſon can be heard. If you will but diſgorge, and purge the ſtomach, which hath been thus long oppreſt, if you will but remove this Cloud of crudities, then will the brain be able to ſend ſome rayes down to the heart, which till then are ſure to be caught up by the way, anticipated, and devoured. For the naked ſimplicity of the Soul, the abſence of all diſordered paſſions, is that In Top. l. 1. ἀπλῆ ἐνέργεια τῆς ψυχῆς, ſaith Aphrodiſeus, that kindly familiar good temper of the Soul, by which it is able to find out and judge of truth. In brief, if thou canſt crop thy luxuriant paſſions, if thou canſt either expel, or tame all the wild Beaſts within thee, which are born to devour any thing which is weak or innocent, then will that mild voice within thee, in the cave, take heart and ſhew it ſelf. In the mean time this hurry of thy ſenſes drowns that reaſon, and thou canſt not hope to ſee, as long as like old Tobit, the dung, and white film doth remain upon thine Eyes. If thou canſt uſe any means to diſſolve this dung of affections, which an habit of ſin hath baked within thee, the ſcales will fall off from thine Eyes, and the blind Tobit ſhall be reſtored to his ſight. In brief, do but fortify thy reaſonable Soul againſt all the undermining, and faction, and violence of theſe ſenſual paſſions, do but either depoſe, or put to the Sword that Atheiſtical Tyrant, and Uſurper, as Jamblichus calls the affections, do but ſet reaſon in the Chair, and hear, and obſerve his dictates, and thou haſt diſburthened thy ſelf of a great company of weights, and preſſures: thou wilt be able to look more like a man, to hold thy head more couragiouſly, and bend thy thoughts more reſolutely toward Heaven: and I ſhall expect, and hope, and pray, and almoſt be confident, that if thou doſt perform ſincerely what thy own ſoul prompts thee to, Gods ſpirit is nigh at hand to perfect, and crown, and ſeal thee up to the day of redemption.

In the next place, thou maiſt ſee thine own guilts the clearer, call thy ſelf to an account even of thoſe things which thou thinkeſt thou art freeſt from; that which the Apoſtle in this chap. and part of my Diſcourſe hath charged the Heathens with: and if thou lookeſt narrowly, I am afraid thou wilt ſpy thine own picture in that glaſs, and find thy ſelf in many things as arrant a Gentile, as any of them. For any ſincere care of God, or Religion, how few of us are there, that ever entertained ſo unpleaſant a gueſt in their hearts: we go to Church, and ſo did they to their Temples: we pray, and they ſacrificed; they waſhed and bathed themſelves before they durſt approach their deities, and we come in our beſt cloths, and cleaneſt linen; but for any farther real ſervice we mean towards God there, for any inward purity of the heart, for any ſincere worſhip of our Soul, we are as guiltleſs, as free from it, we do as much contemn, and ſcorn it, as ever did any Heathen. Again, what man of us is not in ſome kind guilty even of their higheſt crime, Idolatry? Some of them took the brain to be ſacred, ἐγκέφαλος θεός, ſaith Athenæus; and therefore hearing ſome cry God help, when one ſneezed, the ignorant ſort worſhipt that noiſe as an expreſſion of a deity in the brain: and ſo as ſenſeleſly many of us deify our own brains, and adore every thing that ever comes out of them. Every conceit of ours muſt be like the birth of Jupiters brain, a Minerva at leaſt; be we never ſo ignorant or mechanical, every device, every fancy of our own (eſpecially in matters of Religion) is ſtraight of divine authority; and having reſolved our ſelves the Children of God, every crochet we fall upon, muſt be neceſſarily Theopneuſt, and inſpired, and others accuſed for irreligious, or ſingular, that will not as ſoon give homage to it. In ſumm, every imagination becomes an Image, and the Artificer Wiſd. xiii. deifies his own handy-work, forgetting that he made it, as 'tis deſcribed in the xiii. of Wiſd. toward the end; and this is one kind of Idolatry. Again, who is there that hath not ſome pleaſure in his heart, which takes place of God there? They had their Sun and Moon, moſt glorious Creatures, their Heroes, whoſe vertues had even deified their memory, and ſilly men they admired, and could not chooſe but worſhip. The Devil, and a humour of ſuperſtition cuſtomary in them, fee'd and bribed the law in their hearts to hold its peace, and not recal them. But how baſely have we outgone their vileſt worſhips? How have we outſtript them? Let but one appearance of gain, like that golden Calf of the Iſraelites; a beautiful Woman, like that Venus of the Heathens; nay in brief, what ever Image, or repreſentation of delight thy own luſt can propoſe thee, let it but glance, or glide by thee, and Quis non incurvavit? Shew me a man that hath not at ſome time or other fain down and worſhipt. In ſumm, all the lower part of the Soul, or carnal affections are but a picture of the City of Acts xvii. 16. Athens, Acts xvii. 16. Wholly given to Idolatry. The baſeſt, unworthieſt pleaſure or content in the World, World, that which is good for nothing else, the very refuse of the refuse, Wisd. xiii. 13. is become an Idol, and hath its shrines in some heart or other: and we crouch and bow, and sacrifice to it; and all this against the voice of our Soul, and nature within us, if we would suffer it to speak aloud, or but hearken to its whisperings: φύσεως γὰρ τοῦτο, ἐνθυμίαις ἁπλαῖς, saith Philoponus, Nature only bids us feed our selves with sufficient; lust brought in superfluity and pleasure. But this only by the way, lest you might think that part of my Sermon concerning the Heathens contempt of this law, did belong little to you, and so might have been spared. Wisd. xiii. 13. 4 Ar. de an.

Lastly, Not to lade every part of my former Discourse with its several use, or application, take but this one more. If this Light shines but dimly within us, then let us so much the more not dare contemn it. That Master that speaks but seldom, then surely deserves to be obeyed; he that is slow in his reproofs, certainly hath good reason when he falls foul with any body. If Crœsus his dumb Son in Herodotus, seeing one come to kill his Father, shall by violence break the string of his tongue, that formerly hindred his Speech, and he that never spake before, roar out an ἄνθρωπε μὴ κτεῖνε Κροῖσον, Sir, Kill not Crœsus, I wonder not that the Persian held his hand: a very Barbarian would be amazed, and stopt by such a Prodigy; it must needs be an odious thing, when the Child which can scarce speak, expresses indignation. Wherefore if ever our bestial sense, that of our sense, which is now somewhat decrepit, and dim-sighted, shall yet espy and find fault with: if in any enterprize this natural law within us shall give the check, let us suddenly remove our project, and not dare to reject such Fatherly, sage admonishments; if all the means in the World can help to avoid it, let us never fall into the snare. And if at thy audit with thy own Soul, and examination of thy self, amongst the root of thy customary ignorant sins, (and O Lord deliver me from my secret faults) if in that heap and Chaos, thy own heart can pick out many of this nature, and present them to thee, which it before forewarned thee of; then let the saltest, most briny tear in thy heart be called out to wash off this guilt: let the saddest mortified thought thou canst strain for, be accounted but a poor unproportionable expiation. Think of this seriously, and if all this will nothing move you, I cannot hope that any farther Rhetorick, if I had it to spare, would do any good upon you. Only I will try one suasory more, which being somewhat rough, may chance to frighten you, and that is, the punishment that here expects this contempt, and that a dismal hideous one, all the wild savage devourers in the Wilderness, Vile affections, which punishment together with the inflicter, and manner of inflicting it, are the last parts of my Discourse, of which together in a word: God gave them up to vile affections. Herod. l. 1.

A punishment indeed; and all the Fiends of Hell could not invent, or wish a man a greater: there is not a more certain presage of a παναλεθεία, or total subversion of Body and Soul, not a more desperate prognostick in the World. 'Tis observed in Photius, as a sure token that Jerusalem should be destroyed, because punishment came upon it in a chain, every link drew on another, no intermission, or discontinuance of judgments, τῷ γὰρ λιμῷ ὁ λοιμὸς, &c. A single judgment that brings no train after it, is cheaply entertained, and is therefore called not a calamity, but a visitation: but when one plague shall invade, shall supplant another, when the pestilence shall fright out the famine, and the sword pursue the pestilence, that neither may slay all, but each join in the glory of the spoil; then must the beholder acknowledge δεσμωτὰς ἔργον, that God is resolved to make them the Scene of his rage, not only of his wrath. Thus also in the spiritual κάκωσις of the estate of the Soul, some sins may be suffered to invade us, and stick as did the Amorites, to goad our sides, not destroy, but humble us. But when sins shall come like gaol-birds linked, and chained together; when our corruptions, and insolent tyrannical passions shall make us contemn the light and law of reason, and nature; when that contempt shall bring forth Idolatry, and the like, either worship of Idol-gods, or vain conceits, or imaginary delights, every lust of our baser Soul; then can it not be expected, that God will have so little to do, as to take any more care of us, that he will have so much mercy as even to punish us any longer. The next voice that we can expect, is that horrible mercy of his, Why should you be smitten any more? Any restraint either of chastisement, or instruction, would be scarce seen upon us; and therefore 'tis but lost labour to beat the air, or to lay stripes upon the Sea with Xerxes. The height of Gods wrath in this World, is but our just reward, and that is desertion, or dereliction, and giving us over, and giving us up, which will suddenly bring us to that which our corrupt nature posts after, all vile affections. P. 36. 9. Es. i. 5.

The issue of all is this; that those that contemn Gods ordinary restraints, God ordinarily leaves to themselves, and suffers them to run into most horrible sins. 'Tis justice that they which delight in errour, should be let alone in their course, that they may see and acknowledge the errour of their delight, that they which have contemned Gods Voice, and natures within them, should be forsaken and left without either, ungodly, unnatural; that they which lull'd their reasonable Soul into a Lethargy, for fear it should awake them, or disturb their delights, should not have life enough without it, ever to awake or rouse themselves or it; that they which have maliciously, and contemptuously put out the Sun, should for ever suffer a continued night. 'Tis Hippocr. his observation, that the Africans are very libidinous: they are neither hardy nor valiant, nor laborious, ἀλλὰ κρατέων τὴν ἡδονὴν, Lust hath so effeminated them, that they are fit for nothing, but for softness: and therefore saith he, πολύμορφα γίνεται τὰ ἐν τοῖς θηρίοις, there be among them beasts of all sorts of strange shapes, the heat and violence of the same lust, makes the very Beasts unnatural, the confusion of species is ordinary among them; and so almost every birth a Monster; nature is almost lost amongst them, and many Beasts may be found in Africk, which never had any of their kind in the Ark; Africa semper aliquod apportat novi, whosoever hath a mind to a strange sight, there he shall have store of them. Thus is it in the Soul, if the upper, the manly part of it be overswell'd with lust, it straight becomes effeminate, and enervate, hath neither strength, nor sinews, nor courage for any undertaking: and then the Beasts of the field, the lower, baser, sensual faculties of the Soul, are not only lusty, but outragious, having no keeper to govern them, they become wild: scorn any limits, or bounds of nature, do every day conceive horrid, unnatural, vile imaginations, and every season grow big, and bring forth Monsters, monstrous oaths, monstrous delights, monstrous vanities. Some De aqu. aer. & locis.

new

new art or trick of ſinning, that was never heard of before, is invented againſt every ſolemn ſeaſon of our jollity; and this we carry about, and ſhew, and brag of as a new Creature, or ſtrange ſight, and get a great deal of applauſe, and admiration, and perhaps ſome money by the employment. 'Twere too long to point out the ſeveral ſorts of theſe vile affections, which contempt of this light, hath produced in every one of us; only let us ſtrive, and ſtrain, and ſtretch the Eyes that are left us, to examine, and obſerve, every degree and Symptome, and prognoſtick of them in our ſelves, and never leave poring till we have pierced through that carnal ſecurity that blinded us, and fully humble our ſelves in a ſenſe of that deſperate eſtate, and almoſt the Hell that we are faln blindfold into. And if we are ſtill blinded, ſtill unable to ſee, or move, or relieve our ſelves, let us then lay hold of the next Poſt or Pillar we meet with, and there fix and dwell, and weep, and pray, to that Omnipotent Phyſician of our Souls, that Reſtorer of reaſonable Creatures, that he will by ſome ſpiritual Eye water, recover us to that ſenſe. 'Tis impoſſible, ſaith Tobias, for any one to reſtore us to the Image of the Father which was once on us, but him only who was the eternal Image of the Father, he only could ἀπαλλάξαι τῆς ἀλογίας, καὶ πρὸς τὸ νοερὸν ἐπαναγαγεῖν ἀξίωμα, turn out that unreaſonable blind ſoul within us, made up of our ſins which move us, and reduce us to the dignity of reaſonable creatures. He hath already by his Incarnation, delivered us from one long night, the dark gloom of our Heathen Anceſtors; O that he would be born again ſpiritually in our Souls, to deliver us from other more Cimmerian darkneſs, the night, and Hell of habituate ſin, wherein we grope. He once breathed on us the breath of life, to make us men; O that he would again but breath on us the τὸ ἅγιον πνεῦμα, His holy breath, his hallowing breath, his breath of holineſs, to make us Saints. It is he that muſt prevent us with his Spirit, or elſe we run headlong into all vile affections.

Photius p. 601.

O That he would but Sanctify us; and then, the moſt plauſible flattering ſin in the World, nay, the moſt boyſterous, impetuous luſt, ſhould not be able to tyrannize over us. In the mean time, let us remain men, till it ſhall pleaſe that free voice to call us into Saints. Grace is never placed but in a reaſonable Creature; and is therefore ſaid to be ſent to make reaſon ſee, what by nature only it cannot, never to blemiſh it in what it can comprehend, as the Learned Biſhop hath obſerved againſt the Jeſuit. Let us make much of all the light that nature and reaſon will afford us, let us not ſuffer one precious ray to be caſt away upon us, but improve it to the extent of its virtue, for the direction of our lives. And whenſoever this light ſhall fail that it cannot guide us, or our Eyes dazle that we cannot follow, let us pray to the Father of lights, and God of Spirits, that he will ſhine ſpiritually in our hearts, and fulfil us with his light of grace here, which may enable us to behold him, and enjoy him, and rejoice with him, and be ſatisfied with that eternal light of his Glory hereafter.

Now to him that hath elected us, hath created, redeemed, &c.

SER-

SERMON XV.

GAL. VI. 15.

But a new Creature.

AMongſt all other encumbrances, and delays in our way to Heaven, there is no one that doth ſo clog and traſh, ſo diſadvantage and backward us, and in fine, ſo caſt us behind in our race; as a contentedneſs in a formal worſhip of God, an acquieſcence and reſting ſatisfied in outward performances, when men upon a confidence that they perform all that can be required of a Chriſtian, they look no farther than the outward work, obſerve not what heart is under this outſide, but reſolve their eſtate is ſafe, they have as much intereſt in Heaven as any one. Such men as theſe the Apoſtle begins to character and cenſure in the twelfth Verſe of the Chapter, As many as deſire to make a fair ſhew in the fleſh, &c. They that ſtand only on a fair ſpecious out-ſide, and think all the ſap and life of Religion lies in the bark, they do this and this, theſe will have you circumciſed, and conſtrain you to a many burthenſom Ceremonies; meaſuring out Religion to you by the weight, thus much is required of you to do (as Popiſh Confeſſors ſet their deluded Votaries their task of Ave Maries and Pater noſters by tale) and thus you may be ſure to be ſaved. In brief, the Apoſtle here ſhews the unprofitableneſs of all theſe, and ſets up the inward ſanctity and renewedneſs of heart againſt them all, as the only thing that will ſtand us in ſtead, and appear to be of any weight in the balance of the Sanctuary. If you obſerve all the commands, and ſubmit your ſelves to all the burden of both Law and Goſpel, and bear it upon your ſhoulders never ſo valiantly; if you be content to be circumciſed as Chriſt was; or, becauſe he hath now abrogated that, make uſe of Chriſtian liberty, and remain uncircumciſed, notwithſtanding all inducements to the contrary: In brief, be you outwardly never ſo ſevere a Jew or Chriſtian; all that is nothing worth; there is but one thing moſt peremptorily required of you, and that you have omitted; For neither circumciſion availeth any thing, neither uncircumciſion, but a new Creature. Verſe 12.

The particle but in the front of my Text, is excluſive and reſtrictive, it excludes every thing in the World from pretending to avail any thing, from being believed to do us any good. For by circumciſion the Church of the Jews, and by uncircumciſion the whole profeſſion of Chriſtian Religion being underſtood; when he ſaith neither of theſe availeth any thing, he forcibly implies that all other means, all profeſſions, all obſervances, that men think or hope to get Heaven by, are to no purpoſe, and that by conſequence, it exactly reſtrains to the new creature; there it is to be had, and no where elſe: thus doth he ſlight and undervalue, and even reprobate all other ways to Heaven, that he may ſet the richer price, and raiſe a greater eſtimation in us of this. The ſubſtance of all the Apoſtles Diſcourſe, and the ground-work of mine ſhall be this one Aphoriſm, Nothing is efficaciouſly available to ſalvation, but a renewed, regenerated heart. For the opening of which, we will examine by way of doctrine, wherein this new Creature conſiſts, and then by way of uſe, the neceſſity of that, and unprofitableneſs of all other plauſible pretending means; and firſt of the firſt, wherein this new creature conſiſts.

'Tis obſervable, that our ſtate of nature and ſin is in Scripture expreſt ordinarily by old age, the natural ſinful man, that is, all our natural affections that are born and grow up with us, are called the old man, as if ſince Adams fall we were decrepit, and feeble, and aged as ſoon as born, as a Child begotten by a man in a Conſumption, never comes to the ſtrength of a man, is always weak, and crazy, and puling, hath all the imperfections and corporal infirmities of age before he is out of his infancy. And according to this ground the whole Analogy of Scripture runs; all that is oppoſite to the old decrepit ſtate, to the dotage of nature, is phraſed new; The new Covenant, Mark i. 27. The language of believers, new tongues, Mark xvi. 17. A new Commandment, John xiii. 34. A new man, Epheſ. ii. 15. In ſumm, the ſtate of grace is expreſt by καινὰ πάντα, all is become new, 2 Cor. v. 17. So that old and new, as it divides the Bible, the whole ſtate of things, the World; ſo it doth that to which all theſe ſerve, man; every natural man which hath nothing but nature in him, is an old man, be he never ſo young is full of Years, even before he is able to tell them. Adam was a perfect man when he was but a minute old, and all his Children are old even in the Cradle, nay, even dead with old age, Eph. ii. 5. And then conſequently, every ſpiritual man which hath ſomewhat elſe in him than he received from Adam, he that is born from above, John iii. 3. γεννηθῆναι ἄνωθεν, (for it may be ſo rendred from the original, as well as born again, as our Engliſh read it) he that is by Gods ſpirit quickned from the old death, Epheſ. ii. 5. he is contrary to the former, a new man, a new creature; the old Eagle hath caſt his beak and is grown young; the man, when old, has entred the ſecond time into his mothers Womb, and is born again, all the gray hairs and wrinkles fall off from him, as the Scales from blind Tobits Eyes, and he comes forth a refin'd, glorious, beauteous new Creature, you would wonder to ſee the change. So that you find in general, that the Scripture preſumes it, that there is a renovation, a caſting away of the old Coat, a Youth and ſpring again in many men from the old age and weak Bed-rid eſtate of nature. Now that you may conceive wherein it conſiſts, how this new man is brought forth in us, by whom it is conceived, and in what Womb 'tis carried, I will require no more of you, than to obſerve and underſtand with me, what is meant by the ordinary phraſe in our Divines, a new principle, or inward principle of life, and that you ſhall Rom. vi. 6. Col. iii. 9. Eph. iv. 22. Mar. i. 27. Mar. xvi. 17. Joh. xiii. 34. Eph. ii. 15. 2 Cor. v. 17. Eph. ii. 5. John iii. 3. Eph. ii. 5.

do

do briefly thus. A mans Body is naturally a ſluggiſh, unactive, motionleſs, heavy thing, not able to ſtir or move the leaſt animal motion, without a Soul to enliven it; without that, 'tis but a Carcaſs, as you ſee at Death, when the Soul is ſeparated from it, it returns to be but a ſtock or lump of fleſh; the Soul beſtows all life and motion on it, and enables it to perform any work of nature. Again, the Body and Soul together conſidered in relation to ſomewhat above their power and activity, are as impotent and motionleſs, as before the Body without the Soul. Set a man to remove a Mountain, and he will heave perhaps to obey your command, but in event will do no more towards the diſplacing of it, than a ſtone in the ſtreet could do: but now, let an Omnipotent Power be annext to this man, let a ſupernatural ſpirit be joined to this Soul, and then will it be able to overcome the proudeſt, ſtouteſt difficulty in nature. You have heard in the Primitive Church of a grain of Faith removing Mountains, and believe me, all Miracles are not yet out-dated. The work of Regeneration, the beſtowing of a ſpiritual Life on one dead in treſpaſſes and ſins, the making of a Carcaſs walk, the natural old man to ſpring again, and move ſpiritually, is as great a miracle as that. Now the Soul, in that it produces life and motion, the exerciſe of life in the body, is called a principle, that is, a Spring or Fountain of Life, becauſe all comes from it; in like manner, that which moves this Soul, and enables it to do that which naturally it could not; that which gives it a new life, which before it lived not; furniſheth it with ſpiritual powers to quell and ſubdue all carnal affections, which were before too hard for it; this, I ſay, is called properly an inward principle; and an inward, becauſe it is inwardly and ſecretly infuſed, doth not only outwardly aſſiſt us as an auxiliary at a dead lift, but is ſown and planted in our hearts, as a Soul to the Soul, to elevate and enable it above it ſelf, hath its ſeat and palace in the regenerate heart, and there exerciſes dominion, executes judgment, and that is commonly either by Priſon or Baniſhment, it either fetters, or elſe expels all inſolent rebellious luſts. Now the new principle, by which not the man, but the new man, the Chriſtian lives, is, in a word, the ſpirit of God, which unites it ſelf to the regenerate heart, ſo that now he is ſaid to be a godly man, a ſpiritual man, from the God, from the Spirit, as before a living reaſonable man, from the Soul, from the reaſon, that inform'd and ruled in him; which is noted by that diſtinction in Scripture betwixt the regenerate and unregenerate, expreſt by a natural or animal, and a ſpiritual man. Thoſe Creatures that have no Soul in them, are called naturals, having nothing but nature within to move them; others which have a Soul, animals, or living Creatures; by both which the unregenerate is ſignified indifferently, becauſe the Soul which he hath, ſtands him in little ſtead, his fleſh rules all, and then he is alſo called a carnal man, for all his Soul, he is but a lump of fleſh, and therefore, whether you ſay he hath a Soul, and ſo call him an animal, or hath not a Soul, and ſo call him a mere natural, there is no great difference in it. But now the regenerate man which hath more than a Soul, Gods ſpirit to enliven him, he is of another rank, πνευματικὸς, a ſpiritual man, nay, only he properly a Chriſtian, becauſe he lives by Chriſt, He lives,
Gal. ii. 20. yet not he, but Chriſt liveth in him, Gal. ii. 20. This being premiſed, that now you know what this new Creature is, he that lives and moves by a new principle, all that is behind will be clearlieſt preſented to you by reſolving theſe four queſtions; firſt, whence it comes; ſecondly, where it lodges; thirdly, when it enters; fourthly, what works it performs there.

Jo. iii. 3. To the firſt, whence it comes, the anſwer is clear and punctual, John iii. 3. ἄνωθεν, from above,
James i. 17. from whence comes every good, and eſpecially every perfect gift, James i. 17. but this moſt peculiarly by a ſeveral and more excellent way than any thing elſe. Since Chriſts Aſcenſion, the Holy Ghoſt of all the perſons in the Trinity, is moſt frequently employed in the work of deſcending from Hea-
John xv. 26. ven, and that by way of miſſion from the Father and the Son, according to the promiſe of Chriſt, John xv. 26. The comforter whom I will ſend from the Father. Now this ſpirit being preſent every where in its eſſence, is ſaid to come to us by communication of his gifts, and ſo to be peculiarly reſident in us, as God is in the Church, from which Analogy our Bodies are called the Temples of the Holy Ghoſt
1 Cor. vi. 19. which is in us, 1 Cor. vi. 19. God ſends then his ſpirit into our hearts; and this, I ſaid, by a peculiar manner, not by way of emiſſion, as an Arrow ſent out of a Bow, which loſes its union which it had with the Bow, and is now faſtned in the Butt or White; nor properly by way of infuſion, as the Soul is in the Body, infus'd from God; yet ſo alſo, that it is in a manner put into our hands, and is ſo in the man's poſſeſſion that hath it, that it is neither in any mans elſe, nor yet by any extraordinary tye annext to God from whom it came: but by way of irradiation, as a beam ſent from the Sun, that is in the air indeed, and that ſubſtantially, yet ſo as it is not ſeparated from the Sun, nay, conſiſts only in this, that it is united to the Sun; ſo that if it were poſſible for it to be cut off from the Sun, it would deſiſt to be, it would illuminate no longer. So that you muſt conceive theſe beams of Gods ſpirit at the ſame time in the Chriſtians heart and in the ſpirit, and ſo uniting that ſpirit to the heart, as you may conceive by this proportion. I have a Javelin or Spear in my hand, if I would miſchief any thing, or drive it from me, I dart it out of my hand at it, from which Gods judgments are compared to ſhooting and lightning, He hath bent his bow, he hath ſent forth his arrows, he caſt
Pſal. xviii. 14. forth lightnings, Pſalm xviii. 14. But if I like any thing that I meet with, if I would have it to me, I reach out my Spear and faſten in it, but ſtill hold the Spear in my hand, and having pierc't it, draw it to me. Thus doth God reach forth his graces to us, and as I may ſo ſay, by keeping one end in his hand, and faſtning the other in us, plucks and unites us to himſelf; from which, regeneration is ordinarily called an union with Chriſt, and this union by a ſtrong able band, δεσμὸς μείζων ἢ πνευμάτου δέσμου, in Euſeb. his phraſe, which no man can cut aſunder. 'Tis impoſſible to divide or cut a ſpirit; and this Bond is δεσμὸς πνευματικὸς, a ſpiritual one; and that made St. Paul ſo confident, That no crea-
Rom. viii. 39. ture ſhould ever ſeparate him, Rom. viii. 39. And this God does by way of emanation, as a Loadſtone ſending out its effluvia or magnetick atomes, draws the Iron to it ſelf, which never ſtays till it be united. Thus do you ſee from whence this principle comes to me, and in what manner, from God's ſpirit by this means uniting me to himſelf.

To the ſecond queſtion, where it lodges, my anſwer is, in the heart of man, in the whole ſoul; not in the underſtanding, not in the will, (a diſtinction of faculties invented by Philoſophers, to puzzle and perplex Divines, and put them to needleſs ſhifts) but, I ſay, in the whole Soul, ruling and guiding ding it in all its actions, enabling it to understand and will spiritually; conceived, I say, and born in the Soul, but nursed, and fed, and encreased into a perfect stature by the outward Organs and actions of the body, for by them it begins to express and shew it self in the World, by them the habit is exerted and made perfect, the Seed shot up into an Ear, the Spring improved to Autumn, when the tongue discourses, the hands act, the feet run the way of Gods commandments. So, I say, the Soul is the Mother, and the operations of Soul and Body the Nurse of this Spirit in us; and then, who can hold in his spirit without stifling, from breaking out into that joyful acclamation, Blessed is the womb that bears this incarnate spirit, and the paps that give him suck! Now this inward principle, this grace of regeneration, though it be seated in the whole Soul, as it is an habit, yet as it is an operative habit, producing, or rather enabling the man to produce several gracious works, so it is peculiarly in every part, and accordingly receives divers names, according to several exercises of its power in those several parts. As the Soul of man sees in the Eye, hears in the Ear, understands in the Brain, chooses and desires in the heart, and being but one Soul, yet works in every room, every shop of the Body, in a several trade, as it were, and is accordingly called a seeing, a hearing, a willing or understanding Soul: thus doth the habit of grace seated in the whole, express and evidence it self peculiarly in every act of it, and is called by as several names, as the reasonable Soul hath distinct acts, or objects. In the understanding, 'tis first, spiritual wisdom, and discretion in holy things; opposite to which, is νὸς ἀδόκιμος, Rom. i. 28. an unapproving, as well as unapproved or reprobate mind, and frequently in Scripture, spiritual blindness. Then as a branch of this, it is belief or assent to the truth of the promises, and the like. In the practical judgment, 'tis spiritual prudence, in ordering all our holy knowledge to holy practice: In the will, 'tis a regular choice of whatsoever may prove available to Salvation, a holy love of the end, and embracing of the means with courage and zeal. Lastly, in the outward man, 'tis an ordering of all our actions to a blessed conformity with a sanctified Soul. In brief, 'tis one principle within us, doth every thing that is holy, believes, repents, hopes, loves, obeys, and what not? And consequently, is effectually in every part of Body and Soul, sanctifying it to work spiritually, as an holy instrument of a divine invisible cause, that is, the Holy Ghost that is in us and throughout us.

Luke xi. 27.

Rom. i. 28.

For the third question, when this new principle enters; first, you are to know, that * comes into the heart in a threefold condition; first, as an harbinger; secondly, as a private secret guest; thirdly, as an inhabitant, or Housekeeper. As 'tis an harbinger, so it comes to fit and prepare us for it self; trims up, and sweeps, and sweetens the Soul, that it may be readier to entertain him when he comes to reside; and that he doth (as the ancient gladiators had their arma praeludoria) by skirmishing with our corruptions, before he comes to give them a Pitch-Battel; he brandishes a flaming Sword about our Ears, and as by a flash of lightning, gives us a sense of a dismal hideous state; and so somewhat restrains us from excess and fury; first, by a momentany remorse, then by a more lasting, yet not purifying flame, the Spirit of bondage. In summ, every check of Conscience, every sigh for sin, every fear of judgment, every desire of grace, every motion or inclination toward spiritual good, be it never so short-winded, is praeludium spiritus, a kind of John Baptist to Christ, something that God sent before to prepare the wayes of the Lord. And thus the spirit comes very often; in every affliction, every disease, (which is part of Gods Discipline, to keep us in some order,) in brief, at every Sermon that works upon us at the hearing: then I say, the lightning flashes in our Eyes, we have a glimpse of his spirit, but cannot come to a full sight of it: and thus he appears to many, whom he will never dwell with. Unhappy men, that they cannot lay hold on him, when he comes so near them! and yet somewhat more happy, than they that never came within ken of him; stopt their Ears when he spake to them even at this distance. Every man in the Christian Church, hath frequently in his life, a power to partake of Gods ordinary preparing graces: and 'tis some degree of obedience, though no work of regeneration, to make good use of them; and if he, without the Inhabitance of the spirit, cannot make such use as he should, yet to make the best he can: and thus I say, the spirit appears to the unregenerate, almost every day of our lives. 2. When this spirit comes a guest to lodge with us, then is he said to enter; but till by actions and frequent obliging works, he makes himself known to his Neighbours, as long as he keeps his Chamber, till he declare himself to be there, so long he remains a private secret guest: and that's called the introduction of the form, that makes a man to be truly regenerate, when the Seed is sown in his heart, when the habit is infused, and that is done sometimes discernibly, sometimes not discernibly, but seldom, as when Saul was called in the midst of his madness, Acts ix. he was certainly able to tell a man the very minute of his Change, of his being made a new Creature. Thus they which have long lived in an enormous Antichristian course, do many times find themselves strucken on a sudden, and are able to date their regeneration, and tell you punctually how old they are in the spirit. Yet because there be many preparations to this spirit, which are not this spirit; many presumptions in our hearts false-grounded, many tremblings and jealousies in those that have it, great affinity between Faith natural and spiritual: seeing 'tis a spirit that thus enters, and not as it did light on the Disciples in a bodily shape, 'tis not an easy matter for any one to define the time of his conversion. Some may guess somewhat nearer than others, as remembring a sensible change in themselves; but in a word, the surest discerning of it, is in its working, not at its entring. I may know, that now I have the spirit, better than at what time I came to it. Undiscernibly Gods supernatural agency interposes sometimes in the Mothers Womb, as in John Baptist springing in Elizabeth at Maryes salutation, Luke i. 41. and perhaps in Jeremy, Jer. i. 5. Before thou camest out of the womb, I sanctifyed thee, and in Isaiah, Isa. xlix. 5. The Lord that formed me from the womb to be his servant. But this divine address attends most ordinarily till the time of our Baptism, when the spirit accompanying the outward sign, infuses it self into their hearts, and there seats and plants it self, and grows up with the reasonable Soul, keeping even their most luxuriant years within bounds; and as they come to an use of their reason, to a more and more multiplying this habit of grace into holy spiritual acts of Faith and Obedience: from which 'tis ordinarily said, that Infants baptized have habitual Faith, as they may be also said to

* it comes.

Acts ix.

Luke i. 41.

Jer. i. 5.

Isa. xlix. 5.

have habitual repentance, and the habits of all other graces, becauſe they have the root and ſeed of thoſe beauteous healthful Flowers, which will actually flouriſh then, when they come to years. And this, I ſay, is ſo frequent to be performed at Baptiſm, that ordinarily 'tis not wrought without that means, and in thoſe means we may expect it, as our Church doth in our Liturgy, where ſhe preſumes at every Baptiſm that it hath pleaſed God to regenerate the infant by his holy Spirit. And this may prove a ſolemn piece of comfort to ſome, who ſuſpect their ſtate more than they need; and think 'tis impoſſible that they ſhould be in a regenerate condition, becauſe they have not as yet found any ſuch notable change in themſelves, as they ſee and obſerve in others. Theſe men may as well be jealous they are not men, becauſe they cannot remember when their Soul came to them: if they can find the effects of ſpiritual life in themſelves, let them call it what they will, a religious Education, or a cuſtom of well doing, or an unacquaintedneſs with ſin; let them comfort themſelves in their eſtate, and be thankful to God who viſited them thus betimes; let it never trouble them that they were not once as bad as other men, but rather acknowledge Gods mercy, who hath prevented ſuch a change, and by uniting them to him in the Cradle, hath educated, and nurſed them up in familiarity with the Spirit.

Laſtly, The ſpirit ſometimes enters into our hearts upon occaſional emergencies, the ſenſe of Gods judgments on our ſelves or others, the reflexion on his mercies, the reading good books, falling into virtuous acquaintance, but moſt eminently at, and with the preaching of the Word: and this, by degrees, as it ſeems to us; but indeed, at ſome one eſpecial ſeaſon or other, which yet perhaps we are not able to diſcern; and here indeed are we ordinarily to expect this gueſt, if we have not yet found him: here doth it love to be cheriſhed, and refreſhed, and warm'd within us, if we have it, Rom. i. 16. for even it is the power of God unto ſalvation, Rom. i. 16. The third condition in which this ſpirit comes Epiſt. 105. ad Xyſtum. into our hearts, is as an inhabitant, or Houſe-Keeper. The ſpirit, ſaith Auſtin, firſt is in us, then dwells in us: before it dwells, it helps us to believe: when it dwells, it helps, and perfects, and improves our faith, and accompliſhes it with all other concomitant graces. So I ſay here, the Spirit is then ſaid to inhabit, and keep Houſe in us, not as ſoon as it is entertained and received; but when it breaks forth into acts, and declares it ſelf before all men, When men ſee our good works, and glorify our Father, Mat. v. 16. Matth. v. 16. Before, we were ſaid to live in the ſpirit, now to walk, as you ſhall ſee the phraſes uſed diſtinctly, Gal. v. 25. Gal. v. 25. To walk, that is to go about conſpicuouſly in the ſight of all men, breaking forth into works, (as the Sun after the diſperſions of a miſt or Cloud) whereby all men Eph. v. 13. ſee and acknowledge his Faith and Obedience, and find their own evil ways reprehended, and made manifeſt by his good, as is noted in 13. verſe, All things that are reproved, are made manifeſt by the Wiſd. ii. 14. light. Semblable to which is that of the Atheiſts repining at the godly man, Wiſd. ii. 14. He is made to reprove our thoughts. Thus is the third Quære reſolved alſo, when this inward principle enters. 1. It comes as an Harbenger, in every outward reſtraint by which God keeps us from ſinning. 2. It enters as a gueſt, in ſome ſeaſon or other, once for all; In the Womb, at Baptiſm, at ſome Sermon, ſometimes at a notable tempeſt, ſhaking and ſtirring us violently, ordinarily and for the moſt part, not to be diſcerned by us: and laſtly, it comes and dwells with us, and ſhews it ſelf in its works; yet that, not at any ſet time after his Entrance, not conſtantly without ever covering his Face, but when and as often as it pleaſes, and the fleſh reſiſteth not.

To the laſt Quære, What works it performs, the anſwer ſhall be brief; every thing that may be called ſpiritual, Faith, Repentance, Charity, Hope, Self-denial, and the reſt: but theſe not promiſcuouſly, or in an heap altogether, but by a wiſe diſpenſation, in time and by degrees. The Soul being enabled by this inward principle, is equally diſpoſed to the producing of all theſe, and as occaſions do occur, doth actually perform and produce them; ſo that in my conceit, that queſtion concerning the priority of Repentance, or Faith, is not either of ſuch moment, or difficulty, as is by ſome Diſputers pretended. The Seeds of them both are at one time planted in the Soul: and then, there is no Faith in any Subject, but there is Repentance alſo; nor Repentance without Faith. So that where it is ſaid, Without Faith 'tis impoſſible to pleaſe God in any thing elſe, 'tis true; but argues no neceſſary precedence of it before other graces: for the habits of them all are of the ſame age in us; and then alſo will it be as true, that without Repentance, or without Love, Faith it ſelf cannot pleaſe God: for if it be truly acceptable Faith, there is both Repentance and Love in the ſame Womb to keep it Company. Thus are we wont to ſay, that only Faith juſtifieth, but not Faith alone: and the reaſon theſe promiſes in Scripture are made ſometimes to one grace preciſely, ſometimes to another, is, becauſe they are all at once rooted in the man, and in their habits chain'd together inſeparably. Faith ſaves every man that hath it; and yet, the believing'ſt man under Heaven, ſhall not be ſaved without Charity. Charity hides a multitude of ſins; and yet the charitableſt man in the World, ſhall never have his ſcore croſs't, without Repentance. A Catalogue of theſe fruits of the Gal. v. 22. ſpirit you may at your leiſure make up to your ſelves for your tryal, out of the fifth to the Gal. from 1 Pet. i. 5. the 22. verſe, and 1 Peter i. 5. All theſe graces together, though ſome belonging to one, ſome to another faculty of the Soul, are yet all at once conceived in it, at once begin their life in the heart, though one be perhaps ſooner ready to walk abroad, and ſhew it ſelf in the World than another. 2 Kings iv. 34. As in the 2 of Kings iv. 34. Eliſha went up on the bed and lay on the child, and put his mouth on his mouth, and eyes upon his eyes, and hands upon his hands, and ſtretched himſelf upon the child, and the fleſh Ver. 35. of the child waxed warm, and verſe 35. the Child ſneezed ſeven times, and opened his eyes. Thus I ſay, doth the ſpirit apply it ſelf unto the Soul, and meaſure it ſelf out to every part of it; and then the ſpiritual life comes at once into the Soul (as motion beginning in the centre, diffuſes it ſelf equally through the whole ſphere, and affecteth every part of the Circumference) and the fleſh of the child waxed warm; where the fleſh indefinitely ſignifieth every part of it together, and in the ſpiritual ſenſe the whole Soul; and this is when the inward principle, when the habit enters. Then for acts of life, one perhaps ſhews it ſelf before another, as the Child firſt ſneezed ſeven times, a violent diſburthening it ſelf of ſome troubleſome humours that tickle in the head; to which may be anſwerable Heb. xii. 1. our ſpiritual clearing and purging our ſelves by Self-denyal, the laying aſide every weight, Heb. xii. 1.

then

then opened his eyes, which in our ſpiritual Creature, is ſpiritual illumination; or the eye of Faith; theſe I ſay, may firſt ſhew themſelves as acts, and yet ſometimes others before them, yet all alike in the habit, all of one ſtanding, one Conception, one plantation in the heart: though indeed ordinarily, (like Eſau and Jacob) the rougher come out firſt. We begin our ſpiritual life in Repentance and contrition, and with many harſh twinges of the ſpirit; and then comes Faith like Jacob at the Heels, ſmooth and ſoft, applying all the cordial promiſes to our penitent Souls. In brief, if any judgment be to be made, which of theſe graces is firſt in the regenerate man, and which rules in chief; I conceive Self-denial and Faith to be there firſt, and moſt eminent, according to that notable place, Matth. xvi. 24. where Chriſt ſeems to ſet down the order of graces in true Diſciples. Let him deny himſelf, and take up his Croſs, that is, forgo all his carnal delights, and embrace all manner of puniſhments and miſeries, prepare himſelf even to go and be Crucified, and then follow me; that is, by a lively Faith believe in Chriſt, and prize him before all the World beſides: and indeed in effect theſe two are but one, though they appear to us in ſeveral ſhapes: for Faith is nothing without Self-denial, it cannot work till our carnal affections be ſubjected to it. Believe, a man may, and have fleſh and fleſhly luſt in him; but unleſs Faith have the pre-eminence, Faith is no Faith. The man may be divided betwixt the law of his members, and the law of his mind; ſo many degrees of fleſh, ſo many of ſpirit: but if there be conſtantly but an even balance, or more of fleſh than ſpirit, if three degrees of ſpirit, and five of fleſh, then can there not be ſaid to be any true Self-denyal, and conſequently any Faith, no more than that can be ſaid to be hot, which hath more degrees of cold, than heat in it. In brief, 'tis a good meaſure of Self-denyal that ſets his Faith in his Throne, and when by it Faith hath conquered, though not without continual reſiſtance, when it hath once got the upper hand, then is the man ſaid to be regenerate; whereupon it is, that the regenerate ſtate is called the life of Faith. Faith is become a principle of the greateſt power and activity in the Soul. And ſo much for theſe four Queries; from which I conceive every thing that is material, and directly pertinent to inſtruct you, and open the eſtate of a new Creature, may be reſolved. And for other niceties, how far we may prepare our ſelves, how cooperate and join iſſue with the ſpirit, whether it work irreſiſtibly by way of phyſical influence, or moral perſwaſion, whether being once had, it may totally or finally be loſt again, and the like; theſe I ſay, if they are fit for any, I am reſolved are not neceſſary for a Countrey Auditory to be inſtructed in. 'Twill be more for your profit to have your hearts raiſed, than your brains puft up; to have your ſpirits and ſouls inwardly affected to an earneſt deſire and longing after it, which will perhaps be ſomewhat performed, if we proceed to ſhew you the neceſſity of it, and unavailableneſs of all things elſe, and that by way of uſe and application.

Math. xvi. 24.

Gal. ii. 20.

And for the neceſſity of renewedneſs of heart, to demonſtrate that, I will only crave of you to grant me, that the performance of any one duty towards God is neceſſary, and then it will prove it ſelf; for it is certain no duty to God can be performed without it. For 'tis not a fair outſide, a ſlight performance, a bare work done, that is accepted by God: if it were, Cain would deſerve as much thanks for his Sacrifice, as his Brother Abel; for in the outſide of them there was no difference, unleſs perhaps on Cain's ſide, that he was forwardeſt in the duty, and offered firſt, Gen. iv. 3. But it is the inſide of the action, the marrow and bowels of it, that God judges by. If a ſumm in groſs, or a bag ſealed up, would paſs for payment in Gods audit; every man would come and make his accounts duly enough with him: and what he wanted in gold for his payment, ſhould be made up in Counters. But God goes more exactly to work, when he comes to call thee to an account of thy Stewardſhip: he is a God of thoughts, and a ſearcher of the hearts and reins, and 'twill then be a harder buſineſs to be found juſt when he examines, or clear when he will judge. The leaſt ſpot and blemiſh in the Face of it, the leaſt maim or imperfection in the Offering, the leaſt negligence or coldneſs in the performance, nay the leaſt corruption in the heart of him that doth it, hath utterly ſpoiled the Sacrifice. Be the bulk and skin of the work never ſo large and beautiful to the Eye, if it come not from a ſanctified, renewed, gracious heart, it will find no acceptance, but that in the Prophet, Who hath required it at your hands? This is not it that God is taken with, or ſuch as he commanded, it may paſs for a complement, or a work of courſe, but never be valued as a duty or real ſervice. Reſolve thy ſelf to dwell no where but in the Church, and there (like Simeon στυλίτης, in Euſeb.) plant thy ſelf continually in a Pillar, with thy Eyes, and words, fixt, and ſhot up perpetually towards Heaven. If there be not a ſpirit within thee, to give light to the Eyes, to adde ſighs and groans to the Voice, all this that thou haſt done is nothing but as a blind mans pretenſions to ſight, and a dumb mans claim to Speech; and ſo in like manner in all our duties which the World and carnal men ſet a price on. And the reaſon is, becauſe every ſpiritual ſeeming work done by a natural man, is not truly ſo: 'tis nothing leſs than that which it is ſaid to be; his Prayers are not Prayers, Lip-labour perhaps, but not devotion; his ſerving of God is formality, not obedience; his hope of Heaven, not a hope but a phancy. If God, or Satan, a Judge, or a Tempter, ſhould come to reaſon with him about it, he would ſoon be worſted, never be able to maintain his title to it.

Gen. iv. 3.

Iſa.

In brief, the faireſt part of a natural man, that which is leſt counterfeit, his deſire and good affections to ſpiritual things (which we call favourably natural deſires of ſpiritual obedience,) theſe I ſay, are but falſe deſires, falſe affections. 1. They have no ſolidity or permanency in the will, only fluid and tranſitory, ſome ſlight ſudden wiſhes, tempeſts and ſtorms of a troubled mind, ſoon blown over: the leaſt temptation will be ſure to do it. They are like thoſe wavering Prayers without any ſtay of Faith, Jam. i. 6. like a wave of the Sea driven by the wind and toſt. 2. That being which they have, is counterfeit, they are not that which they are taken for. We are wont to ſay, that acts are diſtinguiſhed by their objects, he ſees truly which judges the thing to be that that it is: 'tis true indeed, that another man ſees, he that takes blew for green, but he does not ſee truly: ſo alſo he only willeth a good thing, that wills that in it, which is truly good. Now the natural man, when he is ſaid to chuſe ſpiritual things, as Heaven, happineſs, and the like, he deſires not a ſpiritual but a carnal thing: in deſiring Heaven, he deſires ſomewhat that would free him from miſery in happineſs, a natural or moral good, that would be acceptable to any Creature under Heaven: and ſo a Turk will deſire Paradiſe, and that very impatiently, in hope that he ſhall have his fill of luſt there. Generally you may mark, that in ſuch deſires of ſpiritual things, 'tis ſome carnality that moves unregenerate men; ſomewhat it is, that may pleaſe the fleſh; and then, 'tis not the ſpiritual but the carnal part of it, that is their object which they woo, and make love to: which you may judge of by this, that they are frequent and importunate in their wiſhes for glory, ſeldom or never for grace (though that alſo may be wiſhed for carnally, to make us more renowned and better eſteemed in the World.) For the moſt part, I ſay, they deſire glory, for that will make them happy, and out of danger of Worldly misfortunes; remiſſion of ſins, for theſe lie heavy on their Conſciencies, and give them many a twinge that they would fain be eaſed of: but ſeldom petition for grace, as if holineſs without other conveniencies or gains, were not worth the having. And this ariſes from hence, that our love of Chriſt grows by ſending out and faſtning our affections on him as an object fitteſt for our turns, that will advantage us moſt; but not by receiving in, his Image and ſhape into our Souls: this indeed would make us not only love, but imitate him, and having once taſted, long after him: this would ſanctify our Souls, whereas the other doth but only ſatisfy our greedy affections.

Jam. i. 6.

By what hath been ſaid, 'tis plain enough (though it might be much more amplified) that grace is of abſolute neceſſity to performance of any holy work acceptable to God: that without it, whatſoever is done in ſpiritual matters, is carnal, not indeed ſpiritual, but equivocally and abſurdly ſo called. The natural mans deſires of Heaven, are not deſires of Heaven: his Faith, no Faith: his believing of the Scripture, infidelity; becauſe he doth not apply them particularly to himſelf to obey them. In ſumm, when he prays, hopes, or gives alms, he does ſomewhat indeed, and 'tis well done of him: but he doth not truly either pray, or hope, or give alms, there is ſome carnality in them that hath poiſoned them, and quite altered the complexion, the conſtitution, and inward qualities of the work. And then indeed how impatient ſhould
2 Kings. every Chriſtian be of this Coloquintida within him? There's mors in olla, as the Prophet once ſpake, that's Death in the pot, that ſo infects and kills every thing that comes out of it. How ſhould we abhor, and loath, and deteſt this old leaven that ſo beſowres all our actions; this Heatheniſm of unregenerate carnal nature, which makes our beſt works ſo Unchriſtian? To inſiſt longer upon this, were but to encreaſe your thirſt, not to ſatisfy it: to make you ſenſible of that maraſmus and deſperate drought that hath gone over your Souls, but not to help you to any waters for the cure: that ſhall come next, as the laſt work of this exerciſe to be performed, in a word.

Having learnt what this new creature is, and how abſolutely neceſſary to a Chriſtian; O let us not defer one minute longer to examine our eſtates, whether we are yet renewed or no, and by the acts which we daily perform, obſerve whether the ſanctifying habit be as yet infuſed into our Souls. If the grounds of our beſt duties, that which moves us in our holieſt actions, be found upon ſearch to be but carnal; if a careful religious Education, cuſtom of the place which we live in, fear of humane Laws, nay perhaps a good ſoft tender diſpoſition, and the like, be the things that make thee love God, and perform holy duties, and not any inward principle of ſanctity within thee: I counſel thee to think better of thine eſtate, and conſider whether the like motives, had it ſo hapned that thou hadſt been born and brought up in Turky, might not have made thee worſhip Mahumet. I would be ſorry to be rigid; I fear thou wilt find they might: well then, a new courſe muſt be taken, all thy former heathen, carnal, or at beſt good moral life, all thy formal performances, the beſt of thy natural deſires muſt be content to be rank't here with circumciſion and uncircumciſion, availing nothing; there is no truſt, or confidence to be placed on theſe Ægyptian ſtaves of reed, Eſ. xxxvi. 6. And then, if thou wilt not live heartleſs for ever, if ever thou meanſt to move or walk, or do any thing, you muſt to that Creator of Spirits and Lover of Souls, and never leave ſolliciting, till he hath breathed another breath into your noſtrils, another Soul into your Soul: you muſt lay your ſelf at his feet, and with all the violence and Rhetorick, and humility, that theſe wants will prompt thee too, [and] woo, and importune the Holy ſpirit to overſhadow thee, to conceive all holy graces ſpiritually in thee: and if thou canſt not ſuddenly receive a gracious anſwer, that the Holy Ghoſt will come in unto thee, and lodge with thee this Night; yet learn ſo much patience from thy Beggarly eſtate, as not to challenge him at thy own times, but comfortably to wait his leiſure. There is employment enough for thee in the while, to prepare the room againſt his coming, to make uſe of all his common graces, to cleanſe and reform thy foul corruptions, that when the ſpirit comes, it may find thee ſwept and garniſh't. All the outward means which God hath afforded thee, he commands thee to make uſe of, and will require it at thy hands in the beſt meaſure, even before thou art regenerate; though thou ſin in all thy unregenerate performances, for want of inward ſanctity, yet 'tis better to have obeyed imperfectly, than not at all: the firſt is weakneſs, the other deſperate preſumption; the firſt, material partial obedience, the ſecond, total diſobedience. Yet whilſt thou art preparing, give not over praying; they are acts very competible; thou maiſt do them both together. Whilſt thou art a fortifying theſe little Kingdoms within thee, ſend theſe Embaſſadors abroad for help, that thou maiſt be capable of it when it comes. But above all things be circumſpect, watch and obſerve the ſpirit, and be perpetually ready to receive its blaſts; let it never have breathed on thee in vain; let thine Ear be for ever open to its whiſperings: if it ſhould paſs by thee either not heard, or not underſtood, 'twere a loſs that all the treaſures upon Earth could not repair, and for the moſt part you know, it comes not in the thunder. Chriſt ſeldom ſpeaks ſo loud now adays as he did to Saul, Acts ix. 'tis in a ſoft ſtill voice, and I will not promiſe you, that men that dwell in a mill, that are perpetually engaged in Worldly loud employments, or that men aſleep, ſhall ever come to hear of it. The ſumm of all my Exhortation is, after Examination, to cleanſe, and pray, and watch; carefully to cleanse thy self, incessantly to pray, and diligently to watch for the Sun of Righteousness, when he shall begin to dawn, and rise, and shine in thy heart by grace. "And do thou, O Holy Lord, "work this whole work in us, prepare us by thy outward, perfect us by thy inward graces; awaken "us out of the darkness of death, and plant a new Seed of holy light and life in us: infuse into our "Heathen hearts a Christian habit of sanctity, that we may perform all spiritual duties of holi- "ness; that we may glorify thee here by thy Spirit, and be glorified with thee by thy Christ "hereafter.

to

Now to him that hath elected us, hath, &c.

SER-

SERMON XVI.

2 PET. III. 3.

Scoffers walking after their own Luſts.

THAT we may take our riſe luckily, and ſet out with the beſt advantage, that we may make our Preface to clear our paſſage to our future Diſcourſe, and ſo ſpend no part of our precious time unprofitably, we will by way of introduction examine what is here meant, 1. By Scoffers, 2. By walking after their own luſts. And firſt, Scoffers here, do not ſignifie thoſe whom confidence join'd to a good natural wit, hath taught to * give and play upon every man they meet with, which in a moderate uſe is called ἐυτραπελία, facetiouſneſs, in an immoderate, ſcurrility. But Scoffers here, are of a more ſpecial ſtamp, thoſe who deal out their ſcoffs only on God and Religion. The word in the Original ſignifies to mock, to abuſe, and that either in words, and then 'tis rendred ſcoffing, or in our actions, when we promiſe any man to perform a buſineſs, and then deceive his expectation, and then 'tis rendred deluding. So Matth. ii. 16. when Herod ſaw he was mocked, ὅτι ἐνεπαίχθη, that he was deluded by the magicians. So that in the firſt primitive ſenſe, Scoffers muſt ſignifie thoſe who either laugh at God, or elſe delude him in not performing what he expects, and they by their profeſſion promiſed. In the ſecondary notion, to ſcoff, is by way of argument to oppoſe any truth contumelioufly or bitterly, as Solomon begins his Diſcourſe of the Atheiſts ſcoffs, Wiſd. ii. 1. The ungodly ſaid reaſoning with themſelves; and theſe are ſaid to ſet their mouth againſt Heaven, managing diſputes, which have both ſting and poyſon in them; the firſt to wound and overthrow the truth ſpoken of, the other to infect the Auditors with a contrary opinion. And theſe rational ſcoffs, for which Socrates antiently was very famous, are ordinarily in form of queſtion, as in the Pſalmiſt often, Where is now their God? i. e. Certainly if they had a God, he would be ſeen at time of need, he would now ſhew himſelf in their diſtreſs. In which they do not only laugh at the Iſraelites, for being ſuch Fools as to worſhip him that will not relieve them, but implicitely argue, that indeed there is no ſuch God as they pretend to worſhip. And juſt in this manner were the Scoffers in my Text, who did not only laugh, but argue, ſaying, Where is the promiſe of his coming? Verſe 4. perſwading themſelves, and labouring to prove to others, that what is ſpoken of Chriſts ſecond coming to Judgment, was but a mere Dream, a μορμολύκειον, a Bugbear, or Fable, to keep men in awe, and therefore laugh at it, as the Athenians did at the reſurrection, Acts xvii. 32. and when they heard of the reſurrection of the dead, ſome mocked, &c. i. e. diſputed ſarcaſtically and contumelioufly againſt it, that certainly there was no ſuch matter. And thus alſo is the ſame word uſed of thoſe which joined their reaſon and malice to diſprove Chriſts Omnipotence, Mat. xxvii. 42. where they reviled and mocked him, ſaying, He ſaved others, himſelf he cannot ſave. In which ſpeech the bittereſt part of the ſcoff, was the reaſon there uſed, plauſible enough amongſt ignorant Jews, that ſurely if he had any power, he would make uſe of it for himſelf.

Thirdly, To ſcoff is ſometimes without words or actions to ſhew a contempt or neglect of any body. So Herods mocking of Chriſt, is ſet as an expreſſion that he did not think him worthy talking with, Luke xxiii. 11. He ſet him at nought, and mocks him, and ſent him back to Pilate, he would not vouchſafe to take notice of him, nor to be troubled with the Examination of ſo poor contemptible a fellow. And ſo in Ariſtotle, not to know a mans name, not to have taken ſo much notice of him, as to remember what to call him, is reckoned the greateſt neglect, the unkindeſt ſcoff in the World, and is ordinarily taken very tenderly by any one who hath deſerved any thing at our hands. So that in brief (to gather up what we have hitherto ſcatter'd) the Scoffers here meant, are thoſe, who promiſing themſelves to Gods ſervice, do delude him when he looks to find them amongſt his Servants, i. e. remain errand Atheiſts under a Chriſtian profeſſion, who by letting looſe either their wits to prophane jeſts, or their reaſon to Heatheniſh conceits and diſputings, or their actions to all manner of diſobedience, demonſtrate that indeed they care not for God, they ſcarce remember his name, Neither is he in all their thoughts, Pſalm x. 4.

In the next place, walking after their own luſts, is giving themſelves liberty to follow all the directions of corrupt polluted nature, in entertaining all conceits and practices which the pride of their underſtandings and rankneſs of their affections ſhall propoſe to them in oppoſition to God. And this without any reluctancy or twinge of conſcience, walking on as ſecurely and confidently, as if it were indeed the right high-way.

So that now you have ſeen the outſide of the Text, and lookt it over in the groſs, 'tis time to ſurvey it more particularly in its parts; and thoſe are two: 1. The ſin of Atheiſm, and the ſubjects in which it ſhews it ſelf, There ſhall come in the laſt days Scoffers. 2. The motive and impellent to this ſin, a liberty which men give themſelves, to walk after their own luſts.

And firſt, of Atheiſm, and the ſubjects in whom it ſhews it ſelf, In the, &c. Where you may note, that the words being in form of a prophecy, do note a ſort of people which were to come in reſpect of St. Peter, who writes it. And though in its firſt aſpect it refers to the period of the Jewiſh Nation, and deſtruction of Jeruſalem; takes in the parallel ſtate of things under the laſt Age, and dotage,

* gibe.

Wiſd. ii. 1.

Mat. ii. 16.

Verſe 4.

Rhet. 1. 2.

Pſalm x. 4.

dotage, and declination of the World. Accordingly we see at the 24. of St. Matthew, the Prophecy of both, as it were interwoven and twisted into each other; so that what St. Peter saith shall be, we may justly suspect is fulfilled amongst us, his future being now turned into a present, his prophecy into a story. In the Apostles times, when Christianity was in the Cradle, and wanted years and strength to move, and shew it self in the World, there were but very few that would acknowledge it, many Sects of Philosophers, who peremptorily resolved themselves against this profession, join'd issue with the Apostles in assiduous disputation, as we may find in the seventeenth of the Acts. Amongst those, the Epicureans did plainly deny that there was any God that governed the World, and laught at any proof that Moses and the Prophets could afford for their conviction. And here a man might think that his Prophecy was fulfilled in his own days, and that he needed not to look beyond that present Age for store of Scoffers. Yet so it is, that the infidelity which he foresaw should in those last Ages reign confidently in the World, was represented to him in a larger size and uglier shape, than that of the present Philosophers. The Epicurean unbelief seem'd nothing to him, being compared to this Christian Atheism, where men under the Vizard of Religion, and profession of Piety, are in heart arrant Heathens, and in their fairest Carriages, do indeed but scoff, and delude, and abuse the very God they worship. Whence the note is, that the profession of Christianity is mixed with an infinite deal of Atheism, and that in some degree above the Heathenism of the perversest Philosophers. There were in St. Peters time Epicureans, and all Sects of Scoffers at Christianity; and yet the Scoffers indeed, the highest degree of Atheism was but yet a heaving; it would not rise and shew it self till the last days.

'Tis worth observing what variety of stratagems the Devil hath always had, to keep us in defiance with God, and to nourish in us that hostility and enmity against Heaven, which is so deep and predominant in himself. He first set them a work to rebel and fortify themselves against God, and make themselves by building of a Tower, so impregnable, that God himself could not be able to disperse them. Gen. xi. 4. Afterwards, when by the punishment and defeating of that design, the World was sufficiently instructed, that no arm of flesh, no bodily strength could make resistance against Heaven; when the body could hold out in rebellion no longer, he then instructs the inward man, the Soul to make its approaches, and challenge Heaven. Now the Soul of man consisting of two faculties, the Understanding and the Will, he first deals with the Understanding, and sets that up against God in many monstrous fashions; first, in deluding it to all manner of Idolatrous worship, in making it adore the Sun, the Moon, and the whole Host of Heaven, which was a more generous kind of Idolatry. Afterwards, in making them worship Dogs and Cats, Onions and Garlick, for so did the Egyptians; and this was a more sottish stupid affection; a man would wonder how the Devil could make them such Fools. Afterward he wrought still upon their understanding, in making them (under pretence of two laudable qualities, admiration and gratitude, admiration of any kind of vertue, and gratitude for any good turn) to deify and worship as gods, any men which had ever done, either their Nation, or private persons, any important good or favour: So that every Heros or noble, famous man, as soon as he was dead was worshipt. 'Twere long to shew you the variety of shifts in this kind, which the Devil used to bring in the πολυθεότης of the Gentiles, i. e. their worshipping of many gods. In brief, this plot lasted thus, till Christianity came into the World, and turn'd it out of Doors, and at Christs Resurrection all the gods of the Heathen expired. However, the Devil still stuck close to that faculty of the Soul, which he had been so long acquainted with, I mean the understanding, and seeing through the whole World almost, the Doctrine of Christ had so possest men, that he could not hope to bring in his Heathen gods again, he therefore hath one design more on the understanding: seeing 'tis resolved to believe Christ in spight of Heathenism; he then puzzles it with many doubts about this very Christ it is so possest with. He raises up in the first Ages of the Church, variety of Heresies concerning the union of his natures, equality of his person with the Father, and the like: and rung as many changes in mens opinions, as the matter of Faith was capable of. There was no truth almost in Christianity, but had its Heretick to contradict and damn it. Now since at last, reason and truth, and the power of Scripture having out-lived in a good degree, fundamental error in opinion, hath almost expuls'd the Devil out of the head, or upper part of the Soul, the Understanding; his last plot is on the heel, i. e. the Will and Affections; and that he hath bruised terribly, according to that Prophecy, Gen. iii. 15. He deals mainly on our manners, and Gen. iii. 15. strives to make them, if it be possible, sinful beyond capability of mercy. And this design hath thrived with him wonderfully: he hath wrought more opposition against God, more heresie against Christ in our lives, than ever he was able to do in our doctrine. In a Kingdom, where the custom of the Country and Education hath planted purity of Faith in the Understanding, he there labours to supplant and eradicate Charity and devotion in the will; and crucifies Christ more confidently in our corrupt Heathenish practices, than ever the Jews did in their incredulity. And on this Plot he hath stuck close, and insisted a long while, it being the last and most dangerous stratagem that the policy of Hell can furnish him with, to corrupt, and curse, and make abominable a sincere belief by an Atheistical conversation. And this doth prove in general, that 'tis the Devils aim, and from thence probably the Christians Curse, to have more hostility against God in our Wills, and so to be more horrible Atheists, than ever the Heathens had in their Understandings. Now that we may the more distinctly discover the Christian Atheist, who is very Orthodox in his opinion, very heretical in his practice; we will observe how every part of his Life, every piece of his Conversation doth directly contradict his Doctrine, and pluck down, and deface the very Fabrick of Godliness, expunge those very notions of Piety, which reason and Scripture hath erected in the Soul. And first,

He is in his knowledge sufficiently Catechiz'd in the knowledge of Scripture, and is confident that all its dictates are to be believ'd, and commands practis'd. But if you look to find this assent confirmed by his practice, and expresst in his carriage, you are much mistaken in the business. Is he such a Fool as to order his life according to the rigour of them? No, no doubt, 'tis not one mans work to believe the Scripture, and obey it. Suppose I should tell you, that there are but a few of you that read Scripture to that purpoſe, that obſerve any Edict of Piety or Virtue, only becauſe the Scripture hath commanded it. There be many reſtraints that keep unregenerate men from ſinning, a good diſpoſition, religious education, common cuſtom of the place or times where we live, humane laws, and the like; and each or all of theſe may curb our forwardneſs, and keep us in ſome order. But who is there amongſt us, that being tempted with a fair, lovely, amiable Vice, which he may commit without any regret of his good nature, ſcandal to his former Carriages, fear or danger of puniſhment, either future or preſent, or any other inconvenience; Who is there, I ſay, that from the mere awe and reſpect that he bears to Scripture, retires and calls himſelf off from that ſin which he had otherwiſe faln into? If I ſhould ſee all manner of conveniences to ſin in one ſcale, and the bare authority of the Scriptures in the other, quite out-weighing all them with its heavineſs, I ſhould then hope that our hearts were Catechiz'd as well as our brains in the acknowledgment of this truth, that Scripture is to be believed and obeyed. But I much fear me, if I ſhould make an enquiry in every one of our hearts here ſingle, the greateſt part of the Jury would bring in an evidence of guilt, that in any our moſt entire obediences, ſome other reſpect caſts the Scales: and this is one piece of direct Atheiſm, that though our Underſtandings affirm, yet our Will and Affections deny that Scripture is for its own ſake to be obeyed.

read

Secondly, Our brains are well enough adviſed in the truth of the Doctrine of Gods Eſſence and Attributes, our Underſtandings have a diſtinct conceit of awe and reverence, to anſwer every notion we have of God; and yet here alſo our converſation hath its poſtures of defiance, its ſcaffs and arts of reviling, as it were to deface and ſcrape out every of theſe notions out of our Wills, and to per-
* ἐπιτολῆς. ſwade both our ſelves and others, that that knowledge doth only * flote in our brains, but hath no manner of weight to ſink it deep into our hearts. To glance at one or two of theſe: we believe, or at leaſt pretend we do ſo, the immenſity, i. e. the ubiquity and omnipreſence of God, that he indeed is every where, to fill, to ſee, to ſurvey, to puniſh; and yet our lives do plainly proclaim, that in earneſt we mean no ſuch matter; we ſhut up our hearts againſt God, and either as the Gadarens did Chriſt, being weary of his preſence, fairly intreat, or elſe directly baniſh him out of our Coaſts, becauſe he hath been or is like to be the deſtruction of ſome Swine, i. e. beſtial affections in us. And in ſumm, thoſe bodies of ours, which he hath markt out for his Temples, we will ſcarce allow him for his Inne to lodge with us one night. Again, can we expect to be credited, when we ſay we believe the ubiquity and omnipreſence of God, and yet live and ſin as confidently, as if we were out of his ſight, or reach? Do we behave our ſelves in our out-rages, in our luxury, nay, even in our graveſt devotions, as if God were within ken? Without all doubt, in every minute almoſt of our lives, we demonſtrate that we doubt either of his omnipreſence to ſee, or elſe his juſtice to puniſh us: for thoſe very things which we dare not to venture on in the ſight of an earthly magiſtrate that may puniſh us, nay, of a ſpy that may complain of us, nay, of an enemy that will upbraid us, nay, of a friend that will check and admoniſh us; we never doubt, or demur, or delay to practiſe in private, or the dark, where ſtill God is preſent to overſee and puniſh. And if this be not a ſcoffing, a deluding, a mere contemning of God, to do that without any fear or regret in his ſight, which we never offer to attempt before a man, nay, a Friend, I know not what may be counted Atheiſm. In like manner, we acknowledge God to be αὐτάρκης, all-ſufficient; and if we ſhould be examined in earneſt, we would confeſs that there is no ability in any Creature to beſtow or provide any good thing for us: and yet our will here alſo hath its ways and arguments of contradiction. Our whole life is one continued confutation of this piece of our Faith, our tremblings, our jealouſies, our diſtruſts, our carefulneſs, our Worldly providence, and importunate carking, our methods and ſtratagems of thrift and covetouſneſs, and the whole buſineſs of our lives in wooing, and ſolliciting, and importuning every power of nature, every trade and art of the World, to ſuccour, to aſſiſt and provide for us, are moſt egregious evidences that we put no truſt or confidence in Gods All-ſufficiency, but wholly depend and rely upon the arm of fleſh, both to raiſe and ſuſtain us. This very one faſhion of ours, in all our diſtreſſes, to fly to and call upon all manner of ſecond cauſes, without any raiſing or elevating our Eyes or thoughts toward God, from whom cometh our help, plainly ſhews that God ſtill dwells abroad in Tents: we have ſeen or heard of him, but have not yet brought him home into our hearts, there to poſſeſs, and rectify, and inſtruct our wills, as well as our underſtandings.

Thirdly, The whole myſtery of Chriſt articulately ſet down in our Creed we as punctually believe, and to make good our names, that we are Chriſtians in earneſt, we will challenge and defie the Fire and Faggot to perſwade us out of it: and theſe are good reſolutions, if our practices did not give our Faith the lye, and utterly renounce at the Church Door whatſoever we profeſt in our Pews. This very one thing, that he which is our Saviour, ſhall be our Judge, that he which was crucified, dead, and buried, ſits now at the right hand of God, and from thence ſhall come to judge the world; this main part, yea, ſumm of our belief, we deny and bandy againſt, all our lives long. If the ſtory of Chriſt
Mat. xxv. 30. coming to judgment, ſet down in the xxv. of Matthew after the 30. Verſe, had ever entred through the doors of our Ears to the inward Cloſets of our hearts, 'tis impoſſible but we ſhould obſerve and practiſe that one ſingle duty there required of us. Chriſt there as a Judge exacts and calls us to account for nothing in the World, but only works of mercy, and according to the ſatisfaction which we are able to give him in that one point, he either entertains or repels us; and therefore our care and negligence in this one buſineſs, will prove us either Chriſtians or Infidels. But alas! 'tis too plain, that in our actions we never dream either of the Judgment or the Arraignment: our ſtupid neglect of this one duty, argues us not only unchriſtian but unnatural. Beſides our Alms-deeds, which concern only the outſide of our neighbour, and are but a kind of worldly mercy, there are many more important, but cheaper works of mercy, as good counſel, ſpiritual inſtructions, holy education of them that are come out of our loyns, or are committed to our care, ſeaſonable reproof, according
Lev. xix. 17. to that excellent place, Lev. xix. 17. Thou ſhalt not hate thy brother in thine heart, but in any wiſe reprove him: a care of carrying our ſelves that we may not ſcandal, or injure, or offer violence to the Soul and tender Conſcience of him that is flexible to follow us into any riot: Theſe and many other works of mercy in the higheſt degree, as concerning the welfare of other mens Souls, and the chief thing required of us at the day of Judgment, are yet ſo out-dated in our thoughts, ſo utterly defaced, and blotted out in the whole courſe of our lives, that it ſeems we never expect that Chriſt in his Majeſty as a Judge, whom we apprehend, and embrace, and hug in his humility as a Saviour. Beloved, till by ſome ſevere hand held over our lives, and particularly by the daily ſtudy and exerciſe of ſome work of mercy or other, we demonſtrate the ſincerity of our belief; the Saints on Earth, and Angels in Heaven, will ſhrewdly ſuſpect, that we do only ſay over that part of our Creed, that we believe only that which is for our turn, the ſufferings and ſatisfactions of Chriſt, which coſt us nothing, but do not proceed to his office of a Judge, do not either fear his Judgments, or deſire to make our ſelves capable of his mercies. Briefly, whoſoever neglects or takes no notice of this duty of exerciſing works of mercy, whatſoever he brags of in his theory or ſpeculation, in his heart either denies or contemns Chriſt as Judge, and ſo deſtroys the ſumm of his Faith; and this is another kind of ſecret Atheiſm.

Fourthly, Our Creed leads us on to a belief and acknowledgment of the Holy Ghoſt; and 'tis well we have all conn'd his name there, for otherwiſe I ſhould much fear that it would be ſaid of many nominal Chriſtians, what is reported of the Epheſian Diſciples, Acts xix. 2. They have not ſo much as heard whether there be an Holy Ghoſt or no. But not to ſuſpect ſo much ignorance in any Chriſtian, we will ſuppoſe indeed men to know whatſoever they profeſs, and enquire only whether our lives ſecond our profeſſions, or whether indeed they are mere Infidels, and Atheiſticat, in this buſineſs concerning the Holy Ghoſt. How many of the ignorant ſort, which have learnt this name in their Catechiſm or Creed, have not yet any further uſe to put it to, but only to make up the number of the Trinity, have no ſpecial office to appoint for him, no ſpecial mercy, or gift, or ability to beg of him in the buſineſs of their Salvation, but mention him only for faſhion ſake, not that they ever think of preparing their Bodies or Souls to be Temples worthy to entertain him, not that they ever look after the earneſt of the ſpirit in their hearts, 2 Cor. i. 22. Further yet, how many better learned amongſt us, do not yet in our lives acknowledge him in that Epithet annext to his title, the Holy Ghoſt, i. e. not only eminently in himſelf holy, but cauſally, producing the ſame quality in us, from thence called the ſanctifying and renewing ſpirit? How do we for the moſt part fly from, and abandon, and reſiſt, and ſo violently deny him, when he once appears to us in this Attribute? When he comes to ſanctifie us, we are not patient of ſo much ſowreneſs, ſo much humility, ſo much non-conformity with the world, as he begins to exact of us; we ſhake off many bleſſed motions of the ſpirit, and keep our ſelves within garriſon, as far as we can out of his reach, leſt at any turn he ſhould meet with, and we ſhould be converted. Laſtly, The moſt ordinary morally qualified tame Chriſtians amongſt us, who are not ſo violent as to profeſs open arms againſt this Spirit, how do they yet reject him out of all their thoughts? How ſeldom do many peaceable orderly men amongſt us, ever obſerve their wants, or importune the aſſiſtance of this Spirit? In ſumm, 'twas a ſhrewd Speech of the Fathers, which will caſt many fair out-ſides at the bar for Atheiſts, That the life of an unregenerate man is but the life of an Heathen, and that 'tis our Regeneration only that raiſes us up ἐξ ἐθνῶν, from being ſtill mere Gentiles. He that believes in his Creed the Perſon, nay, underſtands in the Schools the Attributes and gifts of the Holy Ghoſt, and yet ſees them only in the fountain, neither finds nor ſeeks for any effects of them in his own Soul; he that is ſtill unregenerate, and continues ſtill gaping and yawning, ſtupid and ſenſeleſs in this his condition, is ſtill, for all his Creed and Learning, in effect an Atheiſt. And the Lord of Heaven give him to ſee, and endeavours to work, and an heart to pray, and his ſpirit to draw and force him out of this condition.

Act. xix. 2.

2 Cor. 1. 2. 2.

Clem. Al. Strom. p. 281.

Fifthly, Not to cramp in every Article of our Creed into this Diſcourſe, we will only inſiſt on two more. We ſay therefore that we believe the forgiveneſs of ſins, and 'tis a bleſſed confidence, that all the treaſures in the World cannot equal. But do our ſelves keep equipage, and hand in hand accompany this profeſſion? Let me Catechize you a while. You believe the forgiveneſs of ſins, but I hope, not abſolutely, that the ſufferings of Chriſt ſhall effectually clear every mans ſcore at the day of Judgment: well then, it muſt be meant only of thoſe that by repentance and faith are grafted into Chriſt, and ſhall appear at that great Marriage in a wedding garment, which ſhall be acknowledged the livery and colours of the Lamb. But do our lives ever ſtand to this explication, and reſtriction of the Article? Do they ever expect this beloved remiſſion by performing the condition of repentance? Do we ever go about to make our ſelves capable of receiving this mercy conditionally offer'd us? Nay, do we not by our wilful ſtupidity, and pertinacious continuing in ſin, nullify, in reſpect of us, all that ſatisfaction of Chriſt, and utterly abandon thoſe means which muſt bring home this remiſſion to us? The truth is, our Faith runs only on general terms, we are willing to lay all our ſins on Chriſts ſhoulders, and perſwade our ſelves ſomewhat ſlightly and coldly, that he will bear them in the root, and in the fruit, in the bullion, and in the coyn, in the groſs, and in the retail, i. e. both our original and our actual tranſgreſſions: but we never take any courſe to reſt ſatisfied, that we in particular ſhall participate of this happineſs. This requires the humiliation of the whole man, the ſpirit of bondage for a while, afterwards a ſecond purity and virginity of the Soul recovered by repentance, and then a ſoberly grounded faith and confidence, and an expreſſing of it by our own forgiving of others. And till this piece of our Creed be thus explained and interpreted in our converſation, we remain but confident Atheiſts, not able to perſwade any body that hears us, that indeed we believe what we profeſs.

Sixthly and laſtly, The reſurrection of the body, and its conſequent, everlaſting life, is the cloſe of our Faith, and end, and prop, and encouragement, and conſummation of our hope; and yet we take moſt pains of all, to prove our ſelves Infidels in this: our whole carriage, both in the choice and obſervance of our Religion, ſhew that we do not depend on it, that we put no confidence in the Reſurrection. If we went on this aſſurance, we ſhould contemn any worldly encouragement, and make the ſame thing both the object and end of our ſervice. We ſhould ſcorn to take notice of ſo poor a thing as profit or convenience is, in a matter of ſo high importance, knowing and expecting that our reward ſhall be great in Heaven. This one thought of a Reſurrection, and an infinite reward of any faithful undertaking of ours, would make us diſdain, and almoſt be afraid of any tem- poral recompence for our worſhip of God, for fear it ſhould, by paying us before-hand, deprive us of that everlaſting one. We ſhould catch and be ambitious of that expreſſion of devotion, which were moſt painful and leaſt profitable as to worldly advantage: and yet we in the ſtupidity of Atheiſtical hearts, are ſo improvidently covetous, ſo haſty and impatient in our Religion, that unleſs ſome preſent gain allure and draw us, we have no manner of life, or ſpirit, or alacrity to this, as we count it, unprofitable ſervice of God. The leaſt incumbrance in the world will fright us from the greateſt forwardneſs, and nimbleneſs, and activity in Religion: and the leaſt appearance of promotion, or other like encouragement, will produce and raiſe in us theſe affections and expreſſions of zeal, which the expectation of the reſurrection could never work in us. Our religion is ſomewhat like that of the Samaritans; before Chriſts time, either Jews or Heathens, according as their King Antiochus would have them; after Chriſts time, were perpetually either Jews or Chriſtians, according as the Romans, their new Lords and Maſters either threatned, or granted priviledge to the Jews. If there were any thing to be gotten by the profeſſion, they would be as ſolemn Chriſtians as any. So when the Goths and Vandals over-run Italy, and (whether upon good affection or compulſion from God, I know not) ſpared them that fled to the Baſilica in Rome, the place where the Chriſtians exerciſed: then, I ſay, they which formerly perſecuted the Chriſtians, now bore them Company very friendly to their Churches, and to ſave their lives fled to the Temple for a refuge, which before they abomin'd; and made uſe of Chriſtianity for their ſafe-guard, which they would not own for their religion, and hurried to that Sanctuary for their lives, which they would not viſit for their Souls. The condition of our Religion is like that which is upbraided to Ephraim, Hoſ. x. 11. Ephraim is like an Heifer that loveth to tread out the Corn. 'Twas prohibited by the Law to muzzle the Ox or Heifer that treadeth out the Corn; 'twas allowed them to feed as long as they did the work; and that made Ephraim love the toil ſo well, becauſe that at the very time he performed the labour, he enjoy'd the fruit of it; had, as we ſay, his wages in his hand; had ſome preſent emolument that would ingratiate his work to him; was not left to ſuch a tedious expectation, to ſo long a date as to wait for his reward till the Reſurrection: thoſe were too hard terms for him, he could not endure to be ty'd ſo long up to the empty rack, or feed upon the bit. And thus haſty are we in the exacting of our reward for our ſervice of God: we will never ſet our hands to it, unleſs we may make our conditions: we are reſolved not to be ſuch Fools, as to ſerve God for nought, to ſpend the quickeſt of our ſpirits in a ſowre crabbed profeſſion, and expect our thanks at Dooms-day. This plainly demonſtrates, that however our theory be poſſeſt, our practice places no truſt, no confidence, no aſſurance in that part of our Creed, the reſurrection. Again, 'twas an excellent argument to perſwade doubtful Chriſtians in the youth and non-age of the Church, of the certainty of the Reſurrection, that religious men, and thoſe whom undoubtedly God loved, were full of ſufferings in this World, and lived and died many of them without any expreſſion of Gods favour to them, which made them certainly to conclude, that no doubt God hath ſome other courſe to exhibit himſelf in the riches of his mercy to them; and ſeeing there was no hope but in another World, Verily there ſhould be a reward for the righteous, doubtleſs there is a God that judgeth the Earth: and by this argument we may try our ſelves for the ſincerity of our Faith in this buſineſs. If we can be patient to endure afflictions here, and not complain or grumble for a reſpite and deliverance, but keep all our hopes to be accompliſh't, defer all our happineſs to be performed to us at the Reſurrection, and though God kill us, yet truſt in him, and be able to ſee through Death, in a truſt That our Redeemer lives, and that with theſe eyes we ſhall behold him; then may we chear up, and perſwade our ſelves on good grounds, that our hearts and lives do aſſent to the Reſurrection, which our tongues brag of; Take no heavineſs to heart, but drive it away and remember the end. But if this conſideration cannot digeſt the leaſt oppreſſion of this life, cannot give us patience for the lighteſt encumbrance, but for all our Creed, we ſtill fly out into all outrages of paſſion and ecſtacies of impatience, we plainly betray our ſelves men of this preſent World, whoſe happineſs or miſery is only that which is temporary, and before our Eyes, are not able by the perſpective of faith to behold that which eaſily we might, all our wants relieved, all our injuries revenged, all our wounds bound up, in the day of the Reſurrection: but all our life long we repine and grumble, and are diſcontented as men without hope; and whilſt we do thus, what do we but act the part of theſe Atheiſts here in my Text, ſcoffing and ſaying, Where is the promiſe of his coming, in the next Verſe to my Text. This very impatience and want of skill in bearing the brunts of this our warfare, is but a piece of cowardly Atheiſm, either a denying or mocking at the Reſurrection. Every ſigh is a ſcoff, every groan a gibe, every fear a ſly art of laughing at the ſtupidity of thoſe who depend upon the fulfilling of the promiſe of his coming. Laſtly, ſay we what we will, we live as if there were no Reſurrection, as Sadducees, if not as Atheiſts; all our deſigns look no further than this life, all our contrivances are defeated and fruſtrate in the Grave; we mannage our ſelves with ſo little underſtanding, that any Spectator would judge by our actions, that 'tis no injury to compare us to the beaſts that periſh and never return again. Certainly if we had any deſign upon Heaven or another life, we would here make ſome proviſion for it, Make our ſelves friends of our unrighteous Mammon, that when we fail, they may receive us into everlaſting habitations, i.e. uſe thoſe good things that God hath given us, with ſome kind of providence, that they may ſtand us in ſtead when we have need of them, i.e. not only as inſtruments to ſin (for that is to get us more Enemies) but as harbingers to be ſent before us to Heaven. 'Twas a bitter ſarcaſm of the fool to the Abbot on his Death-Bed, that the Abbot deſerved his ſtaff, as being the verier Fool of the two, that being ſtraight to die, to remove his Tent to another World, he had ſent none of his houſhold-ſtuff before him. The truth is, we live generally as men that would be very angry, much diſpleaſed if any ſhould perſwade us there were a Reſurrection, the very mentioning of it to us, might ſeem to upbraid our ordinary practices, which have nothing but the darkneſs of death, and ſilence of the Grave to countenance them. I may juſtly ſay, that many ignorant Heathens, which were confident there was nothing beyond this life, expected certainly with death to be annihilated, and turn again into a perpetual nothing; yet either for the awe they bore to vertue, or fear of diſgrace after death, kept themſelves more regularly, lived more carefully, than many of us Chriſtians. And this is an horrid accuſation, that that will lie very heavy upon us, that againſt ſo many illuminated underſtandings, the ignorance of the Gentiles ſhould riſe up in judgment, and the learned Chriſtian be found the moſt deſperate Atheiſt. I have been too large upon ſo rigid a Doctrine as this, and I * love, and pray God I may always have occaſion to come up to this place upon a more merciful ſubject: but I told you even now out of Lev. xix. 17. that 'twas no ſmall work of mercy, 'twas the moſt friendly office that could be performed any man, to reprehend, and, as the Text ſaith, Not to ſuffer ſin upon thy neighbour, eſpecially ſo ſly a covert lurking ſin as this of Atheiſm, which few can diſcern in themſelves. I ſhall now come to Application, which, becauſe the whole Doctrine ſpoke morally to your affections, and ſo in a manner prevented Uſes, ſhall be only a recapitulation and brief knitting up of what hitherto hath been ſcattered at large. * hope,

Joſ. Ant. Jud. l. 12. c. 7. l. 11. 8.

Hoſ. x. 11.

Eccluſ. xxxviii. 20.

Seeing that the Devils policy of deluding, and bewitching, and diſtorting our Underſtandings, either with variety of falſe gods, or Hereſies raiſed upon the true, is now almoſt clearly out-dated, and his skill is all bent to the deforming of the Will, and defacing the character of God, and the expreſſion of the ſincerity of our Faith in our lives; we muſt deal with this Enemy at his own Weapon, learn to order our munition according to the aſſault, and fortify that part moſt impregnably, toward which the tempeſt * binds and threatens. There is not now ſo much danger to be feared from the inrode of Hereticks in opinion, as in practice, not ſo much Atheiſm to be dreaded from the infidelity of our brains, as the Heatheniſm and Gentiliſm of our Luſts, which even in the midſt of a Chriſtian profeſſion, deny God even to his Face. And therefore our chiefeſt Frontiers and Fortifications muſt be ſet up before that part of the Soul, our moſt careful Watch and Sentinel placed upon our affections, leſt the Devil enter there and depopulate the whole Chriſtian, and plant the Atheiſt in his room. To this purpoſe we muſt examine, what Seeds are already ſown, what treachery is a working within; and no doubt, moſt of us at the firſt caſt of the Eye ſhall find great ſtore, unleſs we be partial to our ſelves, and bring in a verdict of mercy, and conſtrue that weakneſs, which indeed ſignifies Atheiſm. * bends

When upon examination we find our lives undermining our belief, our practices denying the authority of Scripture, and no whit forwarder to any Chriſtian duty upon its commands: When we find God's Eſſence and Attributes reviled and ſcoffed at in our converſation, his omnipreſence contemned by our confidence in ſinning, and argued againſt by our baniſhing God out of all our thoughts, his all-ſufficiency doubted of by our diſtruſts, and our ſcorn to depend upon it: When we perceive that our carriages do fall off at this part of our belief in Chriſt, that he ſhall come again to be our Judge, and by our neglect of thoſe works eſpecially of mercy, which he ſhall then require of us, ſhew that indeed we expect him not, or think of him as a Judge, but only as a Saviour: When we obſerve our Wills reſiſting the gifts, and falſifying the Attributes, whilſt our Creed confeſſes the Perſon of the Holy Ghoſt; and ſee how little, how nothing of the ſanctifying ſpirit, of the earneſt of our Regeneration, is in our hearts, and we ſtill ſtupidly ſenſeleſs of the want: When we believe forgiveneſs of ſins, and that only upon condition of repentance, and yet abhor ſo much as to hear or think of the performing of it, or to make good that mercy to others which our ſelves challenge of God: Laſtly, When we prove to our ſelves, and all the World beſide, by our requiring of a preſent reward for all our goodneſs, and ruling our Religion to our Earthly profit, by our impatience of any affliction, by our Heatheniſh neglect, and ſtupidity, and riot, that we do not in earneſt look for the Reſurrection to Life: When, I ſay, by a juſt, but exact ſurvey and inqueſt we find theſe ſo many degrees of ſecret Atheiſm in us; then muſt we ſhrift, and purge, and cleanſe, and rinſe our Souls from theſe dregs of Heatheniſm; then muſt we humble our ſelves below the duſt, and not dare to look the vrieſt Gentile in the Face, 'till we have removed this plague from us. " And do thou, O Lord, aſſiſt our endea" vours, and by the violence of thy Spirit force and raviſh us in our lives, as well as belief, to a " ſincere acknowledgment and expreſſion of every minute part of that Religion which is purely " Chriſtian, that we may adore thee in our hearts as well as our brains, and being ſanctified through" out, from any tincture, or colour, or ſuſpicion of irreligion in either power of our Soul, we may
" glorifie thee here, and be glorified by thee hereafter.

Now to him that hath elected us, hath, &c.

Pars Secunda.

SERMON XVII.

2 PET. III. 3.

Scoffers walking after their own Lusts.

IT is an excellent observation of Aristotles, that rich men are naturally most contumelious, most given to abuse and deride others, which he expresses thus, in the seventh of his Pol. Ἅδε ἡ ἀυτυχίας ἀπόλαυσις ἡ τὸ σχολάζειν μετ' ἡδονῆς, ὑβριστὰς ποιῖ μᾶλλον. The contentment which they enjoy in the continuance of their worldly happiness, the perpetual rest, and quiet, and tranquillity, which their plenty bestows on them, makes them contemn and despise the estate of any other man in the World. Upon this conceit, saith the same Aristotle, (ὅτι ὑπερέχειν φαίνονται,) that their happiness is elevated infinitely above the ordinary pitch; that whatever contentments any other sort of people can glory or delight in, is but some imaginary, slight poor happiness that men are fain to solace themselves withal, to keep them from melancholy, all far enough below the size of their felicity, which all agreeable circumstances have conspired to make exactly complete. Hence is it, that you shall ordinarily observe the rich man, in this confidence of his opinion, that no man is happy but himself, either contemn or pity the poverty, and improvidence, and perhaps the sottishness of such Spirits, that can rejoice or boast in the possession of Wisdom, knowledge, nay even of Gods graces; no object is more ridiculous in his Eye, than either a Scholar, or a Christian, that knows not the value of riches: for saith Aristotle, ὁ πλοῦτος ὅιον τιμή τις ἐστὶ τῶν ἀξίας τῶν ἄλλων, διὸ φαίνεται πάντα ὄντα ὧνητα δι' αὐτοῦ. Money is reckoned the price of all things else, that which can easily purchase whatever else we can stand in need of; and therefore the rich man, if he could think Learning and Religion worth any thing, having his money by him, (which is in effect every thing,) thinks he can call for them when he pleases. In the mean, he hath more wit than to forsake his pleasures, and go to School to the Stoick, to divest himself of his Robes, and put on the sowreness, the rigid, sad behaviour which the profession of Wisdom or Christianity requires. He is better pleased in his present pomp, than to go and woo that misery and ruggedness, which the severity of Discipline looks for. Let silly beggars boast of the contents of Wisdom, or hopes of Heaven, at mihi plaudo domi, his Coffers at home are better Companions than all the melancholy of Books, or sullen solaces of the spirit. He hath learnt by experience, that he ought to pity and contemn these fictions of delight which the Poets fetch from the fortunate Islands, to delude, and cozen, and comfort Beggars: his glory, and pride, and riches, are happiness indeed, and whatever else the poverty of the World can boast of, are objects not of his envy but his scorn.

C. 15.

2 Rhet. c. 16.

What we have hitherto noted to you concerning the rich man, is applyable on the same grounds to any sort of people which have fixt upon any worldly content, and resolved upon some one object, beside which they will never value or prize any thing. Thus the Epicure or voluptuous man, who hath set up his Idol Lust, to whom he owes all his Sacrifice, and from whom he expects all his good Fortune, that hath fixt his Pillars, and cast his Anchor, and is peremptorily constant in his course, that he is resolved for ever to walk in: This man I say, being possest with an opinion of the happiness which he is placed in, like the Sun in his pride, rejoices to run his course, and scorns any contrary motion that he meets or hears of; and only observes the wayes of virtue, and Religion, to hate and laugh at them: and the farther he walks, the deeper he is engaged in this humor of self-content, and contempt of others, of security, and scoffing. For this is the force and implicite argument, covertly contained in the close of these words, There shall come in the last days, scoffers, &c. i. e. this resolution to walk on in their own Lusts, hath brought them to this pitch of Atheism, to scoff and deride both God and goodness. There shall, &c.

We have heretofore divided these words, and in them observed and handled already the sin of Atheism, together with the subjects in which it works, Christians of the last times, noted from this prophetick Speech, There shall come in the last dayes Scoffers. We now come to the second particular, the motive, or impellent to this sin, a liberty which men give themselves, and a content which they take, to walk after their own lusts.

The second Chapter of the Wisdom of Solomon, is an excellent description of the Atheist: and though it be of Apocryphal authority, yet 'tis of most divine Canonical truth. I could find in my heart, nay I can scarce hold from reading, and paraphrasing the whole Chapter to you: 'tis so solid, so strong, so perfect a Discourse upon this theme, it contains so many strains of Atheistical reason in opposition to godliness, and the root, and growth, and maturity of this tree of knowledge, and death; that the clear understanding of that one place, might suffice without any enlargement of proofs or expressions. But for brevity sake, and on promise that you will at your leisure survey it, I will will omit to inſiſt on it: only in the end of the 21 Verſe. after all the expreſſions of their Atheiſtical counſels, you have the reaſon, or motive, or firſt worker of all, For their own wickedneſs hath blinded them; their ſtupid perſeverance in thoſe dark wayes, in that black Tophet on Earth, habituate cuſtom of ſinning, had ſo thickned their ſight, had drawn ſuch a film over their Eyes, that in the judgment of divine affairs, they were ſtark blind: they could ſee nothing in all the myſtery of godlineſs which was worth embracing; and therefore had no employment, but to walk on after their own Luſts, and to ſcoff at thoſe that were ſo fooliſhly friendly to them, as to call them out of their way: they were well enough acquainted with their own paths, they could walk them blindfold, and therefore had more wit than forſake the road for a nearer by-way. The iſſue of all is this, that a voluptuous courſe of life is a great promoter and advancer of Atheiſm: there had never been ſo many Scoffers in the World, had there not been alſo thoſe that were reſolute to walk after their own Luſts.

In the firſt Verſe of the Pſalms, there be ſteps, and rounds, and gradations of a Sinner ſpecified, 1. Walking in the counſel of the ungodly, 2. Standing in the way of ſinners, 3. Sitting in the ſeat of the ſcorner: The two firſt being degrees in his motion, ſeveral ſtages of his Journey to this ἀκμὴ, or top pitch of ſinning in the laſt. Walking in the counſel of the ungodly, is the firſt entrance to his courſe: and he that hath ſuch a riſe as this, hath a great advantage of all other Sinners; he will perform his race with ſpeed, and come ſuddenly to his goal. This deliberate walking in the wayes, and with the Companions and contrivers of ungodlineſs, this partaking and proſecuting of the counſels, the enjoying this familiarity with ſin, proves a ſtrong engagement to continue and perſevere, and delight in its acquaintance. Yet becauſe walking is a laborious motion, and will tire the Sinner in time, he is fain to betake himſelf to an eaſier poſture, and that is ſtanding in the way of ſinners, continuing in a ſtill, ſober, quiet, ſtupid tranquillity of ſinning, ſtanding like a Mercury's Poſt in the midſt of a rode, never removed or ſtirred an inch, though never ſo juſtled by the Paſſengers. Let all the contrary vertues never ſo thwart and croſs him, he hath fixed his ſtation, and neither force, nor allurements ſhall make him move. Yet becauſe ſtanding alſo is a painful poſture, with which the valianteſt Legs will at laſt be nummed, if not tyred, he hath in the laſt place his Chair of eaſe and ſtate, and here he ſets up his reſt, here he ſins with as much Majeſty as delight. 1. In cathedrâ, as a ſeat of greatneſs, lording it, and ſinning imperiouſly, commanding every Spectator to follow his example of ſcoffing at God and goodneſs. 2. In cathedrâ, as a ſeat of authority, ſinning doctorally, and magiſterially, by his practice defining the lawfulneſs of theſe ſcoffs, even ſetting up a School of Atheiſm. And thirdly in cathedrâ, as a ſeat of reſt, and eaſe, and pleaſure, which he is reſolved never to riſe out of, which he hath repoſed himſelf in, that he may laugh at eaſe, and without any pains or trouble, or charges, blaſpheme God for ever. And for the moſt part indeed he proves as bad as his reſolution, having once given himſelf this licence of laughing at and deriding Religion, he ſeldom ever recovers himſelf to a ſober countenance, like men * whoſe cuſtom of ſcoffing hath made wry-mouthed, he lives and continues, and for the moſt part, dyes ſcoffing. He comes as it were laughing into Hell, and ſeldom forſakes this habit of prophaneneſs, till horror hath put ſmiling out of date. There is not a ſin in the World, that ſits cloſer to him which hath once entertained it; and he that is once a merry Atheiſt, ſeldom, if ever proves a ſad ſober Chriſtian. He is ſeated in his Chair of ſcorning, and contemns the mercy of that ſpirit, that ſhould take him out of it. Thus you ſee, that walking in the ſteps, and ſtanding in the way, i. e. following the commands of their own luſts, they are ſoon arrived to the pitch of Atheiſts, to the chair of ſcorners; and then, there is but little preferment more that they are capable of, unleſs they will ſtrive with Lucifer for preeminence in Hell, or elſe challenge Rabſhakeh to rayl, or Julian to blaſpheme. But this is the higheſt degree of Scoffers, and I hope the Devil hath but few ſuch valiant, bold, forward Champions in the World, ſince Julian or Lucian's time. And therefore I hope I have prickt no mans Conſcience here, whilſt I have ſpoke of them: but I have formerly proved, that there be ſome lower, tamer, ſecret degrees of Atheiſm, which every man may chance to ſpy in ſome angle or corner of his Soul, ſome implicite artificial ways of ſcoffing, or abaſing God, which moſt of us are guilty of: and 'twill be worthy our pains to ſhew how theſe ſeeds are warmed, and cheriſhed, and animated by a licentious life. Hippocrates obſerves of the Scythians, that they do not ſwathe themſelves, nor bind in their Loins with any kind of girdle, but go with their bodies very looſe, that they may ride the eaſier, which is the only exerciſe they uſe: and from hence, ſaith he, they grow ſo corpulent and fleſhy, ſo broad and bulky, that they are both ugly and unweildy, an Eye-ſore to others, and cumberſom to themſelves: thoſe acceſſions which in other people extend themſelves proportionably in length, and breadth, in height, as well as bulk, in them grow all into thickneſs: ſo that you ſhall ſee a Pygmy in ſtature, as big as a Gyant in the girt. Thus is it with thoſe whoſe affections are not ruled, and reſtrained in order, and within limits, are not ſwathed and kept in, have not ſome ſet terms of temperance, and other virtues, beyond which they ſuffer not themſelves to fly out. If, I ſay, theſe affections within us, be by the owners left ungirt, to their own freedom; they will never grow upward toward Heaven: they will ſtill be dwarfiſh, of ſmall growth in Religion: but yet like thoſe Scythians, they will run into a ſtrange bulk and corpulence, into ſome unweildy mis-ſhapen forms of Atheiſm, or the like. Certainly they will grow into a greater breadth than the reaſonable Soul will be able to manage: unleſs the ſpirit vouchſafe to come down and contract, and call it into bounds, it will encreaſe beyond all proportion, beyond all acknowledgment of God or Religion. We are uſed to ſay in nature, that all moiſt things are apt to be contained in other terms, but hardly in their own: the water is eaſily cooped up in a Glaſs or Bucket, where there are boundaries to keep it in; but being let looſe on a table or a floor, it flies about, and never ſtayes again, till it meet with ſome Ocean, or hollow place which may incloſe, and beſtow the conſiſtency on it, which it has not of it ſelf. Thus may you ſee a River whilſt it is kept within the Chanel, go on in its ſtream and courſe very ſoberly and orderly; but when it hath over-ſwelled the Banks which before kept it in, then doth it run about the paſtures, ſcorns to be kept within any compaſs. Thus is it with the ſoul of man; if it be ordered within terms and bounds, if it have a ſtrict

* whom

ἀεὶ ὑπ. διῳ. ἐν τόπῳ.

ſtrict hand held over it, if it be curb'd and brought to its poſtures, if it have reaſon and grace, and a careful Tutor to order it, you ſhall find it as tame a Creature as you need deal with: it will never ſtraggle or ſtray beyond the confines which the ſpirit hath ſet it; the reaſon is, becauſe though it be in it ſelf fluid, and moiſt, and ready to run about like water, yet Deus firmavit Aquas, God hath made a Firmament betwixt the waters, as he did Gen. i. 7. i. e. he hath eſtabliſht it, and given it a conſiſtency, that it ſhould not flow or pour it ſelf out beyond its place. But if this Soul of man be left to its own nature, to its own fluid, wild, incontinent condition, it preſently runs out into an Ocean, never ſtaies, or conſiders, or conſults, but ruſhes head-long into all inordinacy, having neither the reins of reaſon nor God to keep it in, it never thinks of either of them, and unleſs by chance, or by Gods mercy, it fall into their hands, 'tis likely to run riot for ever. Being once let looſe, it ranges, as if there were neither power on Earth to quell, nor in Heaven to puniſh it. Thus do you ſee how fluid, how inconſtant the Soul is of its own accord, how prone it is, how naturally inclined, to run over like a ſtream over the Banks, and if it be not ſwathed, and kept in, if it be left to the licentious condition of it ſelf, how ready is it to contemn both reaſon and God, and run head-long into Atheiſm. Nay we need not ſpeak ſo mercifully of it, this very licentiouſneſs is the actual renouncing of Religion, this very walking after their own luſts, is not only a motive to this ſin of ſcoffing, but the very ſin it ſelf.

Gen. i. 7.

A falſe Conception in the Womb, is only a rude, confuſed, ugly Chaos, a meer lump of fleſh, of no kind of figure or reſemblance, gives only diſappointment, danger, and torment to the Mother. 'Tis the ſoul at its entrance which defines, and trims, and poliſhes into a body, that gives it Eyes, and Ears, and Legs, and Hands, which before it had not diſtinctly and ſeverally, but only rudely altogether with that maſs or lump. Thus is it with the Man, till Religion hath entred into him as a Soul to inform, and faſhion him; as long as he lives thus at large, having no terms, or bounds, or limits to his actions, having no form, or figure, or certain motion defined him, he is a Mola, a meer lump of man, an arrant Atheiſt: you cannot diſcern any features or lineaments of a Chriſtian in him; he hath neither Eyes to ſee, nor Ears to hear, nor hands to practice any duty that belongs to his peace. Only 'tis Religion muſt take him up, muſt ſmooth and dreſs him over, and according to its Etymon, muſt religare, ſwathe and bind up this looſe piece of fleſh, muſt animate and inform him, muſt reduce him to ſome ſet form of Chriſtianity, or elſe he is likely after a long and fruitleſs travel to appear a deformed monſtrous Atheiſt. But not to deal any longer upon ſimile's, leſt we ſeem to confound and perplex a truth by explaining it, I told you the licentious voluptuous life was it ſelf perfect Heatheniſm. For can you imagine a man to be any but a Gentile, who hath abandoned all love, all awe, all fear, all care of God (any one of which would much contract and draw him into compaſs) who hath utterly put off every garb of a Chriſtian, who hath enjoy'd the reins ſo long, that now he is not ſenſible, or at leaſt contemns the curb or ſnaffle if he be but check't with it, gets it in his teeth and runs away with it more fiercely. The Heathen are noted not ſo much that they worſhipt no God at all, but that they worſhipped ſo many, and none of them the true. Every great friend they had, every delight and pleaſure, every thing that was worth praying for, ſtraight proved their God, and had its ſpecial Temple erected for its Worſhip. So that do but imagine one of them every day worſhipping every God whom he acknowledged, in its ſeveral Oratory, ſpending his whole life, and that too little too, in running from one Temple to another, and you have deſcribed our licentious man poſting on perpetually to his ſenſual devotions, worſhipping, adoring, and ſacrificing every minute of his life, to ſome Idol-vanity, and beſtowing as much pains and charges in his prophane heatheniſh pleaſures, as ever the Gentiles did on their falſe gods, or the moſt ſupererogating Papiſt on their true.

Wigg. in Jam. ſecunda queſt. 1. Art. 5. p. 27, 28.

We are wont to ſay in Divinity, and that without an Hyperbole, that every commiſſion of ſin is a kind of Idolatry, an incurvation, and bending down of the Soul to ſome Creature, which ſhould alwayes be erect looking up to Heaven, from whence it was infuſed, like water naturally inclined to climb and aſcend, as high as the Fountain, or Head from whence it ſprang. And then certainly a licentious life is a perpetual Idolatry, a ſupineneſs, and proneneſs, and incurvation of the Soul to ſomewhat that deſerves to be called an Idol, i. e. either in St. Pauls acceptation of it, nothing (an Idol is nothing, 1 Cor. viii. 4.) or elſe in the moſt honourable ſignification, only an Image, or ſome rude likeneſs or repreſentation of God. We are the Image of God our ſelves, and whatſoever is below us, is but an imperfect draught of him, containing ſome lineaments, ſome confuſed reſemblances of his power which created them, have no being of their own, but only as ſhadows which the light doth caſt. And therefore every love, every bowe, every cringe which we make to any Creature, is the wooing and worſhipping of an Image at beſt, in plain terms of an Idol, nothing. What degree then of Idolatry have they attained to, who every minute of their lives bowe down and worſhip, make it their trade and calling for ever to be a ſolliciting ſome pleaſure or other? Some exquiſite piece of ſenſuality to bleſs and make them happy, which have no other ſhrines to ſet up, but only to their own luſt, to which they do ſo crouch, and creep, and crawle, that they are never able to ſtand up right again: like thoſe Trees which the Papiſts talk of, which by bowing to our Ladies Houſe, when in walks by the Wood toward Loretto, have ever ſince ſtood ſtooping. Thus do you ſee how the latter part of my Text hath overtook the former: the walking after his own luſts, becomes a ſcoffer, the licentious man proceeded Atheiſt, and that with eaſe, his very voluptuous life is a kind of Atheiſm; and the reaſons of this are obvious, you need not ſeek or ſearch far for them.

1 Cor. viii. 4.

For firſt, this walking in their own luſts, notes an habit gathered out of many acts: he hath walked there a long while, and therefore now hath the skill of it, walks on confidently, and careleſly, without any rub or thought of ſtopping. And contrary to this, the Worſhip of God, of which Atheiſm is a privation, is an holy, religious habit of Piety and Obedience. Now we know, two contrary habits cannot conſiſt or be together in the ſame ſubject. An habit, and its oppoſite, privation, are incompetible; light, and darkneſs at the ſame time, though they may ſeem to meet ſometimes, as in twilight: but for two oppoſite poſitive habits, never any mans conceit was ſo bold or phantaſtical as to join them: you cannot imagine one, but you muſt remove the other. You may ſuppoſe a man diſtempered or weak, which is a privation of health, and yet ſuppoſe him pretty healthy, as long as his natural ſtrength is able to overcome it; but can you ſuppoſe a man in a violent feaver actually upon him, and yet ſtill imagine him in perfect health? Thus is it with a Sinner, who hath given himſelf over to the tyranny, and impotency of his luſts, he hath utterly put off all degrees, all ſparks of any habit of Religion, according to that of our Saviour, You cannot ſerve God and Mammon, where Mammon ſignifying in a vaſt extent, the god of this World, imports all luſts, all earthly vanities, which any habituate Sinner deifies.

to

Secondly, Every habit notes a delight, an acquieſcence, and joy in enjoying of that, which through many actions, perhaps ſome brunts and rubs, he hath at laſt arrived to. Now this delight and contentation, that it may be complete, is impatient of any other incumbrance, which at any time may come in, to interrupt or diſorder it. If any thing ſo happen, 'tis never quiet, till it have removed it. The Scholar that hath all his life laboured, and at laſt attained to ſome habit of knowledge, and then reſolves to enjoy the happineſs and fruits of learning, in the quiet and reſt of a perpetual contemplation, is impatient if any piece of ignorance croſs or thwart him in his walk, hee'l to his Books again, and never reſt till he hath overcome and turned it out. Thus doth the ſenſual man, being come to the Aſphalt, and pitch, and enter'd into the Paradiſe of his worldly joyes, if he do but meet with any jar, if he feel any pluck or twinge from his Conſcience, any grudge or compunction of the ſpirit within him, any ſpark or heat, or warmth of religious fear in his breaſt, hee'l never reſt till he hath abandoned it, he is impatient of ſuch a qualm of godlineſs, he muſt needs put it over, he is ſick at heart till he hath diſgorged himſelf of this choler, and then returns ſecurely godleſs to his walk, having baniſhed God out of all his thoughts. Thus ſhall you ſee the Atheiſt on his humour, for want of ſome compunction at home, grumble at every godly man or action which they ſaw in the ſtreet. In the ſecond of Wiſdom at the 14. He is grievous unto us to behold, he was made to reprove our thoughts; Wiſd. 2. 14. and they do not return to their content, they are not pleaſed again, till they have gotten him into their inquiſition, to examine him with deſpightfulneſs and torture, ver. 19. Thus do they abhor and ſtifle, and ſtrangle every godly action in others, or motion in themſelves; becauſe the holineſs of the one, is an Exprobration to their prophaneneſs, and the other was a pang of Conſcience, made as it were on purpoſe by God to reprove their thoughts.

Thirdly, This walking in the Text, though it be with ſome motion, yet it is a ſlow one, a kind of walking in ones ſleep, or that of a Melancholy Man, that can walk till he be wet through, and not mark that it rained. I ſay, it notes here an heavy, drowſy, unactive habit, expreſt by the Pſalmiſt, by ſitting in a chair, as we ſhewed you: it notes a kind of churliſh reſoluteneſs, to walk on what ever come in his way; he is grown even a paſſive to his luſts, he doth not ſo much act as ſuffer them, he walks on ſnorting in his rode, do what you can, you ſhall neither turn nor wake him. Now this ſlow, drowſy, unactive habit, begets a kind of numneſs in him, a ſluggiſh, ſullen ſtupidity over all his faculties, that even a ſpur or goad cannot rouze him; all the pores as it were and paſſages, and entries to the Soul are ſo ſtopped, and bung'd up; all his affections are grown ſo groſs and brawny, ſo hardned and incraſſate, that no air or breath from Heaven can pierce it. He that tells him of Religion, or God, or Virtue, is as he that waketh one from a ſound ſleep: he that telleth ſuch a Fool a tale of Wiſdom, ſpeaketh to one in a ſlumber, and when he hath told his tale, he will ſay, What is the matter? Ecclus. xxii. 8. Thus do you ſee, 1. The repugnance and inconſiſtence of a voluptuous life, and Religion. 2. The delight. 3. The ſtupidity of this habit. Each of which have made a place for the Libertine, and ſet him in the Chair of the ſcorner. And all this while methinks I have but talkt to your Ears: Now that your hearts and affections may pertake of the ſound, that the ſofter waxy part of you, may receive ſome impreſſion from this Diſcourſe, let us cloſe all with an Application.

And firſt, from the guilt and dangerous condition of a licentious life, to labour by all means poſſible to keep out of it. He that is once engaged in it, goes on with a great deal of content, and in the midſt of his pleaſures on the one ſide, and carnal ſecurity on the other, his Underſtanding, and Will, and Senſes are lull'd into a Lethargy; nay, the very phancy in him is aſleep, which in other ſleeps, is moſt active: he never imagines, never dreams of any fear, or danger, either God, or Devil. O what a lamentable woful eſtate is it, to be thus ſick beyond a ſenſe of our Diſeaſe, to be ſo near a ſpiritual death, and not ſo much as feel our weakneſs! Oh what an horrid thing it were, to paſs away in ſuch a ſleep, and never obſerve our ſelves near death, till Satan hath arreſted beyond bail; to ſleep on and ſnort, as men without dread or danger, till the torments of Hell ſhould awake us! You cannot imagine how eaſy a thing it is, for an habituate Sinner to fall into the Devils paws, before he thinks of it; as a melancholy man walking in the dark, may be drowned in a Pit, and no man hear him complain that he is faln.

Again, we are wont to ſay, that cuſtom is another nature, and thoſe things which we have brought our ſelves up to, we can as ill put off, as our conſtitution, or diſpoſition. Now thoſe things which ſpring from the nature of any thing, are inſeparable from the ſubject; baniſh them as oft as you will, uſque recurrent, they will return again as to their home, they cannot ſubſiſt any where elſe, they dwell there. So wallowing in the mire, being a condition natural to the ſwine, can never be extorted from them: waſh them, rinſe them, purge them with Hyſſop; as ſoon as ever they meet with mire again, they will into it. Their Swiniſh nature hath ſuch an influence on them, that all care or art cannot forbid, or hinder this effect of it. So that a cuſtomary Sinner, who hath as it were, made luſt a part of his nature, hath incorporated prophaneneſs, and grafted it into his affections, can as hardly be rid of it, as a ſubject of his property; 'tis poſſible for fear, or want of opportunity ſometime to keep him in, and make him abſtain: the load-ſtone may ly quiet, whilſt no iron is within ken, or it may be held by force in its preſence; but give it materials and leave to work, and it draws incontinently. So for all his temporary forbearance, upon ſome either policy or neceſſity, the habituate ſinner hath not yet given over his habit. Leave him to himſelf, give him room and opportunity, and he will hold no longer. If he be once advanced to this pitch of ſin, to be walking walking after his own lusts, he may possibly be driven back with a storm, or thunder: but he will hardly give over his walk, hee'l forward again, as soon as ever the tempest is over. Nay farther, even when he wants objects and opportunities, he will yet shew his condition, he will betray the desire and good affection he bears to his old lusts; his discourse or fashions argue him incontinently bent, even when he is at the stancheſt. As Aristotle observes of the fearful man, that even when no formidable object is near, he falls into many frights: so the voluptuous mans phancy is perpetually possest with the meditation of his own wayes, when some disease or necessity will not let him walk. In brief, unless this second nature be quite taken out of him, and another holy spiritual nature created in its room; unless a stronger come and bind this Devil, and dispossess him of it; he hath small hopes of getting himself out of his Dominion, and Tyranny: there is a great deal more stir in the converting of one customary Sinner, than of a thousand others; 'tis not to be accomplished without a kind of Death, and Resurrection, without a new Creation of another nature. So that (if we should judge of Gods actions by our own) the spirit should seem to be put to more pains and trouble with this one habituate, than in the ordinary business of converting many a tamer Sinner. This is enough, by the desperateness of the cure, to move you to study some art, some physick of prevention; lest when it is grown upon you, it be too late to enquire for remedies. How should we dare to entertain and naturalize such an evil spirit within us, which if ever he be ravisht out of us again, cannot without tearing, and torturing, and rending even our whole nature in pieces? If we must needs be sinful, yet let us keep within a moderation, let us not so follow the Devils works, as to transsubstantiate our selves into his nature; let us not put off our manhood, with our integrity, and though we cannot be Saints, let us keep our selves men? 'Tis a degree of innocence, not to be extremely wicked, and a piece of godliness, not to be Atheists. Our lust is an infinite thing, said a Philosopher, (ἀπείρου θυμία, Jambl.) and he that walks after it, hath an endless journey: there is no hope that he that hath so far to go, will ever have leisure to sit still. And therefore I say, if we must needs sin, yet let us not engage our selves to sin for ever: if our being men, lays a necessity of sinning on us; let our care to stay whilst it is possible for us, prove that we do not sin like Devils, whose sin is their glory, and their resolution peremptory, never to give over sinning; and so may ours seem, and in all likelihood prove to be, if we give our selves liberty to walk after our own lusts.

Secondly, If our lusts be such dangerous paths to walk in, and this, in that very respect, as they are our own, in opposition to Gods commands; if they are the straight direct way to Atheism, nay Atheism it self: then, what care and circumspection is required at every setting down of our feet, at every entrance on any action, lest there be a Serpent in the way, some piece of prophaneness in every enterprize we enter on of our selves? How ought we to fear, to suspect, and balk any way that is our own? For where it is Atheism to walk, there surely 'tis a sin to tread: and where we have once ventured to tread, we shall be shrewdly tempted to walk; every step we have safely taken, being an encouragement to a second. Verebar omnia opera mea, saith Job, I feared all my works: whatever action I could entitle my self to, methought there was some danger in it; I was afraid it was not right as it should be, I should never be able to justify it. This is an excellent tryal of all our serious deliberate actions, to mark whether they are our own or no, whether we went about them on our own heads, without our warrant or directions from God: if we did, 'tis much to be doubted there is some poyson, some guilt in them, some thing that deserves to be feared, and fled from. This very suspecting of our own wayes, will aliene us from our own lusts, will bend us nearer to God, and never suffer us to dare to venture where he hath not secured us; will join us as it were in an Engine to God himself, where the lower Wheels never begin to move without the example and government of the higher. If you can but perswade your self to fear your own wayes, 'twill be a good stop of your progress to Atheism. I am confident the Devil will never get you to walk in your own lusts.

Thirdly, If walking in our own lusts be direct Atheism, what shall we think of them who make it a piece of Religion, and holy policy to do so? Beloved, there be some learned Catechised Atheists, who upon confidence of an absolute eternal predestination of every man in the World, that shall ever possibly be saved, set up their rest there, and expect what God will do with them. 'Tis to no purpose to hope God will alter the decree; they are resolved to leave all to God, and if they perish, they perish. Mark with me, is not this a Religious Atheism, to attribute so much to God as to become careless of him; so to depend as never to think on him, and by granting his Decree in our understanding, to deny his Godhead in our conversation? He that lives negligently, on confidence that his care may be spared, that if there be any salvation for him, God will work it out without his fear or trembling: he that believes Gods election so absolute, that himself hath nothing to do in the business; whilst he expects mercy, makes himself uncapable of it; and though he acknowledge a resurrection, lives as though he looked to be annihilated. Certainly he that expects, God should send him a fruitful harvest, will himself manure the ground; he that hopes, will labour, according to that, 1 Joh. iii. 3. He that hath this hope in him, purifies himself, &c. So that whosoever relies on God for Salvation, and in the midst of his hopes stands idle, and walks after his own lusts; by his very actions confutes his thoughts, and will not in a manner suffer God to have elected him, by going on in such reprobate courses.

Lastly, If it be this confident walking after our own lusts, which is here the expression of Atheism, then here's a comfort for some fearful Sinners, who finding themselves not yet taken up quite from a licentious life, suspect, and would be in danger to despair of themselves, as Atheists. 'Tis a blessed tenderness to feel every sin in our selves at the greatest advantage; to aggravate and represent it to our Conscience in the horridst shape; but there is a care also to be had, that we give not our selves over as desperate; Cain ly'd when he said, his sin was greater than could be either born or forgiven. When the Physicians have given one over, Philop. 1. de an. αἱ φύσεις ἐαυτοῖς χάριν, nature hath its spring and plunge, and sometimes quits and overcomes the disease. If thou art in this dangerous walk, and strivest and heavest, and canst not get out of it, yet sorrow not as one without hope: this very regret and reluctancy, this striving and plunging, is a good symptome. If thou wilt continue with a good courage, and set thy self to it to the purpose, be confident thou shalt overcome the difficulty. If this this sin be a walking, then every stop is a cessation, every check a degree to integrity, every godly thought or desire a pawn from God that he will give thee strength to victory: and if thou do but nourish and cherish every such reluctancy, every such gracious motion in thy self, thou maist with courage expect a gracious calm deliverance out of these storms and tempests. And let us all labour, and endeavour, and pray that we may be loosed from these toyls and gins, and engagements of our own lusts, and being entred into a more religious severe course here, than the Atheism of our wayes would counsel us to, we may obtain the end, and rest, and consummation, and reward of our Course hereafter.

Now to him which hath elected us, &c.

SERMON XVIII.

1 TIM. I. 15.

Of whom I am the chief.

THE chief business of our Apostle S. Paul in all his Epistles is, what the main of every Preacher ought to be, Exhortation. There is not one doctrinal point, but contains a precept to our understanding to believe it; nor moral Discourse, but effectually implies an admonishment to our Wills to practise it. Now these Exhortations are proposed either vulgarly in the downright garb of Precept, as, These things command and teach, &c. or in a more artificial, obscure, enforcing way of Rhetorick, as, God forbid that I should glory, save in the cross of Christ, whereby the world is crucified to me, and I unto the world; which though in words it seems a protestation of St. Pauls own resolution, yet in effect is a most powerful exhortatory to every succeeding Christian, to glory only in the Cross of Christ, and on it to crucifie both the World and himself. This method of reducing S. Paul to Exhortation, I observe to you for the clearing of my Text. For this whole Verse at the first view seems only a mere Thesis or point of belief, that Christ came into the World to save Sinners, illustrated and applied by the Speaker as one, and the chief of the number of those Sinners to be saved. But it contains a most Rhetorical powerful Exhortation to both Understanding and Will; to believe this faithful saying, That Christ came, &c. and to accept, lay hold of, and with all our might to embrace and apply to each of our selves this great mercy, toward this great Salvation bestowed on Sinners, who can with humility confess their sins, and with Faith lay hold on the promise. And this is the business of the Verse, and the plain matter of this obscure double Exhortation, to every mans Understanding, that he believe that Christ, &c. to every mans affections, that he humble himself, and teach his heart, and that, his tongue to confess, Of all Sinners, &c. This Text shall not be divided into parts (which were to disorder and distract the significancy of a proposition) but into several considerations; for so it is to be conceived either absolutely as a profession of S. Paul of himself, and there we will enquire, whether, and how Paul was the chief of all Sinners. Secondly, respectively to us, for whom this form of confessing the state, and applying the Salvation of Sinners to our selves, is set down.

1 Tim. iv. 11. Gal. vi. 14.

And first, whether, and how Paul was the chief of all Sinners; where we are to read him in a double estate, converted and unconverted, expresst to us by his double name, Paul and Saul, Paul an Apostle of Jesus Christ, Saul a Persecutor, mad against the Christians; and that both these estates may be contained in the Text, although penn'd by Paul regenerated, may appear, in that the Pronoun ἐγώ, I, signifying the whole complete person of Paul, restrains not the speech to his present being only, but considers also what he had been; more especially set down at the thirteenth Verse, Who was before a blasphemer, &c. So then, Paul in his Saul-ship being a Blasphemer, a Persecutor and injurious, and in summ, a most violent, perverse, malicious Unbeliever, was a chief Sinner, rankt in the Front of the Devil's Army; and this needs no further proof or illustration. Yet seeing that that Age of the World had brought forth many other of the same strain of violent Unbelief, nothing inferiour to Saul, as may appear by those many that were guilty of Christs Death (as Saul in person was not) and those that so madly stoned S. Stephen, whilst Saul only kept the witnesses clothes, and as the Text speaks, was consenting unto his death; seeing, I say, that others of that Age equalled, if not exceeded Sauls guilt, how can he be said above all other Sinners to be the chief. I think we shall not wrest or inlarge the Text beside or beyond the meaning of the Holy Ghost or Apostle, if in answer unto this, we say, that here is intended, not so much the greatness of his sins above all Sinners in the World, but the greatness of the miracle in converting so great a Sinner into so great a Saint and Apostle. So that the words shall run, Of all Sinners that Christ came into the World to save, and then prefer to such an eminence, I am the chief, or as the word primarily signifies, πρῶτός εἰμι, I am the first, i. e. Paul was the chief of all Converts, and Paul was the first, that from so great a Persecutor of Christ was changed into so great, so glorious an Apostle. For so it follows in the Verses next after my Text, For this cause I obtained mercy, that in me first Christ Jesus might shew forth all long ſuffering, &c. The iſſue of all is this, that Saul unconverted was a very great Sinner, yet not the greateſt of Sinners abſolutely, but for ought we read in the New Teſtament, the greateſt and firſt that was called from ſuch a degree of infidelity, a Blaſphemer, a Perſecuter, to ſo high a pitch of Salvation, a Saint, an Apoſtle, yea, and greater than an Apoſtle; whence the obſervation is, that though Saul were, yet every blaſphemous Sinner cannot expect to be called from the depth of ſin to regeneracy and Salvation. Although Saul being πρῶτος ἁμαρτωλῶν, the chief of ſinners, was called and ſaved; yet Saul was alſo in another ſenſe, for ought we read πρῶτος, and perhaps the laſt that from ſo great a riot of ſin obtained ſo great Salvation. Wherefore, O Sinner, be not preſumptuous from Pauls Example, but from Pauls ſingle Example, begin to ſuſpect thy ſtate, and fear that ſuch a miracle of Salvation ſhall not be afforded thee. There hath been an opinion of late reviv'd, perhaps original among the Romans, that the greateſt Sinner is the more likely object of Gods mercy, or ſubject of his grace, than the mere moral man, whom either natural fear, or the like, not ſpiritual reſpects, hath reſtrained from thoſe outrages of ſin. The being of this opinion in the primitive Romans, and the falſeneſs of it, is ſufficiently prov'd by that expoſtulation of St. Paul,

Acts vii. 58.

Rom. vi. 1. Shall we continue in ſin, that grace may abound? God forbid. In anſwer to ſome, who, hearing that Chriſt came into the world to ſave ſinners, thought that the excels of ſin was the beſt qualification, and only motive, to provoke and deſerve a more abundant grace and certain ſalvation. As if that ſpirit, which once to manifeſt its power, called Saul in the midſt of his madneſs, breathing out threatnings and ſlaughters againſt the Church, would not call any but thoſe who had prepared themſelves by the ſame degree of madneſs, but required that men ſhould make themſelves almoſt Devils, that they might be called into Chriſtians; as if that God, which could out of ſtones,

John xi. 39. could not alſo out of men, raiſe up Children unto Abraham; as if that Chriſt which raiſed up Lazarus, being dead four dayes, and as they thought ſtinking in his grave, could not as eaſily have heal'd him whilſt he was yet alive: whereas we read, that Chriſt dealt more on the cures of the impotent, than reſurrections of the dead; that is, in a ſpiritual application, heal'd more from the Bed of languiſhment, of their weakneſſes and diſeaſes, than he raiſed out of the graves of treſpaſſes and ſins; though ſome alſo hath he out of death quickned, to exalt the power and miracle of his mercy. Yet hath not this doctrine too, been moſt confidently maintained among ſome of our times? That there is more hope of the debauch'd man, that he ſhall be called or ſaved, than of the mere moral, honeſt man, who yet is in the ſtate of unregeneracy. Have not ſome men, defining this moral man by the formal hypocriſie, ſet him in the greateſt oppoſition to Heaven? As if that degree of innocence, or rather, not being extremely ſinful, which a moral care of our ways may beſtow on us, were a greater hindrance than promotion toward the ſtate of grace, and the natural man were ſo much the further from God, the nearer he were to goodneſs, and no man could hope to come to Heaven, but he that had knockt at Hell-gates. I confeſs indeed, that the Holy Ghoſt where he means to inhabit, hath no need of pains to prepare him a room, but can at his firſt knock, open and cleanſe, adorn and beautify the moſt uncouth, ugly, and unſavory heart in the World. That omnipotent convincing ſpirit can at the ſame inſtant ſtrike the moſt obdurate heart, and ſoften it, and where it once enters, cannot be repuls'd by the moſt ſturdy habituate ſin, or Devil. I confeſs likewiſe, that ſome have been thus rather ſnatch'd than call'd, like the fire-brands out of the fire, and by an ecſtaſy of the ſpirit inwardly in a minute chang'd from incarnate Devils into incarnate Saints. So was Mary diſpoſſeſt of ſeven Devils, who was after ſo highly promoted in Chriſts favour, that ſhe had the honour to be the firſt

Mark xvi. 9. witneſs of the Reſurrection. So that Gadarene who had intrencht and fortified himſelf among the Tombs, and was garriſon'd with an Army of Devils, ſo that he brake Fetters and Chains, and could not be tam'd or kept in any compaſs, yet in a minute at Chriſts word, ſent forth a Legion of Fiends, ſufficient to people and deſtroy a Colony of Swine. And ſo was Paul in my Text, in a minute at Chriſts Call, delivered of a multitude of blaſphemous malicious ſpirits, and ſtraight became the joy of Angels, the Apoſtle of the Gentiles. Yet mean time, theſe miraculous, but rarer Examples muſt not preſcribe and ſet up, muſt not become a rule, and encourage any one to Sauls madneſs, on confidence of Pauls Converſion, to a more impetuous courſe of ſinning, that he may become a more glorious Saint. 'Tis a wrong way to Heaven, to dig into the deep, and a brutiſh arrogance to hope, that God will the more eagerly woo us, the further our ſins have divorc't us from him. If ſome (as hath been ſaid) have been caught or ſtrucken in the height of their Rebellions, or in the fulneſs of the evil ſpirit called to a wane (as Diſeaſes in the ἀκμὴ, or top-pitch, are wont to decay and weaken into health again) if there have been ſome of theſe, as my Apoſtle, rais'd from the depth of ſin, as Lazarus from the ſtench of the grave, yet theſe in reſpect of others more ſoftly and ordinarily called, are found few in number; and ſuch as were appointed for the Miracles, as well as the objects of Gods mercy. Hence it is, that a ſtrange diſorder hath moſt times accompanied this extraordinary converſion of more violent outragious Sinners. Our Apoſtle (to go no farther) was to be caſt into a trance, and his regeneration not to be accompliſht without a kind of Death and Reſurrection; whereas others who are better morally qualified, or rather are leſs hardned in the ſins of unregeneracy, do anſwer at the ſofteſt knock or whiſpering'ſt call of the Spirit, and at his becken will come after him. More might be ſaid of this point, how St. Paul was moſt notably converted; that he had the alleviation of ignorance, for which cauſe (as he ſays himſelf) he found mercy; and that others are not probably to expect the like miracle, who have not thoſe inſuperable prepoſſeſſions from cuſtom and religion; but that this is not the buſineſs of the Text, but a præcognoſcendum or paſſage to the clearing of it. Briefly therefore to conclude this note, Paul is the chief example mentioned in Scripture, and there be not many, though ſome more, that were called from the height of impiety, from the gall of bitterneſs, to this myſtical third Heaven, or ſo high degree of Saint and Apoſtle. The more ordinary courſe of Gods proceeding (if we may poſſibly judge of the Decree by events and examples) is to call ſuch to the ſtate of grace, and ſo conſequently of glory, who have paſſed their unregeneracy moſt innocently, and kept themſelves leaſt polluted from the ſtains of habituate wickedneſs, that is, have lived as much as natural men can do, in the plaineſt, honeſteſt courſe of morality, it being preſuppoſed that among all other moral vertues they have purcheſed humility, the beſt (if there be any preparative) for the receiving of grace. Mean while we are not to be miſtaken, as if we thought Gods purpoſes tyed to mans good behaviour, or mans moral goodneſs to woo and allure Gods ſpirit, as that the Almighty is not equally able to ſanctify the fouleſt Soul by his converting grace, and the leſs polluted, or that he requires mans preparation: but our poſition is, that in ordinary charitable reaſon we ought to judge more comfortably, and hope more confidently of a meer moral man naturally more careful of his ways, that he ſhall be both called and ſaved, that God will with his ſpirit perfect and crown his morally good, though imperfect endeavours, than of another more debauch't Sinner, utterly negligent of the commands of either God or nature. Which poſition I have in brief proved, though nothing ſo largely as I might, in confutation of them who do utterly condemn unregenerate morality, and deject it below the loweſt degree of prophaneneſs, as if they would teach a man his way to Heaven, by boaſting arrogantly, what Paul converted confeſſes humbly, I am the nearer to Chriſts Salvation, becauſe of all ſinners I am the chief. The Uſe in brief of this Theſis, ſhall be for thoſe, who not as yet find the power of the regenerating ſpirit in them (for I am to fear, many of my auditors may be in this caſe, and I pray God they feel, and work, and pray themſelves out of it) the Uſe, I ſay, is for thoſe who are not yet full poſſeſſors of the ſpirit, to labour to keep their unregeneracy ſpotleſs from the greater offence, that if they are not yet called to the preferment of Converts and Saints, the ſecond part of Heaven, that Earthly City of God; that yet they will live orderly in that lower Regiment, wherein they yet remain, and be ſubject to the law of nature, till it ſhall pleaſe God to take them into a new Common-wealth, under the law of grace; to improve their natural abilities to the height, and bind their hands and hearts from the practice and ſtudy of outragious ſins, by thoſe ordinary reſtraints which nature will afford us; ſuch as are a good diſpoſition, education, and the like; not to leave and refer all to the miraculous working of God, and to encreaſe our ſins for the magnifying of the vertue in recalling us. God requires not this glory at our hands, that we ſhould peremptorily over-damn our ſelves, that he may be the more honoured in ſaving us. His mercy is more known to the World, than to need this woful foil to illuſtrate it. God is not wont to rake Hell for Converts, to gather Devils to make Saints of; the Kingdom of Heaven would ſuffer great violence, if only ſuch ſhould take it. If Saul were infinitely ſinful before he proved an Apoſtle, (though by the way, we hear him profeſs, he had lived in all good Conſcience;) yet expect not thou the ſame Miracle, nor think that the exceſs of ſins is the cue that God ordinarily takes to convert us. The Fathers in an obedience to the diſcipline and pedagogy of the old Law, poſſeſt their Souls in patience, expecting the propheſied approach of the new, did not by a contempt of Moſes, precipitate and haſten the coming of the Meſſias. Cornelius liv'd a long while devoutly, and gave much alms, till at laſt God call'd him, and put him in a courſe to become a Chriſtian: and do thou, if thou art not yet called, wait the Lords leiſure in a ſober moral converſation, and fright not him from thee with unnatural abominations. God is not likely to be woed by thoſe courſes which nature loaths, or to accept them, whom the World is aſhamed of. In brief, remember Saul and Cornelius; Saul, that he, not many, were called from a profeſt Blaſphemer; Cornelius, that before he was called, he prayed to God alway: and do thou endeavour to deſerve the like mercy, and then in thy Prayer confeſs thine undeſerving, and petition grace, as grace, that is, not as our merit, but as his free-will favour, not as the deſert of our morality, but a ſtream from the bounty of his mercy, who (we may hope) will crown his common graces with the fulneſs of his ſpirit. And now, O powerful God, on thoſe of us which are yet unregenerate, beſtow thy reſtraining grace, which may curb and ſtop our natural inordinacy, and by a ſober, careful, continent life, prepare us to a better capability of thy ſanctifying ſpirit, wherewith in good time thou ſhalt eſtabliſh and ſeal us up to the day of redemption. And thus much concerning Saul unconverted, how of all Sinners he was the chief, not abſolutely, that he ſurpaſſed the whole World in rankneſs of ſin; but reſpectively to his later ſtate, that few or none are read to have been tranſlated from ſuch a pitch of ſin to Saint-ſhip. Now follows the ſecond conſideration of him being proceeded Paul, i. e. converted, and then the queſtion is, Whether, and how Paul converted, may be ſaid the chief of all Sinners.

humility,

Acts xxiii. 1.

Acts x. 1.

'Twere too ſpeculative a depth for a popular Sermon, to diſcuſs the inherence and condition of ſin in the regenerate; the buſineſs will be brought home more profitably to our practice, if we drive it to this iſſue, That Paul in this place intending by his own example to direct others how to believe the truth, and embrace, and faſten on the efficacy of Chriſts Incarnation, hath no better motive to incite himſelf and others toward it, than a recognition of his ſins, that is, a ſurvey of the power of ſin in him before, and a ſenſe of the relicks of ſin in him ſince his Converſion. Whence the note is, That the greatneſs of ones ſins, makes the regenerate man apply himſelf more fiercely to Chriſt. This faithful ſaying was therefore to Paul worthy of all acceptation, becauſe of all Sinners he was the chief. S. Paul, as every regenerate man, is to be obſerved in a treble poſture, either caſting his Eyes backward, or calling them in upon himſelf, or elſe looking forward and aloof; and accordingly is to be conceived in a treble meditation, either of his life paſt, or preſent ſtate, or future hopes. In the firſt poſture and meditation, you may ſee, firſt Paul alone, who was before a Blaſphemer, a Perſecuter and injurious; ſecondly, all the regenerate together: For when we were in the fleſh the motions of ſin did work in our members, &c. and many the like. In the ſecond poſture and meditation, you may obſerve him retracting an error, Acts xxiii. deprecating a temptation with earneſt and repeated interceſſions, 2 Cor. xii. 7. fighting with and harraſing himſelf, beating down his body, and keeping it in ſubjection, leſt while he preacht to others, he himſelf might be a caſt-away, 1 Cor. ix. 27, &c. In the third poſture we find him, Rom. vii. 25. where after a long diſguiſe he cries out, I thank God through Jeſus Chriſt our Lord. And again, Phil. iii. 13. moſt evidently, Forgetting thoſe things that are behind, and reaching out to thoſe things which are before, I preſs toward the mark, &c. like a racer in the heat of his courſe, whoſe Eyes deſire to anticipate his feet, and enjoy the goal before he reach it. Theſe three carriages of the regenerate man fully prove our obſervation: for if either of the two former ſights could afford him any content; if either his former or preſent ſtate did not ſufficiently terrify him, he would not be ſo eager on the third, it being

Acts xxiii.

2 Cor. xii. 7.

1 Cor. ix. 27.

Phil. iii. 13.

being the folly of humane pride and ſelf-love, to contemn any foreign aid, as long as it finds either appearance or hope of domeſtick. If in the view of his former life he ſhould find any thing either good or not extremely bad and ſinful, he would under-prize the mercy of that Saviour, that redeem'd him from ſo poor a guilt; if he could obſerve in his preſent ſtate any natural firmneſs or ſtability, any inherent purity, any eſſential juſtice, he might poſſibly ſacrifice to his own nets, and reckoning himſelf in perfect peace with God, neither invoke and ſeek, nor acknowledge a Mediatour. But when in his former life he ſhall find nothing but the matter and cauſe of horrour and amazement, nothing but hideous ghaſtly affrightments, yea, and a body of damnation: when in hope to mend himſelf, and eaſe his fears, he ſhall fly to the comfort of his preſent converted ſtate, and yet there alſo eſpy many thorns of temptations, how can he but be frighted out of himſelf? How can he but fly from the ſcene of thoſe his torments, and ſeek out and importune the mercy of a Saviour, which may deliver him out of all his fears? after the example of our Apoſtle in my Text, where he does more peremptorily apprehend Chriſt, and more bodily believe, That he came into the world to ſave ſinners, becauſe of all ſinners he was chief, making his own ſinfulneſs (being the object and external motive of Gods mercy) an argument and internal motive of his own Faith and confidence. The

2 Cor. 12. 7.

I. plain meaning of this Theſis is, that among men, things are not alway valued according to the merit of their nature, for then each commodity ſhould be equally prized by all men, and the man in health ſhould beſtow as much charges on phyſick as the diſeaſed: but each thing bears its ſeveral eſtimation by its uſefulneſs, and the riches of every merchandize is encreaſed accordingly as men to whom it is proffered, do either uſe or want it. Moreover, this uſefulneſs is not to be reckoned of according to truth, but opinion, not according to mens real wants, but according to the ſenſe which they have of their wants; ſo a man diſtracted, becauſe he hath not ſo much reaſon about him as to obſerve his Diſeaſe, will contemn Hellebore, or any other the moſt precious Recipe for this Cure: and generally, no man will haſten to the Phyſician, or juſtly value his art and drugs, but he whom miſery hath taught the uſe of them. So then, unleſs a man have been in ſome ſpiritual danger, and by the converting ſpirit be inſtructed into a ſenſe and apprehenſion of it, he will not ſufficiently obſerve the benefit and uſe of a deliverer: unleſs he feel in himſelf ſome ſtings of the relicks of his ſin, ſome pricks of the remaining Amorite, he will not take notice of the want and neceſſity which he hath of Chriſts mediation. But when he ſhall with a tenderneſs of memory ſurvey the guilt of his former ſtate, from the imputation, not importunity whereof, he is now juſtified; when he ſhall ſtill feel within him the buffetings of Satan, and ſenſibly obſerve himſelf not fully ſanctified, then, and not before, will he with a zealous earneſtneſs apprehend the profit, yea, neceſſity of a Saviour, whoſe aſſiſtance ſo

II. nearly concerns him. The ſecond ground of this poſition is, That an extraordinary undeſerved deliverance is by an afflicted man received with ſome ſuſpicion: the conſideration of the greatneſs of the benefit, makes him doubt of the truth of it, and he will ſcarce believe ſo important an happineſs befaln him, becauſe his miſery could neither expect nor hope it. Hence, upon the firſt notice of it, he deſires to aſcertain it unto his ſenſe, by a ſudden poſſeſſion of it, and not at all to defer the enjoying of that mercy, which his former miſery made infinitely worthy of all acceptation. Thus may you ſee a ſhip-wracke man, recovered to ſome refuge, cling about, and almoſt incorporate himſelf unto it, becauſe the fortune of his life depends on that ſuccour. The new regenerate man finding in the Scripture the promiſe of a Redeemer, which ſhall free him from thoſe engagements, which his former bankrupt eſtate had plung'd him in, cannot delay ſo great an happineſs, but with a kind of tender fear and filial trembling runs, and ſtrives (as the Diſciples to the Sepulchre) to aſſure his neceſſitous Soul of this acceptable ſalvation: even ſets upon his Saviour with a kind of violence, and will ſeem to diſtruſt his promiſe, till his ſeal ſhall authorize and confirm it. Thus did the greatneſs of the work of the unexpected reſurrection, beget in Thomas a ſuſpicion and incredulity, I will not believe, &c. where our charity may conjecture, that he above all the reſt, was not abſolutely reſolved not to believe the Reſurrection, but that he being abſent at the firſt apparition, would not take ſo important a miracle upon truſt, but deſired to have that demonſtrated to his ſenſe, which did ſo nearly concern his faith; that ſo by putting his finger into the print of the nails, and thruſting his hand into his ſide, he might almoſt conſubſtantiate and unite himſelf unto his Saviour, and at once be aſſured of the truth, and partake of the profit of the Reſurrection. Hear but the voice of the Spouſe, and any further proofs ſhall be ſuperfluous, where, in violence and jealouſie of love, ſhe importunes the Eternal

Mat. xx. 4.

Joh. xx. 25.

Cant. viii. 6.

preſence of the beloved, Set me as a ſeal upon thy heart, as a ſeal upon thine arm, for love is ſtrong as death, jealouſie as cruel as the grave: the coals thereof are coals of fire which hath a vehement flame. She had before often loſt her beloved, which made her ſo fiercely faſten on him, for having rouſed him,

Cant. iii. 4.

ruit in amplexus, ſhe ruſht into his embraces, ſhe held him and would not let him go. Thus you ſee the jealouſie and eagerneſs of love produc'd by either a former loſs, or preſent more than ordinary want of the object; both which how pertinent they are to the regenerate man, either obſerving his paſt ſins, or inſtant temptations, this Diſcourſe hath already made manifeſt.

I. The Uſe of this Theſis (to wit, that the greatneſs of ones ſins makes the regenerate man apply himſelf more fiercely to Chriſt) is firſt by way of caution, that we miſtake not a motive for an efficient, an impulſive for a principal cauſe. For where we ſay, It makes him apply himſelf, &c.] we mean not that the encreaſe of ſin produces faith formally, but only inciteth to believe by way of inſtruction, by ſhewing us what diſtreſs we are in, and conſequently, in what a neceſſity of a deliverer. The meditation of our ſinful courſes may diſcloſe our miſery, not redreſs it; may explore, not mend a Sinner, like a touchſtone to try, not any way to alter him. It is the controuling ſpirit which muſt effectually renew our ſpirits, and lead us to the Chriſt, which our ſins told us we had need of. The ſenſe of ſin may rouze the Soul, but it is the ſpirit of God that lays the toils; the feeling of our guilt may beat the Waters, but it is the great Fiſher of our Souls which ſpreads the Net, which entraps us as we are in our way to Hell, and leads us captive to ſalvation. The mere gripings of our Conſcience being not produced by any Pharmacon of the ſpirit, but by ſome diſtemper ariſing from ſin, what anxiety doth it cauſe within us? What pangs and twinges to the Soul? O Lord, do thou regenerate us, and then, thy holy ſpirit ſhall ſanctifie even our ſins unto our good; and if thy grace may lead us, our ſins ſhall purſue and drive us unto Chriſt. Secondly, By way of character, how to diſtinguiſh a true convert from a falſe. A man which from an inveterate deſperate malady ſhall meet with a miraculous unexpected cure, will naturally have ſome art of expreſſion above an ordinary joy; you ſhall ſee him in an ecſtaſie of thankſgiving and exultancy, whilſt another, which was never in that diſtreſs, quietly enjoys the ſame health, and gives thanks ſoftly by himſelf to his preſerver. So is it in the diſtreſſes of the Soul, which if they have been exceſſive, and almoſt beyond hope of recovery; as the miracle muſt, ſo will the expreſſion of this deliverance be ſomewhat extraordinary. The Soul which from a good moral or leſs ſinful natural eſtate, is magis immutata quam genita, rather chang'd than regenerate into a ſpiritual, goes through this buſineſs without any great noiſe, the ſpirit entring into it in a ſtill ſmall voice, or at a breathing: but when a robuſtous obdurate Sinner ſhall be rather apprehended than called, when the Sea ſhall be commanded to give up his ſhip-wrack't, and the Sepulchre to reſtore her dead, the Soul ſurely which thus eſcapeth, ſhall not be content with a mean expreſſion, but will practiſe all the Hallelujahs and Magnificats, which the triumphant Liturgies of the Saints can afford it. Wherefore, I ſay, if any one out of a full violent courſe of ſinning conceive himſelf converted and regenerated, let him examine what a degree of ſpiritual exultancy he hath attained to, and if he find it but mean, and ſlight, and perfunctory, let him ſomewhat ſuſpect, that he may the more confirm the evidence of his calling. Now this ſpiritual exultancy of the regenerate, conſiſts both in a ſolemn humiliation of himſelf, and a ſpiritual rejoycing in God his Saviour; both expreſt in Maries Magnificat, where ſhe ſpecifies in the midſt of her joy the lowlineſs of his handmaid, and in S. Pauls victory-ſong over Death. So that if the converſion of an inordinate Sinner be not accompanied with unwonted joy and ſorrow, with a godly ſenſe of his paſt diſtreſs, and a godly triumph for his delivery; if it be not followed with a violent eagerneſs to faſten on Chriſt; finally, if there be not ſomewhat above ordinary in the expreſſion, then I counſel not to diſtruſt, but fear, that is, with a ſollicitous, not ſuſpicious trembling, to labour to make thy calling and election ſure; to pray to that Holy Spirit to ſtrike our hearts with a meaſure of holy joy and holy ſorrow, ſome way proportionable to the ſize of thoſe ſins, which in our unregeneracy reigned in us; and for thoſe of us whom our ſins have ſeparated far from him, but his grace hath called home to him, that he will not ſuffer us to be content with a diſtance, but draw us cloſe unto himſelf, make us preſs toward the mark, and faſten our ſelves on that Saviour, which hath redeemed us from the body and guilt of this ſo great death. The third Uſe is of comfort and confirmation to ſome tender Souls who are incorporate into Chriſt, yet finding not in themſelves that exceſſive meaſure of humiliation which they obſerve in others, ſuſpect their own ſtate, and infinitely grieve that they can grieve no more. Whereas this Doctrine being obſerved, will be an allay to their ſorrow, and wipe ſome unneceſſary tears from their Eyes. For if the greatneſs of ſin paſt, or the plentiful relicks of ſin remaining, do require ſo great a meaſure of ſorrow, to expiate the one, and ſubdue the other; if it be a deliverance from an habituate ſervitude to all manner of ſin, which provokes this extraordinary pains of expreſſion; then certainly they who have been brought up with the ſpirit, which were from their baptiſm never wholly deprived of it, need not to be bound over to this trade of ſorrow, need not to be ſet apart to that perpetual humiliation, which a more ſtubborn ſin or Devil is wont to be caſt out by. I doubt not but a ſoul educated in familiarity with the ſpirit, may at once enjoy her ſelf and it; and ſo, that if it have an humble conceit of it ſelf, and a filial of God, may in Earth poſſeſs God with ſome clearneſs of look, ſome ſerenity of affections, ſome alacrity of heart, and tranquillity of ſpirit. God delights not in the torment of his children, (though ſome are ſo to be humbled) yea, he delights not in ſuch burnt-offerings, as they beſtow upon him, who deſtroy, and conſume, and ſacrifice themſelves; but the Lords delight is in them that fear him filially, and put their truſt, i. e. aſſurance, confidence in his mercy; in them that rejoice, that make their ſervice a pleaſure, not an affliction, and thereby poſſeſs Heaven before they come to it. 'Tis obſerved in husbandry, that ſoyl, laid on hard, barren, ſtarved ground, doth improve it, and at once deface and enrich it, which yet in ground naturally fruitful, and kept in heart, and good caſe, is eſteemed unneceſſary and burthenſom. You need not the application. Again, the husbandman can mend a dry, ſtubborn, wayward, fruitleſs earth, by overflowing of it, and on ſuch indeed is his ordinary requiſite diſcipline, to puniſh it for its amendment. But there is a ground otherwiſe well tempered, which they call a weeping ground, whence continually water ſoaks out, and this proves ſeldom fruitful (if our learned Husbandmen obſerve aright) wherefore there is ſometime need of draining, as well as watering. The application is, that your Soul which either hath been naturally dry and barren, or elſe over-wrought in the buſineſs of the World, needs a flood of tears to ſoften and purge it. But the well temper'd Soul which hath never been out of heart, but hath always had ſome inward life, ſome fatneſs of, and nouriſhment from the ſpirit, is rather oppreſt than improved by ſuch an overflow. The Chriſtian is thereby much hindred in his progreſs of good works, and cannot ſerve the Lord with alacrity, that ſo perpetually hangs down his head like a Bulruſh. Wherefore, the Country rule is, that that ground is beſt which is mellow, which being cruſht will break, but not crumble, diſſolve, but not exceſſively. Hence, I ſay, the habituate believer need not ſuſpect his eſtate, if he find not in himſelf ſuch an extremity of violent grief, and humiliation, as he obſerves in others; knowing, that in him ſuch a meaſure of tears would both ſoil the face of his devotion, and clog the exerciſe of it. His beſt mediocrity will be to be habitually humbled, but actually lively and alacrious in the ways of godlineſs; not to be too rigid and ſevere a Tyrant over his Soul, but to keep it in a temper of Chriſtian ſoftneſs, tender under the hand of God, and yet man-like and able both in the performance of Gods worſhip and his own calling. And whenſoever we ſhall find our ſelves in either extreme, either too much hardned, or too much melted, too much elevated, or too much dejected; then to pray to that Holy Spirit, ſo to faſhion the temper of our Souls, that we neither fail in humbling our ſelves in ſome meaſure for our ſins, nor yet too cowardly deject and caſt down our ſelves, below the courage, and comfort, and ſpiritual rejoycing which he hath preſcribed us. "O Holy Lord, "we are the greateſt of Sinners, and therefore we humble our ſelves before thee; but thou haſt "ſent thy Chriſt into the World to ſave Sinners, and therefore we raiſe up our ſpirits again, and "praiſe,

lead

II. Jo. xx. 22.

III.

" praiſe, and magnifie thy name. And thus much of this point, and in brief, of the firſt conſideration of theſe words, to wit, as they are abſolutely a profeſſion of Paul himſelf, to which end we beheld him in his double eſtate, converted and unconverted. In his unconverted ſtate we found, though a very great Sinner, yet not abſolutely greater than thoſe times brought forth, and therefore we were to think of him relatively to his future eſtate, and ſo we found him the greateſt Sinner that ever was called in the New Teſtament into ſo glorious a Saint. Whence we obſerve the rarity of ſuch converſions, that though Saul were, yet every blaſphemous Sinner could not expect to be called from the depth of ſin to regeneracy and ſalvation: and this we proved, both againſt the ancient Romans, and modern Cenſors of morality, and applied it to the care which we ought to have, of keeping our unregeneracy ſpotleſs from any reigning ſin. Afterward we came to Paul converted, where we balk't the Diſcourſe of the condition of ſin in the regenerate, and rather obſerved the effect of it; and in it, that the greatneſs of his ſin made (as Paul, ſo) every regenerate man more eagerly to faſten on Chriſt. Which being proved by a double ground, we applied firſt by way of caution, how that propoſition was to be underſtood; 2. By way of character, how a great Sinner may judge of his ſincere certain Converſion; 3. By way of comfort to others, who find not the effects of humiliation and the like in themſelves, in ſuch meaſure as they ſee in others; and ſo we have paſt through the firſt conſideration of theſe words, being conceived abſolutely as St. Pauls profeſſion of himſelf, we ſhould come to the other conſideration, as they are ſet down to us as a pattern or form of confeſſing the eſtate, and applying the Salvation of Sinners to our ſelves, which buſineſs requiring the pains, and being worthy the expence of an entire hour, we muſt defer to a ſecond exerciſe.

Now the God which hath created us, hath elected, redeemed, called, juſtified us, will ſanctifie us in his time, will proſper this his ordinance, will direct us by his grace to his glory; To him be aſcribed due the honour, the praiſe, the glory, the dominion, which through all ages of the world have been given to him that ſitteth on the Throne, to the Holy Spirit, and Lamb for evermore.

Pars

Pars Secunda.

SERMON XIX.

1 TIM. I. 15.

Of whom I am the chief.

IN all Humane Writings and Learning, there is a kind of poverty and emptineſs, which makes them, when they are beheld by a Judicious Reader, look ſtarved and Creſt-faln; their Speeches are rather puft up than fill'd, they have a kind of boaſting and oſtentation in them, and promiſe more ſubſtance and matter to the Ear, than they are able to perform really to the underſtanding: whence it falls out, that we are more affected with them at the firſt hearing, and, if the Orator be clear in his expreſſion, we underſtand as much at the firſt recital, as we are able to do at the hundredth repetition. But there is a kind of Excellency in the Scripture, a kind of ὕψος, or ſublimity above all other Writings in the World. The reading of every Section of it, leaves a ſting in the mind, and a perpetual conceit of a ſtill imperfect underſtanding of it. An intelligent man at every view finds in it a freſh myſtery, and ſtill perceives that there is ſomewhat beyond, not yet attain'd to: like men digging in Mines, the deeper he dives he finds the greateſt treaſure, and meets with that under ground, which looking on the outward turf, or ſurface, he never imagined to have been there. This I obſerve unto you, to ſhew you the riches both of all, and eſpecially of this Scripture, whereinto the deeper I dig, the more Ore I find: and having already beſtowed one hour in the diſcuſſing of it; without any violence, or wreſting, or wire-drawing, find plenty of new materials.

We have already handled the Words at large in one conſideration, as they are a profeſſion of Paul himſelf; I will not repeat you the particular occurrents. We now without any more delay of Preface, come to the ſecond conſideration of them, as they are ſpoken by Paul reſpectively to us, i. e. as they are preſcribed us for a form of confeſſing the eſtate, and applying the Salvation of Sinners unto our ſelves, teaching each of us for a cloſe of our Faith and Devotion, to confeſs, Of all, &c.

Where firſt, the cadence, or manner how Paul falls into theſe words, is worthy to be both obſerved and imitated: the chief and whole buſineſs of this Verſe being the truth, the acceptable truth of Chriſts Incarnation, with the end of it, the ſaving of ſinners; He can no ſooner name this word ſinners, but his exceeding melting tenderneſs abruptly falls off, and ſubſumes, Of all ſinners, &c. If there be any thing that concerns Sinners, I am ſure I have my part in that, for of that number I am the chief. The note by the way briefly is, that a tender conſcience never hears of the name of ſinner, but ſtraight applies it to it ſelf. It is noted by Ariſtotle, the Maſter of Humane Learning, that that Rhetorick was very thin and unprofitable, very poor and like to do little good upon mens affections, which inſiſted on general matters, and deſcended not to particulars; as if one ſhould Diſcourſe of ſin in general, and Sinners, without reference to this or that particular ſin or Sinner; and the reaſon of his note was, becauſe men are not moved or ſtirred with this Eloquence. The intemperate perſon could hear a declamation againſt Vice, and never be affected with it, unleſs it ſtooped to take notice of his particular enormities; and ſo it is with other Criminals. This reaſon of his, was grounded upon the obdurateneſs of mens hearts, which would think that nothing concerned them, but what was framed againſt the individual Offender, all ſuch being as dull and unapt to underſtand any thing, that being applied might move or prick them, as men are to take notice of a common national judgment, which we never duly weigh, till we ſmart under it in particular. This ſenſeleſſneſs may alſo ſeem to have been amongſt St. Paul's Corinthians, which made him uſe Ariſtotles counſel, in driving his Speech home to their private perſons, 1 Cor. vi. Where telling them, that neither Fornicators nor Idolaters, and the like, ſhall inherit the Kingdom of God; for fear they ſhould not be ſo tender-conſcienced, as of their own accords to apply theſe ſins to themſelves, and read themſelves guilty in that glaſs; he is fain to ſupply that office, and plainly tell them, what otherwiſe perhaps they would not have conceived, and ſuch were ſome of you, ver. 11. This ſenſeleſs hard-heartedneſs or backwardneſs in applying the either commands or threatnings of the Law to ones ſelf, is by the Apoſtle called, νοῦς ἀδόκιμος, which we ordinarily tranſlate a reprobate mind, but may be brought to ſignify a mind without judgment, that hath no faculty of diſcerning, that cannot in a general threatning, obſerve ſomething that may concern the danger of his particular ſtate: or as it may be rendred, a mind without ſenſe, not apprehenſive of thoſe things which are manifeſtly propoſed to them, like thoſe walking Idols deſcribed by the Pſalmiſt, Eyes have they and ſee not, Ears and hear not, Noſes and ſmell not, only beautiful Carcaſſes of Chriſtians, which have nothing but their ſhape and motion to perſwade you that they live: unleſs we add this moſt unhappy ſymptom, which indicates a ſtate more wretched far than Death it ſelf, that there is ſtrength and vigour to oppoſe recovery, that amidſt Death there yet ſurvives a hatred, and antipathy to Life. In ſuch a Soul as this, there is a perpetual

τὰ καθόλου

τὰ καθ' ἕκαστα

Ver. 10. 11.

Pſa. cxv.

tual re-action, an impatience of the preſence of any thing which may traſh, incumber, or oppreſs it: a judgment or denunciation is but caſt away upon it, it ſhall be ſure to return unprofitably, and neither move nor mend it. This hath been, and much more might be obſerved to you, of the carriage of the hard, ſtupid heart, toward either Scripture or Preacher, to the plain opening of this point; for you ſhall more clearly underſtand the tender heart, by obſerving the obdurate, and learn to be affected aright with Gods Law or puniſhments, by knowing and hating the oppoſite ſtubborn ſenſeleſsneſs. Now in brief, this tender heart in the diſcovery of a ſin, or denunciation of a judgment, needs not a particular, Thou art the man] to bring it home to his perſon: The more wide, and general the propoſal is, the more directly and effectually is this ſtruken with it. In a common Satyre or Declamation againſt ſin in general, it hath a ſudden art of Logick, to anatomize and branch this ſin in general, into all its parts; and then to lay each of them to its own charge; it hath a skill of making every paſſage in the Scripture, a glaſs to eſpy ſome of her deformities in, and cannot ſo much as mention that ordinary name of ſin or Sinner, without an extraordinary affection, and unrequired accuſation of it ſelf. Of all ſinners, &c. The plain reaſon of this effect in the tender heart is, firſt, becauſe it is tender. The ſoft and accurate parts of a mans body, do ſuffer without re-action, i. e. do yield at the appearance of an Enemy, and not any way put forward to repell him. Theſe being fixt on by a Bee, or the like, are eaſily penetrated by the ſting, and are ſo far from reſiſting of it, that they do in a manner draw it to them, and by their free reception allure it to enter ſo far, that the owner can ſeldom ever recover it back again. Whereas on a dead Carkaſe, a thick or callous member of the body, a Bee may fix and not forfeit her ſting. So doth a tender heart never reſiſt or defend it ſelf againſt a ſtroke, but attenuates its ſelf, layes wide open its pores, to facilitate its entrance; ſeems to woo a threatning, to prick, and ſting, and wound it ſharply, as if it rejoyced in, and did even court thoſe torments, which the ſenſe of ſin or judgment thus produced.

Again, a tender heart ordinarily meets with more blows, more oppreſſions than any other: its very paſſiveneſs provokes every ones malice; the fly and duſt, as if it were by a kind of natural inſtinct, drive directly at the Eye, and no member about you ſhall be oftener rubb'd or diſorder'd, than that which is raw or diſtempered; the reaſon being, becauſe that which is not worthy notice to another part, is an affliction to this, and a mote which the hand obſerves not, will torment the eye. So is it with the Conſcience, whoſe tenderneſs doth tempt every piece of Scripture to afflict it, and is more incumbred with the leaſt atome of ſin or threat, than the more hardned ſinner is with a beam or Mountain.

Thirdly, One that hath any ſolemn buſineſs to do, will not paſs by any opportunity of means, which may advantage him in it. One that hath a ſearch to make, will not ſlip any evidence which may concur to the helping of his diſcovery; one that hath any Treatiſe to write, will be ready to apply any thing that ever he reads, to his Theme or purpoſe. Now the ſearch, the diſcourſe, the whole imployment of a tender heart, is the enquiry after the multitude of its ſins, and in ſumm, the aggravation of each particular guilt, in and againſt it ſelf, that ſo having ſufficiently loaded it ſelf, and being tyred with the weight and burthen of its ſins, it may in ſome meaſure perform the condition which Chriſt requires of them which come to him, and be prepared to receive that eaſe, which Chriſt hath promiſed to the weary and heavy laden. So then if the tender Conſcience doth never repell, or reverberate any mention of ſin, but doth draw out the ſting of it to its length; if it be much affected with the leaſt atome of ſin, and therefore meets with frequent diſorders; if laſtly, it make its imployment to gather out of all the Scripture, thoſe places which may advantage her in the ſight and ſenſe of her ſins: then certainly doth ſhe never hear of the name of ſinner, but ſtraight ſhe applies it to her ſelf, which was the point we undertook to ſhew.

Mat. xi. 28.

The direct uſe of this Propoſition is for a κρίσις, or judgment of our eſtate. 'Tis obſerved in the body, that the reſt of the ſenſes may be diſtempered, and loſt without impairing of it, but only the touch cannot, which therefore they call the ſenſe of life, becauſe that part or body which is deprived of feeling, is alſo at Deaths Door, and hath no more life in it, than it hath reliques of this ſenſe. So is it alſo in ſpiritual matters: of all other ſymptomes this of ſenſeleſneſs is moſt dangerous, and as the Greek Phyſicians are wont to ſay of a deſperate Diſeaſe, ὀλίθριον κάρτα λίαν, very very mortal. This feeling tenderneſs is neceſſary to the life of grace, and is an inſeparable both effect and argument of it. Wherefore I ſay, for the judgment of your ſelves, obſerve how every piece of Scripture works upon you. If you can paſs over a Catalogue of ſins and judgments, without any regret, or reluctancy, if you can read Sodom and Gomorrha, Babylon and the Harlot Jeruſalem, and not be affected with their ſtories, if thou canſt be the Auditor of other mens faults, without any ſenſe or griping of thine own, if the name of ſin or Sinner be unto thee but as a Jeſt or Fable, not worthy thy ſerious notice; then, fear thy affections want of that temper, which the ſoftning ſpirit is wont to beſtow where it reſts, and accordingly, as thou findeſt this tenderneſs increaſing or waining in thee, either give thanks or pray: either give thanks for the plenty of that ſpirit which thou enjoyeſt, or in the ſenſe of thy wants importune it, that God will give us ſoftned relenting hearts, that the recital of other mens ſins may move us, other mens judgments may ſtrike us, other mens repentance melt us with a ſenſe, with a confeſſion, with a contrition of our own. But above all, O Holy Spirit, from hardneſs of heart, from an undiſcerning, reprobate ſpirit, from a contempt, nay neglect, a not obſerving of thy Word, as from the danger of Hell, Good Lord deliver us.

And thus much of this point, of this effect of a tender heart, noted to you out of the cadence of the words. I now come to obſerve ſomewhat more real out of the main of the words themſelves, Of whom, &c. We find not our Apoſtle here complementing with himſelf, either excuſing or attenuating his guilt, but as it were glorying in the meaſure of his ſins, ſtriving for preeminence above all other Sinners, challenging it as his right, and as eager upon the preferment, as his Fellow-Labourer Peter his Succeſſor for a Primacy (as he profeſſes) of all Biſhops, yea the whole Church; ſo our Apoſtle here, Of all ſinners I am the chief. The note briefly is this, That every one is to aggravate the meaſure and number of his ſins againſt himſelf, and as near as he can, obſerve how his guilt exceedeth other mens. This was S. Pauls practice, and our pattern, not to be gazed on but followed, not to be diſcuſt, but imitated. In the Diſcourſe whereof I ſhall not labour to prove you the neceſſity of this practice, which yet I might do out of Davids Example in his penitential Pſalms, eſpecially 51. out of Nehemiahs Confeſſion, and the like; but taking this as ſuppoſed, I ſhall rather mix doctrine, and reaſon, and uſe, altogether, in preſcribing ſome forms of aggravating our ſelves to our ſelves; yet not deſcending to a particular diſſection of ſin into all its parts, but dealing only on general heads, equally appliable to all men, briefly reducible to theſe two, 1. Original ſin, or the ſin of our nature, of which we are all equally guilty; 2. Perſonal ſin, grounded in and terminated to each mans perſon.

eth

For Original ſin, it is the Fathers complaint, and ought more juſtly to be ours of theſe times, that there is no reckoning made of it, 'tis ſeldom thought worthy to ſupply a ſerious place in our humiliation; 'tis mentioned only for faſhions ſake, and as it were to ſtop Gods mouth, and to give him ſatisfaction, or palliate the guilt of our wilful Rebellions; not on any real apprehenſion, that its cure and remedy in Baptiſm is a conſiderable benefit, or the remanent weakneſs (after the killing venome is abated) were more than a trivial diſadvantage. So that we have a kind of need of original clearneſs of underſtanding, to judge of the foulneſs of original ſin, and we cannot ſufficiently conceive our loſs, without ſome recovery of thoſe very faculties we forfeited in it. But that we may not be wilfully blind in a matter that ſo imports us, that we may underſtand ſomewhat of the nature and dangerous condition of this ſin, you muſt conceive Adam, who committed this firſt ſin, in a double reſpect, either as one particular man, or as containing in his Loyns the whole nature of man, all mankind, which ſhould ever come from him. Adams particular ſin, i. e. his perſonal diſobedience is wonderfully aggravated by the Fathers, 1. From his original juſtice, which God had beſtowed on him; 2. From the near familiarity with God, which he injoyed, and then loſt; 3. From the perpetual bleſt eſtate, which had it not been for this diſobedience, he might for ever have lived in; 4. From the purity and integrity of his Will, which was then void of all ſinful deſire; which otherwiſe might have tempted to this diſobedience; 5. From the eaſineſs of both remembring and obſerving the Commandment, it being a ſhort prohibition, and only to abſtain from one Tree, where there was ſuch plenty beſides; 6. From the nature and circumſtances of the offence, by which the Fathers do refer it to all manner of hainous ſins, making it to contain a breach of almoſt each moral Law, all which were then written in the tables of his heart, and therefore concluding it to be an aggregate or mixture of all thoſe ſins which we have ſince ſo reiterated, and ſo many times ſinn'd over. So then this perſonal ſin of Adam was of no mean ſize, not to be reckoned of as an every dayes offence, as an ordinary breach, or the meer eating of an apple. In the next place, as Adam was no private perſon, but the whole humane nature, ſo this ſin is to be conſidered either in the root, or in the fruit, in its ſelf, or in its effects. In its ſelf, ſo all mankind, and every particular man, is, and in that name muſt humble himſelf as concerned in the eating of that fruit, which only Adams teeth did faſten on; is to deem himſelf bound to be humbled for that pride, that curioſity, that diſobedience, or whatſoever ſin elſe can be contained in that firſt great tranſgreſſion; and count you this nothing, to have a ſhare in ſuch a ſin, which contains ſuch a multitude of Rebellions? 'Tis not a ſlight, perfunctory humiliation that can expiate, not a ſmall labour that can deſtroy this monſter which is ſo rich in heads, each to be cut off by the work of a ſeveral repentance. Now in the laſt place, as this ſin of all mankind in Adam is conſidered in its effects, ſo it becomes to us a body of ſin and death, a natural diſorder of the whole man, an hoſtility and enmity of the fleſh againſt the ſpirit, and the parent of all ſin in us, as may appear Rom. vii. and Jam. 1. 14. Which that you may have a more compleat underſtanding of, conſider it as it is ordinarily ſet down, conſiſting of three parts, 1. A natural defect, 2. A moral affection, 3. A legal guilt, i. e. a guiltineſs of the breach of the Law; for theſe three (whatſoever you may think of them) are all parts of that ſin of our nature, which is in, and is to be imputed to us, called ordinarily original ſin in us, to diſtinguiſh it from that firſt act committed by Adam, of which this is an effect. And firſt, that natural defect is a total loſs, and privation of that primitive juſtice, holineſs and obedience, which God had furniſht the Creature withal; a diſorder of all the powers of the Soul, a darkneſs of the underſtanding, a perverſeneſs of the will, a debility, weakneſs, and decay of all the ſenſes, and in ſumm, a poverty and deſtruction, and almoſt a nothingneſs of all the powers of Soul and Body. And how ought we to lament this loſs with all the veins of our heart? to labour for ſome new ſtrain of expreſſing our ſorrow, and in fine, to petition that rich grace, which may build up all theſe ruines? to pray to God that his Chriſt may purchaſe and beſtow on us new abilities? that the ſecond Adam may furniſh us with more durable powers and laſting graces, than we had, but forfeited in the firſt? The following part of this ſin of our nature, viz. A moral evil affection, is word for word mentioned, Rom. vii. 5. For there the Greek words, παθήματα ἁμαρτιῶν, ordinarily tranſlated motions of ſins, and in the margin the paſſions of ſins, are more ſignificantly to be rendred affections of ſins, i. e. by an uſual figure, ſinful affections. That you may the better obſerve the encumbrances of this branch of this ſin, which doth ſo over ſhadow the whole man, and ſo fence him from the beams and light of the ſpiritual inviſible Sun, I am to tell you that the very Heathen that lived without the knowledge of God, had no converſation with, and ſo no inſtruction from the Bible in this matter, that theſe very Heathens I ſay, had a ſenſe of this part of original ſin, to wit, of theſe evil moral luſts and affections, which they felt in themſelves, though they knew not whence they ſprang. Hence is it that a Greek Philoſopher out of the antients, makes a large Diſcourſe of the unſatiable deſire and luſt which is in every man, and renders his life grievous unto him, where he uſeth the very ſame word, though with a ſignificant Epithet added to it, that S. James doth c. 1. ver. 15. ἀπέγνω ἐπιθυμία, infinite luſt, with which, as S. James ſaith, a man is drawn away and enticed, ἐξελκόμενος καὶ δελεαζόμενος, ſo ſaith he, that part of the mind in which theſe luſts dwell, is perſwaded and drawn, or rather fall backward and forward, ἄνω καὶ κάτω μεταπίπτει καὶ ἀναπείθεται, which luſt or evil concupiſcence he at laſt defines to be, ἀκολασία τοῦ τετυμμένου πάθους διὰ τὴν ἀπληστίαν ἀπλησμονή, an unſatiable intemperance of the appetite, never filled with a deſire, never ceaſing in the * perſecution of evil; and again he calls it, πλεονεξίαν

Aug. de Civ. 21. 12.

Ib. l. 14. c. 12.

Vid. Leon. p. 143.

Rom. vii. 5.

Sub. pro Adjun.

Iambl. Protrept. p. 102. c. 17.

Jam. c. 1.

* Proſecution. P. 136.

φυσικὴν ἡμῖν ἔξωθεν γένεσιν, our birth and nativity derived to us by our parents, i. e. an evil affection hereditary to us, and delivered to us as a Legacy at our Birth and Nativity: all which ſeems a clear expreſſion of that original luſt, whoſe motions they felt, and gueſt at its nature. Hence is it, that it was a cuſtom among all of them, I mean the common Heathen, to uſe many ways of purgations, eſpecially on their children, who at the impoſition of their names, were to be luſtrated and purified with a great deal of ſuperſtition and ceremony, ſuch like as they uſed to drive away a plague, or a cure for an Houſe or City. As if nature by inſtinct had taught them ſo much Religion, as to acknowledge and deſire to cure in every one this hereditary diſeaſe of the ſoul, this plague of man's heart, as 'tis 1 Kin. viii. 38. called 1 Kings viii. 38. And in ſumm, the whole learning of the Wiſeſt of them (ſuch were the Socrates, &c. Moraliſts) was directed to the governing and keeping in order of theſe evil affections, which they
Max. Tyrius. called the unruly citizens and common people of the ſoul, whoſe intemperance and diſorders they plainly obſerved within themſelves, and laboured hard to purge out, or ſubdue to the government of reaſon, and virtue; which two we more fully enjoy, and more Chriſtianly call the power of grace, redeeming our Souls from this Body of ſin. Thus have I briefly ſhewed you the ſenſe that the very Heathen had of this ſecond branch of original ſin, which needs therefore no farther aggravation to you but this, that they who had neither Spirit nor Scripture to inſtruct them, did naturally ſo feel-
Eurip. ingly obſerve and curſe it, that by reaſon of it they eſteemed their whole life but a living death, τὶς οἶδεν εἰ τὸ ζῆν μὲν ἐστὶ κατθανεῖν, τὸ κατθανεῖν δὲ ζῆν; and their body but the Sepulchre of the ſoul, τὸ σῶμα ἐστὶν ἡμῶν σῆμα, ᾗ γὰρ ἡμεῖς τὸ ὄντι τεθνᾶμεν, both which together are but a periphraſis of that which S. Paul calls in brief the body of death. And ſhall we who have obtained plenty of light and inſtruction, beſides that which nature beſtowed on us with them, ſhall we, I ſay, let our Eyes be confounded with abundance of day? ſhall we ſee it more clearly, to take leſs notice of it? Shall we feel the ſtings of ſin within us (which though they do but prick the regenerate, prove mortal to the reſt of us) and ſhall we not obſerve them? Shall we not rather weep thoſe Fountains dry, and crop this luxury of our affections with a ſevere, ſharp ſorrow and humiliation? Shall we not ſtarve this rank, fruitful Mother of Vipers, by denying it all nouriſhment from without, all advantages of temptations and the like which it is wont to make uſe of, to beget in us all manner of ſin? let us aggravate every circumſtance and inconvenience of it to our ſelves, and then endeavour to baniſh it out of us, and when we find we are not able, importune that ſtrong aſſiſtant the Holy Spirit, to curb and ſubdue it, that in the neceſſity of reſiding, it yet may not reign in our mortal bodies; to tame and abate the power of this neceſſary Amorite, and free us from the activity and miſchief, and temptations of it here, and from the puniſhment and imputation of it hereafter. And ſo I come to the third part, or brach of this original ſin, to wit, its legal guilt, and this we do contract by ſuch an early prepoſſeſſion, that it outruns all other computations of our life. We carry a body of ſin about us, before we have one of fleſh, have a decrepit, weak old man with all his crazy train of affections and luſts, before
Pſa. li. 5. even infancy begins. Behold ſaith the Pſalmiſt, Pſal. li. 5. I was ſhapen in iniquity, and in ſin did my mother conceive me; as if guilt were the plaſtick power that formed us, and wickedneſs the Minera and Element of our being, as if it were that little moving point, which the curious enquirers into nature, find to be the rudiment of animation, and pants not then for life, but luſt, and endleſs death.
Jam. i 15. So that the ſaying of St. James c. i. 15. ſeems a deſcription of our natural birth, When luſt hath conceived, it bringeth forth ſin, and ſin when it is finiſhed, bringeth forth death. Nor does this haſty inmate leave us when grown up: no, it improves its rancour againſt God and goodneſs, mixes with cuſtom, paſſion, and example, and whatever thing is apt to lead us unto miſchief, fomenting all the wild deſires of our inferiour brutal part, till it become at laſt an equal and profeſt Enemy, making open hoſtility, ſetting up its Sconces, fortifying it ſelf with munition and defence, as meaning to try the quarrel with God, and pretending right to man, whom God doth but uſurp. Thus ſhall you ſee it encampt, and ſetting up its banners for tokens, under that proud name of another law, Rom. vii. 23. I ſee another law in my members, warring againſt the law of my mind, and as if it had got the better of the day, bringing me into captivity to the law of ſin, which is in the members, i. e. unto its ſelf. And ſhall we feel ſuch an Enemy within us, laying ſiege at God and grace in us, and fiercely reſolving, whether by deceit or battery to captivate us unto himſelf, and ſhall we not take notice of him? Shall we not think it worthy our pains and expence, to defeat him, or ſecure our ſelves? Beloved, that will be the beſt ſtratagem for the taking of this Enemy, which is now adays moſt ordinary in Sieges, to block up all paſſages, and hinder all acceſs of freſh proviſion, and ſo, by denying this greedy devourer all nouriſhment from without, to ſtarve and pine him into ſuch a tameneſs, that he may be taken without reſiſtance; which how really you may perform by theſe means of mortification and repentance preſcribed you in Scripture, you ſhall better learn by your own practice than my diſcourſe.

The fourth aggravation of this guilt is, that its minera and fewel lurks even in a regenerate man,
1 Cor. ix. 27. wretched, &c. and enforceth Paul into a conflict, a War againſt himſelf. And is it poſſible for one otherwiſe happy (as the regenerate man inwardly ſurely is) to ſleep ſecurely, and never to try a Field with the Author of its ſo much miſery, or finding it to be within its ſelf, part of it ſelf, not to think it a ſin worthy repentance, and ſorrow, by which Gods Holy Spirit is ſo reſiſted, ſo affronted, and almoſt quelled and caſt out?

Fifthly and laſtly, the guilt of it appears by the effects of it, 1. inclination, 2. conſent to evil: for even every inclination to ſin, without conſent, is an irregularity and kind of ſin, i. e. an averſion of ſome of our faculties from God; all which ſhould directly drive amain to him and goodneſs. That ſervant which is commanded with all ſpeed and earneſtneſs, to go about any thing, offends againſt his Maſters Precept, if he any way incline to diſobedience, if he perform his commands with any regret or reluctancy Now ſecondly, conſent is ſo natural a conſequent of this evil inclination, that in a man you can ſcarce diſcern, much leſs ſever them. No man hath any inordinate luſt, but doth give ſome kind of conſent to it, the whole will being ſo infected with this luſt, that that can no ſooner bring forth evil motions, but this will be ready at hand with evil deſires: and then, how evident a guilt, how plain a breach of the Law it is, you need not mine eyes to teach you. Thus have I inſiſted ſomewhat largely on the branches of Original ſin, which I have ſpread and ſtretcht the wider, that I might furniſh you with more variety of aggravations on each member of it, which I think may be of important uſe, for this or any other popular Auditory, becauſe this ſin ordinarily is ſo little thought of, even in our ſolemneſt humiliations. When you profeſs that you are about the buſineſs of repentance, you cannot be perſwaded that this common ſin, which Adam, as you reckon, only ſinned, hath any effect on you. I am yet afraid that you ſtill hardly believe that you are truly, and in earneſt to be ſorry for it, unleſs the Lord ſtrike our hearts with an exact ſenſe, and profeſt feeling of this ſin of our nature, and corruption of our kind. "And ſuffer us not, O Lord, to nou-"riſh in our ſelves ſuch a torpor, a ſluggiſhneſs and ſecurity, leſt it drive us headlong to all manner "of hard-heartedneſs, to commit actual ſins, and that even with greedineſs.

inſiſted

And ſo I come briefly to a view of each mans perſonal ſins, I am the chief: where I might rank all manner of ſins into ſome forms or ſeats, and then urge the deformity of each of them ſingle and naked to your view; but I will for the preſent, preſume your underſtandings ſufficiently inſtructed in the heinouſneſs of each ſin forbidden by the Commandments. For others, who will make more or leſs ſins than the Scripture doth, I come not to ſatisfy them, or decide their Caſes of Conſcience. In brief, I will propoſe to your practice only two forms of confeſſing your ſins, and humbling your ſelves for them, which I deſire you to aggravate to your ſelves, becauſe I have not now the leiſure to beat them low, or deep to your Conſciences. Beſides original ſin already ſpoken of, you are to lay hard to your own charges, firſt, your particular chief ſins, ſecondly, all your ordinary ſins in groſs. For the firſt, obſerve but that one admirable place in Solomons Prayer at the dedication of the Temple: If there be in the land famine, &c. Whatſoever plague, whatſoever ſickneſs, what prayer or ſupplication ſoever be made by any man, or by all thy people Iſrael, which ſhall know every man the plague of his own heart, and ſpread forth his hand to this houſe; then hear thou in Heaven, &c. Where the condition of obtaining their requeſts from God is excellently ſet down, if they ſhall know, i. e. be ſenſible of, be ſorry for, and confeſs to God every man the plague of his own heart, that is, in the bulk and heap of their ſins, ſhall pick the faireſt loveliеſt ſin in the pack, the plague, i. e. the peſtilential, reigning, ſweeping offence, on which all the lower train of petty faults do wait and depend, do miniſter and ſuppeditate matter to work: If, I ſay, they ſhall take this Captain ſin, and anatomize, and cut up, and diſcover every branch of him without any fraud or concealment before the Lord, and then Sacrifice that dear darling, and with it their whole fleſhy luſt, as an Holocauſt, or whole Burnt-offering before the Lord: then will he hear from Heaven his dwelling place, and when he heareth, forgive even their other concealed ſins, becauſe they have diſcloſed ſo entirely, and parted ſo freely from that. For there is in every of us one maſter ſin that rules the rabble, one fatling which is fed with the choiceſt of our proviſion, one Captain of the Devils Troop, one the plague in every mans heart. This being ſincerely confeſt and diſplaid, and waſhed in a full ſtream of tears, for the lower more ordinary ſort, for the heap or bulk, we muſt uſe Davids penitential compendious art, Pſa. xix. 12. who overcome with the multitude of his ſins to be repeated, folds them all in this Prayer, Who can tell how oft he offendeth? &c. "And do thou, O Lord, work in us the ſincere acknowledgment of, "and contrition for both them, and the whole bundle of our unknown every days tranſgreſſions, and "having purged out of us thoſe more forward, known, notorious enormities, cleanſe us alſo from "our ſecret faults. And thus much be ſpoken of this Propoſition, that, and how every man is to aggravate the meaſure and number of his ſins againſt himſelf. The whole doctrine is, and in our whole Diſcourſe hath been handled for a ſtore of uſes; for in ſetting down how you are to aggravate your ſins, eſpecially your original ſin againſt your ſelves, I have ſpoken all the while to your affections, and will therefore preſume that you have already laid them up in your hearts to that purpoſe. Only take one pertinent uſe for a cloſe, which hath not been touched in the former diſcourſe. If every one be to aggravate his own ſins, and to reckon himſelf of all ſinners the chief; then muſt no man uſurp the priviledge to ſee or cenſure other mens ſins through a multiplying glaſs, i. e. double to what indeed they are, as moſt men do now adayes. What ſo frequent among thoſe, who are moſt negligent of their own wayes, as to be moſt ſevere inquiſitors of other mens? and to ſpy, and cenſure, and damn a mote or atome in another mans Eye, when their own is in danger to be put out by a Beam? Hence is it, that among lay-men the ſins of clergy are weighed according to the meaſure of the Sanctuary, which was provided for the paying of their Tithes, Lev. xxvii. 25. i. e. double the ordinary balance; and their own, if not under, at moſt according to the common weight of the Congregation. In a Miniſter every errour ſhall become an hereſy, every ſlip a crime, and every crime a ſacrilege; whereas, beloved, he that means to take out St. Pauls Leſſon, muſt extenuate every mans ſins but his own, or elſe his heart will give his tongue the ly, when it hears him ſay, Of all, &c.

1 Tim. i. 15. Pſal. xix. 12. Hooker p. 428.

And ſo much of this Doctrine of aggravating our ſins to our ſelves, which we are to perform in our daily audit betwixt us and our own Conſciences. There is another ſeaſonable obſervation behind in a word to be handled; this particle ὧν, of whom, hath a double relation, either to Sinners ſimply, and ſo it hath been handled already; or to Sinners as they are here ſet down, to wit, thoſe Sinners which Chriſt came into the World to ſave; and ſo St. Paul here is changed from the chief of Sinners to the chief of Saints, and then the Doctrine is become a Doctrine of comfort fit for a Concluſion, that he who can follow Pauls Example and Precept, can ſufficiently humble himſelf for his ſins, accept that faithful ſaying, and rightly lay hold on Chriſt, may aſſure himſelf that he is become a chief Saint, for ſo could Paul ſay, Of all ſinners I am the chief, and therefore of all thoſe Sinners that Chriſt came into the World to ſave, πρῶτός εἰμι, I am the chief too. I ſhall not diſcuſs this point at large, as being too wide to be comprehended in ſo poor a pittance of time, but ſhew the condition of it briefly. He that by Gods inward effectual working, is come to a clear ſight and accurate feeling of his ſins; that hath not ſpared any one minute [of] circumſtance for the diſcovery of them, not one point of aggravation for the humbling of himſelf, he that being thus prepared for his journey to Chriſt with his burthen on his back, ſhall then take his flight and keep upon the wing, till he fix firmly on him, may be as ſure that he ſhall dy the Death, and reign the Life of a Saint, as he is resolved that God is faithful in his promises: then may he live with this syllogism of confidence, not presumption in his mouth, 'Tis a faithful saying, that Christ came into the World to justify, sanctify, and save believing humbled sinners; but I find my self an humble and believing, and consequently, a justified, sanctified Sinner; therefore 'tis as certain a truth, that I shall be saved. And thus you see Pauls, I am the chief, interpreted by that assured perswasion, Rom. viii. 38. that neither death nor life, nor any creature shall be able to separate him, &c. I will not discuss the nature of this assurance, whether it be an act of faith or hope, only thus much, it seems to be derived or bestowed upon hope by Faith, an expectation of the performances of the promises grounded upon a firm Faith in them, and so to be either an eminent degree of Faith, or a confirmed Hope. The use of this point is, not to be content with this bare assurance, but to labour to confirm it to us by those effects which do

ſolved

Heb. iii. 6. ordinarily and naturally spring from it. Such are first joy, or glorying, mentioned Heb. iii. 6. the 1 Pet. i. 3. 6. confidence and rejoycing of your hope firm unto the end; secondly, a delight in God, mentioned, 1 Pet. i. 3. 6. a lively hope, &c. wherein ἀγαλλιᾶσθε, you exult, you greatly rejoice and are delighted; thirdly a patient adhering to God in a firm expectation of this state, even in the midst of all manner of Worldly
Isa. viii. 17. evils, mentioned Isa. viii. 17. I will wait upon the Lord which hideth his face, and I will look for him, i. e. I will wait his leisure patiently, for I am sure he will uncover his face. And Job more plainly
Rom. viii 25. and vehemently, Though he kill me, yet will I trust in him. So verbatim, Rom. viii. 25. then do we in
2 Thes. iii 5. patience wait for it, and 2 Thes. iii. 5. The patient waiting for Christ. Fourthly, As an effect of this patience, a silence and acquiescence in the Will of God, without any desire of hastning or altering any
Ps. xxxvii. 7. effect of it. So Psa. xxxvii. 7. Rest in the Lord, where the Hebrew hath it, be silent to the Lord, דום and wait patiently for him, i. e. as the consequents interpret it, quarrel not with God for any thing that happens according to his will, but against thine, as the prosperity of the wicked, and the like.
Heb. vi 17. Fifthly, A confirmation of the mind, as making our hope the anchor of our soul, sure and stedfast, Heb.
Luk. xxi. 19. vi. 17. that we may thereby in patience possess our souls, Luke xxi. 19. And lastly, a desire of sanctifying our selves, according to that
1 Jo. iii. 3. 1 Jo. iii. 3. Every man that hath this hope in him, purifies himself, even as Christ is pure. These six effects briefly set down, may be certain marks to you, by which you may judge how just grounds your assurance stands on, and whereby it is to be distinguished from presumption. "O Lord let the fulness of thy Holy Spirit overshadow us, and encrease our weaker Faith "into a richer measure of assurance, and our more fearful hopes into a degree of full perswasion "and certain expectation of those Visions that thou shalt reveal, and that blest estate that thou shalt "bestow upon us; and lest our confidence may either be or seem but a presumption, work in us those ef- "fects of patience, of silence, of joy, of delight, of confirmation of mind, and above all, a desire and "ability of sanctifying our lives unto thee.

Thus have I with all possible haste made an end of these words; and at this time, out of the cadence of them, observed to you the tenderness of St. Paul and every regenerate man, at the least mention of a sin or Sinner, illustrated by the opposite hardness of heart, proved of soft, tender parts of our body, and made use of for a crisis or judgment of our estate and livelyhood in grace. Secondly, out of the words themselves we observed the necessity, and method of aggravating our sins, especially original sin against our selves, which we made use of against those that are more quicksighted in other mens estates and guilts than their own. Thirdly, We closed all with that comfortable doctrine of assurance, discussed to you in brief with six effects of it, proposed for an Example to your care and imitation.

Now the God which hath created us, redeemed, called, justified us, will sanctifie in his time, will prosper this his ordinance to that end, will direct us by his grace to his glory; To him be ascribed due the honour, the praise, the glory, the dominion, which through all ages of the world have been given to him that sitteth on the Throne, to the Holy Spirit, and to the Lamb for evermore.

DISSER-

DISSERTATIONES QUATUOR,

QUIBUS

EPISCOPATUS JURA

EX

S. Scripturis & Primæva Antiquitate

ADSTRUUNTUR,

Contra Sententiam D. BLONDELLI

ET ALIORUM.

Quibus Præmittitur

Dissertatio Procœmialis,

DE

ANTICHRISTO,

De Mysterio Iniquitatis, de Diotrephe, & ὁ πρῶτος, de Gnosticis, sub Apostolorum ævo se prodentibus.

AUTHORE

Henrico Hammond, S. S. Theol. Professore,

PRESBYTERO ANGLICANO.

LONDINI:

Typis Tho. Newcomb, Impensis R. Royston Bibliopolæ Sacræ Regiæ Majestati, ad Insigne Angeli in Amen-Corner, & R. Davis Bibliopolæ Oxon. 1683.

EPISTOLA
AD
Virum Integerrimum.

§. 1. QUæris à me, vir Integerrime, quid rei ſit, aut quid in excuſationem noſtram apud exteros obtendi poſſit, quâ ratione, aut quibus demum patrociniis propugnanda Gentis exiſtimatio (ſeu potiùs cœli hominúmque invidia amolienda) ſit, quòd, cùm duo inter Reformatos magna nomina, Claudius Salmaſius, & David Blondellus, Epiſcoporum ordinem tam ſtrenuè & prolixè invaſerint, univerſa apud nos literatorum natio (quæ ſatis novit, non ſolùm fortunas & famam ſuas, verùm & ipſum corporis Chriſti κατάστημα cum dignitate iſtius ordinis conjuncta eſſe) tam profundo interim ſilentio rem omnem permiſerit, ex torpore ſeu veterno ſuo, quo jamdiu ſepulta gens apud proximos eviluit, nullâ hoſtium provocatione aut minis, nullâ calamorum, quaſi arundinum, apparatu, nullo pugnantium celeuſmate, nullis triumphantium vel Io canentium ἀλαλαγμοῖς excitanda.

§. 2. Nec certè diſſimulaverim, illud nobis expectandum fuiſſe, ut, qui res noſtras per decennium utrique regimini tam ſæculari, quàm Eccleſiaſtico adeò improſperè ſuccedentes, (Benigniſſimo Patre, ob impietates & Sacrilegia noſtra, ſic jubente) vel qui Genium Populi, & præcipuè literatorum apud Anglos ingenium è longinquo, & non ſuis, ſed aliorum oculis perluſtraverint, hanc nobis dicam impingerent.

§. 3. Verùm, cùm recognoverint viri boni, rerúmque, & exiſtimationum noſtrarum φιλοπόνοι indagatores, quàm non calamis hîc, ſed ſclopetis, non pacatis animorum, ſed ferocibus brachiorum impulſibus, res univerſa geſta fuerit, quàm nobis jamdiu nihil profuerint, imò quàm (miſerandâ ſorte) obfuerint firmiſſimarum rationum momenta, quibus contra populares & contribules noſtros (diſtrictis enſibus omnes controverſiarum nodos diſcindere paratos, nec ſyllogiſmis, ſed tormentis, bellicíſque omne genus machinis, acropoles noſtras impetentes) Epiſcoporum Jura, non indiligenter, ſed tamen fruſtra, tuebamur: Cùm rurſus meminerint (quemadmodum inſula hæc, naturâ contra exteros munita, eorum jamdiu formidinem abjecit, à quibus toto Pelago diviſa fuerit, ſic &) Eccleſiam Anglicanam, quamvis cum Univerſâ Primitivâ Eccleſiâ & cum aliis omnibus, quibus iſta non diſplicuit, concordiam intimam ſedulò colat, διτονομίας tamen jure gaudentem, & (ſub Monarchâ primùm, Fidei Defenſore, Chriſtique in Regno ipſius Vicario, dein, ſalvis Regni juribus, ſub Primate ſuo) διπλοκέφαλον, ſuis privilegiis munitam, ſuis columnis innixam, nullique externo tribunali ἀνυπεύθυνον, cauſam ſuam coram tranſmarinis actoribus neutiquam dicendam cenſuiſſe, nec quidem anxiè aut ſollicitè curaviſſe, quam de ipſâ (utcunque aſperam) ſententiam diſſentientium unus aut alter, injuſſus pronunciaverit: Cùm denique in mentem revocaverint, quantò magis in evolvendis, quàm ſcribendis libris Doctores, & Profeſſores noſtri operas & diligentiam ſuam exercuerint, quàm obnixè laboraverint omnigenâ lectione dogmata firmare, antiqua ſtatuminare, illúdque Nicenorum Patrum διάταγμα, [τὸ ἀρχαῖα ἔθη κρατεῖτω] Reformationis Aglicanæ fundum, pectoribus intimis imbibendum proponere, adeóque omnes, curæ ipſorum commiſſos, ex Scripturis & Patribus ad omnigenam puritatem, ſimúlque σωφρόνησιν inſtituere, nec tam inimicitias cum aliis, quàm cum ſuis, & univerſâ (quatenus per Dei verbum licuerit) Eccleſia Chriſti pacem cuſtodire; cum hæc, inquam, omnia ſolerti & pacatâ mente recoluerint, deſinent tandem mirari, aut portenti loco habere, quòd quibus nec animus, nec arma, nec calami, nec argumenta ad propulſandum omnem adverſariorum inſultum defuerint, iis tamen quandoque uti non placuerit, aut cum exteris, & curæ noſtræ neutiquam commiſſis, ſupervacaneam & inutilem miſcere diſputationem, cùm aſperioribus telis, & ex Vulcani, non Minervæ officinâ petitis, domi res tota ageretur.

§. 4. Nobis interim ex adverſo, nec enim diffitemur, cumulatiorem admirationis ſimul, ac querelarum materiam D. Blondellus ſuppeditavit, qui cùm Reformatæ in Galliâ Eccleſiæ defenſionem à contribulibus ſuis ipſi ſatis honorificè impoſitam in ſe receperit, ſimúlque à doctis hujus ſæculi viris magnæ diligentiæ, plurimæ lectionis famam reportaverit, adeò tamen nullâ aut Eccleſiæ noſtræ curâ, aut miſeriarum ſenſu tangebatur, ut è contra Oppreſſos acriùs pungendos, afflictos conterendos exiſtimaret, ideóque * Britannias noſtras, provinciam ſatis ſqualidam, & non ſuam, ipſius tamen judicio ſubjiciendas, calculo opprimendas cenſeret, & de Eccleſiâ noſtrâ (cui ante annos non multos, cùm rebus pacatis & proſperis uteretur, eum non adeò infenſum fuiſſe certis indiciis nobis innotuit) ægrâ jam, & vacillante, & animam quaſi ipſam, inter inteſtinas turbas, & clades, agente, ilico triumphos agere moliretur.

* Univerſis Dei O. M. ſervis occidente toto, maximè vero per Britannias D. Blondellus ſalutem precatur. Ep. nuncup. inſcript.

§. 5. Quod tamen idem de Cl. Salmaſio nolim à nobis dictum putetur, qui virum eximiæ eruditionis non modò utroque iſto crimine ἀλλοτριοεπισκοπίας, & ἀπλαγχνίας palàm liberamus (ut qui in prioribus ſcriptis ſuis nullibi, quod ſcimus, in agrum noſtrum falcem ſuam immiſerit, aut in Eccleſiam Anglicanam calamum ſtrinxerit) ſed etiam Epiſcopis noſtris (quos & neceſſarios & retinendos diſertè * pronunciavit) multò æquiorem, & ἰσοβαθμίοις Eccleſiaſticæ propugnatoribus meritò infenſiorem, ex ipſius poſt Caroli Regis πλείωνι * edito ſcripto, agnoſcimus, & gratulamur.

* Defenſ. Reg. Præf. fol. 4.

* Def. Reg. capite præcipue X. p. 352. 353. 357. 362. 363. 375.

§. 6. Cæterùm, ut ad D. Blondellum revertamur, virum itidem inter primos Collegarum ſuorum eruditum, at in hoc, quo nos ferire & opprimere voluit, argumento, non à nobis longiùs, & ab Apoſtolicâ Catholicâ Chriſti Eccleſiâ, quàm à Doctiſſimis fratribus ſuis, ſat ſcio, à Magno Iſaaco Caſaubono, & optimo ſene Petro Molinæo abeuntem, licebit pauculis interpellare, & notiſſimi facti ſenſum, quo tangimur, etiam palàm exponere.

§. 7. Certè ſi hoc ſit arctiorem cum Chriſto noſtro ſuaviſſimo, & leniſſimo ἀρχιατρῷ unionem profiteri, ſi hoc defæcatiorem puritatem factis exprimere, ſi, cùm Chriſtus ipſe à ſuis iniquiſſimè habitus, noluerit, ſuorum nimio contemptu provocatus, ἐελζειν vel κεκυλίζειν, Chriſtianus interea, & inter Evangelicos εὐαγγελικώτατος, univerſum Ordinem, à popularibus noſtris tam inclementer habitum, ipſius etiam calamo transfoſſum cupiat; ſi qui ex utroque rivo, Helicone & Jordane, copioſiùs ebiberit, religionis intaminatæ, & bonarum literarum duplici culturâ emollitus, iſtam erga fratres contritos, & peſſundatos (nimiam, & inutilem) aſperitatem exercendam exiſtimet; ſi, quod de Idumæis querebatur Deus, * Lætatos eſſe ſuper filios Judæ in die perditionis eorum, intraſſe portam populi Dei in die ruinæ eorum, & in exitibus ſtetiſſe, ut interficerent eos qui evaſerant ex eâ; ſi, quod iram Dei magnam in opulentas gentes accendiſſe dicitur, Zach. 1. 15. [quòd ſcilicet cùm Deus iratus fuerit parum, ipſi adjuverint in malum] id etiam de Puritatis Evangelicæ Profeſſore, in die vaſtitatis & anguſtiæ noſtræ dici poſſit; Tunc certè longum valete, Charitatis & εἰρηνοποιίας Evangelicæ blandiſſima, ſed vana nomina, valete turtures, agníque, nec ab ovili paſtoris noſtri, aut de candidis ſanctiſſimi Spiritus turribus auſpicatiora, aut mitiora dehinc expectanda ſint, quàm ab immanſuetis quibuſvis deſerti incolis, ab incultiſſimo montium comitatu ſperari poſſent.

* Obad. 12. 13. 14.

§. 8. At nec nobis, nec Matri noſtræ dilectiſſimæ, Eccleſiæ adhuc (Deo procurante) Anglicanæ, luctuoſæ quidem, ſed & formoſæ, & ab ipſo pædore & fœditate magis ſpectabili (nobiſque multo chariùs æſtimatæ, ex quo in cruce poſita, imagini Chriſti noſtri conformis facta eſt) querelis aut μιμψιμοιρίας opus eſt: imò potiùs gaudendi & exultandi copiam nobis factam eſſe putamus, quòd decennio jam integro, conſtantiam & officium noſtrum fortunarum omnium jacturâ, cuſtodiis diutinis, exiliorum non uno genere, ipſóque demum ſanguine conſignatam, Deo, Angelis hominibus θεατριζόμενοι, φυσιμαχιζόμενοι (ſolo agonothetâ noſtro nobis aſſiſtente, aut opem ferente) fortiter, & pro athletarum more comprobavimus.

§. 9. Dabit, uti ſperamus, Benigniſſimus Pater, (quem etiamnum aſſiduis precibus δυσωπεῦμεν) dabit reliquis Univerſæ Eccleſiæ ſuæ partibus, poſt tot procellarum viciſſitudines, γαλήνην, pacémque feliciſſimam, dabit Orbi Chriſtiano Halcyonios, & placidos dies; nobis verò perpeſſiones noſtræ, ſtigmata, & cicatrices, (πνευματικαὶ, inquit Θεοφόρος Martyr, μαρτυρίαι, imò διαδήματα τῶν ἀληθῶς ἐκλελεγμένων, ait Polycarpus) nulla blandientis ſæculi mercede, nullo profundæ & illibatæ tranquillitatis pretio à nobis redimendæ (utpote quarum ope, δυνάτῳ χειρὶ συμμορφούμεθα) inter donativa Imperatoris noſtri, inter χαίσματα & privilegia numerandæ ſunt.

§. 10. Hinc nos poſteritas æſtimet, quòd de nemine querimur, de omnibus εὐχαριστοῦμεν, Patrem quippe noſtrum benigniorem nuſpiam aut præſentiorem experti, quàm, cùm ſic nobis in Leonis ſpeluncâ, in ardenti furno ſe adjunxerit, ipſiſque fratrum noſtrorum improperiis, & calumniis (inexpectato quidem gratitudinis & ἀντιμαρτίας genere) non ut peſtiferâ tamen, ſed ſalubri, ſuavíque & leniter ſpirante aurâ, triſtiſſimumque illud væ, Lu. 6. 26. (ſolennem Pſeudoprophetarum mercedem) à nobis procul arcente, recreaverit

&

& refocillaverit, sic demum τῆς δωρέμως τῆ χειρῦ ἐφ' ἡμᾶς ἐπισκιώσης, 2 Cor. 12. 9. Quibus omnibus Patris optimi dignitationibus & privilegiis freti, nihil reliquum habemus, nisi ut tôt εὐεργέτας nostris vicem rependamus, beneficiis acceptis non indignam, ἀγαπῶντες, εὐλογοῦντες, καλῶς ποιοῦντες, & pro illis, qui tanto cum periculo suo sic nobis prodesse voluerint, indies ad misericordiarum Patrem preces fundentes, ne, quod nobis faustè, & ad salutem nostram commodissimè, id illis infaustè; ne quod nobis tolerantibus feliciter, illud malorum nostrorum autoribus funestè cedat. Πάτερ ἄφες αὐτοῖς, Κύριε μὴ στήσῃς αὐτοῖς τοῦτο ἁμαρτίαν ταύτην.

§. 11. His ergo (non in vacuum & leviter sparsis, sed) ad cœlum solenniter effusis suspiriis, iisdem etiam finibus continenda esset hæc Epistolaris dissertatio, si non alia quædam essent, eáque Christianæ, seu pacis, seu veritatis amatoribus neutiquam contemnenda, quæ alias à nobis curas, novámque & prolixiorem operam postularent. Cujus ratio paucis explicanda erit.

§. 12. Prodierunt nuper Theologicæ theses, Præside D. Lodovico Capello, de Episcoporum & Presbyterorum discrimine propositæ; quibus post alia quædam sic præluditur [De Episcoporum supra Presbyteros prærogativâ hactenus inter ipsos Protestantes ab Anglicanis Episcopis disputatum fuit, sed & ea lis & controversia definita jam videtur à viris longe doctissimis Dno. Salmasio & Blondello, &c. Thes. 5.] Scilicet Episcopalem Ordinem sic à Claud. Salmasio & D. Blondello devictum, & expugnatum esse, ut ab omnibus planè destertus & derelictus nec fautorem invenerit, nec defensorem; Assurgere tandem omnes, porrigere herbam, nihilque in universo orbe Hieratico repertum, quod duobus his Ολυμπονίκαις opponi possit, venerabundos agnoscere.

§. 13. Hac in re ne ἐκκωμία nostra bono viro fraudi sit, quædam brævitèr à principio repetenda sunt, quæ nobis Anglis in hac, de ordine Ecclesiastico, controversiâ, per annos aliquot obtigerunt.

§. 14. Quibusdam jamdiu concivibus nostris novandi animum, regiménque (ut Politicum taceam) saltem Ecclesiasticum solicitandi, movendi, & ab ipsis radicibus convellendi lubidinem insedisse, illud demum universo Orbi terrarum (re ipsa loquente) magis innotuit, quàm ut testimoniis, aut probationibus indigeat: id primò ciendis odiis personalibus contra Episcopos, simúlque universam, quantum fieri potuit, Episcoporum prosapiam & familiam, Prælaticos, ut in diverbio erat, omnes, Dein, susurris in verba mutatis, tandemque scriptis famosis ipsum Ordinem ut Antichristianum, & bestiæ Apocalypticæ partem non minimam impetentibus, tentabatur.

§. 15. Nec importunum jam, aut minùs necessarium videbatur consilium Reverendissimi Patris, Josephi Halli, (notissimi pridem, & qui Dordracenæ synodo interfuerat, Theologi, Exoniensis primò, jam Norwicensis Ecclesiæ Pastoris) qui Divinam Episcoporum in Ecclesiâ Christi institutionem, tantâ jam tum maledicentium invidiâ deturpatam, & oppressam, vindicandam sibi assumpsit. Huic luculento Patris optimi scripto, non deerant quinque Presbyteri, qui junctis viribus responsum unum instruebant, ferràmque, si bene memini, semel reciprocabant, quàm idoneè, aut quàm prosperè, penes æquos Lectores judicium esto.

§. 16. Alii interim nec pauci, nec contemnendi Theologi ad tutandam Episcoporum ἀποστολίαν operas & Symbolas suas contulerunt, singuli singulis & justis voluminibus rem integram exorsi, quibus, ut fas erat, Reverendissimus Archiepiscopus Armachanus, Hiberniæ Primas (suis de Origine Episcoporum, & Metropolitarum, & de Asiâ Proconsulari eruditissimis Diatribis) facem prætulit.

§. 17. His omnibus nihil unquam à Presbyteranæ paritatis defensoribus aut reponi opponi potuisse, nolo sic Præsidi Capello ἐξομοιοῦσθαι, ut pronunciem. Certè (post primam illam seu Smectymnuanam, quæ dicebatur, velitationem) nihil adhuc repositum est; octo integris voluminibus ὑδὲ γρύ, ut dici solet; nec post annos jam plures dividendis Ecclesiæ patrimoniis insumptos expectandum est, ut qui gladiis, non stylo, decretoriis, tam ampla spolia ab Episcopis reportaverint, causam jam suam pacatis rationum momentis discutiendam permissuri sint.

§. 18. His addi potest, libellum istum, quo solennis liga, fœdúsque contra Hierachiam Ecclesiasticam concepta continebatur, à Doctis viris, quindenis, si rectè memini, vicibus, totidem voluminibus refutatum esse, tandémque ab Universâ Academiâ Oxoniensi membratim discerptum, multísque non ex trivio petitis argumentis transfossum) & sexennio integro Samaritanum unicum, qui tam crebra vulnera religaret, vinique aut olei guttam unicam infunderet, non invenisse.

§. 19. Tædet enumerare concertationes singulares, seu in Tractatu Uxbrigiensi inter solos Theologos institutas, seu in Novoportensi custodiâ inter unicum Carolum Regem, & omnes omne genus Antagonistas, ubi Pientissimus Princeps, tanquam Angelus Dei, causam Ecclesiæ & Episcoporum, ad stuporem omnium propugnavit, idque cùm stricta novacula supra esset, &, ut verbo dicam,

Μῦν Θ ἀνὴρ σύλησεν ὅλον σεσιτὸν, ἐνὶ δέκα μίσφ Αἱματίοις ἴσχιον ἀτείρεϊ Θ Ἄρεϊ Θ ἴκελον.

§. 20. Quàm

§. 20. Quàm verò ſit hoc unum non ſpeciosè aut magnificè, ſed ſi res ipſa ſpectetur, frigidè & infra rei dignitatem, à me dictum, mallem ex ſcriptis Sanctiſſimi Athletæ, c. 14. De Fœdere, & 17. De regimine Eccleſiaſtico, ſimúlque ab integra cum Al. Henderſono per literas habita diſputatione (congreſſu ſatis inæquali, Conſtantiſſimi quidem Eccleſiæ ὑπερασπίου, verèque, qui dicebatur, Fidei defenſoris, at illius in profectione ſeu potiùs fugâ Novocaſtrenſi, ſolis Fœderatis cincti, omníque, non librorum tantummodo, ſed & famulorum comitatu intercluſi, cum presbytero nominatiſſimo, univerſo contribulium ſuorum agmine ſtipato) mallem, inquam, ex his vivis ſpeciminibus, &, poſt certamen & τελείωσιν celeberimi Πανταίνου, adhuc ſpirantibus & loquentibus, quàm ex hoc qualicunque teſtimonio meo conjecturam fieri.

§. 21. Plura non adjiciam, ex iſtis pauculis Doctiſſimo Præſidi me perſuaſurum confiſus, Hierarchiam Eccleſiaſticam aſſertoribus nondum ſuis planè deſtitutam eſſe, ſed (ſi Britannias noſtras reſpexerit) adhuc vivere & valere, calamitoſam, ſed erectam, & nunquam de devictis & exploſis Aërianis glorioſiùs, quàm de jam proſperis & victoribus, triumphántem: expertam quippe, & re ipsâ enunciante edoctam, omne illud inimicorum argumentis defuiſſe, quod Fœderibus, armiſq; ſupplendum cenſebatur, ipſúmque (quod Rhetor monuit) τὸ πλῆξαι, τῷ μηδὲν ἔχειν ἀλόγχευν ὁμολογίαν ἴδῃ, illúdque quodammodo Ordini ſacro ſancto obtigiſſe, quod olim de Regno cœlorum edixit Chriſtus, non Scribarum, aut literatorum ratiociniis, ſed βιαστῶν & ἁρπαστῶν impetu rapiendum eſſe. Sic nempe Callimachi fatum cauſæ noſtræ obtigiſſe, transfodi, & emori poſſe, cadere non poſſe, & inter ipſas Florentiſſimæ Matris ruinas adhuc invictam ſtare, hoſtibúſque (τειχὺς ἀσφυγίστους ἀπείλας) nondum minari deſinere, etiam cùm occumbat.

§. 22. Cùm interim Cl. Salmaſii, & D. Blondelli aquilas victrices (utut de συμπολίταις noſtris actum ſit) ſibi ſic prolixè gratuletur Doctiſſimus Præſes, libet pauculis diſſertationibus experiri, ecquid magnificum aut eximium hac in re ab illis præſtitum fuerit, aut quod cauſæ noſtræ jugulum petiiſſe rectè dicatur.

§. 23. Primò igitur ſententia iſta, quam contra Prælaticos propugnandam ſuſceperunt duo magna nomina, ex præfatione Blondelli p. 5, 6, 7, 8. & teſtimoniorum Hieronymi explicatione, p. 3. proponenda eſt.

1. Epiſcopos, non ex Apoſtolorum inſtitutione, ſed ex conſuetudine tantùm Eccleſiæ Presbyteris majores fuiſſe: Pares quidem & collegas in eâdem Eccleſiâ ab Apoſtolis creatos fuiſſe, ſic tamen, ut inter pares πρωτοκαθεδρίαν ex quodam primogenituræ in Chriſto jure, primâ Cathedrâ (à qua Eccleſiarum cenſus conſignari & ſucceſſiones deduci cœperunt) & delegato præſidendi munere fungeretur, ordine jam tum, non merito Epiſcopum creante.

2. Iſtam Eccleſiæ conſuetudinem non ſtatim ex quo inter Corinthios auditum fuit [ego ſum Pauli &c.] ſed poſt Apoſtolorum omnium exceſſum, poſt Clementis Romani ad Corinthios, & Polycarpi ad Philippenſes ſcriptam epiſtolam, paulatim circa annum Chriſti 140. invaluiſſe.

§. 24. Hujus ſententiæ confirmationem ex Hieronymi præcipuè teſtimoniis peti voluit D. Blondellus, ita tamen, ut & quatuor Scripturæ commata, 1 Tim. 3. 2, 7. Act. 20. 17, 28. Phil. 1. 1. Heb. 13. 17. ſimúlque Clementis Romani ad Corinthios, & Polycarpi ad Philippenſes, dicta quædam, ſuffragium & calculum ſuum dediſſe, tandémque omnium ferè antiquorum ſcriptorum, (ſed præcipuè Pſeudo-Ambroſii) prolixa caterva hanc antiquam de Epiſcopatus & Presbyterii identitate ſententiam agnoviſſe & expreſſiſſe putarentur.

§. 25. Duo præterea ſunt, quibus hanc ſententiam ſuam ab utraque parte claudi; unum, quo ei viam ſterni, alterum, quo eam à tergo muniri cupiebat vir Doctiſſimus.

* Ep. nunc. p. 3. §. 26. Quod in anteceſſum præmitti voluit, illud eſt, * Importatam ſub ipſis Apoſtolorum oculis Chriſti gregi à turbonibus ſchiſmatum peſtem fuiſſe, 1 Cor. 11. 18. effoſſa Judaizantium zelo, Act. 15. 1. quæ ſepulta fuerant, ſynagogæ elementa, oppugnatam ab Antichriſtis Dei ſuper omnia regnantis Monarchiam, negatam ab Ebione ἀναθεώτατον, abjuratam à Nicolaitis ſanctitatem, nec defuiſſe τῆς Ἐκκλησίας φιλοπρωτεύοντα Diotrephen. Et hanc primam (ſive dogmatum, ſive Diſciplinæ corruptelam ſpectemus) mali labem latiùs deinceps ſerpſiſſe nemini mirum videri oportere.

* Ep. nunc. p. 39. §. 27. Quod à poſteriori ad tutandam ſententiam ſuam neceſſariò addendum duxit, illud eſt, * Inquietam ardelionum libidinem ſibi temperare non potuiſſe, quò minus piis fraudibus, ceu idoneo Epiſcopalis apicis tibicine, abuteretur, ementitíſque primorum martyrum nominibus, quicquid in mentem venerit, vulgaret: idque de Epiſtolis ab Euſebio, Hieronymo, Athanaſio laudatis pronuntiandum eſſe, quibus, inquit, antiquior (ſed qui poſt Clementis Alexandrini dormitionem emerſiſſe videtur) ἀνεπαλδὴς, Ignatii Martyris nomen appinxit, &c.

§. 28. Quid verò hîc à nobis expectandum ſit, eâdem brevitate delineatum lectori jam proponendum eſt.

§. 29. Primò

§. 29. Primò igitur de πρωτοκαθεδρία & πρωτοκλισία, quid cenſendum ſit, an primis temporibus (quod D. Blondellus fidenter ex Pſeudo-Ambroſio contendit) ordo non meritum Epiſcopum fecerit, & ἀπαραλλάκτως continuò primatus obtigerit, ſic ut, recedente unò, ſequens ei ſuccederet, nos breviter tantùm (& ὡς ἐν παρόδῳ, * cùm ex Clemente Romano teſtimonia producenda eſſent) diſquirendum putavimus; nec enim hac in re, utcunque ab omni veritatis ſpecie ſatis abeunte, nos D. Blondello ἄπαξ intendimus. Si enim, cui præſidentia iſta, ſeu ex primogenituræ, ſeu ex meriti jure competebat, ſingularis etiam authoritas, & potentia ſuper Presbyteros, ex Apoſtolorum ordinatione, aut conſtitutione, contigiſſe agnoſcatur, nobis ſic demum Epiſcopus ſingularis ab Apoſtolis inſtitutus videbitur, nec quicquam cauſæ noſtræ oberit ſi, qui primus Chriſto nomen dederit, Apoſtolis, aut Spiritu Dei ſic volentibus, reliquis poſtnatis præponeretur. Hunc verò πρωτῶτα, aut Præſidentem, Presbyteris, ubi Presbyteri erant, nullatenus præfuiſſe, illud eſt, quod illi aſſerere non verentur, nos, ſine quibuſvis ambagibus fidenter pernegamus, & in eo unico omnem inter nos & Presbyteranos litem poſitam eſſe contendimus. * Diſſ. v. c. 5.

§. 30. Secundò, λογομαχίας, aut inanes de vocibus concertationes ante omnia fugiendas eſſe putamus, nec igitur ab homonymiâ, aut ſynonymiâ vocum ἐπισκόπου & πρεσβυτέρου, rerum longè diſſitarum identitatem concludendam eſſe, ſed (ut in ambiguis fieri ſolet) diſtinguendas voces eſſe, ſic ut primò omnibus notum fiat, quid in ſacro inprimis codice, dein inter alios antiquiſſimos Scriptores, Clementem, Ignatium, Polycarpum, ut & Papiam, alióſque, per ἐπισκόπους aut πρεσβυτέρους intelligatur; & 2^do^, ex eo dijudicetur, an in ſingularibus cujuſque Eccleſiæ, & Provinciæ Præfectis, qui in alios omnes ἀρίστους & χειροτονίας, juriſdictionis, & ordinationis poteſtatem exercebant, (quocunque demum ſeu ἐπισκόπου, ſeu πρεσβυτέρου, ſeu ἡγουμένου, ſeu πατρὸς, ſeu πρωτῶτος, ſeu Sacerdotis, ſeu Præfecti titulo inſignirentur) an in Collegis, & Comparibus, quibus nemo præficiebatur, in communi Eccleſiam gubernantibus, Apoſtoli poſt Chriſtum Eccleſias in omnibus profectionibus ipſorum fundandas curaverint. Nec igitur in eo controverſiam poni, Quibus demum (vel an iiſdem omni ævo) nominibus cogniti fuerint Eccleſiarum Rectores, ſed an ad unum in ſingulari Eccleſia, an ad plures poteſtas iſta devenerit.

§. 31. Nos ad unum ſingularem Præfectum, quem ex famoſiore Eccleſiæ uſu, Epiſcopum vulgò dicimus, poteſtatem iſtam in ſingulari cœtu, ex Chriſti & Apoſtolorum inſtitutione, nunquam non pertinuiſſe affirmamus, ideóque nec Presbyteris (comparibus, & ἰσοτίμοις) nec Presbyterorum conſeſſui eam competere: Et hanc Theſim noſtram ab omnibus contramilitantium argumentis vindicandam & propugnandam ſtatuimus, eo ordine, qui nobis commodiſſimus viſus eſt.

§. 32. Primò ſcilicet de ſchiſmatum, & hæreſeon peſte, ipſis Apoſtolis ſpectantibus, in Eccleſiam importatâ, aliiſque à D. Blondello in anteceſſum memoratis, diſſertationem integram inſtituimus, ut palam fiat, quàm ad nos non pertineat invidia iſta.

§. 33. Secundò Ignatii ſanctiſſimi Martyris Epiſtolas, illi tam ſedulò & prolixè abjudicatas, dignitati ſuæ reſtituendas primùm, & tunc demum cum Hieronymo, Blondellianæ ſententiæ fundo, comparandas curavimus, ſimúlque quid de Hieronymi ſententia cenſendum ſit, indicavimus.

§. 34. Tertiò omnia Sacri Codicis loca, primò, quæ in * Evangeliis, dein, quæ in * Actis & Epiſtolis ad hanc materiam pertinere videntur, præſertim, quæ ad cauſæ ipſius defenſionem à D. Blondello adducta ſunt, (iis, quoties opus fuit, ἐξ ἀρχαίας Eccleſiæ διδάσεως explicatis, ſimúlque ſingulis primævæ Eccleſiæ monumentis, quæ quâvis ratione opponi poſſe putantur, ex hoc lucis fonte illuſtratis) tandemque * Polycarpi obiter, at ex inſtituto * Clementis Romani teſtimonia, utpote quæ ante annum Chriſti 140. (ſolennem illam, ſecundum D. Blondelli computum, Epiſcopatus naſcentis æram) ſcripta fuerint, ad calculos noſtros revocavimus. * Diſſ. 3. * Diſſ. 4. * Diſſ. 4. c. 22. * Diſſ. 5.

§. 35. Illis denique & alia nonnulla, quæ ex Hermâ, ex Pio Papa, circa ann. D. 148. ex Eccleſiaſtici regiminis formâ, quo tempore Romam advenit Marcion, tandémque ex Juſtini Apologiâ Anno Chriſto 150. conſcriptâ, ut & ex Papia, & Irenæo D. Blondellus producenda cenſuit, hos etiam, licèt ex abundanti, vel * obiter, vel ex * inſtituto viſenda, & adjicienda putavimus. * Diſſ. 4. c. 17, & 22. * Diſſ. 5. c. 9, 10, 11, 12.

§. 36. Quibus peractis, non putavi me operæ pretium facturum, aut ſi innumeris Patrum & Conciliorum teſtimoniis, quæ poſt annum Chriſti 140. (quo Epiſcopatum caput ſuum in Eccleſia extuliſſe fatetur D. Blondellus) conſcripta ſunt, cauſæque noſtræ ubique ſuffragium ferunt, lectorem fatigarem; aut ſi paucula eorum tmemata à corpore, cui ſatis commodè adhærent, divulſa, & ad uſus ſuos à * D. Blondello accommodata, ad examen noſtrum revocarem. Quæ inter illa præcipua ſunt (ut & in * Synodorum decretis, &c.) aut, quæ cuivis fraudem facere poſſe videbantur, obiter in tertiâ diſſertatione perluſtravi, ut & quæ ex ipſo Hieronymo, in ſecundâ; Ab his pauculis indiciis ſatis ſupérque expertus, quo animo antiquorum ſcripta diſcerpſerit, quâ fide recitaverit vir Doctiſſimus, quantámque demum caliginem eorum oculis offundendam curaverit, qui * Sect. 2. * Sect. 3.

ex

ex teſtimoniis ſingularibus, ab eo prolatis, & obſervationum ipſius ope ad propoſitum ſuum accommodatis, integram & intemeratam Primitivæ Eccleſiæ ſententiam concludi poſſe exiſtimant.

§. 37. Si, quæ ex Clemente Alex. Tertulliano, Origine, Cypriano, Euſebio, Baſilio, Nazianzeno, Chryſoſtomo, Auguſtino, aliiſque demum ſequioris ævi ſcriptoribus, ab eo laudata ſunt, cuivis mortalium perſuaſerint, aut non placuiſſe Patribus iſtis ſingularem Epiſcopatum Presbyteratu majorem, aut ante An. Ch. 136. aut 140. Eccleſiæ incognitum fuiſſe (quod unum niſi effecerint, nihil faciunt) ego hoc unum ab eo exoratum cupio, ut oculis ſuis locum in ipſo authore, è quo D. Blondellus teſtimonium ſingulare decerpſerit, integrum perluſtret, aut cum aliis ejuſdem ſcriptoris apertiſſimis dictis componat, ſibique demum, non mihi credat, quid ſit δουλεύειν ὑποθέσει, aut ad partes fovendas teſtimoniorum non cenſum, ſed delectum facere. In re tantâ illud ſemel monendum fuit; Quod an minus rectè à me, an intemperantiùs, aut aſperiùs factum ſit, æquis ego lectoribus judicandum lubentiſſimus permitto. Vale vir integerrime, & Chriſtianæ pacis amator unicus, me etiam ὁμόψυχον amare perge.

PRÆ-

PRÆMONITIO AD LECTOREM.

§. 1. NEquis has à nobis operas aut minùs necessarias, aut frustra susceptas putet, & modò Ecclesiasticus Ordo quovismodo conservetur, Censuræ exerceantur, Sacerdotes perpetuò futuri in Ecclesiâ ordinentur, seu per unum, seu per plures id fiat, parùm rei Christianæ interesse existimet, unum est, quod hîc præfari visum est, illud eorum postulatum multum ab omni ratione, addam & pietate, abhorrere.

§. 2. Neminem enim πρῶτον hanc (ut nec honorem in familiâ Christi quemlibet) λαμβάνειν, sumere, arripere, sibi arrogare, nisi qui θεοπρόκλητος divinitus emissus, ut Theophylacti voce utar, aut, ut Paulinis, qui ὑπὸ τοῦ Θεοῦ καλούμενος, à Deo aut mediatè aut immediatè vocatus sit; reliquos enim ὑπερβαίνειν τὴν πρᾶξιν, assilire ad honorem istum, ἐξ νόμου, aiunt veteres, διαφθείρειν, legem corrumpere.

§. 3. Illud à Baptistâ, cùm de missione ipsius sermo incidisset, liberè pronunciatum, Joh. 3. 27. οὐ δύναται ἄνθρωπος λαμβάνειν οὐδὲν, ἐὰν μὴ ᾖ δεδομένον αὐτῷ ἐκ τοῦ οὐρανοῦ, Nemo quippiam assumere aut arripere rectè potest, nisi sit datum ei à cœlo; ut & ipsius Christi dicto stabilitum & firmatum, Luc. 12. 14. Ἄνθρωπε, τίς με κατέστησε δικαστὴν, &c. Quis, inquit ipse Christus, me judicem constituit? Omnem exindè juris dicendi facultatem à se procul avertens, quòd respectu ἐναθρωπήσεως, nondum δικαστὴς aut μεριστὴς constitutus fuerit.

§. 4. Sepositâ igitur paulisper controversiâ hac, an potestas vocandi ministros in uno aut pluribus primùm fundata sit, nos illud in hac disceptatione pro concesso positum censebimus, Neminem rectè dare quod non habet; eúmque, aut eos, qui hâc potestate induti nunquam fuerint, sine violatione, aut Sacrilegio quodam, sibi arrogare aut assumere, aut aliis æquè à Deo non vocatis, aut missis communicare neutiquam posse.

§. 5. Patet illud ex vulgatâ hypothesi, quâ nec unus nec plures Diaconi fidelem quemvis in Diaconum, multò magis in Presbyterum ordinare, aut constituere posse censentur; cujus tamen hæc unica ratio reddi poterit; quòd, licèt fideles in Ecclesiam per Baptismum recipiendi potestas Diaconis, per χειροθεσίαν, data sit, nulla tamen Diaconos aut Presbyteros ordinandi, mittendi, vocandi facultas illis indulta sit.

§. 6. Quod si de Presbyteris æquè verum sit, idem etiam exindè de Presbyteris æquè concludendum esse, nemo tam iniquus erit, ut refragetur; Quod enim ex æquo accipitur, ex æquo dari potest, ait * Tertullianus.

* De Bapt. c. 17.

§. 7. Hîc igitur primò Hieronymi illud satis tritum, & decantatum memorasse liceat, A Presbyteris Episcopum (si non aliis saltem) Ordinatione differre. Cui concinit illud Chrysostomi, χειροτονίαν ἀναβαίνειν ἀνυπόδητον ὄντα πρεσβύτερον.

§. 8. Huic & illud secundò adjiciendum est, in Anglicanâ nostrâ Ecclesiâ illud semper, & ante, & post Reformationis nostræ tempora, fixum, & indubitatum esse, Presbyteros, quos secundarios dicimus, seu singulos, seu universos, nullâ Diaconos aut Presbyteros ordinandi potestate indutos aut præditos esse, nec enim, cùm quisquam, per manuum Episcopi impositionem, ad Presbyteralem gradum provehitur, indeterminatam illi, aut indefinitam authoritatem (aut quidem omnem eam quam ad πρεσβύτερον τῆς ἐκκλησίας attinere posse opinatorum quispiam affirmaverit) grosso, ut dicitur, modo ab Ecclesiæ patribus commissam, aut concreditam esse, sed suis eam finibus liquidò dispunctam, suis cancellis & limitibus distinctam, & dilucidâ actuum specialium ad quos admittitur, enumeratione (inter quos creandi Presbyteros, aut Diaconos, facultatem, neutiquam comparere satis constat) definitam & conclusam.

§. 9. Illud etiam ipse Presbyteranorum querelæ, & accusationes contra Prælaticos sparsæ satis dilucidè profitentur; in eo quippe Mysterium Iniquitatis, ipso Apostolorum sæculo ἐνεργούμενον, se prodidisse affirmantes, quòd φιλοπρωτεύοντες & κατακυριεύοντες Episcopi, plenam potestatem in sacris, Presbyteris quibusque non concesserint, eam verò Episcopalis tyrannidis labem se statim ad omnes Ecclesias transfudisse, Ordinatione scilicet, & Censuris Ecclesiasticis sibi solis reservatis, inferiores tantùm actus Presbyteris indulsisse Episcopos. Rectè quidem illud, &, si Ecclesiæ Universæ annales conspiciantur, verissimè pronunciatum; cui consentaneum est, ut ab omni eos excusatione procul esse concludamus, qui, quas sibi neutiquam concessas conquerantur, potestates, sibi sic sacrilegè arripiant, & quas tantâ cum injuriâ negatas vociferantur, eo ipso negatas agnoscunt.

§. 10. Tertiò igitur, unum illud lubens interrogarem, an Hieronymus, dum hîc esset, & Presbyteratu secundario fungeretur, partiariâ tantum indutus potestate, præsente, sed spreto, & insuper habito Episcopo, Diaconum aut Presbyterum ordinare (aut Presbytero uni aut alteri adjunctus) rectè potuerit ?

§. 11. Si affirmetur, dicatur sodès, quâ demùm ratione ab eo dictum sit, Episcopum solâ ordinatione (& ergo ordinatione) à Presbytero disterminatum esse ?

§. 12. Sin negetur, quomodo igitur Presbytero Anglicano, cui nullam, quæ non Hieronymo, potestatem ab Episcopis nostris datam scimus, uni, aut pluribus facultas ritè competat, quæ Hieronymo, ipsi Presbytero, & Presbyteranorum ὑπερφυῶν, nunquam competebat ?

§. 13. Quid huic dilemmati reponi, aut opponi possit, fateor equidem me non adeo lynceum esse, ut perspiciam ; nec igitur opus esse, ut (nec pauca ea, nec contemnenda) Ecclesiastici hujus per Episcopos Regiminis commoda & utilitates hic fusiùs recensentur, (quatenus ad unitatem Ecclesiæ conservandam, ab Apostolis institutum, nunquam sine schismate, rarò sine omnigenarum sectarum insequente colluvie, ex quâcunque particulari Ecclesiâ repudiatum & rejectum sit : Illud hic nobis unicum meminisse sufficiet, Unumquemque in Anglicanâ Ecclesiâ ab Episcopis ordinatum Presbyterum, nullâ ordinandi alios facultate (aut per se, aut quà quolibet comparium cœtu munitum) præditum esse, nec igitur eam sibi rectiùs arrogare posse, quàm si Diaconorum, imò * Laicorum unus, aut plures, tali potestate nullatenus induti ἐκ ἀποστελλόμενοι ἀλλὰ φαινόμενοι καὶ αὐτοχειροτονηθέντες, ait Isid. Pelusiot. l. 3. Ep. 119. idem ausuri sint.

* Alioquin enim etiam Laicis jus erit. Tertull. de Bapt. c. 17.

§. 14. Ex his admissis, quæ (& quàm infeliciter Ecclesiæ Christi, ipsisque Presbyteris cessura) mala oriunda sint, optarim aliâ quâvis, quàm experientiâ, Magistrâ, nos edoctos esse.

§. 15. Siquis interim Fratrum meorum ἐν τούτῳ παραπλώμενος περιληφθεὶς, vel his demum infimi & pullati vatis monitis sic parere voluerit, ut ad luctuosissimæ matris amplexus, à quibus se abripuit, redire non recuset, me quidem operæ hujus satis prolixæ nunquam pœnitebit : nec eam suspicabor viris bonis inutilem visam esse, donec destinato omni fructu destitutam esse eventus monstraverit.

DISSER-

DISSERTATIO Prima,

DE ANTICHRISTO;

De Mysterio Iniquitatis; De Diotrephe;

Sub Apostolorum ævo se prodentibus.

CAP. I.

Mysterium Iniquitatis à Presbyteranis arreptum. Quid hâc in re Al. Hendersonus. Quid D. Blondellus. Innovationum omnium πρῶτος. Mysterium Trinitatis, Censuræ Ecclesiasticæ, sub isto titulo rejectæ.

§. 1. SOlenne illud inter plerosque Presbyteranæ paritatis assertores semper fuit, à Mysterio Iniquitatis, ipso Apostolorum ævo, lacertos movente, exordium sumere; hoc Antidoto seu φυλακτηρίῳ saluti suæ se quadantenus providisse, & contra primorum seculorum ex adverso propositam praxin, quam sibi satis infestam esse agnoscunt, hoc jam scuto obtectos, abundè se causæ suæ consuluisse, censentes.

§. 2. Sic, ut alios taceam, Al. Hendersonus Scotorum fœderatorum antesignanus, Optimo Regi Carolo τῷ μακαρίτῃ Episcoporum πρωτείαν & superioritatem (ut & alia omnia, quæ in Reformatione Anglicanâ, ut essentialia, retinebantur) ab Apostolis ipsis, & universali Primitivæ Ecclesiæ praxi ad nos deductam affirmanti, hoc statim reponendum existimavit, Diotrephen ipsis Apostolorum temporibus præeminentiam affectasse, mysteriumque iniquitatis jam tum operari cœpisse.

§. 3. D. Blondello tritum illud Mysterii Iniquitatis effugium, ut videtur, non placuit. At, quod eodem recidit, prolixiore ἐιρμῷ, quinque notissima, sub Apostolorum ævo, Christiani nominis ἀποστάσματα & ἀνταγράγματα complectente, sic demum hypothesi suæ præludere voluit.

§. 4. Nos, ut in posterum isti præjudicio reditum omnem intercludamus, simúlque ne ad hujus unici μεγμολυκέος mentionem perculsi, statim ab omni Primitivæ Ecclesiæ (cui, Deo providente, ipsum Scripturarum Canonem acceptum debemus) fide, praxique, tanquam à Syrtibus & scopulis, tanquam ab ipsissimo Antichristi prodromo, & fœciale, ad Novatorum castra transfugiendum putemus, Ne hoc unico stratagemate, universum Christi depositum prodi patiamur, Ne denique, quicquid ὁ δυσκέμβολος ex fidei aut disciplinæ Christianæ matriculâ expunctum aliquando optaturus sit (seu sit illud [a] sacrosancta Trinitatis doctrina verè mystica, seu [b] Ecclesiastica censuræ, seu ipsorum Ecclesiæ Christi μυστηρίων, i. e. sacramentorum administratio) id sub odioso mysterii iniquitatis titulo deturpatum (quoties cuiquam malè feriato alastori libuerit) ὡς κίβδηλον, καὶ ἀδόκιμον, statim rejiciatur, statuimus ἐν πρώτῳ rem integram ab exordio petitam ad examen vocare, & quàm nihil aut nostræ causæ officiat, aut ad Presbyteranam ἰσονομίαν astruendam conducat, quod ab Antichristis, 1 Joh. 2. 18. (aut, quod ejusdem monetæ est, à mysterio iniquitatis) quod à schismate Corinthiaco, quod à Diotrephis φιλοπρωτείας, aut singulis, aut universis, concludi possit, paucissimis, quibus res tanta comprehendi potest, verbis monstrare. Illud interim pro confesso sumentes, effossa umbratica Synagogæ elementa, Act. 15. 1. & abjuratam à Nicolaitis sanctitatem, aliáque, magnificè, & ut cumulum augeant, à [c] D. Blondello memorata, non magis ad Episcoporum πρωτείαν, quàm Presbyteranorum paritatem impugnandam, quâvis ratione accommodari posse. Nec igitur opus esse, ut de iis lectori molestiam creemus.

[a] Hoc à me non sine causâ prædictum fuisse, infœlix eventus nimis, heu, deifficè confirmavit, cum liber Anglicanus (eo ipso, quo hæc à me scripta sunt, tempore) in prælo suadaverit, & sine longâ morâ posthodum prodierit, quo mysterium Trinitatis disertis verbis mysterium iniquitatis nuncupatur: Deus ab afflictissimâ gente hoc omen avertat. [b] Sic excommunicationem à Presbyteris Genevensibus in Ecclesiâ suâ retentam, Papatui, i. e. Antichristi in terris potestati ancillari Erastus querebatur. & post eum non pauci. Sic Ecclesiam & disciplinam Scotorum Fœderatorum per Presbyteros administratam, Independentiæ nuper asseriores Antichristianam appellarunt.

[c] Ep. p. 3.

CAP. II.

Dicendorum syllabus. Prædictiones Christi, Mat. 24. Adventus Christi medius, v. 3, 27, 37, 39. Joh. 21. 23. Mat. 16. 27, 28. ejus σημεῖα. Ἡνικὰ quid. Tres πλάνων classes. Prima, Pseudochristi, immediatè post ascensionem Christi, ὅπου τὸ τέλος, Mat. 24. 6. Theudas duplex. Ægyptius. Dositheus. Definitio Christi, Luc. 24. 21. Ultima. Seductores sub tempora obsidionis Hierosolymitanæ; Recessio Græci Christiani ad Pellam, Mat. 24. 20, 21. Media μέσων. Præludia quinque Cladis Hierosolymitanæ. Σκανδαλισμὸς, Mat. 24. 10. Pseudoprophetæ tertii generis; Πονηραὶ ἡμέραι, πλῆθος ἀνομίας. Charitas refrigescens.

§. 1. IMprimis igitur, quod ad Antichristum, & ut ait Johannes, πολλοὶ νῦν ἀντίχριστοι γεγόνασι, simúlque quod ad μυστήριον ἀνομίας, ἤδη (inquit Apostolus, 2 Thess. 2. 7. ἐνεργούμενον, spectat, nos, prolixius forsan, quàm pro instituti nostri ratione par erat, at sic, ut Scripturarum studioso lectori rem non ingratam nos facturos speremus, Origines rerum sectabimur; Et primò quid sit illud, quod utroque Johannis, & Pauli ad Thessalonicenses loco describitur: Secundò, quàm nihil ad Primitivæ Ecclesiæ authoritatem minuendam, aut ad Episcoporum πρωτασίαν, quatenus à nobis asseritur, enervandam pertineat, explicabimus.

§. 2. Quod ut rectè fiat, illud fundamenti loco jaciendum est, Christum mox discipulis suis ipsique mundo valedicturum, Matthæi 24. (capitè integro) adventum suum, v. 3. 27, 37, 39. (non illum ad judicandos vivos & mortuos novissimum, sed) medium, post annos non adeò multos, brevi futurum, ad ultionem de στρατιώταις & χριστιανοῖς Judæis sumendam, destinatum (cujus igitur Mat. 16. 27, 28. Joh. 21. 23. & alibi sæpiùs in Evangeliis & Epistolis mentio occurrit) solenniter prænuntiâsse, additis insuper σημείοις, quibus adventus iste, seu, quæ idem sonat, ἡ τῶν αἰώνων συντέλεια, Judaici, aut Mosaici seculi consummatio, eâ ipsâ γενεᾷ, v. 34. sive [a] ea 30. five, quod aliquando fit, 40. annorum spatio definienda sit) i. e. quibusdam qui tunc interfuerunt (& [b] Joanne præcipuè) adhuc viventibus Mat. 16. 28. obventura, prænosci potuit.

[a] Τριακοσίαι μὲν ἀνδρῶν ἡλικαὶ μοῖρα ἔτεα. Herod. l. 2. p. 144. Εἰς τὰ ἑκατὸν ἔτη τρεῖς ἐγκαταλέγονται γενεαί, Clem. Alex. Strom. l. 2. p. 334. Homero, Tullio, ætas, triginta annorum spatium. Cæl. Rodig. lib. 19. c. 22. vide Mat. 1. 17. & Hesych. ἡλικὰ ἡ διαστημα τῶν χρόνων τὸ μὴ καθ' αὑτὸ βεβιωκότων. Τῷλ' ἤδη δύο μὲν ἡλικαὶ μερόπων ἀνθρώπων. Τὼ δ' ἡλικὰν ὑφίστανται ἐτῶν οἱ μὲν κ'. οἱδὲ κε'. οἱδὲ λ. At in Epistolâ Hieremiæ, pro decem annis sumitur, ut & apud medicos pro septem. [b] Non dixit illi Jesus, ὅτι οὐκ ἀποθνήσκει, sed si volo eum manere ἕως ἔρχομαι, Joh. 21. 23.

§. 3. Inter ea, pro tribus certis temporibus, tres Pseudoprophetarum, & id genus πλάνων, & ἀπατεώνων, mentiones occurrunt. Prima v. 5. ultima v. 24. media v. 11. Primus locus Pseudochristis tribuitur, non multis post ascensionem Christi annis, (quibus certissimum est Judæos Messiam expectasse, licet Christum verum & unicum Messiam repudiaverint) se pro Messiâ frequenter venditantibus. De quibus verè dictum illud [ὅπου ὅδε τὸ τέλος] per hos nempe non præsignificari instantem, aut subitò ingruentem hunc Christi adventum adeò Judæis exitialem, sed eum aliquot jam annis protelatum iri, ut tandem ferociori & certiori ruinâ universos obrueret. In his erat Theudas (non ille Judâ Gaulonitâ antiquior, Act. 5. 36, 37. sed cujus apud Josephum, Fado Judæam procurante, sub Claudii imperio, mentio est) qui, ut ex [c] Josepho [d] Eusebius affirmat, πολλοὺς ἀπάτησεν, seduxit multos. Quod ipsum hîc Christus prædixit, πολλοὺς πλανήσουσιν, inquiens, multos decepturi sunt. His itidem Ægyptius, apud Lucam, Act. 21. 38. ut & apud [e] Eusebium ex Josepho. His Dositheus Samaritanus apud [f] Originem, (qui se Christum esse suis persuasit) aliique, singuli se Liberatores Patriæ futuros spondentes, & sic (ex definitione Lucæ, c. 24. 21. qui pro Christo [μέλλοντα λυτροῦσθαι τὸν Ἰσραήλ, eum qui Israëlem liberaturus est] poni voluit) Messiæ titulum sibi vindicantes.

[c] Ant. l. 20. c. 5.

[d] Eccl. hist. l. 2. c. 12.

[e] Eccl. hist. l. 2. c. 11.

[f] Cont. Celsum, l. 1. & in Mat. tr. 27. & apud Hegesippum apud Euseb. l. 4. c. 22'. & apud. Phot. bibl. cod. 230.

§. 4 Sic & tertio seu ultimo loco, v. 24. Pseudochristi itidem, & Pseudoprophetæ ponuntur, non iidem, qui prius memorabantur, sed (ex distincta rerum ὑποστάσει dignoscendi) qui post obsessam v. 15. Hierosolymam prodibant, idque sub ipso temporis articulo, quo Christiani Judæâ fugam capessebant, v. 16. Cùm scilicet factâ primùm per Sestium Gallum Hierosolymæ obsidione, v. 15. statimque (Deo sic volente) recedente ad tempus obsessore, Judæorum fideles (quotquot fuerunt, & qui Christo monenti morem gesserunt) factam sibi evadendi copiam amplecterentur. Quod quidem multis feliciter cessisse nos docet Josephus, ut & Eusebius l. 3. c. 5. Qui illud τινὰ χρησμὸν τοῖς ἐντεῦθεν δοκίμοις δι' ἀποκαλύψεως ἐκδοθέντα, secundum oraculum quoddam probatis illic viris per revelationem traditum, factum esse affirmat: eóque fretos oraculo, πρὸ τοῦ πολέμου μεταναστῆναι τῆς πόλεως, ante bellum ex urbe migrasse, & Pellam usque superato Jordane, confertim transcurrisse. Tunc enim sub isto calamitosissimo temporis articulo, v. 20, 21. (ipsaque opportunitate fugam suadente) non mirum est plurimos se labascentis populi σωτῆρας & statores venditasse, si quis uxorem Lothi imitatus, iis aurem præbiturus esset.

§. 5. At quod rem nostram imprimis spectat, illud à mediâ temporis ὑποστάσει (v. 11. descriptâ) petendum est. Ibi enim immediatè ante βδέλυγμα ἐρημώσεως ἑστὸς ἐν τῷ τόπῳ ἁγίῳ, abominationem desolationis stantem in loco sancto, seu (ut explicatiùs Lucas) Hierosolymam (Romanis) exercitibus obsessam, Hæc quinque simul prænuntiari videas, singula ab eodem fonte scaturientia: Primò, Judæos in Christianos rabidè desævituros esse, ipsósque ad στόμα necémque tradituros, v. 9. Secundò, Christianos multos servitia persecutionum, v. 9. perterritos, scandalizatum iri, v. 10. i. e. Christo planè abrenuntiaturos. Tertiò, desertores hosce, statim Christianos Christo crucique constantius adhærentes, internecino odio prosecuturos, ipsísque persecutoribus ad supplicium tradituros, v. 10. Quartò, surrecturos Pseudoprophetas, multósque secum in perniciem seducturos. Quintò, ex hâc ingruentium calamitatum mole (quam Apostolus per πονηρὰς ἡμέρας dies malos, Christus per πληθυνθῆναι ἀνομίαν, multiplicationem iniquitatis indigitat) futurum esse, ut multorum charitas refrigesceret, i. e. ut fidelium, & satis jamdiu constantium Christi athletarum, & confessorum quammulti, de perfectâ istâ, & ardenti Christi (& veritatis, 2 Thess. 2. 10.) dilectione multum remitterent.

CAP.

CAP. III.

Gnostici ante excidium Hierosolymitanum. Γνῶσις, 1 Tim. 6. 20. Judæi fontes persecutionum, Mat. 10. 17. Mar. 13. 9. Mat. 23. 35. πᾶν αἷμα δίκαιον, Zacharias filius Barachi, ναὸς, συναγωγὴ, ἐκκλησία, Gal. 4. 29, Barchochebas. Quid sit Σκανδαλίζεσθαι. Gnosticorum illecebræ duplex, Apoc. 21. 8. Nefandæ libidines. Πλεονεξία apud Paulum, Barnabam, Polycarpum. Licere temporibus persecutionem, aut Judaismum aut Gentilismum simulare, dogma Gnosticum. Basilidis doctrina à Simone derivata. Helkesaïta, Emendatus, Eusebius, Idolothyta edentes λέγοντα Ἰησοῦν ἀνάθεμα. Prodicus, Valentinus. Tertulliani Scorpiacus. Gnosticorum argumenta contra martyrium, Tertulliani argumenta pro martyrio, Cypriani ex eo. Idolothytorum gustatio, 1 Cor. 8. Γνῶσις ἀγάπῃ opposita. Testimonium Irenæi & Justini. Christi abnegatio, circumcisionis simulatio, Gal. 6. 13. explicatur. Cataphryges intacti à persecutoribus: Sic primi Simonis sectatores, Jud. 4. παρεγγεγραμμένοι εἰς κρῖμα, Mat. 16. 25. explicatur. Christi adventus Johanni spectandus, Gal. 4. 13. explicatur. Ἀσθένεια, πειρασμὸς, Σκόλοψ, 2 Cor. 12. 7. Ezech. 28. 24. Ἐχθροὶ σταυροῦ, Phil. 3. 18. & apud Polycarpum. Πικρὰς γίζα, Heb. 12. 15. Fidei abnegatio, Ejus species apud Plinium. Desertio cœtuum & hetæriarum.

§. 1. HIS quinque mirum est quàm dilucidè, & signanter integram ferè Gnosticorum Historiam, à Paulo, sub titulo Γνώσεως (at ψευδωνύμου) 1 Tim. 6. 20. & alibi non semel designatam, à Christo per τὰ βεβήλια τῆς Κενῆς, Apoc. 2. 24. (quæ ipsi βαθέα τῆς * γνώσεως appellabant) à Barnabâ itidem per universam Epistolam, obscurius adumbratam, & postea à scriptoribus Ecclesiasticis uberiùs descriptam, Christus delineaverit, &, quatenus ea excidio Hierosolymitano præluxura erat, Apostolis hîc prænunciaverit.

* Ἔγνωσαν τὰ βαθέα, &c. Apoc. 11. 24.

§. 2. Quod ad primum, i. e. Judæorum in Christianos rabiem, attinet, Post ea quæ Christus Apostolis prædixit, Mat. 10. 17. & 23. Mar. 13. 9. multis opus non erit. Consulatur præ aliis capitis immediatè præcedentis (Mat. 23.) perioche ultima, ubi (ad implendam mensuram patrum suorum, qui sic se Prophetarum jamdiu sanguine fœdaverant) prædicit Christus, προφήτας, σοφοὺς, γραμματεῖς, à se mittendos, ab ipsis statim neci traditum iri, Sic ut veniat super eos (istis decessorum suorum vestigiis perditè insistentes) πᾶν αἷμα δίκαιον, omnis sanguis justus, vel justorum, ab Abele ad Zachariam (filium Barachiæ, ait Matthæus, Baruchi * Josephus, sic ut Ananus Josepho dictus, Lucæ Ananias dicitur) ille enim ἐν μέσῳ τῷ ἱερῷ, in medio templi, inquit Josephus, Matthæus verò, quod idem est, inter ναὸν Sanctuarium (οἶκον, Luc. 11. 51.) & συσιαστήριον, (altare scil. ἐναίμῳ ἐν ὑπαίθρῳ positum) occidebatur, idque à Judæorum zelotis immediatè ante obsidionem Hierosolymitanam, sic ut Abeli πρεσβυτέρου dissertè, & ἐκ τοῦ παραλλήλου respondeat novissimus Zacharias. De quo [προφθάσαντες] jam tum dixit Christus, Ad illud vel Prophetarum more, [a] futura per præterita enunciantium, vel fortè Aoristo non præterita, sed futura etiam comprehendente, [τὸν προφθάσαντες, [b] quem futurum est à vobis occisum esse] (sic enim manifestum est ipsius Christi, Stephani, Jacobi Hierosolymitani Episcopi, nondum peractas ἀθλήσεις, hâc πάντως δικαίου αἵματος mentione continendas esse) sic ut ille (adhuc vivus, videnséque) ante divinam hanc ingruentem vindictam occisus prævideatur. Idem itidem in universum ab Apostolo in thesi affirmatur, Gal. 4. 29. Ut tunc secundum carnem genitus (Ismael scilicet, & sub ejus nomine, Judæi) persequebatur eum qui secundum Spiritum genitus est, i. e. Isaacum, & sub eo Christianos, ὅπου καὶ νῦν, nos hoc nunc fieri videmus. Illud etiam ubiq; & fusè in Apostolorum Actis, seu potius Martyrologio patet, per modum historiæ. Videatur, sic placet, Act. 17. ubi Paulo jam primum Thessalonicæ fidem Christi annunciante in Judæorum synagogâ, statim adjicitur, ζηλώσαντες δὲ οἱ ἀπειθοῦντες Ἰουδαῖοι, v. 5. καὶ προσλαβόμενοι τοὺς ἀγοραίους τινὰς (ii sunt ἀποσπέρμα, aut Lictores, qui in [c] ἀγορᾷ aut comitiis civitatis illius [d] τοῖς ἄρχουσι inserviebant) convocato populo contra eum tumultum ciebant, statímque eum εἰς τὸν δῆμον, ad comitia, adeóque ad supplicium protrahere cupiebant: Paulóque non invento, Jasonem καὶ τινας ἀδελφοὺς ἕτερους, v. 6. Sic & postea Beræa prædicantem οἱ ἀπὸ τῆς Θεσσαλονίκης Ἰουδαῖοι insectabantur, σαλεύοντες τοὺς ὄχλους, v. 13. Sic & Corinthi, Act. 18. 12. κατεπέστησαν ὁμοθυμαδὸν οἱ Ἰουδαῖοι τῷ Παύλῳ, Judæi unanimiter Paulo obsistebant, statímque eum ἐπὶ τὸ βῆμα ad tribunal ducebant, violatæ Legis Mosaicæ eum postulantes, v. 13. Sic denique & Hierosolymis, (Act. 21. 27.) Judæi itidem Asiatici συνέχεον πάντα τὸν ὄχλον, eique manus inferebant, clamantes, Hic est ille qui omnes instituit κατὰ τοῦ λαοῦ καὶ τοῦ νόμου καὶ τοῦ τόπου τούτου, v. 28. statímque sequitur, ζητοῦντων αὐτὸν ἀποκτεῖναι, v. 31. Videatur 2 Cor. 11. 24. A Judæis, inquit, quinquies 39. plagas sustuli, ter virgis (ab iisdem Judæis) cæsus sum, semel lapidatus, v. 25. sæpius ὑπὸ γένους, à contribulibus illi imminentibus periculis, v. 26. (ut & à Gnosticis ψευδαδέλφοις sæpius) Hinc itaque rectissimum illud Tertulliani contra Gnost. c. 10. Synagogæ Judæorum fontes persecutionum fuisse, Earum nempe quæ Christi discipulis intentabantur; Ut & illud Justini de Barchochebâ, postea quidem, sub Adriani imperio, exorto, sed notissimo Judæorum Ducìore, & ἀρχηγέτῃ, Qui, inquit ille, χρῆσθαι μόνους εἰς πίστεως δοκιμὴν, εἰ μὴ ἀρνοῖντο τὸν Χριστὸν, καὶ βλασφημοῖεν, ἐπέλευον ἀγεσθαι, solos Christianos, ni Christum abjuraturi essent, ad sæva supplicia duci jussit, Apol. 2. Quod & de Judæis, in universum, prius pronunciaverat, Ἰουδαῖοι, inquit, ἐχθροὶ ἡμῖν καὶ πολεμίους ἡγοῦνται, ἀναιροῦντες καὶ κολάζοντες, ὁπόταν δύνωνται. Judæi nos hostes æstimant, punientes & occidentes quandocunque possunt.

a Vid. Cyprian. de Valera Hispan. Bib. not. in Mat. 23. 35.

b Whom ye shall have slain.

c Vid. c. 16. 19.

d Ib.

§. 3. Ad secundum quod attinet, De Christianis ad crucis scandalum impingentibus, clarissimum fuit, quod in fementis parabola Petrosa terræ obventurum prædixit Christus, Mar. 4. ubi de πρόσκαιροις, radicem non habentibus sic pronunciat, v. 17. post receptam alacriter, & cum gaudio fidem, θλίψεως ἢ διωγμοῦ διὰ τὸν λόγον, quamprimum persecutiones & procella Fidem impetant, εὐθέως σκανδαλίζονται, statim scandalizantur. Quod quidem sic intelligendum putârim, ut qui Christo semel credidérint, hoc crucis scandalo deterriti, non statim ad priorem ἀναστροφὴν recessuri essent, sed ad aliud aliquod vitæ genus, quod incolumitatem & εὐδίαν, pacata, & prospera, & jucunda omnia ipsis sponderet, lubentes diverterent, eo quidem ipso remedio tristissimum fidei Christianæ, cujus potissima pars est crucis gestatio, naufragium facientes, statim etiam & alia non pauca malæ mentis retrimenta, Universa Christianæ doctrinæ ruinam interminantia, huic fundamento superstructuri. Quod quidem hîc statim factum apparet, cùm, grassante in Christianos (à Judæis præcipuè invecta) persecutione, eaque non diu ante hunc supremum Judæis dilucentem diem, multi Christianæ fidei professores, ob mala

Christiano

Christiano nomini intentata, à verâ fide ad Gnosticorum dogmata, ipsis pro scutis & antidotis futura, deficerent. Quò, sine dubio illud Petri spectat, 1 Pet. 2. 8. multos ad Evangelium Christi impingere, ἀπειθοῦντας scilicet, qui, inquit Petrus, ad illud ἔπεσον; decernente quippe Christo, ut quod terræ petrosæ inseminabatur, incalescente sole exaresceret, ut insinceri Christianæ fidei professores, ingruentibus persecutionibus, ad hæreticorum & Apostatarum castra catervatim transfugerent, seque eo indicio προσκείμενος monstrarent; quod & Simeon prædixit, Luc. 2. 34. ὅτος κεῖται εἰς πτῶσιν, ad ruinam δειλῶν & ἀπίστων constitutus est.

§. 4. Illud enim de Simonis asseclis, aliisque istius seculi Gnosticis ex hoc fonte oriundis, imprimis notandum est. Duplici eos illecebrâ, non eâ solum, quâ libidinibus, sed & alterâ quâ incolumitati & securitâti omnium consulebatur, carnales quidem, sed & timidos, ad partes suas pellexisse; ideóque simul positos inveniri ex parte unâ δειλοὺς καὶ ἀπίστους, timidos & infideles, ex alterâ ἐβδελυγμένους καὶ πορνοὺς, abominandos & impuros, Apoc. 21. 8. quibus Gnosticos istius seculi designari, reliqua φονέων, φαρμακέων, εἰδωλολατρῶν caterva simul posita, mihi satis persuasum dedit.

§. 5. Quod ad primam attinet, id satis omnibus notum est, hos ψευδωνύμου γνώσεως ἀρχηγὲς (quibus ubique Clemens τὸν ἀληθῆ γνωστικὸν, Pios & verè dictos Gnosticos opponit) multos Christi professores (τὸν ὄντως ἀοιμωγόνας τὸν ἐν πλάνῃ, 2 Pet. 2. 18.) hâc voluptatum carnalium illecebrâ inescasse, & quotquot ad eorum partes accedebant, (seu, ut ait Eusebius, εἰς τὸ τέλειον τῆς κατ' αὐτὸν μυσαρωγίας, ἢ καὶ μᾶλλον μυσαρρησίας ἐλθόντα ἔμελλον) iis ἀκρατεστάτα πάντα, infandam impuritatum omnium licentiam intulisse, νόμον τὴν ἀκολασίαν τιθεμένους, inquit Theodoretus, ut & ἀσελγείας καὶ ἀθεμίτους διδασκάλους, incontinentiam, molliciem & nefanda omnia pro legibus discipulis suis proponentes. Sic & alibi idem Eusebius, Οἱ γόητες καὶ ἀπατηλοὶ, καὶ αὐτοὶ μὲν τὸ δόγμα θεοσηπείαν ὑποδύντες τῇ πίστει τὸν πρὸς αὐτοὺς ἁλισκομένους εἰς βυθὸν ἀπωλείας ἄγουσιν, Hi Magi & deceptores, eandem cum Christianis doctrinæ denominationem induentes, Christianos, quotquot fraudibus eorum capti sunt, in perditionis profunditatem secum trahunt, I. IV. c. ζ. (quò pertinet illud Petri de istis dictum, δελεάζοντες ψυχὰς ἀστηρίκτους, inescant instabiles animas, 2 Pet. 2. 4.) Simúlque iisdem technis τὸν τῆς πίστεως ἀγνῶτας τῆς ἐν τῷ σωτῆρι λόγου παρόδε ἀπολέπουσιν, alios fidei rudes à salutari viâ, aditúque ad fidem iis patente avertunt.

* Ἀρρητουργίαν καὶ ἀθέμιτον πεῖραν, ἣν ὑπὲρ ἀνθρώπου ἐπὶ σώματι φιλεῖν, ἤτοι πράττουσι, &c. Epiphan.

§. 6. Istas * ἀθεμίτους ἀρρητουργίας, & nefanda piacula recensere non vacabit. Ex quibus interim quam plurima Epistolarum Apostolicarum loca, Rom. 1. 29. & 13. 13. 1 Cor. 5. 10, 11. & 6. 9. 2 Cor. 12. 21. Gal. 5. 9. Ephes. 4. 19. & 5. 3. 1 Thess. 4. 6. 1 Pet. 4. 3. 2 Pet. 2. 14. Jud. 4. Col. 3. 5. de ἀσελγείαις, πλεονεξίαις (non ut [a] nummorum amor, sed ut [b] masculæ veneris usus, πλεονεξίας voce notatur) de [c] πορνείαις item, & εἰδωλολατρείαις explicare pronum est.

a Hebræorum בֶּצַע quæ avaritiam significat, libidinem etiam & concupiscentiam denotat, & cùm sæpius πλεονεξία reddatur, aliquando etiam μίασμὸς vertitur, Ezech. 33. 31. ubi idem intelligendum videtur quod v. 29. per [abominationes] explicatur. b Sic in Annotationibus Bedæ in Mat. 5. 32. (ubi de unicâ divortii causâ πορνεία sermo est) [Non, inquit, hic intelligitur tantùm fornicatio in stupro, quod in alienis viris & fœminis committitur, sed omnis concupiscentia, & avaritia, & Idololatria] Hæc sine dubio ex Græcis Scholiastis desumpta, qui hac in re ἐπιθυμίαν, πλεονεξίαν, εἰδωλολατρείαν reposuerant, hoc ipso sensu, quo singula ad ἀρρητουργίας carnales pertinebant. Aliter enim à Christi dicto [παρεκτὸς λόγου πορνείας] procul abfutura sunt. c Videatur Maimonides Moreh Neb. l. 3. c. 38. ubi commixtiones, seu incisiones arboris in aliam speciem, prohibitas ait, ut elongemur à causis Idololatriæ & fornicationum.

§. 7. Sic in Epistolâ Barnabæ, ubi ad τὴν μέλαιναν ὁδὸν viam tenebrarum (quam priora ad Gnosticos pertinere monstrant [Peribit homo habens viam veritatis scientiam (γνῶσιν) & se à via tenebrosâ non continens adhuc]) referuntur εἰδωλολατρεία, μοιχεία, φόνος (alibi φόνος τέκνων ἐν φθορᾷ) ἁρπαγὴ, παρβασις, φαρμακεία, μαγεία, πλεονεξία, & ἀποστασία θεοῦ, quibus viva Gnosticorum imago delineatur.

§. 8. Sic & in Epistolâ Polycarpi, monitum illud p. 22. [ut *abstineatis ab avaritiâ (*πλεονεξίας sine dubio) ut sitis casti] cui statim adjicitur, si quis non abstinuerit ab avaritiâ (ἀπὸ πλεονεξίας,) ab Idololatriâ coinquinabitur. Multos interim, quibus crux non placuit, tam molli, & delicato, & impuro dogmate, adeò carni & sanguini gratissimo, irretitos esse, 2 Pet. 2. 18. quis mirabitur?

§. 9. Secundum dogma (quo præcipuè δειλοῖς ignavis, & timidis, & à crucis scandalo abhorrentibus se conciliabant) his verbis proponebatur, Ἀδιαφορῆν εἰδωλοθύτων ὑπαγομένους, καὶ ἀκοινωνήτους διαφυλάττειν τοὺς τότε, καὶ τὸν τῆς συγχύσεως καιρὸν, Inter licita & adiaphora ponendum esse, si quis temporibus persecutionum (si à Paganis periculum esset) Idolothyta gustaret, (quoties verò à Judæis metueret) ipsam demum fidem abjuraret. Sic eorum sententiam descripsit [d] Agrippa Castor in Elencho suo contra Basilidem; Sic & [e] Irenæus, si quis, inquiunt, confitetur crucifixum, adhuc servus est, & sub potestate eorum qui corpora fecerunt; Qui autem negaverit, liberatus est.

Ap. Eus. l. 4. d ζ. e l. 1. c. 23.

§. 10. Illud quidem certum est, Basilidem post hæc excidii Hierosolymitani tempora, venena sua Ecclesiæ propinasse; At & illud constat, ipsum ea antecessoribus suis, & diserte Simoni accepta debuisse, Οὐκ ἀπὸ τῆς ἑαυτοῦ ἐννοίας ἐναρξάμενος ἡμῖν τὰ δεινά τε καὶ ὀλέθρια, ἀλλὰ προφάσεις λαβὼν ἐκ τῆς Σατορνίλου καὶ Σίμωνος. Non ille suopte ingenio periculosa, & exitialia dogmata primus excogitabat, sed à Saturnilo & Simone argumenta eorum mutuatus est, inquit Epiphanius hær. 24. &, ut semel dicam, semina universæ segetis, quâ postea omnes ferè Ecclesiæ χωρὶ, tanquam ad θερισμὸν tristem & exitialem ἐλθυκίνοντο, in hac unâ ψευδωνύμου γνώσεως hæresi jacta sunt.

§. 11. Quod de Basilidianis Agrippa, & Irenæus, idem etiam de Helkesaitis (ab Helkai, Trajani tempore, oriundis) Epiphanius notavit, hær. 19. & 53. ex eorum sententiâ, Fidem persecutionis tempore abjurari sine peccato posse, modò quis corde eam retinuerit; Ut & [f] Eusebius ex Origene, in Psal. 82. ὅτι τὸ ἀρνήσασθαι ἀδιάφορόν ἐστι, καὶ ὁ μὲν νοήσας τῷ στόματι ἀρνήσεται ἐν ἀνάγκαις, τῇ δὲ καρδίᾳ ἔχει (non dubitarim legendum esse, ὁμολογήσας τῷ στόματι) i. e. qui semel ore Christum confessus est, si à confessione ad martyrium vocetur (illud enim per ἀνάγκας, necessitates, angustias, extremum scilicet vitæ periculum, intelligendum est) illi tunc fidem abnegare licet, modò in corde non fiat. Quibus concordat illud Justini [g] mox producendum, hos nempe qui Idolothytis se liberè vesci affirmant, λέγειν Ἰησοῦν ὁμολογεῖν, se tamen dicere Jesum confiteri, in Dial. cum Tryph.

f l. 6. c. λη'. g §. 17.

§. 12. Sic de Prodico, & Valentino ab eâdem hâc stirpe (ἀπὸ τῆς μεγάλης ταύτης γνωστικῆς ἐπαγγελίας, inquit [h] Epiphanius, ab hâc magnâ Gnosticorum professione) prognatis affirmat Tertullianus in Scorpiaco, ubi martyrii bonum ex instituto demonstrat, illúdque ab his Martyriorum, quos vocat, refragatoribus, dogma recenset, Non esse palàm confitendum Christum, nec pro eo subeundum Martyrium.

h De Valentin.

§. 13. Imò

§. 13. Imò & argumentis eos dogma suum fulciendum putasse, c. 1. Semel nempe Christum pro nobis obiisse, occisum semel, ne nos occideremur, nec ideò à nobis vicem repetendam esse, nisi & ille salutem de nostrâ nece expectat, nec igitur hic, aut apud homines confessionem constitutam, sed in cœlo; c. 10. nec enim Deum sanguinem humanum sitire, nec Christum vicem passionis, quasi ipse de eâ salutem consecuturus esset, reposcere, cap. 15.

§. 14. Adversus hos, ille Divinissimus Scriptor valide & prolixè militat, Primò, à præceptis Dei contra Idololatriam latis, ducto argumento, c. 2. ex quibus, inquit, tota Martyriorum ratio constabit, c. 3. dein ex notissimo Johannis loco ad hanc materiam accommodatissimo, In dilectione timorem non esse, timorem scilicet, qui negationis auctor sit; cùm dilectio, quæ eum foràs mittit, sit animatrix confessionis, c. 12.

§. 15. Longum esset ex isto Scorpiaco, seu contra Gnosticorum Scorpios parato alexipharmaco, omnia recenlere. Quæ ipsa ad verbum frequenter imitatur Beatus Cyprianus, lib. de Exhort. ad Mart.

§. 16. Isto imbutos semel, & munitos dogmate, Christum abnegaturos, statimque, quotiescunque Christianis ἡμέραι πονηραὶ, dies mali impenderent, Fidei nuntium remissuros, quis sanus dubitaverit? Quod quidem ubique ante excidium Hierosolymitanum, hoc ipso, de quo jam loquebatur Christus, tempore, solenniter factum est.

§. 17. Si à Paganis periculum esset, Gnostici illicò Idolothyta comedendo se coram illis purgabant, contra Christianos interim se tuentes ex eo, quòd Idolum nihil sit; & contra hoc dogma disputantem Paulum 1 Cor. 8. à γνώσεως mentione (γνῶσις quippe γνώσεως) exordium fecisse videas, v. 1. eámque τῇ ἀγάπῃ (dilectioni scilicet isti aut Christi, aut veritatis Christianæ 2 Thess. 2. 10. quam hîc refrigescentem prævidit Christus) opponendam censuisse, v. 2. cujus geminata itidem mentio est, v. 7. & 10. Sic de Gnosticis Irenæus; Idolothyta contemnere, & nihil arbitrari, sed sine aliquâ trepidatione iis uti, l. 1. c. 23. ut & ante Irenæum * Justinus in Dial. cum Tryphone. Cùm enim Judæus ille Justino objiceret, * P. 198.
πολλοὺς τῶν τὸ Ἰησοῦν λεγόντων ὁμολογεῖν, καὶ λεγομένων χριστιανῶν, εἰδωλόθυτα, καὶ μηδὲν ἐν τούτῳ βλάπτεσθαι λέγειν, multos eorum qui se Christum confiteri dicerent, idolothyta edere, & se nihil ex eo detrimenti capere affirmare; Respondet Justinus, ex hoc ipso quòd tales essent, Christianos in fide confirmatiores reddi, cùm quæ Christus futura prædixerit, [Surrecturos scilicet multos Pseudochristos, &c. multósque decepturos] sic impleta conspiciant.

§. 18. Si autem à Judæis procella oriretur, Gnostici itidem statim fidem abnegare, se Judæos mentiri, & discipulis suis, ut circumciderentur, persuasis, in carne eorum ὑποφαίνεσθαι, Mosaica legis zelum omnem præ se ferre, Gal. 6. 12. καυχᾶσθαι, coram ipsis gloriari, v. 13. diligentissimos se ipsorum disciplinæ observatores venditare; Non quòd ad normam istam, vita, morésque eorum quovismodo amussitarentur, non quòd certò affirmari possit, ipsos circumcisionem susceptisse, (nec enim necessum est, ut illud v. 13. [οὐδὲ γὰρ οἱ περιτεμνόμενοι αὐτὸν νόμον φυλάσσουσι] sic reddatur, ut circumcisos illos fuisse, magis quàm legem observasse, exinde concludatur, sed sic, ut [οὐδὲ] integram periodum afficiat [neque ipsi circumcisi legem servant] i. e. [neque ipsi circumciduntur, neque legem observant.] Quò & illud Ignatii spectat, Ep. ad Philadelph. Satius est à circumciso Christianismum, quàm περὶ ἀκροβυστίᾳ Ἰουδαϊσμὸν, ab incircumciso (hæretico, aut Gnostico) Judaismum, i. e. circumcisionis legem accipere) sed tantummodo, ἵνα μὴ τῷ σταυρῷ Χριστοῦ διώκωνται, ut persecutionem à Judæis, Christianis, quà legis desertoribus, intentatam evitarent.

§. 19. Id illis aliquandiu satis feliciter, & ex animo ipsorum successisse notârunt antiqui, cùm alii omnes Christiani, aut à Judæis, aut Paganis infestarentur, neminem tamen illorum, aut ὑπὸ Ἰουδαίων διωχθέντα, aut ὑπὸ ἐθνῶν ἀποκτανθέντα, aut molestiam à Judæis, aut à Paganis persecutoribus mortis supplicium passum esse; Sic de ipso Simone, & ipsius sectatoribus, Gentiles alloquens, Justinus, οὐκ ἐδιώχθησαν ὑφ' ὑμῶν, Apol. 2. à vobis persecutionem non sunt passi, & iterum, εἰ τὰ δύσφημα ἐκεῖνα ἔργα μυθολογούμενα πράττουσιν, &c. ὃ γινώσκομεν, ἀλλ' ὅτι μὴ διώκονται, μηδὲ φονεύονται ὑφ' ὑμῶν, κἂν διὰ τὰ δόγματα, ὅτι σάμεθα, An infamia illa, & in vulgus sermonibus sparsa facinora in se admittant, nescimus, Persecutione quidem eos non peti, neque occidi à vobis, ob ipsa etiam dogmata, satis novimus. P. 54.

§. 20. Hinc illud putarim S. Petri, 2 Epist. 2. 1. de his ipsis temporibus, & Pseudoprophetis (introducentibus αἱρέσεις ἀπωλείας, sectas perditionis, quas ex * v. 10, 12, 13, 14, 15, 18. Gnosticorum hæreses fuisse statim dignosces) verba facientis, ἀρνούμενοι αὐτὸν δεσπότην ἀρνεῖσθαι, eos Christum ipsum, qui sanguine eos suo redemerat, cum sanguinis sui periculo confiteri nolle, sed ingruente calamitate statim abnegare, eos interim, cùm saluti suæ, & incolumitati sic consulant, vitæ, quas sic sollicitè servare cupiunt, disperdere, junctísque cum Judæis manibus, in eandem se cum illis πανολεθρίαν præcipitare, (ἐπάγοντες ἑαυτοῖς ταχινὴν ἀπώλειαν) subitaneam sibi ruinam accersentes eam nempe Judæis jamdiu appropinquantem, Mat. 3. 2. & 10. 7. & 24. 33. Mar. 13. 29. Luc. 10. 11. & 21. 30, 31, &c. ut & aliam postmodum funestiorem) ex quâ, qui fidei constanter adhæsurus sit, eum ante omnes evasurum Christus prædixerat, Mat. 10. 22. & 24. 13. & Mar. 13. 13. ut & vitam æternam in lucro accepturum. Quò respexisse Sanctum Barnabam nullus dubito, cùm de Gnosticis verba faciens, eósque cum fidelibus Christi asseclis componens, [a] Ἐν τῇ βασιλείᾳ, inquit, Χριστοῦ ἔσονται ἡμέραι πονηραὶ καὶ ῥυπαραὶ, ἐν αἷς ἡμεῖς σωθησόμεθα, In regno Christi, mali, & sordidi, aut luctuosi dies erunt, in quibus (pereuntibus Gnosticis) nos incolumitatem consequemur, & statim, γνόμφα ἡμῖν ἔσαι φανερὰ, ἐκείνοις δὲ σκοτεινὰ, nobis quidem lucida, illis tenebricosa obventura sunt.

* Τὰς διεστώσας σαρκὸς ἐν τῇ ἐπιθυμίᾳ μισοῦμεν πεφθαρμένας, & ἄλογα ζῶα γεγενημένα εἰς ἄλυσιν καὶ φθορὰν, & ἐντρυφῶντες ἐν ταῖς ἀπάταις, & καρδίαν γεγυμνασμένην πλεονεξίαις ἔχοντες, & ἀκολασθησάσης τῇ ὁδῷ τοῦ Βαλαὰμ, & ὑπερηφανίας μαθηταῖς τοῦ φθεγξαμένου δελεάζουσιν ἐν ἐπιθυμίαις σαρκὸς, ἐν ἀσελγείαις, &c.

§. 21. Idem de temporibus suis Judas edixit, v. 4. παρεισδύσαί τινας, irrepsisse tunc in Ecclesiam nonnullos, gratiam Dei in ἀσελγείαν transmutantes, Jesumque solum Dominum suum abnegantes, quos Gnosticos fuisse universa Epistola luculenter monstrat; Et de iis disertè dicitur in initio versus, εἰς τοῦτο τὸ κρῖμα προγεγραμμένοι, ad hoc judicium præscriptos, i. e. prædicente Christo, & Apostolis designatos fuisse.

§. 22. Quid sit illud [κρῖμα] ex prius-laudato Petri commate liquebit, nempe ταχινὴ ista ἀπώλεια, repentina perditio (vel, ut sequitur, τὸ κρῖμα ἔκπαλαι οὐκ ἀργεῖ, καὶ ἡ ἀπώλεια αὐτῶν οὐ νυστάζει, v. 3.) que Gnosticos, quâ tales, aliósque, ex mente Gnosticorum, saluti suæ sollicitè prospicientes, ipsósque, quo se tutos sperabant, dogmate se prodentes, oppressura erat. Illud [b] Eusebius sub Claudii imperio factum narrat, Simon, inquit, transfossus, & ἡ τῆς ἀνδρὸς ἀπάτη καὶ φαρμακεία κατηλέλυτο, διὰ παντὸς, potentia ejus statim extincta est, Et [c] iterum, λόγῳ θᾶττον εἰς τὸ παντελὲς ἀποσβήσαν, dicto citiùs penitus extincti sunt. Idémque Christus præmonstraverat, obscuriùs quidem, cùm τοὺς ὑπομένοντας εἰς τέλος, eos esse peculiariter affirmaret, quibus (τὸ σώζεσθαι) ista ex Judaicâ clade evasio, seu incolumitas speranda esset; At & luce clarius, Mat. 16. 25. Cùm de crucis tollendæ disciplinâ illud adderet, eum, qui animam suam salvam facere

a P. 227.
b L. 2. c. 13.
c L. 3. c. 1.

facere voluerit, perditurum esse, quod de æternâ animæ salute neutiquam dici potuit, cùm eam servandi, aut incolumem præstandi consilium, nullo modo culpabile, aut puniendum fuerit, sed de vitæ nimiâ, & cum constantiæ & fidei dispendio conjunctâ, sollicitudine; Idque peculiariter habito respectu ad hunc Christi adventum, v. 27. qui, inquit Christus, quibusdam ibi astantibus (Johanni proculdubio, priusquam mortem gustaverit) spectandus erat, v. 28.

§. 23. Idem & à Paulo distinctè (προηγορευμένον) prædictum, seu præscriptum fuit, 2 Thess. 2. 8. (ut mox dicitur) imò à Deo ipso præstitutum, ut πρόσκαιροι omnes sic explorati, Fidem Christi planè destituerent, sibíque funestissimam cladem arcesserent.

§. 24. Huc referendum putârim dictum illud Apostoli ad Galatas, c. 4. 13. Scitis, inquit, quòd δι' ἀσθένειαν τῆς σαρκὸς εὐαγγελισάμην ὑμῖν τὸ πρότερον, καὶ τὸν πειρασμόν μου τὸν ἐν τῇ σαρκί μου οὐκ ἐξουθενήσατε, οὐδὲ ἐξεπτύσατε, ἀλλ' ὡς Ἄγγελον Θεοῦ ἐδέξασθέ με, &c. Idem planè hîc ἀσθένεια τῆς σαρκὸς, & πειρασμὸς ἐν τῇ σαρκὶ, ut & σκόλοψ δοθεὶς τῇ σαρκὶ, 2 Cor. 12. 7. (ex Ezech. 28. 24. ubi afflictiones Israelitarum sic appellantur, pungens vepretum, & contristans surculus) & κολαφίζων ἄγγελος ibidem, quos per ἀσθένειαν, v. 9. per ἀσθενείας, ὕβρεις, ἀνάγκας, διωγμοὺς, στενοχωρίας ὑπὲρ Χριστοῦ, v. 10. per omne genus persecutiones pro Christo toleratas, explicari videas. Hæ mihi, inquit Paulus, persecutiones satis cumulatè obtigerunt, cùm priùs vobis Evangelium prædicarem, & tunc quidem has ob fidem Christi perpessiones meas non adeò aversabimini, sed me, licet omnigenis afflictionibus undique cinctum, ut Angelum Dei recipiebatis, &, ut sequitur, vos ipsos beatos censebatis, quòd me talem Apostolum vobis Christus indulserat, ipsíque, si opus esset, quodlibet pro me passuri eratis, imò charissimos oculos vestros ἐξορύξαντες, aut siquid charius, mihi daturi. Jam verò, inquit, post hæc ἀπατεῶνες inter vos jacta semina, nulla affectûs hujus indicia, aut reliquias perspicio; Omnia in contrarium mutata, Abdicandus est ille Apostolus, ut ἐχθρὸς, v. 16. incolumitati Galatarum infensus, qui Mosaicorum rituum abrogationem annuntians, odia & inimicitias Judæorum, tandémque persecutiones discipulis inducit, Illíque soli vos ζηλοῦν, præ omnibus diligere putantur, qui nos excludi volunt, ut soli à vobis diligantur, v. 17. hi scil. Judaizantes Gnostici, c. 3. 1. &c.

§. 25. De hâc Gnosticorum praxi & dogmate, Christum in angustiis abnegantium, Apostolus alibi pronuntiat, multos nempe inter Philippenses eo tempore fuisse, deploratissimæ & toties conclamatæ sectæ Christianos, τοὺς ἐχθροὺς τοῦ σταυροῦ τοῦ Χριστοῦ, Phil. 3. 18. Crucis Christi inimicos. Sic & Polycarpus in Epist. ad eosdem Philippenses, eorum mentionem facit, p. 23. & τοὺς μὴ ὁμολογοῦντας τὸ μαρτύριον τοῦ σταυροῦ, eorum qui martyrium crucis non confitentur, p. 20. quibus, Simonis (πρωτοτόκου τοῦ Σατανᾶ) assecias Gnosticos notari, sequentia satis monstrant.

* De Præscript. c. 46.

§. 26. Hâc inimicorum crucis προφάσει, ait * Tertullianus, Basilidiani, i. e. Gnostici innuuntur, qui ἀδύνατον θεοσέβειαν exercentes, quicquam pro Christo pati recusarunt, Quos ut sequentia [ὧν ὁ Θεὸς κοιλία, ἡ δόξα ἐν τῇ αἰσχύνῃ, &c.] Gnosticos fuisse monstrant, sic & eorum finis ἀπώλεια, v. 19. ut & Eph. 5. 6.

§. 27. Sic cùm Hebræos suos contra πικρίας ῥίζαν, hujus scilicet Apostaticæ sectæ venenum, armari cuperet Apostolus, Heb. 12. 15. statímque adderet [πόρνος, & βέβηλος, ὡς Ἠσαῦ] ad Gnosticos eum respexisse mox patebit, quibus permixti, & irretiti Hebræi fratres, i. e. Christianæ fidei professores, πρωτοτόκια sua tam vili vendebant, ipsam nimirum, ut momentaneæ incolumitati suæ consulerent, Christi fidem abnegantes, c. 3. 12. aut saltem cœtus Christianorum destituentes, c. 10. 25.

§. 28. De his intelligendus Plinius, sub temporibus Trajani, Epist. 10. 97. ubi plures Christianos se esse negantium species annumerat, Multorum qui negârunt se esse Christianos, aut fuisse, Deos appellârunt, imagini Cæsaris thure ac vino supplicârunt, Christo maledixerunt; Aliorum qui se esse Christianos dixerunt, & mox negârunt, fuisse quidem, sed desiisse; Aliorum denique qui post edictum Plinii, quo hetæriæ vetabantur, cœtus, & conventus facere desiêrunt. At de istis plus satis.

CAP. IV.

Gnostici Christianorum infestissimi hostes. Eorum schisma, 1 Joh. 2. 1. & 5. 8. Odium contra fratres. Mordentes, & κύνες, Gal. 5. 15. Phil. 3. 2. κατατομὴ, 2 Tim. 3. 3. Gal. 5. 20. Apoc. 9. 21. πλάνη τοῦ Βαλαὰμ (διδαχὴ Βαλαὰμ, Apoc. 2. 14.) ἀντιλογία Κορὲ, ὁδὸς τοῦ Κάϊν, Jud. 11. 1 Pet. 4. 17. Κρίμα ἀπὸ οἴκου τοῦ Θεοῦ λυκοὶ βαρεῖς.

§. 1. AD illud transeamus, quod tertiò addendum putavit Christus, desertores hosce, reliquos statim Christianos internecino odio prosecuturos fuisse, ipsísque persecutoribus ad supplicium tradituros. Id enim de Gnosticis itidem certissimum est.

§. 2. Orthodoxos omnes, & puros Christianæ fidei professores primò deserebant, unionémque Ecclesiæ hoc schismate disrumpebant, ἐξ ἡμῶν ἐξῆλθον, inquit Johannes 1 Epist. 2. 1. ex nobis exiverunt, in Apostolicæ Ecclesiæ gremio diutiùs non mansuri) dein disruptâ unitate, Charitatem omnem erga fratres, i. e. Christianos exuebant, 1 Joh. 4. 8. (ex quo concludit Apostolus [οὐκ ἔγνω τὸν Θεὸν] æquivocè tantùm Gnosticos dici posse) imò odio eos habebant, c. 2. 9. (quod de his ipsis Gnosticis dictum esse, ex eo quod præcesserat, criterio, [ὁ λέγων ἔγνωκα αὐτὸν, &c.] aliísque quamplurimis in Epistolâ istâ sparsis, abundè liquet) tandémque ἀλλήλους ἔδακνον καὶ κατήσθιον, Christianos mordebant & devorabant, Gal. 5. 15. ideóque κύνες canes appellantur, Phil. 3. 2. (ut & κύνες λυττῶντες, canes rabidi Ignatio, Epist. ad Eph.) simulque κατατομὴ concisio, quòd cum se Judæos, i. e. circumcises, & Mosaicæ περιτομῆς zelotas mentirentur, minimè tamen legem observarent, sed hâc tantùm προφάσει Ecclesiam Christi lacerarent.

§. 3. Hinc ἄσπιλοι, διάβολοι, ἄνημεροι, ἀφιλάγαθοι, tandémque προδόται, proditores dicti sunt, 2 Tim. 3. 3. Hinc inter carnalia eorum opera, non solùm ἀκροσοφίαν, & ejusmodi nefanda nomina, sed & (post φαρμακείαν, alium istum ψεύδων seu magorum horum characterem) ἔχθρας, ζηλείας, διχοστασίας, αἱρέσεις, φθόνους, φόνους τε, ipsas demum cædes, & homicidia posita videmus, Gal. 5. 20, 21. Quorum item mentio, Apoc. 9. 21. cum φαρμακείαις, & πορνείαις conjuncta, eosdem respicere videtur. Ut & in Epistolâ Barnabæ, διακτικὴ τῆς ἀγαθῶν, &c.

§. 4. Exhinc

§. 4. Exhinc itidem constabit, quare non solùm τῷ πλάνῳ τῆ Βαλαὰμ (διδαχῷ dixit Johannes Apoc. 2. 14. doctrinam) errorem Balsami, fœdissimam nempe Moabiticarum fœminarum constuprationem cum Idololatriâ conjunctam, (ad quam, [a] mercede conductus Balaam, alliciendos & inescandos Israelitas [b] monuit, pari modo quo purioris Fidei professores ad impuritates suas trahebant Gnostici) ut & τῷ ἀντιλογίαν τῆ Κορὲ, (ob Apostolorum, & ἡγουμένων omnium authoritatem naùci habitam) sed & τῷ ὁδῷ τῆ Κάϊν, viam Caini, fratrem suum ideo tantùm, quòd opera ipsius mala, fratris autem bona essent, jugulantis, his ipsis objici videamus, Jud. 11.

[a] Μισθοῦ, Jud. 11.

[b] Ἐξέδυσαν τὸν Βαλαὰμ βαλεῖν σκάνδαλον ἐνώπιον τῶν υἱῶν Ἰσραὴλ, φαγεῖν εἰδωλόθυτα καὶ πορνεῦσαι. Apoc. 2. 14.

§. 5. Quò itidem respexisse Petrum palam est, cùm 1 Epist. 4. 17. tempus, aut opportunitatem τῆ ἄρξασθαι τὸ κρῖμα ἀπὸ τῆ οἴκυ τῆ Θεῆ, quo scilicet puriores Christiani, à Judæis, & Gnosticis mala quæque passuri erant, imminere affirmavit, aliam mox ὀψὲ ποτὲ futuram prædicens (fatalem istam Judæis impendentem diem, v. 7.) quâ Evangelio Dei ἀπειθοῦντες omnes, Judæi unâ, Gnosticique, miserandum in modum plectendi erant, v. 18.

§. 6. His adjungendum illud Justini * Quæst. & Respons. ad Orthod. ubi cùm quæratur, quomodo iniquum non sit, hæreticos, qui assequi veritatem non possunt, pœnis subdere? Ex hæreticorum, qui ante ejus tempora in Ecclesiâ Primitivâ exorti fuerant, consideratione sic respondet, Hæreticis solenne esse contrasentientes condemnare, ideóque Hæresiarchas ab Apostolo, λύκυς βαρεῖς lupos (ovili Christi, i. e. Orthodoxis omnibus) graves nuncupari.

* Quæst. 4.

CAP. V.

Gnostici ψευδοπροφῆται dicti, 2 Cor. 11. 13. 2 Pet. 2. 1. 1 Tim. 4. 1. διδασκαλίαι δαιμονίων, ἑτεροδιδασκαλοῦντες, 1 Tim. 6. 3. Pessimum Gnosticorum dogma, πορισμὸν τῆ εὐσεβείαν. φιλαργυρίας malum, v. 10. Clemens Alex. de Gnosticis. Justini Testimonium. Christiani à Gnosticis irretiti.

§. 1. AD quartum à Christo pronuntiatum expediendum, paucissimis opus erit. Hos enim è Simonis familiâ per Menandrum, & Carpocratem, aliósque institutos Gnosticos, Pseudoprophetas; Pseudodoctores ubique vocant Apostoli. Pseudapostoli, inquit Paulus, 2 Cor. 11. 13. μετασχηματιζόμενοι εἰς ἀποστόλυς Χρις῀ῦ, eodem modo, quo Satanas in Angelum lucis sese transmutat, ψευδαδιδάσκαλοι, 2 Pet. 2. 1. ψευδολόγοι (& πνεύματα πλάνα) 1 Tim. 4. 1. διδασκαλίας δαιμονίων, doctrinas planè diabolicas, de nuptiis non contrahendis, sed putidissimis ἀσελγείαις earum vice usurpandis, (non, quod viro magno placuit, sequioris ævi dogmata de mortuis adorandis, nuptisque Clero interdicendis) in Ecclesiam invehentes: de quibus videatur Clemens Alex. Strom. l. 3.

§. 2. Sic & ἑτεροδιδασκαλοῦντες, 1 Tim. 6. 3. (à quibus, ut ab Hæreticis, abstinendum jubet Paulus, v. 5.) multis indiciis se Gnosticos esse produnt, eo præcipuè quod πορισμὸν τῆ τῷ εὐσέβειαν putarent. Eo enim ipsissimo dogmate continebantur omnia de Christianis à Dominorum jugo liberandis, v. 1. & crucis aversatione toties Gnosticis imputatâ, dogmata, (quos ideo τῆς ψευδωνύμυ γνώσεως, v. 20. ut & τῆ μηδὲν θιγεῖν μεμιασμένων, πεπλυμένων ἢ titulo insignitos videas, v. 4.) ut & φιλαργυρίας malum, malorum omnium radix, v. 10. & τὸ βούλεσθαι πλουτεῖν, v. 9. Quod & Gnosticis imprimis objici videas insigni apud Clementem Al. in Strom. loco, quem hîc integrum apponi abs re non erit. Περὶ τῦ ἀληθῶς γνωστικῦ, de pio & propriè dicto Gnostico, vero & genuino mysteriorum indagatore, quatenus ille ψευδωνύμως sic dicto opponitur, sic loquitur, Οἶδεν, inquit, δείλὸς ἢ τῆς νηστείας τὰ αἰνίγματα, τῆ ἡμερῶν τέτων, τῆς τετράδ☉ ἢ τῆς παρασκευῆς λέγω. Ἐπιφημίζονται γὰρ, ἡ μὲν Ἑρμεῖ, ἡδὲ Ἀφροδίτης. Ἀνύπνα νηστεύει καὶ ὁ βίον φιλαργυρίας τε ὁμῦ, ἢ φιληδονίας, ἐξ ὧν αἱ πᾶσαι ἀκφύονται κακίαι. Novit ille jejunii ænigmata, dierum scilicet quartæ & sextæ. Ea enim Mercurii, hæc Veneris dies dicitur, Ideóque jejunat & abstinet ille ab amore pecuniæ & voluptatis, ex quibus omnia mala nascuntur.

§. 3. Pòst Paulum videatur Justinus, loco illustri, & prius laudato, in Dial. ad Tryph. ubi factâ Gnosticorum mentione, sub titulo λεγομένων Χριστιανῶν, qui Idolothytis vescendi libertatem sibi vendicabant, concludit Justinus, in his istam Christi prophetiam impletam esse, quâ Pseudochristos, & Pseudoapostolos orituros prænuntiat, πολλὺς τῆ πίστιν πλανήσοντας, qui fidelium multos decepturi erant. Sic & alibi, Christum prænoviisse, quæ post resurrectionem, & ascensionem ejus futura essent, Pseudprophetas nempè & Pseudochristos multos in nomine ejus (sub Christianæ professionis larvâ) venturos, ὅθεν, inquit, ἢ πολλοὶ πολλοὶ γὰρ ἄθεα καὶ βλάσφημα, καὶ ἄδικα ἐν ὀνόματι αὐτῦ ἐτόλμησαν, ἐδίδαξαν, καὶ τὰ ὑπὸ διαβόλ☉ πνεύματ☉ διαβόλυ ἐμβαλλόμενα ἢ διανοίαις αὐτῶν, καὶ διδάσκυσι μέχρι νῦν. Quod quidem impletum est; Multa enim impia & blasphema & injusta sub nomine ejus falsò cuderunt, & quæ mentibus eorum ab impuro spiritu (ne eum de Gnosticis locutum non esse dubitemus) diabolo sunt injecta, docuerunt, & etiamnum nunc tradunt.

P. 195, 196.

P. 241.

§. 4. Quod verò & Christus, & ex Evangelio Justinus adjicit, hos Pseudoprophetas multos fidelium, ipsiúsque Christi gregis partem non minimam, eo ipso (statim post ascensionem Christi) tempore secum abrepturos, illud in Gnosticis eventum suum sortiebatur. Christianos enim per speciosum fidei nomen illectos undique ad eorum castra defeciisse, καὶ πάσας σχεδὸν λαμβάνες, inquit Justinus Apol. 2. pro Christ. universam fere Samariam (Apostolicæ prædicationis primitias, Act. 8. 14.) & ὀλίγυς δὲ καὶ ἐν ἄλλοις ἔθνεσιν, aliarum regionum aliquos iisdem erroribus irretitos esse.

CAP. VI.

Charitatis refrigescentia, Apoc. 2. 4. Laodicenus tepor, Apoc. 3. 16. Gnostici in Asiâ, 1 Joh. 4. 17, 18. explicata, 1 Pet. 2. 11, 16, 19, 21. 2 Tim. 3. 4. Paulina ἀγάπης elogia, 1 Cor. 13. 7. & 16. 22. explicata, Eph. 5. 2. & 6. 24.

§. 1. QUintò igitur quod prædixit Christus fore, ut Mosaica disciplinæ Zelotis, Gnosticisque Pseudoprophetis, in Christianorum perniciem conspirantibus, & sic in suspendam molem auctâ persecutionum iniquitate, refrigesceret multorum erga Christum & veritatem Christianam ardentior charitas, id etiam ubique sub istis temporibus factum constat.

§. 2. Sic Ephesina Ecclesia πρωτὴν ἀγάπην ἀφῆκε, primam, vel quæ primò ab ipsis exercebatur, charitatem amiserat, vel remiserat, Apoc. 2. 4. à pristinæ erga Christum dilectionis ardore multùm declinaverat, cùm priùs in eâdem & ἔργα, & κόπον, & ὑπομονὴν (eam quam, si ad finem duraverit, Mat. 24. 13. coronandam pollicetur) Christus deprædicaverat, v. 2.

§. 3. Eundem Ecclesia Laodicena teporem imitabatur, Apoc. 3. 18. calamitates Christianæ professioni undique impendentes ægrè perpessa, Christóque igitur monitore indigebat, ut aurum ex igne πεπυρωμένον ab eo emeret, i. e. dilectionem erga Christum, & constantiam quibusvis perpessionibus redimerat.

§. 4. Quamplurima tepidæ hujus, & impurissimæ sectæ semina, in istis Asiaticis Ecclesiis sparsa fuisse, non solùm Epistola ista ad septem Ecclesias, Apoc. 2. & 3. conscripta monstrat, sed & idem etiam Catholica prima ejusdem Johannis Epistola satis manifestè indicat, quâ Asiaticos, peculiarem Joannis provinciam (τὰς ἀντὸθι διέπων ἐκκλησίας, Ecclesias quæ illic erant, administravit, inquit Eusebius l. 3. c. κγ'. Ephesique, quæ est harum Ecclesiarum Metropolis, diem obiit, ait * Polycrates ejusdem Episcopus) ut alexipharmaco, aut φυλακτηρίῳ sacro muniri voluit, ideóque charitatis hujus perfectæ, & Christum, etiam cùm pericula extrema imminerent, confessuræ necessitatem ubique inculcavit. Perfectus, inquit, Christi amor, charitásque, metum ἔξω βάλλει, procul à se arcendum curat, inter rejectanea, & viro Christiano planè indigna, æstimat, 1 Joh. 4. 18. In hoc, inquit, perficitur charitas μεθ' ἡμῶν, aut ea quæ inter verè Christianos reperitur, aut si cuivis magis placeat, ipsius Dei erga nos charitas, quæ in eo imprimis consistit, ut nos Dilectissimo filio suo conformes reddat, (τοῦτο χάρις παρὰ Θεῷ, 1 Pet. 2. 19, 20.) ἵνα παῤῥησίαν ἔχωμεν ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῆς κρίσεως, ut fidenter Christum confiteamur, sic παῤῥησία significat, Heb. 10. 35.) in die judicii, i. e. cùm pro tribunali à Judæis sistamur, & à tyrannis ad mortem condemnemur, ὅτι καθὼς ἐκεῖνός ἐστι, κἀ ἡμεῖς ἐσμὲν ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ τούτῳ, Qui enim sic facit, Christum ipsum (hîc coram Procuratoris Pilati tribunali καλὴν μαρτυρίσαντα ὁμολογίαν, pulchram testificantem confessionem, 1 Tim. 6. 13.) disertè imitatur.

* Apud Eusebium, l. 3. c. λα'.

* 1 Pet. 4. 7.

§. 5. Quod & à Petro, sub isto * ἤγγικεν δὲ τὸ τέλος πάντων, appropinquantis omnium finis, i. e. excidii, seu πανολεθρίας Judaicæ tempore, factum cernimus, qui primâ ad easdem Asiaticas Ecclesias destinatâ Epistolâ, à Ζαρκικῶν ἐπιθυμιῶν, 2. 11. & libertatis, quâ Secta ista κακίαν omnigenam velabat, mentione, v. 16. simúlque de obedientiâ Magistratibus præstandâ, non paucis contra eosdem Gnosticos (vide 2 Pet. 2. 10. Jude 8.) adjectis, pergit ad perpessionum Christianarum doctrinam, v. 19. & 21. ut & c. 3. 14, 17. & c. 4. 16, 19.

§. 6. Hinc de Gnosticis dictum illud, 2 Tim. 3. 4. φιλήδονοι μᾶλλον ἢ φιλόθεοι, voluptatum magis quàm Dei, aut Christi amatores esse; nec Christo Jesu Domino nostro, sed ventri aut gulæ suæ servire, Rom. 16. 18. Hinc & frequentia ista apud Sanctum Paulum τῆς ἀγάπης charitatis, aut dilectionis, in amplitudine suâ, tam Dei, quam fratrum dilectionem complectentis Elogia, 1 Cor. 13. (supra omnium mysteriorum cognitionem, καὶ πᾶσαν τὴν γνῶσιν, mysticam nempe istam scripturarum intelligentiam, v. 2.) ut omnia στέγουσης, & ὑπομένουσης, v. 7. quascunque calamitates pro Christi nomine constanter toleraturæ, & c. 8. 1. ut Christianum hominem οἰκοδομούσης (ita ut vivum Ecclesiæ, i. e. Corporis Christi, membrum, adeóque cum reliquo fidelium cœtu καταρτισμένον æstimetur) & πάσῃ τῇ γνώσει, huic omni, quam sibi Gnostici arrogabant) mysteriorum cognitioni è diametro oppositæ, v. 2. &c.

§. 7. Hinc censurarum indictio, 1 Cor. 16. 22. in eos omnes, qui Dominum Jesum Christum non dilexerint, qui scilicet eum persecutionum tempore destituerint, sic ut ἀγαπᾶν & ἀντέχεσθαι, diligere, & constanter adhærere, pro eodem ponuntur, Mat. 6. 24. Nec enim de interno amore, Apostoli dictum explicari debet, cùm interni affectus, utcunque vitiosi, sub censuram, aut anathema Ecclesiasticum non cadant.

§. 8. Hinc adhortationes crebræ, Eph. 5. 2. περιπατεῖτε ἐν ἀγάπῃ καθὼς καὶ ὁ Χριστὸς, ambulate in charitate, eâ nempe, quæ ad exemplum, & ὑπογραμμὸν Christi, (1 Pet. 2. 21. & 1 Joh. 4. 17.) qui se pro nobis morti tradidit, exigebatur, eâque iterum, quæ Gnosticorum ἀναρχητῇ, versu tertio delineatæ, opponebatur. Et c. 6. 24. Gratia cum omnibus qui diligunt Dominum nostrum Jesum Christum ἐν ἀφθαρσίᾳ, eâ quippe dilectione, quæ fide sanâ, & ὑπομονῇ ex utroque latere munitur, Tit. 2. 2. quæ Rom. 12. 9. ἀγάπη ἀνυπόκριτος dicitur (cùm è contra hypocritæ iniquitatem potiùs, quam afflictionem eligere dicatur, Job 36. 21.) & πρόσωπον τὸ πονηρὸν, impiorum hujus sectæ dogmatum & facinorum aversationi præludit, quam denique nulla Gnosticorum stratagemata illis ereptura, aut * corruptura essent.

* Ἀφθαρσία ab α, & φθείρω, unde φθορὰ quæ Gnosticorum impurissimis doctrinis, factisque ubique attribuitur.

CAP. VII.

Ἐπισυναγωγὴ ἐγκαταλεπόντες, Heb. 10. 33. Ἔφθασεν, v. 33. Ἡμέρα ἐγγίζουσα, Rom. 13. 11. σωτηρία. Barnabæ Epistola Mysticis Gnosticorum Scripturæ explicationibus opposita. Γνώσεως duplex genus.

§. 1. DE hâc Christianorum, sub ingruente ἀνομίας πλημμυρούσης flumine, refrigescente Charitate, quædam ulteriùs ἐν παρέργῳ adjici possunt; Exhinc factum esse, ut fidelium aliqui in confessione Christi vacillantes, τὴν ἐπισυναγωγὴν ἑαυτῶν derelinquerent, Heb. 10. 25. cœtus nempe Ecclesiasticos, ut incolumitati & securitati suæ consulerent, paulatim deserentes, quod ὑποστέλλεσθαι dicitur, v. 38. eodem modo quo Petro objicitur, quod ὑπέστελλε καὶ ἀφώριζεν ἑαυτὸν, φοβούμενος, &c. subtraxit, & separavit se præ timore Judæorum, Gal. 2. 12. Quâ de re divinus author Hebræos suos monendos duxit, eóque potissimum amuleto muniendos, quòd τὴν ἡμέραν ἐγγίζουσαν, diem nempe visitationis, eâdem clade geminos Christianorum hostes, Judæos & Gnosticos æquaturum, jam statim adfuturum prævideret. Quo quidem, spei, vel fidei Christianæ professores animandi, & persuadendi erant, ne in ultimo jam virtutis stadio deficerent, & post πολλὴν παθημάτων ἄθλησιν, diutinum perpessionum certamen, v. 32. τὴν παῤῥησίαν, pristinam confidentiam, & constantiam abjicerent, v. 35. cum, ut inquit Apostolus, ἔτι μικρὸν ὅσον ὅσον, ὁ ἐρχόμενος ἥξει, καὶ οὐ χρονιεῖ, v. 37. ille suorum ultor v. 30. qui jamdiu venturus prædicebatur, statim sine omni morâ adventum suum maturaturus esset.

§. 2. Quo quidem argumento, ad ingenerandam fessis constantiam accommodatissimo, ad expurgandum Romanis suis Gnosticorum fermentum, usus est Sanctus Paulus, Rom. 13. 11. Et hoc, inquit, cùm sciatis καιρὸν, opportunitatem, (ipsum scilicet punctulum aut articulum temporis, in quo eos alloquebatur) νῦν γὰρ ἐγγύτερον ἡ σωτηρία, ἢ ὅτε ἐπιστεύσαμεν, Nunc enim dies ille, v. 12. quo persecutoribus Judæis, seductoribus etiam Gnosticis perditio, fidelibus autem, & puris Christi confessoribus evasio, & incolumitas sic sonat [a] aliquoties σωτηρία) obventura est, multò propinquior est, quàm cùm susceptâ imprimis fide Christo nomina dedissent.

[a] Ecclus. 46. 1. σωτηρία ἐκλεκτῶν, à Josua præstita, liberatio electorum ejus, & σωτηρία ἑτοίμη ἀποκαλυφθῆναι ἐν καιρῷ ἐσχάτῳ, 1 Pet. 1. 5. & ἀσφαλὴς σωτηρία, 2 Pet. 3. 15. & κοινὴ σώτηρία, Jud. 3. evasio fidelibus omnibus (ut Israelitis ex Ægypto, v. 5. Loto ex Sodomâ, 2 Pet. 2. 7.) obventura, ut & ἐπλούτησεν, Luc. 21. 28.

§. 3. Ex hâc δεῦτε videre est, quàm non pauca sint hujus Instrumenti (Epistolarum præcipuè Apostolicarum) commata, quæ à Gnosticorum doctrinis, factísque lucem plurimam acceptura sunt.

§. 4. Et, ut id obiter dicam, Apostoli Barnabæ, quæ non ita pridem prodiit, Epistola, ex hoc uno Gnosticorum charactere, commodè explicari poterit, aliàs (ut complicatum, & prolixum ænigma) certissimam lectoribus crucem factura. Isti quippe Simonis asseclæ, γνῶσιν, i. e. Scripturæ sacræ mysticè interpretandæ facultatem sibi arrogantes, multa veteris Testamenti mysteria ad impuros usus suos accommodabant. Sic de illis Polycarpus Ep. ad Phil. p. 20. ὃς ἂν μεθοδεύῃ τὰ λόγια τοῦ Κυρίου πρὸς τὰς ἰδίας ἐπιθυμίας, περιτόμιός ἐστι τοῦ Σατανᾶ, & fusè Epiphanius in hær. Gnosticorum.

§. 5. Hinc Barnabas hâc ferè universâ Epistolâ suâ, veteris Instrumenti loca quamplurima mysticè etiam, & cabalisticè expositа, (quale illud quòd [b] modò ex Clemente obiter protulimus) Gnosticorum doctrinis opponit, primò ut Christum verè natum, passúmque probaret, quod à Gnosticis negatum, τί λέγει, inquit, ἡ γνῶσις, μάθετε, ἐλπίσατε ἐπὶ τὴν ἐν Σαρκὶ μέλλοντα φανερῶσθαι ὑμῖν Ἰησοῦν, Discite, quid Scientia dicit, Spem scilicet omnem in Jesu in carne manifestando ponendam esse, & istiusmodi multa. Secundò ut circumcisionem, & ritus Mosaicos abolitos concluderet, Deum enim comparasse populum dilecto suo, qui in simplicitate esset crediturus, & ostendisse omnibus, ut non incurrant tanquam proselyti ad illorum legem, quam Gnostici Judaizantes observandam contenderunt. Tertiò denique, ut τερατείαν, παιδοφθορίαν, ἀκρασίαν omnigenam, à Leporis, hyænæ, mustelaque inderdictione Mosaicâ, fugiendas suaderet, (sic ut incisionem arboris in aliam speciem, prohibitam Judæis affirmat [c] Maimonides, ut elongemur à causis Idololatriæ, & fornicationum) Quibus ubique γνώσεως mentionem immiscet, ejúsque duplex genus proponit, Unum ὁδὸν τοῦ φωτὸς, viam lucis (eandem quæ ὁδὸς ἀληθείας à Petro dicitur, 2 Pet. 2. 2. & Gnosticis planè opponitur) & γνῶσιν πορεύεσθαι ἐν αὐτῇ, scientiam ambulandi in illâ, & postea γνῶσιν δικαιωμάτων Θεοῦ ἐν ὑπομονῇ, scientiam judiciorum Dei in patientia, per omnia his putidis Gnosticis oppositam, Alterum itidem à sectatoribus ipsius γνῶσιν dictum, sed eorum qui à viâ tenebrosâ adhuc non continent, item τὴν τοῦ μέλανος ὁδὸν, Scholiæ, & καπρὸς μεσῶν, Nigri, seu tenebrarum viam, obliquam & execrationis plenam, ad quam, inquit, reducenda εἰδωλολατρία, ἀγνωσία, ὕβρις, διωγμὸς, ὑπόκρισις, ἀπιστία, μοιχεία, φόνος, ἁρπαγὴ, ὑπερηφανία, παράβασις, δόλος, κακία, αὐθάδεια, φαρμακία, μαγεία, πλεονεξία, ἀφροσύνη Θεοῦ, ἀποστροφὴ τῶν ἀγαθῶν, μισοῦντες δικαιοσύνην, Idololatria, confidentia, sublimitas, potentiæ simulatio (sic Simon dixit se τινα μέγαν εἶναι, Act. 8. 9.) deceptio, fornicatio, cædes, rapina, superbia, transgressio (legum omnigenarum) dolus, malitia, audacia, magia, intempestiva cupiditas, Dei nulla reverentia, bonorum persecutio, veritatis odium, tandémque (ut ad hos Pseudognosticos omnia pertinere dignoscamus) οὐ γινώσκοντες μισθὸν δικαιοσύνης, (quicquid demum sciant, at) justitiæ mercedem non scientes, Balaamiticis potiùs (ut Petrus censuit) accensendi, qui μισθὸν ἀδικίας ἠγάπησαν, injustitiæ mercedem dilexerunt.

[b] C. 51

[c] Moreh Nevoch. l. 3. c. 38.

CAP. VIII.

Evangelium Gentibus annuntiandum immediatè ante cladem Hierosolymitanam, Luc. 10. 11. Apostolorum à Judæis abscessio, ansa à Gnosticis arrepta ad Christianos opprimendos.

§. 1. HÆc omnia à nobis adeò fusè proposita, quomodo ad Mysterium iniquitatis, & Antichristos (quorum occasione me huc divertisse nondum pœnitet) accommodanda sint, indicaturi jam statim sumus, postquam illud unicum adjunxerimus, quod quinque istis subjungendum Christo videbatur, v. 14. de Evangelio nempe priùs Gentibus omnibus annunciando; καὶ τότε, inquit, ἥξει τὸ τέλος, tunc statim funesta ista & exitialis Periodus adventura est.

§. 2. Id enim semel notandum est, Evangelium imprimis à Christo, dein (ex ejus inenarrabili erga hostes, & συγγνώστας clementiâ, & μακροθυμίᾳ) ab Apostolis, post Christi ἀναβατήριον, Judæis primo loco annuntiandum fuisse; ἀρξάμενον ἀπὸ Ἱερουσαλὴμ, initio ab Hierosolymis facto, Luc. 24. 47. ὑμῖν πρῶτον, vobis primùm, inquit Petrus, Act. 3. 26. & ch. 13. 46. Tandem verò, cùm obstinati & impœnitentes Judæi, fidem Christi, nuntio solenniter remisso, repudiarent, Ecce, inquit Paulus, ad Gentes convertimur, Act. 13. 46. Sic & Act. 18. 6. Cùm Judæi obsisterent, & blasphemarent, excutiens vestimenta, iis dixit, Sanguis vester super caput vestrum, Purus ego; Exhinc ad Gentes profecturus sum. In quibus proculdubio ad Christi dictum, Luc. 10. 11. respexit Paulus, quo, cùm Judæi eos non reciperent, pulverem civitatis vestimentis ipsorum adhærentem excutere jubentur discipuli, id tantum adjecturi, sciendum iis esse, quòd Regnum Dei ἐφ' ὑμᾶς ἤγγικεν, ipsis jam statim instaret, hoc nempe ad judicandum hostes (nulla longanimitate emolliendos, aut ad fidem Christi perducendos) erigendum tribunal; Hanc quippe finalem Judæorum obdurationem, eique consectaneam Apostolorum ad Ethnicos migrationem, huic fatali & cruento diei prælusuras esse.

§. 3. Quod verò ad Gnosticos spectat, quorum descriptioni hanc annuntiati Gentibus Evangelii περίστασιν addendam curavit Christus, Illud itidem sciendum est, Gnosticos hos à purioribus & Orthodoxis Christianis jam aliquandiu divisos, & inter Judæos (ut incolumitati suæ prospicerent) Judæos se esse simulantes, nondum tamen apertâ fronte Christianos opprimendi occasionem nactos esse (canésque, sed adhuc λαθροδηκτεῖς latenter mordentes fuisse) donec Apostoli solenniter hunc Judæis nuntium remisissent; Tunc enim velo omni deposito, ad exscindendos Christianos, Judæis operas adjunxerunt, & ex professo Simonem ἀρχηγὸν, & ductorem suum, Christo (ut mox patebit) præferentes, clades, quas potuerunt maximas, Christiano nomini intentarunt, (Quod ipsissimum illud erat, quod versibus ex Mat. c. 24. tam prolixè à nobis explicatis, prænuntiabatur) & cùm hæc ita se habuerint, τότε, inquit Servator, tunc (illo ipso temporis articulo) ἥξει τὸ τέλος, Judæorum, & cum illis Gnosticorum pariter clades expectanda erit.

CAP. IX.

2 Thess. 2. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. explicatur, ἀποσυναγωγὴ. Ἡμέρα Χριστοῦ. Ἀποστασία ante ejus adventum futura, Ἀποστασία quid significat, Act. 21. 21. & 19. 9. Simon adoratus, ut Deus. Simonis doctrina. Heleua, Act. 8. 23. πικρίας χολὴ, ΨΝΤ, Ῥίζα πικρίας, Heb. 12. 15. ἐν χολῇ, non ἐνοχλῇ. Βέβηλος ὡς Ἡσαὺ, Τὸ κατέχον. Justinus, Irenæus de Simone. P. Ciaconii Semo Sancus. Μυστήριον ἀνομίας. Ἐνεργεῖσθαι. Μυστήριον. Ἀνομία. Μυστήριον, Ap. 17. 5. Mysteria, πελετὰί. Eleusinia sacra.

§. 1. ISta hactenus præfati, ad rem propositam descendamus, & primò ad Mysterium Iniquitatis, 2 Thess. 2. 7. ubi res omnis dilucidior futura est, si integer locus brevi Paraphrasi illustretur.

§. 2. 1. Ἐρωτῶμεν δὲ ὑμᾶς, ἀδελφοὶ, ὑπὲρ τῆς παρουσίας τοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, καὶ ἡμῶν ἐπισυναγωγῆς ἐπ' αὐτὸν,

Nunc autem, Fratres, quod ad notabilem istum Christi adventum attinet, eum quidem tam frequenter in Scripturis prænuntiatum, quo exscindendam Gentem Judaicam, (Mat. 24. 3.) miserisque & persecutionibus vestris (à Judæis potissimùm vobis illatis) figendum terminum præstolamini (videatur Jac. 5. 7, 8. ubi παρουσία Κυρίου ἐγγίζουσα, per [ὁ κριτὴς πρὸ τῆς θυρῶν ἕστηκεν] explicatur v. 9.) & quem illicò secutura est copiosior ad fidem Christi discipulorum aggregatio (quæ per [τῶν ἡμῶν εἰς Χριστὸν ἐπισυναγωγῶν] intelligi potest) simúlque major cogendorum cœtuum Ecclesiasticorum libertas (quam etiam phrasi istâ notatam videmus, 2 Mac. 2. 8. & Heb. 10. 25.) quàm adhuc, sub persecutionum & dispersionum jugo, frui licuit. (Id quod revera sub Vespasiano & Tito Imperatoribus post Judæorum cladem Christianis obtigisse constat, & Apoc. 5. 10. & 7. 15. innui alibi monstramus) Quod, inquam, ad hanc materiam attinet (id enim voce [ὑπὲρ] eodem sensu quo περὶ non rarò usurpatâ, intelligi debet) obsecro vos

§. 3. 2. Εἰς τὸ μὴ ταχέως σαλευθῆναι ὑμᾶς ἀπὸ τοῦ νοὸς, μήτε θροεῖσθαι, μήτε διὰ πνεύματος, μήτε διὰ λόγου, μήτε δι' ἐπιστολῆς, ὡς δι' ἡμῶν, ὡς ὅτι ἐνέστηκεν ἡ ἡμέρα τοῦ Χριστοῦ,

Ne leviter à prius agnitâ (quamque à Christo & Apostolis accepistis) veritate abripiamini, neque aut a simulatâ quâcunque inspiratione, seu revelatione à quocunque obtentâ, aut à nuntio quovis, tanquam à nobis (seu ore tenus seu per tabellas in Epistolâ) vobis allato, turbari, aut dimoveri vos permittatis, aut exinde vobis persuaderi, hoc esse temporis momentum, quo diem Christi ad ultionem de Judæis sumendam jam subitò instare putandum est.

§. 4. 3. Μή τις ὑμᾶς ἐξαπατήσῃ κατὰ μηδένα τρόπον, ὅτι ἐὰν μὴ ἔλθῃ ἡ ἀποστασία πρῶτον, καὶ ἀποκαλυφθῇ ὁ ἄνθρωπος τῆς ἁμαρτίας, ὁ υἱὸς τῆς ἀπωλείας,

Ne quis hanc vobis fraudem, quæ vobis, fideíque vestræ pessimè cessura est, quibusvis technis faciat; Postquam enim hoc semel animis præsumpseritis, & ut Apostolicæ

Scholicæ doctrinæ articulum imbiberitis, simúlque juxta spem vestram id vobis non obtingere experti fueritis, futurum est ut de veritate Evangelii nostri ancipites vobis curæ, & dubitationes exorituræ sint; simúlque ut malis istis, quæ ubique Judæi vobis interminantur, victi tandem, fessique labascatis. Sed hoc certissimum habeatis velim, Juxta methodum, & propositæ à Christo œconomiæ ordinem, priùs expectandum esse, ut veniat ἀποστασία quædam notabilis.

§. 5. Quid per Ἀποστασίαν hic significetur, non libet fidentiùs affirmare; Eâ notari fidelium Judæorum à Mosaicis observationibus abscessum, circumcisione & cæteris Judaicis ritibus insuper habitis, vir doctissimus putavit; Sic certè Act. 21. 21. de Paulo dicitur, famam esse, ὅτι διδάσκεις ἀποστασίαν ἀπὸ Μωσέως τοὺς κατὰ τὰ ἔθνη πάντας Ἰουδαίους, λέγων μὴ ὀφείλειν αὐτοὺς τὰ τέκνα, μηδὲ τοῖς ἔθεσι περιπατεῖν. Apostasiam nempe aut abscessum à Mose fecisse. Erat & alia, sensu non dissimili, ipsorum Apostolorum ἀποστασία, huic affinis. Illorum scilicet à Judæis ipsis ad Gentiles abscessus, cùm post prædicatum per urbes singulas Evangelium, pertinaces & incredulos Judæos res suas sibi habere juberent, pulverem de pedibus suis contra eos excuterent, statímque ad Gentes, iis ex professo Evangelium annuntiaturi, transirent. Sic Lucas vocabulo [ἀποστὰς] usus est, Act. 19. 9. Ὡς δέ τινες ἐσκληρύνοντο καὶ ἠπείθουν, κακολογοῦντες τὴν ὁδὸν ἐνώπιον τοῦ πλήθους, ἀποστὰς ἀπ' αὐτῶν, ἀφώρισε τοὺς μαθητάς. De Paulo dictum, cùm Judæorum quidam (non pauci) obdurarentur, & Evangelio ab eo annuntiato resisterent, coram populo viam (Domini) convitiis excipientes. Ab iis, inquit, abscedens vel ἀποστὰς, discipulos separavit, i. e. ad Gentiles Asiaticos se recepit, obstinatis Judeis remisso nuntio, & ab eorum cœtu se planè, suósque separavit, & abstinuit. Quod ut antea à Paulo & Barnabâ, Act. 13. 46. sic & plenius postea factum legimus, cùm Judæis solenniter vale longum dicens, ad Gentes se converteret, Act. 28. 28.

§. 6. Si hoc modo intelligi ἀποστασίαν, nimis alienum, aut absonum non videatur, reliqua omnia satis liberè & feliciter fluent. Ex hoc nempe Apostolorum facto (cum non tantùm legis Mosaicæ abrogationem docuerint Apostoli, sed & ipsi à Judæis recesserint, & alios ab eorum consortio separandos curaverint, Heb. 13. 13.) consentaneum fuisse, ut Gnostici hâc opportunitate arreptâ, Judæorum contra Christianos rabiem, zelúmque palam excitarent, qualibet inimicitiarum scintillâ in flammam accensâ.

§. 7. At si sic de Ἀποστασίας acceptione, non adeò tritâ, contra frequentiorem nominis usum pronunciare, duriusculum cuivis videatur, Restat ut vox ea (interpretatione ex trivio desumptâ) insignem & notabilem aliquam Christianorum ad Gnosticorum castra factam defectionem * quam Spiritus (Christi scil. Mat. 24.) ῥητῶς λέγει ἐν ὑστέροις καιροῖς eventuram, designare dicatur, quæ quidem illud ipsum est, quod prædixerat Christus [multos scandalizatum iri] multos persecutiones, crucémque, simul ac fidem Christi refugituros, & πλανωδέσιν ἀνομίαις, augescentibus periculis, & angustiis, quæ Christiano nomini jamdiu impenderant, fore ut dilectio multorum refrigesceret, & (quod divinus ad Hebræos author cavendum monuit) ut non pauci reperirentur, in quibus καρδία πονηρὰ ἀπιστίας sese prodaret, ἐν τῷ ἀποστῆναι ἀπὸ τοῦ Θεοῦ ζῶντος, c. 3. 12. quos ὑποστολῆς ἐσμὲν (i. e. ἀποστασίαν facere) idque εἰς ἀπώλειαν alibi dixit, c. 10. 39. Quò & illud spectare videtur, 2 Tim. 1. 15. de Asiaticis universis edicente Paulo, οἶδας τοῦτο, ὅτι ἀπεστράφησάν με πάντες, omnes, uti nosti, aversabantur me, præcipuè Phygellus & Hermogenes.

* Ἀποστήσονταί τινες τῆς πίστεως προσέχοντες πνεύμασι πλάνοις, &c. 1 Tim. 4. 1.

§. 8. Ut verò hoc adhuc clariùs elucescat, consulatur, si placet, primarium istud Sancti Petri de Simone Mago effatum, Act. 8. 23. Εἰς χολὴν πικρίας, καὶ σύνδεσμον ἀδικίας ὁρῶ σε ὄντα. Quid hæc πικρία χολὴ significat, ex Deut. 29. 18. petendum erit; Ibi Apostasia à Deo Israëlis facienda sic describitur, ut sit radix ferens fel & amaritudinem, ῥίζα φύουσα ἐν χολῇ καὶ πικρίᾳ, reddunt Septuaginta; ubi Heb. רֹאשׁ, quod χολὴ reddi solet, herbam venenatam significat, quæ cum sit eadem πικρὰ, acerba, Apostatæ cujusvis statum disertè enuntiat, aliis perniciosum, quos exemplo & illecebris ad ruinam secum trahit, sibi verò tandem acerbum futurum, Deóque in præsenti ingratissimum. Hoc utique illud ipsum est, quod de Simone pronuntiat Petrus, talem illum Apostatam esse, qualis à Mose describebatur, qui alios secum in perniciem tracturus erat, (ideóque forsan σύνδεσμὸν ἀδικίας iniquissimæ conjurationis, aut confœderationis mentio hîc sequitur) & ut χολὴ seu herba venenata, cum summâ amaritudine conjuncta, multis virus suum infusurus; Quod statim evenisse nemo ignorat, Samariâ universâ à fide Christi, quam à Philippo receperant, statim deficiente.

§. 9. Hinc & illud (Heb. 12. 15.) Apostoli, contra Simonis & Gnosticorum venena Hebræos suos munientis antidotum, μή τις ῥίζα πικρίας ἄνω φύουσα ἐν χολῇ, ut in Deuteronomio legebatur, (non ut codices legunt ἐνοχλῇ, per unius literæ Metathesin) ne qua sit inter vos (subintellecto verbo [sit,] ut in priore versus parte [μή τις ὑστερῶν] necessariò fieri debet) amaritudinis radix, sursum germinans in herbam istam venenatam, per quam futurum, inquit, est, ut μιανθῶσι πολλοὶ, multi polluantur, aut, quod veneni est, inficiantur potius. Quibus immediatè additur, μή τις πόρνος, v. 16. nequis fornicator, aut profanus, sicut Esau, qui διὰ βρώσεως μιᾶς πρωτοτόκια ἀπέδοτο, ut vitæ suæ consuleret, ut eam quoquo modo prorogaret, primogenitura, & inter ea sacerdotii prærogativas abdicavit. Quibus verbis duo notissima Gnosticorum κεφάλαια proponuntur, primum, quo impuritates omnimodæ; Secundum, quo, cùm persecutio ingruat, fidei abnegatio notatur.

§. 10. Post hanc demum defectionem (seu ἀποστασίαν, & καρδίαν πονηρὰν ἀπιστίας, Heb. 3. 12. seu ὑποστολὴν, Heb. 10. 39.) id etiam consequens erit, ut Simon Magus, execrandus ille impostor, hac Sectatorum suorum catervâ stipatus, depositò jam velamento se palam prodat, & postquam aliquantisper se pro Christi discipulo venditaverit, & inimicitias contra fidem conceptas prudenter dissimulaverit, Tunc demum

§. 11. 4. Ὁ ἀντικείμενος, καὶ ὑπεραιρόμενος ἐπὶ πάντα λεγόμενον Θεὸν, ἢ σέβασμα, ὥστε αὐτὸν εἰς τὸν ναὸν τοῦ Θεοῦ καθίσαι, ἀποδεικνύντα ἑαυτὸν ὅτι ἔστι Θεός.

Se apertâ facie patioribus fidei professoribus opponat, imò divinos honores ipse usurpet, & (se [a] ut Deum Patrem in monte Sinai apparentem, ut Christum Jesum inter Judæos versantem, ipsúmque promissum Spiritum Sanctum adfirmans) se omni, qui inter Judæos aut Christianos agnoscitur, aut colitur, Deo opponat, & attollat, (illud est ἀντικείσθαι & ὑπεραίρεσθαι ἐπί, non ἐπὶ πάντα, &c. eo sensu quo ἐπὶ cum quarto casu, καὶ [b] adversus significat) adeò ut vero & æterno Patre sede suâ dimoto, Simon ipse inter sectatores ipsius locum ejus occupet, imò, ex plenissima & uberrima verborum significatione, ὑπεραιρόμενος ἐπὶ πάντα, in omnem super-attollens se, i. e. non adæquans tantùm sed

a Vide Cyrill. Hierosol. περὶ Ἁγίου.

b Βασιλεία ἐφ' ἑαυτὴν adversus seipsum διαμερισθεῖσα, Luc. 11. 17.

sed & de ὑπερογκῇ contendens, æqualem aut comparem non ferens, à Samaritanis ad unum omnibus (οὗτος ἐστὶν ἡ δύναμις τοῦ θεοῦ ἡ καλουμένη μεγάλη) aliisque pluribus, non tantùm ut δύναμις θεοῦ μεγάλη, potentia Dei magna, (quod in tyrocinio deceptoris hujus illi accidisse dicitur, Act. 8. 10.) agnoscatur, sed & tandem, post acceptam, & conculcatam fidem Christi, v. 23. ut Summus Deus, συμπάσης, καὶ ὑπάτης καὶ ἀνωτάτης, (simul cum putidissimâ Helena, πρώτῃ hujus primi & Supremi Dei, ut loqui amabat, ἐννοίᾳ) colatur & adoretur. De Simone Mago illud primò occurrit, ante Philippi adventum, Samariâ nondum prædicatione ejus illustratâ, de eo palàm dictum esse, οὗτός ἐστιν ἡ δύναμις τοῦ θεοῦ ἡ μεγάλη, vel, ut Codex MS. Regius celeberrimus, simúlque Bezæ venerandus Græco-Latinus legendum suadent, ἡ δύναμις θεοῦ ἡ καλουμένη μεγάλη, Act. 7. 10. Divina scilicet Potentia vel Majestas ista quæ sub variis aut Jehovæ, aut Διὸς, aut Jovis nominibus à diversis Nationibus agnoscebatur, ab omnibus verò ut Magnum, aut Maximum, Summum, aut Supremum Numen colebatur. Sic ob claudum sanatum S. Barnabas Jovis statim titulo salutatur, Act. 14. 12. Nec igitur mirum videri debere, si post annos aliquot, ab iis saltem, quos ἱκανῷ χρόνῳ μαγείαις ἐξέστηκε, veneficiis suis fascinasset, Act. 8. 11. pro supremo Deo agnosceretur.

§. 12. Consulatur Justinus Apol. 2. pro Christ. Post Christi, inquit, ad cœlum ascensionem, ἀναβάλλοντο οἱ δαίμονες ἀνδρώπους τινὰς λέγοντας ἑαυτοὺς εἶναι θεούς, Dæmones mortales aliquos in medium produxerunt, qui se Deos affirmarunt, & hi, inquit, à vobis Gentilibus οὐ μόνον οὐκ ἐδιώχθησαν, ἀλλὰ καὶ πρὸς κατηξιώθησαν, non solùm nullam persecutionem passi sunt, sed & pluribus honoribus digni æstimati. Quod de Simone & Helenâ, & sectatoribus ejus late prosequitur. Sic & post Justinum Irenæus l. 1. c. 20. Simon Magus, inquit ille, à Claudio Cæsare honoratus esse dicitur, A multis quasi Deus glorificatus est, Docuit semet ipsum esse, qui inter Judæos * quasi Filius apparuerit, in Samariâ autem, quasi Pater descenderit, & in reliquis Gentibus quasi Spiritus Sanctus adventaverit. Esse autem se sublimissimam virtutem, hoc est, eum qui sit super omnia Pater, (ὑπερεχόμενον τῶν πάντα λεγόμενον θεὸν) & sustinere vocari se, quodcunque eum (Patrem æternum) vocant homines; Dein Helenam, primam ejus ἔννοιαν generare Angelos, & Potestates, à quibus & mundum hunc factum dixit; Secundum gratiam ejus salvari homines, Judæorum Deum unum ex Angelis esse (à Simone creatis) c. 22. Ipsum verò Simonem unum Patrem esse, qui fecit Angelos, Archangelos, Virtutes, Potestates; Imaginem ejus factam ad figuram Jovis, & Selenæ (Helenæ sine dubio) in figuram Minervæ, hásque adorari, c. 21. Sic & Tertullianus de Animâ, Simonem Patrem summum à sectatoribus suis vocari.

* Sic Origenes in Matt. tr. 27. inter eos qui Apostolorum tempore se Christos esse dixerunt, Simonem numerat de quo referunt Acta Apostolorum.

§. 13. Taceo notissimam de ædiculâ, aut statuâ, Romæ in Tiberi inter duos pontes constructâ, & Simoni Deo Sancto consecratâ, & inscriptâ, historiam, [a] Justini quidem, ut & aliorum ferè omnium (Tertulliani imprimis & Irenæi) antiquissimorum Patrum testimoniis abundè firmatam. Quam tamen [b] Petrus Ciaconius, fretus marmoreâ cujusdam statuæ basi, Anno 1574. in Insulâ Tiberinâ Romæ refossâ, & Semoni Sanco Deo Fidio sacratâ, convellendam putavit; Quasi Justinus, homo externus, & Latinæ, inquit, linguæ non admodum peritus, sic sibi imponi passus fuerit, & caligantibus oculis Simonem pro Semone, Deum Sanctum, pro Sanco Deo Fidio, Imperatori etiam Romano obtruserit, qui sine dubio compertissimi mendacii eum ilico arguisset, nec eundem denuò errorem, Tertulliano, homini quidem nec externo, nec aut civitatis, aut linguæ Latinæ imperito, ut & aliis Romanæ Ecclesiæ Scriptoribus errandum porrexisset. Multa ad Ciaconii conjecturam vellicandam dici possent, si istis vacaremus.

a Apol. 2. ad Ant. Imperat. Rom.

b In Opusc. ante explic. columnæ Rostratæ: vid. Cerdam in Tertull. Apol.

§. 14. Ut ut illud sit, de affectatis, & assumptis divinis honoribus, nullus dubitandi locus est, nec igitur ab Historiâ, reíque gestæ veritate procul abesse putabitur, quòd hîc de Simonis Apostasiâ dicatur, eum se supra attollere contra omnem qui Deus dicitur.

§. 15. 5. Οὐ μνημονεύετε ὅτι ἔτι ὢν πρὸς ὑμᾶς, ταῦτα ἔλεγον ὑμῖν;

Et hoc quidem, si bene memìnistis, vobis non jam primùm à me dicitur; Sed, cùm apud vos Evangelium prædicarem, jamdudum prænuntiatum est.

§. 16. 6. Καὶ νῦν τὸ κατέχον οἴδατε, εἰς τὸ ἀποκαλυφθῆναι αὐτὸν ἐν τῷ ἑαυτοῦ καιρῷ.

Videtis igitur ex prædictis, v. 3. quid illud sit, quod Simonem impedit, seu detinet, quò minùs adhuc, depositâ, quam diu induerat, personâ, se Christianorum acerrimum hostem palam ostendat; Legis nempe Mosaicæ observatio, à Christianis nondum in universum abdicata, cùm adhuc cautè ambularent Christiani, ἐξαγοραζόμενοι καιρὸν, Ephes. 5. 15. ab omni Judæorum irritatione temperantes. Nondum enim facta est, ut videtur, ista Apostolorum solennis à Judæis ad Gentes discessio, quam ὁ πλάνος ille, ut opportunitatem, & horam consiliis suis commodissimam, jam brevi futuram præstolatur. Exinde enim implacabilia Judæorum in Christianos odia, & internecinæ ob contemptam legem Mosaicam (quæ omne cum Gentilibus commercium disertè prohibet) inimicitiæ orituræ erant. Exinde discrimen inter Judæos & Christianos manifestius futurum, cùm fideles, præcipiente Apostolo, Heb. 13. 13. se ex professo extra Judæorum castra, ad fidei purioris professionem, nullis Judaicis mixturis jugulatam, nullis Mosaicorum rituum sarcinis oppressam, proriperent; Exinde etiam hypocrisis Gnosticorum (qui quamdiu Christiani Judæis se accommodabant, inter Judæos abnegare fidem, inter Christianos simulare didicerant) aliquando tandem necessariò deponenda erat, & aut cum Christianis tolerandæ afflictiones, aut cum Judæis inferendæ.

§. 17. 7. Τὸ γὰρ μυστήριον ἤδη ἐνεργεῖται τῆς ἀνομίας, μόνον ὁ κατέχων ἄρτι ἕως ἐκ μέσου γένηται.

Quamvis igitur hoc hominum ἀνόμων genus, non tantùm subterraneos & clandestinos cuniculos agat, sed & palam in Sectam ab Orthodoxis divisam concurrat, Simone, aliisque ducibus suis fretum, hactenus tamen secretiùs, & cautiùs hæc omnia moliuntur, nondum Christo in universum abrenuntiare, aut Judæis se palam contra Christianos adjungere, opportunum censentes; Nec enim adhuc ipsis suppetebat accusationum materia, quibus Judæos παροξύνειν, bilémque eorum omnem in Christianos evomendam excitare possint.

§. 18. Quamprimùm verò illud, quod adhuc Gnosticorum rabiem comprimit, aut coercet, è medio sublatum fuerit (priùs neutraliter dictum, τὸ κατέχον, hîc verò ὁ κατέχων, seu sit ὁ νόμος, Lex ipsa, seu Mosaicorum rituum observatio, inter quos primarius censebatur, Judæos ἀλλοφύλοις μὴ συγχεῖσθαι, Joh. 4. 9. ne Judæi ad Gentium consortium diverterent) postquam derelictis planè & conclamatis Judæis, Apostoli ad Gentes transierint, & ceremoniis Legis insuper habitis, discipulos suos à Judæis separandos curaverint, Act. 19. 9. Heb. 13. 10, 13. Gal. ch. 2. & 3. & 4. & 5.

8. Καὶ

8. Καὶ τότε ἀποκαλυφθήσεται ὁ ἄνομος, ὃν ὁ Κύριος ἀναλώσει τῷ πνεύματι τοῦ στόματος αὐτοῦ, καὶ καταργήσει τῇ ἐπιφανείᾳ τῆς παρουσίας αὐτοῦ.

Tunc continuò Gnostici, exuta Christiani nominis larvâ, se palàm ostentaturi sunt, Christianis gravissimas persecutiones (quas per πλανοδιδασκάλους ἀνομίας prædixit Christus) illaturi, eósque ut Judæis imprimis exosos reddant, contemptæ universæ Legis Mosaïcæ incusaturi, Christianos etiam quamplurimos, Primò, Magicis περιεργίαις; Secundò, variarum libidinum carni blandientium illecebris; Tertiò, libertationis à quolibet jugo sectatoribus suis promissæ privilegio; Quartò, denique, propulsandarum persecutionum spe, omnibus, qui se circumcidi patiebantur, factâ, quasi tot efcarum generibus, ad inquinatissimæ sectæ participationem allecturi. Quos, cùm sic se primùm revelaverint, statim futurum est, ut Deus, fidelium benignissimus Pater, improborum ultor sævissimus, spiritu oris, i. e. potentiâ verbi sui, tandémque fulgore præsentiæ, aut adventûs sui, i. e. illustri istâ in Judæos festinante ultione, v. 1. oppressurus sit, Petro primùm Apostola de Simone Mago solenniter triumphante, statímque Romanis Aquilis, Mat. 24. 28. ad Judæorum simul & * Gnosticorum excidium convolantibus, eâdem utrosque strage adæquaturis, 2 Pet. 2. 9. Vide c. 3. §. 22.

§. 19. 9. Οὗ ἐστὶν ἡ παρουσία κατ' ἐνέργειαν τοῦ Σατανᾶ, ἐν πάσῃ δυνάμει, καὶ σημείοις, καὶ τέρασι ψεύδους,

10. Καὶ ἐν πάσῃ ἀπάτῃ τῆς ἀδικίας, ἐν τοῖς ἀπολλυμένοις, ἀνθ' ὧν τὴν ἀγάπην τῆς ἀληθείας οὐκ ἐδέξαντο, εἰς τὸ σωθῆναι αὐτούς, &c.

Quis verò sit hic ἄνομος, & μυστήριον ἀνομίας, quæ secta ista hypocritica, consilia sua tantâ caligine obtegens, si cui incertum adhuc sit, Id illi statim manifestum erit, cùm dignoverit sectæ ἀρχηγὸν, Satanæ quidem operâ, stupenda prodigia (& quibus ad se multos seducat, mendaciisque suis fidem faciat) ostentantem, simúlque libidinum escas subministrantem, aliáque quamplurima, quæ perditis quibusque impositura sunt; Ut sic justa Dei judicia in Pseudochristianos, falsorum dogmatum sectatores, fideíque simul ac constantiæ, & παρρησίας Christianæ desertores infligantur, Deo sic permittente, ut eorum, quæ in terrâ petrosâ aut spinosâ seminata fuerant (licet statim καταπίπτοντα) alterum quidem exorto sole, i. e. ingruentium persecutionum tempore exureretur, & eò quòd radicem non haberet, exareſceret, alterum item à sollicitudinibus mundi hujus, deceptione divitiarum, & περὶ τὰ λοιπὰ ἐπιθυμίαις suffocaretur.

§. 20. Ex hâc hujus ἄνόμε, & μυστηρίε ἀνομίας, per prodigia ficta, & impuritates omnigenas sectatoribus suis indultas, descriptione, abundè liquet, de quibus demum hæc omnia intelligi voluerit Apostolus; de Simone proculdubio, & Gnosticis, hâc potissimum mixturâ φαρμακειῶν & ἀσελγειῶν (ubique in novo Instrumento, & Scriptoribus Ecclesiasticis) dignoscendis.

§. 21. Duo interim quæ ad voculas [μυστήριον & ἐνεργεῖται] attinent, superaddi adhuc possunt, 1. vocem [ἐνεργεῖται] non in activo, sed passivo sensu, in aliis quibusque hujus Instrumenti locis, positam esse, (Quod alibi fusiùs à nobis monstratur) ideóque eodem passivo sensu reddendam esse, [agitur] inquit Castellio, κατασκευάζεται, inquit Hesychius; Hæc scilicet adhuc μυστικὴ ἀνομία, secreto suo gaudens (ὕδη) jamjam in promptu est, ut se posito velo detegat, post unicum è medio sublatum obicem, id illicò factura.

§. 22. Secundò, vocem μυστήριον (quicquid eâ apud Authores notetur) in hoc Instrumento, rem obtectam quovismodo, & velatam ubique significare. In meliorem plerunque sensum, pro eo, quod à Deo ipso velatur, & aut parabolis, aut prophetiis obscurè & velut per transennam aspiciendum proponitur, Mat. 13. 11. & alibi non semel; verùm & in pejorem quandoque, pro eo, quod homines impii velandum curant, (præsertim cùm ei vox [ἀνομίας] adjungatur, quâ ex Hebræorum more τὸ ἄνομον notari pronum est, quâque non levis aliqua à Lege aberratio, sed perditissima quæque, ipsâque pestilentiæ Cathedra notari in sacris solet) nefando scilicet pessimorum hominum secreto, & (ut 1 Tim. 4. 2. iidem Gnostici describuntur) ὑποκρίσει ψευδολόγων, deceptorum & impostorum hypocrisi, quæ sub Christiani nominis larvâ, Rom. 16. 18. ut & Cabalisticis quibusque, i. e. mysticis scripturarum interpretationibus, & involucris, πανουργίαις denique & δόλῳ, 2 Cor. 4. 2. plurimis imponens, fœdissima quæque velanda, & abscondenda curabat.

§. 23. Hanc certè Gnosticorum putidissimam sectam, in Ecclesia Christi hâc ipsâ μυστηρίε appellatione indigitari posse (ut & Eusebio μυσταγωγίαν vel potiùs μυσαρωτάτην) hîc pluribus monstrasse non vacat. Illud certè nemini incognitum est, fœdissima quæque Gentilium sacra (quæ illi κατ' ἐνφημίαν, τελετὰς ἐπουδείας, & epoptica sacra, Apostolus verius ἀθεμίτους εἰδωλολατρείας, nefandas, & abominandas Idololatrias, ἀῤῥητουργίαις omnigenis conspurcatas, appellandas putavit) Μυστήρια Græcis Latinisque solenniter nuncupata esse, adeóque istis Gnosticorum ἀσελγείαις & μυσαρωτάτοις (τοῖς κρυφῇ ὑπ' αὐτῶν γινομένοις, Eph. 5. 12.) eandem sine injuriâ appellationem accommodari potuisse, sic ut post βδελυγμάτων & ἐκδεχῆς πτερνίας αὐτῆς mentionem, quibus plenum poculum gestare coccinea mulier dicitur, statim subnectatur, καὶ τὸ μέτωπον αὐτῆς ὄνομα γεγραμμένον, Μυστήριον, &c. At de istis plus satis.

CAP. X.

Antichristi, 1 Joh. 2. 18, 19, 20, 21, 22. Ignatii testimonium de Gnosticis Antichristis, ut & Polycarpi. Nominis notatio.

§. 1. His positis, pancioribus nunc explicanda restant Johannis de Antichristis commata, 1 Joh. 2. & 4. ad eandem sine dubio materiam pertinentia. Et primùm de 1 Joh. 2. ubi post obscuras non paucas Gnosticorum mentiones, phrasésque quibus eos circumloquitur, v. 3. & 4. (ut ὁ λέγων ἔγνωκα αὐτὸν, v. 4. ὁ λέγων ἐν αὐτῷ μένειν, v. 6. ὁ λέγων ἐν τῷ φωτὶ εἶναι, & tamen ἐν τῷ σκότει μένων, v. 9.) tandémque post notissimam triada, quæ apud carnales istos congerrones utramque paginam implebat, cupiditatem carnis, cupiditatem oculorum, & superbiam vitæ, v. 16. statim addit,

18. Παιδία,

18. Παιδία, ἐσχάτη ὥρα ἐστί, καὶ καθὼς ἠκούσατε, ὅτι ὁ Ἀντίχριστος ἔρχεται, καὶ νῦν Ἀντίχριστοι πολλοὶ γεγόνασιν, ὅθεν γινώσκομεν, ὅτι ἐσχάτη ὥρα ἐστίν.

Ex hâc deceptorum & πλάνων frequentiâ, Ecclesias ubique infestante, satis, fratres mei, manifestum est, istum Christi, ad ultionem de Judæis capiendam, venturi diem jam planè instare. Cùm enim ipse prædixisset Christus, Mat. 24. fore, ut ante obsidionem Hierosolymæ, v. 15. multi Pseudoprophetæ exurgerent, v. 11. se Christos simulantes, simúlque veræ & genuinæ, quam Christus edocuerat, puritati, & constantiæ pro virili suâ adversantes, tandémque Christianis ipsis pessima quæque intentantes, adeò ut Antichristi κατ' ἐξοχὴν, i. e. mendacissimi deceptoris, simul & infestissimi Christo hostis titulus, isti hominum generi apprimè competat. Illud nunc abundè impletum videmus; Multos quippe ubique Pseudoprophetas esse, Christum in carne ἐληλυθότα negantes, & sic univocè & propriè Antichristos appellandos, Simonis nempe Sectatores, eum, ut Christum, inter Judæos apparuisse, οὐκ ἐν σαρκὶ ἀλλὰ δοκήσει affirmantes (videatur Cyrillus Hieros. περὶ Αἱρέσ.) ex quibus diem istum funestum propediem adfuturum dignoscimus.

§. 2. 19. Ἐξ ἡμῶν ἐξῆλθον, ἀλλ' οὐκ ἦσαν ἐξ ἡμῶν, εἰ γὰρ ἦσαν ἐξ ἡμῶν μεμενήκεισαν ἂν μεθ' ἡμῶν, ἀλλ' ἵνα φανερωθῶσιν ὅτι οὐκ εἰσὶ πάντες ἐξ ἡμῶν,

Hi Pseudoprophetæ ita de Simone, & de Christo pronuntiantes (quales ex ejus famulitio, Cerinthus, Menander, & Gnostici) inter nos aliquando versati sunt, Christo nomina dedêrunt, sed nunc separatione à nobis factâ, plus satis monstrant, se sinceros Christianæ fidei professores non fuisse, sed quamdiu inter nos fuêrunt, hypocritas, & Pseudochristianos; Si enim ad familiam Christi genuinam pertinuissent, nos, sine dubio, qui in fide Christi inconcussi persistimus, neutiquam deseruissent; ut verò hæc eorum hypocrisis omnibus innotescat, & amoto pii nominis velamento, ipsorum impietas palam fiat, Hoc illis ritè accidisse videtur, ut Simonem Christo nostro opponant, & se nobis infestissimos profiteantur. Εἰ γὰρ ἦσαν τῆ πίστει κλάδοι, οὐκ ἂν ἦσαν ἔχθροὶ τῷ σταυρῷ τῷ Χριστῷ. Si genuini Patris rami, aut propagines fuissent, inimici crucis Christi non fuissent, ait de his ipsis Simonis asseclis Ignatius, ad Trallenses.

§. 3. Hæc omnia de Simonis Sectatoribus interpretanda esse siquis dubitet, adeat Clementem Alex. Strom. l. 3. * qui Gnosticis hunc ipsum versum applicandum affirmat, καὶ νῦν Ἀντίχριστοι πολλοὶ γεγόνασιν, &c. Adeat & Cyrillum Hierosol. Cat. 6. p. 134. ubi de Simone verba faciens, De eo, inquit, scriptum est, ἐξ ἡμῶν ἐξῆλθεν, ἀλλ' οὐκ ἦσαν ἐξ ἡμῶν, quibus addit Barocianus Codex Manuscriptus, εἰ γὰρ ἦσαν ἐξ ἡμῶν, μεμενήκεισαν ἂν μεθ' ἡμῶν, Sic ut versus hic, adeóque locus integer ad Simonem, & Gnosticos, hujus itidem satis antiqui, & non contemnendi Authoris judicio, referendus sit.

* Τοῖς αὐτοῖς ἂν ἐγκρατέσι ἀσεβέσιν, εἰς τε τὸν κτίσιν καὶ τὸν ἅγιον δημιουργὸν, τὸ παντοκράτορα μόνον θεὸν, καὶ διδάσκουσι μὴ δεῖν προσδέχεσθαι γάμον καὶ παιδοποιΐαν, μήθ' ὑπακούειν τῷ κόσμῳ διισχυρίσασθαι ἑτέρως μηδὲ ὑπομένειν τῷ θανάτῳ τροπὴν, ἐκείνοις λεκτέον, &c.

§. 4. 20. Καὶ ὑμεῖς χρίσμα ἔχετε ἀπὸ τοῦ ἁγίου, καὶ οἴδατε πάντα.

Isti se Gnosticos vocant, & præ aliis perfectissimos Dei cognitores gloriantur. At testimonium illud illustre, quod per Spiritum è cœlo loquentem Christo ejúsque Evangelio datum est, Mat. 3. Act. 2. & per nos, qui vidimus & audivimus, vobis communicatum est, eam certè veritatis cognitionem & certitudinem animis vestris ingeneravit, ut ipsi veriùs Gnostici dici possitis, qui fidem vestram, ipsorum ψευδοδιδασκαλίαις satis contrariam, ipso Dei testimonio confirmatam habetis.

§. 5. 21. Οὐκ ἔγραψα ὑμῖν ὅτι οὐκ οἴδατε τὴν ἀλήθειαν, ἀλλ' ὅτι οἴδατε αὐτὴν, καὶ ὅτι πᾶν ψεῦδος ἐκ τῆς ἀληθείας οὐκ ἔστι.

Ad vos igitur ego hæc jam scripsi, non quòd scientiâ ex eorum officinis petendâ vobis opus sit, sed quòd diviniori planè γνώσει muniti, me tantùm Monitore indigeatis, ut mendaciis eorum unicam Evangelii doctrinam objiciatis.

§. 6. 22. Τίς ἐστὶν ὁ ψεύστης, εἰ μὴ ὁ ἀρνούμενος, ὅτι ὁ Ἰησοῦς οὐκ ἔστιν ὁ Χριστός; οὗτός ἐστιν ὁ Ἀντίχριστος, ὁ ἀρνούμενος τὸν πατέρα καὶ τὸν υἱόν.

Ille autem ante omnes Pseudoprophetas, ψευδοδιδάσκαλος, aut πλάνος habendus est, ipsiúsque τῆς (κατ' ἐξοχὴν) Ἀντιχρίστου nomine (qui 2 Joh. 7. per πλάνον effertur) insigniendus, qui Messiam tandiu omnibus expectatissimum, Jesum esse negat, vel qui non confitetur Jesum Christum ἐν σαρκὶ venisse, 2 Joh. 7. Quod de Simone verissimè hîc dicitur, cùm ille, ut se Christum simularet, οὐκ ἐν σαρκὶ (vel ut Cyrilli codex MS. Barocianus legit ἐνσώμως) sed solùm δοκήσει Christum hîc in terris fuisse pronuntiaverit.

§. 7. Sic in Epistolis Ignatii ubique mentio est Christi, ἀληθῶς υἱοῦ καὶ σώματα, verè existentis secundum carnem, ὄντα. γεγεννημένου ἀληθῶς, καθημαγμένου ἀληθῶς ἐν σαρκὶ, & ἀληθῶς ἔπαθεν, ἀληθῶς ἀνέστησεν, οὐχ ὥσπερ ἄπιστοί τινες λέγουσιν, τὸ δοκεῖν αὐτὸν πεπονθέναι, Et εἰ γὰρ τὸ δοκεῖν αὐτὸν πέπονθε, &c. Et ὃν τινες ἀγνοοῦντες ἀρνοῦνται, Et Κύριον βλασφημεῖ, μὴ ὁμολογῶν αὐτὸν σαρκοφόρον, ὅστε τοῦτο μὲν λέγων, τελείως αὐτὸν ἀπηρνήσατο, Dominum blasphemat, cùm non confiteatur eum carnem gestare, Qui verò hoc negat, perfectè eum abnegavit. Hæc omnia simul poni videas in unicâ ad Smyrnenses (istam Asiæ notissimæ Johannis provinciæ Ecclesiam primariam) conscriptâ Epistolâ; Aliáque ejusdem characteris, in plerisque Θεοφόρου Martyris scriptis, adversus hujus sectæ virus, antidota ubique sparguntur.

§. 8. Quisquis igitur venenis istis imbutus, talia de Christo docet, ille quidem Deum ipsum, qui Christo de cœlo testimonium præbuit, negâsse censendus est. Quòd & à Simone abundè factum, qui πρῶτος ἐτόλμησεν (ait Cyrillus) primus ausus est jactare se eum esse, qui in monte Sinai sub specie Patris apparuit.

§. 9. Nihil sanè manifestius dici potuit; Hunc scilicet Gnosticorum gregem (mendacissimos seductores, qui à Christo, cui primùm nomina dedissent, deficientes, Simonemque ductorem suum pro Christo venditantes, se universæ jam fidei Christianæ opponebant, idque immediatè ante Judaici excidii tempus) pro Pseudodoctoribus, & Antichristis, à Christo prænuntiatis, habendos esse; Imò ipsum illum celeberrimum Antichristum, per aliquot annos in Ecclesiâ expectatum, in Simone, & hac Gnosticorum colluvie reperiendum esse.

§. 10. Sic

§. 10. Si cùm Polycarpus in Ep. ad Philip. p. 20. Antichristum, juxta hanc Johannis definitionem, descripsisset, [Πᾶς γὰρ ὃς ἂν μὴ ὁμολογῇ Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθέναι, Ἀντίχριστός ἐστι, καὶ ὃς ἂν μὴ ὁμολογῇ τὸ μαρτύριον τοῦ σταυροῦ, ἐκ τοῦ διαβόλου ἐστί, Quisquis Christum in carne venisse negat, quisquis testimonium crucis non confitetur, is pro Antichristo, & Diaboli filio censendus est] statim addit, Καὶ ὃς ἂν μεθοδεύῃ τὰ λόγια τοῦ Κυρίου πρὸς ἰδίας ἐπιθυμίας, καὶ λέγῃ μήτε ἀνάστασιν, μήτε κρίσιν εἶναι, οὗτος πρωτότοκός ἐστι τοῦ Σατανᾶ, Et qui Eloquia Domini ad suas cupiditates convertit (ut gratiam Dei in dissolutam μετατιθέντες, Judæ 4.) Et dicet nec resurrectionem, nec judicium esse, ille primogenitus Satanæ est. Quo titulo Simonem Magum, & Gnosticos, ab antiquis Patribus insignitos esse, omnes nôrunt.

§. 11. Quod verò ad ipsum nomen attinet, satis apparet Antichristum dici, qui se Christum simulat, Ψευδόχριστον (qualis directè Simon, se ὃν Ἰουδαῖοι ὡς Χριστὸν Ἰησοῦν φαίνεται affirmans) ideóque Hæreticis his, τῷ πλάνῳ simul, & τῷ Ἀντιχρίστῳ titulum affigi, 2 Epb. Joh. 7. Ex quo adhuc manifestius erit (quod jamdiu contendimus) eos, quos sub titulo Pseudoprophetarum, Mat. 24. 11. præsignificavit Christus, hîc in prophetiæ istius completione per Antichristum, aut Antichristos designari, eôsque pari modo Christo opponi, quo μυστήριον ἀνομίας apud Paulum, modò explicatum, vel μυστήριον ἀσεβείας apud Epiphanium (clandestini contra Christum, & pietatem, at præcipuè puritatem omnem cuniculi, & insidiæ, fadissimis, sed & mysticis, quæ dicuntur, sacræ Scripturæ interpretationibus innixi) τῷ μεγάλῳ τῆς θεοσεβείας μυστηρίῳ adversabantur.

CAP. XI.

1 Joh. 4. 1, 2, 3. Explicata.

§. 1. FEstinamus ad quartum caput.

1. Ἀγαπητοί, μὴ παντὶ πνεύματι πιστεύετε, ἀλλὰ δοκιμάζετε τὰ πνεύματα, εἰ ἐκ τοῦ Θεοῦ ἐστιν, ὅτι πολλοὶ ψευδοπροφῆται ἐξεληλύθασιν εἰς τὸν κόσμον.

Multi sunt, Dilecti, sibíque satis contrarii Spiritus, quibus freti homines, se pro Prophetis, aut doctoribus jactitant, non omnes quidem à Deo profecti, ideóque singuli à vobis, habito examine, explorandi, an à Deo sint; Id enim à Christo prædictum, quod hodie accidisse experimur, sub hâc tempestate multos Pseudoprophetas, Christo palàm adversantes, sèque pro Christo venditantes, in mundum exituros esse.

§. 2. 2. Ἐν τούτῳ γινώσκετε τὸ πνεῦμα Θεοῦ, πᾶν πνεῦμα ὃ ὁμολογεῖ Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθότα, ἐκ τοῦ Θεοῦ ἐστί.

Et in hoc prophetarum aut Doctorum explorandorum negotio, illud inprimis disquirendum est, an qui se afflatos prædicant, Christum nostrum verè in carne venisse, & verè crucifixum esse confessûri sint, idque cùm confessio fidei nostræ tantis undequaque persecutionibus impetatur, Qui enim fidem Christianam inter tot pericula à Judæis ei impendentia propugnaturus est, & non corde tantùm crediturus, sed & ore confessurus est, is proculdubio, ut verus Dei propheta recipiendus erit.

§. 3. 3. Καὶ πᾶν πνεῦμα ὃ μὴ ὁμολογεῖ τὸν Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθότα, ἐκ τοῦ Θεοῦ οὐκ ἔστι, καὶ τοῦτό ἐστι τὸ τοῦ Ἀντιχρίστου, ὃ ἀκηκόατε ὅτι ἔρχεται, καὶ νῦν ἐν τῷ κόσμῳ ἐστὶν ἤδη.

Quisquis autem Jesum Christum non agnoscit in carne verè venisse, sed, ut Simon, δοκήσει solùm, is se statim monstrat à Deo missum non esse; nec igitur vel ut nuntius Dei, vel ut propheta recipiendus est. Tali autem Spiritu Antichristum illum actum scimus, quem Christus ante cladem Hierosolymitanam venturum prædixit, Sepedonas scilicet, & carcinomenta ista notissima, impurissimam Gnosticorum sectam, de quibus c. 2. verba facta sunt, & à quibus hodie Ecclesiam Christi tam inclementer tractatam, & infestatam experimur.

CAP. XII.

Hæc omnia ut Presbyteranis non faveant. Omnia completa ante excidium Hierosolymitanum. Mysterium ἀνομίας revelatum. Ἀντίχριστος ἤδη νῦν, Johannis ævo. Episcopatus Gnosticis nihil debuit, 2 Pet. 2. 10. Δόξας βλασφημεῖν. Ἀλαζονία Κορὲ, Ισσπμίας arrogatio. Apostolos in ordinem redigere volunt Gnostici, ἀνυπότακτοι, Tit. 1. 10. se Episcopis præferentes. Ratio cur Ignatius tam magnificè de Episcopis locutus sit. Marci sectatores se Apostolis præferentes. Paraus de Thebuthi. D. Blondellus de impugnata Θεοῦ μόναρχία. Antichristus non sic. Gnostici multa à Paganis, multa à Judæis deprompsêre. Blasphema quæque de Simone dixêre. Iidem Antichristi 1 Joh. 2. & Antichristi c. 4. Ebionitæ. D. Blondelli conclusio infirmissima.

§. 1. HÆc cum ita sint, mirari satis nequeo, quâ tandem ratione tria hæc Scripturæ commata à Presbyteralis paritatis assertoribus ad rem suam accommodari potuerint.

§. 2. Hoc enim inprimis certissimum est, istam χειρὶ ὑμέρᾳ Paulo, ἐγγὺς ἤδη Johanni solenniter nuncupatam (excidium nempe Hierosolymitanum sub Vespasiano, & Tito Imperatoribus) ante Johannem denatum, hoc est, ævo Apostolico, obtigisse.

§. 3. Illud dein æque indubitatum est, hoc, quicquid fuerit ἀνομίας μυστήριον, aliquandiu mysterium fuisse, clam aliquandiu delitescens, idque ἤδη, inquit Paulus, cùm ea scriberet, postea verò revelatum esse, utrumque autem (Christo prænuntiante) ante fatalis hujus diei adventum; imò Antichristum, ἤδη, & (ne semel tantùm dicatur) ἤδη νῦν ἐν κόσμῳ ἐστίν, jam nunc in mundo esse, cùm ea Johannes scriberet.

§. 4. Ex quibus oculato cuivis manifestum erit, 1. Episcopatum, si is in Ecclesiâ Antichristo præluserit, & operante, (ut vulgò redditur) Mysterio iniquitatis in Ecclesiam irrepserit, sine dubio sub Apostolicis temporibus extitisse, Quo uno extra dubium posito, universa D. Blondelli machina statim concidit, qui sub Apostolis tam principalibus, quam adlectis, Presbyteras compares Ecclesiam quamlibet gubernasse, tandémque sub fine secundi à Christo nato seculi, Episcopatum (Presbyteratu superiorem) πρωτοκλισίαν τάξιν fuisse statuit, & ad id monstrandum omnem operam suam impendit.

§. 5. Verùm & illud secundò adjiciendum est, quòd, cùm hæc omnia ab Apostolis de Mysterio ἀνομίας, & Antichristo enuntiata, in Gnosticorum sectâ eventum suum sortita fuisse demonstratum sit, nihil tamen inter omnia patrum scripta (quibus hæresis ista satis graphicè depingitur) reperiri possit, quod Episcoporum ordinem Gnosticis placuisse, aut ab eorum hæresi augmentum quovismodo, nedum originem, sumpsisse arguat; Imò è contra Sanctus Petrus, & Judas, hos τολμητὰς, & αὐθάδεις, audaces, sibique placentes hæreticos, δόξας blasphemâsse pronuntiant, nec solum κυριότητα omnem ἀθετοῦντας, & βλασφημοῦντας, sed & τῇ ἀντιλογίᾳ Κορὲ insistentes, perditionem suam maturâsse.

§. 6. Quid sit δόξας βλασφημεῖν (quatenus Gnosticis tribuitur, 2 Pet. 2. 10. & Jud. 8. si non sit Apostolis, & Ecclesiarum ἡγουμένοις tunc viventibus se sic ex diametro opponere, ut per ἀντιλογίαν Κορὲ explicatiùs reddi possit, Ego me fateor conjecturâ assequi non posse: Quid vero Core (& ipsi quidem Levitæ) sociisque suis vitio verteretur, manifestum erit, si rei gestæ historia, Num. 16. consulatur.

§. 7. Cùm stetissent contra Mosem & Aaronem, (non Mosem tantùm, sed & Aaronem, ut hîc non κυριότητα tantùm ἀθετοῦσι, sed & βλασφημοῦσι δόξας) dixêrunt, sufficiat vobis (vel, nimium est) quod vobis usurpandum putatis, cùm tota congregatio sancta sit, unusquisque eorum, & in ipsis sit Dominus, cur elevamini super populum Domini? Sic nempe opinante Core, φιλοπρωτείαν Mosi in cœtu, Aaroni in tabernaculo vitio vertendam esse. Cùm sine dubio sanctior fuerit Mosis sententia de his opinatoribus pronuntiata, v. 7. Multum erigimini, filii Levi, Num parùm est vobis, quòd separavit vos Deus Israël ab omni populo, & junxit sibi, &c. quin vobis etiam Sacerdotium vendicetis? v. 10.

§. 8. Hæc ἀρχιερωσύνης arrogatio (vel ἰσοτιμίας inter omnes filios Levi vendicatio) fuit, ut Mosi, &, ex eo, Judæ videtur, ἀντιλογία Κορὲ, Et hanc quidem dicam, non solùm à Judâ, sed & ab aliis Apostolis, Gnosticis impingi videas; utpote ipsos ubique Apostolos (aliis in Ecclesiâ omnibus à Christo prælatos) in ordinem redigi volentibus. Hinc est quòd dignitatem suam tam strenuè tueatur Paulus, 1 Cor. 9. Apostolatûs privilegia sibi vendicans, v. 1. & id, postquam cum Gnosticis rem habuisset, integro c. 8. Quod & ad Galatas facit, c. 1. unde etiam cùm de his μανιολόγοις, & φρενοπλήκτοις Titum monendum censeret Apostolus, Tit. 1. 10. eos in initio versûs ἀνυποτάκτους nuncupat, statímque τὰς ἐν ἀσεπτομῆς, & v. 11. ὅλους οἴκους ἀνατρέποντας, & διδάσκοντας ἃ μὴ δεῖ, tot characterismis Gnosticorum illuviem indigitans.

§. 9. Quò & illud Ignatii pertinere nullus dubito, Epistolâ ad Polycarpum, Εἴτις, inquit, γνωσθῆ πλέον τῆ ἐπισκόπῳ, ἔφθαρται, si quis Episcopo plus cogneverit, i. e. siquis sibi γνῶσιν arrogans, Episcopum ut minus scientem contempserit, is sine dubio corruptus est; Ideóque, cùm Ep. ad Trallesios, de istis seductorum, & πλάνην eos indies sollicitantium, venenis cavendis eos moneri voluerit, hoc, inquit, fiet, si nec inani fastu inflemini, (cujus rei, affirmante Apostolo, à scientiâ, seu γνόσει summum periculum erat) & ut à Deo, sic & ab Episcopo, & Apostolorum constitutionibus ἀχώριστοι, inseparabiles istis, statímque addit, quicunque sine Episcopo, &c. quicquam facit, hic ὁ καθαρὸς δὲ τῇ συνειδήσει, conscientiam intaminatam non habet. Ex quibus, ut id semel dicam, ratio reddi potest, quare Pientissimus Martyr in singulis ferè Epistolis suis, tot, & talia de Episcopis audiendis, de nullâ ab iis separatione faciendâ, de summo quidlibet sine illis faciendi piaculo (ἑνωσέως quidem, at nunquam (pace magnorum Censorum licebit dixisse) ἀχωρίστου) inculcanda censuerit, quia scilicet serpenti tunc latiùs Gnosticorum Gangrænæ, 1 Tim. 2. 17. ex separatione & contemptu Episcoporum, vires quotidiè adaugerentur, quæ non alio remedio, aut Pharmaco minuendæ erant, quàm si suus Episcopis honos, & reverentia, incolumis & integra custodiretur.

§. 10. Hoc de Marci sectatoribus (notissimâ istâ Gnosticorum propagine) affirmavit Irenæus, l. 1. c. 9. & ex eo Epiphanius, l. 1. hær. 14, & 34. Eò insolentiæ elatos fuisse, ut ipsos etiam Apostolos præ se contemnerent. Et cùm, inquit, ad eam traditionem quæ est ab Apostolis, quæ per successionem Presbyterorum (i. e. Episcoporum) in Ecclesiis custoditur, provocemus eos adversantur traditioni, dicentes, se non solùm Presbyteris, sed etiam Apostolis existentes sapientiores, sinceram invenisse veritatem, Iren. l. 3. c. 2.

§. 11. Adeò ab omni veritatis specie alienum est, quod contra Episcopos singulares, à Mysterii Iniquitatis, aut Antichristi in Scripturis mentione deduci solet argumentum, Adeò promptum & proclive, ut in ipsos authores retorqueatur, si istis talionibus vacaremus.

§. 12. Nec quidem illud, licet παρέργως, notatu indignum erit, eâdem seu ἀσελγείᾳ, seu (ne quid pejus dicam) infelicitate peccasse Paræum, cùm Thebutbis apud * Hegesippum mentionem, qui virginalem & puram Apostolicorum temporum Ecclesiam corrupisse dicitur, ad propositum suum pertinere censuerit; Cùm apertissimum sit, integrum Hegesippi locum ad notissimam istam Ecclesiæ pestem, Gnosticorum hæresin à Judæis oriundam, pertinere, simúlque ipsum Thebutbim διὰ τὸ μὴ ἠνέσθαι αὐτὸν ἐπίσκοπον, ideo quòd in petitione Episcopatus repulsam tulerat, Ecclesiæ pacem, & puritatem impiè sollicitasse.

* Euseb. Eccl. Hist. l. 4. c. xβ'.

§. 13. Priusquam verò istis valedixero, Duo fateor à D. Blondello hîc poni quæ me satis excercuêrunt, & adhuc animi incertum relinquunt. Primò, Quinam ii fuerint Antichristi, 1 Joh. 2. 18. à quibus, Paganismi ruentis æmulis, Dei super omnia regnantis Monarchiam palam oppugnatam fuisse asserit. [Oppugnare Monarchiam Dei, & Paganismi ruentis æmulos esse] est sine dubio πολυθεότητα Paganorum, contra unitatis aut μονάδος assertores, propugnare; Et sic quidem ex adverso, Cyrillus, Catechesi 6. Περὶ Θεοῦ μοναρχίας inscriptâ, unitatem Dei, primum istum fidei articulum, contra multiplicem Paganorum πανηγύριν, Feles, Canes, Lupos, Leones, Capas, Bacchum, Cererimque ἀντὶ Θεοῦ adorantium, tuetur. Quod si de Apollonio Tyanæo, aliisque puris putis Paganis, & πολυθεότητος assertoribus à D. Blondello affirmatum sit, id quidem in se verissimum erit, sed quod Antichristo, de quo istic sermo est, ritè accommodari non poterit, cùm is ex cœtu Christianorum exiisse dicatur, v. 19. i. e. Christo aliquando nomen dedisse, quod Apollonio & meris Paganis non competit, & cùm illud tantùm de hoc Antichristo

hîc

hìc dicatur, negare eum, ὅτι ὁ Ἰησοῦς ἐστιν ὁ Χριστὸς, Jesum esse Christum, v. 22. Quod non est mendacio adversari. Imò nec illa Paganicæ πολυθεΐας assertio iſtis temporibus res adeò nova, aut inſolens cenſeri debet, ut dari Eccleſiæ τὸ ὑπερῷον poſſit, quo Jesu ἐν τῷ ὑπερῴῳ ἀνῳ, bonam ultimam (quicquid ea demum ſignificare D. Blondello videatur) adeſſe certò dignoſcant.

§. 14. Fateor quidem Gnoſticos (quos inſtantis exitii Judaici prodromos prædixit Chriſtus) à Paganis, & ſeu ab Heſiodeâ, ſeu ab Orphiacâ Theologiâ, multa in uſus ſuos deprompſiſſe (ideóque Cyrillum prænominatum, Catechesi ſextæ tractatum περὶ διϊσόνων, de Simonis præcipuè & Gnoſticorum hæreſi, adjeciſſe). At hoc non eſt recentis Paganiſmi annulos eſſe, & eo demum conſilio Monarchiam Dei palàm oppugnare, quum iidem eo tempore Gnoſtici, ex Judaiſmo etiam multa, æquè ac è Gentiliſmo hauſerint, &, ut monuit Hegeſippus apud Euſeb. Eccl. Hiſt. l. 4. c. κ'. ex ſeptem notiſſimis apud Judæos hæreſibus originem ſuam traxerint, ſeque coram Judæis Moſaicæ diſciplinæ ſectatores profiterentur, imò & è veteris Teſtamenti Scriptis multa, à Chriſto nonnulla, in miſcellaneam hanc παντοδαπὰς fatraginem conjicienda deprompſerint.

§. 15. Certum eſt hos illud quidem conatos eſſe, ut Simoni Deo ſuo σεμνοτέρα deferrentur, *Chriſto*que authoritatem abrogaſſe, multâque de Deo in Scripturis affirmata ad Simonem traduxiſſe; imò, Simonem ipſum ſe in monte Sinai ὡς πατέρα φανέντα, Inter Judæos ut Jeſum Chriſtum, non in carne, ἀλλὰ δοκήσει φανέντα, denique ut Spiritum ſanctum à Chriſto promiſſum Παράκλητον venditaſſe; At non eſt illud Paganiſmi πολυθεΐας propugnatores eſſe, ſed ſolùm ſceleſtiſſimæ ſectæ tutandæ, & propagandæ operam ſedulò impendiſſe.

§. 16. Secundò, quâ demum ratione ſibi perſuaſerit vir Doctiſſimus, quartum Epiſtolæ primæ Johannis caput, ſic à ſecundo dividendum eſſe, ut per Antichriſtos c. 2. 18. Dei ſuper omnia regnantis oppugnatores, per Spiritum Antichriſti, c. 4. 3. negatam præſtatle ab Ebione, & congerronibus, æterni Verbi ἐναυθρώπου intelligi putet.

§. 17. Certè ſi Antichriſti characteres duobus capitibus comprehenſi, inter ſe conferantur, eos in unum recidere palam erit; Secundi quippe capitis Antichriſtos negare, ὅτι Ἰησοῦς ἐστιν ὁ Χριστὸς, v. 22. negare, ſeu non confiteri Filium, v. 23. ideóque (ut argumento à relativis concludit Apoſtolus) οὐδὲ τὸν Πατέρα ἔχειν, nec Deum Patrem, qui Filio ſuo teſtimonium præbuit, agnoſcere; Pariſque modo Antichriſtos IVti capitis, μὴ ὁμολογεῖν τὸν Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἐν σαρκὶ ἐληλυθότα, Jeſum Chriſtum in carne venientem non confiteri, vel (ut ſequentia explicant) μὴ ὁμολογεῖν ὅτι Ἰησοῦς ἐστιν ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ Θεοῦ, v. 15. non confiteri quòd Jeſus ſit Dei filius. Hæc planè eadem ſunt, & cum Gnoſticis directè quadrant, nec ad Ebionitarum, ψιλοῦς καὶ πατεινοὺς, ut antiqui dixêrunt, de Chriſto dogmatizantium ſententiam (quâ primum Chriſtum λιτὸν καὶ κοινὸν ἄνθρωπον, ex Joſepho & Mariâ natum, μόνον κατὰ προκοπὴν ἠθικὴν δεδικαιωμένον affirmabant, poſtea verò ex virgine & Spiritu Sancto natum confitentes, eum tamen αὐτὸν προϋπάρχειν Θεὸν, aut λόγον καὶ σοφίαν ἄνευ negabant) reſtringenda ſunt.

§. 18. Verùm (iſtis omiſſis) quomodo ad Epiſcopos ſupra Presbyteros ſe extollentes, negata ſeu Dei Monarchiâ, ſeu Chriſti ἐναυθρώπου, pertineat, fateor ego me divinando aſſequi non poſſe, ni hæc unica Hierarchicorum doctrina adeò totum Antichriſtum ebibiſſe cenſeatur, ut in hoc unum errorum pelagus alia omnia Acherontis oſtia ſe effudiſſe, aut quicquid in iſtius ſeculi Eccleſiâ peccatum ab hæreticis fuit, illud ſtatim in Epiſcopis hujus ævi puniendum videatur.

§. 19. Aliud eſt ſine dubio, ſchiſmata, & διϊστάσεις Apoſtolici ævi Eccleſiam infeſtâſſe, quæ ab Apoſtolis & Orthodoxis omnibus anathemate, diriſque perculſa ſunt; Aliud, à ſchiſmaticis illis Epiſcopalem inæqualitatem, nolente Eccleſiâ, in Eccleſiam invectam eſſe; Nec quicquam hoc ἰσχυρῷ concluſiſſe D. Blondellus cuivis æquo æſtimatori videbitur, donec Epiſcopalem dignitatem, ſeu ut hæreticam, ſeu ut ſchiſmaticam, ſeu demum ut Paganicam, ab Eccleſiâ rejectam eſſe, aut ſacro, aut aliquo demum (præter Arium) authore, affirmaturus ſit.

CAP. XIII.

Diotrephis φιλοπρωτεία. Quid de eâ Walo. Diotrephes Johanni Apoſtolo ſe præponens. At Epiſcopi non ſic. Πρωτοκαθεδρία licita, licet culpanda φιλοπρωτεία. Phariſæi φιλοῦντες πρωτοκαθεδρίας, Matt. 23. 6. Συναγωγαὶ quid ſignificent. Πρωτοκαθεδρία in ſacris, & in civilibus. Ἀρχισυνάγωγος. Conſiſtorium, Concilia Chriſtiani icon, Apoc. 4. Ἐπισκόπου ὄρος, apud authorem Conſtitutionum. Στέφανος φαιόχυτος apud Ignatium. Θυσιαστήριον quid. Altare cingere. Epiſcopus in medio ſedens. Non Omne Epiſcopatûs deſiderium malum. Zebedæi uxor.

§. 1. ULtimò igitur ad Diotrephis φιλοπρωτείαν deveniamus, & primò meminiſſe liceat, quid in hâc re * Walo aliquando cenſuerit; Apponam verba; Quia, inquit, ille (l. c. Diotrephes) nollet agnoſcere ſuperiorem aliquem in Presbyteros habentem poteſtatem; Apoſtoli autem quaſi primi Presbyterorum, qui & eos inſtituebant, jure ipſo præeminere ipſis debebant, ideò non admiſtebat Johannem, qui in Eccleſiâ major jure ſuo futurus erat omnibus eſus Epiſcopis ſive Presbyteris. Hæc ille inter alia dicenda cenſuit, A quo me non diſcenſurum conſiderem, ſi ex his concluderem Diotrephem Presbyterana ἀντιμετάσεως aſſertorem fuiſſe, adeóque rem gnaviter geſſiſſe, ut Johanni ipſi omnem ſuperioritatem abrogandam voluerit; Nec igitur nos, ſed adverſarios noſtros hoc peſſimo Diotrephis exemplo ulterius premi poſſe.

* Wal. Mor. P. 241

§. 2. At respondetur 2^do, Locum ipse si consulatur, 3 Joh. 9. statim manifestum fore, Diotrephen non solùm comparibus suis, sed & ipsi Johanni Apostolo præponi voluisse, Dignitatémque ambiisse, non quæ Presbyterorum collegio, sed quæ sanctissimo Apostolo debebatur. Scripsi, inquit Johannes, Ecclesiæ, sed ὁ φιλοπρωτεύων αὐτῶν Διοτρέφης οὐκ ἐπιδέχεται ἡμᾶς. Primatus inter eos cupidus Diotrephes nos non recipit, Epistolámque nostram ad Ecclesiam missam respuit. Quid ergo hoc ad Primatum Episcoporum, Apostolis libenter ipsorum πρωτεῖα sarta tecta, authoritatem, & dignitatem incolumes relinquentium, nec ipsos Patres è familiâ suâ pellentium, sed tantùm ex prærogativâ δικαίας τιμῆς (ipsis ut primogenitis, ab Apostolis, i. e. Patribus concessæ) junioribus quibusque fratribus in familiâ præsidentium, claviúmque à Christo datarum potestatem, non quò sibi, aut commodo suo quicquam accedat, sed quò alios sub se omnes in unitate fidei conservent, exercentium?

§. 3. In Ecclesiâ nimirum Asiaticâ, Johannis curæ immediatè subjectâ, nullo modo ad Diotrephen primatus pertinebat, nulla ab Apostolis missio, aut χειροτονία obtendebatur, suo solius calculo & suffragio, non tantùm non jubente, sed, ut apparet, palam renitente Apostolo, ad πρωτεῖα ascendere voluit, αὐθάδης & πλάνης, (quales Gnosticorum schola innumeros produxit) At quid hoc ad Episcopos, jubentibus, & per impositionem manuum benedicentibus Apostolis, non ex ambitione, aut φιλοπρωτείᾳ suâ, sed ex missione, & providentiâ Dei, ad illud culmen (aliquando etiam postquam recusaverint) provectos?

§. 4. Libet igitur adversariorum hoc se contra Hieraticos scuto obtegentium armaturam, virésque uno dilemmate experiri. Aut Episcopatu singulari (super Presbyterorum paritatem ascendente) fungebatur Diotrephes, aut non; Si fungebatur, cur non affectatæ illius super pares dignitatis ab Apostolo incusabatur? Cur ideò tantùm ei, quia ἡμᾶς, i. e. Johannem ipsum, seu literas Johannis Apostolicas, non retiperet, dies dicebatur? Aut cur demum, quod Diotrephi impune cessit, ab Apostolo vivente & vidente neutiquam notatum, id in Episcopis nostris adeo immaniter plectendum, aut à nobis jam seris nepotibus iis vitio vertendum erat? At si (ex alterâ dilemmatis parte) Episcopus non erat, tunc statim illud in confesso est, nihil planè ad Hieraticos nostros, nihil ad Episcoporum ordinem Diotrephis exemplum spectare, ideóque quæ hic ad augendam invidiam à Diotrephe trahuntur omnia ἐκτὸς εἶναι τοῦ Διοτρεφους.

§. 5. Tertio igitur respondetur, φιλοπρωτείαν Diotrephis illi vitio verti potuisse, salvo tamen suo Episcopis primatu; nec enim πρωτεῖα, aut superioritatem omnem Ecclesiasticam in Diotrephe improbâsse Apostolum, ut nec in Simone Act. 8. communicandi (per χειροθεσίαν) Spiritus Sancti ἐξουσίαν; Sed in hoc, indignum acquirendi modum (quòd, ut ait Cyrillus Hierosol. τῶν ἀφορισμῶν τῆς πνεύματος χάριν argento sibi coemendam expectaret, v. 20.) In illo, φιλοτιμίαν, φιλοπρωτείαν, ambitionem, aut immoderatam eminentiæ illius affectationem censurâ suâ mulctâsse.

§. 6. Exemplo res clarior fiet: De Pharisæis dictum est, Mat. 23. eos φιλοῦν πρωτοκαθεδρίας ἐν ταῖς συναγωγαῖς, primam in Synagogis cathedram amare, v. 6. Quid hîc [Συναγωγαὶ] significet, non est adeò manifestum, ut quicquam fidenter afferam. Potest ad Ecclesiasticos Judæorum cœtus restringi; At & potest ad Consistoria applicari, ut ejusdem capitis v. 34. & c. 10. 17. & Ja. 2. 2. & alibi non semel. Si ad cœtus sacros respexerit Christus, tunc sine dubio, cùm in Cathedris docerent Doctores, & inter ipsos ordo aliquis observaretur, necesse erat, ut primam Cathedram aliquis occuparet, Ideóque hunc sedendi ordinem neutiquam reprehensurus erat Christus, sed tantummodo τὸ φιλότιμον, ambitiosorum, & fastuosorum hypocritarum κακοήθειαν notâsse credendus est. Sic etiam, si ad Consistoria respexerit, (quod tamen isto in loco feciisse non putarim) Erat enim inter Judæos ראש הקהל Caput Consistorii, ἀρχισυνάγωγος κατ' ἐξοχήν, cujus manuum impositione alii omnes Presbyteri, quibus in Consistorio locus erat, in Senatum recipiebantur; Et huic sedem præ aliis eminentem conveniisse nemo dubitat. Ad ejus certè imaginem (sub ipsò Apostolorum ævo) Concilia Episcoporum componebantur, sub suo quæque Patriarchâ, aut Metropolitano. Horum Iconem videmus à Johanne in visione depictam, Apoc. 4. Thronum quippe, aut Cathedram Principalem, in medio positum, v. 2. & (κυκλόθεν τοῦ θρόνου) ex utrâque throni parte, ad modum Coronæ, vel Semicirculi, thronos 24. quibus totidem Πρεσβύτεροι, (Judæa, ut * mox dicetur, Episcopi) insidebant, ad sinistram, & ad dextram throni sic depositos, ut omnes versus populum facies verterent.

* Dis. 4. c. 20.

§. 7. Ad hunc certè modum, & Episcopum, Presbyteris suis (postquam Presbyteri secundarii instituti sunt) stipatum, iis omnibus præsedisse in Ecclesiâ suâ, nemini novum videbitur, qui in antiquis Ecclesiæ scriptis versatus est. Videantur Constitutiones Apost. 2. 58. Κεῖσθω μέσος ὁ ἐπίσκοπος θρόνος, καθ' ἑκάτερα δὲ αὐτοῦ καθιζέσθω τὸ πρεσβυτέριον, οἱ δὲ διάκονοι παριστάσθωσαν. Videatur Epistola ἱερομάρτυρος Ignatii ad Magnesios, ubi post mentionem ἀξιοπρεπεστάτου ἐπισκόπου, additur πνευματικὸς στέφανος τοῦ πρεσβυτερίου, Corona (quâ iste sedentium ἐν ἡμικύκλῳ situs describitur) Presbyterii vestri, Episcopalem Cathedram ex utrâque parte cingentis. Sic & ἐκκλησίας στέφανος, Const. Apost. 2. 28.

§. 8. Hinc illud antiqui Authoris De Eccl. Hierar. c. 3. ὁ μὲν ἱεράρχης ἐν μέσῳ τῷ θείῳ θυσιαστηρίῳ καθέζεται, ubi quid per θυσιαστήριον notetur, ex Græco Nazianzeni Scholiaste colligi' a'. satis patebit. Ἐπειδὴ, inquit, ἐν τίθησι σημαίνει τὸ ἱερὸν ὅλον, ὅθεν καὶ θυσιαστήριον, ἐν ᾧ ἡμῖν ἡ θεία καὶ μυστικὴ ἀνίκειται τράπεζα, Altarium nempe, locum, aut spatium illud integrum, ubi sacra mensa nobis proponitur. Ex quo ritè intelligi poterit, quid sit illud περικυκλοῦν θυσιαστήριον, altare cingere, in antiquorum ritualibus, ex Psalmistâ depromptum; ut & illud in Greg. Nazianzeni somnio, de seipso, ut Episcopo in medio sedente, (ut olim Christus in medio Doctorum, Luc. 2. 46.) & Presbyterorum Cathedris ex utrâque manu thronum ejus cingentibus. At illud non est quod hîc contendimus; Hoc tantummodo hîc monuisse contenti, quàm nihil ex istâ πρωτοκαθεδρίας Pharisaicâ, & à Christo notatâ affectatione, ut nec à Diotrephis φιλοπρωτείᾳ, contra ipsam cathedræ præeminentiam seu Judaicam, seu Christianam concludi possit.

§. 9. Quartò

§. 9. Quartò denique respondetur, non omne quidem ἐπιθυμητὸν desiderium, (sive per τὸ ὀφθῆναι, sive per τὸ ἐπιθυμῆσαι ab Apostolo significatum, 1 Tim. 3. 1.) culpandum esse, Cùm, qui Episcopatum desiderat, bonum opus desiderare dicatur, sed tantùm inane illud, & solius eminentiæ, aut prioritatis præcisè & abstractè sumptæ, (nullo ad officium aut ἔργον respectu habito) impotens dignitatis & προτιμιότητος desiderium. Loquatur pro aliis Theodoretus in 1 Tim. 3. 1. οὐκ ἀπλῶς τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς, ἀλλὰ τῆς φιλαρχίας κατηγορῶν, ἣ διδάσκων μὴ τιμῆς ἁπλῶς ἐφίεσθαι, μὴ τοῦ ἀξίου πόθον, ἀλλὰ τῆς ἀξίας τὸ ἔργον ἐπιζητεῖν, Non simpliciter desiderium Episcopatûs, sed primatûs amorem incusans, docetque non honorem sed virtutem, non dignitatem sed opus appetendum esse.

§. 10. Sic cùm Zebedæi uxor, Matt. 20. dignitatem istam à Christo filiis suis impertiendam postularet, ut unus illi à dextrâ, alter à sinistrâ in regno ejus sederet, tale à Christo responsum tulit, ut sciamus eam φιλοπρωτείαν eam esse, Oneribus quippe & afflictionibus, quæ προτείοις istis adhæsura erant, insuper habitis, soli dignitati inhiâsse.

§. 11. Quod igitur Christus discipulis reliquis eam matris aut fratrum ambitionem indignè ferentibus, adjiciendum censuit, τὸν ἐν αὐτοῖς μείζονα, 26. πρῶτον, 27. vel, ut Lucas 22. 26. τὸν ἐν αὐτοῖς μείζονα, ἢ τὸν ἡγούμενον, principem, aut præcipuum inter eos, διάκονον ἢ δοῦλον εἶναι, aliis omnibus, quibus præest, ministrare & servire debere, id etiam Diotrephi reponi potuit; non tamen exinde probari, neminem in Ecclesiâ πρῶτον, aut μείζονα, aut ἡγούμενον censendum esse, sed tales (è contra) ἐν ὑμῖν, inter Christianos futuros esse. Id posthæc fusiùs monstrabitur, & ex ipsâ φιλοπρωτείᾳ Diotrephis non obscurè concludi posset, si minutiis istis probationum nobis opus esset. Adeò sine omni rationis specie nobis* alibi imponi voluit D. Blondellus, qui hoc potissimum argumento Johannem Episcopis adversari concludit, quòd Diotrephi φιλοπρωτείαν vitio verterit. * Apol. p. 13.

CAP. XIV.

Episcopalis dignitatis semina sub Apostolorum ævo. Dilemma contra Blondelli sententiam intortum. Schismatum pestis, 1 Cor. 11. 18. ἴδιον δεῖπνον, Nihil ad Episcopalem dignitatem. Schisma, 1 Cor. 3. Wall notatus. Episcopalis Ordo ad aliorum immodestiam coercendam, ex aliorum malis moribus originem traxit. Antiquitas discriminis inter Episcopos & Presbyteros. Argumentum secundum contra Presbyteranorum sententiam ex ipsorum concessis. Anglicanæ Reformationis fundus, ut Prima Scripturis, Secunda Priorum seculorum Scriptoribus deferrentur. Rex Carolus adversus Hendersonum.

§. 1. QUandoquidem verò D. Blondellus his omnibus de Antichristis, de Diotrephe, &c. à se propositis addendum putaverit, hanc primam mali labem latiùs deinceps serpsisse, hoc est, (si ad præsentem litem quovismodo pertineat) Episcopalis super Presbyteros dignitatis semina (utut pro Zizaniis à D. Blondello habita) Apostolorum ævo in Ecclesiâ sata, postea uberiùs succrevisse, Ego quidem hâc opportunitate usus, bonâ ejus cum venià, libenter interrogarem, quomodo causam suam vir instructissimus, contra dilemmatis hujus vim tueri possit.

§. 2. Si Episcopalis dignitatis semina Apostolorum ætate in Ecclesiâ sata reperiantur, Tunc aut ab Apostolis rejiciebantur, aut non; Si rejiciebantur, tunc illud aut scriptis ipsorum, aut ἀγράφως factum; Si scriptis, monstrentur in Epistolis Apostolorum verba, aut in Actis Decreta, quibus illud factum est: Si ἀγράφως rejecta & reprobata ab Apostolis fuerint, nullâ ἀγραφῳ censurâ ad manus nostras derivatâ, indicentur demum capsulæ, quibus hæc ἄγραφα aut non scripta damnatæ Episcopalis authoritatis dogmata reposita & custodita, incolumis ad nos pervenerit, Aut si capsulæ non compareant, monstretur saltem Ægeria nova, quæ hæc ab Apostolis accepta, nobis tandem seris nepotibus in aurem (remotis arbitris) nuper suggesserit: Hæc si monstrari itidem nequeant, quo quæso, præjudicio accidit, ut sine teste omni damnaretur innocentissimus Ordo, & ex Ecclesiâ, nemine jubente, aut suffragante, exularet?

§. 3. Sin verò hæc tam alto mane sparsa semina, nullâ unquam aut scriptâ, aut non scriptâ Apostolorum censurâ feriebantur, quis, quæso, nos judices constituit, ut post universalem per tot secula in Ecclesiâ hujus Ordinis receptionem, nobis tandem jubentibus damnetur?

§. 4. Ad hoc dilemma nihil à Presbyteranis adhuc prolatum videtur, præter solas illas Mysterii ἀνομίας, Antichristorum, Diotrephis φιλοπρωτεύοντος, & importatæ, inquit D. Blondellus, sub ipsis Apostolorum oculis schismatum pestis, 1 Cor. 11. 18. singulares mentiones.

§. 5. Horum tribus prioribus, Episcopalem Ordinem nullatenus premi aut urgeri, sitis prolixè, ni fallor, indicatum est.

§. 6. Ad ultimum igitur accedo, de schismatum peste in Ecclesiam illatâ, 1. Cor. 11. Palam est, schisma illud in sacris epulis præripiendis consistere, dum unusquisque τὸ ἴδιον δεῖπνον προλαμβάνει ἐν τῷ φαγεῖν, v. 21. Divitibus, qui liberaliùs obtulissent, liberaliùs etiam edentibus, & bibentibus, & pauperibus ad micas, quas ipsi attulerant, damnatis, sic ut esuriat unus, cùm alter μεθύει. Nihil igitur Episcopali dignitati cum hoc schismate commune fuit.

§. 7. Imò si (quod D. Blondellus non facit) ad aliud inter eosdem Corinthios schisma, ζῆλον nempe istum, ἔριδος, ἢ διχοστασίας, c. 3. (dum unus diceret, Ego sum Pauli, &c.) recurratur; Nec illud quidem dem Presbyteranæ causæ favere deprehendetur. Cùm ad hæc ipsa evitanda Schismata, plurimùm contulerit, ut ad unum curâ omnis deferretur, & in causâ, si non hâc, saltem pari (ipso Hieronymo, Blondelliana causæ fundo, asserente) toto orbe decretum fuerit, ut unus de Presbyteris electus, cæteris superponeretur.

§. 8. Manet igitur immotum, Hanc, quam appellat D. Blondellus mali labem, i. e. (si ad rem nostram quoviſmodo pertineat) Episcopalis dignitatis sub Apostolorum ævo jacta semina, talia non fuisse, ut ab iis Apostoli quoviſmodo abhorruerint; Nec igitur ab eò, quod tam clementer & sedatè tractârunt Apostoli, post universæ Ecclesiæ adeò intimas, & tot sæculorum consuetudine contractas familiaritates, nobis jam metuendum esse.

§. 9. Unicum est quod hîc interponi posse video; Nulla scilicet, sub Apostolorum tempore, singularis hujus Episcoporum super Presbyteros fastigii, (aut inter Orthodoxos, aut inter hæreticos) seu semina, seu vestigia reperiri, nec igitur quicquam ex utrâvis parte hoc dilemmate concludi posse.

§. 10. Quod si affirmaverint Presbyterani, Interrogandi primò sunt, Quare igitur isto Mysterii iniquitatis, aut Antichristi, aut Diotrephis terriculamento, nobis πλανοῖς (& quibus ἀγραία nostra fraudi esse neutiquam debuit) adeò solerter, & sedulò imponi jamdiu cupiverint?

Secundò, Quo demum sæculo lacertos suos movere cœperit singularis Episcopatus, aut hoc inter Episcopos, & Presbyteros discrimen? "Agnoscit * Walo rem esse antiquissimam, ut duo hi Ordines in "Ecclesiâ fuerint distincti, si excipiantur Apostolica tempora, quorum ævo, inquit, ut eorum scrip- "ta testantur, nullum constat eorum ordinum fuisse discrimen. Ex quibus me (ex sententiâ tanti viri) rectè concluſurum puto, immediatè post Apostolorum tempora, hoc in Ecclesiâ discrimen fuisse. Id enim est [antiquissimam rem esse, si excipiantur Apostolicæ tempora.] Quod & clariùs effatur, p. 253. Circa initium, aut medium secundi sæculi, Primus singularis Episcopatus supra Presbyteratum introductus fuit. Nec certè multùm abscedit D. Blondellus, qui anno Christi 135. i. e. anno à Johannis dormitione, 35. mutationem hanc factam esse affirmat. Hoc igitur dato, & ex parte Presbyteranorum liberaliter concesso, (hoc, inquam, quodcùnque sit, posito, sic ut in eo pedem figere liceat) Argumentum, quod quidem nobis neutiquam contemnendum videtur, sic conficimus.

* Wal. Mess. p. 7.

§. 11. Si Presbyterana ἵσταμία, seu à Christo, seu ab Apostolis in Ecclesiâ stabilita, sic Apostolorum ævo, per totam ubique Ecclesiam propagata sit, ut Episcopalis apex toto hoc centum annorum spatio contrà mutire aut hiscere ausus non sit, Tunc certè fieri non potuit, ut quæ ab Apostolis aut Christo ipso Ecclesiæ ad omnem ætatem gubernandæ constituta est forma, ab * Universâ proximè succedentis sæculi Ecclesiâ, in aliam diversam, & planè adversam, seu contrariam immutaretur, & nullâ interea aut Synodo, aut concilio, aut conventu interveniente, (cujus ope tot per orbem terrarum dissitæ Ecclesiæ in idem sacrilegium conspirare possent) nullis Epistolis Canonicis (quibus consilia sua sibi invicem communicarent) tantæ mutationi obstetricantibus, à Christianâ in Antichristianam, à genuinâ in meritriciam, à divinâ demum in Diabolicam formam degeneraret.

* In toto orbe decretum est, ut unus cæteris anteponeretur. Hieron. Comm. ad Titum.

§. 12. Unicum addo, si de universâ Christi familiâ (œconomis fidelissimis vix dum è foribus egressis) sic pronuntiandum sit, si de utriusque Testamenti διαθήκαις, à quibus (præter alias παραδόσεις) sacrum Scripturæ Canonem stabilitum & conservatum nos accepisse agnoscimus, hæc & talia censenda sint, Habebunt adversarii nostri, unde de Hierarchiâ simul & Christianis triumphare possint, unde de disciplinâ, fidéque integrâ, unâ mensurandis strage, eodem busto componendis, sibi affatim gratulentur. Quid enim de Scripturarum Canone, inter Protestantes, ipsósque, qui se Evangelicos nuncupant, recepto, de Dei Dominicæ observatione, aut è scripturâ, aut ex universo antiquitatis penu adversus ἀντιλέγοντας dici potest, quod non multò auctiùs, & cumulatiùs pro Episcopali dignitate contra paritatis Presbyteranæ assertores dici poterit? Quod nos alibi locupletiùs explicavimus, nec opus est ut hîc repetamus.

§. 13. Certè ab hoc Novatorum scopulo, sibi diligenter cautum esse voluit Dilectissima Mater nostra (afflicta, sed ἐκ ἀπλακήματα) Ecclesia Anglicana, Hoc se universo Christianorum orbi Charactere dignoscendam, hoc æquæ posteritati æstimandam propones, quòd in Controversiis fidei, aut πράξεως decernendis, illud firmum ratúmque semper habuerit (& huic basi Reformationem Britannicam niti voluerit) ut Scripturis Primæ, dein primorum sæculorum Episcopis, Martyribus, Scriptoribus Ecclesiasticis Secundæ deferrentur; Ideóque quicquid à Scripturis affirmatum in Fide, quicquid de Regimine Ecclesiastico, ab universâ post Apostolos ubique dissêminatâ Ecclesiâ, constitutum dignoverit, illud pro fixo & stabilito, inter Articulos Religionis ponendum curavit, nemini filiorum suorum, quod sic positum fuerit, novandum aut movendum permissura.

§. 14. Fatetur pientissima Matrona, nullis se νεωτερικαῖς ἐπιθυμίαις, cupiditatibus, quæ in juniores cadere solent, nullis Novatorum illecebris inescatam esse, nullis rationum momentis persuasam, nullis (quibus prolixiùs immorari sumus) Antichristi, &c. (addo, & Bestiæ Apocalypticæ) terriculamentis adeò perculsam, ut aut universam Apostolicæ plantationis, aut ejus, quæ eam proximè insequebatur, ætatis (cui ipse D. Blond. eam imputandam censuit) Ecclesiam, ad sacrilegam & planè Antichristianam regiminis formam transfugisse suspicetur; Sed, ut quod è Scripturis clarè propositum est, illud totâ mente amplectendum, sic & quod in Scripturis obscurè prolatum, à primorum autem sæculorum consensu explicatum, & ex unâ parte definitum fuerit, illud filiis suis, aut ex fide credendum, aut inter piè credibilia collocandum, neminique nostrûm, post tot sæcula, recudendum statuere.

§. 15. Sic cum Optimus Carolus, ὁ μάκαρ, hanc de Episcopis disceptationem sic exordiretur, ut in interpretandis scripturis (cùm in iis quicquam obscuriùs dictum sit) ad universalem Primitivæ Ecclesiæ praxin, simúlque Patrum consensum recurrendum esset, ejúsque arbitrio, litigantibus πλεονεξίας imponeimponeretur: Responsumque à Presbytero Alex. Hendersono esset, "eos qui Scripturam pro solâ fidei "regulâ, antiquorum autem consensum, pro Scripturæ authoritativo interprete proposuerint, peri- "culosiùs errare, quàm qui duas fidei regulas proposuerint, Scripturas Canonicas, & Catholicas Tradi- "tiones (cùm æqualem Illi traditionibus, & Scripturis authoritatem largiantur, Illi verbo divino au- "thoritatem Patrum præferant,) Constantissimus Princeps sic breviter reposuit, "Scripturam quidem "se omni veneratione prosequi, at, cùm Scripturæ sensus sit ipsum αὐτόθεον, & interpretandæ Scri- "pturæ aliqua demum Methodus aut norma accommodanda sit, sibi quidem nullam hoc primitivæ "Ecclesiæ suffragio magis idoneam videri; obnixè, sed quidem frustra petens, ut si hæc illi non pla- "ceret, alia quævis ejus loco substituenda aut surroganda ab eo proferretur. Quod sibi nunquam fa- ctum esse, aut à Presbyterana causæ advocatis fieri potuisse, Pientissimi Principis, & Constantissimi Ultoris Manes, luctuosâ, at sonorâ, & ingratissimæ Genti, ni Deus avertat, pessimè ominante voce procla- mant. Et Hæc quidem iis quæ in antecessum nobis prælibavit D. Blondellus, prolixè quidem, sed quàm pos tui brevissimè, dicta sunto.

DISSER.

DISSERTATIO SECUNDA.

De IGNATIO, ejusque Testimoniis cum HIERONYMI Sententiâ collatis.

CAP. I.

Ignatii Epistolæ Episcopis imprimis favent. Inde Walo & Blondellus illis infensi. Dicendorum syllabus.

§. 1. AD illud jam proximo loco procedendum est, quod ad sententiam suam à posteriori tutandam necessariò addendum duxit D. Blondellus, Ardelliones nempe (quos ita pro arbitrio suo appellat) piis fraudibus, ceu idoneo Episcopalis apicis tibicine abusos esse, & ementitis primorum Martyrum nominibus, quicquid in mentem venerat, vulgâsse: Idque de septem Epistolis Eusebio, Athanasio, Hieronymo, &c. laudatis dicendum esse, quibus, inquit, antiquior ἀνωνύμως Ignatii Martyris nomen appinxit, &c.

§. 2. Hæc, & talia, ad minuendam & tollendam Sanctissimi Martyris authoritatem, à D. Blondello, & Walone Messalino necessariò dicenda erant. Cùm ex Illo Antiochenæ (ubi primò Χειστιανοὶ ἐχρημάτισαν) Ecclesiæ Episcopo, totiúsque Syriæ Primate, Apostolorum συγχέτῳ, & primorum temporum oculatissimo teste, tam frequentia, & tam præclara & lucida testimonia produci ab Hierarchicis dignoscerent, ut ex eo uno, post Scripturas, Apostolicæ & primævæ praxeωs interprete, controversia omnis statim decideretur, nec quicquam in tantâ luce Presbyteranis supereesset, quod contrà mutire, aut hiscere possent.

§. 3. Illud satis apertè confitetur D. Blondellus, cùm ab Epistolarum harum Scriptore singularem Episcopatum ἑνικῶς ἀρχῆς (iisdem verbis quibus Walo in eâdem materiâ usus est) inculcatum esse, & sic ut ei (ceu saxo suo Prometheus) affixus videri possit, disertè agnoscit, præf. p. 43.

§. 4. Verùm ista, non sannis, & contumeliis, sed rationibus, & argumentis peragenda erant; Ego quidem in his omnibus D. Blondelli & Walonis vestigia à me premenda esse decrevi: γνωσόμεθα τὸν λόγον οὐχ τοιαῦτα ὑπόντων, ἀλλὰ πῶ ἔχωμεν, idque hoc ordine,

§. 5. Primò, quicquid hâc ex parte ad has Ignatio abjudicandas Epistolas dictùm sit, solenniter ad examen vocaturus.

Secundò, Quædam additurus, quæ septem Epistolarum à S. Polycarpo collectarum, & ad Philippenses suos transmissarum authoritatem stabiliant.

Tertiò, (Post has tam luculento & præclaro nomini depulsas invidiæ tenebras) Testimonia quædam ex istis septem genuinis Epistolis productus, à quibus Apostolici ævi praxin æstimari fas erit.

Quartò, Inter Sanctum Ignatium, Episcopum & Martyrem primævum, ex una parte, & Sanctum Hieronymum, Presbyterum, ex alterâ, simúlque inter utriusque testimonia, Ignatii à me, Hieronymi à D. Blondello producta, institutâ comparatione, rem omnem ad hanc libram aut trutinam examinandam proponsiturus.

CAP.

CAP. II.

Quid de his Epistolis Wala. Bis ab eo sub Ignatii nomine laudantur. A Blondello semel. Stephanus minister à Walone dictus. Negativum argumentum à testimonio. Clemens diaconus primò, postea Episcopus. Quid de integro volumine statuerit Welo & Blondellus. Interpolatio & suppositio differunt. De suppositione omnium. Post Vedelianam Vossiana Ignatii Editio. Ejus cum testimoniis ab antiquissimis patribus ex Ignatio laudatis concordia à Blondello agnita, Ut & cum Archiepiscopi Armachani Latino Exemplari. Ex hoc purgandum Epistolarum volumen.

§. 1. PRimò igitur videndum est, quid ad universum illud Epistolarum volumen Ignatio abjudicandum aut à Walone, aut à D. Blondello excogitatum sit, & inprimis quid à Walone.

§. 2. Ille quidem, Auctorem Epistolarum ad Trallenses & ad Philadelphenses, nonnihil, quod proposito suo faviſſe videbatur, dicentem, ſine omni metu aut hæſitantiâ, Ignatium appellat; Anacletum, inquit, & Clementem Petri ministros facit Ignatius, ut Timotheum & Linum Pauli, in Epistolâ ad Trallenses, τοὺς διακόνους αὐτοῦ ὑμνεῖ καὶ ἀγγελικῶν δυνάμεων, λειτουργοῦντας αὐτῷ λειτουργίαν τοιάνδε, καὶ ὅμοιον, ὡς Στέφανον ὁ ἁγιος Ἰακώβῳ τῷ μακαρίῳ, καὶ Τιμόθεον καὶ Λῖνον Παύλῳ, καὶ Ἀνάκλητον καὶ Κλήμεντα Πέτρῳ, Idem in Epistolâ ad Philadelphenses, in eodem loco & ordine numerat Evodium & Clementem, hunc Romæ, illum Antiochiæ primos Episcopos habitos, quo Titum & Timotheum, Ὀναίμην υἱὸς ὁ ὀνομαθεὶς ὑπ' Ἠλίᾳ, ὡς Ἰησοῦ τῷ Ναυῆ, καὶ Μελχισεδὲκ, ὡς Ἐλισαίῳ, ὡς Ἰερεμίᾳ, ὡς τῷ Βαπτιστῇ Ἰωάννῃ, ἀτρόμῳ ἀγωνισθέντα μαρτυρῆ, ὡς Τιμοθέῳ ὡς Τίτῳ, ὡς Εὐοδίῳ, ὡς Κλήμεντος; Ἦ ὃν ἀγγέλοι ἐξελέξαντο ἅγιον, Vtinam mihi contingat vestrâ sanctitate ut Eliæ, &c. Utroque loco Ignatii verba satis fusè laudata, ut hoc tantùm ejus testimonio confirmatum putaretur, Clementem & Evodium, &c. ab eo urbium Episcopos non vocari.

§. 3. Hîc certè, ut id obiter dicam, mihi ratio non constat, quare διακόνους (inter quos hic Sanctus Stephanus numeratur) Walo [ministros] reddere maluerit, qui ab omni ævo Diaconorum nomine solenniter noti sunt; Nec magis quidem augurari possum, quâ ratione, ex negativo, quod dicitur, à testimonio ducto argumento (quia, inquit, bi non vocantur ab eo Episcopi urbium) quicquam rectè concludi posse arbitraretur, statímque fidenter adjiceret, Nec sanè fuêre; Ego pari arguendi ratione, nec Eliam, nec Elizeum prophetas fuisse pronuntiare possum, eâdem Ignatii authoritate fretus, qui singulorum nomina eodem loco recenset, nullâ prophetici, quo fungebantur, muneris additâ mentione. Verùm sciat Walo, Clementem, & qui in posteriori testimonio sanctitatis & purtatis exempla proponebantur, in priori Diaconorum titulis insigniti, verè quidem & Sanctos & Diaconos fuisse, at & postmodum, quod amplius est, Episcopos creatos; Ignatium verò, qui in his Epistolis annales non scripsit, promotionis istius historiam non adjecisse, nec quidem, cùm Diaconos alloqueretur, Episcoporum mentione commodè uti potuisse, sed Diaconorum exemplum Diaconis proposuisse; Ita tamen ut Jacobi etiam hoc loco Hierosolymitani Episcopi, cujus Sephanus Diaconus fuit, diserte meminerit. At istis criminationibus jam non vacat. Habendæ sunt potiùs gratiæ doctissimo viro, quòd, cùm sine incommodo ejus fieri potuit, Ignatius ipsi non displicuerit, ipsæque, quas nos Sanctissimo Martyri imputamus, Epistolæ, ab eo sub Ignatii nomine (sine omni suspicionis aut abjudicationis notâ) recitatæ fuerint; (quod & à D. Blondello factum, Ap. p. 108. & 219.) verùm cùm mens illi tam subitò mutata fuerit, & post non longum (26. paginarum) intervallum, ex arbitrio ejus * universæ exciderint, querelis potius quàm gratulationibus opus est.

§. 4. Pergit igitur, † tandémque post paginas quatuor cùm pertinaciter recusaret Ignatius eorum numero accenseri, qui Ecclesiam sui temporis, per Presbyteros, eosdémque Episcopos ἀνωνύμως, & ὁμοεδθμως administratam adsererent, séque palam profiteretur Episcopatum unius agnoscere, opportunum Waloni visum est, sententiam de universis Epistolis decretoriam planè, & cruentam pronuntiare, omnémque hanc contrà militantium testimoniorum aciem, unico styli ictu transfodere.

§. 5. At nec adhuc ex ipsius verbis certò dignosci potest, in quâ demum classe disponendas has Epistolas censuerit, an supposititias planè omnes, an tantummodo interpolatas pronuntiaverit; Sic enim Ille, Permirum mihi videretur, nisi apud me constaret omnes illas Ignatii Epistolas suppositicias esse, vel certè multis locis interpolatas, Sic & * D. Blondellus (nescio an oblitus quid in præfatione affirmanter dixerat, an adhuc incertus, qualiter de Epistolis his statuendum esset) ascriptarum Ignatio Epistolarum sive suppositorem sive interpolatorem laudat. Certè inter istas criminationes differentiam satis amplam positam esse nemo non videt, nec enim illi constare potuit, eas omnes suppositicias esse, qui eodem momento multis eas locis interpolatas esse affirmaverat.

§. 6. Nulla quidem nobis necessitas incumbit, ut in tantâ exemplarium & editionum varietate & inconstantiâ, nihi uspiam Ignatio interpolatum aut assûtum adfirmemus? Si id unicum nobis largiatur Walo, non omnes suppositicias esse, si aliquas saltem genuinos Ignatii fœtus fuisse agnoscat, nulla, uti spero, de cætero nobiscum lis erit.

§. 7. Supponamus enim eas interpolatas quandoque fuisse, & cum Walo in lucem prodierit, (quamvis ex Vedelianâ seu Genevensi fornace, Hierarchicis sine dubio non adeò favente, jamdudum exierint) non tamen ex omni parte depurgatas esse. Non est tamen cur animos despondeamus, aut cur qui de vulnere querimur, desperemus de remedio; Excutiantur Archiva, consulantur venerandissimæ antiquitatis Exemplaria, tandémque post exquisitissimam explorationem fiat delectus, non abnuimus ipsius quidem Walonis judicio, si his indiciis uti sustinuerit, rem totam deferre; Aut, si illud sine molestiâ ejus fieri nequeat, sit penes Isaacum Vossium, virum integerrimum, neminíque, quod inaudiverim, Reformatorum, aut partium studio aut injuriâ notum, qui ex Mediceæ Bibliothecæ Archivis (post excusum Walonem Mess.) volumen jampridem edidit, interpolationibus, & Epistolis suspectis satis liberatum, & de quo Cl. Salmasius magnifica quæque in Apparat. ad L. de Primat. sibi spondebat, nec minora D. Blondellus, quamdiu causæ suæ quicquam exinde accrescere potuisse videbatur.

§. 8. Videatur D. Blondellus pref. p. 40. qui Mediceo hoc exemplari, ovidè binato, manu propria exscripto, & cum citatis à veteribus locis collato, (& quinam sunt isti veteres? Certè Polycarpus Ignatii ἀγχεστῶς,

Wal. Mess. p. 222.

* Auctorem earum Epistolarum ad Trallens. Smyrn. Magnes. Philad. Ephes. Roman. non esse Ignatium constat. Wal. Mess. p. 248.

† Wal. Mess. p. 252.

* Apol. §. 34. p. 256.

ἀγχιστος, Polycarpi discipulus Irenæus, Irenæum excipiens Origines, post illos, illorum vestigiis inhærens Eusebius, Athanasius, Hieronymus, Chrysostomus, aliique non pauca, aut contemnenda nomina) ingenuè fatetur se gratulatum seculo nostro, quòd illud ipsum exemplar, quo ante 1300 annos usus erat Eusebius, novam ipsi propediem affulsuram lucem, sponderet.

§. 9. Taceo lubens, quid in hâc re Reverendissimus Primas Armachanus præstiterit, & quàm fœliciter ille (nec sine peculiari Dei providentiâ sic disponente) Latinum, licet barbaram, versionem, Vossiano Græco exemplari per omnia respondentem, eodem ferè tempore (ipsóque sanguinarii seculi, Episcopis adeò infensi, articulo) ex vetustissimis Angliæ codicibus erutam, Oxonia lucem videre jusserit.

§ 10. Certè si Ignatius unquam Epistolas scripserit, (nec enim post tot seculorum intervalla, sine quâdam vecordiæ mixturâ, Falsi postulabitur Antiquitas omnis, quæ scripsisse adfirmat) si Epistolarum ejus à Polycarpo ipso facta Sylloge, non sit inter impias & * impudentes Patrum illusiones ponenda, si exemplaria antiquissima Medicea, & Anglicana, locorum quidem intervallis satis dissita, omnem tamen inter se mutuò, simul & cum iis, quibus majores nostri usi sunt, concordiam foventia, aliquam apud nos auctoritatem nacta fuerint, si, cùm nihil ex omni retrò scriptorum thesauro contrà nitatur, Ignatius tot & talibus indiciis vindicatus, ab Interpolatorum mixturis satis purgatus credi possit, non est quod ulteriùs litigemus.

* Bonæ Patrum fidei impudenter illusum dolui. Bion. præf. p. 40.

§. 11. Istum Isaaci Vossii codicem, additamentis quàm plurimis liberatum, Epistolis etiam integris non paucis multatum, & ad Polycarpianæ Syllogen (ab Eusebio agnitæ) Septenarium numerum redactum, nos quidem pronis ulnis amplectimur; Et licet alias omnes, istam præsertim ad Heronem Dioconum (cui benè se velle profitetur * Walo) Sanctissimo Martyri adjudicandas esse, neutiquam contendamus, statuimus tamen has tantummodo septem, ut ex Mediceo, & Anglicano codice prodierunt, à nobis in hâc causâ defendendas proponere,) ut Codicem, si leviuscula quædam demas, satis purgatum, & cui nihil objici possit, quod non eâdem facilitate rejiciatur. Et, si sibi constare voluerit vir doctissimus, nec omnes ceu pro certo suppositicias, unâ clade æquare, sed tantùm ut interpolatas multis locis, ad Lapidem Lydium vocare, non verebor dicere, commodiorem purgandi, aut explorandi Ignatii rationem, à nemine excogitatam esse, (nec à D. Blondello, aut Walone excogitari posse) quàm quæ illi jamdudum, duorum præcipuorum virorum, Archiepiscopi Armachani, & Isaaci Vossii diligentiâ, & operâ, contigerit.

* Wal. Mess. p. 258.

CAP. III.

Ad sex Argumenta Walonis contra Epistolas Ignatii responsio. Stylorum varietas, Novæ compositionum formæ à Blondello productæ ad confirmandam sententiam ejus, nihil valent. Ignatius Θεοφόρος appellatus. Voces Latinæ in Græcas versæ, isti sæculo familiares; Plurima in S. Scripturis, ut & phrases barbaræ. Romana lingua per Judæam jam se diffuderat cum imperio.

* Wal. Mess. p. 252.

§. 1. QUædam hîc breviter à * Walone recensentur, quæ satis, inquit ille, evincunt, non posse illud opus Authori, quem ementitur, adscribi.

1. Stylus, qui nimis, inquit, rhetoricatur. 2. Κυειακῆς observanda traditio. 3. Ἀρχιερεὺς & ἱερεῖον de Episcopis, & Presbyteris appellatio. 4. Altarium mentio pro mensis. 5. Laicorum & Clericorum distinctio. 6. Judæorum odium, (quos, inquit, non adeò tunc aversabatur Ecclesia Christiana.)

§. 2. Hæc, quid aut singula, aut universa, æquo lectori persuasura sint, paucis experiamur, à stylo ejus exorsi.

§. 3. Scribendi, & Rhetoricandi formulas, pro cujusvis genio varias cuique, & inæquales esse siquis nescit, Cl. Salmasii, & D. Blondelli scripta satis monstrabunt, hæc hyperbatis asperiùs assurgentia, illa uberiùs & æqualiùs fluentia, quæ tamen eodem sæculo producta esse nobis expertis credendum est. At quid sit nimis rhetoricari, vix mihi expedire poterit vir Doctissimus, aut certis terminis, aut limitibus (ultra quos, citráque, rectum consistere nequeat) definire; Laudat in Oratore suo Cicero copiam, & ubertatem istam, cui aliquid amputari possit, At, si cui alteri, certè id pientissimo Athletæ, animóque Martyrii desiderio flagranti, indulgeri potuit, ut supra antiquorum simplicitatem quandoque, æque ac ψυχεῖον nostram incalesceret.

§. 4. Quid hîc præcipue ab Hiero-Martyre nostro peccatum sit, tacere quàm eloqui maluit Walo. At non sic D. Blondellus, qui dictionis genus affectatum, putríque Epithetorum ad pompam compositorum fermento turgens, ei prolixè imputat.

§. 5. Optârim quidem, viro Doctissimo tantam asperitatem non placuisse, optârim leniùs, aut saltem modestiùs pronuntiâsse (certè fermentum putre in ore Theologi non benè olet) præsertim cùm præter 1. Novas compositionum quarundam formulas (quales multis bonis viris placuêrunt) & 2. Voces Latinas pauculas in Græcas transmigrantes, Scripturis ipsis satis cognitas, nihil produxerit, quod tantâ cum severitate vindicandum esset. Primi generis Catalogum satis prolixum nobis proponit D. Blondellus. Θεοφόρος, Χειροφόρος, παραφόρος, & id genus reliqua, quæ licet ad numerum 17. excrescunt, in idem plane recidere dicenda sunt, cùm ab eâdem componendi formâ, ex vocibus φέρω, & ἄξιος, & θεὸς, eodem planè modo exurgant; reliqua autem πολυαγαπητος, ἀνδρομήμερος, ἀνυπέρθετος, πολυπληθία, συνδιδασκαλίτης, ἀκαιρογοία, ἀντίψυχος, διάδεσμος, περιπάθεια, ἀναπόρθητος, nihil grande aut horrendum sonent, siquis Episcopis infensior ea usurpasset. Annon enim Ignatio Syrogræco æquè licuit ἀνδρομήμερον dixisse, ac Lucæ πολυπίσχος, ἐκδιδικοῦντες, Johanni πατροφόνοις & φιλοπρωτεύων, Petro ἀγκυροβολεῖσθαι, Paulóque ἀνδροπρεπῶς, ὀφθαλμοδουλία, ἐθνεσιάρχαι, διάκτοι, &c. Taceo ἐλαχίστιον, vocem quidem ex summâ Apostolicæ mentis humilitate effictam, at non ex usu linguæ Græcæ, aut quovis idoneo Scriptore derivatam.

§. 6. Ego verò me ex putidissimis istis, & quæ maximè D. Blondello turgere videbantur vocibus, adeò non moveri agnosco, ut ex adverso, argumentum satis validum, & quod mihi Epistolas has Ignatii sæculo, ipsique ἱεροδιάκονος adjudicandas esse, satis persuadeat, necti posse confidam.

§. 7. Notissi-

§. 7. Notissimum est, & ab antiquissimis rerum gestarum Scriptoribus satis agnitum, Ignatium diu ante exitum ejus, Θεοφόρου cognomine insignitum fuisse, Et cùm à Trajano Cacodæmon nuncuparetur, hoc statim Imperatori dedisse responsum; Nemo Theophorum Cacodæmonem vocat. Consulantur, si placet, Acta Ignatiana; Certè ejusdem monetæ sunt Χειροφόρος, Ναοφόρος, & id genus reliqua; Nec igitur ea aut à genio sæculi istius, aut ab auribus abhorruisse censeri possunt, quibus Θεοφόρος placuit.

§. 8. Pudet immorari istis. At nec majoris, aut ponderis, aut momenti æstimanda erit, quam à quatuor barbaris (i. e. Latinis) vocibus, Διοικησις, Διοικειν, Διοικητης, Αθεμιτοποιειν, ab Authore harum Epistolarum usurpatis, desumi placuit criminatio; Nihil certè in istis novum putabitur, ni illud forsan, quòd in tot Epistolis, plura ejusdem farinæ non reperiantur. Mirari interim satis nequeo, quæ D. Blondello aut Αμυναιω, aut siquid pejus, obtigerit, quòd, cùm in aliis istius sæculi Authoribus Latinissimos aucuparetur, ex omnibus Evangeliis, Novique Fœderis libris, unicam Συναξεις voculam memorandam duxerit, & ex Hegesippo solo addendam alteram Συναγωγιον, simúlque 20. annorum Romæ insumptorum moram in causâ fuisse adfirmaverit, quòd tam stupendum vocabulum usurpare ausus sit.

§. 9. Sat scio, diligentissimum Scripturarum lectorem, μιλτον, ἀσπιδιον, κλιῶν, καθεδρικα, σωδάριον, ξεστὸν, σημικινθιον, λίνεον, πτηλὸν, παζηνὸν, φόρον, σπόριον, Λεζιφίνες, Ιεδὲς (vel, ut alii Codices, Apoc. 18. 13. legunt, βαυδὲς) λιχνᾶνα, ερμιτώριον, κινσελίαν, σπυκλάτορες, κορνικλάριοι, φενγίλλιον, Ἰωσὴν, κολωνίαν, μάκελλον, μαζονόμον, non fugisse aut latuisse; ut nec phrases æquè barbaras, & Latinas, ἐκεῖνον πιεῖν, ἔχειν σπερμάτινον, λαβεῖν τὸ ἐγκον, οὐ ἔνδει, δὲς ἐργασίαν, &c id genus alia. Nec illi in memoriam revocandus κωμῆτης, in antiquissimâ Ecclesiæ Smyrnæus Epistolâ de Polycarpo, & alia ejus censûs non pauca, apud illius sæculi Scriptores. Nec certè opus erat, ut vel Ignatius, vel Hegesippus, Romam profecti, prolixiorum unius, multo minus 20. annorum moram facerent, quo quatuor unus, alter unico Latino vocabulo uteretur, cùm lingua (æquè ac Imperium) Romana, hoc Ignatii sæculo, angustioribus Italiæ pomœriis concludi nescia, per omnes Syriæ, ubi Ignatius degebat, æquè ac Judææ regiones se longè latèque diffudisset.

CAP. IV.

Dominica Diei observanda traditio. Sabbatum in Primitivâ Ecclesiâ.

§. 1. POst stylum, ad ritus deveniendum, & primò de κυριακῆς observandæ traditione, quid sibi velit Walo, nihil à me certi statuendum. Certè si illi Dominicus dies ab Apostolis observatus non putetur, si ut Episcoporum supra Presbyteros, sic & κυριακῆς supra alios Septimanæ dies fastigium, sequioris ævi traditio fuisse statuatur, habebit forsan quod harum Epistolarum Author objiciendum censeat.

§. 2. At sine dubio, κυριακῆς seu annuæ, seu hebdomadariæ mentio à Johanne facta est, Apoc. 1. 10. ut & Lucæ μιᾶς τῶν σαββάτων, quâ, cum panis fractione, Cœtus cogebantur, Act. 20. 7. quâque collecta ad usum egenorum seponi à Paulo jubebantur, 1 Cor. 16. 1. Nec repugnare quicquam censendum est, quòd Sabbatum unà cum κυριακῇ observatum aliquandiu in Ecclesiâ fuerit, ideòque à nonnullis ἐξιουδαΐσαι δόλον, exæquâri in integrum dicantur, quòd à Gregorio Nysseno καλὰ συμφωνεῖ τῇ σαββάτῳ, καὶ τῆς κυριακῆς, ab * Authore Διαπλάσεων, τὸ μὲν δημιουργίας ἀνάμνημα, ἡδὲ ἀναστάσεως, illa creationis, altera resurrectionis memoria * L. 7. c. 141 dicata, utraque festivo more celebranda proponatur. Nihil enim in contrarium ἰσχυρισμῶν noster. Imò vix scio an inter septem illas Polycarpianæ Sylloges Epistolas, quævis κυριακῆς ἀυλογες, vel levissima, vestigia reperiantur. Nulla certè ejus observandæ traditio, quæ maculam aut notam aliquam (quovis Aristarcho judice) scriptori huic inurere possit; Quicquid illud est, ex Epistolâ ad Magnesios peti debet, ibi Laurentianus Codex hæc tantùm nobis verba largitur, Μηκὲτι σαββατίζοντες Ἰουδαϊκῶς, ἀργοῖαις χαίροντες, &c. ἀλλ' ἔκαστος ὑμῶν σαββατιζέτω πνευματικῶς, μελέτην νόμου χαίρων, ἢ σωματικὸν ἀνέσει, δημιουργὸν Θεοῦ δυνάμζων, ὃν ἔκτισε διὰ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, καὶ τῆς ζωῆς αὐτοῦ καὶ τοῦ θανάτου, καὶ τῆς ἀναστάσεως τῆς μιᾶς τῶν σαββάτων, καὶ τῆς ἁγίας πάντων τῶν ἁγίων, καὶ μὴ τὸ σαββατίσου, ἑορτάζετω πᾶς ὁ φιλόχριστος τῷ κυριακῷ, τῇ ἀναστάσιμον, τῇ βασιλίδι πασῶν, καὶ ὑπερτάτῃ οὔσῃ τῶν ἡμερῶν, &c. Nec hîc quicquam quòd non sæculo Ignatiano applicari possit; Quo sine dubio, ut Judaicæ quietis, Sabbathique Mosaici observatio abrogata ritè credi debuit, Sic & Spiritualis Sabbatizandi ratio, meditatio legis, creationis grata cogitatio, diei Septimo satis consentanea opera visa sunt, ut & diei Dominicæ (aliis omnibus, imò ipsi Sabbato præferendæ) festiva celebratio, resurrectionis Christi commemoratio, nec tristis, nec ingrata.

CAP. V.

Ἀρχιερεὺς de Christo dictus.

§. 1. PErgamus ad ἀρχιερέων & ἱερέων, de Episcopis & Presbyteris appellationem. Nec diu moremur, Quid enim obstat, quò minùs Pontifici, & Sacerdotibus Judæorum, Christianorum Episcopi, & Presbyteri, ἐκ ἀντιθέσεως respondentes, notissimis inter Judæos simul, & Proselytos, titulis [ἀρχιερεῖς & ἱερεῖς] distinguerentur, præcipuè cùm in Instrumento Novo, Christus Dominus Ἀρχιερεὺς, seu Pontifex noster disertè dicatur, cùmque Episcopis, ut Christo (quippe à Christo per Apostolos missis, ejúsque jam in cœlo regnantis vicem in Ecclesiâ gerentibus) obedientiam debeti ubique Ignatius pronunciet.

§. 2. Verùm & in Epistolis jam purgatis, nec tale quippiam occurrit; Ἱερέων quidem semel, & Ἀρχιερέως mentio est, Ep. ad Philadelphenses. At Christus ipse, non Episcopis, istò Pontificis nomine intelligendus est. Καλεῖ, inquit, γὰρ οἱ ἱερεῖς, χριστὸν γὰρ ὁ Ἀρχιερεὺς, & quis est ille? sequitur ὁ πεπιστευμένος τὰ ἅγια τῶν ἁγίων, &c. ἀνοῖξαι δὲ δύναται τὴν πυλὴν, ὃν οἱ ἱερεῖς τηρήσουσι Ἀδὰμ, &c. Omnia sine dubio Christo unico accommodanda, nec quicquam Ignatius peccâsse existimabitur, nisi eâdem insuper accusatione ipse ad Hebræos author opprimendus sit.

CAP. VI.

Θυσιαστήριον. Altare ligneum, Ezech. 41. 22. Mal. 1. 7. mensa panisque propositionis. Θυσιαστήριον mensa sacra apud Cyprianum, Athanasium, Nyssenum, Can. Apost. Mat. 5. 23. Θυσία Christiana, Phil. 4. 18. Λειτουργία, 1 Cor. 16. 2. Heb. 13. 16. Act. 24. 17. Προσφορά apud Clementem Romanum. Λατρεία in Liturgiâ Alexandrinâ, & Clementis. Θυσία apud Justinum, Irenæum, Originem, Cyprianum, & Augustinum. Canon Missæ. Abelis Sacrificium. Melchizedeci προσφορά, Oblatio, Abrahamo, non Deo facta. Dei dona. Προσφορά, προσκομιδή, Sacrarium, Secretarium, Gazophylacium. Θυσίαι ἀναίμακτοι. Θυσιαστήριον, Heb. 13. 10, 11. Φαγεῖν ἐκ θυσιαστηρίου. ΕΥΧΗ Θυσιαστήρια ἱερά. Variæ acceptiones. Unitatis origo à Sanctuario. Clerus. Laici nomen apud Clementem Romanum. Odium Judæorum cum amore conjunctum, nec tamen Judæorum, sed Gnosticorum.

§. 1. SEquitur Altarium mentio pro Mensis, quam rectè harum Epistolarum Scriptori objiciendâ, quivis judicet. Primò enim Altare inter Judæos, à Deo ipsò diserte mensa vocatur, Ezech. 41. 22. Altare ligneum trium cubitorum, &c. & dixit mihi, Hæc est mensa quæ est coram Domino; In eo quippe omne inter Altare, & mensam discrimen consistit, quòd mensa frequenter pro quâlibet communi mensâ sumatur, altaris nomen ad usus sacros ἰδίως accommodetur, ideòque non hîc mensæ κοιναῖς sumptæ, sed mensæ quæ est coram Domino, τραπέζῃ ἁγίᾳ, aut ἱερᾷ, sanctæ, seu ad sacros usus paratæ mensæ æquipolleat. Sic & Mal. 1. 7. Obtulistis profanum panem super Altari meo, & dicitis, In quo profanavimus te? In eo quod dicatis, Mensa Domini vilis est, aut ἐξουθενωμένη. Hîc utrobique quod in initio versûs est מִזְבַּח altare, in fine est שֻׁלְחָן, mensa, sed mensa Domini, aut coram Domino, Mensa scilicet, super quam panis propositionis ponebatur, Exod. 25. 30. ubique τράπεζα dicta, & τράπεζα ἡ πρὸ προσώπου Κυρίου, quæ, ante omnia, Mensam, quam hodiè Domini dicimus, in quâ Sacramentalis, aut Mysticus panis, μετ' εὐχαριστίας, aut εὐλογίας, Deo offertur, adumbrâsse dicenda est.

§. 2. Sic certè Cyprianus mensam, cujus in Prov. mentio est, per Altare Christi, tanquam per notius, & sæculo suo accommodatius, explicandam censuit, Ep. 63. ad Cæcilium, Sed & per Solomonem Spiritus sanctus typum Dominici sacrificii ante præmonstrat, immolatæ hostiæ, & panis, & vini, sed & Altaris, & Apostolorum faciens mentionem, Sapientia, inquit, ædificavit sibi domum, &c. & paravit mensam suam, &c. Prov. 9. 1. Sic & adverss. Jud. l. 2. c. 2. Quod Sapientia Dei Christus, & de sacramento incarnationis ejus, & passionis, & Calicis, & Altaris, & Apostolorum, &c. apud Solomonem in Parœmiis, Sapientia ædificavit sibi domum, &c. paravit suam mensam, &c. Nec ab eo longè abit * Magnus Athanasius τράπεζαν, τυπίκῶς, τὸ ἅγιον Θυσιαστήριον, ἢ ἐν αὐτῷ ἄρτον ἐφάνιον, &c. ut & † Nysseno idem est τράπεζα ἁγία & θυσιαστήριον ἄχραντον.

* Disput. cont. Arr. in Conc. Nic. p. 30.

† Serm. de Bapt.

§. 3. Imò quid istis moremur? cùm non tantùm in Canone Apostolico II^do (semper inter genuinos habito) Mensa Domini Θυσιαστήριον clarè dicatur, sed & ab ipso Christo in concione, non coram promiscuâ Judæorum multitudine, sed solis discipulis suis eum cingentibus, habitâ, Mat. 5. 24. talis Συμφωνεῖν mentio fiat, ut ab eâ vocem hanc Ecclesia Christi accepisse meritò putetur, æquè ac duos insignes ritus, Diaconi [μίαν καὶ πάντων] clamantis formulam, & donorum, i. e. panis & vini ad mensam Domini oblationem (quam ideò ipsissimis Christi verbis ἅγιων (ἁγίων) προσφορὰν antiqui Patres nuncupârunt) desumpsisse manifestum est.

§. 4. Quibus sic positis, quidni etiam Ignatio hæc ipsa mensa Θυσιαστήριον dici posset, quo מִזְבֵּחַ ab interpretibus, quibus Ignatius usus est, constanter reddebatur, imò quo Christus ipse (aut verborum Christi enarrator Evangelista) uti non recusabat, cùm quid in suâ ad omne ævum Ecclesiâ observari voluit, (nec enim ad Judaicam λατρείαν dictum illud pertinuisse, multis indiciis constat) præciperet.

§. 5. At, inquies, Inter Christianos jam scribente Ignatio, θυσίαι, sacrificia offerri desierunt; Secundò igitur dicendum, non omnes, sed solùm ἐναίμους θυσίας cum odore & sanguine offerri consuetas, Christianis abolitas esse. Alia autem sine sanguine sacrificia, Gentibus, i. e. Christianis offerenda adhuc esse. Omnia loco, inquit Malachias 1. 11. offeretur in Gentibus incensum nomini meo, & munus purum. De Christianis sine dubio prædictum. Imò ipse Apostolus Paulus non semel sacrificii mentionem fecit, θυσίας ζωσῆς, Phil. 4. 18. Eleemosynarum nempe, seu collectæ ad hanc mensam, aut Altare Domini oblatæ, λαμπάδας τῆς εἰς τοὺς ἁγίους, Qualem ipse fieri omni Dominico die Corinthiis, & Galatis (quidni & Philippensibus?) præceperat, 1 Cor. 16. 1. qualem item Hebræis nequaquam negligendam putavit, Heb. 13. 16. Τῆς εὐποιΐας, inquit, καὶ κοινωνίας μὴ ἐπιλανθάνεσθε, τοιαύταις γὰρ θυσίαις εὐαρεστεῖται. Hîc Christiana liberalitas, & communicatio, pro sacrificiis reputantur Deo gratissimis, Quæ ideò Eucharistiæ, seu θυσία αἰνέσεως, v. 15. (θυσία πνευματικὴ, 1 Pet. 2. 5.) perpetuò adjungenda curavit.

§. 6. Eadem denique ab ipso memorari sub appellatione Eleemosynarum & προσφορῶν videas, Act. 24. 17. Sic apud Clementem Romanum, virum verè Apostolicum, jubentur Christiani καὶ καιρὸς τεταγμένους τὰς τε προσφορὰς καὶ λειτουργίας ἐπιτελεῖσθαι, præstitutis temporibus oblationes, &c. obire, & statim, Qui præfinitis temporibus oblationes suas faciunt, accepti & beati sunt. Sic Apostolicus Canon tertius. Si quis præter ordinationem Domini alia quædam in sacrificio offerat super altare, &c. Et ad Malachiæ mentem accommodatiùs, Liturgia Alexandrina sub Marci nomine, εὐχαριστοῦντες λογικὴν καὶ ἀναίμακτον λατρείαν προσφέρομεν, &c. Gratias agentes, rationalem & incruentam hanc oblationem offerimus, quam offerunt tibi Domine omnes Gentes, &c. Et in Clementis Liturgiâ προσφέρομέν σοι ἄρτον τοῦτον, καὶ ποτήριον τοῦτο. Sic & Justinus Martyr, Dial. cum Tryph. Τῶν ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ ὑφ' ἡμῶν ἡμῖν γινομένων προσφερομένων αὐτῷ θυσιῶν, τυπίκῶς, τῆ ἄρτου τῆς εὐχαριστίας, καὶ τῆ ποτηρίου, Sacrificia in omni loco à nobis Gentibus illi oblata, i. e. Panis & Calix Eucharistiæ. Ea Præfecto offerri à fratribus prædixerat, Apol. 2. Finitis, inquit, precibus προσφέρεται τῷ προεστῶτι ἄρτος καὶ ποτήριον.

§. 7. Sic Irenæus de Judaicis & Christianis sacrificiis verba faciens, Non, inquit, genus oblationum reprobatum est. Oblationes enim & illic, oblationes & hîc, sacrificia in populo (sc. Judaico) sacrificia & in Ecclesiâ, sed species immutata est tantùm. Sic & alibi, Ecclesiæ oblatio purum sacrificium reputatum est apud Deum; Et iterum, cum Ecclesia justè offert munus ejus, purum sacrificium apud Deum deputatur, laudato Pauli ad Philippenses loco, ubi receptæ per Epaphroditum Eleemosynæ, θυσία (sacrificium vel hostia) nuncupantur.

nuncupantur. Quale verò fuerit illud sacrificium Ecclesiæ, statim definit, Primitias, inquit, earum, quæ sunt ejus creaturarum offerentes, l. 4. c. 23. & primitias suorum munerum, c. 32. & hanc oblationem Ecclesia solà purum offert, &c. & c. 34. Hæreticorum Synagogæ non offerunt Eucharisticam Oblationem, quam Dominus offerri docuit. Quibus accedit, quod Julianus ὁ Ἀποστάτης Christianos sui temporis inculaverit, ὅτι μὰ ζωοθύτους τὸ δεῖον γεραίρουσι, quod non animalibus cæsis numen honorarent, (videatur Photius Epist. 218) unde non temerè concludi potest incruentorum sacrificiorum usum apud Christianos satis cognitum fuisse.

§. 8. Sic Origenes l. 8. Contra Celsum, καὶ σύμβολόν ἐσμεν τῆς πρὸς Θεὸν εὐχαριστίας, ἄρτος εὐχαριστία καλούμενος, Symbolum habemus gratitudinis erga Deum, Panem qui dicitur Eucharistia. Sic Cyprianus de Oper. & Eleemos. Dominicum celebrare se credit, qui in Dominicum sine sacrificio venit? &c. Et Augustinus, Oblationes quæ in Altario consecrentur, offerte.

§. 9. Hæc & talia, ubique & fusè apud Patres sparsa, omnibus nota sunt. Nec sanè dubitandum est, quin quæ Pontificii, de externâ Christi, in Missâ per Sacerdotem faciendâ, oblatione, ex antiquis Liturgiis deprompserint, aut ex patribus produxerint, omnia ad has Christianorum oblationes, offertorium populi, θυσίαν seu προσφορὰν ἀλλοῦν pertineant. Perpendatur Missæ Canon, ubi eam planè Orationem Sacerdos in offerendo Christo usurpat, quam palam est, in relatione ad dona, & oblationes populi, institutam fuisse.

§. 10. Illud Abelis sacrificii, & Melchizedeciana oblationis mentiones satis monstrant, cùm ille Deo fruges terræ, hic panem & vinum (non Deo sed * Abrahamo) obtulisse dicantur; Et ad eorum exemplar Christiani, Deo per Christum eadem offerant. His directè respondent προσφοραὶ & καρποφορίαι in Concilio Laodiceno, & Gangrensi; illæ ad instruendam fidelibus mensam, hæ ad usum pauperum reservatæ: Istis paratum, ubi reponerentur, Sacrarium, Concil. Carthag. 4. Canon 39. (Secretarium, inquit † Possidonius) unde Altari necessaria inferebantur, his Gazophylacium, seu Thesaurus, seu Corban apud Cyprianum.

* Vid. Gen. 14. 18. Melchizedecus eduxit panem & vinum, nempe ut Abrahamum ejusq; exercitum comiter exciperet, ἐκπέμπουσιν ὁ Μελχιζεδὲκ τῷ Ἀβραὰμ σιτηρὰ ξένια καὶ πολλὴν ἀφθονίαν τῆς ἐπιτηδείου παρέχει, ἣ δεῖ τὸν ἐσομένον αὐτῷ τὰ ἀναγκαῖα ἔχειν, καὶ τὸν Θεὸν εὐλογεῖν, ὑπηκόους αὐτῷ ποιοῦντα τοὺς ἐχθρούς, Josep. Ant. l. 1. c. 18. Sic & Cyrillus Alex. Ἐξήνεγκεν αὐτῷ ἄρτον καὶ οἶνον, Eduxit Abrahamo panem & vinum, l. 1. Galyb. & Philo, Ἀμελὰχ &c. Amalechus quidem Israëli obviam non venit cum pane & aquâ, Melchizedecus verò Abrahamo cum pane & vino obviam venit, l. 2. de Sac. Leg. alleg. Videatur Aug. quæs. ex utroque Test. Tom. 4. p. 109. & p. 807, 817. Et cùm Quæst. 83. Tom. 4. p. 565. sic vulgariter legatur, ut illud quod Melchizedecus obtulit Deo, jam per totum orbem terrarum in Christi Ecclesiâ videamus offerri, sic legendum prudenter monuit P. Picherellus, ut vox [Deo] posteriori, non priori periodi membro connectatur, ut illud quod Melchizedecus obtulit, Deo jam, &c. videamus offerri. † In vitâ Augustini.

§. 11. Illud & orationis forma extra dubium ponit. [Offerimus præclaræ Majestati tuæ de tuis donis ac datis hostiam puram, &c.] Quænam hæc Dei dona sunt? Certè creaturæ ejus, fructus terræ, panis & vinum, &c. Hæc dona visibilia, inquit Ivo Carnotensis; τὰ σὰ ἐκ τῶν σῶν, tua ex tuis, dixit Liturgia S. Basilii. Sic itidem cùm addatur, [Per quem (i. e. Christum) hæc omnia semper bona creas] quæ sine dubio ad fruges terræ, non ad Christi corpus pertinent, illud enim in Altari Christiano quotidiè à Sacerdote creari, confici, aut sacrificari non putamus, Oblationis interim, aut θυσίας semel in cruce præstitæ ἀνάμνησιν hîc celebrari, cum Chrysostomo non ambigimus. Nec igitur à Walone rationem reddi posse, cur non mensa illa, in quâ panis, vinumque, & Eleemosyna, (Sancto Paulo θυσία & προσφορὰ dicta) & in quâ sacerrimæ, & non iterandæ Corporis Christi oblationis, aut sacrificii ἀνάμνησις (ipsa Divino Scriptori θυσία ἀναίμακτος nuncupata) verè & realiter Deo offeruntur, θυσιαστήριον ab Ignatio, aut alio quovis Apostolico viro satis commodè dici posset.

§. 12. Verùm & illud ulterius addi potest, Tropicè tantùm, non propriè, θυσιαστήριον ab harum Epistolarum scriptore ubique usurpari, nec quicquam illi, quod non item Scriptori ad Hebræos, hâc in re imputari posse. Θυσιαστήριον ἔχομεν Altare habemus, inquit ille, Heb. 13. 10. Quid illud sit, versuum brevi paraphrasi, clarius reddetur.

§. 13. 10. Ἔχομεν θυσιαστήριον, ἐξ οὗ φαγεῖν οὐκ ἔχουσιν ἐξουσίαν οἱ τῇ σκηνῇ λατρεύοντες.

Siquis Mosaica legis pertinacem observationem (quam Gnostici, ut Judæis gratum faciant, & ut purioribus Christianis invidiam creent, profitentur) sibi nihil nocituram credat, siquis Christum sibi prodesse posse putet, cùm interim ipse circumcidatur, aut alios circumcidendos curet, (secus quam Paulus edixerat, Gal. 5. 2.) is se toto cœlo errare sciat; Christus enim unicum illud Altare nostrum, ad quod, & in quo Oblationes omnes nostræ Deo offerendæ sunt, & cujus nos omnes Christiani κοινωνοὶ sumus, (μετέχομεν participamus, ut de Altari sacrificantes, 1 Cor. 10. 18.) i. e. plurima, & pretiosa beneficia ab eo fluentia haurimus, ista sine dubio beneficia, iis qui Mosaicæ legi confidunt, & adhærent, communicaturus non est. Ideóque jus illi, aut potestatem de isto nostro Altari participandi non habent.

§. 14. 11. Ὧν γὰρ εἰσφέρεται ζώων τὸ αἷμα περὶ ἁμαρτίας εἰς τὰ ἅγια διὰ τοῦ Ἀρχιερέως, τούτων τὰ σώματα κατακαίεται ἔξω τῆς παρεμβολῆς, Hujus rei veritatem, ex notissimo inter Judæos ipsos ritu, dignoscere potestis, In sacrificio nempe expiationis, de quo Sacerdos nunquam gustare debuit; Sanguinem quidem ille in Sanctuarium secum duxit, Corpus verò integrum extra castra exurendum erat. Hoc verò sacrificii genere liquidò præsignificatus Messias, aut Christus; Quod ab iis Judæis agnoscitur, & ex ipsius, extra castra seu portam civitatis, crucifixione patet. Exhinc Judæorum principales viri, ipsi demum Sacerdotes (qui de sacrificio isto gustare non permittebantur) colligere facilè potuerunt; ad eos qui Mosaicos ritus observant, qui Judaico tabernaculo pertinaciter adhærent, omnémque cultum suum exhibent, v. 10. beneficia Christi nostri non pertinere.

§. 15. Ex istis patet, quid sit φαγεῖν ἐκ θυσιαστηρίου, edere de Altari, in hôc Apostoli loco, nimirum de beneficiis Christi participare, quatenus ille jàm Pontifex noster populum sanguine suo sanctificans, v. 12. & (ut Judæorum Pontifex sanguinem Taurorum, & hircorum secum in sanctuarium ferebat, v. 11.) statim in cœlum profectus, preces ibi pro nobis, pro quibus sanguinem fudit, Deo patri continuò effusurus est.

§. 16. His

§. 16. His positis, singula Ignatii loca, in quibus θυσιαστήριον mentio est, breviter perpendantur. In Ep. ad Ephes. Ἐὰν μήτε ᾖ τις τοῦ θυσιαστηρίου, ὑστερεῖται τοῦ ἄρτου τοῦ Θεοῦ, εἰ γὰρ ἑνὸς καὶ δευτέρου προσευχὴ τοσοῦτον ἴσχυν ἔχει, πόσῳ μᾶλλον ὅση τοῦ ἐπισκόπου καὶ πάσης ἐκκλησίας; Palam est ex præcedentibus, & ex integro contextu, de unitarum Ecclesiæ precum beneficio, quod ad singulos in unitate Ecclesiæ existentes (οἱ ἀμέμπτως ἐντὸς ὄντες) perventurum est, sermonem instituí. Hanc, inquit, unitatem in eo consistere, ut omnes Episcopo iis præposito morem gerant, ὑποτάσσωσι τῷ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου γνώμῃ, cum sententiâ Episcopi concurrant, simúlque singuli inter se concordes vivant, χόρῳ γινόμενοι, καὶ σύμφωνοι ὄντες ἐν ὁμονοίᾳ; quod si faciant, exhinc fore ἵνα καὶ Θεοῦ πάντοτε μετέχητε, ut Dei semper participes fiant, i. e. ut eos Deus tanquam μέλη ὄντας τοῦ υἱοῦ αὐτοῦ membra filii sui existentes, ἀκούσῃ, in omnibus precibus exaudiat. Uniendos igitur eos, & quasi * immiscendos Episcopo monet, ut Christo Ecclesiæ, & Patri Christus, ἵνα πάντα ἐν ἑνότητι σύμφωνα ᾖ, ut omnia in unitate concordiam foveant. His sic prælibatis, superstruitur comma istud [μηδεὶς πλανάσθω] nequis seducatur (seductores nempe Gnosticos in Ecclesiâ Ephesinâ, ut unitatem fidei, sic & cœtuum frequentiam turbasse, ex Pauli, & ipsius Christi in Apocalypsi ad eos Epistolis prædiximus) Ἐάν μήτις, &c. Siquis non sit intra Altare, i. e. siquis cum Episcopo unitatem non alat, privatur pane Dei, si enim unius aut alterius oratio tantum virtutem habet, quantò magis ista Episcopi & totius Ecclesiæ? Hic igitur [ἐντὸς θυσιαστηρίου ἦν] significat unitatis illius potissimam partem, τὸ συνηρτῆσθαι τῇ ἐπισκόπῳ γνώμῃ, Episcopo, & consessui Ecclesiastico morigeros esse, ἐγκεκεντρίσθαι ἦν ἐπισκόπῳ, sic illi ut capiti concorporari, ut precum Ecclesiasticarum particeps fiat; cui hîc opponitur ὑστερεῖσθαι τοῦ ἄρτου τοῦ Θεοῦ, ab isto singulorum Christianorum officio, quod in eo ponitur, ut omnes unus panis, unum corpus simus, deficere.

* Ἐγκατακεντρίσει.

* Dissert. §. 8. §. 17. Θυσιαστήριον nempe, ut ex Nazianzeni scholiaste * notavimus, est ναὸς, in quo sacra mensa proponitur (non ipsa mensa, nec enim congruum esset ἐντὸς τιθέναι ἦν, sed) sacrarium, altarium, seu, ut Philoxenus, ἡρῷον; Cùm enim in Judæorum Templo duplex altare esset, θυμιάματος, & holocausti, in sanctuario illud, hoc in atrio subdiali positum, vox θυσιαστηρίου non tantùm de holocaustis, seu θυσίαις, sed & de thymiamate usurpata, Luc. 1. 11. Apoc. 8. 3. & alibi non semel, frequenter etiam locis integris, in quibus utrumvis altare ponitur, accommodatur. Sic θυσιαστήριον, atriam Judæorum denotat, in quo altare holocausti ponebatur, Apoc. 14. 18. ut enim v. 17. ἐκ τοῦ ναοῦ ex sanctuario exierat unus Angelus, sic ἐκ θυσιαστηρίου alius, (sic & 16. 7. ἐκ θυσιαστηρίου, tanquam è loco procedit Angelus) quod de ipso altari dici nequit. Et c. 11. 1. ut à sanctuario disterminatur θυσιαστήριον, ideóque ad θυμιατήριον non pertinet, sic & in hoc ἐκτὸς ναοῦ dicuntur, ideóque ad atrium integrum referri debet, non ad ipsum altare, sic ut τῇ αὐλῇ τῇ ἔξωθεν τοῦ ναοῦ, exteriori templi atrio, i. e. atrio Gentilium contra-distinguatur. Alibi verò exempla non desunt, quibus sanctuarium etiam integrum, in quo altare θυμιάματος erat, ita vocatur, si jam istis vacaremus. Adeóque in hoc sensu vox ista ad Christianorum etiam sanctuarium devenit. Ut igitur inter Judæos sanctuarium solis sacerdotibus accessum præbuit, sic in Sanctuario seu ναῷ Christiano, Episcopus, & Presbyteri, Diaconis astantibus, cathedras suas habebant, officia Ecclesiastica peragebant, adeóque qui cum illis unitatem colebant, rectè ἐντὸς θυσιαστηρίου ἦν dicebantur.

§. 18. Sic in Ep. ad Trallenses, [ὁ ἐντὸς θυσιαστηρίου ὢν] ei, qui sine Episcopo, & Presbyterio, & Diaconis, quicquam facit, disertè opponitur. Quod quàm congruum sit isti θυσιαστηρίου notioni ad Heb. satis ex se patet. Ibi [φαγεῖν ἐκ θυσιαστηρίου] est Christi, & beneficiorum mortis ejus participem esse; hîc [ἐντὸς θυσιαστηρίου ἦν] est in unitate Episcopi (Christi in terris vicem gerentis) consistere, μὴ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου ἦν, ut alibi effertur, & ita precum Ecclesiasticarum beneficio frui. Sequitur enim, ὁ δὲ μὴ ἐφεστῶς τῷ θυσιαστηρίῳ ἀφίησιν, &c. & ἀποδέομαι ὧν μὴ ἀντιπίστευσθαι τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ, &c.

* Apol. p. 156. §. 19. Sic & in Ep. ad Magnesios, Πάντες ὧν ὡς οἱ ναὸν σωρεύοντες (ex quâ verborum Sancti Martyris lectione (ut obiter illud moneam) omnis * Blondelliana contra hanc Epistolam objectionis vis statim concidit, cùm omnes ad Episcopum, &c. ὡς οἱ ναὸν σωρεύειν potuerint, licet nulla adhuc inter Christianos Templorum ædificia reperirentur. Nec enim [ὡς οἱ οἱ ναὸν] legendum esse suadent, quæ proximè sequuntur ὡς δὲ ἐν θυσιαστηρίου, ὡς δὲ ἵνα Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν, &c. planè in eundem sensum. Immediatè enim præcesserat, Ἀνὰ ἐπισκόπου, καὶ πρεσβυτέρων μηδὲν περίστατε, μηδὲ παιδάριον εὔλογόν τι φαίνεσθαι ἰδίᾳ ὑμῖν, Nihil sine Episcopo & Presbyteris facite, neque commini, ut quippiam vobis privatim rationabile appareat, scilicet quod non Præfectis Ecclesiæ videatur, ἀλλ' ὡς τὸ αὐτὸ, μία προσευχὴ, ἓν νοῦς, &c. Omnia ad unitatem conservandam, cujus origo & fons à sanctuario, i. e. ab Episcopis & Presbyteris petenda est.

§. 20. Eodem modo in Ep. ad Philadelphenses, Ἓν θυσιαστήριον, ὡς οἷς ἐπίσκοπος, ἅμα τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ, καὶ διακόνοις, Ubi si ex εὐχαριστίας præcedente mentione (σπουδάζετε οὖν μιᾷ εὐχαριστίᾳ χρῆσθαι) ad mensam Domini propriè pertinere videatur, Respondeo, respici posse, non tamen ut θυσιαστήριον sit ipsa mensa, sed locus, in quo mensa proponebatur, & ille quidem, ut in quo Episcopi & Presbyteri considebant, & eo potissimùm respectu hîc poni. Alibi verò in Laurentiano codice, si bene memini, θυσιαστηρίου mentio non occurrit. In his tribus nihil novum, aut à quo Ignatii ævum abhorruisse censendum est.

§. 21. De Laicorum & Clericorum distinctione, satis erit monuisse, eâ nihil aliud innui, quàm alios in Ecclesiam per baptismum assumptos esse, alios insuper per χειροτονίαν aut χειροθεσίαν allectos, hos ut Ecclesiam procurarent, pascendo, consulendo, ministrando, illos ut ad gregis modum, Pastoribus, & qui eorum jussu saluti ipsorum insudabant, se morigeros præberent.

§. 22. De vocibus nihil nos moramur, præsertim cum in Vossiano septem laudatissimarum Epistolarum codice, ipsæ voces non reperiantur; Quod verò ad rem attinet, ea sacris Instrumenti Novi Scriptoribus satis nota est, Imò & voces planè ἰσοδυναμοῦσαι, & ad illud ipsum, quod Ignatius adstruit, indicandum destinatæ, ubique obviæ sunt. Ibi enim ut ἐπισκόπου, πρεσβυτέριον, διακόνων, &c. ita & ἀδελφῶν & πρῶν mentionem non semel factam videmus. Imò & λαϊκῶν, Clementem Romanum, Ignatio nostro antiquiorem, disertis verbis meminisse [ὁ λαϊκὸς ἀνθρωπος τοῖς λαϊκοῖς προστάγμασι κεῖται] D. Blondellus nobiscum observandum censuit, adversus eos (Walonem scilicet, & ipsius compares) qui Clericorum & Laicorum vocabula serò in Ecclesiæ usum recepta putant, Apol. p. 12.

§. 23. Restat unicum Judæorum odium, quos, inquit Walo, non adeò tunc aversabatur Ecclesia Christiana. Verùm nec id rectè harum Epistolarum Authori objici potest, nec, si posset, eum Ignatium non fuisse conclusurum est. Locus ad quem respexisse videtur, in prioribus tantùm Epistolæ ad Philadelph.

editionibus

editionibus repetitur. Τὸς μισοῦντας ἐν τὸν Θεὸν μισεῖ καὶ ὑμᾶς, Eos qui Deum odio habent, oportet & vos odio excipere. At nec ea in Laurentiano codice inveniuntur, Nec quidem quicquam continent, quod Apostolicum virum non deceat, cùm statim definitur, quid sit τὸ μισεῖν, ὃ ποιεῖν, ἢ λαλεῖν, ἀλλ' ἀχθεσθαι δεῖ ἀγαπᾶσθαι, καὶ χρηζεσθαι ἀπ' αὐτῶν, ἐνδεῶν ἢ αὐτὸς, καὶ δεῖ μισεῖσθαι ὑπ' ἀνθρώπων, &c. Sic ab eorum consortio separari, ut illos ad mentem bonam, ad resipiscentiam reparare possimus.

§. 24. Imò, quod tertiò addi potest, nec illud ipsum ad Judæos pertinet, sed ad illius planè ævi hæreticos Gnosticos, quos, magnâ ubique cum ratione, Ignatius noster fugiendos monet, illos quidem Pseudo-Judæos, Ἰουδαΐζοντας, Ep. ad Magnes. Ἰουδαϊσμὸν sectatoribus suis ἑρμηνεύοντας, interpretantes; docentes, Ep. ad Philadelph. (pari modo ac ad Gal. 5. cogebant alios circumcidi) ipsos verò incircumcisos, ut ex sequentibus patet, ἄμεινον ἐκ ἀνδρὸς ἀκροβυστίαν ἔχοντος χριστιανισμὸν ἀκοῦσαι, ἢ ἐκ περιτομῆς Ἰουδαϊσμόν. His, isto Ignatii sæculo, nihil cum Orthodoxis Christianis commune fuisse, prolixè jamdudum monstratum est, & contra nos crucis Christi eorumque inimicos, ubique armari suos cupit, licet odio iràsque non exerceat.

CAP. VII.

Ignatii omnia inter Apocrypha. Στιχομυθία Syncello præfixa. Ἀπόκρυφον non statim κίβδηλον. Apocrypha opposita Sacræ Scripturæ seu Canonicis libris. Clementis Epistola ad Corinthios, ἀπόκρυφος θείας γραφῆς. Sic & Ignatii Epistolæ. Hermæ Pastor Salmasio & Blondello laudatus. Ignatius solus repudiatus. Epistola ad Antiochenos Ignatio à Salmasio tributa, ut & ad Heronem. Qui πυμάνειν pro tempore jubentur, non tamen ordinare permissi. Antiochia Metropolis. Episcopus Syriæ Ignatius. Stephanus Jacobi Diaconus.

§. 1. Post quinque istas singulares, cum totidem in Epistolis hisce ritibus, peractas velitationes, unum quidem insigne testimonium, ut jaculum lethale, contra universarum Epistolarum authoritatem, auctarii loco se adjecisse putavit Walo Στιχομυθία inquit, vetus præfixa est operi Georgii Syncelli & Theophanis, in antiquissimo exemplari, quo recensentur Scripturæ ἐκκλησιαζομένας & κανονιζομένας, item spuria & ἀπόκρυφοι. (Hîc venia à Walone roganda est, ut quæ sine dubio confudit Typographus, emendasse, & distinxisse liceat, punctis leviter mutatis) Inter τὰς τῆς γραφῆς ἀπόκρυφα, Ignatii omnia reponis, cum Pastore Hermæ, Periodis Petri, Pauli, & Johannis, cum Evangeliis secundum Thomam, & Clementis operibus.

§. 2. Quid hîc præstiterit Walo, paucis videndum erit; Penes æquos lectores judicium esto; Nec de authoritate Στιχομυθίας hujus, mihi cum Doctissimo viro lis erit, licet illud non injuriâ dici possit ἀδήλοτον στιχομυθίαν (incertum plane ex quibus ea tenebris, ex quâ, sub Antiquissimi exemplaris nomine, officinâ Θεσσαλονικεῖον nobis obtrudatur) sine omni dubio non sic ἐκκλησιαζομένῳ & κανονιζομένῳ esse, ut de Ignatio nostro toti jamdudum Orbi noto, decretoriam sententiam ferre digna sit; At istis opus non erit.

§. 3. In binos certè Apocryphorum Indiculos se incidisse affirmat Reverendissimus Archiepiscopus Armachanus, ineditum utrumque, & subjectum Interrogationibus & Responsionibus illis, quæ Anastasii Nicæni nomine à Gentiano Herveto sunt publicatæ, Ad calcem Chronographiæ Nicephori Patriarchæ Constantinopolitani, & Georgii Monachi, editum alterum. Ab hoc, si Στιχομυθία à Walone laudata, non procul absit (ut ex Georgii istius titulo, qui Tharasii Patriarchæ Syncellus fuerat, rectè colligitur) liquidò nobis constat, quid respondendum sit. Nihil scilicet ab authoritate Epistolis hisce à nobis tributâ, ex eo detractum, aut minutum esse, quod sic in Apocryphorum numero repositæ inveniantur.

§. 4. Nec enim ita vocis istius [ἀπόκρυφα] significatio arripienda est, ut statim spurium, aut κίβδηλον, aut ψευδεπίγραφον, sequioris ævi figmentum censendum sit, quicquid ubivis inter Apocrypha repositum inveniatur. Apocryphum certè non γνήσιον & δόκιμον, genuinum, & probatum, veréque ub authore, cujus nomen præfert, scripto opponitur, sed Divinæ Scripturæ Canoni, Libris, ut dicimus, Canonicis, aut Veteris, aut Novi Instrumenti.

§. 5. Verum esse quod dicimus, & ad rem nostram accommodatissimum, satis monstrabunt paucula ea, quæ quibusdam viris Optimis fraudi fuisse videntur, testimonia. Illud inprimis Bessarionis de Scriptis Clementis. Ἃ δὴ καὶ ἡμεῖς ἐκκλησιαζόμενα γεγραῦσι, λέγομεν ὅμως τοῖς τῶν ἄλλων καὶ αὐτὰ, ὡς ἂν τῆς θείας ὄντα γραφῆς. Ibi Apocrypha apponi videas τοῖς τῆς θείας ἴσα γραφῆς, Divinæ Scripturæ partibus, nec rectè Latinus Interpres legit [eis tanquam veris assentiamus] Multum sanè discriminis inter θείας ὄντα γραφῆς, & vera; Nec enim quicquid verum, statim in Canone Scripturæ reponendum est; Reddendum sine dubio [Recipiamus ea in præsenti, tanquam Divinæ Scripturæ partes forent.] Sic ille. Quæstionibus Anastasii Nicæni subjectus, dicitur Canonicorum & Apocryphorum Indiculus, & unà Ignatii & Clementis Romani scripta, in Apocryphorum censu reponuntur.

§. 6. Jam verò cuivis notum est, Clementis Epistolam ad Corinthios, à nemine unquam Antiquorum, illi Apostolico Scriptori abjudicatam esse, imò post Novi Testamenti libros, in Codice venerandæ Antiquitatis, quem Cyrillus Patriarcha Alexandrinus ad Regem Magnæ Britanniæ misit, in calce repositam fuisse, non utique ut κανονιζομένῳ, in Canonem Scripturæ receptam, sed ut ἀπόκρυφον θείας γραφῆς, qualem à pietatis studiosis (&, ut ait * Athanasius, βιβλιδάριόν τι κατηχουμένων & τῆς εὐσεβείας λόγον) ἀναγινωσκόμενον legi fas erat. Quo minùs miraberis, etiam in Secundo, &, quem Cl. Salmasius laudavit, Indiculo, aut Στιχομυθίᾳ, inter ἀπόκρυφα τῆς νέας γραφῆς cum Clemente, Ignatium nostrum poni, præsertim si memineris, quid de Epistolarum ejus Sylloge Polycarpus pronunciaverit, ἐξ ὧν μηδὲν, inquit in Ep. ad Philipp. ὠφελεῖσθαι δυνήσεσθε. Πεποίθασι γὰρ οὗτοι, ἢ μᾶλλον οὕτως ἐστὶν, ἐν αὐτοῖς ὁ μακάριος Παῦλος ἐκοπίασεν οἵτινές ἐστε Κύριον ἐμεῖ ἀνέκυψε. Ex Epistolis ejus plurimum utilitatis capere poteritis. Fidem enim, & tolerantiam, & omnem ædificationem ad Dominum nostrum pertinentem, continent. Ex quibus divini Scriptoris verbis, ipsa quasi definitio Apocryphorum exurgit, non quæ spuria semper, & adulterina fuerint, sed quæ cum in Canonem Scripturæ recepta non sint, utilitatis tamen plurimum in se habere censenda sunt. Et ita nondum conclamatæ Epistolæ Ignatii, nondum Sanctissimo Martyri abjudicatæ, imò potius insignem in Ecclesiâ honoris gradum adeptæ censebuntur, quæ in ipso Novi Testamenti Apocryphorum censu repositæ reperiuntur.

* Epist. 39.

§. 7. Unicum

§. 7. Unicum addo ex hac ipsâ Στιχομετρία, Pastorem Hermæ in eâdem Classe cum Ignatio positum esse, quem tamen ante duas paginas ab * ipso satis honorificè laudatum videas, & ita, ut pro spurio aut supposititio censeri neutiquam credas. Horum, inquit, contentionum meminit Hermas Pauli discipulus in Pastore suo, similitudine 8. Quod & à * D. Blondello eatenus factum videmus, ut sicut eum impurum dogmatistem Novationorum, Pelagianorum fontem, Monenistiearum superstitionum gurgitem nuncupaverit, tamen ut antiquissimum Scriptorem Polycarpo immediatè succenturiatum, de Ecclesiarum sui temporis statu loquentem audire statuerit. Adeò illud verissimum est, ὄνειρ βελτιστε, πρὸς κάκιστον, pessimo cuique, si nobis adblandiatur, inter Heroas statim locata cathedram figendam esse; vapulante interim Ignatio, & ab omni bonorum virorum consortio prorsus exulante, quamprimum Episcopalis dignitatis fautorem aut advocatum se præbuerit.

* Wal Mess. p. 250, 251.

* Apol. p 17.

§. 8. Quæ hâc in re addenda insuper putavit Walo, ea omnia à quibusdam, ad honorem & authoritatem Episcopo adstruendam, ab Ignatio dictis petita sunt, * Quæ toties repetita, & ea verborum ἀκριβείᾳ, putida, inquit, sunt, inepta, sed & falsa, & pene impia. At utinam Doctissimo viro bilis mitiùs ac leniùs efferbuisset; Quæ Ignatius de Episcopo pronunciat, nos suo loco exhibebimus, nec ea hîc, tempore adeò non suo examinanda, Lectori proponemus.

* P. 254.

§. 9. Illud hîc tantummodò omittendum non erit, hæc certè verba (conscio aut inscio, non pronuntiaverim) p. 257. Waloni excidisse, [In Epistolâ ad Antiochenos solius Presbyterii meminit, quia ipse eorum Episcopus absens erat.] An igitur revera hujus Epistolæ Author, Antiochenorum Episcopus Ignatius censendus est? Certè sic affirmat Walo, & ex eo se aliquid lucraturum existimat, Notandum, inquit, est, absente Episcopo, Presbyteris hîc licentiam dari gregis pascendi, & omnia quæ Episcopus agebat, agendi, i. e. consignandi, ordinandi, & alia exequendi quæ solî Episcopo competebant, ubi unus in plures excepit Principatum.

§. 10. Scilicet, si Presbyteris licentiam hanc largiturus sit, Ignatius erit Ignatius. At secundò, nihil hîc dictum fuerat de ordinando, consignando, & alia qualibet agendo. Illud tantùm, οἱ πρεσβύτεροι πειμάνατε τὸ ἐν ὑμῖν ποίμνιον, ἕως ἀναλήψῃ Θεὸς τὸν μέλλοντα ἄρχειν ὑμῶν, ἐμοῦ γὸ ἤδη ἀνάλυσις. Mirum unde hæc omnia ἐπιζολιμαῖα & interserta illi accesserint, aut quâ demum necessitate, qui per dies paucos ποιμαίνειν jubentur, se ad ordinationem proripiant. Imò tertiò, quidni & illud adverti hîc posset, Episcopum Ignatio successurum, principatum in hos ipsos Presbyteros exerciturum fuisse, sic enim sonant [τὸ μέλλοντα ἄρχειν ὑμῶν]) & eandem igitur Ignatio, aliisque tunc temporis Episcopis super Presbyteros ἀρχὴ competisse. At ista obiter.

§. 11. Eâdem utili & profuturâ ἀμνησία factum est, ut Epistola ad Heronem, ex quâ aliquid Presbyterorum dignitati accrescere posse videbatur, adeò Waloni placuerit, ut Ignatium etiam ejus Authorem agnoverit; Sic enim de Ignatio disertè pronunciat, Cùm ergo absens esset, & nullus Episcopus eis præesset, ἐπισκόπους eos appellat, ut suprà in Epistolâ ad ipsam Antiochenam Ecclesiam eos pastores vocavit, &c.

§. 12. Certè si bis spondenti Waloni fides neganda non sit, non obstantibus ipsius, & D. Blondelli rationum momentis, Ignatius Epistolas scripsit, ad Heronem saltem, & Antiochenos, Quibus tamen in Polycarpiana Sylloge locus non est.

§. 13. At ne magis illi hæc ad Heronem, quàm ad Antiochenos altera profuisse censeatur, sciat Walo præceptum illud Heroni datum, [Μηδὲν ἄνευ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου πράττε] Nihil ad regimen, ut ait, solis Presbyteris constans, adstruendum pertinere. Nec id quidem, ut sibi pollicetur, ex sequentibus perspicuum est; Sequentia sunt, Ἐκεῖνοι, i. e. Episcopi, βαπτίζωσι, ἱερουργῶσι, χειροτονῶσι, χειροθετῶσι, Σὺδὲ αὐτοῖς διακονῆς, ὡς Στέφανῳ ὁ ἅγιος ὁ Ἱερουσαλύμοις Ἰακώβῳ τῷ τῆς πρεσβυτέρεις.

§. 14. Primò sciendum est, Antiochiam Metropolim fuisse, alias sub se civitates habentem, quibus singulis suus Episcopus præsidebat; Patet hoc ex Ignatii Epistolâ ad Romanam Ecclesiam, in quâ seipsum ἐπισκοπὸν Συρίας, totius Syriæ, cujus nempe Metropolis Antiochia, Episcopum appellat. Illi autem omnes reliquarum in Syriâ civitatum Episcopi, quidni hîc ἐπίσκοποι dicerentur? etiam cùm Ignatium ipsum abfuisse concedatur? Nec quicquam sanè (quod Waloni videtur) ex Jacobi exemplo objici potest, Quem si hîc nominari ut proprium Hierosolymorum Episcopum non negaverit, (quod liberaliter se adversario concessurum spondet) nunquam exinde conclusurus est, Ignatium prædictos omnes ἐπισκόπους & πρεσβυτέρους exæquasse, sed è contra, in priori periodi parte, Episcopus plurimum civitatum plures (quibus etiam singulis Presbyteri adjungebantur) per vocem ἐπισκόπους, vel ἱερεῖς indigitasse, ut in posteriore, per Jacobum, & Presbyteros Ecclesiæ Hierosolymitanæ, Episcopum cum Presbyteris suis, Reliquis Judææ Episcopis, disertè significavit. Sed in istis diutiùs forsan, quàm præsentis instituti ratio poscebat, immorati sumus, Waloni aliquantisper ἔρρωσο dicendum est.

CAP. VIII.

Magna Salmasii & Blondelli concordia. Primum argumentum Salmasii de Prim. contra has Epistolas. Episcopatus πρωτεικὴ τάξις. Πρωτεικὴ ἐπιδημία, 2 Tim. 2. 22. Genevensis Ignatii editio aliquando præferenda. Τάξις, ordinatio, πρωτεικὴ, quæ ad Juniorem pertinet. Damas Juvenis Magnesiorum Episcopus. Andr. Riveti ἀβλεψία.

§. 1. VIdeamus porrò quid in hâc materiâ Cl. Salmasius in Appparatu suo ad Lib. De Primatu produxerit, aut quid demum D. Blondellus; Eadem sanè uterque armaturâ munitus, Quâ verò * fœlicitate, aut animorum conspiratione illud obtigerit, Ego non definio. Uno adversus utrumque Clypeo nos tectos existimabimus.

* His argumentis, quæ præstantissimo Salmasio nuper probata gaudeo, à priore opinione ante biennium depulsus, &c. Blond. præf. p. 46.

§. 2. Primò igitur, contra Epistolarum harum authoritatem, quatenus eæ à Laurentiano Vossii codice purgatiores edi videbantur, petito ex hoc ipso codice argumento, sic insurgit Cl. Salmasius: Episcopatum nempe ab hoc scriptore in Epistolâ ad Magnesios πρωτεικὴν τάξιν appellari, hoc est, inquit ille, novum aut neotericum ordinem. Nec enim, inquit, vocem τάξιν, ad ætatem respicere posse, πρωτεικὴν verò

ἀρχὴν

κενὸν significare, ut cum Paulo 2 Tim. 2. 22. νεωτερικὰς ἐπιθυμίας, novas, aut novarum rerum cupiditates dicantur. Quid hîc respondendum sit, quibus potero, paucissimis indicabitur.

§. 3. Primò igitur, si unico Florentino seu Laurentiano Codici Græco, eique per omnia pari, qui ex Angliâ prodiit, Latino, hac in parte præferatur prior lectio (quâ ἀναμφιβόλως Vedelius Genevensis, & ante eum Maestraeus, aliique omnes utebantur) [ὃ οὐδεὶς πάνυ φαινομένου ἀφορῶντας νεότητα] tunc omnis hujus argumenti vis prorsus evanuit. Et certè sic legendum suadet tota Epistolæ series. Magnesiorum Episcopus Damas tunc fuit, ætate quidem junior, quem ideò ab iis contemni posse (ut Timotheum Paulus) verebatur. Monet igitur non decere aut καταφρονεῖν, aut συγχεῖσθαι τῇ ἡλικίᾳ ἐπισκόπου, aut contemnere, aut familiariter (& depositâ reverentiâ) ætate Episcopi abuti. Sic & ipse Cl. Salmasius agnoscit, moneri hîc Magnesios ut Episcopum recipiant, & quamvis ætate juniori, honorem illi exhibeant. His certè Genevensis editio multa ex S. Scripturis opportunè subnectit, ὁ τὰς πολυχρονίους σοφὰς, &c. Non semper utique longævos sapientes esse, aut senes prudentiam scire.

§. 4. Verùm secundò, si cum codice Florentino omnino legendum esse concedatur, [πρὸ νεωτερικὴν τάξιν.] nihil tamen ex eo adversùs Ignatium, aut Episcopalis ordinis assertores, concludi erit. Nam primò, si Ignatii ævo, novus, aut novitius ordo dicendus sit Episcopatus, id sanè proximè aberit ab Apostolico. Conscriptam enim fuisse hanc Epistolam secundo post Apostolos sæculo, ulteriori illud Cl. Salmasii probatione indigebit, exhinc neutiquam concludendum.

§. 5. At secundò, per νεωτερικὴν τάξιν, novum aut novitium ordinem significari, nullâ mihi ratione probabile videtur. Nec verò aut nos, τάξιν ætatem, aut νεωτερικὸν, cum Cl. Salmasio, κενὸν, reddendum esse arbitrabimur.

§. 6. Altera nobis hujus φράσεως ratio reddenda est, ex quâ, iis quæ præcesserant, satis commodus & idoneus sensus exurget. Nempe ut τάξις ordinationem significet, & νεωτερικὴ, quæ ad νεότητα pertinebat, aut quæ τῷ νεωτέρῳ concedebatur. Ea erit Damæ ætate junioris ordinatio, aut Episcopalis dignitatis in eum adolescentem (ut Timotheum alterum) collatio, ex quâ ne ejus contemnendi ansam populus fidelium arriperet, sollicitè hîc ab Ignatio cautum erat.

§. 7. Denique cur 2 Tim. 2. 22. νεωτερικὰς ἐπιθυμίας, novas, aut novarum rerum cupiditates à Cl. Salmasio dicantur, si non istis suppetiis instabilis causa indigeret, fateor lubens me nec scire, nec divinare posse. Cur non juveniles cupiditates (aut quæ in juvenes cadere solent) νεωτέρῳ Timotheo fugiendæ censerentur? Cur tantùm novæ (quasi veteres, & quæ adeò frequentes inter juvenes erant, pro innoxiis censendæ sint) Aut cur demum novarum rerum cupiditates? quæ nec adeò in Episcopo Timotheo ab ipso Paulo in doctrinâ fidei probè instituto, metuendæ erant, nec uspiam sub νεωτερικῶν ἐπιθυμιῶν, sed sub νεωτερισμῶ titulo frequenter, apud authores describuntur.

§. 8. Mirum est quò se trahi patiantur Docti viri, ut dogmati, aut αἱρέσει inservient; Mirum, quid post Cl. Salmasium, * D. Blondello acciderit, quòd hic Episcopatum νεωτερικὴν τάξιν nuncupatum esse, sic sibi prolixè gratuletur, cùm illud tantummodo hîc dicatur, Damam paulò juniorem Episcopum ordinatum esse. Sed ante omnia mirum, & prodigii instar censendum est, quòd Doctissimus Senex * Andreas Rivetus, Episcopatum novellum ordinem nuncupans, statim addideret, sive τάξις, ut loquitur Ignatius, νεωτερικὴ: Ignatio scilicet dictum illud imputans, Qui si sic locutus fuerit, non solùm illustrissimus Salmasius frustra erit, qui cum D. Blondello eo indicio Pseudo-Ignatium deprehendisse se putat, sed & Episcopalem ordinem sub tempore Ignatii in Ecclesiâ fuisse manifestum erit. Quo quidem ævo si novellus fuerit, nobis certè Apostolicus, i. e. satis antiquus existimabitur.

* Præf. p. 43.

* Grotii discuss. diatr. p. 400.

§. 9. Quod & ab A. Riveto paginâ proximâ affirmatum videmus, cùm consuetudinem illam, ex qua Presbyteri Episcopo adjungebantur, in imponendis Presbytero manibus (quæ sine dubio Episcopalem apicem non abjudicat, sed supponit) ex veteris ævi reliquiis manasse dicat, statimque quid sit illud vetus ævum, sic explicat, [juxta illud Apostoli, per impositionem manuum Presbyterii.] Ubi tamen multò rectiùs fecisset, si Apostoli [ᾧ] reddendum [cum] & non (contra omnium exemplarium fidem) in [διὰ, per] mutandum censuisset. Sed istud extra orbitam, Quid verò de istis Apostoli verbis censendum sit, postea dicendi locus erit.

CAP. IX.

Secundum argumentum, Λόγος ὃν ἀπὸ Σιγῆς. Valentinus Hæresium antiquarum compilator. Contentio inter Blondellum & Archiepiscopum Armachanum de Irenæi loco. Blondelli ad A. Armachanum Literæ. Argumentum à βύθου & σιγῆς combinatione, Valentini proprio charactere, ductum. Responsiones quatuor. Χαρακτὴρ. Σιγῆς nomen Gnostici à Comicis sumpsere, Valentinus à Gnosticis. Βύθου & Σιγῆς combinatio ab Irenæo Gnosticis disertè imputata.

§. 1. TRanseo ad secundum Argumentum ex eâdem Epistolâ, & eodem Laurentiano codice ductum; quòd nempe Christi λόγου mentione factâ, adjiciat ὃν ἀπὸ σιγῆς φανερωθέν. Ex quâ Σιγῆς mentione concludi putat, Epistolam hanc, post Valentini hæretici, cujus illud idioma fuisse dicitur, tempora scriptam esse. Sic & * D. Blondel. Neotericus, inquit, se, Ignatiòque longè recentiorem indicio, suo, sine ullâ evadendi spe proditus sorex manifestum facit, dum Valentinianorum post Ignatii Martyrium primum exortorum monstrum bis ex professo ferit. Quibus verò verbis id facit? Primò, quòd Magnesios suos, post veram de Christo διδασκαλίαν, sic muniendos duxerit. [Μὴ πλανᾶσθε ταῖς ἑτεροδοξίαις, μηδὲ μυθεύμασιν τοῖς παλαιοῖς ἀνωφελέσιν οὖσιν.] Secundò, quòd Σιγῆς (ὃν ἀπὸ Σιγῆς φανερωθὲν) mentionem fecerit.

* Præf. p. 43.

§. 2. His omnibus facilis Responsio. Primò, in aliis omnibus exemplaribus hæc verba non reperiri. In priori quidem loco, alia, sed ea leviter immutata. Μὴ πλανᾶσθε ταῖς ἑτεροδοξίαις, μηδὲ μύθοις ἐνέχεσι, τοῖς ἀνωφελέσιν ἀπειράτοις, &c. quæ ferè à Paulo ipso desumpta, 1 Tim. 1. 4. & 4. 7. Tit. 1. 14. In posteriori verò hæc tantùm, [ἐστὶν ἓν λόγος ὃ ῥητὸς ἀλλ' ἀπόδος.]

§. 3. Verùm nec istis opus est, nec enim aliquid in se novi habet (aut quod authorem, ut ait, Neotericum arguat) aut phrasis ista [μυθεύματα παλαιὰ ἀνωφελῆ ὄντα,] aut ipsius Σιγῆς mentio.

§. 4. Nec certè opus fuit, ut universam hîc βύθου & κενωμα doctrinam paginâ unâ & altera venditaret, aut Ignatiani Martyrii diem, & Hæresiarchæ Valentini ortum, adeò punctim & accuratè comparandos duceret, cùm ab ipso Ignatiani istius codicis editore, Isaaco Vossio, luculenta objectioni huic responsio parata fuerit; Nullâ quippe necessitate adigi nos, ut istam Σιγῆς mentionem, ex Valentinianâ hæresi depromptam credamus. Neminem quippe antiquorum repertum esse, qui Valentinum novæ Sectæ conditorem affirmaret, sed è contrà, Theodoretum, post antiquas hæreses, & quæ Valentinum præcesserè, enumeratas, statim addere, ἐν τούτῳ πασῶν σχεδὸν αἱρέσεων ὁ Βαλεντῖνος λαβὼν ἀφορμὰς, τὰς ἀπορρήτους αὐτῶν συνόδους μύθους

§. 5. Sic & ex Tertulliano illud laudatum. Cujusdam veteris opinionis semina nactus, &c. At præcipuè illud Irenæi, Ὁ μὲν ἀφ' ὅτου ἀπὸ τῆς λεγομένης γνώσεως αἱρέσεως, τὰς ἀρχαίας εἰς ἴδιον χαρακτῆρα διδασκαλίας μεταρμόσας Οὐαλεντῖνος, &c. Valentinum scilicet, ex Gnosticorum hæresi, doctrinas veteres ad ἴδιον χαρακτῆρα concinnâsse, aliud nihil præstitisse. Addit etiam, subductis temporum rationibus, Optimus Vossius, fieri potuisse, ut Valentinus ipse, vivo etiamnum Ignatio, multos clam, si non palam, seduxerit.

§. 6. Putârim hoc Antidoto abundè Epistolarum harum saluti cautum fuisse, quo minùs unicâ ista Σιγῆς mentione, tanquam venenato hausto poculo perculsæ, statim omnes efferentur. At hanc Isaaci Vossii annotationem non viderat Cl. Salmasius, fortè nec D. Blondellus, cùm hæc scriberet, cùm contra tam apertam lucem, nihil sit quod obtendi possit. Dispellendam igitur iis hanc caliginem putavit Reverendissimus Hiberniæ Primas, Epistolâ Appendici Ignatianæ præfixâ, Anno post publicatam D. Blondelli Apologiam, Locúmque Irenæi, & Epiphanii, integrum exscripsit, aliáque nonnulla ex Clemente Alex. addenda censuit; At nec sic voluit D. Blondellus cum Epistolarum harum authore in amicitiam redire, reciprocandam igitur hanc ferram ratus, literis ad Reverendissimum Archiepiscopum non ita pridem datis, quibus hanc denuò suam fulcire sententiam conabatur.

§. 7. Eas hîc describere placuit, ut & illis breviter occurratur & satisfiat. D. Blondelli verba sic se habent.

" Irenæi nostri, quo præcipuè niteris, locus, quod nunquam negavi, docet Valentinum aliorum " exemplo συζυγίας suas effinxisse, Alios ipso priores Profundi, & Silentii combinationes induxisse, " non modò tecum non affirmat, sed mecum, (siquid capio) ex professo negat, cùm proprium Va- " lentini characterem combinationem illam protulisse refert. Si enim ex proprio Valentini chara- " ctere fuit, ex charactere priorum (quod volebas) nec fuit, nec esse potuit, nisi fortè proprium " commune, i. e. non proprium factum ἀτύπως dicamus. His positis, argumentum meum adversus " Epistolam ad Magnesianos immotum manet. Quisquis adversus proprium Valentini Ignatio posterio- " ris characterem disputat, Valentino vel coætaneus fuit, vel eo posterior, adeóque Ignatio recenti- " or, non Ignatius ipse. Atqui author Epistolæ ad Magnesianos adversus proprium Valentini Ignatio po- " sterioris characterem disputat. Ergo-Major est evidens, Minor est Irenæi, ergo & conclusio. " 2^do. Acta Ignatii vetustiora, ejus Epistolarum non meminerunt, id autem rursus conjecturæ meæ " favet. 3^tio. Acta illa, milites, quorum Custodiæ addictus Ignatius, permisisse aiunt, ut à piis Sy- " riis, Itineris comitibus foveretur, & ab Ecclesiis in itinere positis inviseretur, sustentaretur, &c. er- " go Leopardorum, qui nunquam mitescunt, & beneficiis exasperantur (quod Epistolarum Scriptor, " quisquis ille fuit, volebat) similes non fuerunt. 4^to. Quàm parum Ignatio conveniat, Epistola ad " Romanos, περσβιάσομαι, &c. quódque Romanos adjurare fingitur, ne pro salute suâ temporali pre- " ces fundant, Ecclesiæ Smyrnensis de Quinto judicium docet; Si enim ex Smyrnensium sententiâ, Mar- " tyres dici non debent qui se offerunt, quantò minus debuit, qui de sibimet admovendis necis instru- " mentis cogitasse dicitur, nec fratrum preces pro incolumitate suâ ferre potuit? Hæc me sententiam " mutare cùm vetent, hærere me etiamnum pro singulari tuâ charitate ferre non dedignaberis.

§. 7. His jam breviter respondendum erit, 1. Argumentationem D. Blondelli in hanc argutiolam ἀνακεφαλαιῶδες, Valentinum aliorum exemplo συζυγίας suas effinxisse, Istam verò Βύθου & Σιγῆς combinationem, Valentinum primum induxisse, & hanc igitur ab Irenæo proprium ejus charactérem dictum esse, ideóque authorem Epistolæ ad Magnesios adversus hanc combinationem disputantem, Valentino posteriorem esse, & exinde Pseudo-Ignatium.

§. 8. Mirum est quot vitiis hic D. Blondelli processus laboret, seu Irenæum, seu Ignatium, respicias, 1^mo. Irenæus non affirmat Valentinum combinationem illam primùm induxisse, nec combinationem illam fuisse proprium Valentini charactérem. Id tantùm dicit, quod modò Græcè dicentem audivimus, Valentinus primus ab hæresi Gnosticâ antiquas doctrinas, εἰς ἴδιον χαρακτῆρα, ad suum Charactérem accommodans, ὅπως ἐλλογοφόρησεν, (non ut vulgatus codex, ἐξηνεχθόρησεν aut ἐφόρησε) deliria sic protulit, Ὁμοπάθως δὲ καὶ δυάδα τινα ἀνωνόμασεν, ἧς τὸ μὲν τι καλεῖσθαι Ἀρρητον, τὸδε Σιγὴν, &c. definiens binarium quendam esse innominabilem, cujus unam partem Ἀρρητον ineuarrabile, aliam Σιγὴν, silentium vocari.

§. 9. Hîc quid sit Character, satis clarum est, peculiare nempe aliquod dicendi genus, sic ut apud Grammaticos χαρακτῆρες λόγου τίνες, & Character Scriptoris, pro stylo dici solet, apud Irenæum verò χαρακτὴρ βίου, & χαρακτὴρ πίστεως alibi non semel. Nec jam quicquam Irenæi verbis luculentius, scilicet, Valentinus antiquas doctrinas, ad suum dicendi, aut philosophandi genus, concinnavit, accommodavit.

* Hær. 31. §. 10. Huc illud * Epiphanii spectat, Τὴν ἐθνοποιὸν πλάνην εἰς τὸν ἑαυτῶν νῦν λαβὼν, καὶ ἀπὸ τῆς σωῆς αὐτῷ, καὶ θεοῦ αὐτοῦ τῆς ἀληθείας ἀνατετραπότων, τὸν ὑποῦσαν πλάνην, καὶ αὐτὸς τὰ ἴσα τῷ Ἡσιόδῳ ἀπὸ ἑτέρων ὀνομάτων εἰς ἕτερα μεταποιήσας ἐθέλησι φανῆναι τὸν κόσμον, Fabulosam Gentium poesin in animo suo concipiens, & eorum sententiam, seu intellectum, mutuatus ab aliis hæreticis, qui ante ipsum, & cum ipso vixerunt, Theologiam Hesiodeam, mutatis tantùm nominibus, ut mundum deciperet, inducere voluit. Scilicet à Gnosticis qui & ipso priores erant, & adhuc in Ecclesiâ, Valentini tempore, latè disseminabantur, Valentinum doctrinas ipsis Gnosticis antiquiores, poëticam hempe Theologiam leviter immutatam, aliis tantùm verbis contextam, protulisse, nec quicquam aliud hîc affirmatum invenies.

§. 11. Secundò, Combinatio illa ab Irenæo memorata, non erat Βύθου καὶ Σιγῆς, sed Ἀρρήτου καὶ Σιγῆς.

§. 12. Tertiò,

§. 12. Tertiò, Author Epistolæ ad Magnesios nullam utriusvis συζυγίας mentionem facit, aut Βύθου & Σιγῆς, aut Ἀρρήτου & Σιγῆς, sed tantùm λόγου ἢ ἀπὸ Σιγῆς σεσιωπημένου. Hinc sanè illud concludendum, at aliud nihil, Hæreticis illius ævi notam fuisse σιγῆς vocem, simúlque sermonis, aut verbi ex silentio procedentis. Et quidni Gnosticorum, ante Ignatii exitum, dogma censeri illud posset. Verissimè observavit Isaacus Vossius, à veteri Comico Antiphane in Theogoniâ, Chaos emissum dici è Nocte, & Silentio, sic ut de Chao dein, & Nocte, Cupidinem, & Lunam. Hinc igitur σιγῆς nomen desumpsêre Gnostici; A Gnosticis, (inter ἀρχαίας διδασκαλίας Irenæo, ἐνθύμιον πλοῦτον, Epiphanio, dictas,) mutuatus est Valentinus. Nec igitur ille primus hoc nomen in Theogoniis, aut συζυγίαις, usurpavit. Nec quicquam adhuc proprium Valentino, nec quod Epistolam illam Ignatio (quo posterior Valentinus, at prior Antiphanes, coætanei Gnostici) abjudicet.

§. 13. Imò, ut illud quartò addam; Si iterum consulatur Irenæus, patebit ipsam illam Βύθου & Σιγῆς combinationem (adeò D. Blondello celebrem, & quam Valentini characterem fuisse, adeò nobis persuadere voluit) antiquioribus Gnosticis cognitam, & inter eorum διδασκαλίας numerandam fuisse; Sic enim ille, in posteriori parte ejusdem capitis, cùm alias Genealogiarum, & Stemmatum rationes recitâsset, hæc statim subjicit, Ταύτας βέλονται τὰς δυνάμεις φρονιμώτερον τοῦ Βύθου καὶ τῆς Σιγῆς, ἵνα τελειοτέροις τελειότεροι φαίνωνται ὄντες, καὶ γνωστικῶν γνωστικώτεροι, Atque has virtutes etiam Bythio & Sige antiquiores esse volunt, quo vitæ perfectis perfectiores, & Gnosticis seu scientibus scientiores, seu magis Gnostici esse appareant. Quibus disertè affirmatur, istam Βύθου καὶ Σιγῆς δυάδα (ex quâ ista apud Ignatium Σιγῆς mentio, & λόγου ἀπὸ Σιγῆς) Gnosticorum (si non inventum, saltem) doctrinam fuisse. Cui qui quicquam ut antiquius addi cupiebant, ipsis Gnosticis eruditiores, aut scientiores, videri velle videbantur.

§. 14. Et de istâ Σιγῆς mentione, leviculâ quidem, sed cui, cùm alia deessent, gnaviter adhærere D. Blondello placuit, ad præripiendas cavillationes omnes, dictum est, uti spero, jam satis.

CAP. X.

Argumentum ab Actis Ignatianis negativum, ut nihil concludat. Tertium Argumentum à militum comitatu ductum. Quartum à voce σεσιδήρωμαι. Ignatius ad Martyrium anhelans. Eusebius Blondello adversus. Ignatius se non obtulit, sibi manus non admovit. Cypriani Exemplum.

§. 1. VErùm sunt & alia paucula, à D. Blondello in literis istis adversùs Ignatium nostrum emissa jacula, ea paucis retorquenda hîc erunt, ne quippiam animadversione nostrâ indignum censuisse videamur, quod D. Blondello proferre visum est. Acta, inquit, Ignatii vetustiora Epistolarum ejus non meminêrunt.

§. 2. Fateor quidem; At primò, Epistola ad Romanos non meminêrunt tantummodo Acta illa, sed & integram, eâ, quâ ad nos pervenit, formâ, descripserunt, ex eo nobis conjecturæ locum præbentia, Romæ quidem ea conscripta esse, & exinde rationem constare, cur non reliquarum æquè Epistolarum ac ad Romanos unicæ meminerint. Secundò autem, nulla in illis Actis, universæ Sanctissimi Patris vitæ, nedum adultæ, (& quæ in Christiano stadio decurrebatur) ætatis, multò minus scriptorum, aut factorum omnium, historia, sed Tragœdiæ tantummodò ad exitum festinantis, ipsiusque demum Beatissimi Martyris, ad Romam simul, & Martyrium profectionis, commentarii, seu diaria quædam continentur. Adeò ut ab Actis illis, (dum ea prioris vitæ non meminerint) æquè concludi possit, tunc demum vivere cœpisse Ignatium, cùm morti jam proximus esset, ac Epistolas non scripsisse, quarum in Actis illis nulla hat mentio, aut unicam scripsisse, eam scilicet ad Romanos in Actis memoratam; Monitore non eget vir Doctissimus, quàm nihili facienda sint argumenta ex testimonio negativo, illud tantummodo ritè conclusura, Eum planè positivis destitui, quisquis negativis uti voluit.

§. 3. Tertiò sic argumentatur D. Blondellus, Acta illa, milites, quorum custodiæ addictus Ignatius, permisisse aiunt, ut à piis Syris, itineris comitibus, foveretur, & ab Ecclesiis in itinere positis inviseretur, sustentaretur, &c. Ergo Leopardorum, qui nunquam mitescant, & beneficiis exasperantur, (quod, Epistolarum, quisquis ille fuit, scriptor volebat) similes non fuerunt. Respondeo. Illud sanè verissimum est, quod ab iis Actis affirmatur, Polycarpum nempe, & Ecclesiarum in Asiâ omnium fratres, Ignatio, in novissimâ istâ profectione, obviam venisse, nec ubivis contrarium affirmat Ignatius. At & eadem Acta (id D. Blondellus tacere maluit) de eo disertè affirmant, quòd à ferocissimis militibus duceretur, crudelissimis mantibus; Quidni igitur Leopardorum similes pronunciaret, qui præsentem eorum immanitatem, & rabiem expertus est, quos Acta à non-nemine, nihil ab illis passo, descripta, ferocissimos & crudelissimos appellant?

§. 4. Restat, ut brevissimè vocis [σεσιδήρωμαι] in unâ ad Romanos Epistolâ, positæ, verborumque [Quibus Romanos adjurat, ne pro salute ejus temporali preces fundant] virus sic minuam, ut ejus malevolo influxu, aut halitu, tota Epistolarum co-pages non inficiatur; Quod me facilè facturum confido, si mihi cum viro probo, & à partium studio, & ἀνθολικῆς ἀμοιρίᾳ alieno, qualem D. Blondellus ubique se profitetur, res futura sit. Quid enim, si, ut amorem suum (non semper modulo nostro metiendum) erga Christum, dilectissimum servatorem, si, ut animum ad Martyrium jamdiu anhelantem, Romanis, inter quos passurus erat, testatum faceret, hæc, vel talia æstuantis affectus monumenta, nobis reliquerit, se feris, Tyrannicæ crudelitatis instrumentis, vim facturum interminatus, hâc piâ δεισιφόβου mentis hyperbole significans, se ad patiendum quidlibet pro Christo, (nec ad fugiendum, sed maturandum potius tam honestum exitum) paratum esse? Nec igitur precibus contremitendum, (cùm jam ei fortassis Deus bonus instinctu quodam præsignificasset imminere, tam strenui athletæ πλείονα) sed Deo uni rem integram permittendam esse.

§. 5. Quicquid est, illud compertissimum habemus, hæc ipsa verba [Ἐγὼ σεσιδήρωμαι] ex ipsissimâ hâc Epistolâ ab * Eusebio laudata, nec igitur temerè sine omni probatione illi abjudicanda esse, multò minus minus Epistolam ipsam, aut universum Epistolarum Codicem propter ea verba repudiandum. Quæ verò de judicio Smyrnensis Ecclesiæ super Quinto adjicit [ex eorum sententiâ, Martyres dici non debere, qui sese offerrent,] nihil absque omni dubio Ignatio nostro obfutura sunt, cùm nullibi affirmetur, Ignatium se obtulisse, nullibi de admovendis sibi nevis Instrumentis (quod ait) cogitasse, (apage nefanda ista interpretamenta, & à quibus, licèt festinans, abhorret calamus) sed tot militibus stipatum, ad tribunal tandem Cæsaris protractum esse. Nec enim qui Rhetoricè loquitur, quâdamq; verborum pompâ exprimit, quantò sibi optabilius sit emori, & esse cum Christo, is sibi statim manus illaturus esse censendus est.

* Hist. l. 3. c. 36.

§. 6. Cyprianus martyrio affinis, fugâ sibi consuluisse dicitur, cùm prius se martyrii candidatum
In vit. Cypr. professûs esset, cùm enim sibi oblatam occasionem perspiceret, quâ Christo Domino officium aliquod vivus præstare posset, maluit, inquit Pontius Diaconus, præceptis Christi obedire, quàm vel sic coronari; Quibus verbis cùm excusandum Cyprianum putaret ille, seu potius rationem reddendam, cur coronam tamdiu quæsitam recusaverit, non est quòd ego in hoc languentis, & frigescentis charitatis sæculo, Ignatii dicto unico [ἀγχιβόμαι] clypeum meum obtendam, aut Apologiâ indigere verear Sanctissimum Martyrem, quòd Christum nimis dilexerit, mortémque pro illo, fortiori & constantiori animo subiverit.

§. 7. Videt, uti spero, D. Blondellus, quàm non omnibus persuasura sint ejus argumenta, quantáque nobis spes superlit, non illi diu arrisuram sententiam istam, ex quâ, rationibus tam infirmis subnixâ, maluit, contra universæ antiquitatis suffragium, Ignatio Epistolarum codicem integrum abjudicare, quàm permittere, ut Episcoporum Ordo, qui tamdiu in Ecclesiâ Christi floruerit, jam cùm ipse eum ulteriùs ferre noluerit, tam firmo tibicine, aut fulcro stabiliatur.

CAP. XI.

Aliæ Blondelli objectiones contra Ignatii codicem. Prima ab incommodè dictis. Vocum σαρκὶ & πνεύματι frequentior usus. Ἀνάπαυσις σαρκικὴ καὶ πνευματική. Ignatius contra Δοκητὰς scripsit. Σὰρξ καὶ πνεῦμα homo integer.

§. 1. VErùm & alia adhuc supersunt, quæ præter ea, quæ illi cum Cl. Salmasio communia erant, Apologiæ suæ Hieronymianæ præfigi curavit D. Blondellus. Ad ea itidem festinandum est.

De Dictionis genere dictum est, ut & de vocabulis barbaris, è Latio decerptis, Græcâque donatis civitate.

§. 2. Præter ea, Nonnulla, inquit, in Epistolis istis incommodè dicta videri possent, & quæ benignius interpretamento vix excusentur. Certè si ea non malè, sed tantùm incommode dicta sint, si non sint, sed videantur tantùm, nec videantur quidem, sed videri possent, si dici à D. Blond. non potuerit, ea non posse excusari, sed solummodò, vix posse, sibi vim feciſse putandus erit D. Blondellus, ut hæc tam minuta tam dirè plectenda existimaret.

§. 3. Hujus, inquit, censûs sunt, vocum illarum frequentior usus [σαρκὶ & πνεύματι, σαρκικὴ & πνευματικὴ] (At quæso, cui unquam negata est hæc licentia?) Quid, inquit, hæc in Ep. ad Smyrn. volunt? ἀνάπαυσις σαρκικὴ καὶ πνευματική;

§. 4. Certè si D. Blondello rem gratam facturus sim, dicam quid volunt. Christum nempe verum hominem, non δοκήσει, sed ἀληθείᾳ, ex partibus itidem hominis essentialibus, corpore & animâ, seu carne & spiritu constantem, utramque in cruce, utramque, cùm resurgeret à mortuis, retinuisse, ideóque Ignatium contra δοκητὰς scribentem, (Christum non ἀληθῶς vel ἐν σαρκὶ, sed δοκήσει tantùm passum esse, & resurrexisse affirmantes) utriusque mentioni [πάθει τε καὶ ἀναστάσει] geminas voculas σαρκικὴ καὶ πνευματικῇ adjungendas censuisse.

§. 5. Ita de reliquis dicendum est, cùm integer homo carne & spiritu constet, earum enumeratione, hominem perfectum, & integrum intelligi. Ideóque in Ep. ad Polycarpum, cum legatur σαρκικὸς εἰ καὶ πνευματικός, alii codices explicatiùs legunt, ἐκ ψυχῆς καὶ σώματος, εἰ σαρκικὸς καὶ πνευματικός. Sic μένετε ἐν ἑνὶ πνεύματι ἐν ἑνὶ σώματι, ἑνὶ σαρκικῷ καὶ πνευματικῷ, integri, & indivisi in eo manete. Et, Ἐπιμέλεια σαρκικὴ καὶ πνευματική. Cura perfecta, integráque totius hominis. Itidémque ἀγαπᾶν κύριον, καὶ συμβίοις ἀρκεῖσθαι σαρκὶ καὶ πνεύματι. Dominum amare, maritisque (putarim, non sufficere, sed) contentos esse, utrumque autem perfectè, & integrè facere. Sic ad Magnesios, Καλλιοδωδῆναι σαρκὶ καὶ πνεύματι, vobis integris omnia prosperè, nulla vestrûm ex parte improsperè succedant. Ἕνωσις denique σαρκικὴ καὶ πνευματικὴ, perfecta unitas.

CAP. XII.

Secunda, à comparationibus non exactis ad amussim. Baptismus ὅπλα. Singulæ tamen virtutes Christianæ, Fides, Charitas, Perseverantia, Baptismali armaturæ addenda. Spiritus χρυσίον. Fides ἀναγωγεύς, Vincula πνευματικοὶ μαργαρίται. Gaudium Spirituale in Resurrectione.

§. 1. HIs succedunt comparationes non exactæ ad amussim. Et certè Sanctissimo Martyri, cui affectatum loquendi genus nullatenus permittebatur, venia sperari potuit, si nec ei otium suppeteret, quo ad amussim singula exigeret, & delinearet.

§. 2. At quæ demum istæ sunt non ita amussitatæ comparationes, quæ huic Censoriæ virgulæ subjiciendæ erant? Primò, quòd (cum baptismus ὅπλα) Fides εἰς ἀσπίδα λαβὶς dicatur, patientia, seu perseverantia (ὑπομονὴ) de πανοπλία. Quid enim, inquit, Fides, Dilectio, Patientia, conferunt jam per baptisma armato? Et si Christiani πανοπλία patientia est, quid novi ex Fide accedit jam galeato? Verùm cur non baptismo, ὅπλων, telorum in plurali, titulus competat? Ita tamen, ut quælibet virtus Christiana, cujus actus Deo nostro in futurâ vitâ præstandos solenniter in baptismo spondemus, peculiari etiam titulo gaudeat, galea fides, Clypei Charitas, Panoplia perseverantia; Nec enim sic nos inaccessibiles Satanæ, sic sic invulnerabiles baptismus præstiturus est, ut non singulis virtutibus Christianis ad repellendos tam frequentes petulantis hostis insultus, nobis opus sit; Ni fides ut galea caput, Charitas ut clypeus Pectus, & integram demum personam, i. e. omnes vitæ actiones, perseverantia sibi tutandas assumpserit, metuendum certè est, ne qui jam stare videtur, cadat.

§. 3. Secundò, quòd Spiritum χεῖρον vocet, & fidem ἀναγωγὰ, & ita Fidei potiorem, inquit, quàm Spiritus functionem asserat. At cur non exinde potiùs concluserus essem, Spiritui primas deferri, cùm ille trahere nos, (ut in Cantico de Christo sponso dicitur, Trahe me, & ego curram post te) ista instar trocleæ nos subducere dicatur? Certè nihil hîc novi, si verbum Dei, Fide apprehensum, subducendis nobis ad cœlum servire, Spiritum autem Christi, ut funiculus, nos subducere dicatur.

§. 4. Tertiò, Quòd vincula ipsius πνευματικὰ μαργαρίτας vocans, addat, ἐν οἷς ἡσύτο ἀναπλῶσι. Quid enim, inquit D. Blondellus, Spirituale in vinculis, Christi Martyris corpori ab infidelibus injectis? Aut quæ in vinculis illis resurgendi spes esse potuit? At sine dubio, passiones Sanctissimi Martyris, rectè per vincula exprimi poterant, æque majoris gaudii & ἀγαλλιάσεως, quâ spiritus intimè perfunderetur, materia futuræ erant, quàm quæ, ex quâcunque carnali πλαίσιον, mortali corpori contingere potuit; Et ita sanè nihil impedit, quò minus in voto habeat pientissimus athleta (nec enim aliud quippiam voce ἡσύτο notatur) hanc illi gaudii materiam sic prorogatum iri, ut cum ipso resurgens (hâc non obstante ingratissimorum nepotum invidiâ, hâc cavillandi urticâ eum non tangente) in æternum illi permansurum sit.

CAP. XIII.

Tertiò, ab Episcoporum &c. Ordinatione. Ut Epistolas gratulatorias deferrent, Legationes Ecclesiarum non rarè. Ignatio sublato, εὐδία in Syriâ. In rebus gestis testimoniis solis Fides debetur. Ἐκκλησία ἡ ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ τῆς Συρίας, ἴδιον μέγδος, σωμαθεῖον. Gratulatoriæ literæ, Charitatis Christianæ specimina.

§. 1. QUærit deinde D. Blondellus, Cui verisimile fiat statim post Ignatii in Asiam adventum, Episcopos, Presbyteros, Diaconos, ejusdem rogatu χειροτονηθέντας, qui ad Antiochenos Asianorum Epistolas gratulatorias deferrent? Respondeo 1. Talibus legationibus nihil novi, aut incredibilis inesse. Pari quidem modo in Ignatii * Aliis dicitur, Ecclesiam omnem (Smyrnensem) Ignatium, per sanctum suum Episcopum Polycarpum, & per Sanctos Presbyteros, & Diaconos, rogâsse, ut iret ad propositum suum: Instituta scilicet ab Ecclesiâ ad Ignatium legatio, ut eum ad Martyrium fortiter obeundum animarent. * P. 5.

§. 2. Secundò notandum est, Hoc ipso temporis articulo, post unum Ignatium Antiochensibus ereptum, persecutionis rabiem statim in Syriâ sedatam esse, ideóque legationi huic opportunitatem, & εὐχωρίαν defuturam fuisse, ni statim post adventum ejus in Asiam peracta esset.

§. 3. At & tertiò respondetur: In rerum gestarum narrationibus, nihil rationi minùs consentaneum esse, quàm ut earum verisimilitudo ad calculos nostros exigatur, aut argumenta à nobis efficta, tandémq; effictoribus probabilia visa, quicquam ad fidem historiæ faciendam, vel deroganda posse putentur, cùm ea narrantis authoritati tota debeatur. Certè quamplurima indies fieri videmus, quæ non sunt usque adeò probabilia, & quæ nunquam acta fuisse, posteris nostris, (ea per 1500. annorum tubum aut διόπτραν à longè adspicientibus, & quibus ea non credi fortè intererit) argumentum unum, aut alterum, satis probabile, necti posse nullus dubito. Piget dicere, quid de ipsâ Sacrosanctâ historiâ, aut paginâ fiet, si sceleratæ hujusmodi quæstiuncularum θεωρίαι, diríque hisce ingeniorum male feriatorum Eculeis submittatur.

§. 4. Verùm quartò, & illud exploretur, quid in hâc ipsâ narratione minùs verisimile argui, aut credi possit. Post persecutiones multas, cladésque Christiano nomini aliquandiu intentatas, certissimum est, summo Dei beneficio Ecclesiæ Antiochenæ, seu Syriacæ (sic enim reddendum esse τὴν Ἐκκλησίαν τὴν ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ τῆς Συρίας, Ecclesiam Syriæ quæ est in Antiochiâ, seu, Ecclesiam, cujus Antiochia metropolis erat, Syriacam) halcionios dies redditos esse, pacatos cœtus, & confessus Ecclesiasticos, quos per τὸ ἴδιον μέγδος, & σωματεῖον iis restitutum, optimè expressit Ignatius, Ep. ad Smyrn. Hinc pientissimo viro æquissimum videbatur (& de eo Smyrnensem Ecclesiam monendam putavit) ut literæ ab aliis Dei Ecclesiis in Syriam mitterentur, εἰς τὸ συγχαρῆναι αὐτοῖς, ὅτι εἰρηνεύουσιν, ut congauderent, seu congratularentur illis hanc εὐδίαν, serenitatem, aut refrigerium feliciter redditum.

§. 5. Ad hoc necessarium erat, Legatum sacrum, θεοφορηθέντα (sic sine dubio legendum, non, ut Vossianus Codex, διαφορηθέντα) ordinari; Non est illud, Episcopum, aut Presbyterum consecrari, aut de novo fieri, sed (ut χειροτονεῖν significat) ex ipsis aliquem, vel ἐπίσκοπον, vel πρεσβύτερον, ad hanc legationem eligi, aut designari; aliquem scilicet eorum, qui prius ordinibus sacris initiabantur. Sic & in Ep. ad Polycarpum, Ἐπεὶ ἡ ἐκκλησία ἡ ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ τῆς Συρίας εἰρηνεύει, &c. πρέπει συμβούλιον ἀγαγεῖν, καὶ χειροτονῆσαί τινα, &c. ὃν (non ὡς) δυνήσεται θεοδρόμους καλεῖσθαι, &c. ἵνα πορευθεὶς εἰς Συρίαν, &c.

§. 6. Monet iterum ut piâ hâc legatione defuncturus aliquis eligatur, & designetur: In eâdem Epistolâ Polycarpum rogat, ut, cùm ipse singulis Ecclesiis scribere non posset, ille hanc iis mentem indat, ut singulæ, aut nuntios, aut literas, per Polycarpi nuntium mittant. Ea scilicet erant eorum temporum charitatis, & comitatis, & κοινωνίας Christianæ specimina, ad teporem nostrum neutiquam exigenda. Denique in Ep. ad Philad. idem repetit, ἐπειδὴ ἀπηγγείλη μοι εἰρηνεύειν τὴν ἐκκλησίαν τὴν ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ τῆς Συρίας, πρέπον ὑμῖν ἐστὶν, ὡς ἐκκλησίᾳ Θεοῦ, χειροτονῆσαι διάκονον, εἰς τὸ πρεσβεῦσαι ἐκεῖ θεοῦ πρεσβείαν, εἰς τὸ συγχαρῆναι, &c. His sic positis, ea tandem Ignatii verba ponenda sunt, ad quæ, ut ad rem minùs verisimilem, digitum intendisse videtur D. Blondellus; Ea statim sequuntur in Ep. ad Philad. ubi, aliarum propinquarum Ecclesiarum exemplo, hoc illis faciendum proponit, ὅτε, inquit, αἱ πλησίον ἐκκλησίαι ἐπισκόπους ἐπέμψαντο, οἱ δὲ πρεσβύτερος, καὶ διάκονοι. Quod certè nihil aliud est, quàm ab aliis Ecclesiis Episcopos, ab aliis Presbyteros, & Diaconos, hâc legatione gratulatoriâ functos fuisse.

§. 7. Quod quàm nihil in se peregrinum, aut à veritate alienum habeat, cuivis palam erit, qui id unum recognoverit, quamprimum Ignatius vinctus Romam duceretur, hanc Syria & Antiochensibus εὐδίαν, (serenum) redditam esse. Mihi potiùs admirandum videtur, quid sit in hâc integrâ rei gestæ narratione, quod D. Blondello minùs probabile videbatur?

CAP.

CAP. XIV.

Quarta, à nimio intervallo inter Episcopos & Presbyteros posito. Διαβόλῳ λατρεύειν quid.

§. 1. PErgit interrogare D. Blondellus, An tanto Episcopus à Presbyteris distet intervallo, ut Episcopum eo modo, quo Christus Apostolorum Dominus Patrem, Presbyterium sicut Apostolos Christi ministros, sequi, eúmque, qui clam Episcopo quicquam aggressus fuerit, τῷ διαβόλῳ λατρεύειν censere oporteat? An Episcopos ullos, Presbyterorum comparatione, Dominos, imò Deos, à Christi Martyre habitos, credere par sit?

§. 2. Verùm quid est, si hoc non sit, pientissimum Martyrem placidè quiescentem, ad novos jam denuò eculeos & tormenta, στρεβλώσεις, sat scio, iniquissimè vocare.

§. 3. Locus est in Ep. ad Smyrn. Πάντες τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ ἀκολουθεῖτε, ὡς Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς τῷ πατρὶ, καὶ τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ, ὡς τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις, &c. ὁ δὲ σέβεται ἐπίσκοπον μᾶλλον τοῦ διαβόλῳ λατρεύει.

§. 4. De ipso loco, ut & de aliis omnibus, in quibus de Episcopis sermo est, postea uberior dicendi locus erit. Id tantùm hîc scisciari lubet: Num, qui Episcopum sequi eos jubet, ut Christus Patrem secutus est (i. e. ejus vestigiis diligenter, & acriter inhærere) is, Episcopos statim pro Dominis, imo pro Diis, habuisse censendus sit? Certè eâdem ratione concludendum erit, populum omnem, qui sic sequi jubetur, ab hoc scriptore pro Jesu Christo habitum esse, aut uxores à Paulo Ecclesiam censendas esse, maritósque Christum, cùm Mariti diligere uxores jubeantur, ut Christus Ecclesiam.

§. 5. Certè cùm Polycarpus Presbyteris & Diaconis subjici jubeat, ὡς Θεῷ καὶ Χριστῷ, nihil temerè fecisse videbatur, sed quod in Hieronymianæ sententiæ defensionem produci meruit, Ap. p. 15. Cum tamen illa multò aliùs assurgat, quàm quæ hîc (non inter personas, sed tantùm obedientiæ & obsequii modos) facta est comparatio.

§. 6. Quod verò hîc additur, eum, qui clam Episcopo quicquam aggressus est, Διαβόλῳ λατρεύειν, nihil aliud est, quàm aut eum Gnosticorum fermento imbutum, sic quidem à Christi ad Satanæ castra defecisse, aut, eum quidem graviter peccare, quod qui facit, non Christo, sed Diabolo gratum fecisse, officium præstitisse, & sic demum λατρεύειν dicendus est. Infinita sunt id genus dicta, quæ apud Authores occurrunt.

CAP. XV.

Quinta. De Laurentiano codice quid sentiendum. Locus in Epistolâ ad Ephesios restitutus.

§. 1. INterrogat porrò D. Blondellus. An verè de Ephesiis scriptum, Παῦλος ἐν πάσῃ ἐπιστολῇ μνημονεύει ὑμῶν; Certè nec ego putarim sic scriptum esse, (ideóque an verè scriptum non inquiro) nec enim, ut illud semel dicam, Laurentianum exemplar adeò præ aliis omnibus emendatum putamus, ut cætera hujus comparatione prorsùs vilescant.

§. 2. Certè ad supposititia quædam, & heterogenea disgreganda, ad adulterina rejicienda, utilem nobis operam præstitisse magnos viros, qui illud, & vetus Latinum ediderunt, agnoscimus, & gratulamur, nec in hâc Episcopalis ordinis defensione, quicquam proferre statuimus, quod non hujus defæcatissimi & interpolationibus maximè exonerati exemplaris authoritate fulciatur; Non tamen statim contemnendæ sunt editiones reliquæ, sed ab iis auxilium lubenter, & alacriter poscendum, cùm insanabile malum eo quandoque indigeat, quod quidem hîc fieri nullus dubito.

§. 3. Legendum igitur locum integrum sic putârim. Οἶδα τίς εἰμὶ, καὶ τίνι γράφω, ἐγὼ κατάκριτος, ὑμεῖς ἐλεημένοι, ἐγὼ ἀπὸ κινδύνων, ὑμεῖς ἐστερεγμένοι, πρὸς ἃ δὲ ἐγὼ σπεύδω διὰ Θεὸν ἀναμιμνῄσκειν ὑμᾶς (non ut Laurentianus, πρὸς ὃ ἐστὶ σπεύδω διὰ Θεὸν ἀναμιμνῄσκων) ὑμεῖς ἡ Παῦλος συμμύστης, τῇ ἀγιασμῷ, τῇ μιμητρημένῃ, ἀξιομακαρίστῳ, ἃ ἡμοιτό μοι ἐστὶ τὰ ἴχνη ἀρεσθῆναι, ὅτ' ἂν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ ἐπιτύχω, ὃς πάντοτε ἐν ὑμῖν ἀεὶ μνημονεύει ὑμῶν, vel fortassis ὑμῶν (non ut Laurentianus, ὅτ' ἂν Θεοῦ ἐπιτύχω, ὃς ἐν πάσῃ ἐπιστολῇ μνημονεύει ὑμῶν ἐν Χριστῷ Ἰησοῦ) sic ut ad Christi pro fidelibus suis omnibus, & particulariter seu pro Ignatio Sanctissimo Athletâ, seu pro Ephesiis ipsis, intercessionem pertineat; Quâ in re, nihil, spero, ξένον, nihil alienum reperietur.

CAP. XVI.

Sexta. Gnosticorum corruptiones, δυσωδίαι, quibus εὐωδία opposita. Ἀλλόκοτον μύρον. Ἐπιφυσημός. Corpus Christi Ecclesia. Mors Christi ut purgaret nos, Tit. 2. 14.

§. 1. PErgo ad dictum illud de Christo Domino, quod διὰ τοῦτο μύρον ἔλαβεν ἐπὶ τῆς κεφαλῆς αὐτοῦ, ἵνα πνέῃ τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ τὴν ἀφθαρσίαν. Agnosco dictum in Ep. ad Ephes. nec quid in eo, aut falsò, aut minus commodè dictum lateat, adeò sum Linceus, ut perspiciam.

§. 2. Ephesiis suis contra Gnosticorum pestem fusiùs caveri voluit pientissimus Martyr, ut qui fidem Dei, quam Christus morte suâ consignasset, ἐν πίστει δολερᾷ, multis sanè perniciosis doctrinis corruperant, quibus igitur inextinguibilem ignem, similiter ac iis omnibus, qui eos audiunt, intermi-natur.

§. Hæc

§. 3. Hæc Gnosticorum corruptio quænam fuerit, non est quod hîc multis indicetur, fœda proculdubio libidinum colluvies, quam eleganter δυσωδίαν τῆς διδασκαλίας τῦ ἄρχοντος τῦ αἰῶνος τύτυ, tetrum doctrinæ hujus sæculi principis odorem nuncupat. Cui opponit optimè τὸν ἀφθαρσίαν, incorruptionem, quam ut Ecclesiæ suæ inspiraret, unguentum, inquit, in capite Dominus Christus accepit, unguenti scilicet urceum istum, aut alabastrum Mar. 14. à muliere μὴ τῆς κεφαλῆς, supra caput ejus effusi, quo quidem se deunctum ὃπ' ἐνταφιασμὸν, ad funerationem, ad pollinctiuram, ipse Christus edixit.

§. 4. Qui sit istius ἐνταφιασμῦ usus, satis omnibus notum est, nempe ut mortuorum corpora (quorum in numero crucifixi Christi corpus mysticum, Ecclesia figuratè hîc ponitur) à putrefactione, & fœtore (hîc φθορὰ, & δυσωδία dictis) vindicentur. De hâc itidem inunctione affirmat Johannes, c. 12. domum universam (eam etiam universæ Ecclesiæ imaginem) τῆς ὀσμῆς τῦ μύρυ, odore unguenti sic profusi, impletam esse.

§. 5. Quidni igitur unguentum illud in se recepisse Christus dicatur, quo (inquit) mors ejus notaretur? Quidni mortem ipsam subiisse εἰς τῦτο, ad hoc ipsum, ut hanc Ecclesiæ ἀφθαρσίαν, & εὐωδίαν, ut demortui capitis corpori, jam indies à putidissimis Gnosticorum doctrinis, φθορᾶς, & δυσωδίας periclitanti, inspiraret? Eodem planè modo, quo Tit. 2. 14. de Christo dicitur, dedisse se eum pro nobis, ἵνα λυτρώσηται ἡμᾶς ἀπὸ πάσης ἀνομίας καὶ καθαρίσῃ ἑαυτῷ λαὸν περιούσιον, &c. Omnia certè eleganter enuntiata, & in quibus nec veritatem, nec acumen, nec venustatem, imò nec modum desideres. Quæ tamen quâ infelicitate tibi, Vir doctissime, sic displicuerint, ego, qui palato tuo non utor, non possum ariolari.

CAP. XVII.

Septima. Diaboli quorundam nescientia. Ignatius falli potuit. Hieronymi testimonium de Ignatio. Basilii item & Origenis, Andreæ Cretensis, &c. de Mariæ virginitate Diabolum latente.

§. 1. PAti ratione falsi postulatur (sic enim D. Blondelli phrasis ista [an verè ad Ephesios scriptum] ἀπὸ κοινῦ repetenda est) de Diabolo dictum istud, Ἔλαθεν δὲ ἄρχοντα τῦ αἰῶνος τύτυ ἡ παρθενία Μαρίας, καὶ ὁ τόκος αὐτῆς ὁμοίως καὶ ὁ θάνατος τῦ Κυρίυ. Quid verbis illis falsi insit, nobis divinandum reliquit D. Blondellus, obelo tantùm suo ea transfixisse contentus;

§. 2. Verùm respondeo, primò, Si hæc de Diaboli nescientiâ ab Ignatio pronuntiata, ex omni parte vera non essent, si quæ Ignatio μυστήρια, & ἐν ἡσυχίᾳ Θεῦ πεπραγθέντα (& fortassis ipsi Paulo Eph. 3. 9. & 1 Tim. 3. 16. pro Mysteriis habita) adeóque principem hujus sæculi latentia videbantur, non sic obscurè & latenter gesta fuerint, eo tamen argumento nequaquam concludi, Epistolas illas Ignatium non scripsisse. Quid enim si hâc ex parte Scriptori antiquissimo, pientissimo ἱερομάρτυρι, sed non θεοπνεύστῳ, aut extra erroris aleam posito, aliquid humanitùs contigisse diceretur? An qui mortalem se arguit, pro statuâ statim, aut fictitio homine habebitur? aut qui se fallibilem testatur, statim Epistolas nullas scripsit?

§. 3. At secundò, Non est quod hîc D. Blondellus sibi gratulandum censeat, cùm hoc ipsum scriptoris hujus Tmema, addito ipsius Ignatii nomine, ab antiquis Patribus, imò ab ipso Hieronymo, Principali Blondellianæ causæ advocato, disertè, nec sine approbatione recitetur? Martyr Ignatius etiam quartam causam addidit, cur à desponsatâ conceptus sit Christus, ut partus, inquit, ejus celaretur diabolo, dum eum putat non de virgine, sed de uxore generatum. Hieronym. Comm. in Mat. 1.

§. 4. Quæro jam à te, D. Blondelle, Annon Ignatius hoc ipsum scripsisse (ex quo tu concludis scriptorem hunc Pseudo-Ignatium esse) Sancto Hieronymo tuo videbatur? Si sic, quid tuæ causæ sperandum erit, quæ Hieronymo uno suffulta, eo etiam tibicinæ destituenda erit, si has verè Epistolas scripsit Ignatius, quas scripsisse Ignatium Hieronymus ipse fatetur?

§. 5. At nec hîc solus consistit Hieronymus. Videatur Sanctus Basilius, T. 1. p. 587. Affertur, inquit, alia ratio aut' ἀρχαίυ τινὸς, ab antiquo aliquo (licet non apposito nomine) Martyre, nempe ut Mariæ hujus virginitas, sæculi istius Principem Diabolum lateret. Ipsa itidem, quæ nunc criminatur D. Blondellus, Ignatii verba.

§. 6. Sic ante illos Origenes, Hom. 6. in Levit. Eleganter in cujusdam Martyris Epistolâ scriptum reperi (Ignatium dico, Episcopum Antiochiæ post Petrum secundum, qui in persecutione Romæ pugnavit ad bestias) Principem sæculi hujus latuit virginitas Mariæ, &c.

§. 7. Hæc eadem doctrina (à te falsi postulata) Ambrosio etiam in Luc. 1. Theophylacto, aliisque (licet Authoris nomine celato) satis placuit; Locum autem integrum, ab Andreâ Hierosolymitano Cretensium Archiepiscopo, ex Archivis Savilianis Reverendissimus Archiepiscopus Armachanus produxit. Ὡς φησί τις ἅγιος ἀνὴρ, Ἰγνάτιος ὄνομα αὐτῷ, Καὶ ἔλαθε δὲ ἄρχοντα τῦ αἰῶνος τύτυ ἡ παρθενία Μαρίας, καὶ ὁ τόκος αὐτῆς, ὁμοίως καὶ ὁ θάνατος τῦ Χριστῦ, Ut dicit alicubi vir sanctus, Ignatius nomen ejus, Et latebat principem sæculi hujus virginitas Mariæ, & partus ejus, similiter & mors Christi.

§. 8. Sic & Jovius apud Photium. Φησὶν, inquit, ὁ Θεοφόρος Ἰγνάτιος περὶ λαθεῖν τὸν ἄρχοντα τῦ αἰῶνος τύτυ, τὴν παρθενίαν Μαρίας, τὸν σύλληψιν τῦ Κυρίυ, καὶ τὸν σταῦρωσιν, Affirmat Theophorus Ignatius tria principem hujus sæculi latuisse, virginitatem Mariæ, conceptionem Domini, & crucifixionem. Quæ omnia hoc temperamento emollita, ut non de Satanâ in universum, quòd Christus fuerit Dei filius, ignorante, sed per tempus aliquod hæc tria non perspiciente (1. Mariam, post partum scilicet Virginem fuisse, 2. Christum modo supernaturali, incito Josepho, conceptum, & 3. à Deo decretum esse, ut morte suâ Christus mortem ipsam, ipsúmque Satanam superaret) locutus sit Ignatius, nihil aut asperum, aut Christianis auribus minus gratum, aut quod à vero quovismodo abhorreat, continere putanda sunt, quæ tamen D. Blondello nullatenus ferenda videntur.

CAP.

CAP. XVIII.

Octava. Stella quæ Magos duxit splendor. Chalcidii testimonium. Ὑπερβάλλειν. Astra quò nobis propiora, eò lucidiora. Hoc astrum terræ propinquum. Hyperbola in Scripturis.

§. 1. INter hæc suspectæ veritatis commata, & quæ hanc D. Blondelli invidiam sustinere digna visa sunt, proximum est de Stellâ, cujus ductum Magi secuti sunt *, dictum illud, Ἔλαμψεν ὑπὲρ πάντας τοὺς ἀστέρας, καὶ τὸ φῶς αὐτοῦ ἀνεκλάλητον ἦν, καὶ ξενισμὸν παρεῖχεν ἡ καινότης αὐτοῦ, πρὸς δὲ λοιπὰ ἄστρα πάντα, ἅμα ἁλίῳ, καὶ σελήνῃ, χόρος ἐγίνετο τῷ ἀστέρι, αὐτὸς δὲ ἦν ὑπερβάλλων τὸ φῶς αὐτοῦ ὑπὲρ πάντα.

* Ep. ad Ephes.

§. 2. Quid in his culpari præcipuè voluerit, aut quid falsi accusare, fateor ego me non satis augurari posse. Splendorem Astri hujus quod spectat, super minores cœli ignes omnes, præfulgentis, dein novitatem ejus prius invisam, ideóque quæ ξενισμῷ, & admiratione exciperetur, dignissimam, non est, uti spero, argumentis opus, ut ea cuivis credibilia existimentur.

§. 3. Fuisse verò Sydus illud eo tempore totius cœlestis chori ἀρχηγὸν, cui quasi præcinenti ὁ ἁρμοσταὶ reliqua astra respondebant: Simúlque lumen suum super omnia [ὑπερβαλλόντως] nihil aliud significat, quàm hanc insolitam (ut * Chalcidius Philosophus pronunciavit) stellam, à Chaldæis observatam, quâ defs census Dei venerabilis ad humanæ servationis, rerúmque mortalium gratiam prænunciabatur, oculos omnium ad se unam pertraxisse; quod verissimum est.

* In Tim. Plat. Edit. Meurs. p. 319.

§. 4 An sydus illud luce suâ Solis ipsius lucem superaverit, ego nemini litem moveo, nec enim illud certum est hîc affirmasse Ignatium, sed fortassis illud tantum, ὑπερβάλλειν τὸ φῶς αὐτοῦ ὑπὲρ πάντα, super omnes, nempe mundi plagas, super inferiora hæc omnia, sic ut aspici à cœlorum observatoribus ubique posset, superjaculatum esse; aut si sic reddendum sit [ὑπερβάλλειν] ut præcellere significet, & [ὑπὲρ πάντα] ut ad astra referatur, Ex eo tamen illud tantummodo concludetur, astra omnia, quæ eo (noctis) spatio lucere solent, hujus fulgori facilè cessisse; Imò nec πάντα ulteriùs extendi rectè poterit, quàm ad λοιπὰ πάντα ἄστρα, quæ præcesserant, astra scilicet reliqua, quæ ut Soli & Lunæ, sic & Astro huic diviniori chorus fiebant.

§. 5. Imò ne nimis providi, & cauti D. Blondello videamur, Quid si ipsius Lunæ sollisque lucem luce hac suâ superasse dicatur? Quid si putemus hoc divinitus astrum, longè infra solis Sphæram positum, (ita ut ædes Bethleemiticas, ubi Christus natus est, distinctè, & quasi digito monstraret) & ἑστὼς ἐπὶ τὸ παιδίον, Mat. 2. 9. Supra locum ubi puerulus erat, consistens, istâ propinquitate ad terram, compensato magnitudinis defectu, lucem (licet non corpus) solarem, fulgore, aut saltem solatio, vicisse?

§. 6. Denique si in Ignatio hyperbolicas locutiones, quales ipsis διοπτεύσεις scriptoribus non incognitas fuisse monstrabit unicus Joannis locus, Joh. 21. 25. agnoscere velimus, non opus est, ut de ὑπερβολῇ τῆς φωτὸς Stellæ hujus sollicitè laboremus. Ut ut sit, Prudentium poetam Christianum Ignatio σύμψηφον habemus, cum de hac Stella cecinerit, Stella quæ Solis rotam vincit decore & lumine, &c.

CAP. XIX.

Nona, Διακονία ἐκ ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ, Modestiam Episcopi notans, non extraordinariam missionem. Τὸ πνεῦμα S. Scripturam significans, non extraordinariam missionem, aut particularem revelationem. Emendatus codex Laurentianus. Σὰρξ ἀνθρωπίνη, Gnosticorum hæreseos tria capita.

§. 1. AT nec verum scripsisse Ignatius D. Blondello videbitur, qui Philadelphensium Episcopum se novisse affirmat, ἐκ ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ, οὐδὲ δι' ἀνθρώπων κεκτῆσθαι τὴν διακονίαν;

§. 2. Respondeo. Philadelphensium Episcopi modestiam, & gravitatem, ab Ignatio illîc laudari, quatenus ea aliorum κενοδοξίᾳ, & multorum διὰ τὰ μάταια λαλοῦντων φλυαρίᾳ opponebatur: Ex eâ se non temerè concluisse, sed quidem liquidò scire putat, hunc non ἀφ' ἑαυτοῦ, ex ipsius scilicet impulsu, aut ambitu, οὐδὲ δι' ἀνθρώπων, nec suffragiis, aut missione merè humanis, κεκτῆσθαι τὴν διακονίαν, τὴν εἰς τὸ κοινὸν ἀνήκουσαν, ad hoc ministerium, aut officium Episcopale promotum esse, cùm fuerit illud adeò cum bono publico conjunctum, ut non κατὰ κενοδοξίαν ex vano gloriæ, aut dignitatis Episcopalis desiderio illi contigisse putandum sit, sed, ut sequitur, ἐν ἀγάπῃ Θεοῦ πατρὸς, &c. in amore Dei Patris factum esse, quicquid ab illo ad hanc dignitatem acquirendam factum sit.

§. 3. Nihil igitur hîc scriptum, quo extraordinariam Episcopo Philadelphensi (& qualis Sancto Paulo, Gal. 1. 1. contigisse fertur, οὐκ ἀπ' ἀνθρώπων, οὐδὲ δι' ἀνθρώπου) vocationem arrogâsse, censeretur Ignatius, sed tantùm, quo modestiam boni viri, Ecclesiæ, seu gregi ejus gratularetur; In quâ nihil falsum, aut vero minus simile deprehendi potest, siquis eâ, quæ hic laudatur, ὀλιγωρίᾳ uti non recuset.

§. 4. In eâdem classe ponitur, ut simul falsi arguatur, illud de seipso dictum, Μαρτὺς δέ μοι ἐν ᾧ δέδεμαι, ὅτι ἀπὸ σαρκὸς ἀνθρωπίνης οὐκ ἔγνων, τὸ δὲ πνεῦμα ἐκήρυσσεν, λέγων τάδε, Χωρὶς τοῦ ἐπισκόπου μηδὲν ποιεῖτε.

§. 5. Hîc, si D. Blondellus Epistolæ ad Philad. scriptorem sibi quicquam magnificum arrogare crediderit, aut ex particulari aliquâ revelatione, aut inspiratione se edoctum affirmare, quòd nihil sine Episcopo faciendum esset, Certè aut nos falli voluit, aut ipse fallebatur. Res sic se habet, Clamavi, inquit, magnâ voce, Episcopo attendendum esse, & Presbyterio, & Diaconis. Εἰδὲ τινες δέ τε, (nam quid sit [οἱ διοπτεύσαντες] in Laurentiano codice, ego me nescire libenter fateor) μὲ, ὡς προειδότα τινῶν, λέγειν ταῦτα, Μαρτὺς μοι ἐν ᾧ δέδεμαι, ὅτι ἀπὸ σαρκὸς ἀνθρωπίνης οὐκ ἔγνων, Τὸ δὲ πνεῦμα ἐκήρυσσεν, λέγων τάδε, Χωρὶς τοῦ ἐπισκόπου μηδὲν ποιεῖτε, τὴν σάρκα ὑμῶν, ὡς ναὸν Θεοῦ τηρεῖτε, τὴν ἕνωσιν ἀγαπᾶτε, τοὺς μερισμοὺς φεύγετε, μιμηταὶ γίνεσθε Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, &c. Si suspicamini me, cùm hæc dixerim, prævidisse quorundam divisionem, Testis mihi in quo vinctus sum, (i. e. Deus,) quòd à carne humanâ non cognovi, i. e. quòd nemo mortalium mihi hoc nunciaverit, ut sic præscire possem, Spiritus verò prædicavit, hæc dicens, Sine Episcopo nihil nihil facite, Carnem vestram, ut templum Domini servate, Unitatem diligite, Divisiones fugite, Imitatores estote Jesu Christi. Hæc nempe omnia, & singula, ab Apostolis, in Epistolis, & sermonibus suis, contra Gnosticorum hæresin, in Ecclesiâ præcipuè Asiaticâ jam longè pervagantem, ubique inculcata esse; 1. ut τοῖς ἡγεμόσιν se morigeros præberent, secus quam Gnostici faciebant, κυεῖσθαι omnigenam ἀρετὴν τινα, &c. 2. ut ab impuritatibus carnis sibi sedulò caverent, cùm Gnostici ipsa libidinum omnium sentina meritò audirent; 3. ut pacem, & charitatem fraternam inprimis colerent, cùm Gnostici unitatem Ecclesiæ discinderent.

§. 6. In his omnibus, nihil aut falsum, aut minus idoneè scriptum fuit, nec quod veniam viri Doctissimi poscat, sed quod imitationem mereatur.

CAP. XX.

Decima, ex errore Blondelli. Cœtuum frequentium commoda. Bellum cœlestium & terrestrium, Fide, & charitate dissolvitur. Undecim. Κατάκριτος, ad mortem à Tyranno condemnatus. Duodecima, De νίκῃ ζυμῇ. Decima tertia ex festinatione D. Blondelli.

§. 1. SEquitur illud ad Ephesios breve effatum, ἐπὶ πλεῖον γὰρ ἐπιτείνων ἔλυσεν λανθάνει ὑμᾶς. At nihil tale apud Ignatium nostrum reperitur: Certè aut festinatio nimia, aut vehementior criminandi cupido D. Blondellum fefellit. Multa eo loco Ignatius de frequentandis cœtibus Ecclesiasticis prædixerat, quorum commoda dein recenset, ὅτι ἐν πυκνῷ δὲ τὰ αὐτὰ ἵστασθε, καθαιρεῖται αἱ δυνάμεις τοῦ Σατανᾶ, καὶ λύεται ὁ ὄλεθρος αὐτοῦ ἐν τῇ ὁμονοίᾳ ὑμῶν καὶ πίστει ὑμῶν ἔστιν ἄμεινον εἰρώνης, ἐν ᾗ πᾶς πόλεμος καταργεῖται ἐπουρανίων καὶ ἐπιγείων.

Ὧν οὐδὲν λανθάνει ὑμᾶς, ἐὰν τελείως εἰς Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ἔχητε τὴν πίστιν, καὶ τὴν ἀγάπην, &c. Cùm frequenter in unum convenitis, destruuntur potentiæ Satanæ, dissolvitur perditio ejus in unanimitate fidei vestræ. Pace nihil melius est, in quâ bellum omne cœlestium & terrestrium evacuatur. (Quid illud sit, statim apparet, οὐδὲν, inquit, πίστιν ἐπαγγελλόμενον ἁμαρτάνει, οὐδὲ ἀγάπην κακημένον, μισεῖ, nemo fidem repromittens peccatum committit, (ex quo bellum illud cœleste Dei contra peccatorem nascitur) nemo charitatem possidens, odio quemvis habet, (ex quo terrestre bellum, mutuæ hominum inimicitiæ oriuntur) Quorum nullum vos latet, si perfectè in Jesum Christum habeatis fidem & charitatem. Nullus hîc de cognitione cœlestium & terrestrium sermo est, quem scriptori huic, conjungendo quæ separanda erat, D. Blondellus imponi voluit. Manifesta, & solis radiis scripta omnia, Ea scilicet quæ de concordiâ, & Unitate prædicta fuerant, apud omnes, qui Christianam fidem & charitatem perfectè colebant, in confesso fuisse.

§. 2. Post falsi crimina, tam cumulatè quidem, sed & improsperè intentata, redit denuò D. Blondellus, & ut priùs comparationes non satis commodas, sic jam oppositionem non satis justam in eâdem ad Ephesios Epistolâ criminatur, cùm de se, & Ephesiis scripsisse dicatur, Ἐγὼ κατάκριτος, ὑμεῖς ἐλεημένοι. Piget has offucias luculentissimo scriptori abstergere; Locus integer à nobis priùs productus, sic se habet, οἶδα τίς εἰμι, καὶ τίσι γράφω, ἐγὼ κατάκριτος, ὑμεῖς ἐλεημένοι, ἐγὼ ὑπὸ κίνδυνον, ὑμεῖς ἐσκεπασμένοι, &c. Novi qui sim, & quibus scribam, Ego condemnatus, vos misericordiam adepti si dubitas, quâ ratione condemnatum dicit, certè non respectu Dei judicantis, sed Tyranni, cujus tribunali jam sistitur pientissimus Athleta, sequitur enim) Ego sub periculo, vos firmati, i. e. per misericordiam boni Dei ad tranquillitatem, & εὐδίαν restituti Ephesii, dum Ignatius ad bestias adjudicaretur. Quid, quæso, injusti, aut indecori in hâc oppositione?

§. 3. Quærit rursus D. Blondellus. An appositè Magnesianos, piósque alios omnes (quos ἀζύμους esse Paulus jubet) μεταβάλλεσθαι εἰς νέαν ζύμην, ὅ ἐστιν Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς, pronuntiet? Respondeo fidenter, appositissimè pronunciari, seu potius moneri eos, ut (cùm Christus novo fermento assimiletur, quatenus id καινὸν, πλαωδείσῃ, καὶ ἐνοξισάσῃ ζύμῃ, malo, antiquato, & putido fermento opponitur; eâque quâ regnum Dei fermento assimiletur, Luc. 13. 21. ratione) Christiani omnes in illud novum fermentum transmutentur, i. e. in gratiâ, & cognitione Jesu Christi, & in puritate omni indies augeantur. Monitis istis nihil magis appositum, aut à Gnosticorum φθοροῖς periclitanti Ecclesiæ opportunum dici potuit.

§. 4. At fidem (inquit D. Blondellus) Christi carnem, Charitatem sanguinem, ad Philadelphenses scribens vocat, nec illud satis oppositè. Certè nihil tale in Epistolâ istâ (ad illud ipsum bis perlectâ) mihi occurrit, nec scio quid ex nostro illo temporis dispendio D. Blondello lucri accesserit. Μία, inquit, σὰρξ τοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν, καὶ ἓν ποτήριον, εἰς ἕνωσιν τοῦ αἵματος αὐτοῦ. Mentio certè est Carnis Christi, & Sanguinis, sed illud non est Fidem Christi carnem, & charitatem sanguinem vocare.

CAP. XXI.

Decima quarta. Πρεσβυτέριον ἐκκλησίας. Apostoli post Christi mortem. Ἀπόστολοι pro scriptis Apostolicis. Σὰρξ Ἰησοῦ, Christus in terris hîc degens. Decima quinta. In Epistolâ ad Polycarpum, Smyrnenses alloquitur Ignatius. Decima sexta. Ad Martyrium paratus.

§. 1. QUod proximè objicitur ex eâdem ad Philad. Epistolâ, statim post eam μίας σαρκὸς & ἑνὸς πνεύματος mentionem occurrit. Nempe de se dictum, σπουδάζων τῷ εὐαγγελίῳ, ὡς σαρκὶ Ἰησοῦ, καὶ Ἀποστόλοις ὡς πρεσβυτερίῳ ἐκκλησίας. Ex quibus sic denuo (more suo, Socratico) argumentationem nectit D. Blondellus,

§. 2. Cùm Trajani XI^mo. Apostoli nulli superfuerint, nec per Apostolos, qui Ignatii nomine abusus erat, aliud intellexisse videatur quàm Apostolorum scripta, annon pluris divinitùs inspiratas Epistolas facere debuit, quàm hominum quorumcunque errori per se obnoxiorum cœtum?

§. 3. At quid est, si hoc non sit, λειτολογεῖν; Fatemur & nos, Apostolos jam singulos è vivis excessisse, Fatemur, Apostolorum nomine Apostolica scripta significari; At quid, quæso, obstat, quò minus ἀρεσβυτέριον ἐκκλησίας, illos ipsos Apostolos, post mortem Christi in vivis existentes, qui tunc Christianum Synedrium, seu Presbyterium Ecclesiæ constituebant (ad quod in re dubiâ tanquam ad oraculum recurrebatur, Act. 15. 2) indigitet? Certè non est istud σοφὸν φάρμακον, sed accommodatissima verborum istorum significatio, ita ut Evangelio (seu Christi sermonibus, & concionibus nobis per scripturam traditis) Apostoli, i. e. Apostolorum scripta post se relicta, Et pari modo, Christi carni (i. e. Christo ipsi hîc in terris degenti) presbyterium Ecclesiæ, i. e. Apostolorum, post Christi excessum, consessus, ὁμοφρονεῖν respondeat;

§. 4. Sic enim sine omni violentiâ sensus ille promptissimè exurgit, Ad scriptum Christi Evangelium, tanquam ad Christum in terris degentem, ad Apostolorum Epistolas, tanquam ad Apostolorum Hierosolymis commorantium consessum, se lubenter confugere. Omnia certè aptissimè quadrant, si secundis jam D. Blondelli cogitationibus locus esset.

§. 5. Interrogat denique D. Blondellus, an ad Polycarpum Episcopum (quasi ad plebeium nescio quem) scribere jure potuit, τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ προσέχετε, ἵνα καὶ ὁ Θεὸς ὑμῖν; Certè 1. æquali illud jure potuit γνήσιος Ignatius, ac supposititius quivis Pseud-Ignatius.

§. 6. Ad 2^do, proculdubio nihil à se alienum facturus est Θεοφόρος Martyr, si in eâ, quæ Episcopo Polycarpo inscripta est, Epistolâ, quædam Ecclesiæ Smyrnensium, cui præficiebatur Polycarpus, accommodata monita comprehendi voluerit; Illud enim, in Epistolâ Christi ad Angelum, i. e. Episcopum Ephesinum, Smyrnensem, &c. conscriptâ, sæpius factum conspicimus. Imo 3^tio, Ad universum fidelium cœtum, non ad plebeium, nescio quem, ista perscripta fuisse, satis monstrat, Imperativum plurale, [προσέχετε] nulli singulari vel Episcopo, vel plebeio accommodandum.

* Θηρία κολακεύσω συντόμως μι καταφαγεῖν, &c. κἂν αὐτὰ δὲ ἄκοντα μὴ θέλῃ, ἐγὼ προσβιάσομαι.

† C. 10. § 4.

§. 7. * Quod jam ex Epistolâ ad Romanos producit D. Blondellus (quam palam est ei maximè adblandiri, cùm in eâ nihil de Episcopis reperiatur) & ex quo (quod desperabundorum sæculi mancipiorum esse potest) potius moræ omnis impatienti animo mortem provocasse, quàm intrepido pectore expectasse videri hunc Pseud-Ignatium, concludit, id à nobis † jamdudum responsum tulit, nec certè itineris satis longi & horridi, jam ad exitum festinantis, adeò me non piget, ut quæ semel appositа sunt, ea denuò coquenda & porrigenda Lectori existimem.

§. 8. Satis erit dixisse, Pientissimum Athletam, πλειόσεις jam proximum, se ad hunc novissimum agonem, quo χριστῷ ἐπιτυχεῖν possit, paratissimum profiteri, verbísque illud satis magnificè exprimentibus, (vel summis D. Blondelli ingratiis) significare voluisse.

CAP. XXII.

Decima septima, Ignatii dicta de Episcoporum necessitate. Ea triplex erat, unitatis conservatio, Disceptationum præventio, Gnosticorum venena.

§. 1. QUæ deinceps recensentur, ad illud unicum referri video. quòd pro Episcopatu singulari adeo anxiè laboraverit hic scriptor, quasi de Christianismo actum sit, si Episcopi Presbyteris majores Christianis plebibus desint, aut ab iisdem minus colantur. Ad hoc probandum, satis amplam suppellectilem sibi paratam non ambigit D. Blondellus, & post quædam hujus censûs paucis perstricta, more suo interrogare pergit, Cui hæc omnia bono? Annon ab antiquo odium nimia diligentia meruisse visa est, eóque potissimum nomine suspicionem facere, quod citra necessitatem adhibeatur?

§. 2. At non illud statim citra necessitatem factum est, quod D. Blondello (cui Episcopi ipsi in Ecclesiâ minus necessarii) supervacaneum videtur. Quæcunque de Episcopis Ignatius scripsit, ea mox suus erit visendi locus, jam solum de necessitate, ex quâ ea scripserit.

§. 3. Ea triplex erat, 1. ut magnum exemplum unitatis, & concordiæ Christianæ (cujus origo ab obedientiâ Pastoribus, adeóque singularibus Episcopis, si illis procurandi gregis officium incumbat, debitè præstandâ, sumenda est) non ipsis tantùm, ad quas scribebat, Ecclesiis, sed & futuris sæculis, & seræ posteritati daret, nec vel tantillam spreti ordinis Ecclesiastici excusationem, aut novandi studiis locum relinqueret.

§. 4. Secunda, ut nulla disceptandi causa restaret, nulla pacem publicam sollicitandi ansa, ex eo quòd in scriptis Apostolorum non constaret, quâ demum regiminis formâ, universa omnis ævi Ecclesia uti deberet. Et certè si post adeò luculenta hujus rei testimonia, adhuc dubitandi locus fuerit, an ab Episcopo singulari, an potius à Presbyteris, ἰσοβάθμοις, & ἰσοτίμοις, Ecclesia ex Apostolorum mente regenda sit, si post clarissimam rei gestæ historiam, hanc ipsam litem, ex arbitrio oculatissimi testis componi, viri doctissimi Cl. Salmasius & D. Blondellus non permiserint, Ignatium potius hæc non scripsisse statuentes, quàm suas sibi φαντάσεις, & dogmata eripi passuri, non est quod Sanctissimum Athletam, aut citra necessitatem hac in re, aut anxiè nimis laborâsse queramur.

§. 5. Verùm tertiò. Si non adeò providè nobis è longinquo prospexisse existimetur vir divinus, at ut sæculo demum suo consuleret vir bonus, nemini, uti spero, supervacaneum censebitur. Certè Gnosticorum eo tempore venena per totam Ecclesiam latè pervagata fuerant, nec commodiori adversus ea Pharmaco uti se posse putavit vir optimus, quàm ut ad Apostolorum doctrinas revocata omnia, ad hanc demum normam & amussim exigerentur. Quod quidem se facilè facturum sperabat, si qui ab Apostolis in Ecclesiâ gregi præponebantur, iis à singulis sine omni disceptatione obsequium præstaretur.

§. 6. Nec

§. 6. Nec jam anxius ille de singulari Episcopo labor censendus est, sed paterna, providáque sollicitudo de obedientiâ omnibus, quibus debebatur, præstandâ, Quæ ut ritè præstari posset, monendi etiam & liquidò docendi erant, quibusnam illa debebatur.

CAP. XXIII.

Blondelli responsum ad Patrum pro Ignatio testimonia. Authoritas Patrum in rerum gestarum narratione. Argumenta probabilia ex re ipsâ, quàm nihil valeant contra testimonia. Hujus litis conclusio.

§. 1. TAndem igitur post bina illa, à νεωτερικῆς πάξεως, & Σιγῆς Valentiniana in Ep. ad Magnes. mentione, ducta argumenta, quibus abundè jampridem responsum est; & post tertium illud à Docetarum obscuris vestigiis petitum (quod, inquit, suppositionis argumentum videri posset, sed, cùm ipsius sententiâ infirmum sit, eo se volentem abstinere affirmat) denique post prolixam professionum Sancii Pauli & Ignatii comparationem, ex quâ binos Christi Martyres non unâ semitâ, non iisdem aut vestigiis aut stadiis, Romam iter fecisse concludit, (quod sine dubio non est, aut Paulum, aut Ignatium, Epistolas ipsorum nominibus cognitas non scripsisse) Tandem, inquam, memor quid tam prolixo ipsius molimini objici posset: Nempe his ipsis Epistolis quas confictas putarunt (mortalium omnium primi) Cl. Salmasius, & D. Blondellus, Patres fidem adhibuisse, sic breviter respondendum existimavit; QUID TUM? Quàm multa minimè suspicaces, ac imparatos, & fefellerunt semper, & quotidiè fallunt?

§. 2. Ita quidem viro Doctissimo, &, * si ipsi credatur, φιλαρχαίοις omnibus causam suam approbare cupienti, visum est; Universam scilicet Patrum coronam (nec enim ex indefinito Patrum numero vel unicum excipiendum fuisse, vir in Antiquorum scriptis satis versatus, liquidò compertum habuit) unius immitissimæ censuræ gemino ictu transfodiendam esse; nec enim falli tantùm, aut errare, sed etiam ut imparatos & minus suspicaces (quod certè non mediocris tarditatis & εὐηθείας, ne dicam, fatuitatis, & stuporis argumentum est) his ἀπατεώνων technis, & strophis patere.

* Suppositiitii credere coactus sum, rectè ne, an secus, judicent φιλαρχαῖοι.

§. 3. Nec id quid idem in doctrinis tantummodò, sed in rerum in Ecclesiâ primævâ gestarum narratione; (istius enim censûs est controversia ista, an Epistolas scripserit Ignatius) In his quippe, unicum D. Blondellum, aut alterum fortassis inter omnes mortales Walonem Messalinum rectiùs judicare, quàm Patres universos, & sic flocci faciendos omnes, (sic enim [QUID TUM?] interpretamur Britanni) quamprimum eos verum sensisse D. Blondelli non intersit.

§. 4. Ego quidem si hoc duci exemplo me paterer, Universas D. Blondelli operas, qui, præ aliis omnibus infœlicis ævi scriptoribus, Patrum testimonia, & authoritates congerere, & ad usus suos accommodare satagit, eodem fastidio rejiciendas statuerem. Quantò magis, cùm in iis, sub istâ φιλαρχαιότητος specie, omnia Aëriana ruinæ rudera, naufragii tabulæ undecunque collectæ, simúlque non pauca exuberantis ingenii, & longi otii sarmenta, & putamina, (talis certè ante alia, præchara ista φερτοχειροτονηθέντων φερσαλία) in unum consarcinata, Apologia pro Hieronymo audiant; Cujus quidem dicta nonnulla duriuscula, è constanti patrum reliquorum sententiâ, imò & ex ipsius affirmationibus satis crebris, multò facilius, si D. Blondello allubuisset, emolliri poterant, quàm tota demum antiquitas, ad Hieronymi excusationem advocata, contra ipsorum planè mentem, respondere per cruces, & tormenta, edocebatur.

§. 5. Quàm verò hæc nullo conamine, promptè, & commodè ad ipsam Presbyterorum ex Ecclesiâ ejectionem extendi possint, quàm ad Scripturæ Canonem his ipsis Ignatii Epistolis exæquandum, lubentissimè optarem rem ipsam pro me locutam non esse. At qui solo impetu ducti, illicitum nihil, nisi quod simul inutile, existimant, qui solo commodo suo rationem ancillari, jamdiu jusserunt, non sunt adeò εὐήθεις aut excordes, ut non illicò, ex præmissis Blondellianis, Patres omnes falli posse concludant, (& se satis ad Logicorum regulas accurarè, imò & ad hominem irrefragabiliter conclusisse statuant) quotiescunque eorum authoritate, aut dogma fidei (ipsam puta Trinitatis doctrinam) aut rem gestam, (Hieronymum quippe ea ad Evagrium scripsisse) aut ipsum demum Scripturæ Canonem fulcire, aut statuminare D. Blondello visum fuerit.

§. 6. Ego quidem illud unum [τὰ ἀρχαῖα κρεῖττον] ex hoc ipso Ignatio didicisse malo, quam Dialecticorum, seu probabilium in re qualibet argumentorum, summus artifex censeri; quorum integram Myriadem, ut id semel dicam, ad unam ἀποδείξιν assurgere non posse, nec (in rei gestæ, quæ dicitur, quæstione) contra unius boni viri testimonium, multò minus contra omnium Patrum consensum quicquam valere, nos Hieratici gnaviter contendimus, & ad hanc unam palæstram Novatores omnes provocamus, in quâ si vicerimus, non erit quod in reliquum causæ nostræ metuamus.

§. 7. Et sic demum hoc δολιχοδρόμιον, stadiúmque prolixum sanè, & non ita gratum aut jucundum, duorum magnorum virorum vestigiis inhærentes, integrum percurrimus, experti quid ab industriis criminationum venatoribus, contra harum Epistolarum authoritatem, exquiri posset, à quorum singulis insultibus ereptum esse Ignatium, Lectoribus non iniquis persuasum speramus.

§. 8. Proximum est, ut ad ea procedamus, quæ septem Epistolarum, à Polycarpo collectarum, & ad Philippenses suos transmissarum, authoritatem stabiliant, & confirment.

CAP. XXIV.

Epistolæ Ignatii in eâdem semper classe cum Epistolis Clementis & Polycarpi. Testimonia de Ignatii Epistolis, 1. Polycarpi, & ex eo Photii. (An Ignatius ad Polycarpum Epistolam scripserit. Eusebii sententia, Hieronymi explicatio) Polycarpiani testimonii partes. 2. Irenæi testimonium. 3. Origenis. 4. Eusebii. 5. Athanasii. 6. Chrysostomi. 7. Theodoreti. 8. Hieronymi. Epistolarum Ignatianarum per manus traditio à Polycarpo ad Eusebium.

§. 1. AD harum Epistolarum authoritatem (tot jam præjudiciis liberatam) ulteriùs firmandam, & stabiliendam, non est cur multa dicamus. Epistolam Clementis ad Corinthios, Polycarpi ad Philippenses, utrisque ulnis amplectuntur Cl. Salmasius, & D. Blondellus, sperantes ex iis aliquid causæ suæ, tam gnaviter desponsatæ, accrescere posse; solus Ignatius ὀιχεται, cujus tamen Epistolæ pari semper cum illis, per universam ab omni ævo Patrum nostrorum memoriam, reverentiâ excipiebantur, nec priùs à mortalium quovis in judicium vocabantur (multò minùs, ut in re certâ, & extra dubium positâ, inter planè ἀδόκιμα & νίβδηλα rejiciebantur) quàm Presbyteri Anglicani Patribus suis contumeliam facere cœpissent, iisque aut suppetias ferre, aut rem gratam facere (quibus illecebris adducti, nescio) hi duo non ignobiles Presbyteranæ causæ hyperaspistæ in seipsos recepissent.

§. 2. Certè qui in Clementis Epistolâ, magnificam illam de Phœnice historiam, & alia nonnulla, ad rem suam à scriptore isto accommodata, observarunt, & cum iis, quæ in Ignatii Epistolis maximè suspecta fuerant, conferenda duxêrunt, non putarunt innocentissimo Martyri, ex eo unico, quòd verum diceret, tantas inimicitias metuendas fuisse, tantas procellas tam subitò exorituras. At fefellit nos infœlix rerum exitus, eandémque jam cramben Lectoribus obtrudi jussit, quam viri Docti, qui Epistolas eas edendas curârunt, iis jamdudum præfixam apposuêrunt, Testimonia dico Antiquorum, qui sententias suas satis liberaliter ferre non recusarunt, si iis etiam fidem dare non abnuimus.

§. 3. Ea jam breviter reponenda erunt; isque viam monstrabit, Ignatii, & eorum, qui Christum Dominum in carne viderant, σύγχρονοι Polycarpus, Ecclesiæ Smyrnensis Episcopus, idémque Martyr.

§. 4. Ille Epistolam ad Philippenses suam sic claudi voluit, Ἔγραψάτε μοι καὶ ὑμεῖς καὶ Ἰγνάτιος, ἵνα ἐάν τις ἀπέρχηται εἰς Συρίαν, καὶ τὰ παρ' ὑμῶν κομίσηται γράμματα, ὅπερ ποιήσω, ἐὰν λάβω καιρὸν εὔθετον, ἢ αὐτὸς, εἴτε ὃν πέμψω πρεσβεύσοντα καὶ περὶ ὑμῶν. Τὰς ἐπιστολὰς Ἰγνατίου πεμφθείσας ἡμῖν ἀπ' αὐτοῦ, καὶ ἄλλας ὅσας εἴχομεν παρ' ἡμῖν, ἐπέμψαμεν ὑμῖν, καθὼς ἐνετείλασθε, αἵτινες ὑποτεταγήσονται τῇ ἐπιστολῇ ταύτῃ, ἐξ ὧν μεγάλα ὠφεληθήσεσθε δυνήσεσθε. Περιέχουσι γὰρ πίστιν, καὶ ὑπομονὴν, καὶ πᾶσαν τὴν οἰκοδομὴν τὴν εἰς τὸν Κύριον ἡμῶν ἀνήκουσαν. Scripsistis mihi & vos & Ignatius, ut si quis in Syriam proficiscatur, literas etiam à nobis adportet, quod facturus sum, si tempus opportunum nactus fuero, aut ego, aut nuntius quem missurus sum, ut legatione etiam pro vobis fungatur. Epistolas Ignatii ab ipso nobis missas, & alias quotquot habuimus apud nos, misimus vobis, sicuti præcepistis, quæ quidem Epistolæ huic subjiciuntur, ex quibus multum utilitatis accipere poteritis, continent enim fidem & perseverantiam, & ædificationem omnem ad Dominum nostrum pertinentem. Quibus ex fragmento Latino additur, Et de ipso Ignatio & de his, qui cum eo sunt, quod certius agnoveritis, significate. Quorum verborum meminit Photius in Biblioth. de Polycarpi Epistolâ verba faciens. Λέγει, inquit, καὶ τὰς ἐπιστολὰς αὐτοῦ Ἰγνατίου τοῦ Θεοφόρου ἀπεσταλκέναι, καὶ αἰτεῖται ἀναδιδαχθῆναι παρ' αὐτοῦ, εἴπερ περὶ ἐκείνου διακούσειεν. Dicit etiam se misisse illis Epistolas Ignatii Theophori, & ab iis doceri petit, siquid de illo (Ignatio nempe ex urbe in insulam deportato) audiant. Ex quibus fragmenti, & Photii verbis patet, quo tempore illa Polycarpi Epistola scripta fuerit, ipso scilicet, quo Ignatius ad πλείονων suam festinabat, tempore.

§. 5. Multa hîc à doctis viris disseruntur de verborum istorum particulâ unicâ; Num legendum sit [Τὰς ἐπιστολὰς πεμφθείσας ἡμῖν, vel ὑμῖν] Ego utut Liti isti me immiscendi nulla necessitas incumbat, fateor tamen me non videre, quomodo, si * Eusebii authoritate moveamur, de vulgari lectione [ἡμῖν] dubitari possit. Non solùm enim Eusebii Græcus codex sic legit, quo modo hîc ex Polycarpo descripsimus [Τὰς ἐπιστολὰς Ἰγνατίου πεμφθείσας ἡμῖν ἀπ' αὐτοῦ, &c.] sed & apud eundem Eusebium hæc itidem in eandem sententiam legimus, Διὰ γραφῆς ὁμιλεῖ Ἰγνατίῳ τῇ Σμυρναίων ἐκκλησίᾳ, ἰδίως τε τῷ τούτῳ φερωνυμίδῃ Πολυκάρπῳ. Ex quibus satis patet ex Eusebii sententiâ, Ignatium non solùm ad Smyrnensium Ecclesiam, cujus Episcopus erat Polycarpus, sed & ad ipsum ἰδίως Polycarpum Epistolam scripsisse. Quod cùm ipse Polycarpus aliis satis dilucidis, præter ea de quibus lis est, verbis, affirmasset [Ἐγράψατέ μοι καὶ ὑμεῖς καὶ Ἰγνάτιος,] & cùm ea ipsa in fine Capitis λς'. recitasset Eusebius, simúlque verba Sylloges Polycarpianæ Philippensibus missæ mentionem continentia addidisset, nullus mihi dubitandi locus supereſt, quin Eusebius Ignatium crediderit ad Polycarpum scripsisse, & hoc ex ipsis Polycarpi verbis desumpserit.

* Eccl. Hist. l. 3. c. 15'.

§. 6. Verba Hieronymi [Inde egrediens scripsit ad Philadelphenses, & ad Smyrnenses, & propriè ad Polycarpum, commendans illi Antiochensem Ecclesiam, in quâ & de Evangelio posuit testimonium] sine dubio nihil contrafaciunt, nec ab Eusebio dissident, præsertim si, cum Isaaco Casaubono, ea, quæ de illâ ad Polycarpum Epistolâ dicuntur, parenthesi inclusa legantur, ad hunc modum, ad Smyrnenses (& propriè ad Polycarpum, commendans illi Antiochensem Ecclesiam) in quâ, &c. Sic ut illud de Evangelio testimonium, ex eâ ad Smyrnenses, ubi solùm habetur, pretendum sit.

§. 7. At sopitâ istâ, quæ ad eam solam ad Polycarpum scriptam Epistolam pertinet, controversiâ, reliqua luce ipsâ clariora sunt, 1. Polycarpum, Epistolas Ignatii aliquammultas penes se habuisse, quas sibi communicandas rogaverant Philippenses, quálque Epistolæ suæ ad Philippenses missæ subjungendas curavit Polycarpus.

§. 8. 2^do. Hoc ipsum, vivo adhuc & valente, sed ad ultimum jam ἀθλήσεως actum festinante Ignatio, factum esse, nec igitur post Ignatii ex vivis excessum ei affictas Epistolas eas, quæ à Polycarpo mittuntur.

§. 9. 3^tio. Ab his Epistolis legationis Ecclesiarum ad Antiochenos mittendæ mentionem factam esse, juxta illud, quod in eâ ad Polycarpum, & ad Smyrnenses, & in aliis fere singulis hodie legimus.

§. 10. 4^to. In Epistolis illis, multa quæ ad fidem, & perseverantiam, i. e. ad ὀρθοδοξίαν, seu veram Christi doctrinam, doctrinam, contra fraudes & terrores Gnosticorum tuendam, simulque omnem in Christo ædificationem plurimum profutura erant, comprehensa esse. Quæ cùm Epistolis his, quibus jam sub Polycarpianæ Sylloges nomine utimur, optimè competant, non dubitamus, hoc Polycarpi testimonium appositissimè à nobis ad rem nostram adductum esse, Cui unico si fides adhibeatur, rem omnem confectam putabimus.

§. 11. Istis proximè in loco, licèt ex abundanti, Irenæus addi potest, quem (cùm Polycarpum semen * ipse puer vidisset) ab eo traditas Epistolas accepisse nemini mirum videbitur; Ille verò Ignatii dictis ex Epistolâ ad Romanos petitis sic præfatur, Ὡς εἴπί τις ἡμῶν ἀθέων μαρτυείαν κατακριθεὶς ὑπὸ θηρία, ὅτι οὐμὶ σίτος Θεοῦ, καὶ δι' ὀδόντων θηρίων ἀλήθομαι, ἵνα καθαρὸς ἄρτος Θεοῦ εὑρεθῶ. Ut quidam nostrorum dixit, qui propter testimonium Dei, Bestiis adjudicabatur, Frumentum, inquit, sum Dei, & per dentes ferarum molor, ut purus Dei panis inveniar. Ea ipsa quæ jam in codicibus nostris habemus verba, quæ igitur ex Epistolâ Sanctissimi Martyris, à Polycarpo Philippensibus traditâ legisse Irenæum, & ab Irenæi sæculo ad nos incolumiter devenisse, nulla supereſt dubitandi causa. Vid. Iren. Ep. ad Florin. apud Euseb. Eccl. Hist. l. 5. c. 20.

§. 12. Post Irenæum statim Origenes sequitur, & ille sine dubio eadem agnovit; Videatur Hom. 6. in Lucam. Eleganter, inquit, in cujusdam Martyris Epistolâ scriptum reperi (Ignatium dico Episcopum Antiochenum post Petrum secundum, qui in persecutione Romæ pugnavit ad bestias) Principem sæculi hujus latuit virginitas Mariæ, &c. Verba ex Epistolâ ad Ephesios deprompta, quæ in codicibus nostris reperiuntur; & quæ, contra hoc luculentum Antiquissimi Scriptoris testimonium, à D. Blondello suspecta, à nobis * priùs producta & refutata sunt. * C. 17.

§. 13. Post Origenem succedit Eusebius, at prolixior ille, quàm ut hîc integrum apponi necessum sit. Pauca ex cumulo decerpi possunt. Ὁ διαβόητος Ἰγνάτιος ἐν Σμύρνῃ γνωρίμως, μίαν μὲν ἐπιστολὴν τῇ κατ' αὐτὸν Ἐφεσίων Ἐκκλησίᾳ γράφει, ποιμένα δὲ αὐτῆς μνημονεύων Ὀνήσιμον, Celebris ille Ignatius ad Smyrnam veniens, Epistolam Ephesiorum Ecclesiæ scribit, de Pastore ipsorum Onesimo mentionem faciens. (Quod quidem non semel tantùm fieri in Epistolâ, quâ nunc utimur, videmus) Ἑτέραν δὲ τῇ ἐν Μαγνησίᾳ τῇ πρὸς Μαιάνδρῳ, ἔνθα πάλιν ὁποσκόπου Δάμα μνήμην πεποίηται, καὶ τῇ ἐν Τράλλεσι δ' ἄλλην, ἧς ἄρχοντα τότε ὄντα Πολύβιον ἱστορεῖ, πρὸς παύτοις καὶ τῇ Ῥωμαίων ἐκκλησίᾳ γράφει, ἣν καὶ παρακαλεῖν πρείνει, ὡς μὴ παραπεσούμενον τὸν μαρτυρίου, ἃ προεθυμήθη αὐτὸν ὑποστρέψασθαι ἐλπίδος, Aliam verò Ecclesiæ in Magnesia, ubi rursus Episcopi Damæ mentionem fecit, Trallensi item aliam, cujus gubernatorem tum Polybium fuisse refert, Insuper & Romanorum Ecclesiæ scribit, quam adhortatur, ut martyrium ipsius deprecari, aut exoptatissimâ eum coronâ fraudare nolit. Eccl. hist. l. 3. cap. 36.

§. 14. Hîc quatuor, quas habemus, Epistolæ, ad Ephesios, ad Magnesianos, ad Trallenses, ad Romanos, totidem singulæ Charactéribus, tribus etiam Episcopis quibus tunc regebantur, dignoscendæ memorantur, quas ad nos perveniſſe ex his omnibus indiciis manifestum est.

§. 15. Reliquas-verò tres, quæ Polycarpianæ Sylloges septenarium numerum implent, sic proximo capite ab eodem Eusebio repositas videmus. Ἤδη δ', inquit, ἐπέκεινα τῆς Σμύρνης γνωρίμως, ἀπὸ Τρωάδος πέμπει τε ἐν Φιλαδελφείᾳ αὖθις διὰ γραφῆς ὁμιλεῖν, καὶ τῇ Σμυρναίων ἐκκλησίᾳ, ἰδίως δ' τῷ παύτης προηγουμένῳ Πολυκάρπῳ, ὃν εἶα δ' Ἀποστολικὸν ἄνδρα δὲ μάλα γνωρίζων τῷ κατ' Ἀντόχειαν αὐτῷ ποιμνίῳ ἐφεδρεύειν, Deinde verò postquam Smyrnâ discessisset, à Troade per literas, Philadelphenses alloquitur, simúlque Smyrnensium Ecclesiam, particulariter autem Polycarpum Ecclesiæ Smyrnensium Episcopum aut Præfectum, cui, cùm virum Apostolicum eum esse probè nosset, gregem suum Antiochensem committit. Quæ omnia quomodo his nostris, quas jam habemus, Epistolis aptissimè conveniant, satis jam antè dictum est.

§. 16. Post Eusebium * Athanasius Magnus suum etiam Ignatio nostro clypeum obtendit. Ἰγνάτιος, inquit, ὁ μὴ τὰς Ἀποστόλους καταξιωθεὶς ὁπίσκοπος, &c. γράφων φησὶ Κυρίου, ἰατρὸς ἦν σαρκικὸς καὶ πνευματικὸς, γεννητὸς καὶ ἀγέννητος, &c. Ignatius post Apostolos Episcopus constitutus, scribens de Domino (i. e. Christo) sic dixit, Unus est Medicus carnalis & spiritualis, (qui sc. & corporis & animæ morbos sanabat) genitus & ingenitus. Verba itidem ex nostrâ ad Ephesios Epistolâ desumpta (ut & eadem plenius à Theodoreto prolata in Ἀρείῳ) quæ nobiscum Athanasium sensisse monstrant, si tanti Patris authoritas apud nos infimos nepotes quicquam ponderis aut momenti habitura sit. * De Synod. Arim. & Seleuc.

§. 17. Non commemorabo * Sancti Chrysostomi testimonium, encomiáque tanto Martyre non indigna, in quibus & illud post Athanasium de Ignatio dictum est, αἱ τοῦ μακαρίου Ἀποστόλου χεῖρες τῆς ἱερᾶς ἐκείνης ἥψαντο κεφαλῆς. Factum nempe eum, seu ordinatum ab Apostolis Episcopum. Quod & à Theodoreto comprobatum est, Διὰ, inquit ille, τῆς μεγάλου Πέτρου δεξιᾶς τῆς ἀρχιερωσύνης τὸν χάριν κατεδέξατο, in Dial. 1. Per dextram Petri Sacerdotii summi gratiam accepit. In Ign. encom.

§. 18. Imò ex hoc unico Theodoreto innumera sunt, quæ ad harum Epistolarum authoritatem confirmandam peti possent, qui ea ipsa verba, quæ jam in codicibus nostris disertim reperiuntur, ex Epistolis Sanctissimi Martyris crebrò recitat; sic ex Epistolâ ad Ephesios præter ea, quæ ex Athanasio reposuimus, hæc alia duo reperies, in Ἀρείῳ. Ὁ γὰρ Θεὸς ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς ἐκυοφορήθη ὑπὸ Μαρίας, κατ' οἰκονομίαν Θεοῦ, ἐκ σπέρματος μὲν Δαβὶδ, ἐκ Πνεύματος δὲ ἁγίου, ὃς ἐγεννήθη καὶ ἐβαπτίσθη, ἵνα τὸ θνητὸν ἡμῶν καθαρισθῇ, Deus noster Jesus Christus utero ferebatur à Mariâ secundum dispensationem Dei, ex semine Davidis, ex Spiritu verò Sancto, qui & natus & baptizatus est, ut mortale nostrum purificaretur. Dein, Οἱ καθ' ἕνα κοινῇ πάντες ἐν τῇ χάριτι δεῖτε ὀνόματος συνέρχεσθε ἐν μιᾷ πίστει, καὶ ἑνὶ Ἰησοῦ Χριστῷ, &c. Singuli communiter omnes in gratia ex nomine convenite in unâ fide, & uno Jesu Christo.

§. 19. Sic ex Epistolâ ad Trallianos, Κωφώθητε ὖν ὅταν χωρὶς Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ ὑμῶν λαλῇ τις, τοῦ ἐκ γένους Δαβὶδ, τοῦ ἐκ Μαρίας ὃς ἀληθῶς ἐγεννήθη, ἔφαγέ τε, καὶ ἔπιεν ἀληθῶς, ἀληθῶς δὲ ἐπὶ Ποντίου Πιλάτου, ἐσταυρώθη, καὶ ἀπέθανε, βλεπόντων τῶν ἐπιγείων καὶ ἐπουρανίων, καὶ καταχθονίων, Obsurdescite, quando sine Jesu Christo quispiam vobis loquitur, qui ex genere David, qui ex Mariâ, qui verè natus est, qui bibit comeditque verè, persecutionem & crucifixionem passus est sub Pontio Pilato, mortuúsque est aspicientibus cælestibus, terrestribus, & subterraneis.

§. 20. Sic ex Epistolâ ad Smyrnæos, * Ἐγὼ γὰρ καὶ μετὰ τὴν ἀνάστασιν ἐν σαρκὶ αὐτὸν οἶδα, καὶ πιστεύω ὄντα, &c. Ego enim & post resurrectionem eum in carne fuisse novi & credo. Ex eâdem etiam Epistolâ, μετὰ τὴν ἀνάστασιν καὶ συνέφαγε, καὶ συνέπιεν αὐτοῖς, ὡς σαρκικὸς, καίπερ πνευματικῶς ἡνωμένος τῷ Πατρὶ (sic legendum puto, & sic suadet vetus Ignatii Latinus interpres, non, ut vulgò habetur apud Theodoretum, ὡς σαρκικῶς καὶ πνευματικῶς) Nam post resurrectionem & comedit & compotavit cùm iis, ut carnalis, licèt spiritualiter unitus Patri. * In Ἀνυπόστατον.

§. 21. Sic

§. 21. Sic ex eâdem, in Ἀγκύρᾳ. Πεπληροφορημένους ἀληθῶς εἰς τὸν Κύριον ἡμῶν ὄντα ἐκ γένους Δαυὶδ κατὰ σάρκα, υἱὸν Θεοῦ κατὰ θέλημα καὶ δύναμιν, γεγεννημένον ἀληθῶς ἐκ παρθένου, βεβαπτισμένον ὑπὸ Ἰωάννου, ἵνα πληρωθῇ πᾶσα δικαιοσύνη ὑπ' αὐτοῦ, ἀληθῶς ἐπὶ Ποντίου Πιλάτου, καὶ Ἡρῴδου τετράρχου καθηλωμένον ὑπὲρ ἡμῶν σαρκί. Credentes verè in Dominum nostrum, qui est ex genere Davidis secundum carnem, filius Dei secundum divinitatem & potentiam, natus ex virgine, baptizatus ex Johanne, ut omnis justitia impleretur ab eo, vere sub Pontio Pilato, & Herode tetrarcha crucifixus pro nobis in carne. Sic & ex eâdem Epistolâ, ibidem, Τί γὰρ ὠφελεῖ, εἴπερ μὲ ἐπαινεῖ τις, τὸν δὲ Κύριόν μου βλασφημεῖ, μὴ ὁμολογῶν αὐτὸν σαρκοφόρον; ὁ δὲ τοῦτο μὴ λέγων, τελείως αὐτὸν ἐπήρνηται (non ὡς νεκροφόρον, sed putarim) ὢν νεκροφόρος. Quid enim mihi proderit, siquis me laudet, Dominum verò meum blasphemet, nec eum carniferum confiteatur? Qui verò hoc non affirmat, perfectè eum abnegavit, existens mortifer, (sic antiquus Latinus Ignatii interpres legit, non, ut Mortiferum) aut ipse mortuum ferens. Sic denique ex eâdem ad Smyrnenses idem Theodoretus in Ἀγκύρᾳ. Εἰ γὰρ τῷ δοκεῖν ταῦτα ἐπέσχεν ὑπὸ τοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν, κἀγὼ τῷ δοκεῖν δέδεμαι, τί οὖν ἐμαυτὸν ἔκδοτον δέδωκα τῷ θανάτῳ εἰς πῦρ, εἰς μάχαιραν, εἰς θηρία; ἀλλ' ὁ ἐγγὺς μαχαίρας, ἐγγὺς Θεοῦ, μόνον ἐν τῷ ὀνόματι Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, εἰς τὸ συμπαθεῖν αὐτῷ, πάντα ὑπομένω, αὐτοῦ με ἐνδυναμοῦντος τελείου ἀνθρώπου, ὅστις ἀγνοοῦντες ἀρνοῦνται. Si enim apparenter tantùm (vel secundum videri) hæc à Domino facta sunt, etiam & ego apparenter tantùm vinctus sum; Quare ergo ego me morti tradidi, ad ignem, ad ensem, ad feras? at qui propè ensem est, propè Deum est, solum in nomine Jesu Christi, ut cum eo compatiar, omnia suffero, ipso me confortante, qui perfectus homo est, quem quidam ignorantes negant. Et de Theodoreti testimoniis adeò copiosè Ignatio nostro suffragium ferentibus, hæc dicta sunto.

*Catal. Eccles. Scrip.

§. 22. Inter Latinos, * Hieronymus in omnibus fere cum Eusebio concordat, Ignatius, inquit, Antiochenæ Ecclesiæ tertius post Petrum Apostolum Episcopus, &c. Romam vinctus mittitur. Cùmque navigans Smyrnam venisset, scripsit unam Epistolam ad Ephesios, alteram ad Magnesianos, 3tiam ad Trallianos, quartam ad Romanos, & inde egrediens scripsit ad Philadelphenos, & ad Smyrneos (& propriè (ἰδίως; inquit Eusebius, particulariter) ad Polycarpum, commendans illi Antiochensem Ecclesiam.) In qua (ad Smyrnenses sc.) & de Evangelio quod nuper à me translatum est, super personâ Christi ponit testimonium. Sic ad Helvidium c. 9. Nunquid non possum tibi totam veterum scriptorum seriem commovere, Ignatium, Polycarpum, Irenæum, Justinum Martyrem, multósque alios Apostolicos & eloquentes viros, qui adversùs Ebionem, & Theodotum Byzantinum, & Valentinum plena sapientiæ volumina conscripserunt, quæ si legisses aliquando, plus saperes.

§. 23. Ubi non necesse est ut Ignatius adversùs Valentinum, aut Theodotum Coriarium Byzantinum (Ignatio posteriores) volumina nova scripsisse dicatur, cùm alii ab Hieronymo nominati Apostolici, & eloquentes viri isti opellæ suffecerint; sed tantùm ut Ignatii in Epistolis contra Ebionem & Gnosticos scripta, Helvidio jam rectè opponi possent (cujus generis in his ipsis Epistolis satis ampla seges nobis relicta est) pari modo, quo quæ Irenæus contra Valentinum, & alius quilibet contra Theodotum scripserant, ad hanc etiam materiam accommodari potuisse Hieronymus putabat. Omnia itidem clarissima, si Hieronymus ipse (cui tantum tribui D. Blondellus voluit, ut ad normam ejus omnia de Episcopatu, Patrum dicta exigenda & interpretanda censeret) nunc etiam, quando contra D. Blondelli sententiam satis liberè pronunciaverit, audiendus sit.

§. 24. His tam antiquis & magnis nominibus, supervacaneum erit universam turbam adjicere, Socratem, Evagrium, alios innumeros. Qui istis quos recensuimus, non movetur, frustra futurus sum, si illi cumulum augendo, fidem etiam me aucturum speravero.

§. 25. Quas ab ipsius Ignatii manu se recepisse affirmat Polycarpus, eas se Philippensibus tradidisse ait. Quæ sic tradebantur (idque non ut in Archivis reponerentur, sed ut cum utilitate publica in Ecclesia legerentur) eædem sine dubio Irenæo patebant, nec est quod tam brevi, inter Irenæum puerum, Polycarpi σύγχρονον, & Irenæum jam Seniorem & Episcopum factum, intervallo, Ignatium genuinum ereptum esse, & supponi κίβδηλον metuamus. Ab Irenæo verò ad Originem levis & facilis transitus fuit, & sic ab Origene ad Eusebium (præsertim cum ille testimonia integra ab ipso Polycarpo & Irenæo desumeret) ut & ab Eusebio ad Athanasium, Hieronymum, & Theodoretum, quibus singulis Ignatium nostrum approbatum esse fusiùs ostendimus.

§. 26. Nec cuivis unquam inter antiquos scriptores authoritas sua constabit, si quæ tantâ veterum omnium (dissentiente nemine) concordiâ, & harmoniâ stabilita & firmata est, & in Ecclesiâ Christi omni honore & reverentiâ accepta, post tot demum sæcula, ex singulari D. Blondelli arbitrio, nullis aut exigentibus, aut suadentibus rationum momentis, statim unico QUID TUM? exauctoranda, aut rejicienda sit.

CAP. XXV.

Testimonia Ignatii de Episcopis, Presbyteris & Diaconis. Ex Epistolâ ad Smyrnenses, ad Polycarpum, ad Ephesios, ad Magnesios, (Ephesii de Smyrnâ) ad Philadelphicos, ad Trallesios.

§. 1. POst has præclaro ἱερομάρτυρος nomini depulsas invidiæ tenebras, & Epistolarum, saltem septem à Polycarpo collectarum, authoritatem, hâc nostrâ qualicunque κατακόρῃ & ἀναισθῇ vindicatam, sic ut Ignatius θεοφόρος, idoneus censeri possit, qui de doctrinâ sui sæculi & Ecclesiæ praxi consulatur, nemini, uti spero, importunum aut inconsultum videbitur, si ipsa tandem Martyris hujus testimonia, quibus causæ nostræ contra Presbyteranam paritatem satis prolixè suffragatus sit, proferenda censeamus.

* Edit. Voss p. 6.

§. 2. Primò igitur in Epistolâ ad * Smyrnenses sic præcipit, Πάντες τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ ἀκολουθεῖτε, ὡς Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς τῷ Πατρὶ, καὶ τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ, ὡς τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις, τοὺς δὲ διακόνους ἐντρέπεσθε, ὡς Θεοῦ ἐντολήν. Μηδεὶς χωρὶς τοῦ ἐπισκόπου τι πρασσέτω τῶν ἀνηκόντων εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, Ἐκείνη βεβαία εὐχαριστία ἡγείσθω ἡ ὑπὸ τὸν ἐπίσκοπον

σκοπον ἦσα, ἢ ᾧ ἂν αὐτὸς ἐπιτρέψῃ, Ὅπου ἂν φανῇ ὁ ἐπίσκοπος, ἐκεῖ τὸ πλῆθος ἔστω, ὥσπερ ὅπου ἂν ὁ Χριστὸς Ἰησοῦς, ἐκεῖ ἡ καθολικὴ ἐκκλησία. Οὐκ ἐξόν ἐστι χωρὶς τοῦ ἐπισκόπου οὔτε βαπτίζειν, οὔτε ἀγάπην ποιεῖν, ἀλλὰ ὃ ἂν ἐκεῖνος δοκιμάσῃ, τοῦτο καὶ τῷ Θεῷ εὐάρεστον, ἵνα ἀσφαλὲς ᾖ, καὶ βέβαιον πᾶν ὃ πράσσεται. —— Καλῶς ἔχει θεὸν καὶ ἐπίσκοπον εἰδέναι, ὁ τιμῶν ἐπίσκοπον ὑπὸ θεοῦ τετίμηται, ὁ λάθρα ἐπισκόπου τι πράσσων, τῷ διαβόλῳ λατρεύει, Omnes Episcopum sequimini, ut Patrem Jesus Christus, Presbyterium verò ut Apostolos. Diaconos revereamini ut mandatum Dei. Nemo sine Episcopo aliquid eorum quæ ad Ecclesiam pertinent, faciat. Ea demum firma Eucharistia existimetur, quæ aut fit ab Episcopo, aut sub eo, cui ille permiserit. Ubi apparet Episcopus, ibi multitudo sit, sicut ubicunque Christus, ibi Ecclesia Catholica est. Sine Episcopo non licet baptizare aut agapen facere, sed quod ille approbaverit, id demum Deo acceptum est, ita ut tutum & firmum sit, quicquid agitur. Rectum est ut Deus & Episcopus cognoscatur. Qui Episcopum honorat à Deo honoratus est. Qui inconsulto Episcopo quicquam facit, Diabolo servit.

§. 3. Secundò. Ἀσπάζομαι, inquit, τὸν ἀξιόθεον ἐπίσκοπον καὶ θεοπρεπέστατον πρεσβυτέριον, καὶ τοὺς συνδούλους μου P. 9.
διακόνους, Saluto Deodignum Episcopum, Deo-decentissimum Presbyterium, & conservos meos Diaconos.

§. 4. Epistola ad Polycarpum primò sic inscribitur, Ἰγνάτιος ὁ καὶ Θεοφόρος Πολυκάρπῳ ἐπισκόπῳ ἐκκλησίας P. 10.
Σμυρναίων, &c. Ignatius, qui & Theophorus, Polycarpo Smyrnensis Ecclesiæ Episcopo.

§. 5. Secundo. Polycarpum sic alloquitur Χηρεύουσι μὴ ἀμελείσθωσαν, μετὰ τὸν Κύριον, σὺ αὐτῶν φρόντισις ἔστω, μηδὲν P. 12.
ἄνευ γνώμης σου γινέσθω, Post Dominum, tu viduarum curator esto. Nihil sine sententiâ tuâ fiat.

§. 6. Tertiò. Εἴτις γυναῖκα πλέον τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, ἔφασαν· φρόνει δὲ τοῖς γαμοῦσι καὶ αἱ γαμούμεναι μετὰ γνώμης τοῦ P. 13.
ἐπισκόπου πάσῃ ἕνωσιν ποιεῖσθαι, Siquis se plus Episcopo scire putet, corruptus est. Decet autem, & ducentes uxores, & quæ ducuntur, ex sententiâ (aut non sine sententiâ) Episcopi unionem facere.

§. 7. Quartò. Τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ προσέχετε, ἵνα καὶ ὁ Θεὸς ὑμῖν, Ἀντίψυχος ἐγὼ δοῦλος ὑποτασσομένων τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ, P. 14.
πρεσβυτέροις, διακόνοις, Episcopo attendite, ut & vobis Deus attendat. Ego animam meam libenter eorum loco substitui cuperem, (quod Anglicè optimè dicimus, My soul for theirs,) qui Episcopo, Presbyteris, Diaconis obsequuntur.

§. 8. Quintò. Episcopos, Presbyteros, Diaconos simul alloquens, Συγκοπιᾶτε, inquit, ἀλλήλοις, &c. ὡς Θεοῦ οἰκονόμοι, καὶ πάρεδροι, καὶ ὑπηρέται, Collaborate adinvicem, ut Dei œconomi, aut dispensatores, (sic Episcopos) ut assessores, (sic Presbyteros) & ministri, (sic Diaconos nuncupat.)

§. 9. In Epistolâ ad Ephesios, primò Onesimi eorum Episcopi mentione factâ, iis gratulatur, quòd Deus P. 17.
ipsis τοιοῦτον ἐπίσκοπον κεκτῆσθαι, talem Episcopum possidere concesserit.

§. 10. Secundo. De Burrho τῷ κατὰ Θεὸν διακόνῳ ὑμῶν, Diacono ipsorum secundum Deum, verba faciens, P. 18.
Εὔχομαι, inquit, ἔμμεῖναι αὐτὸν εἰς τιμὴν ὑμῶν καὶ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, precor ut permaneat ille ad honorem vestrum, & Episcopi.

§. 11. Tertiò. Omnes monet, ἵνα ὑποτασσόμενοι τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ, καὶ τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ κατὰ πάντα ἦτε ἡγιασμένοι, P. 18.
Ut Episcopo, & Presbyterio obsequentes, in omnibus sanctificentur.

§. 12. Quartò. Ἰησοῦς Χριστὸς τοῦ Πατρὸς ἡ γνώμη, ὡς καὶ οἱ ἐπίσκοποι, οἱ κατὰ τὰ πέρατα ὁρισθέντες Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ P. 19.
γνώμῃ (sic legendum monet & prior commatis pars, & vetus Latinus Interpres, non, ἐν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ γνώμῃ) εἰσιν, Jesus Christus Patris ipsius sententia est (ab ipso quippe missus, & diplomate ejus munitus, ut nobis mentem Patris revelaret) ut & Episcopi per terræ fines (universum puta orbem) constituti, Jesu Christi sententia sunt.

§. 13. Quintò. Πρέπει, inquit, ὑμῖν συντρέχειν τῇ ἐπισκόπου γνώμῃ, ὅπερ καὶ ποιεῖτε, τὸ γὰρ ἀξιονόμαστον ὑμῶν P. 20.
πρεσβυτέριον —— οὕτω συνῆρμοσται τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ ὡς χορδαὶ κιθάρᾳ, Decet vos concurrere sententiæ Episcopi, quod & facitis, Presbyterium enim vestrum honorabile, sic Episcopo harmonicè concinnatum est, ut chordæ citharæ.

§. 14. Sextò. Postquam asseruisset ὑστερεῖσθαι τοῦ ἄρτου τοῦ Θεοῦ, privari eum pane Dei, quisquis ἐντὸς θυσιαστηρίου intra altare non fuerit: Quis sit ille, statim interpretatur, nempe qui cum Episcopo & Ecclesiâ preces fundit. Ex quo concludit, σπουδάσωμεν οὖν μὴ ἀντιτάσσεσθαι τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ, ἵνα ὦμεν Θεῷ ὑποτασσόμενοι, curemus igitur diligentiùs, ne Episcopo resistamus, ut Deo subjecti simus.

§. 15. Septimò. Καὶ ὅσῳ βλέπει τις σιγῶντα ἐπίσκοπον, πλείονος αὐτὸν φοβείσθω· πάντα γὰρ ὃν πέμπει ὁ οἰκοδεσπότης εἰς ἰδίαν οἰκονομίαν, οὕτως δεῖ ἡμᾶς αὐτὸν δέχεσθαι, ὡς αὐτὸν τὸν πέμψαντα, τὸ οὖν ἐπίσκοπον δῆλον ὅτι ὡς αὐτὸν τὸν Κύριον δεῖ προσλέπειν, Quantò magis quisquam Episcopum tacentem videt, tanto magis eum revereatur. Omnem enim quem Paterfamilias in domus suæ administrationem mittit, nos ita recipere decet, ut ipsum qui eum misit. Unde patet Episcopum Christi œconomum, clavibus quippe munitum, sicut ipsum Dominum, recipiendum esse.

§. 16. Octavò. Eos iterum monet ὑπακούειν τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ καὶ τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ ἀπερισπάστῳ διανοίᾳ, Episcopo & P. 29.
Presbyterio mente indivisâ obediendum esse.

§. 17. In Epistolâ ad Magnesios, statim ab initio, rem sic aggreditur, Ἐπεὶ οὖν ἠξιώθην ἰδεῖν ὑμᾶς διὰ Δάμα τοῦ ἀξιοθέου ὑμῶν ἐπισκόπου, καὶ πρεσβυτέρων ἀξίων Βάσσου καὶ Ἀπολλωνίου, καὶ τοῦ συνδούλου μου διακόνου Σωτίωνος, οὗ ἐγὼ ἀπολαύω, ὅτι ὑποτάσσεται τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ, ὡς χάριτι Θεοῦ, καὶ τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ, ὡς νόμῳ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, Cum ego dignitatem istam adeptus essem, ut viderem vos per Damam Deo-dignum Episcopum vestrum, & dignos Presbyteros Bassum & Apollonium, & diaconum conservum meum Sotionem, Quo ego fruor (optimè scilicet illi ominatus) quod Episcopo ut gratiæ Dei (dono à Deo Ecclesiæ indulto) obtemperet, & Presbyterio, ut legi Jesu Christi.

§. 18. Secundò, eos statim monendos duxit, Καὶ ὑμῖν δὲ πρέπει μὴ συγχεῖσθαι τῇ ἡλικίᾳ (legunt alii κατακεῖσθαι, alii καταφρονεῖν τῆς ἡλικίας) τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, ἀλλὰ κατὰ δύναμιν Θεοῦ Πατρὸς πᾶσαν ἐντροπὴν αὐτῷ ἀπονέμειν, καθὼς ἔγνων καὶ τοὺς ἁγίους πρεσβυτέρους, οὐ προσειληφότας τὸν φαινομένου νεωτερικὸν τύπον (vel οὐ πρὸς τὸν φαινόμενον ἀφορῶντας νεότητα) ἀλλ' ὡς φρονίμους ἐν Θεῷ συγχωροῦντας αὐτῷ, οὐκ αὐτῷ δὲ ἀλλὰ τῷ πατρὶ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, τῷ πάντων ἐπισκόπῳ. Εἰς τιμὴν οὖν ἐκείνου τοῦ θελήσαντος ὑμᾶς (potius ὑμᾶς) φρόνιμον εἶναι, ἀπονέμειν καθήκειν, ἐπεὶ οὐ κατ' ὄψιν τὸν φανερῶς πλανῆσαι τινα, ἀλλὰ τὸν ἀόρατον ἐξελέγχειν, Sed & vos decet non (aut familiariter nimium uti, aut abuti, aut) contemnere ætatem Episcopi, sed secundum potestatem Dei Patris (authoritatem nempe ei à Deo traditam) omnem reverentiam ei tribuere (sicut & sanctos Presbyteros facere novi) non præoccupato animo respicientes ad juvenilem ordinationem (vel, non respicientes ad juventutem ejus apparentem) sed cedentes ipsi, ut in Deo prudentes decet, nec tam ipsi, quam Deo Patri Jesu Christi omnium Episcopo. Ad honorem igitur illius qui sic voluit (Dei nempe jubentis) decet vos sine omni hypocrisi obedire, quoniam non hunc visibilem Episcopum decipit quisquam, sed invisibilem fallere molitur.

§. 19. Tertiò.

P. 32. §. 19. Tertiò. Πρέπον ἂν ὄζι μὴ μόνον καλεῖδαι χειρισανὲς, ἀλλὰ κ) εἶναι; ὥσπερ κ) τινες ὀπίσκοπον μὲν καλεῖν, χωρὶς δὲ αὐτῦ πάντα πράσσειν, ὁι τοιῦτοι δὲ ὐκ ἐυσυνείδητοι μοι εἶναι φαίνονται, διὰ τὸ μὴ βεβαίως κατ' ἐντολὴν συναθροίζεδαι, Decet igitur non solùm nuncupari, sed & esse Christianos, sicut quidam Episcopum quidem nuncupant (seu verbis agnoscunt) sine eo tamen omnia faciunt. Hi quidem mihi bonâ conscientiâ præditi non videntur, cùm stabiliter secundum præceptum non congregentur, i. e. cùm conventus eorum omnes non sint firmi & rati, cùm non fiant ex arbitrio Episcopi, juxta illud quod à Christo institutum est.

P. 33. §. 20. Quartò, sic monens pergit, ἐν ὁμονοίᾳ Θεῦ σπουδάζετε πάντα πράσσειν, προκαδημένῦ τῦ ὀπισκόπου εἰς τόπον Θεῦ, κ) τῶν πρεσβυτέρων εἰς τόπον συνεδρίυ τῶν Ἀποσόλων, κ) τῶν διακόνων πεπισδμένων διακονίαν Ἰησῦ Χριςῦ, In concordiâ Dei studete omnia facere, Episcopo in locum Dei præsidente, & Presbyteris in locum Senatus Apostolorum, & Diaconis ministrationem Jesu Christi sibi concreditam habentibus.

§. 21. Quintò, post paucula, ἑνώθητε τῷ ὀπισκόπῳ, &c. Uniamini Episcopo, ὥσπερ ἦν ὁ Κύριος ἀνὰ τὸ παρὸν ἄδεν ἐποίησεν ἡνωμένος ὢν, ὅτε δι' ἑαυτῦ, ὅτε δι' Ἀποσόλων, ὕπως μηδὲν ὑμεῖς ἀνὰ τὸ ὀπίσκοπον κ) τῶν πρεσβυτέρων μηδὲν πράσσητε, μηδὲ πειράσητε ἔυλογόν τι φαίνεδαι ἰδίᾳ ὑμῖν, ἀλλ' ἐν τὸ αὐτὸ μία προσδχὴ, &c. Sicut igitur Dominus sine Patre nihil fecit nec per se, nec per Apostolos, cùm illis unitus esset, sic nec vos sine Episcopo & Presbyteris quicquam facite. Nec operam detis, ut aliquid vobis seorsim rationabile videatur, sed in unum convenientibus sit oratio una, &c.

P. 37. §. 22. Sextò, (post mentionem ἀξιοπρεπεσάτυ ὀπισκόπυ ὑμῶν, κ) ἀξιοπλόκυ πνευματικῆ σεφάνῃ τῦ πρεσβυτερίυ ὑμῶν, κ) τῶν κτ' Θεὸν διακόνων, Episcopi vestri dignissimi, & dignè complexa spirituali corona Presbyterii vestri, & Diaconorum qui sunt secundum Deum) iterum præcipit, Ὑποτάγητε τῷ ὀπισκόπῳ, κ) ἀλλήλοις, ὡς Ἰησῦς Χριςὸς τῷ Πατρὶ κτ' σάρκα, κ) οἱ Ἀπόσολοι τῷ Χριςῷ, κ) τῷ Πατρὶ, κ) τῷ Πνεύματι, ἵνα ἕνωσις ᾖ, &c. Subjicimini Episcopo & vobis invicem (i. e. Diaconi Presbyterii, & alii inferiores superioribus omnibus) ut Jesus Christus Patri secundum carnem, & Apostoli Christo, & Patri, & Spiritui, ut sit unio, &c.

P. 38. §. 23. Septimò, Denique, ἀσπάζονται ὑμᾶς Ἐφέσιοι ἀπὸ Σμύρνης ἅμα Πολυκάρπῳ ὀπισκόπῳ Σμυρναίων, Salutant vos Ephesii de Smyrnâ, ii sunt quos Smyrnensium simul ac Ephesiorum Ecclesia cum eo miserant; talis Burrhus p. 9. quem, inquit, Smyrnenses cum eo miserant ἅμα Ἐφεσίοις, Burrhus verò iste Diaconus Ephesiorum, p. 18.) unâ cum Polycarpo Episcopo Smyrnensium.

§. 24. In Epistilâ ad Philadelphenses, hæc primò ipsi inscriptioni inserta sunt, ᾧ ἀσπάζομαι ἐν αἵματι Χριςῦ, μάλιςα ἐὰν ἐν ἑνὶ ὦσιν σὺν τῷ ὀπισκόπῳ, κ) τοῖς σὺν αὐτῷ πρεσβυτέροις, κ) διακόνοις, καδιερωμένοις ἐν γνώμῃ Ἰησῦ Χριςῦ, Se illos salutare in sanguine Jesu Christi, præsertim si in uno sint cum Episcopo & Presbyteris, qui cum eo sunt, & Diaconis per sententiam Jesu Christi designatis.

P. 41. §. 25. Secundò, in Epistolæ initio, Episcopi ipsorum mentione factâ, pergit sic pronuntiare, Ὅσοι Θεῦ εἰσὶν κ) Ἰησῦ Χριςῦ, ὅτοι μετὰ τῦ ὀπισκόπυ εἰσὶν, Quotquot Dei & Christi sunt, ii sunt cum Episcopo.

P. 41. §. 26. Tertiò, Ἓν θυσιαςήριον ὡς εἷς ὀπίσκοπος, ἅμα τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ κ) διακόνοις,——ἵνα ὃ ἐὰν πράσσητε, κτ' Θεὸν πράσσητε, Unum Altarium sicut unus Episcopus, simul cum Presbyterio & Diaconis, ut quicquid facitis, secundum Deum faciatis.

P. 43. §. 27. Quartò, Τῷ ὀπισκόπῳ προσέχετε κ) τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ κ) διακόνοις, Episcopo attendite, & Presbyterio, & Diaconis.

§. 28. Et statim quintò, Τὸ δὲ πνεῦμα ἐκήρυσσεν λέγον (vel λέγων) τάδε, Χωρὶς τῦ ὀπισκόπυ μηδὲν ποιεῖτε, Spiritus verò prædicavit, dicens hæc, Sine Episcopo nihil facite.

§. 29. Sextò, de Hæreticorum & seductorum pœnitentiâ loquens, Πᾶσιν, inquit, μετανοῦσιν ἀφίει ὁ Κύριος, ἐὰν μετανοήσωσιν εἰς ἑνότητα Θεῦ, κ) συνέδριον τῦ ὀπισκόπυ, Omnibus pœnitentibus ignoscit Dominus, si per pœnitentiam revertantur ad unitatem Dei, & senatum Episcopi.

P. 45. §. 30. Septimò, de Legatis Ecclesiarum, ad pacem Antiochenæ Ecclesiæ redditam congratulandam missis, institutâ oratione, Αἱ ἔγγιςα, inquit, ἐκκλησίαι ἔπεμψαν ὀπισκόπυς, αἱ δὲ πρεσβυτέρυς, κ) διακόνυς, Propinquæ Ecclesiæ aliæ Episcopos, aliæ Presbyteros & Diaconos miserunt.

§. 31. In Epistolâ ad Trallesios reperitur primò, Episcopi ipsorum nomen, Πολύβιος ὀπίσκοπος ὑμῶν, Polybius Episcopus vester, * (ὅ, inquit, αὐτὸ τὸ κατάςημα, cujus ipsa compositio, reddit vetus interpres, potius ipse habitus, aut καταςολὴ, 1 Tim. 11. 9. μεγάλη μαδητεία, magna disciplinatio est.) * P. 48.

§. 32. Secundò, inter ea, quibus se Dei imitatores monstrant, illud memorat, Ὅτ' ἂν τῷ ὀπισκόπῳ ὑποτάσσωδε, ὡς Ἰησῦ Χριςῷ, cùm Episcopo subjecti estis, ut Jesu Christo.

P. 48. §. 33. Tertiò, Ἀναγκαῖόν ὄζιν ἀνὰ ὀπισκόπυ μηδὲν πράσσειν ὑμᾶς, ἀλλ' ὑποτάσσεδαι, κ) τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ ὡς τοῖς Ἀποσόλοις Ἰησῦ Χριςῦ, Necessarium est, sine Episcopo nihil vos facere, sed ei subjici, & Presbyterio, ut Apostolis Jesu Christi.

§. 34. Quartò de Diaconis ait, δεῖ δὲ τὺς διακόνυς κτ' πάντα τρόπον πᾶσιν ἀρέσκειν, ὑ γὰρ βρωμάτων κ) ποτῶν εἰσὶ διάκονοι, ἀλλ' ἐκκλησίας Θεῦ ὑπηρέται, Oportet verò Diaconos omnimodo omnibus placere, non enim ciborum aut potuum administratores sunt, sed ministri Ecclesiæ Christi.

§. 35. Quintò, Πάντες ἐντρεφέδωσ τὺς διακόνυς (non, ὡς Ἰησῦ Χριςὸν, sed) ὡς Ἰησῦ Χριςῦ, ὡς κ) τὸν ὀπίσκοπον inferenda sunt ex veteri Latino Interprete, ὡς Ἰησῦν Χριςὸν) ὄντα υἱὸν τῦ Πατρὸς, τὺς δὲ πρεσβυτέρυς, ὡς συνέδριον Θεῦ, κ) ὡς συνέδριον Ἀποσόλων, χωρὶς τύτων ἐκκλησία ὐ καλεῖται, Omnes revereantur Diaconos ut Jesu Christi (ministros,) ut & Episcopum ut Jesum Christum Patris filium (ni, cum aliis, τύπον imaginem, legere malueris) existentem, Presbyteros ut Synedrium Dei, & ut conjunctionem Apostolorum, sine his Ecclesiâ non vocatur.

P. 50. §. 36. Sextò, A seductorum venenis eos sibi cavere monens, Τῦτο, inquit, ἔσαι ὑμῖν μὴ φυσιωμένοις, κ) ὄν ἀχωρίσεις Θεῦ, Ἰησῦ Χριςῦ, κ) τῦ ὀπισκόπυ, κ) τῶν διαταγμάτων τῶν Ἀποσόλων. Ὁ ἐντὸς θυσιαςηρίυ ὢν, καδαρός ἐςιν. Τῦτ' ὄζιν, ὁ χωρὶς ὀπισκόπυ κ) πρεσβυτερίυ κ) διακόνυ πράσσων τι, ὗτος ὐ καδαρός ἐςι τῇ συνειδήσει, Hoc erit, si non inflemini, nec à Deo, à Jesu Christo, & ab Episcopo, & ordinationibus Apostolorum separabiles sitis. Qui intra altarium est, purus est, i. e. qui sine Episcopo & Presbyterio & Diacono quicquam facit, hic purus non est conscientiâ.

P. 53. §. 37. Septimò, cum eos ad perseverandum in concordiâ κ) τῇ μετ' ἀλλήλων προσδχῇ hortatus esset, πρέπει, inquit, ὑμῖν τοῖς καθ' ἕνα, ἐξαιρέτως κ) τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις, ἀναψύχειν τὸ ὀπίσκοπον, εἰς τιμὴν Πατρὸς Ἰησῦ Χριςῦ, κ) τῶν Ἀποσόλων, Decet vos singulos, præcipuè & Presbyteros, refocillare Episcopum ad honorem Patris Jesu Christi, & Apostolorum.

§. 38. Octavò, Denique, Ἔῤῥωδε ἐν Ἰησῦ Χριςῷ, ὑποτασσόμενοι τῷ ὀπισκόπῳ, ὡς τῇ ἐντολῇ, ὁμοίως κ) τῷ πρεσβυτερίῳ, Valete in Jesu Christo, subjecti Episcopo ut Dei mandato, similiter & Presbyterio.

§. 39. In

§. 39. In Epistolâ ad Romanos de Episcopis, aut Presbyteris nihil occurrit (ni id fortassis ad hanc rem pertineat, quod in inscriptione Ecclesia ista definiatur, Ἐκκλησία ἥτις προκάθηται ἐν τόπῳ χωρίου Ῥωμαίων, Ecclesia quæ præsidet in loco regionis Romanorum) nec cuivis certè auctiori testimoniorum cumulo opus est, ut de Apostolicâ praxi, aut primitivo Episcoporum statu sententia feratur.

CAP. XXVI.

Doctrinæ Ignatii de Episcopis, Presbyteris, & Diaconis Capita sex.

§. 1. EX his testimoniis satis patet, hanc Ignatii sententiam fuisse. Primò scilicet, Episcopum singularem, Presbyterium (seu Presbyterorum senatum) & Diaconos, tres distinctos in Ecclesiâ gradus aut Ordines fuisse. Videatur ad Smyrnenses primum, 2^dum^, ad Polycarpum primum, 2^dum^, 3^tium^, 4^tum^, 5^tum^, ad Ephesios primum, 2^dum^, 3^tium^, 5^tum^, 6^tum^, 7^um^, 8^um^, ad Magnesios primum, 2^dum^, 3^tium^, 4^tum^, 5^tum^, 6^tum^, 7^um^, ad Philadelphicos primum, 2^dum^, 3^tium^, 6^tum^, ad Trallesios primum, 3^tium^, 5^tum^, 6^tum^, 7^um^, & 8^um^ testimonium.

§. 2. Secundò, Episcopos hos singulares per omnes mundi plagas, ubicunque Christiana fides viguit, Christo præcipiente, institutos esse; Videatur ad Ephesios quartum testimonium.

§. 3. Tertiò, Episcopis singularibus honorem, & subjectionem, seu obedientiam, ὑποταγὴν, ab omnibus in Ecclesiâ consistentibus, etiam à Presbyteriis debitam esse, pari modo, quo aut Deo Patri à Christo, aut Christo ab Apostolis, aut Apostolis à reliquis præstabatur; Videatur ad Smyrnenses primum, ad Polycarpum quartum, ad Ephesios tertium, 4^um^, 5^um^, 6^um^, 7^um^, 8^um^, ad Magnesios primum, 2^um^, 4^um^, 6^um^, ad Philadelphicos quartum, ad Trallesios secundum, 5^um^, & octavum testimonium.

§. 4. Quartò, Unionem cum Episcopo adeò ab omnibus Ecclesiæ membris servandam fuisse, ut quisquis ab Episcopo divelleretur, ab Ecclesiâ ipsâ abscissus censendus esset; Videatur ad Ephesios sextum, ad Magnesios quartum, 5^um^, 6^um^, ad Philadelphicos, primum, 2^um^, 3^um^, 6^um^, ad Trallesios quintum & sextum testimonium.

§. 5. Quintò, Sine licentiâ Episcopi nihil ufpiam in Ecclesiâ fieri oportuisse; Videatur ad Smyrnenses primum, ad Polycarpum secundum, 3^um^, ad Magnesios tertium, 4^um^, 5^um^, ad Philadelphenses quintum, ad Trallesios tertium & sextum testimonium.

§. 6. Sextò, Post Episcopum, Presbyteris etiam & Diaconis honorem & obedientiam debitam esse; Videatur ad Smyrnenses primum, 2^um^, ad Polycarpum quartum, ad Ephesios tertium, 8^um^, ad Magnesios primum, 4^um^, 5^um^, ad Philadelphicos quartum, ad Trallesios tertium, 5^um^, 6^um^, & octavum testimonium.

CAP. XXVII.

Hieronymi testimonia à Presbyteranis producta. Comparatio Ignatii cum Hieronymo, respectu sæculorum, quibus vixerunt.

§. 1. HIS omnibus testimoniis ex Sancto Ignatio, Apostolico Episcopo, & Martyre sic productis, Postulat instituti nostri ratio, ut ex alterâ parte, Sancti Hieronymi Presbyteri à D. Blondello congesta loca, seu, ut ille ovans loquitur, de primitiva Episcopi & Presbyteri ἰσοτιμίᾳ, seu verius ταυτότητι assertio ejus plenissima, suas jam vices obeant, ut ex hâc quâcunque comparatione, res omnis æstimetur.

§ 2. In commentario in Epistolam ad Titum Anno 387. edito, sic Hieronymus præfatur, "Audiant "Episcopi qui habent constituendi per urbes singulas Presbyteros potestatem, sub quali lege Ecclesiasticæ constitutionis ordo teneatur; nec putent Apostoli verba esse sed Christi, qui ad discipulos "ait, Qui vos spernit, me spernit, Qui autem me spernit, spernit eum qui me misit, Sic & qui vos audit me audit, & qui me audit, audit eum qui me misit; Ex quo manifestum est, eos, qui Apostoli lege contemptâ, Ecclesiasticum gradum non merito voluerint alicui deferre, sed gratiâ, contra Christum facere; qui qualis in Ecclesiâ Presbyter constituendus sit, per Apostolum suum in sequentibus "executus est.

§. 3. Mox secundò addit, "Diligenter Apostoli verba attendamus, dicentis, Ut constituas per civi"tates Presbyteros, sicut ego tibi disposui, Qui qualis Presbyter debeat ordinari in consequentibus dis"serens, hoc ait, Siquis est sine crimine, unius uxoris vir &c. postea intulit, Oportet enim Episcopum "sine crimine esse, tanquam Dei dispensatorem; Idem est ergo Presbyter, qui & Episcopus; & ante"quam Diaboli instinctu, studia in religione fierent, & diceretur in populis, Ego sum Pauli, ego Apollo, "ego autem Cephæ, communi presbyterorum consilio Ecclesiæ gubernabantur. Postquam verò unus"quisque eos quos baptizaverat, suos putavit esse, non Christi, in toto orbe decretum est, ut unus de "Presbyteris electus superponeretur cæteris, ad quem omnis Ecclesiæ cura pertineret, & schisma"tum semina tollerentur. Putet aliquis non scripturarum, sed nostram esse sententiam, Episcopum "& Presbyterum unum esse, & aliud ætatis, aliud esse nomen officii, relegat Apostoli ad Philippen"ses verba, dicentis, Paulus & Timotheus servi Jesu Christi, omnibus sanctis in Christo Jesu, qui "sunt Philippis cum Episcopis & Diaconis, gratia vobis & pax, & reliqua. Philippi una est urbs "Macedoniæ, & certè in unâ civitate plures (ut nuncupantur) Episcopi esse non poterant; Sed quia "eosdem Episcopos illo tempore, quos & Presbyteros appellarent, propterea indifferenter de Epis-

"copis quasi de Presbyteris est locutus. Adhuc hoc alicui videtur ambiguum, nisi altero testimonio "comprobetur. In Actibus Apostolorum scriptum est, quod cum venisset Apostolus Miletum, miserit "Ephesum, & vocaverit presbyteros Ecclesiæ ejusdem, quibus postea inter cætera sit locutus, Atten- "dite vobis & omni gregi, in quo vos Spiritus sanctus posuit Episcopos, pascere Ecclesiam Domini, "quam acquisivit per sanguinem suum. Et hoc diligentiùs observate, quomodo unius civitatis Ephesi "presbyteros vocans, postea eosdem Episcopos dixerit. Si quis vult recipere eam Epistolam, quæ "sub nomine Pauli ad Hebræos scripta est, & ibi inter plures æqualiter Ecclesiæ cura dividitur, siqui- "dem ad plebem scribit, Parete principibus vestris & subjecti estote; ipsi enim sunt qui vigilant pro "animabus vestris, quasi rationem reddentes, ne suspirantes hoc faciant, siquidem hoc inutile vobis est. "Et Petrus, qui ex fidei firmitate nomen accepit, in Epistolâ suâ loquitur dicens, Presbyteros ergo "in vobis obtecro, compresbyter & testis Christi passionum, qui & ejus gloriæ, quæ in futuro reve- "landa est, socius sum: pascite eum qui in vobis est, gregem Domini, non quasi cum necessitate, sed "voluntarie. Hæc propterea, ut ostenderemus, apud veteres eosdem fuisse Presbyteros, quos & "Episcopos, paulatim verò (ut dissensionum plantaria evellerentur) ad unum omnem sollicitudinem "esse delatam. Sicut ergo Presbyteri sciunt se ex Ecclesiæ consuetudine, ei qui sibi præpositus fuerit, "esse subjectos, ita Episcopi noverint se magis consuetudine, quàm Dispositionis Dominicæ veritate "Presbyteris esse majores, & in commune debere Ecclesiam regere, imitantes Moysen, qui cum habe- "ret solus præesse populo Israël, septuaginta elegit, cum quibus populum judicaret. Videamus igi- "tur qualis Presbyter sive Episcopus Ordinandus sit.

§. 4. Tertiò. In Epistolâ ad Oceanum Presbyterum. "In utraque Epistolâ [1 Tim. 3. & Tit. 1.] si- "ve Episcopi, sive Presbyteri (quanquam apud veteres iidem Episcopi atque Presbyteri fuerint) quia "illud nomen dignitatis est, hoc ætatis, jubentur Monogami in Clerum eligi.

§. 5. Quartò. In Epistolâ ad Evagrium sic dicit, "Legimus in Isaiâ, Fatuus fatua loquetur. Audio "quendam in tantam erupisse vecordiam, ut Diaconos Presbyteris, i. e. Episcopis anteferret. Nam "cum Apostolus perspicuè doceat, eosdem esse Presbyteros quos & Episcopos, quis patiatur Mensa- "rum & viduarum minister ut supra eos se tumidus efferret, ad quorum preces Christi corpus sanguis- "que conficitur? Quæris authoritatem? audi testimonium, Paulus & Timotheus servi Christi Jesu om- "nibus sanctis in Christo Jesu, qui sunt Philippis, cum Episcopis & Diaconis. Vis & aliud exem- "plum? In Actibus Apostolorum, ad unius Ecclesiæ sacerdotes ita Paulus loquitur, Attendite vobis, "& cuncto gregi, in quo vos Spiritus sanctus posuit Episcopos, ut regeretis Ecclesiam Domini, quam "acquisivit sanguine suo. Ac ne quis contentiosè in unâ Ecclesiâ plures Episcopos fuisse contendat, au- "di & aliud testimonium, in quo manifestissimè comprobatur eundum esse Episcopum atque Presbyte- "rum, Propter hoc reliqui te Cretæ, ut ea quæ deerant corrigeres, & constitueres, Presbyteros per "Civitates, sicut & ego tibi mandavi. Siquis est sine crimine, unius uxoris vir, filios habens fideles, "non in accusatione luxuriæ, aut non subditos, Oportet enim Episcopum sine crimine esse, quasi Dei "Dispensatorem. Et ad Timotheum, Noli negligere gratiam, quæ in te est, quæ tibi data est, pro- "phetiæ, per impositionem manuum Presbyterii. Sed & Petrus in Prima Epist. Presbyteros, inquit, "in vobis precor compresbyter, & testis passionum Christi, & futuræ gloriæ, quæ revelanda est, par- "ticeps, regere gregem Christi, & inspicere, non ex necessitate, sed voluntariè juxta Deum; quod "quidem græcè significantiùs dicitur, ἐπισκοποῦντες, i. e. Superintendentes, unde & nomen Episcopi "tractum est. Parva tibi videntur tantorum virorum testimonia? Clangat tuba Evangelica, filius to- "nitrui, quem Jesus amavit plurimùm, qui de pectore Salvatoris doctrinarum fluenta potavit. Pres- "byter Electæ Dominæ & filiis ejus, quos ego diligo in veritate; & in aliâ Epistolâ, Presbyter Gaio "charissimo, quem ego diligo in veritate. Quod autem postea unus electus est, qui cæteris præpone- "retur, in schismatis remedium factum est, ne unusquisque ad se trahens Christi Ecclesiam rumperet, "Nam & Alexandriæ à Marco Evangelistâ usque ad Heraclam & Dionysium Episcopos, Presbyteri "semper unum ex se electum, in excelsiori gradu collocatum, Episcopum nominabant; quomodo si "exercitus imperatorem faciat, aut Diaconi eligant de se quem industrium noverint, & Archidiaconum "vocent. Quid enim facit exceptâ ordinatione Episcopus, quod Presbyter non facit? Nec altera Ro- "manæ urbis Ecclesia, altera totius orbis æstimanda est. Et Gallia, & Britannia, & Africa, & Persis, "& Oriens, & India, & omnes barbaræ nationes unum Christum adorant, unam observant regulam "veritatis. Si auctoritas quæratur, Orbis major est urbe, ubicunque fuerit Episcopus, sive Romæ, "sive Eugubii, sive Constantinopoli, sive Rhegii, sive Alexandriæ, sive Tanis, ejusdem meriti, ejusdem "& Sacerdotii, potentia divitiarum, & paupertatis humilitas, vel sublimiorem, vel inferiorem Epis- "copum non facit, cæterum omnes Apostolorum successores sunt, &c.

§. 6. Quintò, Ibidem post lineas quatuordecem. "Presbyter & Episcopus aliud ætatis, aliud dig- "nitatis est nomen; unde & ad Titum & ad Timotheum de ordinatione Episcopi & Diaconi dicitur, "de Presbyteris omnino reticetur; quia in Episcopo & Presbyter continetur. Qui provehitur, à mi- "nori ad majus provehitur. Aut igitur ex Presbytero ordinetur Diaconus, ut Presbyter minor Dia- "cono comprobetur, in quem crescat ex parvo; aut si ex Diacono ordinatur Presbyter, noverit se lu- "cris minorem, Sacerdotio esse majorem. Et ut sciamus traditiones Apostolicas sumptas de veteri "Testamento, Quod Aaron & filii ejus atque Levitæ in templo fuerunt, hoc sibi Episcopi & Presbyte- "ri atque Diaconi vendicent in Ecclesiâ.

§. 7. Ista igitur ex utrâque parte sic proposita suffragia aut testimonia, reliquum est, ut ad æquos nunc arbitros & censores deducantur, & ex iis comparatione rectè institutâ, controversia omnis definiatur.

* Οὐδὲ ἐωρακότα αὐτὸν, ἢ δὲ ἀπολελαυκότα αὐτῆς τῆς συνουσίας. T. 1. p. 503.

† Catal. Script.

§. 8. Et inprimis, si istis suppetiis opus sit, ipsa testium (satis quidem dissitorum) quibus vixere, sæcula (quæ certè cordato cuivis in ferendis de Apostolicâ aut primitivâ praxi testimoniis, utramque paginam implere digna censebuntur) conferri possunt. Et sic Ignatius, licet affirmante † Chrysostomo, Christum post resurrectionem non viderit, ab † Hieronymo tamen (qui [αὐτὸν ἴδεν] in Epistolâ ad Smyrnenses, non ita rectè reddidit, Illum vidi) vidisse affirmatur; & sine dubio eo sæculo vixit, quo Christus cum Apostolis terras visebat, & sub Trajano, Martyrio defunctus, Joannis Apostoli, eodem etiam imperante, denati, coætaneus, aut σύγχρονος dicendus erit: Cum Sanctus, Hieronymus post tres aut quatuor Centurias, non ante Annum Christi 342. natus, ante annum 420. fatente D. Blondello, denatus, longè longè subsidat, nec ex isto ævorum interstitio aut distantiâ (quibuscunque eum perspicillis illis usum putabimus) clariorem rerum gestarum repræsentationem, aut, quæ ἀπολίαν superaret, cognitionem obtinuisse putandus sit.

CAP. XXVIII.

Ex Hieronymi testimoniis superioritas Episcoporum satis comprobata. Inter traditiones Apostolicas ab eo numerata. Quid in hac re Blondellus, Walo, Capellus.

§. 1. SEcundò, de his ipsis Hieronymi testimoniis sic inter se collatis, ut omnis in iis (quam sedulò caveri voluit D. Blondellus) ἀσυγκισία, vel ἐναντιοφάνεια evitetur, Illud necessariò affirmandum erit, Superioritatem Episcoporum super Presbyteros inter Apostolicas traditiones ab Hieronymo numerari. Verba clarissima sunt in quinto vel ultimo testimonio ex Epistolâ ad Evagrium producto, [Ut sciamus traditiones Apostolicas sumptas de veteri Testamento, Quod Aaron & filii ejus atque Levitæ in Templo fuerunt, hoc sibi Episcopi, Presbyteri, & Diaconi vendicent in Ecclesiâ] Scimus omnes Aaronem singularem & summum Pontificem fuisse, filiis ejus non summum, sed inferioris gradus Sacerdotium competiisse; idemque, Hieronymo judice, inter Episcopum & Presbyteros in Ecclesiâ Christianâ, quod sub veteri Testamento inter Aaronem & filios, discrimen positum esse, idque sic ipsis Apostolis tradentibus. Nihil manifestius dici potuit. Ideóque, si ἀσύγκριτα Hieronymi testimonia censenda non sunt, pro certo statuendum est, nihil ad asserendam sub Apostolorum ævo, aut ex Apostolorum instituto, Episcopi & Presbyterorum ἰσοτιμίαν ab Hieronymo in aliis testimoniis dictum esse.

§. 2. Quid ad hoc responderi possit, aut quo σοφῷ φαρμάκῳ artificio deliniri aut deludi tam diserta affirmatio, fateor ego me divinando assequi non posse, sed è contra ex iis, quæ D. Blondellus, quæ Walo, quæ Ludovicus Capellus hâc in re præstiterunt, mihi persuasissimum esse, Nihil uspiam contra tam apertam lucem obtendi posse.

§. 3. D. Blondellum satis novimus, Hieronymi verba & sententiam, suis, quatenus fieri potuit, observationibus elucidanda, & ad Presbyteranorum causam stabiliendam accommodanda diligenter curasse: Quid verò ille, cum ad hanc extremam Epistolæ Hieronymianæ partem divenerit? Consulantur ipsius verba in fine primæ sectionis: Extremam, inquit, Hieronymianæ Epistolæ partem, in quâ de minoris ad majus provectione, Apostolicis traditionibus, Aaronis, filiorum, & Levitarum disparitate agitur, suo, Deo dante, loco elucidabimus. Ego, nequid dissimulem, qui D. Blondellum Apologiam pro Divo Hieronymo scripsisse meminerim, & ne quid in testimoniis ejus ἀσύγκριτον imprudentibus videretur, sibi prospiciendum susceptisse, simúlque mecum statuerim, hoc de Apostolicis traditionibus, & Aaronis, & filiorum (& Exinde Episcopi & Presbyterorum) disparitate testimonium, cum reliquorum Hieronymi locorum interpretatione Blondellianâ componi aut conciliari ægrè potuisse, non alium opportuniorem, magísve proprium, aut suum hanc periodum elucidandi locum existimavi, quàm hunc ipsum, quo se nihil hâc de re dicturum profitetur. At quis demum erit iste suus locus, quo oculos & expectationem nostros satiandos polliceremur? In margine illud nos latere noluit, Infrà, inquit, Sect. 6. At, ne lectorem diutius moremur, Integra Apologia (volumen certè non exiguum) tribus Sectionibus absolvitur, nec (in quantum aut ex propositâ methodo, aut ipsius libri conclusione ariolari possumus) ulla jam nobis spes supereſt, ad quartam, multominus ad sextam sectionem concinnandam D. Blondello animum subesse. Apol. p. 8. P. 1.

§. 4. Quid verò ante eum Walo, cùm in hunc Hieronymi locum & ille impingeret? De his, inquit, plura & meliora expectamus à Salmasio, ut ea explicasse dicitur in suo de Ecclesiastico ordine tractatu. Expectamus etiam & nos novennio jam integro, nec adhuc nobis certò constat, ad quas demum, si non ad Græcas Calendas, ea nobis explicanda sunt.

§. 7. Prudentiùs itaque & consultiùs tandem Lud. Capellus, qui cùm sententiam ex Blondello & Salmasio Hieronymianam describeret, ipsiúsque Hieronymi verba apponeret, hanc tamen unicam periodum omittendam putavit.

CAP. XXIX.

Quindecem alia Hieronymi pro superioritate Episcoporum temporibus Apostolorum Testimonia. Walonis ipsius confessio. Commoda Hieronymi interpretatio. Ecclesiæ constitutio. Dominica dispositio, 1 Cor. 2. 12. Pauli γνώμη. Apostolorum primus regendæ Ecclesiæ modus. Commune Presbyterorum concilium. Salmasii ἀβλεψία. Identitas tantùm nominalis ab Hieronymo adserta. S. Marci ævo Episcopi nomine & re ab Hieronymo agniti. Summa comparationis inter Ignatium & Hieronymum.

§. 1. TErtiò igitur (ut nos (licet Apologiam pro Hieronymo novam non instituimus, tamen) ad eum cum ipso aliisq; post Ignatium nostrum Patribus conciliandum, quàm commitendum paratiores nos præbeamus, nec tanti Patrem inconstantiam vellicare, sed sententiam vindicare & defendere aggrediamur) Alia etiam apud Divum Hieronymum non pauca notanda erunt, quæ cum hoc ejus testimonio composita pulcherrimè consentiant, & ad sententiam ejus genuinam investigandam, & enodandam conducere inprimis putanda sunt.

§. 2. Ad Nepotianum Ep. 2. sic ait. Esto subjectus Pontifici tuo, & quasi animæ parentem suscipe; Quod Aaron & filios ejus, hoc Episcopum & Presbyteros esse noverimus.

§. 3. Secundò. In Ep. 54. hoc inter Catholicos & Montanistas discrimen ponit; Apud nos, Apostolorum locum Episcopi tenent (Episcopi sine dubio Quales ipsius ævo in Ecclesiâ ubiq; fuerunt, quorum & Presbyterorum nulla tunc fuit (vel Cl. Salmasio, & D. Blondello fatentibus) aut ταυτότης, aut ἰσοτιμία.) apud eos Episcopus tertius est.

§ 4. Tertiò. De Script. Eccl. Jacobus ab Apostolis statim post ascensionem Domini (i. e. longo ante Corinthiacum schisma intervallo.) Hierosolymorum Episcopus ordinatus, suscepit Ecclesiam Hierosolymæ. (Quid verò est suscipere Ecclesiam? Idem plane quod regere, ut apud * Psalmistam, suscipere congregationem, Et id ab Hieronymo de Jacobo singulariter dictum) Timotheus à Paulo Ephesiorum Episcopus ordinatus, Titus Cretæ, Polycarpus à Joanne Smyrnæ Episcopus ordinatus. (A singulari Apostolo singularis ubique Episcopus ordinatus.)

* Ps. 75.

§. 5. Quartò. In Tit. 1. Apostolus, inquit, Ecclesiæ Principem formans (Episcopus iterum singularis, Ecclesiæ Princeps) & sic iterum in Psal. 45.

§. 6. Quintò, ad Gal. 2. Jacobus primus ei Ecclesiæ præfuit, quæ prima in Christum credens ex Judæis fuerat congregata, —— Episcopus Hierosolymorum primus fuit.

§. 7. Sextò. In Psal. 45. Nunc quia Apostoli à mundo recesserunt, habes pro his Episcopos filios —— sunt & hi patres tui, quia ab ipsis regeris. Ubi ævi Hieronymiani Episcopi (i. e. singulares) Apostolorum filii & successores statuuntur, & id à tempore recedentium à mundo Apostolorum.)

§. 8. Septimò. In eodem loco. Constituit Christus —— in omnibus finibus mundi Principes Ecclesiæ, scil. Episcopos (Quod ipsissimum est quod modò ex Ignatio ad Ephesios laudavimus, Ἐπίσκοποι οἱ κατὰ τὰ πέρατα ὁρισθέντες Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ γνώμῃ εἰσίν.)

§. 9. Octavò. In Dial. adversus Lucifer. Ecclesiæ salus in summi sacerdotis dignitate pendet, cui si non exors quædam & ab omnibus eminens detur potestas, tot in Ecclesiis efficientur schismata, quot Sacerdotes. Et in eodem Dialogo, Si quæris, quare in Ecclesiâ baptizatus nisi per manus Episcopi non accipiat Spiritum sanctum — disce hanc observationem ex eâ authoritate descendere, quòd Spiritus Sanctus ad Apostolos descendit.

§. 10. Huc & illud pertinet, quod & nono loco apponendum est, ex istis quæ à Blondello recitantur in Comm. ad Titum. In toto orbe decretum est, ut unus de Presbyteris electus superponeretur cæteris, ad quem omnis Ecclesiæ cura pertineret, ut schismatum semina tollerentur. (Quomodo enim fieri potuit, ut toto hoc orbe decerneretur, nullo jam Concilio œcumenico ad illud decernendum congregato, si non ab Apostolis ipsis, fidem toto orbe promulgantibus, & cum fide hanc regendi Ecclesias formam constituentibus, factum sit?) ut & postea cùm addiderit, Paulatim (ut dissensionum semina evellerentur) ad unum omnem solicitudinem delatam. (Certè si hoc posterioribus sæculis ab Ecclesiâ decretum fuerit, sequitur ex vi Octavi testimonii, Aut non vidisse Apostolos, quâ in re Ecclesiæ salus penderet, aut cum satis viderint, saluti tamen Ecclesiæ, etiam cùm apud Corinthios schismata exorirentur, non consuluisse. Quorum neutrum aut Apostolis ab Hieronymo, aut Hieronymo à nobis affigi potest.)

§. 11. Decimò. Adversus Jovin. l. 1. Episcopus & Presbyter & Diaconus, non sunt meritorum nomina sed officiorum, Nec dicitur, Siquis Episcopatum desiderat (unde eum de Apostolorum, non suo ævo locutum fuisse apparet) bonum desiderat gradum, sed, bonum opus desiderat, quod in majori ordine constitui possit, si velit occasionem exercendarum habere virtutum —— Non percussorem, Neque enim pugilem describit Apostolicus sermo, sed Pontificem instituit, &c.

§. 12. Undecimum testimonium ex Ep. 13. ad Paulinum peti potest, Episcopi & Presbyteri habeant in exemplum Apostolos & Apostolicos viros, quorum honorem possidentes, habere nitantur & meritum.

§. 13. Duodecimum ex Ep. 1. ad Heliodorum, De Episcopatu non suscipiendo. Non est facile stare loco Pauli, tenere gradum Petri.

§. 14. Decimum tertium, ex Comm. in Is. l. 5. c. 17. Ubi Jacobum, fratrem Domini, vocat decimum tertium Apostolum. Cum enim ille Jacobum istum Hierosolymæ Episcopum ex Hegesippi verbis, licet non ita probè redditis ([διαδέχεται ἐκκλησίαν μετὰ τῶν Ἀποστόλων] non [cum] ut reddi debet, sed post Apostolos suscepit Ecclesiam) rectè ab Apostolo Jacobo disterminasset, & simul eum Apostolum decimum tertium vocasset, exinde sententia Hieronymi satis manifestè colligi potest, Apostolum dici debuisse, qui Episcopus fuit.

§. 15. Decimum quartum, ex Ep. ad Evagrium, p. 85. Alexandriæ à Marco Evangelistâ usque ad Heraclam & Dionysium Episcopos, Presbyteri semper unum ex se electum in excelsiori super Presbyteros gradu collocatum, Episcopum nominabant, quomodo si exercitus imperatorem faciat. Hoc certè nobis largietur, Episcopos ex sententiâ Hieronymi in excelsiori super Presbyteros gradu collocatos esse, eodem modo, quo super exercitum imperator, idque ab ipsius Marci Evangelistæ tempore in Ecclesiâ Alexandrinâ factum esse, ut & in aliis omnibus mundi finibus testimonio septimo dicebatur.

§. 16. Nec certè incommodum est, quod hîc addatur, ipsius Walonis testimonium, qui ut contra Petavium probaret, postquam Ordinum inductum est discrimen, nominum quoque distinctionem invectam esse, hæc ipsa ex Hieronymo verba producit, & Alexandriæ peculiarem morem fuisse ait, à Marco usque ad Heraclam, ut electum semper unum ex suo grege, qui sibi præesset, in excelsiori gradu locarent Presbyteri, & Episcopum nominarent. Hieronymo igitur tam varia, & inter se diversa hâc de re locuto, quam, quæso, Hieronymo sententiam imputabimus, pro quo Apologiam adeò gnaviter moliri bonos viros decebit?

§. 17. Quartò itaque, his positis, progrediendum est, nec, me quidem arbitro, adeò atrociter, & sine omni temperamento, aut ἐπιεικείᾳ, de Hieronymo statuendum, ut qui conceptis verbis superioritatem Episcoporum ex Apostolorum traditione toties asseruerit, ex nimiâ animi inconstantiâ, id ipsum alibi pernegasse existimandus sit; Quod si fecerit, indignissimus eo ipso censebitur, qui in re tantâ testimonium, multo minus judicium ferat.

§. 18. Consultius certè, &, si mihi mens tota non caligat, æquius putabitur, quòd ad Evagrium de hâc Episcoporum super Presbyteros majoritate dicitur [noscendum esse, eam magis consuetudine Ecclesiæ quàm dispositionis dominicæ veritate consistere.] Illud sic ex aliis istius Patris dictis interpretandum esse, ut consuetudo Ecclesiæ non ad sequioris ævi, ab Apostlico deflectentis, morem, sed ad ipsam Apostolorum praxin, & traditionem, ad Ecclesiæ verè Apostolicæ universalis, plantatæ & rigatæ ab Apostolis, institutionem, &

consuetudinem

consuetudinem extendatur. Eam verò Dominica dispositioni, i. e. institutioni per ipsum Christum personaliter factæ (cujus itidem abjudicatio ferenda non est, si ordinem respexerit, sed tantùm jurisdictionem) ita ab Hieronymo opponi, ut quædam à Paulo dicebantur, quæ, ipso teste, 1 Cor. 7. 12. à Domino dicta non fuerant, Ea nempe quæ Apostolus ex suâ, non ex peculiari Christi revelatione protulisse se asserit, quæ tamen ὁ δὲ ἐκκλησίας πᾶσας διατάσσεται, ipse in Ecclesiis omnibus ordinat, v. 17.

§. 19. Sic & eundem Apostolum γνώμῃ sententiam suam dedisse scimus, v. 25. cùm ἐπιταγὴν Κυρίου, dispositionem, aut ordinationem, ut Hieronymus ait, non haberet. Et id forsan de hâc inæqualitate Episcopi, & Presbyterorum, Hieronymo visum fuit, eam non diserto cuivis ipsius Christi præcepto, sed, post eum cœlo redditum, Apostolorum Christi (qui sine dubio, ut de se Paulus, eam à Christo misericordiam acceperant, ut πιστοὶ fideles in universâ œconomiâ fierent) institutioni imputandam esse; Ad quam sententiam illud etiam in Comm. in Tit. commodissimè pertinere, quod de occasione istius in toto orbe facti decreti, ab Hieronymo dictum est, non abs re erit si fusiùs monstremus.

§. 20. Apostolos, ex instituto Christi, pari omnes potentiâ & authoritate ad Ecclesiam fundandam & moderandam præditos fuisse, D. Blondellus, sat scio, nobiscum confitebitur, nec Hieronymum hâc in re nobis dissentire suspicabitur. Horum singuli, aut Apostoli ipsorum, ad id emissi, cùm in regione quâvis Evangelium prædicarent, populum ad fidem converterent, Ecclesiámque demum plantarent, ejus dein moderandæ habenas penes se plerunque per aliquod spatium manere voluerunt, sic tamen, ut cùm ipsi abessent, fidelium præcipui & seniores, ab Apostolo ad id munus constituti, vel ordinati, reliquis invigilarent, adeóque communi presbyterorum consilio gubernatæ Ecclesiæ istæ ab Hieronymo credi possent.

§. 21. Postquam verò sub hâc in quibusdam Ecclesiis (à quibus Apostoli earum fundatores diutius abessent) seniorum paritate, schismata nascebantur, postquam, ut ait Hieronymus, unusquisque eos, quos baptizaverat, suos putabat esse, non Christi, (quibus verbis eum ad 1 Cor. 1. 14. respexisse palam est, ubi baptizandi mentio est) vel (quod v. 12. dicebatur) postquam in populis dicebatur, Ego sum Pauli, ego Apollo, ego autem Cephæ, postquam, inquam, Evangelio Corinthi per Paulum plantato, rigato dein per Apollo, ut & aliquibus per Cepham conversis, imò ad aliquem fortassis in Ecclesiâ gradum provectis, partium studia in Ecclesiâ pullularent (quod, Apostolo liquidò affirmante, ante primam ad Corinthios exaratam Epistolam, i. e. Anno Christi 55. Corinthi, (quidni & alibi?) factum est) Tunc certè, i. e. ipsis Apostolis viventibus, & videntibus (longo 85. plus minus annorum spatio ante æram Blondellianam, Anno Christi 140.) toto orbe decretum est, ut unus de Presbyteris electus superponeretur cæteris, ad quem (ut singularem planè Episcopum) omnis Ecclesiæ cura pertineret, ut schismatum semina tollerentur.

§. 22. Hîc certè D. Blondelli fidem appello, an meritò veri studiosus lector meminisse * jubeatur [Hieronymum nequaquam scripsisse, Simulac Corinthi dictum fuit, Ego sum Pauli, &c. Sed, postquam id dictum in populis, i. e. postquam alii passim Corinthiorum more in partes discerpti sunt, quod ante annum 140. evenisse, idoneè vix quisquam probaverit.] Primò enim, Ecquis veri studioso Lectori tantum inter [Simulac] & [Postquam] hoc in loco discrimen esse persuaserit, imò inter ea quæ 1 Cor. 1. v. 12. & quæ v. 14. scripta sunt, ut 85. annorum intervallo (tantum enim inter Epistolæ scriptionem An. 55. & Blondellianam æram An. 140. interjacet, ea disterminanda censeantur? * Apol. p 3.

§. 23. Secundò, Ecquis Hieronymi jam verba à D. Blondello ad commodum suum clam mutata non advertit? Non, inquit, scripsit Hieronymus, simulac Corinthi dictum fuit, Ego sum Pauli, sed postquam id dictum in populis, i. e. postquam alii passim, &c. quasi id multo jam seriùs factum esset. At consulantur iterum Hieronymi verba ab ipso D. Blondello laudata, si Lectori veritas curæ sit. Antequam, inquit Hieronymus, studia in religione fierent, & diceretur in populis, Ego sum Pauli, &c. Communi Presbyterorum consensu Ecclesiæ gubernabantur, Postquam verò unusquisque eos quos baptizaverat suos putabat esse, non Christi (Quorsum, quæso, hoc mutatum in [postquam id dictum in populis,] nisi ut quæ nunquam Hieronymo in mentem venerunt, necterentur moræ?) in toto orbe decretum est, ut unus de Presbyteris electus superponeretur cæteris. Res clarior est, quàm ut artificiosâ istâ caligine velari possit, eandem hanc æram Hieronymo censeri, eundem Christiani sæculi articulum, quo in populis dicebatur, Ego sum Pauli, &c. & quo unusquisque eos quos baptizaverat suos putabat esse, non Christi, utrumque sine dubio à Paulo indigitatum, 1 Cor. 1. 12, 14. ideóque ante scriptam istam Epistolam in Ecclesiâ Corinthiacâ notatum. Nec certè Episcopali ἀρχαιογνωσίᾳ Antiquitas, aut institutio Apostolica deerit, nec nobis Blondellianæ ἀνισοχρονίας argumentum, si Hieronymus verum scripserit. p. 2.

§. 24. Et adhuc quidem omnia, quamvis accuratiùs & ad rei veritatem accommodatiùs describi potuissent, non tamen adeò improsperè succedunt, nec gravis aliqua nobis incumbit necessitas, ut Hieronymus cum Hieronymo committatur, aut qui excelsiorem super presbyteros Episcopi gradum ab Apostolorum traditionibus acceptum toties agnoverat, sententiæ suæ statim oblitus, aut ignarus, contra seipsum pugnas cieviisse credatur.

§. 25. Illud verò unum hîc mirari subit, quid Waloni in mentem venerit, ut de D. Petavio eadem planè cum Hieronymo proferente, [Cùm charitas, inquit, & humilitatis amor, &c. refrixit, tum ad tollendas simultates, & in schismatis remedium, unum aliquem è turbâ Presbyterorum eligi placuisse, qui præesset reliquis] tam prolixè & effusè triumphandum putarit, ut de eo qui hac unicâ periodo ad pessundandam Episcopalis ordinis majestatem plus fecisset, quàm integro ad id instituto volumine Walo; Ex eo nempe, quòd eam ab ambitione, honorum cupiditate, cæterisque malis artibus originem traxisse dixerit. Wal. Mess. p. 165.

§. 26. At advertisse debuit vir doctissimus, ex aliorum ambitione & contentione, non ex Episcoporum, illud contigisse (ut Hieronymo, sic &) Petavio videri, adeóque ut malis moribus accommodatas bonas leges, sic ad remedium schismatum institutos singulares Episcopos, non inter morbos ponendos esse, sed medicinas, quas qui à morbis originem suam traxisse dixerit, illud in laudem dixisse, non ad contumeliam effutiisse putandus est; sed illud ex abundanti.

§. 27. Quintò autem quod ulteriùs ab Hieronymo affirmatur, eundem esse Presbyterum qui & Episcopus (Sancto Paulo insuper, Act. 19. Phil. 1. Tit. 1. 1 Tim. 4. ut & Sancto Petro 1 Pet. 5. & Joanne 2. Jo. 1. & 3. Jo. 1. ad suas partes vocatis) illud ipse de vocabulorum seu appellationum identitate, in eâdem personâ dixisse intelligendus est, quibus promiscuè aliquandiu S. Scripturas usas esse sibi persuaserat; Sic verò ut ipsius Marci ævo (qui Claudii nono fidem Alexandriæ seminavit, ante Epistolarum Sancti Pauli scriptionem) Presbyterorum aliquis in excelsiori gradu collocatus, ipso fatente, Episcopus nominaretur.

§. 28. Sic

§. 28. Sic certè ad Diaconorum se Presbyteris æquantium fastum retundendum, non incommodè ab illo argui potuit, Presbyteros scilicet, quamvis in secundo Ordine locatos, non ita procul tamen ab Episcopis abesse, quibuscum & idem nomen sortiebantur, & excepta ordinatione, omnia, quæ Episcopi, faciebant; cum Diaconi interim tam longè, vel ipsorum etiam confessione, infra Episcopos subsiderent, ut non alii quàm διάκονοι, i. e. ὑπηρέται Episcoporum censendi sint.

§. 29. Plura dici possent ad conciliandum sibi Hieronymum, nisi illud opportunè hîc notandum esset, non ad me, qui aliis columnis utor, sed ad D. Blondellum, qui testimoniis Hieronymianis totam ædificii sui compagem superinniti voluit, operam istam pertinere.

§. 30. Nobis certè, qui inter Ignatium, Apostolorum σύγχρονον, & recentiorem tot sæculis Hieronymum, qui inter Episcopum ἡμιθνῆτα de ævo suo testantem, & Presbyterum Diaconorum fastum calcantem, & contra eos, quod ad manum fuerat, jaculantem, comparationem instituimus, abundè erit, si Ignatius ubique sibi constans, causæ ubique nostræ (ἀκμαίως, ἐυκμαίως, adversariis ipsis fatentibus) suffragatus sit, Hieronymus autem, si pugnet nobiscum quandoque, quandoque etiam suffragetur, nec uspiam à nostris partibus desciviſse putandus sit, quin pariter & à seipso abiisse concludatur, adeóque vel integrum nobis testimonium perhibuisse, vel inconstantiâ (quod nolim) suâ, quicquid contra nos dixerit, irritum fecisse.

§. 31. Et de Ignatio & Hieronymo hæc quidem hactenus; Tempus est ut ad alia, ex instituti nostri ratione, tandem progrediamur.

DISSER-

DISSERTATIO TERTIA,

De omnibus Evangeliorum PERIOCHIS,

Quæ ad Regiminis Eccleſiæ formam pertinent.

CAP. I.

Regimen Eccleſiæ in perſonâ Chriſti fundatum. Iſ. 9. 6. & 61. 1. Unctio Spiritus. Unctio quæ. רבא 1 Jo. 2. 27. Miſſio à Patre, Jo. 20. 21. Poteſtas in terris. Chriſtus, διδάσκαλος, Κύριος, ἀρχιερεύς, Ἀπόστολος, ποιμὴν, ἐπίσκοπος. Officii ejus adminiſtratio in terris. Septuaginta diſcipuli. Apoſtoli per gradus provecti ad Eccleſiæ Regimen. Ἀπόστολοι שלוחים in Scripturâ nuntii ordinarii, inter Talmudicos nuntii Synagogarum, ἱεροπομποι, Θεόδεσμοι, apud Profanos μυησῆρες, γραμματεῖ. Miſſi cum diplomate, Jo. 20. 21. ad ἀρχὴν. Mat. 19. 28. explicatur. Apoc. 19. 10.

§. 1. AD illud nunc accedo, quod inſtituti ratio poſcit, ut ſingulæ Evangeliorum periochæ, quæ ad hanc de Regiminis Eccleſiaſtici formâ quæſtionem pertinent, ad examen noſtrum revocentur. In quibus proponendis eum ordinem & methodum obſervandum curavimus, quo commodiùs ad ipſius inſtitutionis fontem, ſeu originem (hoc quaſi filo) perveniatur, adeóque quid Chriſto, quid Apoſtolis hâc in re imputandum ſit, magis perſpicuum redatur.

§. 2. Et primum quidem illud fundamenti loco jaciendum eſt, quod infinitis Scripturæ teſtimoniis comprobari poſſet, Hoc qualecunque demum ſit, Eccleſiæ Dei in terris regimen, in perſonâ Jeſu Chriſti fundatum eſſe, prædicente Iſaiâ Prophetâ, regimen ſuper humeros ejus futurum eſſe, Iſ. 9. 6. Dominum Deum unctorum illum eſſe, & ad id Spiritum ſuum in eum miſſurum, ut Evangelium prædicet, annumque Domini acceptabilem, &c. Iſ. 61. 1. Quod & juxta Prophetias iſtas factum experimur (edicente ipſo Chriſto, Luc. 4. 18, 21.) Spiritum quippe Dei, ſtatim poſt ipſum à Johanne baptizatum, apertis cœlis, nube rutilante indutum, vidente Baptiſtâ, ſuper Chriſtum deſcendiſſe, eúmque ad munus ipſius in Eccleſiâ exequendum ſolenniter conſecraſſe.

§. 3. Hunc Spiritus deſcenſum, illuſtrem certè, & magnificam ceremoniam, (at quæ ſuper Apoſtolis à Chriſto miſſis pari modo adhibebatur,) Unctionis materialis locum ſupplere Deus voluit, Unctionis, inquam, ritus inter Judæos ſatis noti, cùm quiſpiam ad munus aut officium aliquod ſolenne promoveretur (unde eſt quod Chaldæus Paraphraſtes Unctionem per רבא ſeu exaltationem explicandam putavit) ſed qui ſub ſecundo Templo exoleverat; ideóque teſtimonio Dei de cælo ſupplendus erat: Hinc Act. 10. 38. Unctionis Dei per Spiritum ſanctum, ut & ſimpliciter unctionis Dei, Act. 4. 27. mentionem fieri videmus.

§. 4. Ex quibus itidem, quid ſit χρίσμα ſeu unctio illa ἀπὸ τοῦ ἁγίου, 1 Joh. 2. 27. cujus ope omnia ſciebant Chriſtiani, nec opus habebant, ut ab aliis doctoribus inſtruerentur, facilè, ſi id hujus loci aut συλλογῆς eſſet, explicari poſſet.

§. 5. At (quod præſentem materiam propiùs attingit) hinc eſt, quòd Chriſtus noſter à Patre mitti, Jo. 20. 21. poteſtatem peccata remittendi in Terris habere, Mat. 9. 6. ἐξουσίαν, authoritatem omnem in cælo & in terrâ ſibi traditam accepiſſe, Mat. 28. 18. dicatur: Hinc, quod Eccleſiæ ex Diſcipulis collectæ διδάσκαλος ἢ Κύριος, Doctor & Dominus, Jo. 13. 13. Ἀρχιερεὺς ἢ Ἀπόστολος, Pontifex & Apoſtolus noſter, Heb. 3. 1.

Heb. 3. 1. Ὁ ποιμὴν τῶν προβάτων ὁ μέγας, Heb. 13. 20. adeóque unicus & singularis animarum nostrarum Pastor & * Episcopus, 1 Pet. 2. 25. nuncupetur.

* Propriè Episcopus Dominus Jesus est. Origen. in Mat. 24.

§. 6. Quod verò à Patre sibi concreditum accepit, illud ipse, quamdiu in terris ageret, in personâ suâ administravit, Evangelium prædicavit, ritus in Ecclesiâ perpetuò duraturos instituit, Discipulos vocavit, vocatos pro arbitrio rexit, iis mandata dedit, eorum ministerio usus est, Aliquos eorum ad certa officia ἀνέδειξεν, designavit, Septuaginta scilicet, Luc. 10. 1. quos ante faciem ejus, ut feciales, & prodromos, emisit, illisque curandi morbos, v. 9. potestatem dedit, munúsque non perpetuum, at ἀφαιρετὸν, & quamprimùm ad ipsum reverterentur, v. 17. sponte suâ desiturum, commisit: Alios verò cumulatiore, & duraturâ authoritate induendos putavit, & ad idem munus, ad quod ipse à Patre missus fuerat, destinatos, paulatim, & per gradus quosdam ad fastigium illud provexit. Quibus verò gradibus, & intervallis illud factum fuerit, non abs re erit, si pauculis monstremus.

§. 7. Et inprimis illud notandum est, Missionem illam primam Mat. 10. 5. quæ ad δώδεκα εἰδίως pertinebat (τούτους τοὺς δώδεκα ἀπέστειλεν Ἰησοῦς) licèt illam cum ἐξουσίας non vulgaribus, v. 1. & 7. cum prædicandi itidem authoritate conjunctam, non tamen fuisse hanc ὑπερέχω, in quâ Christo magistro suo mox successuri erant.

§. 8. Ἀπόστολοι vel שלוחים inter Judæos dicebantur Nuntii quilibet; Sic Abijah 1 Reg. 14. 6. σκληρὸς Ἀπόστολος, i. e. שלוח, pessimarum rerum nuntius dicitur (sic & duodecem Exploratores, Numb. 13. à Mose ad terram Canaanis explorandam emissi, ἀποστέλλεσθαι dicuntur. Ad quorum exemplum duodecem primò Apostoli, dein Septuaginta discipuli à Christo emittebantur.) Nec in veteri Testamento vox ea alio quovis sensu usurpatur. Inter Talmudicos quidem שלוחי i. e. Ἀπόστολοι vocantur Archysynagogorum nuntii ad pecunias & decimas Synagogis debitas exigendas emissi, * Philoni ἱερὸπομποι ἀπὸ χρημάτων, † Augusto ἀποδοχεῖς dicti (& eâdem ratione Ecclesiæ nuntii dona ad aliam Ecclesiam perferentes, ab Ignatio ὁδόδρομοι & διοπροσώπου dicuntur,) sic in Theodosiano codice, tit. de Judæis, Apostoli sunt, qui ad exigendum aurum, atque argentum à Patriarchâ certo tempore diriguntur.

* Leg. ad Cajum.

† In Edict. ad Asiæ Civit.

§. 9. De his verò illud unicum notandum, Apostolos istos, ad hæc ipsa non adeò honorifica munera, & tantùm ad tempus, mittendos, literis tamen scriptis munitos fuisse, quarum vi, quicquid faciunt, id ut Vicarii aut procuratores, non in suâ, sed eorum qui eos constituerunt, personâ & nomine facturi sunt, Unde illud Judæorum celebre dictum, Apostolus cujusque est ut quisque, quò respexisse Christus censendus est, Mat. 10. 40. ὁ δεχόμενος ὑμᾶς, ἐμὲ δέχεται, καὶ ὁ ἐμὲ δεχόμενος, δέχεται τὸν ἀποστείλαντά με. Sic cùm Saulus à Synedrio Hierosolymitano ad Damascum mittebatur, Act. 9. eum ἐπιστολὰς ἀρχιερέως instructum videmus, v. 2. Nihil interim in hoc ὑπηρετικῷ munere magnificum, aut quod discipulis Christi ἀρχὴ quamlibet conciliaret.

§. 10. Apud scriptores verò τοὺς διαδοῦναι, Nuptiarum contrahendarum intercessores, internuntii, aut sponsores, (νυμφάγωγοι, * οἱ ἄγοντες ἐπίγαμον νύμφην ἐκ τῆς πατρῴας οἰκίας, qui sponsam ex ædibus patriis ductam sponso sistunt, μνηστῆρες, ἐγγυηταὶ, ἐρμοσταὶ) Ἀπόστολοι Apistoli dicebantur. Nec adhuc quicquam honorificum in Ἀποστόλων titulo.

* Οὐ δίμις (χρὴ δὶς πεῖν γάμον) † νύμφιον μενέναι, ἀλλ' Ἀποστέλλεσθαι φίλον, Phavor.

§. 11. Certè siqua ἀρχαιρεσία, aut ἀξίωμα, siqua regitiva potestas, aut ὑπερέχω, istâ voce apud Authores idoneos designetur, ea Hesychii glossario, quo Ἀπόστολος, στρατηγὸς καὶ πλοῖον πομπίμου, dux cum classe missus, definitur, petenda erit, quem ad modum & à Cicerone ad Atticum maritimæ oræ ἐπίσκοπος, speculator & custos memoratur. At & illud satis alienum est, nec ad Discipulorum Christi nomenclaturam pertinet.

§. 12. Altiùs igitur officii & tituli hujus origo deducenda est, quatenus (non Mat. 10. ἀποστέλλειν sed) Joh. 20. πέμπειν eos Christus dicatur. Cùm scilicet post resurrectionem à mortuis, ad Patrem & Deum suum nostrúmque festinans Christus, cœlestíque throno statim reddendus, discipulorum suorum præcipuos, seu electos, solenniter dato mandato, & quasi diplomate (quòd Angli Commission dicimus) Ἔπεμψε misit v. 21. eâ nempe vocis πέμπειν acceptione, quâ mitti ad Provinciam administrandam Proconsul, ad Israëlitas ex Ægypto redimendos Moses dicitur, [Mitte, inquit, per quem missurus es] quâ Reges, Judices, Servatores mitti ubique à Deo dicuntur, quotiescunque ad ἀρχὴν, Deo jubente, admoventur. Isto proculdubio sensu, se Christus à Patre ἀπεσταλμένον affirmavit, in priore Sermonis istius particulâ, καθὼς ἀπέσταλκέ με ὁ πατὴρ, (ut & Mat. 10. 40. 15. 24. Joh. 3. 34. V. 38. 6. 57. & 17. 3. & alibi non semel) & quidni eodem sensu Apostoli à Christo πέμπεσθαι in posteriore statuendi sint, & ut c. 17. 18. καθὼς ἐμὲ ἀπέστειλας εἰς τὸν κόσμον, κἀγὼ ἀπέστειλα αὐτοὺς, nullo ad Judæorum שלוחים, sive Patriarcharum Apostolos habito respectu? Sunt igitur Apostoli Christi, πεμπόμενοι in regno Christi spirituali, Joh. 20. 21. pari modo quo ἡγεμόνες Regibus proximi, πεμπόμενοι dicuntur in regno mundano, 1 Pet. 2. 14. aut quo majores nostri Missos Dominicos olim nuncuparunt, quos hodiè Justitiarios ad Assisas appellamus. Ut & Baillivus (à βάλλειν quod pro πέμπειν promiscuè usurpatur) Gallis Præpositum sonat, qui in Provincia, Satrapia, Comitatu judicia exercet, de arduis cognoscit, pacem curat. Videatur Optimus Spelmannus, Gloss. p. 68. Missi priùs οἱ δώδεκα, Mat. 10. 1. (ut & Septuaginta, Luc. 10. 1.) sed ut discipuli, ministri, nuntii, ἐνώπιον αὐτοῦ, ante faciem ejus; At missi jam soli (& εἰδίως) οἱ δώδεκα, à facie ejus, ipsius quasi hæredes in terris, & successores; Missi antea non semel, at jam tandem solenniter, & cum diplomate missi, sicut eum miserat Pater.

§. 13. Mirum est quàm hæc à Christo signanter, quàm ad omnem clarissimæ veritatis ignorationem pertinaci sæculo extundendam, accuratè, & sollicitè enuntiata, quàm ferè omnibus, quæ excogitari poterant, dictionum figuris & schematismis variata nobis tradantur, Pater judicium dedit Filio, Joh. 5. 22. Filius judicium Apostolis dedit, Mat. 19. 28. Luc. 22. 30. 1 Cor. 6. 3. 2 Cor. 10. 6. Pater Filio potestatem dedit remittendi in terris peccata, Mat. 10. 6. Filius Apostolis potestatem dedit remittendi itidem in terris peccata, Joh. 20. 23. Pater claves Filio dedit, Isa. 22. 22. Apoc. 3. 7. Filius Apostolis claves dedit, Mat. 16. 19. Pater Filio dedit sedere in throno ejus, itidemque Filius Apostolis dedit sedere cum eo in throno ejus, Mat. 19. 28. Luc. 22. 30. Pater filium dedit fundamentum, aut lapidem Angularem Ecclesiæ, Mat. 21. 42. Filius Apostolos dedit fundamenta super fundamento, Eph. 2. 20. θεμέλιον Ἀποστόλων ὄντος ἀκρογωνιαίου αὐτοῦ Χριστοῦ. Pater denique Filium ἀπέσταλκε, καὶ ἔπεμψε, Joh. 5. 24. & 17. 18. Filius dein Apostolos ἀπέσταλκα, καὶ ἔπεμψε, Joh. 20. 21.

§. 14. Hinc illud Angeli cælitùs missi, se Johannis, & fratrum ipsius, ἐγὼ σύνδουλός σου καὶ τῶν ἀδελφῶν σου τῶν ἐχόντων τὴν μαρτυρίαν Ἰησοῦ, i. e. Apostolorum, & Apostolicorum virorum conservum vocantis, Apoc. 19. 10. cùm, ut ille affirmat, ἡ μαρτυρία μαρτυρία Ἰησοῦ, testificatio resurrectionis Christi, & Fidei Christianæ, ad quam Apostoli singuli à Christo missi sunt, sit ipse prophetiæ Spiritus, honoratissimum scilicet munus, ad quod quispiam mortalium à Deo, aut Christo designari potuit, huic ipsi Angelico nuncio, de Imperatoribus nomina Christo daturis, non immeritò comparandum.

CAP. II.

Παλιγγενεσία quid, Παπᾶ μᾶλλοντες αἰῶνα, Is. 9. 6. Phylarcharum dignitas, Judæ & Josephi φυλαρχία. Μετειδέρχαι, Mat. 20. 21, 25. Apostoli munus ut ab Ἀρχαὶ καὶ ἐθνῶν differat. Ἄρχοντες, μεγάλοι. Jus Regium, 1 Sam. 8. 11. διακονεῖσθαι, καταξουσιάζειν. Κυριότης omnis non prohibita, Authoritas Charitativa, non despotica. Singularis cujusque Apostoli ὑπεροχὴ, Dicto Christi ambitio tantùm & fastus interdicti, non potestas aut ὑπεροχὴ in Ecclesiâ.

§. 1. DE hâc igitur Apostolorum ad Ecclesiæ clavum & gubernaculum missione, paucula dicturi, exordiemur, ut Presbyteranis rem gratam faciamus, à notissimo isto Christi dicto, Mat. 20. quo κυριότητα seu saltem τὸ καταχωρίδειν ἐξουσίαν discipulis suis interdixisse putatur.

§. 2. Et ut omnia clara reddantur, sententia Christi altiùs repetenda est, sumpto initio à Mat. 19. 28. Ubi qui omnia Christi causâ reliquerant, Discipuli, Dominum sciscitantur, τί ἄρα ἔσται ἡμῖν; quam demum illi tanti obsequii mercedem reportaturi essent, v. 27. Respondet Christus, ἐν παλιγγενεσία hanc illis expectandam esse. Quæ sit hæc eò loci παλιγγενεσία, satis inter viros doctos disceptatum est. Ego quid istis Christi verbis accommodatissimum videatur, paucis dicturus sum.

§. 3. Vox ea novum aut secundum statum, τὸ ἐκ δευτέρου γεννᾶσθαι, καὶ ἀναπλάττεσθαι apud Grammaticos propriè significat. Inter Pythagoræos, animæ ad γένεσιν reditum, seu μετεμψύχωσιν denotat; Inter sacros, resurrectionem, eâmque aut corporis cum animâ futuram conjunctionem, aut præcursoriam animæ in hâc vitâ renovationem (spiritualem illum proselytismum, quo omnibus prioris vitæ gaudiis, & quasi cognationibus remisso nuntio, ex Spiritu Christi regenerati prodimus) tandémque (ut hujus tesseram, & sacramentum) baptismum significat; Et certè si cum [ὑμεῖς οἱ ἀκολουθήσαντές μοι,] verba ista, nullâ interpositâ διαστολῇ, conjungerentur [ὅτι ἀκολουθήσαντές μοι ἐν τῇ παλιγγενεσίᾳ] ad illum de Discipulorum regeneratione, & per baptismum proselytismo, sensum restringenda essent. Si itidem cum sequenti [καθίσεσθε] immediatè composita & connexa essent, ad novissimæ resurrectionis, aut vitæ cœlestis, aut judicii demum ultimi statum ea pertinere posse non differer. At cum à prioribus disjuncta, cum posterioribus itidem non componantur, sed duplici commate, tanquam parenthesi inclusa, verbis istis interjacentibus, quæ ad Christum non ad discipulos pertinent, [ὅταν καθίσῃ ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου ἐπὶ θρόνου δόξης αὐτοῦ] immediatè præponantur, nulla mihi potior aut commodior istius φράσεως interpretatio occurrit, quàm ut παλιγγενεσία cum Syro, novum sæculum, tempus scilicet, aut spatium illud significet, ὅταν ὁ υἱὸς, &c. quo Christus ad dextram Patris ascendens, in throno gloriæ suæ consederit, & hanc suam in terris Ecclesiam, his quasi Vicariis ejus, διακτῆς τῆς μεγάλης βασιλέως, administrandam commiserit.

§. 4. Hoc sensu αἰῶνα μέλλοντα ab Interpretibus Græcis usurpatum videmus, Is. 9. 6. Christúmque istius πατέρα appellatum, Patrem futuri sæculi, spiritualis scilicet hujus regni Christi, ab ejus resurrectione & ascensione initium sumentis, (ideóque vel à termino à quo, hâc Christi à mortuis παλιγγενεσίᾳ, vel ab effectu, quòd nempe omnia in Ecclesiâ Christianâ renovata prodeant, & quasi παλιγγενῆσία, 2 Cor. 5. 17. (receptis in Ecclesiam Gentilibus, Judaico Sacerdotio, ritibúsque abolitis) denominationem sortiti) Patrem, supremúmque οἰκοδεσπότην.

§. 5. At quid in hâc παλιγγενεσίᾳ his fidis Christi sectatoribus sperandum erat? Ut sessuri sint omnes super duodecim thronis, judicantes duodecim tribus Israëlis. Hâc propheticâ & symbolicâ φράσει ad Phylarcharum inter Judæos, i. e. tribuum Principum dignitatem respexisse Christum, non est quod dubitemus, Cùm ex hoc ipso Christi promisso arreptâ occasione, Zebedæi uxor statim pro filiis suis interceserit, ut unus à dextrâ, alter à sinistrâ ejus in regno sederent. Illud enim ad Phylarchas ἰδίως pertinere dignoscet, quisquis eos Regi proximos fuisse, (sic verò inter se æquales, ut interim Judæ & Josepho, i. e. duarum istarum tribuum Principibus φυλαρχία obtingerent) non ignorat.

§. 6. Hæc si cum Augustino ad illam Regni Christi partem, quæ hîc in Ecclesiâ exercetur, accommodari fas sit, Si, ut Marcus c. 10. 30. & Lucas 18. 30. Mercedis hujus à Christo promissæ partem unam ἐν καιρῷ τούτῳ in hoc sæculo iis solvendam affirmant, sic & præter futurum sanctiorum judicium, 1 Cor. 6. 2. Apostolis etiam in terris degentibus Cathedræ, aut throni ἰδίως designati fuerint, concludi hinc pronum erit, Dignitatem istam, singularem ὑπεροχὴν fuisse, non quâ universi universum Ecclesiæ cœtum ab universis administrandum susciperent, sed quâ singuli quasi μεριδάρχαι tribubus singulis, i. e. provinciis singularibus (quas κλῆρος, ἀποστολὰς, ἐπισκοπὰς promiscuè dictas videmus, Act. 1. 17, 20, 25.) præessent.

§. 7. Utcunque verò illud sic, satis ex consequentibus manifestum est, Zebedæi uxorem, hanc Phylarcharum dignitatem sic ad ingenium suum accommodasse, ut aliquam in istâ futurâ Apostolorum æqualitate πρωτοκαθεδρίαν, aut πρωτοκλισίαν filiis suis, sic à Christo καταξιωθῆναι, concedi postulaverit, c. 20. 21. Huic importunæ mulieris petitioni, post ambages aliquot respondet Christus, hæc omnia sic à Patre suo disposita esse, ut nihil filiis ejus ex speciali gratiâ, aut dilectione, supra compares, accedere posset, & sic φιλοτιμίαν, aut litem istam à Lucâ memoratam (quisnam eorum esset μείζων) hoc Christi responso sedari fas erat. Verùm cum hæc Jacobi & Johannis ambitio ad reliquorum Discipulorum aures perveniret, ipsi æmuli, & indignabundi, hanc fratrum φιλοτιμίαν ferre nequibant; Novâque jam & improvisa tempestas, à Christo sedanda erat, cui sic illicò remedium parabatur, v. 25.

§. 8. Vocatos ad se discipulos, eos scilicet, non qui pares sed qui priores pati nequiverant, qui ambitiosam fratrum petitionem adeò indignè tulerant, sic demum pacandos putavit Christus, Scitis, inquit, quod ὁι ἄρχοντες τῶν ἐθνῶν κατακυριεύουσιν αὐτῶν, καὶ οἱ μεγάλοι κατεξουσιάζουσιν αὐτῶν, Non sic verò erit inter vos, sed qui voluerit inter vos magnus esse, (ἔστω, sit, vel ut clariùs S. Marcus 10. 43. ἔσται) erit minister vester, & qui voluerit inter vos primus esse, sit, vel, erit servus vester; Sicut filius hominis non venit διακονηθῆναι, ἀλλὰ διακονῆσαι, &c. Nullam scilicet tantæ impatientiæ & indignationis causam hac in re reliquis decem subesse; Cum dignitas ista Apostolis accessura, talis non sit, qualis inter Gentium Dominos adeò spectabilis exhibetur, in lucrum & splendorem regentium cedens, ideóque & avaris & ambitiosis desiderabilis, sed quæ officium & ministerium, onúsque satis molestum & ingratum, nemini certè invidendum, secum trahat.

§. 9. Hîc qui sint inter Gentes ἄρχοντες & μεγάλοι, satis ex Romanorum inter Judæos dominatione dignosci potuit, Procuratoribus, aut Principibus provinciæ sibi concreditas administrantibus, Ipsóque super illos Imperatore potestatem exercente; Quid verò sit κατακυριεύειν, & κατεξουσιάζειν, Juris Regii 1 Sam. 8. 11. designatio monstrabit. Ubi Gentium Regibus tributa & vectigalia (nec tantùm φόβον & τιμὴν, sed & φόρους & τέλη, Rom. 13. 7.) à subjectis debita esse, & eorum operâ atque pecuniis, omnibus Aulæ aut Domus regiæ non necessitatibus solùm, sed & pompæ, & ἀφειδείᾳ, consultum fuisse, liquidò affirmatur. Illud * Xenophonti est ὠφελεῖσθαι ὑπ' αὐτῶν, lucra & emolumenta non contemnenda à subditis accipere. Illud Christo, διακονεῖσθαι, omnia ad eorum usus à populo suppeditata habere; Videatur Neh. c. 5. 15. ubi & panem, & vinum, & argenti siclos, Persarum sub Artaxerxe ἡγεμόνες accipere, ipsorúmque servi populo κατεξουσιάζειν (quod de μεγάλοις hîc ait Christus) dicebantur, licet Nehemias, fratrésque ejus, postquam ad eos ἡγεμονία pervenerit, hoc suo uti jure recusaverint.

* Præf. ad Κύρου Παιδ.

§. 10. Ex hoc perspicuum est, quodnam illud sit, quod de potestate Ecclesiasticâ mox ad Apostolos deventurâ, hîc Christus prædixerit, Unicum scilicet illud; Non eam fore, quæ in populi bona, aut libertates exerceatur, quæ eorum possessionibus, aut servitiis ad luxum, aut splendorem regium abutatur, (à quibus tamen procul abest alimonia necessaria, è censu Ecclesiæ, cujus sibi ἐξουσίαν, licet eâ uti noluit, ut & Apostolis omnibus, concessam Paulus profitetur, 1 Cor. 9. 4. 6. 12.) sed quæ subditis benefaciendo, animarum salutem procurando, ministrando, inserviendo, se omnibus utilem, & fructuosam, non damnosam & gravem exhibeat. Nec igitur, aut ἀρχὴ, aut ἐξουσίαν, aut κυριότητα omnem hoc Christi monito prohiberi, at eam tantummodo ad humilitatis & charitatis Christianæ exemplar, & ὑπογραμμὸν, tanquam ad normam exigi, & componi.

§. 11. Ex adverso verò, illud supponitur, & conceditur, ipsóque Christi exemplo (qui se διδάσκαλον, & κύριον eorum rectè dici affirmat, Jo. 13. 13.) planè comprobatur, fore ἐν ὑμῖν, in Ecclesiâ Christi μεγάλους, Mat. 20. v. 26. πρώτους v. 27. μείζονας, & ἡγεμόνας, Lu. 22. 26. quibus authoritas spiritualis & charitativa (licet non coactiva, * αὐτοκαρδὶς, aut despotica) rectissimè competat.

* 1 Pet. 5. 2.

§. 12. Imò ex duodecim Phylarcharum totidem thronis, totidem Apostolis assignatis, iisque non totum Israelem universis, sed singulis singulas tribus judicantibus, ut & ἐκ πρώτων & ἡγουμένων mentione (quæ paritatem & æqualitatem planè excludit) singularem cujusque Apostoli ὑπεροχὴν concludendam esse. Adeóque nihil ex hoc loco, quovis artificio aut machinâ, deduci posse, vel quod potestatem seu dignitatem istam, quam super discipulos in terris exercuit Christus, ab Apostolis post Christi excessum in alios exerceri vetet, vel quod singularem & monarchiam Christi in universam Ecclesiam πρωτασίαν, cum aristocraticâ plurium in quavis particulari Ecclesiâ ἰσοβαθμίᾳ, aut paritate commutandam, aut confundendam esse arguat.

* Præf. p. 49.

§. 13. Quod vidisse, & agnovisse * D. Blondellum non dubito, cùm productis omnibus, aut Christi, aut Apostolorum contra κατακυριεύοντας locis, (Mat. 20. 26. 1 Pet. 5. 2. 1 Cor. 4. 12. 2 Cor. 1. 24. &c.) plura statim Johannis Chrysostomi, & Gregorii Nazianzeni dicta adjungenda, & accommodanda putaverit, quæ vel ad τὸ ἐρᾶν πρωτείων, ad φιλαρχίαν, ad τὸ ἅρπαγμα ἡγεῖσθαι, διδασκαλικὸν, vel ad τὸ ἀυτοκράτορας καὶ τύραννον ἐν τοῖς περὶ Θεοῦ λόγοις εἶναι, πῶς ὄφρυα αἴρειν, &c. i. e. ut brevi dicam, quæ vel ad ambitionem, vel ad fastum pertinent, quibus certè Episcopum, imò Christianum quemlibet absterrendum esse D. Blondello lubentissimè largiemur.

CAP. III.

Potestatis Clavium donatio, Mat. 16. 19. Potestas in domo regiâ, Is. 22. 20. Clavis domus Davidis, Apoc. 3. 7. Potestas in terris, Mat. 9. 6. Apostolis, dein Episcopis Universæ Ecclesiæ competens, Apoc. 22. 3. Thronus Dei & Agni. Apostolorum 12. throni, Mat. 19. Potestas Clavium Petro ut personæ singulari data. Sic & Apostolis singulis, Mat. 18. 18. Jo. 20. 23. Γλῶσσαι πυρὸς, Act. 2. 3. (אש לשון Is. 5. 24.) super singulos. Πέτρος & lapis. Apostoli singuli θεμέλιοι, Apoc. 21. 14, 17. Nihil hîc Petro peculiare. Post Apostolos Episcopi. Cypriani testimonium, ut & Irenæi, Tertulliani, Athanasii, (πεπωμωμένοι) Basilii, Ambrosii, Augustini, Paciani, Theophylacti, Oecumenii, Episcopos Apostolorum successores esse.

§. 1. ISTis sic dispositis, ut Presbyteranorum quovismodo causæ prodesse nequeant, proximo loco ad ea dirigendi sunt oculi, quibus potestas Clavium, à Christo in Apostolos collata, describitur.

§. 2. Ea inprimis per modum πολιτείας, Mat. 16. 19. Petro promissa est, Ego, inquit Christus, dabo tibi claves regni cœlorum, & quicquid ligaveris in terrâ, ligabitur in cœlo, & quicquid solveris in terrâ, solvetur in cœlis. Ad quæ verba S. Chrysostomus, Christus, inquit, hâc potestate induendos censuit, καθάπερ τοὺς βασιλεῖς ἄρχοντας ἀποστέλλων, ἐξουσίαν εἰς τὸ δεσμωτήριον ἐμβάλλειν, καὶ ἀφιέναι δήσαντα, sicut Rex Principes aut Procuratores ad provincias mittens, iis in carcerem conjiciendi, & absolvendi potestatem dat.

§. 3. De hâc potestate Clavium, quænam sit, aut quibus terminis claudatur, quæ sit cœlorum & terræ, triumphantis & militantis Ecclesiæ ἁρμονία, & concentus, aliísque multis, quæ ad hanc de Clavibus materiam pertinet, (& quæ nos fusiùs, tractatu jamdudum integro, sed patrio sermone, Novatoribus nostris oppositimus) non erit hîc disquirendi locus. Paucula tantùm, ὡς ἐν παρέργῳ, notanda sunt.

§. 4. Primò,

§. 4. Primò, Hâc Clavium potestate, ex ritu Judæorum, authoritatem in domo regiâ singularem denotari; sic enim Is. 22. de Eliakimò Hilkiæ filio, prædicit Deus, vocaturum se servum suum, &c. v. 20. stolâ, cingulòque regiis indaturum eum, regimènque, i. e. supremam universa domûs Regiæ οἰκονομίαν, aut administrationem in manus ejus traditurum, sic ut Pater domus Judæ, &c. futurus sit, v. 21. tandemque in signum tantæ dignitatis & potentiæ, Clavem, inquit, Domûs Davidis super humerum ejus ponam, Ex quibus statim sequitur, Quæ aperturus sit ille, clausurum neminem, quæ clausurus, neminem aperturum, i. e. singularem eam domûs regiæ procurationem, quæ in admittendo, & rejiciendo, familiámque integram administrando consistit, ita ad eum pertinere, ut quemlibet ad libitum & arbitrium suum admissurus, & excluſurus sit.

§. 5. Hæc certè potestas primariò, & independenter Christo ipsi rectissimè attribuitur, Apoc. 3. 7. ὁ ἅγιος ὁ ἀληθινός, ὁ ἔχων τὴν κλεῖδα τοῦ Δαβὶδ, Sanctus & verus, habens clavem Davidis, &c. utpote cui omnis in cœlo & in terra ἐξουσία, at signanter peccata solvendi aut remittendi potestas, eáque ἰδίως in terris; Mat. 9. 6. à Patre tradita est.

§. 6. Hanc itidem Apostolis competiisse nemo, quod sciam, dubitat; Universæ verò post Apostolos in omne ævum Ecclesiæ, si quis eam eripiendam aut derogandam censuerit, post alia multa (eáque notiora, quàm ut hîc ad nauseam recoquenda sint) consulat, si placet, illud Oraculi divini verissimum, licèt (ut cæteræ prophetiæ istius particulæ) aliquanto obscuriùs responsum, Apoc. 22. 3. Ubi de Ecclesiâ (ut alibi fusiùs nos monstrasse putamus) universâ, post Imperatorum nomina Christo data, prædictum illud [πᾶν κατανάθεμα οὐκ ἔσται ἔτι] tunc quidem futurum, ut omnibus Christiani nominis opprobriis & propudiis, singulis de disciplinâ Christianâ recedentibus, prolapsis scilicet in facinora ea, quorum conscii in Ecclesiam per baptismum admittendi non erant, c. 21. 27. in Ecclesiâ locus non sit, sub Censuris verò Ecclesiæ cadant, cùm tamen dè morigeris Christi servis illud statim pronuntietur, v. 4. ὄψονται τὸ πρόσωπον αὐτοῦ videbunt faciem ejus, ex Ecclesiâ rejiciendi non erunt, sed [nomen Christi in frontibus ipsorum] inter professos Christi servos, quibus herile nomen in fronte inscriptum, reputabuntur. Quam ad rem ὁ θρόνος τοῦ Θεοῦ, καὶ τοῦ ἀρνίου, thronus non Dei tantùm, sed & Agni, i. e. Christi, v. 3. Potestas, & tribunalia, Imperatoria simul, ac Ecclesiastica, (ista à Deo Patre, hæc à Christo filio originem suam habentia) ἐν αὐτῇ ἔσται, in Ecclesiâ erunt, seu permansura sunt. At isthæc παρέργως nec affirmanter dicta sunt.

§. 7. Hæc igitur potestas illis etiam non immeritò tribuitur, quos successores & Vicarios in terris suos, familiæ suæ Patres, aut Oeconomos (sic Episcopi appellantur Ignatio Ep. ad Ephes.) hâc ipsa clavium donatione Christus constituturus erat. Unde est illud Chrysostomi περὶ ἱερωσ. l. 3. Episcopos esse fidos illos, in Parabolâ, Christi servos, quos familiæ suæ Deus præponit. Et hæc sanè omnia cum promisso Christi de sessione Apostolorum super duodecim thronis mox sequente, c. 19. aptissimè concordant, quatenus judicandi, & gubernandi in Ecclesiâ potestas Phylarchica, regiæ (ei scilicet quæ soli Christo nostro in cœlis regnanti competit) proxima, denotatur, adeóque ab ils, quæ ibi dicta sunt, pleniorem lucem accipiunt, quam & mox illis reddituræ sunt.

§. 8. Secundò, & quod præsentem materiam magis attingit, Hanc Clavium potestatem (ut ex mandati aut diplomatis Christi verbis patet) Petro, i. e. persona singulari hîc promissam esse, Dabo, inquit, Tibi, & quicquid ligaveris (Tu) quicquid solveris (Tu) ligabitur & solvetur. Quod ligat Petrus, Apostolus Christi singularis, id, nullo mortalium obstante aut intercedente, ligatum affirmat Christus; Quod solvit Petrus, Apostolus itidem singularis, id sine alterius cujusvis Apostoli intercedente suffragio, solutum affirmat Christus. Nec secus quidem fecisse Petrum, historia Actuum monstrat; Ananiam quippe, Sapphiram, & Simonem Magum solus Petrus ligavit, Act. 5. & 8.

§. 9. Tertiò, Quæ ex vi verborum Christi, Mat. 16. 18. ad Petrum singulatim pertinere videtur, eam aliis, Apostolis singulis (si non ex eo, quòd Petrus non suo solùm, sed omnium sodalium nomine responderet ad quæstionem à Christo omnibus ex æquo propositam, v. 13. & 15. saltem) ex vi verborum c. 18. 18. antequam Claves dabantur, ὅσα ἐὰν δήσητε, in plurali, & Jo. 20. 23. ex ipsâ, quâ dabantur, formulâ, ex æquo competiisse. Cùm enim potestatis hujus c. 18. 18. ex aliâ causâ mentio iteretur, ut & Jo. 20. 23. (ubi addito solenni ἐμφυσήσεως ritu, tradebantur, quæ hîc promissa sunt) palam est eam in plurali, non uni Petro, sed Apostolis indefinitè omnibus promissam esse, [Ἀμὴν λέγω ὑμῖν, ὅσα ἐὰν δήσητε] Amen dico vobis quæcunque ligaveritis, &, λέγει αὐτοῖς, dicit illis, Ἂν τινων ἀφῆτε, Quorumcunque solveritis, &c.

§. 10. Et quandoquidem, quæ initialiter per Christum facta sunt, posteà per actualem Spiritus descensum complenda erant, (ἐμφυσᾷ γὰρ Χριστὸς ὁ τὴν τελείαν δωρεὰν τοῦ ἁγίου πνεύματος νῦν αὐτοῖς νέμων, πάντως γὰρ ἐν τῇ Πεντηκοστῇ ἔμελλε δίδοναι, ἀλλὰ πρὸς ὑποδοχὴν τοῦ πνεύματος ὁπωσδήποτε αὐτοὺς ποιῶν, Spirat in eos Christus, non ut perfectum spiritus donum jam illis tribuens, hoc enim in Pentecoste facturus erat, sed ad recipiendum spiritum idoneos eos faciens, inquit * Theophylactus) Illud itidem notandum est, in die tandem * In Joh. 20. Pentecostes, cùm ἅπαντες (omnes, & singuli quidem Apostoli) simul essent, & factus ex cœlo sonitus totam, ubi residebant, domum impleret, Act. 2. 3. διαμεριζόμεναι γλῶσσαι ὡσεὶ πυρὸς linguas, quasi ignis divisas, i. e. flammarum, ad numerum duodecim Apostolorum, totidem particulas, linguarum formam referentes singulas (quod in flammis divisis, adeóque in Pyramidalem formam festinantibus frequenter conspicitur, ideóque ex Hebræorum idiomate flamma לשון lingua ignis nuncupatur, Is. 5. 24.) visas illis esse. Has vero singulatim (ἐκάθισε, inquit Lucas, non, ut γλώσσαι quæ immediatè præcesserant, in plurali) ἐφ' ἕνα ἕκαστον αὐτῶν, super unumquemque illorum sedisse, aut mansisse, καὶ ἐπλήσθησαν ἅπαντες, & omnes, inquit Lucas, singulíque Spiritu sancto impleti sunt, & cœperunt loqui peregrinis linguis, &c.

§. 11. Sic cum Simon, Cephæ, aut Πέτρου, i. e. Lapidis agnomine insigniatur (eo enim, in Masculino, lapidem ab Homero appellari notum est, Iliad. π'. μυλοειδὲϊ πέτρῳ, quem statim affirmat πολὺ μείζονα λᾶαν, ut & Il. π. & υ.) Lapidis scilicet, in quo hæc Sancta civitas, de cœlo descendens, nova Hierosolyma, i. e. Ecclesia Christi fundaretur, palam est Apostolos singulos eodem titulo dignoscendos proponi, Apoc. 21. 14. Murus civitatis habens duodecim θεμελίους fundamenta, & super illis 12. nomina τῶν δώδεκα Ἀποστόλων, quorum singuli, respectu hujus in Ecclesia potestatis, & dignitatis, alicui πρώτῳ λίθῳ, Lapidi, eíque pretioso, singulatim comparantur. Ὁ θεμέλιος ὁ πρῶτος Ἰασπις, &c. v. 19. Imò cum murus civitatis, vel Ecclesiæ accuratè mensuratus, 144. i. e. duodecies duodecim cubitis constaret, patet æqualem μέτρον singulis Apostolis assignari. Sed his, & talibus non immoramur.

§. 12. Ex quibus omnibus sic compositis, illud illicò exurgit, potestatem hanc, quâ Petrus ex verbis Christi donandus prædicitur, etiam singulis Apostolis & tum, & posteà promissam, post resurrectionem verò Christi initialiter traditam, tandem in adventu Spiritus sancti, singulis singulatim & actualiter obtigisse. Quod disertis verbis Theophylactus * edixit. Εἰ γὰρ καὶ τῷ Πέτρῳ μόνον εἴρηται τὸ Δώσω σοι, ἀλλὰ καὶ πᾶσι τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις δέδοται, Licet Petro soli dicebatur, Dabo tibi, omnibus tamen Apostolis dabatur. Idque Presbyterani, qui nullum Petro præ reliquis principatum aut πρωτεῖα concedunt, libenter, uti spero, mecum agnituri sunt, nec in re concessâ pluribus opus est.

* In Mat. 18.

§. 13. Hæc omnia quàm directè & immediatè ad sententiæ nostræ confirmationem pertineant, malo Cypriani, quàm meis verbis testatum facere.

§. 14. Dominus, * inquit, noster, cujus præcepta metuere & observare debemus, Episcopi honorem, & Ecclesiæ suæ rationem disponens, in Evangelio loquitur, & dicit Petro, Ego tibi dico, Quia tu es Petrus, & tibi dabo claves regni cœlorum, & quæ ligaveris, &c. Inde per temporum & successionum vices Episcoporum ordinatio & Ecclesiæ ratio decurrit, ut Ecclesia super Episcopos constituatur, & omnis actus Ecclesiæ per eosdem gubernetur. Cùm hoc itaque divinâ lege fundatum sit, miror quosdam audaci temeritate, &c. Sic & Ep. 68. Diligenter de traditione divinâ, & Apostolicâ observatione observandum est, & tenendum —— Ut ad ordinationes rite celebrandas, ad eam plebem, cui præpositus ordinatur, Episcopi ejusdem provinciæ proximi quique conveniant, & Episcopus deligatur. Et quod ad potestatis Episcopalis singularitatem attinet, Ep. 52. Actum suum disponit, & dirigit unusquisque Episcopus, rationem propositi sui Domino redditurus. Et, quod ad superioritatem, & eminentiam super presbyteros, Ep. 35. Promovebitur quidem (Presbyter Numidicus) cùm Deus permiserit, ad ampliorem locum religionis suæ.

* Epist. 27.

§. 15. Consulatur itidem Cypriano antiquior Irenæus, Successiones, inquit, Episcoporum, quibus Apostolicam, quæ in unoquoque loco est, Ecclesiam tradiderunt. Contra Hæres. l. 4. c. 63. &, Omnes ii (Novatores hæretici) posteriores sunt quàm Episcopi, quibus Apostoli tradiderunt Ecclesias, l. 5. c. 20. &, Habemus annumerare eos, qui ab Apostolis instituti sunt Episcopi in Ecclesiis, &c. l. 3. c. 3. & ibidem de Româ, οἰκοδομήσαντες καὶ συλλέσαντες τῷ ἐκκλησίαν οἱ Μακάριοι Ἀπόστολοι Λίνῳ τούτῳ τὴν ἐπισκοπὴν λειτουργίαν ἐνεχείρισαν, & Polycarpus ab Apostolis in Asiâ, in eâ quæ est Smyrnis Ecclesia constitutus Episcopus, & l. 4. c. 43. Qui cum successione Episcopatus, charisma veritatis certum acceperunt.

§. 16. Et Tertullianus, sicut Smyrnæorum Ecclesia Polycarpum ab Johanne collocatum refert, &c. utique & cæteræ exhibent, quos ab Apostolis in Episcopatum constitutos, Apostolici seminis traduces habent. De Præscr. c. 32. &, Percurre Ecclesias Apostolicas, apud quas ipsæ adhuc Cathedræ Apostolorum suis locis præsident, habes Corinthum, habes Ephesum, habes Philippos, habes Romam, c. 36.

§. 17. Nec aliter magnus Athanasius Ep. ad Dracontium, Officium, inquit, Episcopi inter ea est ἃ ὁ Κύριος διὰ τῶν Ἀποστόλων τετύπωκε, quæ Christus per Apostolos efformavit, in ipsorum scilicet personis hoc primùm τύπῳ, seu charactere impresso, dein per illos, in personis aliorum, ad omne ævum, Episcoporum, (qui ideo verè ex usu sæculi istius, phrasique Basilio non incognitâ τετυπωμένοι dici possent) unde conclusio statim illa, ὑποτάσσεσθαι τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ ἐν νόμῳ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, Episcopo juxta Christi legem obsequium præstari oportere. &, Qui functionem, inquit, Episcopi contemnit, καταφρονεῖ τὸ διαταξαμένου Σωτῆρος, Servatorem, qui eum ordinavit, contemnit.

§. 18. Sic Magnus Basilius Ἐπισκοπὴν (Episcopatum) πρεσβείαν τῶν Ἀποστόλων, & πρεσβείαν Ἀποστολικὴν nuncupavit: ipsos quippe Apostolos πρεσβείαν istâ à Christo donatos, alios itidem sibi in eâdem successores instituisse.

§. 19. Sic Sanctus Ambrosius, Claves illas Regni cœlorum in Beato Petro cuncti suscepimus Sacerdotes, i. e. Episcopi; Et, Episcopus à Domino ordinatus est; Et, Deus ipsum ordinem tibi largitur, de Dign. Sacerd. c. 6. & 5.

§. 20. Sic & Augustinus in Psal. 44. Radix Christianæ societatis per sedes Apostolorum & successiones Episcoporum certâ per orbem propagatione diffunditur.

§. 21. Imò & ipse Hieronymus in Psal. 45. Quia Apostoli à mundo recesserunt, habes pro illis Episcopos filios.

§. 22. Sic Pacianus Ep. 1. ad Sympronianum. Ad Petrum locutus est Dominus, ad unum ideò, ut unitatem fundaret ex uno.

§. 23. Sic Photius, Epist. 54. Τὸ Ἀποστολικὸν καὶ θεῖον ἀξίωμα, ὃ κατὰ διαδοχὴν, τὸ ἀρχιερέων γένος ὑπὲρ ὁρᾶται κεκτήμενον. Apostolica & divina dignitas, quam successionis jure Pontificiale genus agnoscitur possidere.

§. 24. Et Theophylactus in Mat. 18. Ἔχουσιν ἐξουσίαν ἀφιέναι καὶ δεσμεῖν οἱ κατὰ Πέτρον ἐπισκοπῆς ἀξιωθέντες χάριτος.

§. 25. Et Oecumenius, Πνεύματος γὰρ φησὶν ἐλήνυτο οἱ ἐπίσκοποι, καὶ ὁ χυδαῖος, quatenus scilicet Apostolis Spiritus sancti descensu ordinatis succederent.

§. 26. Non numerabo testes in re testatissimâ. Instar multorum unicus Cyprianus Antiquissimus Episcopus & Martyr, à quo non pauca ad rem suam adaptari voluit D. Blondellus, quàm commodè aut fœliciter, ex hoc indicio cuivis judicandum relinquo.

CAP.

CAP. IV.

Mat. 28. 19. Apostolorum singulares κλῆροι, τόποι ἴδιοι, Act. 1. 25. Ἐπίσκοποι καὶ πέρατα. Ignatii & Hieronymi testimonium. Apostoli Episcopi erant. Cathedræ Apostolorum. Testimonium Cypriani, Epiphanii, Pseudo-Ambrosii, &c. Tres Ordines conjuncti in Apostolis, Mar. 3. 14. Luc. 22. 19. Jo. 20. 23. Mat. 28. 19. Spiritus Eliæ requiescens super Elizeum, Num. 11. 17.

§. 1. PErgo ad novissima abiturientis Christi verba, Mat. 28. 19. Πορευθέντες οὖν μαθητεύσατε πάντα τὰ ἔθνη, Euntes, ad discipulatum vocate vel disciplinâ & fide imbuite gentes omnes, Resurrectionem Christi omnibus testatam facite, & Evangelio per omnes oras enuntiato, discipulos congregate, congregatos βαπτίζοντες, & διδάσκοντες, v. 20. primò in Ecclesiam per baptismi ritum recipite, dein omni doctrinæ salutaris genere imbuendos curate.

§. 2. Illud itidem sine dubio, non universorum ad omnes, sed singulorum ad singulas mundi plagas, ut ad totidem provincias, aut κλῆρος administrandas profectione præstandum erat, τῷ μὲν τοῦτο, τῷ δὲ ἐκεῖνο λαβόντος τὸ μέρος, inquit Sanctus Chrysostomus, suâ unicuique quam ornaret, assignatâ Provinciâ; Quo & illud attinet Theophylacti in 2 Cor. 10. 13. Ὥσπερ γεωργοῖς ἐμπελῶνα διεῖλεν ὁ Θεὸς, ὅπω καὶ ἡμῖν τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις τῷ οἰκουμένῳ ἐμέρισεν, Ut Colonis vineam Deus distribuit, sic nobis Apostolis terrarum orbem divisit; ut & illud ipsius Sancti Pauli, cum τὸ μέτρον τοῦ κανόνος, ὃ ἐμέρισεν ἡμῖν ὁ Θεὸς, Mensuram regulæ qua nobis Deus partitus est] contra Pseudo-Apostolos urgeat, 2 Cor. 10. 13.

§. 3. Quod & factum juxtâ videmus, cùm Act. 1. Matthias in traditoris Judæ locum surrogandus, & à Domino eligendus proponatur, λαχεῖν κλῆρον τῆς διακονίας ταύτης, καὶ ἀποστολῆς, ut hujus, i. e. singularis Administrationis & Apostolatus sortem accipiat, simúlque πορευθῆναι εἰς τὸν τόπον ἴδιον, v. 25. (sic ut verba ista non ad Judam defunctum, sed ad successorem ejus superstitem pertineant, adeóque cum præcedente λαχεῖν conjungantur) ut ad locum, i. e. provinciam propriam, aut peculiarem, aut singularem proficiscatur.

§. 4. Nec enim ab universo Apostolorum collegio, simul, & per tarda molimina, sedes movente, plantari per orbem omnem fides Christi potuit, fudari Ecclesiæ, leges ubique ferri, Censuræ exerceri, ordinari Presbyteri, διεισμὸς certè adeò copiosus, & tam longè latéque diffusus, divisis singulorum operis, susceptísque non tam peregrinationibus, quàm exiliis indigebat, nec aliter tam brevi spatio tam asperum ἁλιχοδρόμιον impleri potuit, aut sonitus eorum in universum mundum exire.

§. 5. Res clarior est, quàm ut confirmationibus indigeat, Πορεύεσθαι singuli tanquam ad μονομαχίαν, non ut ad πόλεμον universi jubentur; Et dum quisque sic intellecto Christi mandato, τὸν τόπον τὸν ἴδιον sibi adornandum suscepit, ubique à singularibus Apostolis seminata fides, plantatæ Ecclesiæ, & ab iisdem dein, ut Episcopis administratæ; Et sic ubique unitas servata est.

§. 6. Quibus cùm à Christo additum meminerimus, se illis (itidem singulis) diebus omnibus usque ad sæculi consummationem (ideóque non Apostolis tantùm singulis, sed eorum successoribus) adfuturum esse, commodissimum erit quod hîc recitetur Hieronymi dictum, * alibi ex Com. in Psal. 45. prolatum, Constituisse Christum in omnibus finibus mundi, Principes Ecclesiæ, scilicet Episcopos; simúlque Ignatii illud, Ἐπισκόπους τοὺς κατὰ πέρατα ὁρισθέντας, Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ γνώμῃ ἰδίᾳ. * Dissert. 2. c. 29.

§. 7. Apostolos quippe singulos ex hâc Christi missione, seu mandato, Ecclesiarum, quas ipsi plantarunt, Præfectos, eósque singulares, i. e. Episcopos constitutos esse.

§. 8. Nec putabo me, cùm sic affirmaverim, ξενόν τι, novum, aut inauditum aliquid protulisse, sed illud ipsum, quod in Ecclesiâ Christi per omne ævum satis vulgatum & agnitum fuit.

§. 9. Sic Apostolica Judæ & dein Matthiæ functio à Septuaginta & vulgato Interprete, Episcopatus dicta Psal. 108. eadem etiam à Lucâ ἐπισκοπὴ appellatur, Act. 1. 29.

§. 10. Sic Cyprianus Ep. 65. Apostolos, i. e. Episcopos, & Præpositos Dominus elegit.

§. 11. Sic de Petro & Paulo Epiphanius l. 1. contra Carpocr. ἐν Ῥώμῃ γεγόνασι πρῶτοι Πέτρος καὶ Παῦλος, οἱ Ἀπόστολοι αὐτοὶ καὶ ἐπίσκοποι.

§. 12. Sic Hilarius Sardus, vel quisquis ille est, authoritatis quidem non eximiæ, sed D. Blondello æstimatissimus scriptor, sub Ambrosii nomine, in Eph. 4. Apostoli Episcopi sunt, Caput itaque in Ecclesiâ posuit Apostolos. Ipsi sunt Episcopi, firmante illud Petro Apostolo [& Episcopatum ejus acccipiat alter:] & in 1 Cor. 12. 29. Nunquid omnes Apostoli? Verum est, quia in Ecclesiâ unus Episcopus, & Quia sub uno Deo Patre sunt omnia, singulos Episcopos singulis Ecclesiis præesse decrevit.

§. 13. Sic Scriptor Quæstionum in Vet. & Novum Testamentum, Quæst. 97. Nemo ignorat Episcopos Servatorem Ecclesiis instituisse. Ipse enim priusquam in cœlos ascenderet, imponens manum Apostolis, ordinavit eos Episcopos.

§. 14. Sic Gildas, verbis à D. Blondello ad rem suam productis. Sanctus Matthæus Episcopatum sortitus est.

§. 15. Tandémque Gabriel Philadelphensis, ἀπὸ τῆς β'. διαφ non suo tantùm sed Ecclesiæ Græcæ nomine, φανερὸν, inquit, ἐστὶν, ὅτι οἱ Ἀπόστολοι ἦσαν ἐπίσκοποι. Apostolos Episcopos fuisse manifestum est, S. scilicet Johannem in Asiâ, S. Andream in Achaiâ, S. Thomam in Indiâ.

§. 16. Res omnis dilucidior futura est, si quatuor Evangelicæ historiæ spatia, totidémque Evangeliorum periodi simul posita, singulatim primò, dein uno quasi intuitu, conspiciantur, Mar. 3. 14. Luc. 22. 19. Jo. 20. 23. Mat. 28. 19. quibus singuli gradus, quibus ad Apostolatum à Christo evecti sunt sigillatim describuntur; Primo loco, Mar. 3. 14. duodecim, à Christo ad potestatem aliquam, & quasi ad Diaconatum, primum seu infimum ordinem, electos aut assumptos videmus, καὶ ἐποίησε δώδεκα, ἵνα ὦσι μετ' αὐτοῦ, & fecit, i. e. constituit duodecim, ut perpetuò cum ipso essent, sicut apud Judæos, Prophetis discipuli adscisebantur, qui cum itidem, ex more Gentis, ὑπηρέται, famuli, aut ministri prophetarum essent, ad omnia domestica aut familiaria διακονήματα, aut ministeria obeunda parati (quod * statim pluribus dicetur) quidni duodecim hac primâ electione aut constitutione, διάκονοι πεποιημένοι, facti aut constituti Diaconi * C. 5.

Diaconi dicantur, ex quo & annuntiandi Evangelium (ad quod Nῦ Nῦ emissi, Mar. 6. 7.) & baptizandi etiam potestatem (Diaconis utramque in Ecclesia assignatam) iis competiisse videas? Jo. 4. 2.

§. 17. Secundo loco Luc. 22. 19. Sacramenti (i. e. Cœnæ Dominicæ) conficiendi potestas iis dissertè concessa est, his ipsis mandati, quasi diplomatis, verbis, τοῦτο ποιεῖτε, &c. Quam non Diaconis, sed Presbyteris tantùmm competere Ecclesia Christi semper voluit.

§. 18. Tertio loco Jo. 20. 21, 22, 23. totius familiæ ἐπισκοπὴ, aut principatus, in ipsâ clavium promissione ante promissus, immediatè ante ipsius exitum, singulis concredebatur, cum ἐμφυσήσας diceret, λάβετε πνεῦμα, ritu etiam Judæis non incognito, cùm Elizæus sic Eliæ in prophetico munere successisse dicatur, 2 Reg. c. 2. Spiritu quippe Eliæ, ut hîc Spiritu Christi (quem accipi ab iis jussit, & qui posteà in eos descendit) in eum confidente, aut requiescente, v. 15. Quod & de Apostolis singulis dissertè affirmatur, ἐκάθισε ἐφ' ἕνα ἕκαστον αὐτῶν, Act. 2. 3.

§. 19. Ubi illud etiam advertendum est, non hîc de Spiritu Christi auferri (particulam scilicet aliquam) & Apostolis tradi, qualiter factum videmus, Num. 11. 17. cum Presbyterorum Synedrium Mosi in adjutorium accesserit, ut sustentent tecum onus populi, & solus non graveris, sed Spiritum (quasi integrum) à Christo in ipsos, eósque singulos descendere, ab illis accipi, supra illos considere, & ita supremam, vel Episcopalem Christi in Ecclesia potestatem, singulis commissam esse.

§. 20. Quod verò quarto loco sequitur, πορευθέντες ἐν μαθητεύσατε, Mat. 28. 19. id planè in regitivâ ista ἐξουσία, à Christo Apostolis priùs commissâ fundabatur, Omnis, inquit, potestas in cœlo & terrâ mihi data est, adeóque omnis in terrâ vobis commissa, πορευθέντες ὖν, euntes ergo, discipulos congregate, &c. Quod quidem ad Apostolicum munus, quatenus eo Evangelii per totum terrarum orbem prædicandi officium designatur, pertinebat, sic ut, distinctè loquendo, qui priùs Diaconorum, Presbyterorum, Episcoporum potestate induti erant, jam denique Apostoli hoc sensu constituerentur.

CAP. V.

Potestas in Ecclesiâ solis Episcopis ab Apostolis communicata. Tres objectionum species, quæ Presbyteranis favere putantur. Septuaginta, Discipuli, non Apostoli. Prophetarum discipuli, παῖδες Ministri, præcursores, Mat. 3. 11. Johannes Baptista discipulus Christi, ideóque Apostolis minor, Luc. 10. 1. Mat. 11. 10. Septuaginta in discipulorum numero substiterunt, donec vel ad Apostolatum, vel ad Diaconatum, vel ad munus Evangelistarum admoverentur. Tria Blondelli Argumenta in contrarium expenduntur. De rebus gestis soli Historiæ fides debetur. Petitio principii. Septuaginta discipulorum, quà talium, nulla in Ecclesiâ Apostolicâ authoritas. Duplex missio ἐργάτων & ἀρχόντων. Responsio ad primum, ad secundum, ad tertium, ad quartum à Nicolao proselyto petitum argumentum. Proselytorum duo genera, γνῆσιοι, fœderis, portæ. Proselyti fœderis, iidem cum Judæis. (Μεσότοιχον φραγμοῦ, Eph. 2. 14.) Sichimitæ, Achior, Nabuzaradan, Urias, Herodes, Regnum Proselytorum, Nicolaus. Talibus Evangelium Christus annuntiabat. Via Gentium, Γαλιλαία ἐθνῶν, Mat. 4. 15. προσήλυτοι ὁλόκληροι. Fœderis filii, Act. 3. 5. Nicolaus Diaconus, Act. 6.

§. 1. EX istis sic positis illud statim certissimum, & lúcidissimum exurgit, His duodecim, in terris, Christi vicariis, ejus mandato aut diplomate munitis, eâdemque ratione à Christo missis, quâ ille à Patre mittebatur, adeò omnem in Ecclesiâ authoritatem in solidum, & in integrum commissam esse, ut non ea cuivis mortalium (demptis pauculis, quos Deus ipse per sortilegium, ut * Matthiam, vel voce de cœlo, & mandato Spiritus Sancti, ut † Saulem & Barnabam, Apostolicæ dignitatis participes fecerit) rectè tribui possit, nisi quem Apostolorum aliquis in profectionibus, aut provinciis ipsorum, aut immediatè, aut mediatè, in potestatis & authoritatis suæ participationem, aut successionem admiserit. Hos verò sic admissos, sic ipsis succedentes, Episcopos, aut singulares Ecclesiarum Præfectos fuisse, Antiquissimi Ecclesiæ scriptores à nobis producti, satis liberaliter testati sunt, mox, cùm occasio tulerit, cumulatiùs facturi.

* Act. 1. 26.

† Act. 13. 2.

§. 2. Libet hîc aliquantisper pedem figere, & paucula per modum Appendicis annectenda curare, quæ quavis ratione contra thesim hanc objici aut obtendi posse videantur.

§. 3. Ea autem ad tria potissimùm capita reducenda erunt, Primò quæ à Septuaginta Christi, dum in terris esset, discipulis; Secundò, quæ sub Apostolorum ævo, ab Evangelistarum officio; Tertiò, quæ ex antiquæ Ecclesiæ monumentis de Presbyterorum & Chorepiscoporum authoritate, concludi posse putantur.

§. 4. Hæc omnia paucis hîc proponenda (quamvis loco fortassis non suo) & adversus ea thesin nostram muniendam & propugnandam putavimus.

§. 5. Ad Septuaginta quod attinet, Palam est, eos ἀπὸ μαθητῶν, non Ἀποστόλων, Discipulorum, non Apostolorum Christi Classi accensendos esse; imò, cùm discipuli essent, non tamen τῆς διδαχῆς, qui propiùs ad Christum accesserunt, & ad domestica quasi ministeria & quotidiana officia assumpti sunt, exæquandus.

§. 6. Ad discipulos Prophetarum inter Judæos pertinebat, ut Prophetis ministrarent, & inservirent, sic Josua Mosi, Exod. 24. 13. Eliæ Elizæus, 1 Reg. 19. 2. idóque Προφητῶν παῖδες, Prophetarum filii dicti, eodem Hebraismo, quo παῖδες & ὑπηρέται, filii & ministri, aut servi, pro Synonymis usurpantur.

§. 7. Hos itidem ad negotia ipsorum à Prophetis missos constat, at ἰδίως, præcursorum, aut fœcialium more, ipsis in profectionibus præivisse. Sic cum Johannes Christi prodromus, se indignum esse affirmet, ut ejus, qui post eum veniebat, calceos gestaret, Mat. 3. 11. patet ad discipulorum morem respici, qui ut calceos gestare, & ad servilia opera adhiberi, sic & præire Prophetis solebant.

§. 8. Sic de Septuaginta Lucas, qui solus inter Evangelistas eorum meminit, c. 10. 1. dissertè affirmat, Christum illos ἀπέστειλεν πρὸ προσώπου αὐτοῦ, ante faciem suam misisse (sic ut de Baptistâ dicebatur, Christi ἄγγελον nuntium fuisse, ante faciem ejus missum, qui præpararet viam ejus ante eum, Mat. 11. 10.) εἰς πᾶσαν πόλιν καὶ τόπον, ὃ ἤμελλεν αὐτὸς ἔρχεσθαι, ad omnem civitatem & locum, quò Christus iturus erat.

ἄγγελον

§. 9. Hanc certè Christi missionem, ab eâ, quæ postea duodecim Apostolis contigit, longè differre, ex prædictis liquet. Nec illud fortassis indignum erit, quod hîc reponatur, Baptistam ipsum, licèt clarissimè ante alios omnes, Christum annuntiaret, digitóque quasi demonstraret, & ob id, natorum inter mulieres maximus diceretur, & prophetâ major, μειζότερος, aut μειοτέρου τι, Mat. 11. 9. amplius quicquam sibi commissum habens, quàm quod prophetis contigerat, adeò tamen Apostolis Christi inferiorem censeri, ut de eo pronuntiet Christus μικρότερον ἐν βασιλείᾳ τῶν οὐρανῶν, eum qui minimus in regno cœlorum futurus esset, i. e. Apostolorum Christi ultimum, ὅτι μείζονα εἶναι, illo majorem esse, v. 11.

§. 10. Cum istis optimè omnia, quæ aut in Evangelio aut Actis, aut apud antiquos de Septuagintâ leguntur, concordant.

§. 11. Ex illorum numero Matthiam post excessum Judæ Christique ascensionem, ad Apostolatum evectum esse non ambigimus, Act. 1. (exemplo quidem Presbyteranorum ἐπισκαδμία pessimè ominante) ideóque ut Barsabam, sic & alios omnes, quibus ad fastigium illud ascendere non contigit, in numero discipulorum, non Apostolorum substitisse.

§. 12. Alios statim septem, ad Diaconatus in Ecclesiâ Hierosolymitanâ gradum assumptos esse, Alios dein non paucos ad Evangelii prædicationem, seu, quod dicitur, Evangelistarum munus obeundum, ab Apostolis sibi adjunctos, Antiquorum non pauci affirmârunt.

§. 13. De Diaconis testatur Epiphanius, aliíque, Nec illud fanè cuivis à partium studio alieno improbabile videbitur, cùm septem isti ante hanc surrogationem, ἄνδρες μαρτυρούμενοι, & πλήρεις πνεύματος ἁγίου καὶ σοφίας dicantur, v. 3. & præ aliis Stephanus, ἀνὴρ πλήρης πίστεως, καὶ πνεύματος ἁγίου, v. 5. statímque πίστεως καὶ δυνάμεως fidei & potentiæ, i. e. miraculorum dono præditus, v. 8. (quod de Septuaginta illis dicebatur, Luc. 10. 17.) ex quo sequitur eum τέρατα, & σημεῖα μεγάλα fecisse. Sic & Philippus prædicasse statim Evangelium, & miracula fecisse, adeóque omnem Samariam ad fidem convertisse legitur, c. 8. 6.

§. 14. Verum illud D. Blondello displicuisse, non est quod dissimulem. Ille tribus argumentis omnem Epiphanio authoritatem derogari, simúlque rem omnem confici credidit, Apol. p. 113. Primum est, Quòd, cùm sacrilegii à Romanæ Ecclesiæ Legatis, approbante etiam toto Concilio Chalcedonensi, incusaretur, qui Episcopum ad Presbyterorum gradum detrudere moliretur, majoris sacrilegii genus censendum sit, Apostolatu functos ad Diaconatum detrudere. Secundum, Quòd absurdum sit, & pietati contumeliosum, Primitivorum Ecclesiæ ipsam hæreticorum descriptionem aptare, disciplinæ prostrationem pertendere, ordinationésque Apostolicas, adeò inconstantes fingere, ut instituti à Christo verbi præcones, gradu suo statim deturbari putentur, sic ut dici possit, Hodie Apostolus, cras Laicus erit, mox ex Laico Diaconus futurus. Tertium, Quòd insaniæ fuisset non mediocris, si ex eodem collegio alios (ut Barnabam Apostolum dictum) vel præcipuo cultu dignati essent, vel intaminatis honoribus saltem fulgere sivissent, immerentes alios, indictâ causâ præcipites dedissent, quos postea profano fastidio conculcarent.

§. 15. Certè novæ sunt hæ argumentandi formulæ, [Sacrilegium est, absurdum, pietati contumeliosum, tandémque insaniæ (Quantæ?) genus.] Sic certè Rhetores, non Logici loqui amant, qui Satyros, non qui syllogismos nectunt. Ast alii è contra non pauci, nec sacrilegi, nec vesani, Epiphanii sententiam, per omnia & rationi, & pietati consentaneam asserunt, nec igitur quicquam fidentiori negatione D. Blondellus lucratus est, nisi ut nobis testatum faceret, quædam impia & ἀναπόλουθα D. Blondello censeri, quæ aliis cordatis viris multò secus videntur.

§. 16. At secundò vir doctissimus denuò monendus est, nihil rationi magis dissentaneum esse, quàm ut rei gestæ historia, ad quamvis trutinam aut examen præter eam, quæ testibus fide dignis peragitur, exigatur, aut ut quod testimoniis comprobatum est, sub quavis impietatis, aut insaniæ specie refelli, aut redargui posse putetur.

§. 17. Illud hâc in lite, ut & in aliis omnibus inter nos & D. Blondellum pro concessò ponetur, Apostolos nihil impium & insanum admisisse; Dubitamus tantum de facto, an illi ita vel secus fecerint, ex eo, Christi, qui Apostolorum corda regebat, sententiam, adeóque pietatem & sanitatem dogmatis æstimaturi; Hoc autem de facto, vel non facto ζήτημα, non rationibus sed testibus disceptandum est.

§. 18. Nos, Stephanum & Philippum, è 70. Christi discipulis fuisse, Epiphanio teste, Patre, inquit D. Blondellus, Optimo, probamus; D. Blondellus nullius mortalium testimonio, præterquam suo usus, sacrilegium & absurdum inclamans, ἀσυζεῖν Epiphanium, licet Optimum Patrem, nos insanire affirmat.

§. 19. Absit ut nos contumeliæ isti talionem reddamus, illud tantùm additurí, verissimè ab Aristotelis interpretibus dictum esse, τὸ ἐν ἀρχῇ αἰτεῖσθαι, ὅταν τι δείκνυται δι' ἑαυτῆς, πιθανὸς δι' ἄλλα δείκνυσθαι, nec igitur incongruum esse, si qui sententiam suam non alio quàm affirmationis suæ argumento, aut testimonio confirmandam putaverit, principium postulasse, non demonstrasse, censeatur.

§. 20. Tertiò autem ad argumenta, vel potiùs Paralogismos D. Blondelli singulos respondemus, hoc uno prælibato, Septuaginta Christi discipulos, licet ad tempus à Christo emissi fuerint, non tamen (quod ait D. Blondellus) ad Apostolicam functionem vocatos esse, nec certè Apostolos fuisse quales duodecim, aut quatenus eo titulo authoritas aut ἐξουσία, potestas aut principatus in Ecclesiâ notatur; Duplicem enim missionem fuisse prædiximus, nuntiorum, & ἡγεμόνων, ἀρχόντων, & ἀρχόντων, vulgarem & solennem, priorem Mat. 10. 1. posteriorem Jo. 20. descriptam & collatam; priorem, ut Christo per civitates proficiscenti, tot fæciales & prodromi præcurrerent, posteriorem, ut Christo terras relinquenti in gubernandâ Ecclesiâ succederent. Illam, πρόσκαιρον, & quamprimum ad Christum reverterentur, Luc. 10. 17. sponte suâ, jubente nemine, finiendam, Hanc, in Apostolis & successoribus eorum, ad mundi consummationem duraturam, Hanc igitur, clavium donatione signatam fuisse, spirationis aut ἐμφυσήσεως ritu quodammodo traditam, verbis solennibus [Sicut Pater misit me, Ego mitto vos, & Recipite Spiritum Sanctum, & Quorum remiseritis, &c. & Ite & μαθητεύσατε omnes gentes] comprehensam, & clarissimè (quæ fuerit potestas ea, & ut ab omni, seu ipsis, seu aliis quibuscunque communicatâ potestate, divisa) explicatam, tandémque potentiæ & sollicitudinis divinæ, ipsis nunquam defuturæ pollicitatione, firmatam & suffultam.

§. 21. Hinc

§. 21. Hinc factum est, ut cùm hi ab ipso Christo Apostoli dicantur, Luc. 6. 13. eóque dignitatis & eminentiæ nomine ab Evangelistis dignoscantur, Mat. 10. 2. Luc. 17. 5. 22. 14. 24. 10. & in Actis ubique, Illi nullo nisi ἐπίσκοποι τῶν ἑβδομήκοντα, Luc. 10. 1. & ἡγεμὼν ἑβδομήκοντα, v. 17. titulo, & fortassis sub ista ἀνδρῶν ἡμῖν ἐν παντὶ χρόνῳ συμπλεόντων periphrasi, Act. 1. 21. noscantur, nec alibi in Scriptura memorentur; ideóque ab Ecclesiasticis scriptoribus, Clemente, Eusebio, aliisque, μαθηταὶ semper (quorum & πολὺ πλῆθος ubique memoratur) nullibi, quod sciamus, Apostoli nuncupentur.

§. 22. Hinc & illud factum est, quòd cùm Apostolorum nomina enumerentur, Act. 1. cùm duodenarius numerus totidem thronis à Christo donandus, tantâ cum curâ integer servetur, ut avulso, vel occidente uno non deficiat alter resurrectionis Christi μάρτυς, Act. 1. 22. priorum tamen nomina ipsa ingens caligo obtexerit, affirmante inter Antiquos Eusebio, ὧν ἑβδομήκοντα μαθητῶν καταλόγου οὐδένα οὐδαμῆ φέρεσθαι, Septuaginta discipulorum Catalogum nusquam recenseri.

Eccl. hist. l. 1. Κεφ. ια'.

§. 23. His sic prælibatis, ad primum argumentum facilis responsio est, Eos, qui ex 70. discipulis Diaconos septem allectos affirmant, Emissarios, seu ministros Christi, (sed non Apostolatu functus) ad Diaconorum gradum (in Ecclesiâ non contemnendum) allectos asserere; Id verò non est [Detrudere ad Diaconatum] Ideóque quamvis ὄπισκοπον εἰς πρεσβυτέρου καταγειν βαθμὸν, detrusionem Episcopi ad Presbyteri gradum, ἱερωσυλίας sacrilegii genus esse D. Blondello lubentissimè largiamur (& omnem tanti sceleris invidiam ab eo procul averti cupiamus) nullam tamen sacrilegii speciem Apostolis, qui ex Discipulis ad Diaconatum aliquos ascendere jusserunt, sine ipso sacrilegio, imputari posse existimamus.

§. 24. Ad secundum pariter, Huic Diaconorum, ex Septuaginta discipulorum numero, surrogationi, nullam hæreticæ conversationis descriptionem aptari posse, nullam disciplinæ prostrationem sequi, nullam levitatis, temeritatis, inconstantiæ labem isti Apostolicæ ordinationi affingi; nec enim priùs Apostolos, aut Episcopos fuisse, sed discipulos & ministros Christi, qui tunc ad Diaconorum gradum sufficiebantur.

§. 25. Ad tertium itidem, Nullius insaniæ esse, siquis unum ex Septuaginta, Matthiam scilicet (& ut rem gratam D. Blondello faciamus, Barnabam) ad Apostolatum, gradum in Ecclesiâ supremum, Dei χειροτονήτου ἀναδείξει, electum esse, alios verò septem, ad inferiora munera, ab Apostolis ordinatos, aut constitutos affirmet; neminem quippe hoc facto, (aut dictâ, aut) indictâ causâ præcipitem dari, neminem profano fastidio conculcari.

§. 26. Hæc verò omnia à D. Blondello satis fastidiosè, & intemperanter dicta esse, non est quod jam queramur, cùm contra consultissimum Epiphanii testimonium, sententiam suam (nullâ authoritate munitam, nullis rationum momentis à καινοδοξίας censurâ redimendam) alio quàm verborum clypeo tueri non potuerit; Huic certè caulæ ipsius non aliter propagandæ necessitati imputandum est, quòd μαθητὰς in Ἀποστόλους leviter mutatis, sine omni probatione, aut exemplo, Apostolicam illis functionem tribuerit, cui unico τῷ ψεύδους αἰτίῳ reliqua omnia superstruenda erant.

§. 27. At & inter alia ad hanc materiam consarcinata, quartum apud * D. Blondellum contra hanc nostram sententiam argumentum occurrit, Nicolaum scilicet è Diaconis unum, Proselytum fuisse, Quem, inquit, ad Apostolicam functionem ab initio vocasse Christum, absurdum censebitur, cum Apostolos ad Gentilem ullum, aut Samaritanum divertere, exerto mandato prohibueret Christus, Mat. 10. 5.

* Apol. Hieron. p. 106.

§. 28. Facilis itidem responsio, 1. Functionem Apostolicam, quatenus ea Authoritatem in Ecclesiâ significat, Nicolao nunquam, nec alteri cuivis, sub illâ sæculi parte, præter 12. Apostolos, competiisse.

§. 29. Secundò, Proselytorum (Hebræi גרים, & inde Graci γυήσιος, * Eusebius γειώσεως ἐπιμίκτους, Peregrinos Israëlitis permixtos nuncupat) duo genera fuisse, 1. גרו ברורה, seu צדק, Proselytos Fœderis, seu Justitiæ, 2. גרו שער Proselytos Portæ appellatos. Proselyti Fœderis, Circumcisionem, Lotiones, Sabbata, & Mosaicos ritus omnes, adeóque integram Judæorum religionem (sic ut apud Mahumedanos Mamluchi) suscipiebant, (cùm aliis sola filiorum Noæ præcepta observanda proponerentur) ideóque cooptari in Ecclesiam Israël à Rabbinis, in morem Judæorum transgredi à Tacito dicebantur, Hist. l. 5. Et ut infantes recèns nati, consanguinitatibus omnibus prioribus exuti, & παλιγγενέντες, Judæorum prærogativæ participes fiebant, idem Templi atrium ingrediebantur (cùm Proselyti Portæ, atrio Gentilium, ab atrio Judæorum μεσοτοίχῳ τῷ φραγμῷ, inquit Apostolus Eph. 2. 14. χείσω, ῥήγνυμι, inquit Josephus, separato, & diviso continerentur) adeóque per omnia (nisi quòd Parentibus Ethnicis nascebantur) cum Judæis exæquabantur.

Eccl. hist. l. 1. Κεφ. ζ'.

§. 30. Sic Justinus, Περσήλυτος ὁ προσηλυθὼς, εἰ τῷ λαῷ προσκεχώρηκεν, ὅθεν ὡς αὐτόχθων, Proselytus circumcisus, si populo accesserit, est tanquam inquilinus. Quod & à * Juliano de omnibus alienigenis, cujuslibet civitatis mores assumentibus, affirmatum videmus, λέγω δή, inquit, ὅτι καὶν ἀλλαχόθεν τυγχάνωσι, τῷ μετέχειν ἅπαντας ἴσης τῆς πολιτείας καὶ τοῖς ἔθεσι καὶ νόμοις χρῆσθαι, πολίται γενόμενοι, Et si alibinde orti sint, tamen omnes, eo quòd ejusdem vitæ rationis participes sint, moribúsque istic receptis & legibus utantur, pro civibus habendi sunt.

* Orat. 1. p. 9.

§. 31. Tales Proselyti Sichimitæ fuerunt, talis Achior, Judit. 14. 10. ideò apponi ad domum Israël dictus; Talis Nebuzaradan, ait * Gemara, talis Urias Hethæus, talis Herodes Idumæus, cujus ad posteros deductum regnum dicitur מלכות גרים regnum Proselytorum; Talis denique Nicolaus, de quo nunc loquimur.

* Sanhedrin. c. 11. §. 24.

§. 32. Talibus autem Justitiæ, & Fœderis Proselytis, æquè ac natis Judæis, Christum miracula & verbum suum impertiisse, tandémque post fidem receptam, ministerio ipsorum uti potuisse, nemini incredibile erit, qui Matthæum publicanum, adeóque Gentilibus exæquatum, ad Apostolatum ipsum admissum adverterit.

§. 33. Quod autem ex Mandato Christi, Mat. 10. 5. concludi optavit D. Blondellus, longè abest, ut concludatur. Ibi enim à Christo præcipitur, non, ut ait D. Blondellus, ne ad quemlibet Gentilem, aut Samaritanum divertant, sed tantùm ne ad viam Gentium, confinium puta Gentium, Tyri, & Sidonis, circum ambientium Galilæam (dictam exinde Γαλιλαίαν τῶν ἐθνῶν, Mat. 4. 15. ex Is. 9. 1. ubi גלילות Gentilium, à Chaldæo תחומי, confinia, à Græco Γαλιλαία ἀλλοφύλων redditur) ut nec ad Samaritanorum civitatem abeant, sed Judæam solummodò peragrent, (cui primò ex decreto Dei, Fides Christi annunciandа erat, & in quâ tot civitates & vici erant, ut non priùs omnes peragraturi sint quàm Filius hominis venturus esset, v. 23.) Quod qui faciunt, nihil impedit, quo minus Proselytos in omnibus Judææ civitatibus ἐπιμίκτους, sacrorum omnium, ipsiúsque Fœderis participes, (fortassis & fœderis filios, ut ii filiis Abrahami carnalibus contradistinguuntur, Act. 3. 5. appellatos) ad fidem vocarent.

§. 34. Certè

§. 34. Certè Nicolaum ad Diaconatum inter primos assumptum esse satis patet, Act. 6. Quod cùm tam exiguo spatio post prædicatum primò Evangelium factum sit, diúque ante fidem à Petro Antiochiæ (unde Nicolaus oriundus erat) annuntiatum, non mirum videbitur, eos qui jam tum μαρτυρόμενοι, & pleni Spiritu sancto, & fide dicebantur, tales & tantos viros ipsius Christi tempore fuisse, ut ministerio, & famulitio eorum, satis commodè uti potuerit.

CAP. VI.

Evangelistæ ex Septuaginta Discipulis allecti. Barnabas, Thaddæus, Sosthenes, Marcus, Lucas. Evangelistis Diaconi exæquati. Timotheus & Titus Evangelistæ non erant, Evangelistæ munus ad χειροτονίαν non extendebatur. Εὐαγγελίζεσθαι ut differat à διδάσκειν, Act. 15. 35. Λόγος à διδασκαλία, 1 Tim. 5. 17. Εὐαγγελιστοῦ ἔργον, 2 Tim. 3. 5. Episcopi etiam Evangelizabant.

§. 1. VIndicatio igitur Epiphanii testimonio, & authoritate, & argumentis D. Blondelli contrà militantibus tam prolixâ accommodatâ responsione, Ad Evangelistas, Apostolorum συνεργοὺς, & συστατικὰς pergamus; Quorum itidem non paucos ex Septuaginta discipulorum classe assumptos testantur antiqui. Illud de Barnabâ (priusquam ad Apostolatum eveheretur) [a] Clemens, [b] Eusebius, [c] Epiphanius; De Thaddæo ad Principem Emissenum à Sancto Thoma misso, [d] Eusebius, ex monumento Edesseno; de Sosthene, [e] Eusebius; de Marco & Lucâ, [f] Epiphanius; de aliis alii, nemine, quod sciam, reclamante, affirmarunt; Nec opus est, ut plura addamus.

[a] Strom. 2.
[b] Eccl. Hist. 1. 11.
[c] Hær. 20.
[d] Lib. 1. c. 11, 12.
[e] Lib. 1. c. 11
[f] Hær. 51.

§. 2. Imò cùm Evangelistæ munus in eo tantummodo positum fuerit, ut aliquis in fide μαρτυρόμενος, & παῤῥησίας dono à Spiritu Sancto imbutus, (qui cum illis ab initio prædicati à Christo Evangelii permanserit, Act. 1. 21.) Apostolis volentibus & jubentibus, ad prædicandam fidem proficisceretur, conversos baptizandi potestatem haberet, simulque fortassis miraculorum charismate donatus, morborum depulsione ad animas sanandas uteretur, & ad recipiendam fidem efficaciùs pertraheret, Si illud insuper advertatur, quod est verissimum, Diaconorum officium non sic ad mensarum administrationem restrictum esse, quin & ad isthæc omnia extenderetur, Act. 8. 5, 6, 16. in idem planè recidere palam erit, quantum ad 70. Discipulos attinet, sive ad Evangelistarum (quod multi Patres dixerunt) sive ad Diaconatus gradum (quod Epiphanio disertim affirmanti non largitur D. Blondellus) ascendisse eos dicamus.

§. 3. Videatur Pseud-Ambrosius, (cujus testimonio adeò libenter usi sunt D. Blondellus, & Cl. Salmasius) in Eph. 4. Evangelistæ, inquit, Diaconi sunt, sicut fuit Philippus; Quamvis non sint Sacerdotes, Evangelizare tamen possunt sine Cathedrâ, quemadmodum & Stephanus, & Philippus memoratus.

§. 4. Adeò sine omni rationis specie à Presbyterana ἰσοτιμίας fautoribus assumi solet, Timotheum & Titum, &c. quibus Presbyteros in Ecclesiis ordinandi (ut & τὰ τὰ λείποντα ἐπιδιορθῶν) hæreticos excommunicandi, pœnitentes absolvendi facultas in Scripturis competit, Evangelistas tantùm fuisse, & ut Evangelistas extra ordinem missos, hæc omnia præstitisse.

§. 5. Primò enim, Quis, unquam mortalium ab omni retro ævo, Timotheum Ephesо, Titum Cretæ à Paulo præpositum, non Episcoporum, sed tantummodò Evangelistarum nomine noscì voluit? Quis extra ordinem ad Ecclesiarum istarum gubernacula advectos esse? Aut in re tantâ, & ante tot annorum Centurias gestâ, quis testibus recèns natis, &, contra omnem αὐτόπτων fidem, in re suâ testimonium ferentibus, credendum esse existimabit?

§. 6. Secundò, Quis Evangelistæ officium, quod ad prædicandum primò, quibus incognitum est, Evangelium, & ad vicariam Apostolis in profectionibus suis operam præstandam instituebatur, ad constituendos Presbyteros, & ad regendas Ecclesias pertigisse affirmavit? Certè Philippus post conversam prædicatione suâ Samariam, ipse itidem Evangelista appellatus, Act. 21. 8. non aliam quàm baptizandi facultatem sibi arrogavit, Act. 6. 12. impositione manuum, quâ Spiritu sancto imbuendi erant fideles, ad Petrum & Johannem Apostolos reservatâ, v. 14.

§. 7. Imò tertiò notari etiam illud poterit, vocem εὐαγγελίζεσθαι (ut & κηρύσσειν, Mar. 16. 15. & μαθητεύειν, Mat. 28. 29.) sic à voce διδάσκειν dissitam esse, Act. 15. 35. ut illa ad Evangelii primam promulgationem, hæc ad fidelium confirmationem, & institutionem ἰδίως accommodetur. Sic Apostoli Act. 5. 42. & διδάσκειν dicuntur, & εὐαγγελίζεσθαι, docere eos qui jam conversi fuerant, Evangelizare autem aut prædicare Fidem Christi, quibus nondum innotuit. Sic & λόγος καὶ διδασκαλία, 1 Tim. 5. 17. λόγος ad Infideles, & extra Ecclesiam positos (videatur 2 Cor. 5. 19. Mat. 13. 19. Mar. 2. 2. & 4. 14. Act. 4. 4. & 6. 2.) διδασκαλία ad fideles, & intra Ecclesiæ pomœria manentes, spectabat.

§. 8. Hinc igitur rectè, sub isto ævo, inter Doctores & Evangelistas differentia colligitur, Eph. 4. 11. [τοὺς δὲ εὐαγγελιστὰς, τοὺς δὲ ποιμένας καὶ διδασκάλους] Evangelistis ad plantandum ubivis Evangelium emissis, Doctoribus verò (aut quod idem est, Pastoribus) huic fundamento superædificantibus, adeóque Christianos in fide roborandos, & intra ovile retinendos curantibus, Quos quidem Episcopos fuisse, & præ aliis omnibus dignos existimatos, quibus διπλῆ τιμὴ duplex alimonia obtingerit, 1 Tim. 5. 17. simúlque præfectura, & Authoritas in Ecclesiâ, seu Episcopalis dignitas & eminentia, nos postmodùm monstrabimus.

§. 9. Cùm verò illud unicum hîc objici videam, moneri scil. Timotheum ut ἔργον εὐαγγελιστοῦ faciat, 2 Tim. 4. 5. ideóque Evangelistam dicendum esse, Facilis quidem responsio est, Timotheum à Paulo Ephesinæ Ecclesiæ præpositum, universam sibi, quod sæpius monuimus, Asiam concreditam habuisse, nec credentium tantùm, sed & μελλόντων πιστεύειν, eorum qui crediturì erant, Episcopum fuisse, nec igitur gubernandi tantùm fidelium cœtus, sed & nondum credentibus annuntiandi Fidem onus illi incubuisse; Illud est κηρύσσειν τὸν λόγον, v. 2. illud Εὐαγγελιστοῦ ἔργον ποιεῖν, quod cum [διακονίαν σου] conjunctum videmus; Nec igitur ex eo Episcopalem dignitatem & authoritatem Timotheo abjudicari, sed sub eâ Εὐαγγελιστοῦ, sic ut διακόνου munus (ut inferiorem in superiori gradum) comprehendi certum est.

CAP. VII.

Presbyteri nihil sine Episcopo faciendi potestatem habent. Testimonium Canonis Apostolici, Ignatii, Concilii Laodiceni, Arelatensis, Tertulliani, Justini, Pseud-Ambrosii. Consignatio pro consecratione. Episcopus curator indigentium. Blondelli σοφὸν φάρμακον, Can. Ap. 33. Clementis Romani dictum illustratur.

§. 1. SEcundò igitur, si, (ut à Septuaginta Discipulis ad Evangelistas, sic &) ab Evangelistis porrò ad primi ævi Presbyteros (postquam Presbyteri secundarii instituti sunt) aliósque id genus omnes, oculos convertamus, Patebit illud verissimum esse, & ex sententiâ universæ Primitivæ Ecclesiæ prolatum, quod Apostolorum Canone 40. sancitum dicitur, Οἱ πρεσβύτεροι καὶ διάκονοι ἄνευ γνώμης τοῦ ἐπισκόπου μηδὲν ἐπιτελείτωσαν, Αὐτὸς γάρ ἐστι πεπιστευμένος τὸν λαὸν τοῦ Κυρίου, Soli Episcopo Populum Christi concreditum esse, nihil ideò à Presbyteris aut Diaconis sine sententiâ Episcopi faciendum esse. Sic & Can. 41. Dispensationem collectæ soli Episcopo, ut magno Ecclesiæ œconomo, (sic ut oblationes Sacerdoti in veteri Testamento, & Liberalitas Fidelium, Apostolis Act. 4. 34.) concreditam fuisse constat, Presbyteris verò, ac Diaconis, ab, & sub Episcopo, Præcipimus ut in potestate suâ Episcopus Ecclesiæ res habeat. Si enim anima hominum pretiosa illi sunt concreditæ, multò magis oportet eum curam pecuniarum gerere, ita ut potestate ejus indigentibus omnia dispensentur per Presbyteros & Diaconos, &c.

§. 2. Id etiam ab Ignatio Martyre aliquoties pronuntiatum fuit, in Ep. ad Magnesios, Ὥσπερ οὖν ὁ Κύριος ἄνευ τοῦ Πατρὸς οὐδὲν ποιεῖ, ἕνωσις καὶ ὑμεῖς ἄνευ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, μηδὲ πρεσβύτερος, μηδὲ διάκονος, μηδὲ λαϊκὸς, Ut igitur Dominus sine Patre nihil facit, sic & vos sine Episcopo, neque Presbyter, neque Diaconus, neque Laicus. In Ep. ad Smyrnenses, Μηδεὶς χωρὶς τοῦ ἐπισκόπου τι πρασσέτω τῶν ἀνηκόντων εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, Nihil scilicet eorum quæ ad Ecclesiam pertinent, aut à Diacono, aut Presbytero, sine Episcopo fieri oportere.

§. 3. Quod & Laodiceni Concilii Can. 56. sancitum est, τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους μηδὲν ποιεῖν ἄνευ γνώμης τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, Sine sententiâ Episcopi Presbyteros nihil facere, Ut & Arelatensis Concilii Can. 19. Nec Presbyteris civitatis sine Episcopi sententiâ ampliùs aliquid imperare, vel sine authoritate literarum ejus in unaquâque parochiâ aliquid agere.

§. 4. Et ne ad Actus tantùm eminentiores, Canones hos pertinere quispiam putet, dilucidè itidem Ignatius noster, De Eucharistiâ, ad Smyrnenses, Ἐκείνη βεβαία εὐχαριστία ἡγείσθω, ἡ ὑπὸ ἐπίσκοπον οὖσα, ἢ ᾧ ἂν αὐτὸς ἐπιτρέψῃ, Ea Eucharistia firma reputetur, quæ ab Episcopo celebratur, aut ab eo cui Episcopus licentiam concesserit. De Baptismo & Eucharistiâ simul, οὐκ ἐξὸν ἐστὶ χωρὶς τοῦ ἐπισκόπου οὔτε βαπτίζειν, οὔτε προσφέρειν. Non licet sine Episcopo, aut baptizare, aut offerre, ἀλλ' ὅταν ἐκείνῳ δοκῇ, ἵνα ἀσφαλὲς ᾖ καὶ βέβαιον πᾶν ὃ ἂν πράσσητε, Sed quando illi visum fuerit, secundum beneplacitum Dei. Necessarium quippe Episcopi consensum esse, ut ratum & validum quidlibet in Ecclesiâ à Presbytero ficret.

§. 5. Sic & Tertullianus de Cor. Mil. Non de aliorum quàm de Præsidentium manu Eucharistiam sumimus (quod idem sub πρεσβύτων nomine affirmat Justinus Martyr Apol. 2.) & de Bapt. Dandi baptismum jus habet summus Sacerdos, qui est Episcopus, dein Presbyteri & Diaconi, non tamen sine Episcopi authoritate, propter honorem Ecclesiæ, quo salvo salva pax est.

§. 6. Sic cùm Pseud-Ambrosius, seu, quisquis ille fuerit, Author anonymus Quæstionum in Vet. & Nov. Testam. In Alexandriâ, & per totam Ægyptum, si desit Episcopus, consecrare presbyterum affirmaverit, Ex eâ libertatis hujus (ut Ægypto peculiaris, & tantummodo cùm abesset Episcopus) mentione, illud satis perspicitur, Eam Eucharistiæ consecrandæ authoritatem, nemini præter Episcopum canonicè competiisse, dein verò Presbyteris, quibus Episcopus eam largitus sit.

§. 7. Ex quo testimonio illud etiam palam fiet, D. Blondellum & Cl. Salmasium eandem, ne quid pejus dicam, ἀβλεψίαν occupasse, cùm in altero hujus Pseud-Ambrosii loco, in Eph. 4. ab * utroque laudato [Apud Ægyptum Presbyteri consignant, si præsens non sit Episcopus] per consignationem illam, aut confirmationem baptizatorum, aut pœnitentium benedictionem, aut ordinandorum consecrationem denotari affirment, Quam ex antedicto loco ad solam Eucharistiæ consecrationem pertinere satis constat.

* Blond. Apol. p. 57. Salmas. Apparat. ad l. de Prim.

§. 8. De pecuniis etiam Ecclesiæ disertim cavetur Can. Apost. 41. Δεῖ τὸν Ἐπίσκοπον, &c. Oportet Episcopum curam pecuniarum gerere, ita ut potestate ejus indigentibus omnia dispensentur per Presbyteros & Diaconos. Et initio Canonis, Præcipimus ut in potestate suâ Ecclesiæ res habeat, quomodo de πρεσβῶν Justinus, Apol. 2, Συλλεγόμενον παρὰ τῶν πρεσβώτων ἐπιτίθεται, τῇ αὐτοῦ ἐπιτροπῇ ὀρφανοῖς τε καὶ χήραις, &c. καὶ ἁπλῶς πᾶσιν ἐν χρείᾳ οὖσι κηδεμὼν γίνεται, Collecta apud ipsum deponitur, Ille autem omnium indigentium curator est. Quâ de re Polycarpum Ignatius monendum censuit, Μετὰ τὸν Κύριον σὺ χηρῶν φρουτὶς ἴσο, Episcopus viduarum curator esto. Et certè in universum Apost. Can. 39. Omnium negotiorum Ecclesiasticorum curam Episcopus habeat.

§. 9. Horum omnium Canonum vim, uno σοφῷ φαρμάκῳ tollendam curavit D. Blondellus, Presbyteros scilicet æquo propemodum jure cum Episcopo in omnibus interveniisse, adeò ut nec ipsis sine Episcopo, nec Episcopo sine ipsis agere quicquam fas erat. Et ne hoc ab eo sine omni probabilitatis specie dictum putetur, duo testimonia antiquissima ab eo producta sunt, Primum, ex Can. Apost. 33. Episcopo cuique Metropolitæ, & analogicè singulis, hanc apertissimam legem latam esse, Μηδὲ ἑαυτῷ ἄνευ τῆς πάντων γνώμης ποιείτω τι, ne ille sine omnium sententiâ quicquam faciat. Secundum, ex Clementis Romani ad Corinthios Epistolâ, τὰ προστασσόμενα ὑπὸ τῶν πλήθους ποιείτω, quæ à multitudine ordinata sunt, faciat.

§. 10. Quàm candidè & ingenuè hîc se gesserit D. Blondellus, paucis videndum est. Integri canonis verba hæc sunt, Ἐπισκόπους, &c. Episcopos Gentium singularum scire convenit, quis inter eos primus habeatur, quem velut caput existiment, & nihil ampliùs sine ejus sententiâ gerant, quàm illa sola singuli, quæ παροικία ἰδίᾳ, diœcesi propriæ, & villis quæ sub eâ sunt, competunt, sed nec ille sine omnium sententiâ faciat aliquid, sic enim unanimitas erit, &c. Manifestum est, vocem πάντων non ad Presbyteros, sed ad reliquos Gentis aut Provinciæ Episcopos respicere; Quædam scilicet esse, quæ ad propriam uniuscujusque Episcopi diœcesim pertinent, ea à singulis Episcopis, sine respectu ad quemvis, seu Primatem, seu Co-

episcopum

episcopum, rectè fieri; Quædam verò esse, quæ rectè administrari non unius tantùm diœceseos, sed & universæ Gentis, aut Provinciæ interfit, Ea verò sine Metropolitæ sententiâ non rectè fieri, imò ad unitatem Ecclesiæ multum conferre, ut id genus omnia ex sententiâ omnium Chorepiscoporum fiant.

§. 11. Nec fœliciùs certè D. Blondello cessit, quod ex Clemente produxit testimonium. Videatur itidem locus, seditionem contra Presbyteros Ecclesiæ Corinthiacæ, imò Episcopos Ecclesiæ Achaicæ (ut patebit cùm ad Clementem descenderimus) motam, sic compesci voluit vir Sanctissimus. Αἰσχρὸ, inquit, καὶ λίαν αἰσχρὸ, &c. Turpe est, imò valdè turpe, firmissimam, antiquámque Ecclesiam δι' ἓν ἢ δύο πρόσωπα σαλεύειν, propter unam aut alteram personam adversùs Presbyteros seditionem concitare. Τίς ἔν σε ὑμῖν ἥμερος; τίς εὔσπλαγχνος; τίς πολυεύφορμός ἐστιν ἀγάπης; εἰπάτω, εἰ δι' ἐμὲ ταύτης, καὶ ἔστω, ἀπολιμπάνω, ἀναχωρῶ, ἀπέρχομαι, ἐὰν βούλησθε, καὶ ποιῶ τὸ πρόσταγμα ὑπὸ πλήθους, μόνον τὸ ποίμνιον τοῦ Χριστοῦ εἰρηνευέτω μετὰ τῶν καθεστώτων πρεσβυτέρων, Quis inter vos generosus? Quis ad misericordiam pronus? Quis charitate præ aliis imbutus? sic dicat, si in mei gratiam seditio, contentio, schismata fiant, Ecce secedo, quocunque vultis abeo, & quæ à multitudine præcipiuntur, facio, (Ego scilicet omnia in vestram gratiam facturus, aut passurus sum, non opto in meam vos quippiam seditiosè faciatis) ovile tantùm Christi cum Presbyteris constitutis pace fruatur.

§. 12. Nihil hîc de Episcoporum potestate aut jure, nihil de Presbyteris Episcopo adæquandis; Clara omnia, & ab eo, quod hinc concludi voluit D. Blondellus, æquè ac Indi à Gadibus, longè remotissima.

CAP. VIII.

Ancyranus Canon, 12. Chorepiscopi. Cathedra. Aërii argumentum à Cathedris Presbyterorum. Ancyranus Canon 1. Non omnis Cathedræ Presbyteralis mentio, ἰσοτιμίαν Presbyteri & Episcopi concludit. Prima Episcopi Cathedra cum Authoritate in Presbyteros conjuncta. Duodecimi Canonis Ancyrani varia lectio. Chorepiscopi qui. Παροικία, Ἐκκλησία παροικοῦσα Ῥώμην, apud Clementem. Πρεσβύτερος ad Episcopum Civitatis pertinet. Unum Altare. Altare contra altare. Cathedra Episcopi non nisi in urbe. Clementis Romani locus in contrarium à Blondello adductus. Χώρα, ejus variæ acceptiones. Archiepiscopi, Sardicensis Canon. Vicani cum urbicis eadem Ecclesia. Episcopi vicani diu post Apostolos. Episcoporum vicarii. Chorepiscopi aliquando Episcopi, postea non. Πρεσβύτερα, χειροτονίαν ἐπισκόπου λαβεῖν, quid sit. Antiochenus Canon decimus explicatus contra Blondelli mentem. Ordinatio Episcopalis sine titulo. Chorepiscopi ad formam Septuaginta Discipulorum, ἀπόστολοι unde dicti, Natalis Walo & Gretserus. Antiocheni Canones à Blondello detorti. Chorepiscopis non licebat Episcopum, Presbyterum aut Diaconum ordinare. Canonis de Chorepiscopis genuinus sensus. Basilius de Chorepiscoporum authoritate. Dilemma de Chorepiscopis.

§. 1. VErùm & aliud est quod hîc à Presbyteranis produci & magnificri video, Canon scilicet ille Ancyrani Concilii duodecimus, qui de Chorepiscopis, & Civitatis Presbyteris agens, ipsorum cum Episcopis ἰσοταξίαν stabilire censetur.

§. 2. Et quandoquidem in istis fuerimus, non putabimus nos rem omnem confeciſſe, donec Walonis, & D. Blondelli vestigiis inhærentes, Canonem hunc ad calculos nostros revocaverimus: Canonis verba sic à Walone Messalino proponuntur, Χωρεπισκόπους μὴ ἐξεῖναι πρεσβυτέρους ἢ διακόνους χειροτονεῖν, ἀλλὰ μηδὲ πρεσβυτέρους πόλεως χωρὶς τῆς ἐπιτραπείσης ὑπὸ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου μετὰ γραμμάτων ἐν ἑκάστῃ παροικίᾳ, Chorepiscopis non licere Presbyteros aut Diaconos ordinare, sed neque Presbyteris Civitatis, sine permissione ab Episcopo per literas factâ in unaquaque parochiâ. P. 304.

§. 3. Hîc Presbyteros à Presbyteris ordinatos cerni clamat Walo, Chorepiscopos enim nihil aliud fuisse præter Episcopos vicorum, & ab antiquo id nomen retinuisse, cùm Presbyteri omnes dicerentur Episcopi, alioquin absurdum videri posse, quod Episcopi subjicerentur Episcopis. Concludit igitur, etiam sub Ancyrani concilii temporibus magnam inter Episcopos & Presbyteros æqualitatem duraſſe.

§. 4. Quod ex eo etiam conclusum putat, quòd ejusdem Concilii Ancyrani Canone 1. Presbyteris Cathedra assignetur, cùm de Presbyteris agens, τὸ μὲν τιμᾶν τὸ τῆς καθέδρας μετέχειν, honorem, inquit, propria cathedræ retinere iis concedat, συμφέρειν δὲ, ἢ ὁμιλεῖν, ἢ ὅλως λειτουργεῖν τι θεῖον ἱερατικὴν λειτουργὴν μὴ ἐξεῖναι, offerre verò, aut alloqui populum de suggestu, aut qualicunque Sacerdotali officio fungi iis licere non vult. Dein subsumit, Cathedra propriè est Episcopalis, & sæpe occurrit in collatione Carthaginensi, si igitur participes & consortes honoris Cathedræ Presbyteri cum Episcopo, hinc sequitur, ὅτι πλέον ἔχουσι habere Episcopos quàm Presbyteros præter πρωτοκαθεδρίαν.

§. 5. Quàm hîc rectè ex Canone primo assertionem suam de Cathedræ consortio confirmaverit Walo, primò (& ἐν παρόδῳ) dispiciendum est, dein ad Chorepiscopos, &c. in Canone 12. procedendum.

§. 6. Et ut omnia statim eluceſcant, Illud primò notetur, hoc ipso Aërium argumento militasse, cujus hæc ipsa verba Epiphanius refutanda produxit, καθίζει ὁ ἐπίσκοπος ὅτι τοῦ θρόνου, καθίζει καὶ ὁ πρεσβύτερος, l. 3. Cont. Hær. T. 1. Ad quæ statim ex Catholicæ Ecclesiæ sententiâ Epiphanius, Ἀφρονῶν τοῦτο ἔμπλεον καὶ.

§. 7. Verùm secundò, consulatur & conspiciatur Canon. Πρεσβυτέρους τοὺς ἀποδεικνυμένους, ὅτι ἀπατεπαλαίσαντας, μήτε ὀφείλειν μανθάνειν πίστιν, ἀλλ' ὀφείλειν ἀλήθειαν, &c. τούτους ἔδοξε τῷ ἁγίῳ τούτῳ τῆς καθέδρας μετέχειν, πρεσβύτερον ὄντας αὐτοὺς, ἢ ὁμιλεῖν, ἢ ὅλως λειτουργεῖν τι θεῖον ἱερατικὴν λειτουργίαν μὴ ἐξεῖναι. Manifestum est illud tantummodò hoc Canone curari, ut Presbyteri, qui sacrificia idolis offerenda graviter peccaverint, post verò ex pœnitentiâ facti ad confessionem Christi, & certamen, verè, & non ex simulatione aliquâ se receperint, aliquam debiti supplicii relaxationem reportarent, nempe ut honorem quidem sedis, aut Cathedræ (sedis scilicet Presbyterialis) retinere, aut ejus participes esse permittantur (ab officii sui dignitate neutiquam deponendi) offerre autem, aut sermonem ad populum facere, aut sacerdotalibus officiis fungi, illis non liceat.

§. 8. At quid hîc de participatione, aut consortio honoris Cathedræ cum Episcopo? Quid de Presbyteri cum Episcopo in aliis omnibus præter πρωτοκαθεδρίαν exæquatione? Nullus planè de Episcopis sermo, de Presbyteris tantùm indicitur, quænam scilicet illis pœnæ moderatio competat, nempe ut honoris Cathedræ suæ, i. e. Presbyteralis participes esse permittantur, si peccati verè pœnitentiam egisse censeantur, at aliud nihil.

§. 9. Non opus est ut à Walone edoceamur, suas Presbyteris Cathedras fuisse; verùm supra Presbyteros omnes, sublimiorem Cathedram Episcopo assignatam fuisse, cujus nulla unquam Presbytero cuivis participatio, aut consortium fuit, si nondum perspexerit Walo, tandem monendus est, quod tamen ab eo satis agnitum videtur, cùm πρωτοκαθεδρίαν Episcopi excipiat; Quâ, si ordinis tantùm prioritatem, sine superioritate, aut ἀρχιερωσύνῃ omni intelligi putaverit, sibi turpiter imponi passus est; Si verò cum Cathedrâ excelsiori & honoratiori, conjunctam etiam supra omnes Presbyteros auctoritatem, & dignitatem, pulchrè sanè ἰσοτιμία Presbyterorum & Episcopi stabilita putabitur. At de istis in re manifestâ plus satis.

§. 10. A primo igitur ad duodecimum Canonem deveniamus, experturi an feliciùs Waloni successerit, quod à Chorepiscopis & Presbyteris Civitatis dicendum putavit, quàm quod à Cathedrarum mentione, quâ ad opem labascenti causæ ferendam uti voluit, petebatur argumentum.

§. 11. Quâ in re non opus est, ut Walonem cum D. Blondello committendum curemus, qui hunc Canonem aliter legendum duxit, & ex aliorum codicum fide pro [ἐν ἑκάστῃ παροικίᾳ] ἐν ἑτέρᾳ παροικίᾳ substituit. Quid de integro Canone censendum sit gradatim dicemus, ab eâ, quæ ad Chorepiscopos spectat particulâ, exorsi.

§. 12. Et primum quidem, quinam hi Chorepiscopi fuerint, paucis disquirendum est. Χωρεπισκόπων nomine Villanos, aut Regionarios, aut qui, non in Civitate, sed in totâ latè sparsâ Regione degunt, Episcopos intelligi ex vi nominis palam est. Illud etiam voce παροικίας in fine Canonis significatur, eâ notatur universum cujusque Civitatis territorium, seu regionis istius villæ omnes, quæ Urbis Episcopo subsunt.

§. 13. Sic in Clementis Romani ad Corinthios Epistola inscriptione, ἐκκλησία Θεοῦ ἡ παροικοῦσα Ῥώμην, ἐκκλησία Θεοῦ τῇ παροικούσῃ Κόρινθον, Ubi non solùm quæ inter Civitatis muros continebatur Ecclesia, sed & quæ in universo territorio, seu suburbicariâ regione, Romano Episcopo suberat, Romam παροικεῖν dicitur, i. e. prope vel juxta urbem habitare.

§ 14. Illud enim cuivis notum est, περίχωρον omnem, seu regionem circumjacentem, ad Episcopum Civitatis antiquitùs pertinuisse, & illi subjectam fuisse, juxta illam Ignatianæ ad Romanos Epistolæ epigraphen, Ἰγνατίου, &c. τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ, ἥτις προκάθηται ἐν τόπῳ χωρίου Ῥωμαίων, Ignatius Ecclesia quæ præsidet in loco, i. e. in Civitate seu loco præcipuo regionis Romanorum, Quibus verbis, Ecclesiæ quæ in urbe est, adeóque urbis Episcopus toti regioni circumjacenti præsidere affirmatur; Episcopi enim sub primis temporibus non nisi κατὰ πόλεις in singulis urbibus, aut oppidis principalibus constituebantur.

§. 15. Quod adeò extra omnem controversiam ponitur, ut docti viri in unius regionis Ecclesiâ, non nisi unum altare antiquitùs fuisse crediderint, juxta præscriptum Judæorum ritum, quibus licet plurimæ Synagogæ, unicum tamen templum, & altare, idque in urbe Hierosolymitanâ omnibus totius gentis incolis patebat. Sic ut Ignatius ἓν θυσιαστήριον, & ἕνα βωμὸν in Epistolâ ad Philadelphenses rectissimè conjunxerit, & schismatici porrò omnes altare contra altare erexisse dicerentur. Consulatur Cyprianus de unitate Ecclesiæ, Ep. 40. 72. 73.

§. 16. Ut ut illud sit (nam in re incompertâ non est audacter nimis pronunciandum) de Cathedris Episcoporum non nisi in urbibus figendis nulla nobis nisi cum D. Blondello controversia futura est. Quamvis enim id omnibus notius sit, quàm ut probationibus indigeat, id tamen ille unus mortalium, aut non vidit, aut nos videre noluit, Constitutos ab Apostolis κατὰ κώμας Episcopos, qui verè & propriè ἐπιχωρίους ἐπισκόπους ἢ χωρεπισκόπους præstarent, se, ex oculato teste Clemente asseverante, didicisse * affirmans.

* Apol. p. 93.

§. 17. Verùm nihil tale aut vidit, aut testatus est Clemens (oculatus testis ille) Romanus, Id tantùm dixit, κατὰ χώρας καὶ πόλεις κηρύσσοντες, καθίσανον τὰς ἀπαρχὰς αὐτῶν, δοκιμάσαντες τῷ πνεύματι, εἰς ἐπισκόπους καὶ διακόνους τῶν μελλόντων πιστεύειν, Per regiones & civitates prædicantes Apostoli, primitias eorum in Episcopos & Diaconos eorum qui crediturі erant, constituebant.

§. 18. Hìc primò de voce κώμη distingui posset, quæ quandoque cum κώμαις, quandoque cum πόλεσι conjuncta invenitur. Si cum κώμαις conjungatur, Vicorum numerum, aut multitudinem notatura est; at Civitatum, si cum πόλεσι.

§. 19. Imò cum ἁπλῶς usurpetur, palam est eâ frequenter Provinciam integram ex pluribus civitatibus constantem significari; Sic * Strabo de Asiâ, Ῥωμαῖοι, inquit, ἐπαρχίαν ἀπέδειξαν πλὴν χώρων, sic & in scriptis Ecclesiasticis, provinciam ex pluribus civitatibus & Ecclesiis, quibus singulis Episcopi præsunt, aggregatam, χώραν nuncupari videmus; Κυπριανὸς Ἀρχιεπίσκοπος τῆς Ἄφρων χώρας, Concil. in Trullo, Can. 2. Et, jampridem per omnes provincias & singulas urbes institui sunt Episcopi, Cyprian. Ep. 52. ubi per provincias instituti Episcopi, iis, qui per urbes instituebantur, præpositi, Archiepiscopi, non Chorepiscopi erant.

* Geogr. l. 13.

§. 20. At secundò, Si per χώρας, pagorum, aut villarum, aut vicorum, (quatenus eæ civitati opponantur) confinia, à Clemente hìc intelligi concederemus, nihil tamen ex eo D. Blondellus lucraturus est.

§. 21. Affirmat certè prædicasse Apostolos κατὰ χώρας æquè ac πόλεις, Affirmat Episcopos & Diaconos constituisse, at de Episcopis in regionibus istis, & non in urbibus tantùm, constitutis, οὐδὲ λόγος quidem.

§. 22. Plura ad hunc Clementis locum, cùm eum consultò tractaret, dicenda putavit D. Blondellus [Nondum, inquit, Clementis sæculo cuiquam in mentem venisse, quod A. D. 347. à Sardicensi Synodo primùm decretum est, Licentiam non dandam ordinandi Episcopum, aut in vico aliquo, aut in modicâ civitatulâ, ne vilescat nomen Episcopi, nec dedignatos tunc Apostolos vicanorum saluti eandem, quâ urbibus urbanisque providebant, curam impendere.

§. 23. Certè nec nos putamus Sanctissimos viros cujusvis salutem posthabuisse, ideóque per omnes non urbes tantùm, sed & vicos verbum prædicasse; sed quæ demum animarum incuria, aut dedignatio putanda fuit, si (ad honorem Episcopo conciliandum (ἵνα μὴ ῥᾴδιον ὑποκαταφρονεῖσθαι ἢ ἀγεγενῆσθαι, ut de Canone Laod. 52. dixit Balsamo) & ad Ecclesiæ conservandam unitatem) Episcoporum Cathedras extra necessitatem multiplicandas non esse, eásque in urbibus tantùm, non in villis, aut pagis quibusvis instituendas esse, Apostolis visum fuerit? Certè qui in Sardicensi Concilio illud statuerunt, ex hâc ipsâ causâ factum suum tuentur. Videatur integer Canon, quem ad usum suum decurtari maluit D. Blondellus. Licentia, inquit Hosius, danda non est, ordinandi Episcopum, aut in vico aliquo, aut in modicâ civitate, cui sufficit

unus

unus Presbyter, quia non est necesse ibi Episcopum fieri, ne vilescat nomen Episcopi, aut authoritas. Nihil hîc ex animarum salutis incuriâ factum, sed quia nulla Episcopi necessitas fuit; Nec certè major Apostolorum, de quo Clemens locutus est, tempore necessitas fuisse censenda est, cùm qui tunc creabantur Episcopi & Diaconi, ἢ μαλιστα πεδίων Præpositi constituerentur, perpaucis adhuc ad fidem recipiendam persuasis.

§. 24. Piget talibus immorari, ut & aliis id genus multis, declamatorio more effusis, p. 93. Fervente scilicet illis temporibus charitatis spiritu, urbibus vicos, liberis servos, divitibus pauperes gratiam cœlestem æquasse, ut unum omnes in Christo essent, Gal. 3. 28. Illud quidem fatemur lubentissimè, ideóque vicanos, villanos, regionarios omnes æquè ac Cives, aut Hierosolymitanos, aut Romanos, Apostolis charos & æstimatos fuisse, ideóque ad Episcopum, licèt in urbe residentem, eorum omnium & singulorum curam pertigisse, unámque cum urbe, utut purpureâ, aut florenti, Ecclesiam constituisse. Estque hoc [unum in Christo esse] non ut tribus, aut quatuor ubivis sparsis, Christianis, peculiaris statim Episcopus præponatur. Id enim non ad unitatem, sed ad schismata alenda aptissimum esse, Apostoli satis noverunt, nec citra omnem necessitatem, constituisse putandi sunt, At è diverticulo in orbitam revertamur.

§. 25. Augescente igitur fidelium multitudine, fatemur aliquando, sed non statim post Apostolos, tales in regionibus, aut vicis Episcopos constitutos esse, qui vicariam Episcopo Civitatis, cui subjiciebantur, operam exhiberent, ideóque in hoc ipso Ancyrano Canone, ab Isidoro Mercatore, à * Fulgentio Ferrando, à Gentiano Herveto, aliisque non paucis, Vicarios Episcoporum appellatos. Hos Episcopalem ordinationem aliquando accepisse testatur Laodicenus Canon 57. (Ancyrani hujus post 50. annos vestigiis inhærens, at aliquid de novo additurus) ὁ δεῖ, inquiunt Patres, ἐν ταῖς κώμαις, ἢ ἐν ταῖς χώραις καθίστασθαι ἐπισκόπους, Non oportet in vicis, & regionibus Episcopos constitui, ἀλλὰ περιοδευτὰς (sic Oxonienses Codices MS. communiter legunt, sic Dionysius Exiguus, Isidorus Mercator, & Gentianus Hervetus; Sic ex MSS. Bibliothecæ Regiæ se emendasse ait Chr. Justellus, non, ut Tilius, & Binius, ἢ περιοδευτὰς) sed circuitores, alios sine dubio absque Episcopali ordinatione emissos, & à prioribus, eo quòd Episcopi non essent, distinctos (τὰς περιοδευτὰς ἢ μὰ ἐπισκόπους, inquit Balsamo) τὰς μέντοι ἤδη καθεσταμένας, μηδὲν ἀφεστῶσαν ἀνὰ τὸ ὁποσοῦν τῆς ἐν τῇ πόλει, Qui verò prius constituti sunt, nihil sine Episcopi, qui in urbe est, sententiâ faciant. Ubi supponitur aliquos ex hoc numero jamjam Episcopos constitutos esse, licèt illud in posterum vetetur. Idem etiam Antiocheno Canone decimo plusquam innui videmus; Τοὺς ἐν κώμαις, ἢ ἐν χώραις, ἢ τοὺς καλουμένους τοὺς χωρεπισκόπους, εἰ καὶ χειροθεσίαν ἔσχον ἐπισκόπων εἰληφότες, &c. Qui in vicis & regionibus sunt, vel qui Chorepiscopi dicuntur, etiamsi impositionem manuum Episcopi acceperint, & (ut Latinus Canonum Codex duriusculam φράσιν explicari voluit) ut Episcopi consecrati sint, &c. (sic & in fine Canonis χωρεπισκόπου ἢ χώρας ἢ τῆς ἐπὶ πόλεως, ἢ παροικίας, ὁποίου, Chorepiscopum Civitatis Episcopus ordinet, cui ille subjectus est, ait Latinus.)

§. 26. Ita sine dubio significat φράσις ista ejusdem Concilii Canone 17. Εἰς ἐπίσκοπος χειροθεσίαν ὁποιουοῦν λαοῦ, &c. Ubi ut præcesserat [Episcopus] sic & sequitur [ἢ ὁπωσοῦν προστάται λαοῦ] quod & Canone 18. per [εἴτις ἐπίσκοπος χειροτονηθεὶς εἰς παροικίαν] explicatiùs effertur.

§. 27. Adeò mihi neutiquam persuasurus est D. Blondellus, Tres hominum conditiones (τοὺς ἐν κώμαις, qui in minoribus oppidis ministrant, τοὺς ἐν χώραις, qui in villis fundisque rusticis quibuscunque constituti sunt, Chorepiscopos, qui inter constitutos ἐν κώμαις pauciissimi erant) canonis istius verbis apertissimis distingui. Certè si sic explicare & probare sententiam suam posset, ut præter Episcopum civitatis, tres alias hominum conditiones eruere posset, quibus singulis Episcopalis ordinatio aliquando competiisse putanda sit, sic ut de iis dici rectè possit [εἰ καὶ χειροθεσίαν οὐκ ἐπισκόπων εἰληφότες, etiamsi ordinationem Episcoporum acceperint] (quod de eo, quod nunquam accidit, supponendum non erat) & qui singuli Subdiaconos, aliósque præter Presbyteros & Diaconos omnes in Ecclesiâ constituere potuerunt, Fatebor me in hâc omni luce cæcutiisse; Sin minus, patiatur se vir Doctissimus cum vulgo sapere, & τοὺς καλουμένους χωρεπισκόπους additione, priores phrases explicari, & ad sæculi stylum accommodari permittat.

§. 28. Si verò quæratur, quomodo qui ut Episcopi consecrati sunt, ab aliis per omne ævum Episcopis distinguantur, Respondetur, eo quidem imprimis distingui, quòd ab unico civitatis Episcopo, cùm alii à Synodo, aut à tribus ad minimum Episcopis constituerentur, 2^do^ quòd sine titulo aut Cathedrâ, ἀπολελυμένως absolutè ordinati fuerint, quòd μὴ ἔχοντες καθέδρας οἰκείας, ait Zonaras, (κωμῶν οἰκείων, Blastares) περιέρχονται καὶ καταρτίζωσι τὰς πόλεις, circumeant regionem, & fideles confirment, &c. Et ita, (ut verbis doctissimi Scriptoris, non meis illud dicam) in regionibus, agris, aut pagis præpositi, officio Episcopi fungantur, veluti vicarii Episcopi.

§. 29. Hinc est quod Concilii Neocæsariensis, eodem anno quo Ancyranum, congregati, Canone 19. Chorepiscopi, εἰς τύπον τῶν ἑβδομήκοντα, ad exemplum aut formam Septuaginta esse dicantur, Ut enim illi à Christo emissi sunt, ut coram facie ejus irent, regnum cœlorum prædicarent, morbos curarent, & sic vicariam ei operam locarent (nullâ tamen fixâ, aut duraturâ, & qualis duodecim Apostolis postea contigit, authoritate induti, statímque ad Dominum suum rediturí) Sic & hi regionarii Episcopi, ab Episcopo civitatis emissi, confirmabant fideles, pœnitentes absolvebant, aliáque nonnulla, quæ ad eum pertinebant, ejus quasi loco & vice præstabant.

§. 30. Quod hîc de 70. Christi discipulis affirmat Canon iste, ad 70. Mosis Presbyteros Numb. 11. 14. trahi voluit, nescio quo fato ad omnia permiscenda natus, D. Blondellus. At ubi quæso 70. Mosis Seniores, ad regiones à Mose emittebantur, euntes, redeuntes, Mose solo juxta Tabernaculum sedem figente? Illud de 70. Discipulis distinctè affirmatur; Nec quicquam Chorepiscopis nostris convenientius dici potuit; Quorum igitur loco succedere, Laodiceno Canone, περιοδευταὶ jubebantur, Circuitores, Visitatores, οἱ πλείονα περιγαλλόμενοι ἕδρας ἢ ὁποσοῦν ἔξαρχοι, inquit Balsamo, Exarchi bodiè ab Episcopis promoti.

§. 31. Illi quidem περιοδευταὶ ideò dicti, quòd ut medici apud Justinian. qui circumeunt urbem, causâ sanitatis hominibus reddendæ, περιοδευταὶ nuncupati sunt, sic illi περιοδεύουσι καὶ ἐπιτηρεῖσι τὰ ψυχικὰ σφάλματα, ait Balsamo, περιέρχονται, ait Zonaras, & Blastares, regionem aut vicos circumirent; Nec igitur Waloni credendum est, qui sine omni probatione, non à circumeundo regionem, sed à curando Ecclesiam περιοδευτὰς dictos voluit (ut & morbus, inquit ille, quacunque ratione curatus, περιοδεύεσθαι eo sæculo dicebatur) cùm iisdem utrumque competat, περιέρχεσθαι καὶ ἐπιτηρεῖν, titulus verò περιοδευτῶν à priori non à

posteriore

posteriore ducatur, nec περιοδεῦαι unquam medici dicantur, quia curant morbos, sed quia curaturi circumeant. At prodigii instar est quod in hujus vocis redditione * Gretsero accidit, qui eâ notari voluit ὀξυπνιαὶς, quorum munus erat circumire Templum & dormiturientes excitare. Res clarior est quàm ut ulteriori disceptationi locus sit, ideo quòd regionem & vicos omnes (περιοδεύειν, περιέρχεσθαι) circuirent & visitarent, περιοδευτὰς dictos esse.

* In Cod. c. 14.

§. 32. Mirari igitur satis nequeo, quid itidem D. Blondello in mentem venerit, ut hæc hoc Ancyrano Canone comprehensa, eodem sensu dicta esse affirmaverit, quo de Episcopis Antiochena Synodus sancivit Can. 13. μηδένα πολιᾶν ἀφ' ἑτέρας παροικίας εἰς ἑτέραν μεταβαίνειν καὶ χειροτονεῖν, & Can. 22. ἐπίσκοπον μὴ ἐπιβαίνειν ἀλλοτρίᾳ πόλει, τῇ μὴ ὑποκειμένῃ αὐτῷ, Exinde concludens Episcopum æquè arctis compedibus ac Chorepiscopos cohibitos esse.

§. 33. Verùm primò illud manifestum est, Antiochenos Canones istos ad Episcopos quosvis, aliorum officiis se immiscentes, ideóque ἀλλοτριεπισκοποῦντας, spectasse.

§. 34. Secundò, Ordinationem Presbyterorum & Diaconorum Chorepiscopis in universum interdici, & non solùm in alienâ παροικίᾳ. Illud præter lucidissima Canonis verba, Antiochenus Canon decimus, Ancyrano post 27. annos succedens, monstrabit, τὸς ἐν ταῖς κώμαις ἢ ταῖς χώραις, ἢ τὸς καλουμένους χωρεπισκόπους, &c. δόξει εἶναι τὰ ἑαυτῶν μέτρα, &c. χειροτονῆσαι ἢ ἀναγνώστας, ἢ ὑποδιακόνους, ἢ ἱερατικὸν, ἢ τῇ τύπῳ ἀρχιδιακονικῇ ἀναγορεῦσαι, μήτι ἧττον πρεσβύτερον, μήτε διάκονον χειροτονεῖν πολιᾶν, ἄνευ τῆς ἐν τῇ πόλει ἐπισκόπου, ἢ ὑπομείναντος αὐτός τι, ἢ ἡ χάρις, Chorepiscopi hîc suas metas scire jubentur, lectores, subdiaconos, exorcistas constituere, neutiquam verò Presbyteros aut Diaconos ordinare, sine Episcopi civitatis, cui & ipse & regio integra subjicitur. Sic * Damasus, Chorepiscopis, inquit, non liceat Sacerdotes consecrare, nec Diaconos. Et † Leo primus, Quamvis cum Episcopis plurima illis (Chorepiscopis) Ministeriorum communis sit dispensatio, quædam tamen Ecclesiasticis regulis sibi prohibita noverint, sicut Presbyterorum & Diaconorum consecratio.

* Ep. ad Episc. Numid. Tom. 1. Concil.
† Epist. 88. ad Episc. Gall. & Germ.

§. 35. Nec est quòd verba ista in fine Canonis Ancyrani à D. Blondello posita [ἐν ἑτέρᾳ παροικίᾳ] illi fraudi fuisse putemus, cùm illa, si genuina lectio esset, ad posterius Canonis membrum, in quo de Presbyteris civitatis sermo est, non ad prius, in quo de Chorepiscopis, referatur.

§. 36. De lectione verò istâ, quàm non sit genuina, & quàm rectè à * Walone & † Cl. Salmasio rejiciatur, plura mox dicemus.

* Wal. Mess. p. 304.
† Appar. ad l. de Prim. Papæ p. 74.

§. 37. Tandem igitur quid hoc primo Ancyrani Canonis tmemate intelligendum sit, videamus, χωρεπισκόποις μὴ ἐξεῖναι πρεσβυτέρους ἢ διακόνους χειροτονεῖν, Hoc est, Placuit Synodo hinc, ut Chorepiscopi, quamvis antehac in regionibus suis, (aut licentiâ nimiâ abusi, & supra μέτρον suum elati, aut ex potestate sibi per ordinationem Episcopalem collatâ) Presbyteros & Diaconos ordinaverint, in posterum tamen illâ libertate non utantur; Subdiaconos tantùm, aliósque inferiora Ecclesiæ munera obeuntes constituant, reliquáque quæ ad officium suum, ex Episcopi civitatis jussione, aut approbatione, pertinent, diligenter præstent.

§. 38. Hunc solum sensum huic Canoni subesse, testis est omni exceptione major Antiochenus Canon 10. modò prolatus, cui tamen, præter alia prædicta, addi etiam poterit insignis locus Basilii Magni (post annos circiter 60.) in Epist. 181. ubi de ὑπηρετούντων τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ approbationis & receptionis modo, verba faciens, πῶς πάλαι ταῖς τῆ Θεῦ ἐκκλησίαις ἐμπολιτευομένοις συνήθειαν sic describit, Omnis, inquit, eorum conversatio ἐπολυωρεῖτο, curiosè à Presbyteris & Diaconis cum illis habitantibus indagabatur; Illi porrò ἐπανέφερον τῆς χωρεπισκόπους, ad Chorepiscopos referebant, qui τὰς ἀφ' ἧς ἀληθινῶς μαρτυρίαν δεξάμενοι ψῆφες, καὶ ἀναμηνύσαντες τὸν ἀθέσπετον, ὅτος ἐπιδήμουν τὸν ὑπηρέτην τῷ τάγματι ἧς ἱερατικῶν, acceptis eorum qui verè testimonia ferebant (i. e. testimonia fide digna) calculis, sive suffragiis, & cùm Episcopum priùs de iis certiorem fecerint, hunc ad modum, ministrum quemvis (Subdiaconum scilicet, &c.) ordini Hieraticorum, vel eorum qui sacris ministraturi erant, accensebant, Cùm corruptis jam sæculi moribus, omnibúsque in pejus degenerantibus, Chorepiscopi, ad quos Epistolam istam misit Sanctus Pater, Episcopum civitatis insuper habentes, rémque omnem ad illum nihil pertinere censentes (ὡς ἑαυτὲς τῷ ὅλῳ περίστασιν αὐθεντίαν) totam sibi ipsis authoritatem arrogarent, ac assumerent.

§. 39. Clarissima adhuc omnia, & ex quibus ad derogandam Episcopo ὑπεροχὴ, & singularem (tam in urbe, quàm in regione suburbicariâ) authoritatem illi eripiendam, aut minuendam, aut ad quamcunque potestatem cuivis, præter Episcopum, & Vicarium ejus (ad id aut Episcopali ordinatione ἀπολελυμένους, i. e. sine titulo indutum, aut ad speciales operas ab eo quovismodo constitutum, reservatâ sibi uni Presbyterorum & Diaconorum ordinatione) asserendam, nihil planè colligi, aut concludi potest.

§. 40. Illud (non ex istis tantùm præmissis à me propositis, & probatis, sed & contra quemlibet dissentientem, ex suis) hoc unico dilemmate extra dubium ponetur.

§. 41. Chorepiscopi Ancyrano hoc Canone memorati, aut Episcopalem ordinationem singuli accepisse credendi sunt, aut sine eâ, ad speciales operas in regione & vicis præstandas, ad libitum Episcoporum, &, ut, eorum Vicarii, literis tantùm signatis, aut aliâ quavis ratione, ab iis muniti sunt; Si priùs concedatur (quod à nobis satis confirmatum esse putamus) tunc statim sequetur, hos regionarios Episcopos, utcunque Civitatis Episcopis subjacentes (qui & ipsi quadamtenus Metropolitæ subjiciebantur; videatur Antiocheni Concilii Canon 9.) verè tamen Episcopos fuisse, sed non Civitatum; ut & Episcopi minorum civitatum Episcopi sunt, sed non Metropolitæ; Imò Episcopos, quantum ad ordinationem spectat, sed non quantum ad titulum; Episcopos scilicet, suadente necessitate, sine titulo ordinatos, Episcopos denique Vicarios (nec igitur, ut Walo hinc sequi voluit, Presbyteros à Presbyteris ordinatos, nec qui solùm Presbyteri erant, Episcopos dictos esse.)

§. 42. Hos itidem cùm tales essent, nec adhuc Ancyrano Canone prohiberentur, Presbyteros & Diaconos regionarios ordinasse, aliáque in regionibus administrasse (ita tamen ut ἐν χειμερίῳ πόλεως, præsente aut Episcopo, aut Presbytero Civitatis, ne minima quidem illis licerent; videatur Neocæsariensis Concilii Canon 13.) & hæc omnia quidem adhuc rectè, & ex jure suo, ut Episcopos regionarios, ac Vicarios fecisse. Postea verò quorundam actuum ad eos priùs pertinentium exercitia, canone isto (ut & Antiocheno dein decimo) illis interdicta esse, & ad solum Episcopum Civitatis relata, aut, si Arabico istius Canonis Paraphrastæ credamus, ad Chorepiscopum, ex mandato Episcopi civitatis; Sic enim ex Arabico Canonum MS. Oxoniensi legimus: Ut non faciant Presbyteros aut Diaconos omnino, neque in villâ, neque in urbe absque mandato Episcopi, Nisi rogatus fuerit Episcopus hâc in re, & permiserit eos ut faciant eos, nec non scripserit eis scriptum, quod authoritatem dabit eis eâdem de re; Ex eo autem nihil contra ipsam potestatem, ante interdictum Canone exercitium, satis liberam, concludi posse; ὅπερ ἦν δεῖξαι.

§. 43. Sin

§. 43. Sin verò posterius supponatur (nullatenus tamen concedendum) Chorepiscopis scilicet his Episcopalem ordinationem nunquam contigisse, Tunc & illud sequetur, eos, si quando Presbyteros aut Diaconos ordinaverint (quod adhuc de illis neutiquam affirmatum vidimus) orbitam planè & μίτρον suum transiliisse, rectéque ab Ancyrano, ut & Antiocheno Canone in ordinem redactos esse; Sic tamen ut alia quædam (Subdiaconorum, &c. constitutio) iis ab Episcopo Civitatis indulta, & nondum interdicta, sed specialiter ipsis canonis verbis reservata, iis adhuc competiisse putentur. At illud ex abundanti. De Chorepiscopis igitur, adeóque priori istius Canonis parte id satis superque dictum esto.

CAP. IX.

Secundum Canonis membrum de Presbyteris. Lectiones variæ. Arabicus Interpres. Canonis emendatio. Argumenta pro emendatione. Canonis sensus Presbyteranis nullatenus favens.

§. 1. ISTis igitur sic perpensis, pergamus ad posteriorem Canonis portiúnculam, quæ ad Presbyteros pertinet, ea sic in Wal. Mess. ut & in App. Claudii Salmasii ad lib. de Prim. proponitur, Ἀλλὰ μηδὲ πρεσβυτέρους πόλεως χωρὶς τῆ ἐπιτροπῆ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου μὴ γεγραμμένον ἐν ἑκάστῃ παροικίᾳ, & Latinè ex Dionysio Exiguo, Sed nec Presbyteris Civitatis sine præcepto Episcopi vel literis, in unaquaque parœciâ. A D. Blondello pro [πρεσβυτέρους] [πρεσβυτέρους] & pro [ἑκάστῃ] [ἑτέρᾳ] ponitur. Harum lectionum, non ita latè dissitarum, sensus tamen planè alius atque alius. Nam si cùm D. Blondello [πρεσβυτέρους] legatur, cùm in initio Canonis præcesserit dativum [χωρεπισκόποις] necessùm erit ut [πρεσβυτέρους πόλεως] cum præcedente [πρεσβυτέρους ἢ διακόνους] connexa, à verbo itidem χειροτονεῖν regantur, & ita sensus lucidissimus (at qui Presbyteranæ causæ nequaquam faveat) exurget. Χωρεπισκόποις μὴ ἐξεῖναι χειροτονεῖν πρεσβυτέρους πόλεως, &c. Chorepiscopis non licere Presbyteros civitatis ordinare, sine mandato ab Episcopo per literas recepto.

§. 2. Et huic certè lectioni MS. Arabicus vetustus calculum suum & suffragium daturus est, Cum de Chorepiscopis sic canonem proponat, Ne faciant Presbyteros neque Diaconos omnino, neque in villâ neque in urbe absque mandato Episcopi, &c. nec syllabam addat, quâ innuatur, aut explicetur, quid Presbyteris Civitatis, aut in suâ, aut alienâ parœciâ liceat, vel non liceat.

§. 3. Huc etiam pertinere videtur titulus huic Canoni à Dionysio Exiguo præfixus. Quod non oporteat Chorepiscopos ordinarè Clericum nisi in agris & villatis, de Presbyteris itidem ὡσ̀ αὐ. At si ista cuiquam non arrideant, ad alia procedamus.

§. 4. Et cum in his verbis recensendis adeò magna sit exemplarium varietas, Infinita quidem occurrunt, quæ hîc dici possunt. Post codices autem quos nactus sum, singulos inter se collatos, nihil mihi potius videtur, quàm ut truncato & manco canoni, vocula una aut altera addatur, verbáque sic demum græcè legantur. Ἀλλὰ μηδὲ πρεσβυτέρους πόλεως χωρὶς τῆ ἐπιτροπῆ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, μὴ γεγραμμένον, ποιεῖν τι ἐν ἑκάστῃ παροικίᾳ, Sed neque Presbyteris civitatis, sine mandato ab Episcopo per literas recepto, quippiam facere in unaquâque parœciâ.

§. 5. Voces istas [ποιεῖν τι] aut aliis quæ iis æquipolleant, sic interserendas esse, & in antiquis Græcis codicibus olim lectas fuisse, testabitur primò Isidorus Mercator (cujus editio in Ecclesiis Hispanicis ante Dionysium Exiguum, recepta est) qui sic legi voluit. Sed nec Presbyteros civitatis sine Episcopi præcepto amplius aliquid imperare, vel sine authoritate literarum ejus aliquid agere.

§. 6. Secundò. Idem nobis persuasura est Gentiani Herveti versio (à * D. Blondello vetus appellata) Sed nec Presbyteros Civitatis sine jussu Episcopi aliquid jubere, neque in unaquâque parœciâ aliquid agere. * Apol. p. 97.

§. 7. Tertiò. Sic * Fulgentius Ferraudus, Canon 92. Ut Presbyteri Civitatis sine jussu Episcopi nihil jubeant, nec in unaquâque parochiâ aliquid agant, Can. Sardicen. (legendum sine dubio Ancyr.) tit. 13. * Breviat. Can.

§. 8. Quartò. Ipsius Dionysii Exigui exemplar illud, quo Adrianus primus usus est, quódque & ille & (ipso D. Blondello fatente) Capitulare Aquisgranense veteri Codici prætulerunt; Sic enim ibi Canonem istum exaratum perspicimus, Sed nec Presbyteris civitatis sine Episcopi præcepto amplius aliquid imperare, vel sine authoritate literarum ejus in unaquâque parochia aliquid agere.

§. 9. Quintò, Denique, Huic Canonis hujus lectioni suffragatur, miréque concordat Laodicenus 57. ὅτι οὐ δεῖ ἐν τῆς πρεσβυτέρους μηδὲν ποιεῖν ἄνευ τῆς γνώμης τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, Similiter & Presbyteri præter consilium Episcopi nihil agant; Quibus verbis cùm de Chorepiscopis propositum Canonem claudi videamus, eodem planè modo, quo hîc Ancyranus conclusus est, nihil magis consentaneum, aut idoneum definiri potest, quàm ut hi duo Canones sic in universum æquipollere censeantur, ut mutilatus unus ex altero sanari & explicari possit.

§. 10. Quod si fiat, lucidissima statim omnia futura sunt, & cum Christi verbis, quæ omnem Apostolis authoritatem, cum Ignatii toties iteratis, quæ Presbyteris nihil ἄνευ γνώμης ἐπισκόπου agendi ἐξουσίαν largita sunt, & denique cum Arelatensis, aliorúmque conciliorum decretis concorditer, & harmonicè conspirantia: nec quivis certè in universo Canonum codice, Presbyteranorum ἀσυμφωνίᾳ minus faviisse reperietur, quàm qui præ aliis omnibus laturus subsidium putabatur.

CAP. X.

Argumentum ex Eutychio. Eutychii ἀνισορηκία. Episcopi in Ægypto plures præter Alexandrinum. Τῆς ἐν Ἀλεξανδρεία παροικίας Episcopus Anianus. Hieronymus cum Eutychio non concordat. χειροθεσία ad Episcopos, electio ad Presbyteros pertinere potest.

§. 1. REstat unicum Argumentum, quod contra Thesin nostram satis prosperè militasse quibusdam creditur, Ex Annalistâ illud Alexandrino, aut Origenum scriptore Eutychio, Authore certè (ne quid gravius dicam) non adeò venerando, produxit * D. Blondellus, Qui post Marci Ecclesiæ Alexandrinæ fundatoris tempora, usque ad Demetrium ejusdem Ecclesiæ Episcopum, Patriarchas singulos Alexandrinos electos, & cum ordinatione manuum ordinatos à Presbyteris 12, idque ex ipsius Marci jussu factum esse affirmat.

* Præf. p. 17.

§. 2. Facilis itidem responsio, nullam hâc in re Eutychio fidem deberi, ut qui assertioni huic apertâ ἀνισορηκία viam muniverit, nullam ante Demetrium in universâ Ægypto, præter Patriarcham Alexandrinum, Episcopum fuisse pronuntians.

* Anianum Marcus constituit Patriarcham, & Is primus erat Alexandriæ Patriarcha constituus, & constituit Marcus 12. Presbyteros qui manerent cum Patriarchâ, adeò ut cum vacaret Patriarchatus, eligerent unum, & Patriarcham crearent.

§. 3. Verùm potior multò testis Eusebius, l. 6. c. 1. apud quem ἀπὸ αὐτῆδε παροικιῶν, i. e. plurium in Ægypto diœcesium, (quas sine Episcopis, qui illis præficerentur, fuisse nemine credibile erit) mentio reperitur, quarum, inquit ille, ἐπισκοπὼ Demetrius post Julianum susceperit.

§. 4. His addi secundò potest, Patriarchatum (quem ab ipsius Marci temporibus * Eutychius ipse agnoscit) civitatis istius Episcopo neutiquam competere potuisse, si nulli in universâ provinciâ Episcopi essent, quibus præponeretur; Idcóque quod ab eodem Eusebio de Marco affirmatur, l. 2. c. ιε'. dignum est quod his addatur, eum nempe ἐκκλησίας πεποίηκε, ἐπ' αὐτῆς Ἀλεξανδρείας συστήσασθαι, plures in ipsâ Alexandria constituisse Ecclesias, (quas sub nomine τῆ ἐν Ἀλεξανδρείᾳ παροικίας Anianus suscepit, c. κδ'.) Tantam enim multitudinem eorum fuisse, qui ἐκ πρώτης ἔτι σχολῆς ex primâ Marci aggressione Christi fidem amplexabantur, ὅ δ' ἀσκήσεως αὐτῆ φιλοσοφωτάτης καὶ σφοδροτάτης, sanctissimo vitæ ejus instituto ad fidem allecti, ut Philo Judæus Apostolorum σύγχρονος, missus ad Caium Imperatorem legatus, † ipsorum διαγωγὴν καὶ πᾶσαν τῆ βίου ἀγωγὴν sibi delineandam scriptis suis putaret.

† Vid. Photii Bibl. p. 278.

§ 5. Nec illud tantùm. Videatur liber περὶ βίου Θεωρητικ. & ex eo Eusebius hist. l. 2. c. ιζ'. Describit, inquit ille, πρωτοίας τρόπον, ὃν τὰς ἐκκλησιαστικὰς λειτουργίας ἐχειρίσαντο, Ægyptiacum hunc præsidendi modum inter eos qui Ecclesiastica ministeria obierunt. Is verò duobus absolvebatur, διακονίαις, καὶ τοῖς ὑπὲρ πᾶσιν νεωτάτῳ τῆ ἐπισκοπῆς πρεσβείαις, Diaconorum ministeriis, & supremis, super omnes, Episcopatus, vel Episcopalis honoris præsidentiis. Omnia quidem ad aliarum Ecclesiarum ritum amussitata, nec quicquam extra orbitam, quo sibi sic prolixè placeant, aut exultent Presbyterani.

§. 6. Tertiò, de Valentino affirmat * Tertullianus, Episcopatum ab eo affectatum esse, ut qui eloquio multum potuit, cùm verò spe istâ excideret, aliúsque ex causâ martyrii ei antepone retur, ad hæresim divertisse. In Ægypto illud factum esse satis constat, ipsum quippe Valentinium, * Epiphanio teste, ἐκ τῆ νόμου Ἀθριβίτου ex divisione Athribite, satis ab Alexandriâ dissitâ, oriundum, nec igitur causam subesse, cur aut Alexandrinum Patriarchatum ab Athribite affectatum, aut nullos præter Alexandriæ Patriarcham in Ægypto Episcopos fuisse suspicemur.

* Adverf. Val. in init.

* Hær. Valent. in init.

§. 7. Imò quartò, eundum hunc Marcum in Pentapoli Ecclesias constituisse, author est vitæ ejus scriptor apud Photium, quas igitur Patriarchæ Alexandrino subjici jubet Canon Nicenus 6. ut & Ægypti & Lybiæ reliquas, idque ex antiquo & primitivo more in Ecclesiis illis obtinente.

§. 8. Quintò, in Epistolâ Adriani Imperatoris, apud * Vopiscum, eorum mentio occurrit, qui se Christi Episcopos dicunt, idque in Ægypto, ubi Serapis colebatur, & ne Episcopos pro Presbyteris sumi putemus, statim distinctè adjicitur, Nemo Christianorum Presbyter.

* Vit. Saturnin.

§. 9. Sextò, Hieronymus ipse, cui sic amicè suffragium suum dedisse Eutychium gloriantur, cum Eutychio non concordat, Ep. 85. ad Evagrium. * Ille certè, electionem Episcopi usque ad Heraclam & Dionysium penes Presbyteros fuisse affirmat, at ordinationis, aut impositionis manuum Presbyterorum, nulla illi mentio est, nullum vestigium, nec vola, nec manus, ut dici solet. Illa quidem χειροθεσία ab Episcopis Ægypti, ex Marci jussu, nunquam non adhiberi, & interim electio ad Presbyteros Alexandrinos pertinere potuit. Nec quicquam igitur hinc concludi poterit, quod Presbyteranorum ἰσοκαθμία faveat, At ex adverso, ab ipso Marco, Ananiam, seu Anianum, ut Episcopum & Patriarcham, eúmque in excelsiori super Presbyteros gradu in Ecclesiâ illâ collocatum esse. Imò quam primum alii in Ægypto Episcopi essent, quorum manus Patriarchæ huic imponi potuerunt, Patriarcham ab illis constanter institutum, & consecratum fuisse, nec denuò ad Presbyteros actum istum rediisse, Eutychii, si opus sit, testimonio firmabitur. At de istis satis.

* Nam & Alexandriæ à Marco Evangelistâ usque ad Heraclam, & Dionysiam Episcopos, Presbyteri semper unum ex se electum in excelsiori gradu collocatum Episcopum nominabant, quomodo si exercitus Imperatorem faciat.

DISSER-

DISSERTATIO QUARTA.

De Actorum & Epistolarum Apostolicarum PERIOCHIS,

Quæ ad Ecclesiastici Regiminis formam pertinent.

CAP. I.

Acta Apostolorum paucorum annorum unius Pauli historia. Syllabus dicendorum.

§. 1. POst istam solennem Apostolorum missionem (quâ omnem in Ecclesiâ potestatem in manus eorum traditam esse comperimus) Præter Matthiæ in desertoris Judæ, Pauli & Barnabæ, ex speciali Spiritus præceptione, Act. 13. 2. in Jacobi c. 12. 1. gladio percussi locum (pari modo quo Ephraim & Manasses demortui Josephi vicem supplere jubebantur) allectorum historiam, vix quicquam est quod hâc ex parte addendum curaverint sacri Scriptores.

§. 2. Apostolorum quippe Actus, qui à Lucâ exarati, profectionibus & perpessionibus S. Pauli, quibus * Ille interfuit, describendis, idque per annos non adeò multos, potissimùm insumebantur, totius Ecclesiæ per Orbem omnem ab Apostolis plantatæ, & Episcoporum in unaquâque constitutorum historiam nobis tradidisse credendi non sunt.

§. 3. Quædam certè in illis rei gestæ vestigia non obscura, ut in Sancti Pauli, & præsertim in Christi ipsius ad Asiaticas Ecclesias per Johannem transmissis, Epistolis deprehenduntur, quibus quid ab Apostolis singulis, in suis per universum Orbem peregrinationibus præstitum sit, dignosci potest; At & illa non adeò clara, ut non à proximorum ævorum scriptoribus, si suffragia liberè ferre permittantur, cumulatiorem lucem acceptura sint.

§ 4. Illud omne ad quinque capita reducendum erit. Primum, quod ad hos primarios Apostolos; Secundum, quod ad Alios ab iis missos, secundarios Apostolos; Tertium, quod ad Angelos Apocalypticos; Quartum, quod ad ipsam ἐπισκοπὴν & πρεσβυτέριον; Quintum, quod ad διακονίαν appellationem explicandam pertineat.

* Τὰ πλεῖστα συγγενὰς τῷ Παύλῳ τὰς περόδους ὀφθαλμοῖς τε ἐφαλε ὠν, συνεπέξατο. Euseb. Hist. l. 3. c. 4.

CAP. II.

Apostoli per se, ut Episcopi, Ecclesias quas plantarunt, administrarunt, 1 Cor. 3. 6. & 4. 15, 16, 21. & 5. 3, 4.

§. 1. AD primum quod attinet, ex Scripturis satis clarum est, Hos Christi Apostolos, totidem singulares personas, Ecclesias plantasse primùm, dein rexisse, nec præsentes tantùm, sed & in absentiâ, per se, non mediante, aut intercedente semper aliquo Presbyterorum collegio, administrasse.

§. 2. Illud ex unius Sancti Pauli erga Corinthios suos factorum vestigiis satis patescit, Ἐγὼ, inquit, ἐφύτευσα, Plantavi ego, 1 Cor. 3. 6. & ὑ πολλὸς ἔχετε πατέρας ἐν Χριστῷ, Ἐγὼ γὰρ διὰ τῦ Εὐαγγελίν ὑμᾶς ἐγέννησα ὑμᾶς, Non multos in Christo Patres habetis, Ego enim per Evangelium (primâ inter vos Evangelii prædicatione) genui vos, c. 4. 15, 16.

§. 3. Quos ergo unus plantavit, eos etiam sibi uni procurandos vendicat, Ἐλεύσομαι, inquit, ταχέως πρὸς ὑμᾶς ἂ γνώσομαι, &c. v. 19. Veniam citò ad vos inflatos, habitâ facti cognitione judicaturus, ἐν ῥάβδῳ in virgâ, si opus sit, v. 21. & ἐγὼ μὲν ὡς ἀπὼν τῷ σώματι, παρὼν δὲ τῷ πνεύματι, ἤδη κέκρικα ὡς παρὼν, τὸν ὕτω τῦτο κατεργασάμενον, &c. Ego quidem absens corpore, præsens vero spiritu, illum qui hoc taliter commiserit, judicavi jamjam, tanquam præsens, ἐκδοῦναι τὸν τοιῦτον τῷ Σατανᾷ, talem Satanæ tradere, &c. c. 5. 3, 4. In re liquidâ pluribus opus non erit; Istam scilicet Corinthiorum Ecclesiam à Paulo plantatam, ab eo uno absente jam, mox ad eos profectionem maturante, administratam fuisse.

CAP. III.

Secundarii Apostoli, 2 Cor. 11. 28. Jacobus Hierosolymorum Episcopus, Apostolus, at non è duodecim. חלפי Differentia inter Alphæum, & Cleopham. Jacobus Justus, 1 Cor. 15. 7. vel à Christo vel ab Apostolis Episcopus institutus. Ruffinus emendatus, Act. 12. 17. Gal. 1. 19. Act. 15. 6, 22. Gal. 2. 9. Act. 21. 18. Ἀπόστολος Ἰάκωβος, Thaddæus Apostolus. Lucas Ἀπόστολος, 2 Cor. 8. 18, 19, 23. Epiphanius vindicatus. Barnabas, Act. 11. 23. Marcus. Marci duo, 1 Pet. 5. 13. Apostolus, Timotheus Episcopus & Apostolus, ut & Titus. Epaphroditus, Clemens Romanus, Apostolus, ut & Ignatius. Theodoreti celebre testimonium. Gnostici se Apostolis præferentes, i. e. Episcopis.

§. 1. SEcundò, Primarii hi, & κορυφαῖοι à Christo immediatè vocati, & missi Apostoli, alios insuper Secundarios, seu ἐν δευτερίῳ positos, ejusdem & jurisdictionis, & nominis participes factos, Apostolis miserunt, qui Ecclesias etiam aut ipsi plantarent, & regerent, aut ab aliis priùs plantatas (& adhuc ad curam & μεριμνὰν ipsorum Apostolorum generali modo pertinentes, 2 Cor. 11. 28.) sibi administrandas, & regendas susciperent.

§. 2. Illud exemplis nonnullis confirmabitur. Inprimis Jacobi fratris Domini, quem inter duodecim Christi Apostolos numerandum non esse, libenter * Waloni largiemur, & in eum sensum † Eusebii verba [εἷς ἦ κ̀ ὗτος ἀφ' ἑτερομίδων τῶ σωτῆρος μαθητῶν, ἀλλὰ κ̀ ἀδελφῶν λῶ] necessariò intelligenda esse contendimus, cùm μαθητὴς isto capite, duodecim Apostolis manifestè opponi videamus. Testatur illud Menologium Græcorum, tres Jacobos celebrans, Jacobum Alphæi, die 9°. Octobris, Jacobum Fratrem Domini, die 23°. Octobris, & Jacobum Zebedæi, die 30°. Aprilis; Sic & Author Recognitionum, quem Clementem non esse, ex eo (inter alia) Bellarminus concludit, quòd Jacobum fratrem Domini non vult esse Apostolum ex duodecim.

* Certũ est non fuisse unum ex duodecim, Wal. Mess. p. 20.
† Eccl. Hist. l. 1. c. 12'.

§. 3. Unicum est, quod contrarium quibusdam (non sic Waloni, aut D. Blondello, quod sciam) suadere videtur, quòd scilicet Alphæi & Cleophæ nomina apud Syros in unum recidere videantur, cum Syriacum חלפי, vel sine aspirato ח pronuntiari possit, & tunc in Ἀλφαῖ & Ἀλφαῖος convertatur, vel aspirato ח retento, facilè in Cleiapha & Cleophas migret. Verùm facilis responsio, Alphæum in Hebræo אלפי in Syriaco חלפי, Cleopham verò קליופא per ף, non ח à Syro reddi, Luc. 24. 18. adeóque latam differentiam esse inter Alphæum & Cleopham.

§. 4. Hunc quidem Jacobum, Justi cognomine celebrem, (ἐπεὶ πολλοὶ Ἰάκωβοι ἐκαλῦντο, inquit Eusebius, l. 2. c. κγ'.) ut & inter speciales resurrectionis testes à Sancto Paulo memoratum, 1 Cor. 15. 7. (videatur Eusebius, l. 1. c. 12'. ὃς ἦ ὗτος ἀφ' ἑτερομίδων Σωτῆρος μαθητῶν λῶ) Hunc, inquam, tertium Jacobum, Hierosolymorum Episcopum creatum esse, ipse σύγχρονος Ignatius innuit, loco à * Walone sub nomine Ignatii laudato, Ep. ad Trall. ubi Stephanum Diaconum non Apostolis indefinitè, sed ἰδίως Beato Jacobo λειτουργῦντα commemorat, ut & in Ep. ad Heronem, Σὺ αὐτοῖς διακονεῖς, ὡς Στέφανος ὁ ἅγιος ἐν Ἱερουσολύμοις Ἰακώβῳ κ̀ τοῖς προσευτηρίοις.

* Wal. Mess. p. 222.

§. 5. Hunc alii à Christo ipso, cum ei appareret post resurrectionem, constitutum affirmant. Videatur ex sententia Chrysostomi Theophylactus, &c. in 1 Cor. 15. 7. Ὥφθη Ἰακώβῳ, τῷ ἀδελφῷ τῦ Κυρίε, τῷ ὑπ' αὐτῦ καταξιωθέντι Ἐπισκόπῳ τοῦτο τῶ Ἱερουσολύμων, Jacobo fratri Domini, qui ab ipso (i. e. Christo Domino) primus Hierosolymorum Episcopus constitutus est. Ut & Photius Patriarcha Constantinopolitanus Epist. ριζ'. Ἰάκωβος ὁ τοῦτος ἀρχιερέως, κ̀ διαπονικῆ χειρὶ τὸ ἱερὸν χρίσμα κ̀ τιμὴ ἑφείλαν Ἱερουσολύμων λαχὼν, Jacobus Primus Pontificum, & qui de manu Domini unctionem sacram & Hierosolymitanam Præsulatum accepit. Sic & Nicephorus, l. 2. c. 38. Alii itidem à Christo & Apostolis. Consulatur Eusebius Hist. l. 7. c. 19'. Ἰάκωβος τοῦτος ὁ Ἱερουσολύμων ἐκκλησίας τὸν ἐπισκοπεῖν τοῖς ἀπὸ Σωτῆρος κ̀ τῶν Ἀποστόλων ὑποδεξάμενος. Alii demum (quod parum abscedit) eum immediatè ab Apostolis constitutum volunt.

§. 6. Loquatur pro aliis * Clemens, Ille, inquit Eusebius, Πέτρον φησὶ, κ̀ Ἰάκωβον, κ̀ Ἰωάννην, μετὰ τὴν ἀνάληψιν τῦ Σωτῆρος, ὡς ἂν κ̀ ὑπὸ τῦ Κυρίε προτετιμημένους, μὴ ἐπὶδικάζεσθαι δόξης, ἀλλὰ Ἰάκωβον τὸν Δίκαιον ἐπίσκοπον Ἱερουσολύμων ἑλέσθαι, Petrum ait & Jacobum (Zebedæi scilicet) & Johannem, post assumptionem Christi, quamvis summum dignitatis gradum à Domino adeptos, inter se tamen de honore isto non contendisse, sed Jacobum Justum Hierosolymorum Episcopum (fœdè apud Ruffinum legit * Walo, Apostolorum Episcopum, cùm ex Clemente Eusebius non Ἀποστόλων, sed Ἱερουσολύμων, reponeret) elegisse.

* Ὑποτυπ. l. 6'.

* P. 22.

§. 7. Sic & ante eum * Hegesippus, τῦτον τὸν τρόπον διαδεξάμενον τὴν ἐκκλησίαν μετὰ (aut, ut alii legendum censent, ἀπὸ) τῶν Ἀποστόλων, ὁ ἀδελφὸς τῦ Κυρίε ὁ Ἰάκωβος ὀνομαζόμενος ὑπὸ πάντων Δίκαιος, Hunc ad modum Jacobus Domini frater (ab omnibus Justus nominatus) Ecclesiam cum (non ut Hieronymus, post, quasi esset μετὰ cum Accusativo) Apostolis, aut, si aliorum lectio (cui itidem * Eusebii verba [ᾧ συνῆν ἀφ' ἑτέρων ὁ τῶν ἐπισκοπῶν ἐγκεχείρισται τρόνος] suffragantur) non displiceat, ab Apostolis susceptit.

* Ὑποτυπώσ. ap. Euseb. l. 2. c. κγ'.

* L. 2. c. κγ.

§. 8. Sic

§. 8. Sic & Athanasius in Synopsi. Epiphanius Hær. 78. Greg. Nyssenus de Resur. Or. 2. Hieron. in Catal. & in Gal. 1. aliique innumeri. Idque Tiberii Anno 19^mo. i. e. anno post mortem Christi proximo factum affirmat Eusebius in Chronico, p. 43.

§. 9. Quo minùs mirum censebitur, si Jacobum hunc eum fuisse dicamus, cujus mentio est, Act. 12. 17. cùm Petrus divinitùs è carcere liberatus, Jacobo & fratribus, i. e. Episcopo, & omnibus in civitate istâ credentibus, renuntiari jubeat.

§. 10. Hic igitur Ecclesiam priùs à Christo plantatam, sibi administrandam & regendam suscipiens, ab ipso Paulo, Gal. 1. inter Apostolos numeratur. Præter Petrum, inquit, ἕτερον τῶν Ἀποστόλων οὐκ εἶδον, εἰ μὴ Ἰάκωβον, εἰ μὴ Ἰάκωβον, &c. Alium Apostolorum neminem vidi, nisi Jacobum Domini fratrem, v. 19. Quod & plusquam innui videtur, Act. 15. 6. & 22. συνήχθησαν οἱ Ἀπόστολοι, & ἔλεξε τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις; Apostolorum in plurali mentione factâ, cùm tamen, præter Petrum, nullus ex duodecim concilio huic interfuerit, & consequenter Jacobus, cujus judicio decretum stabilitur (διὸ ἐγὼ κρίνω, v. 19.) eo titulo insigniri putandus sit.

§. 11. Sic disertis verbis Theodoretus, τοὺς νῦν καλουμένους ὑπερλίαν τοὺς, Ἀποστόλους ὠνόμαζον, &c. ὅτιπερ ἀπὸ τῆς Ἱεροσολύμων τοῖς ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ ἔγραψαν οἱ Ἀπόστολοι, καὶ οἱ πρεσβύτεροι.

§. 12. Hinc est quòd Jacobus hîc in Ecclesiâ suâ Hierosolymitanâ ipsi Petro & Johanni præponatur, & δεξιὰν κοινωνίας Paulo & Barnabæ dedisse dicatur, Gal. 2. 9.

§. 13. Hinc quòd Paulus, cùm Hierosolymas veniret, statim ad Jacobum intraret, Act. 21. 18. qui Presbyterorum collegio cinctus, ut in Concilio fieri solet, διακονίας Paulinæ rationem ab eo accepit.

§. 14. Hinc Epistolæ Catholicæ primæ (ab eo conscriptæ, * inquit Eusebius) *Autho*r, licèt seipsum solummodò χειρὶ ἴδιον appellet, in Epigraphe tamen Ἀπόστολος Ἰάκωβος vocatur. * L. 2. c. 23.

§. 15. Et hinc illud Hieronymi Com. in Isai. Jacobum hunc, Domini fratrem Apostolum, decimum tertium vocantis. Illúdque Eusebii, l. 1. c. 12'. qui post Apostoli verba [ἔπειτα ὧφθη Ἰακώβῳ] ab ipso recitata, addit, εἶθ' ὡς ἂν τούτους καὶ μίμησιν τῆς διδυμικῆς πλείονας ὅσους ὑπαρξάντων Ἀποστόλων, &c. ad duodecim Apostolorum exemplum & similitudinem complures eo sæculo extitisse Apostolos, & l. 7. c. 18'. † Ἰακώβου θρόνον τοῦ Ἀποστόλου, &c.

§. 16. Eo statim numero accenseri videas Thaddæum (non illum ὃν τῆς διδυμικῆς unum Lebbæum etiam, & Judam dictum; sed alterum ab Eusebio inter 70. Discipulos repositum) qui anno, inquit ille, post resurrectionem Christi decimo, à S. Thomâ Apostolo ad Edessenorum Regem Agbarum ἀπεσταλείς, statim ex Syriaco Edessenorum Apographo, Ἀπόστολος τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, ut &, Ἀπόστολος Θαδδαῖος, & ἁπλῶς, Apostolus, nuncupatur c. 13'.

§. 17. Sic Lucam qui 2 Cor. 8. in omnibus Ecclesiis, ob diligenter prædicatum Evangelium plurimam laudem reportaverat, v. 18. qui χειροτονηθεὶς συνέκδημος Παυλῷ dicebatur, v. 19. statim inter Ἀποστόλους ἐκκλησίας reponi, v. 23. non est quod dubitemus, cùm idem de illo affirmet Epiphanius, Hær. 51. & in ἀνακεφαλ. iniquissimè à * D. Blondello exagitatus, quòd eum, qui à Paulo primùm ad fidem convertebatur, inter 70. Christi discipulos reponeret; Certè nihil tale ab Epiphanio factum est, nec enim Apostolum qui pronuntiat, ad 70. Christi discipulos, qui Apostoli non erant, respexisse putandus est. Rectiùs * Walo, qui Lucam à Theophane Ἀπόστολον simúlque ἄγιον nuncupari (& id quidem impune) passus est. * P. 103. * P. 43.

§. 18. Sic Barnabas, antequam speciali spiritus designatione ad Apostolatum separaretur, ab Apostolis Antiochiam delegatur, Ibi cùm multos ab aliis conversos inveniret, Act. 11. 22. omnes in fide confirmavit, v. 23. Ecclesiámque, & cœtus constituisse putandus est.

§. 19. Sic & Marcus (non ille Johannes Marcus, primùm Paulo & Barnabæ adjunctus itinerum socius, Act. 12. 25. dein soli Barnabæ, c. 15. 39. ejus ἀνεψιὸς, Col. 4. 10. à Paulo ad Colossenses mittendus, & alibi illi ἄχρηστος εἰς διακονίαν, 2 Tim. 4. 11. συνεργὸς, Philem. 24. sed) alter ille, υἱὸς μου filius ipsius à Petro appellatus, 1 Pet. 5. 13. (ut qui ab illo in fide Christi genitus fuerat,) cùm de eo verè ex Papiâ affirmetur, ὅτι ὅτε ἤκουσε τοῦ Κυρίου, ὅτε παρηκολούθησεν αὐτῷ, nec igitur in numero Septuaginta Christi discipulorum censeri possit) apud Eusebium, & Papiam, Petri ἀκόλουθος, & ἑρμηνευτὴς, Evangelii ab eo prædicati scriptor, tandemque annis, post Christi ascensum, undecim, in Ægyptum σταλάμενος, Evangeliúmque illic, quod scripsit, prædicans, & Ecclesias, inquit ille, πρῶτον ἐπ' αὐτῆς Ἀλεξανδρείας συστησάμενος (& postea in Pentapoli, ait vitæ illius apud Photium Scriptor anonymus) Apostolus ab eodem * Eusebio, ut & ab † Epiphanio, Lucæ adjunctus, vocatur. *L. 2. c. 24. † Hær. 51.

§. 20. Sic & Timotheus, qui post fidem à Paulo Ephesi plantatam, χειροτονίαις ἐπιγνώμοσι ἐκκλησίαις ἐγκεχειρισμένος (ait, post alios, Oecumenius in 1 Tim. 3.) ibíque θρονιεῖται, sedem figere jubebatur, ut εὐαγγελίζηται καὶ μὴ ἑτεροδιδασκαλῇ, &c. 1 Tim. 1. 3. ab Antiquis scriptoribus Apostolus vocatur.

§. 21. Ita de eo Anonymus apud Photium, Μαρτύριον Τιμοθέου τοῦ Ἀποστόλου, & Ὁ Ἀπόστολος, inquit, Τιμόθεος ὑπὸ τοῦ μεγάλου Παύλου καὶ πρεσβυτερίου τῆς Ἐφεσίων μητροπόλεως διάκονος, καὶ ἐνθρονίζεται, Apostolus Timotheus à Magno Paulo & ordinatur Ephesiorum Metropolita, & in throno collocatur: ut & * Theodoretus, Ἀσιανῶν Ἀπόστολος ὁ Τιμόθεος. Et Theophanes, Τῷ Ἰουλίῳ μηνὶ γέγονεν ἐγκαίνια τῆς ἁγίας λειψάνων, Ἀνδρέου, Λουκᾶ, καὶ Τιμοθέου τῆς ἁγίας Ἀποστόλων. De Tito idem affirmatur, Κρήτων Ἀπόστολος ὁ Τίτος, apud Theodoretum. Num. 25. * In 1 Tim. 3. 1.

§. 21. Sic Epaphroditum S. Pauli συνεργὸν & συστρατιώτην, ejus jussu ad Philippenses missum, Phil. 2. 25. eorum ibi Ἀπόστολον dictum, * Theodoretus exinde Philippensium Episcopum fuisse concludit, Ἐπαφρόδιτον, inquit, Ἀπόστολον αὐτῶν κέκληκεν σαφῶς, τοῦτον ἐδίδαξε ὡς πρὸ ἐπισκοπικοῦ διακρυσίαν αὐτὸς ἐπιδείξατο, ἔχων διακόνου φροντίδα, & iterum ad cap. 2. Ἀπόστολον αὐτὸν κέκληκεν αὐτῶν, ὡς πρὸ ἐπιμέλειαν αὐτῶν ἐμπεπιστευμένον, ὡς εἰκὸς, ὅτι τῶν ἄλλων οἱ ἐν τῇ φροντίδι, καθήκοντες διάκονοι, &c. Et in eandem sententiam, post Chrysostomum, Theophylactus & Oecumenius. In Philip. 1. 1.

§. 22. Sic & Clement Romanus συνεργὸς Pauli, Phil. 4. 3. διάκονος Πέτρου (inquit Ignatius ad Trallenses) ab Apostolis istis primariis in plantandâ Ecclesiâ adhibitus, à [a] Clemente Alexandrino, Apostolus Clemens nuncupatur, ab [b] Hieronymo, vir Apostolicus, qui post Petrum, Romanam rexit Ecclesiam, à [c] Russino, Apostolicus vir, imò penè Apostolus.

[a] Ἐν τῇ πρὸς Κορινθίους δευτέρᾳ ὁ Ἀποστόλος Κλήμης. Strom. l. 4.
[b] In Is. 52.
[c] De adulterat. lib. Orig.

§. 23. Sic & Ignatius noster, quem * ait Chrysostomus cum Apostolis familiariter & παντα χῦ versatum fuisse, καὶ τῶν πνευματικῶν ναμάτων ἀπολαύσαντα, & è spiritualibus fluentis liberaliter hausisse, ipsis συλλεγέντα (legendum putarim συλλεχθέντα) connutritum, καὶ ῥητῶν καὶ ἀπορρήτων αὐτοῖς κοινωνήσαντα, ineffabilium * Ignat. ἐγκωμ.

omnium participem facium, tandémque πειώτης ἢ δόξαντα αὐτῆς ἀρχῆς ἄξιον, ἀλλὰ καὶ αὐτοῦ ἤδη μείζονα ἐκείνων τιμῆ ἀρχῆ παρ' ἐκείνων ἐγχειρισθέντα, tanto dignum principatu ab illis habitum, quem & ab illis sanctiis viris obtinuit (καὶ γὰρ αἱ τῶν μακαρίων Ἀποστόλων χεῖρες τῆς ἱερᾶς ἐκείνης ἥψαντο κεφαλῆς, ipsæ enim Beatorum Apostolorum manus sacrum caput ejus attigerunt) ab eodem Chrysostomo Ἀποστολος & Ἐπίσκοπος appellatur.

§. 24. Hinc & illud Theodoreti in 1 Tim. 3. 1. de ævo isto loquentis, τὸν νῦν καιρὸν ὀπίσκόπους, Ἀποστόλους ὀνόμαζον, Eos qui posterioribus ævis Episcopi dicuntur, Illi tunc Apostolos vocabant; τῶν δὲ χρόνων περιόντων, τὸ μὲν τοῦ Ἀποστόλης ὄνομα τοῖς ἀληθῶς Ἀποστόλοις κατέλιπον, τιμῆ δὲ τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς μεγαλοψυχίαν τοῖς πάλαι μεγαλυψύχοις ἀποστόλοις ἐπέθεσαν: Procedente verò tempore Apostolatus nomen veris (i. e. primariis 12.) Apostolis reliquerunt, Episcopatus verò appellationem, illis qui olim Apostoli dicebantur, imposuerunt; ὅτω, inquit, Φιλιππησίων ἀπόστολος ὁ Ἐπαφρόδιτος ἦν, ὅτω Κρήτων ὁ Τίτος, καὶ Ἀσιανῶν ὁ Τιμόθεος Ἀπόστολοι. Sic Philippensium Epaphroditus, Cretensium Titus, Asianorum Timotheus Apostoli erant. Et ὅτω, inquit, ἀπὸ τῆς Ἱεροσολύμων τοῖς ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ ἔγραψαν οἱ ἀπόστολοι, Sic ab Hierosolymis ad Antiochenos scripserunt Apostoli, Act. 15. Manifesta omnia, & ad thesin nostram deicticè confirmandam commodissima; Nec est quod à Walonis περιεργοτέροις vindicari ea sollicitiùs curemus, qui potestatem hîc à Theodoreto Timotheo tribui ut Apostolo, non ut Episcopo affirmat, cùm nullum hîc inter Apostolum & Episcopum fuisse discrimen affirmet liquidò Theodoretus.

* In 1 Tim. 4. 14.

§. 25. Sic & * Rabanus Maurus de Primis istis Temporibus, Episcopi provincias integras regebant Apostolorum nomine nuncupati.

* L. 1. hær. 14. & 34.

§. 26. Sic cùm de Marci spurcissimi Hæretici sectatoribus narret Irenæus, l. 1. c. 9. (& ex eo * Epiphanius) eò insolentiæ elatos fuisse, ut ipsos etiam Apostolos præ se contemnerent, de Primævis istis Ecclesiæ Episcopis illud affirmasse videntur. Sic enim ad Gnosticos, quorum isti propago erant, alludens Ignatius, ὅτις γνώσῃ πλέον τοῦ ἐπισκόπου, φθαρῇ, Siquis eò insolentiæ efferatur, ut se plus scire quàm Episcopum affirmet, & ita Episcopum præ se contemnat, corruptus ille est, seu ad Gnosticorum castra defecisse censendus. In eandem plane sententiam quod Irenæus de Apostolis, Ignatio de Episcopis dicente.

§. 27. Quibus omnibus & illud addi potest, stolam seu habitum Pontificalem aut Episcopalem Ἀποστολικιον dici; videatur doctissimus Meursius in Glos. Sacro; Ut & sequioribus scriptoribus Episcopalem dignitatem Apostolatum dici. Decursis literis Apostolatus tui, inquit Stephanus Presbyter in Epist. ad Annarium Episcopum.

CAP. IV.

Angeli Apocalyptici Episcopi. Angeli nomen. Comprobatus à Christo Episcopatus, Apoc. 1. 10. 2. 1. Objectio contra Angelum Thyatiræ, Apoc. 2. 24. Responsio. Locus explicatus. Timotheus, vel successor ejus, Ephesi Angelus. Polycarpus Smyrnæ.

§. 1. AD tertium accedo, quod ad Angelos Apocalyticos pertinet, iis nempe notari totidem præcipuarum in Asiâ civitatum, aut Ecclesiarum Præfectos, quos non tantùm Episcopos, sed Primates, ἐξάρχους, aut Metropolitanos nuncupaveris; Utrumque breviter notandum erit.

§. 2. Primò, hos singulos, singulares, & propriè dictos Episcopos fuisse. Sic de iis Andreas Cæsariensis, ἕπτα ἐκκλησίαις ἱπαεθμοι Ἐφορεῖ Ἄγγελοι λέγονται, septem Ecclesiarum totidem Ephori (inspectores, Episcopi) Angeli hîc dicuntur. Hoc Ἀγγέλου titulo summum Sacerdotem Judæorum insignitum fuisse ex

* Mal. 11. 7.

Malachiâ satis notum est, Ille enim * Angelus Domini Exercituum est, utpote à quo lex populo derivanda erat. Quod & à Diodoro Siculo apud Photium de his ipsis Judæis verba faciente affirmatum videmus. Ἀρχιερέα, inquit, τοῦτον προσαγορεύουσι, καὶ νομίζουσιν αὐτοῖς ἄγγελον θεοῦ τῆς θεοῦ προσταγμάτων, Hunc Summum Sacerdotem appellant, eumque mandatorum Dei nuntium, aut Angelum existimant. Hi itidem in istâ Johannis visione totidem Astris assimulantur, quæ cùm Christus in manu suâ gestare dicatur, Apoc. 1. 16. & 2. 1. ex eo argumentum satis firmum duci potest, hanc eorum in Ecclesiâ dignitatem & ἐξουσίαν, à Christo, si non immediatè institutam, comprobatam saltem, & confirmatam esse, præsertim cùm (his totidem Epistolæ hujus particulis) eos singulos, sub hoc honoris & dignitatis titulo ipse interpellaverit: In tantâ luce adhuc cæcutire aliquos, inter pessimi & inauspicatissimi sæculi prodigia numerandum est.

§. 3. Quod enim ex vocâ unâ [ὑμῖν] in plurali, c. 2. 24. contra tot singulares Angelorum mentiones, à quibusdam objici video, illud omne statim evanesceat, si ex manuscriptis antiquissimis, eo præsertim, qui in Archivis Carolinis recondebatur, Venerando & omnibus æstimatissimo Codice, verba ista recenseantur. Sic enim unius particulæ [Καὶ] omissione restitutum locum dignoscemus, Ὑμῖν δὲ λέγω τοῖς λοιποῖς ἐν Θυατείροις, Vobis verò reliquis in Thyatiris dico, Hoc est, Non Ἀγγέλῳ, aut Episcopo soli, sed iis omnibus, ὅσοι οὐκ ἔγνωσαν, &c. quotquot profunda, quæ dicuntur, at ea Satanæ, non sciverunt, i. e. quotquot ad Gnosticorum castra non defecerant, quorum sub Jezebele mentio, v. 20. Et sic statim perspicua, & extra omnem controversiæ aleam posita omnia. At si cui vulgata lectio sincerior credatur, Nec tamen sic Vocabulum [ὑμῖν] (ὑμῖν καὶ λοιποῖς τοῖς ἐν Θυατείροις) ad Ἄγγελον τῆ ἐν Θυατείροις ἐκκλησίας pertinere putabitur, cùm eam ad alias personas respicere, quàm ad illas ipsas, quæ in fine versûs proximè præcedentis eâdem voce notantur, ratio contextus nullatenus passûra esset. Sunt autem istæ πᾶσαι ἐκκλησίαι, reliquæ omnes Asiæ Ecclesiæ, quarum cùm, in eo ad Angelum Thyatirensem sermone, mentio inciderit [καὶ γνώσονται πᾶσαι αἱ ἐκκλησίαι] Eas omnes paucis alloquitur Christus (quod rectè fecisse eum putes, cùm hæc una ad omnes Epistola missa fuerit, c. 1. 4. 2. 11, 17, 29.) Dabo, inquit, unicuique vestrûm secundum opera vestra, v. 23. itidémque, ὑμῖν δὲ λέγω, v. 24. vobis autem dico, reliquisque Thyatirensibus, Qui cùm culpæ illius, de quâ præsens sermo fuit, immunes & insontes essent, in tertiâ ideò personâ interpellandi fuerant, [ὅσοι οὐκ ἔχουσι, &c.] Adeò de rediculo fingi solent, quæ ad novitiæ περιλήψεως confirmationem à partium studio abreptis contra apertissimam lucem proferuntur.

§. 4. Hoc

§. 4. Hoc tam ἀναπρήτῳ ipsius Christi de cœlo loquentis testimonio, singulares in singulis Ecclesiis Episcopos comprobatos esse, imò ab Apostolis ipsis institutos (si adhuc ambigendi locus sit) extra dubium ponet Concilii Chalcedonensis Actus 2. Ἀπὸ τῶ ἁγίω Τιμοθέω μέχρι τῶν κζ'. ὀλίγοστοι ἐγένοντο —— dein πάντες ἐν Ἐφέσῳ ἐχειροτονήθησαν, A S. Timotheo (quem διὰ ὁσημέρας τῶν χειρῶν αὐτῶ ordinatum affirmat S. Paulus 2 Tim. 1. 6.) ad hoc tempus, inquiunt Patres, viginti septem Episcopi in Epheso ordinati sunt. Ex quibus patet, vel Timotheum ipsum, vel aliquem ei succedaneum, hunc ipsum Angelum fuisse, quem c. 2. 1. Christus alloquitur. Id etiam * Polycrates testatur, qui annis non ita multis post Johannis tempora natus, † octavum se illis urbis Episcopum fuisse asserit. * De Magna Tim. † Ep. ad Victor. ap. Euseb. Eccl. hist. l. 5. c. 24.

§. 5. Idem de Smyrnensis Ecclesia Angelo affirmat Irenæus, l. 3. c. 3. Polycarpum scilicet, quem ipse puer senem viderat, ὑπὸ μόνον τῶν Ἀποστόλων μαθητευθέντα, καὶ συναναστραφέντα πολλοῖς τῶν τὸν Χριστὸν ἑωρακότων, ἀλλὰ καὶ ὑπὸ Ἀποστόλων κατασταθέντα εἰς τὴν Ἀσίαν, ἐν τῇ ἐν Σμύρνῃ ἐκκλησίᾳ ἐπίσκοπον, Non solùm ab Apostolis ad fidem conversum, & cum multis, qui Christum viderant, versatum, sed & ab Apostolis in Asiam missum, in Ecclesiâ Smyrnensi Episcopum constitutum esse. Sic Tertullianus de Præscr. c. 32. Sicut Smyrnæorum Ecclesia Polycarpum à Johanne collocatum refert, sicut Romanorum, Clementem à Petro ordinatum edit, perinde utique & cæteræ exhibent, quos ab Apostolis in Episcopatum constitutos, Apostolici seminis traduces habent. At istis & id genus aliis notissimis immorari supervacaneum erit, cum de his omnibus simul pronuntiet * Tertullianus, Habemus Johannis alumnas Ecclesias —— Ordo Episcoporum ad Originem recensus, in Johannem (Apostolum) stabit authorem. * Adv. Marc. l. 4. c. 5.

CAP. V.

Angeli 7. Metropolitæ. Metropolis quid sit. Ἐκκλησίαι in S. Scripturâ in plurali, at & Ἐκκλησία in singulari. Judæa provincia, Creta, Gallia. Κατὰ ἐκκλησίαν, Act. 14. 23. idem cum κατὰ πόλιν. Metropoleon exemplar à Judæis sumptum, Deut. 16. 18. Act. 9. 1. Damascus ad Hierosolymam pertinebat, ad Tyheriadem Syria & Cilicia, ad Bagdat Assyria, ad Alexandriam Ægyptus. Secunda Metropoleon apud Judæos imago, Num. 3. 24. 32. Dependentia Ecclesiarum à Metropoli ab Apostolis instituta, Act. 16. 4. Syria Antiochiæ παροικία. Ἔφησοι ἀπὸ Σμύρνης. Anianus Metropolitanus. Cretæ Metropolis Gortyna. Dionysii Corinthiorum Episcopi Epistola. Asiæ 7 Metropoles, earum fata. Metropoles fundatæ ἐν ἀρχαίοις ἔθνεσι.

§. 1. SEcundò igitur, Hi septem Ecclesiarum Angeli, aut Sydera, non tantum Episcopi, sed & Metropolitæ, i. e. Archiepiscopi statuendi sunt, i. e. principalium urbium ἔξαρχοι, ad quos Provinciæ integræ, & in iis multarum inferiorum urbium Ecclesiæ, earúmque Episcopi, tanquam ad Archiepiscopum, aut Metropolitanum pertinebant. Illud in singulis istis septem Ecclesiis statim credibile fiet.

§. 2. Inprimis verò, ut quæ sint Metropoles, distinctiùs ex ipso sacro codice dignoscatur, sciendum est, Ecclesias, non Ecclesiam, Judæa, Gal. 1. 21. 1 Thess. 2. 14, ut & Samaria, & Galileæ, Act. 9. 31, Ecclesias Syriæ, ut & Ciliciæ, Act. 15. 41. Ecclesias Galatiæ, 1 Cor. 16. 1. Gal. 1. 2. Ecclesias Asiæ, 1 Cor. 16. 19. Apoc. 1. 11. Ecclesias denique Macedoniæ, in plurali singulas, à scriptoribus sacris memorari; Cùm tamen ἐν Ἱερουσαλήμ, Act. 8. 1. 15. 4, 22. ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ, Act. 11. 26. (ut & Act. 15. 3. si versus ille cum c. 14. 27. componatur) ἐν Κεγχρεαῖς, Rom. 16. 1. ἐν Κορίνθῳ, 1 Cor. 1. 2. 2 Cor. 1. 1. Thessalonicensium, 1 Thess. 1. 1. 2 Thess. 1. 1. Ephesina, Apoc. 2. 1. Smyrnensium, Apoc. 2. 8. ἐν Περγάμῳ, c. 2. 12. ἐν Θυατείροις, 18. ἐν Σάρδεσιν, c. 3. 1. ἐν Φιλαδελφείᾳ, c. 3. 7. Laodicensium, 14. Ἐκκλησία constanter in singulari reponatur.

§. 3. Causa hujus discriminis in promptu est, Istæ enim singulæ, Judæa, &c. Provinciarum nomina erant, ἐπαρχιῶν, quatenus eæ παροικίαι, aut διοικήσεις contradistinguuntur, (sic ut cùm apud * Cyprianum & alios non semel, Per omnes Provincias & Urbes singulas ordinati Episcopi dicantur) Provinciarum, inquam, in quibus plurimæ Civitates, singulæ singularum Ecclesiarum sedes, comprehendebantur, ideóque in plurali Ἐκκλησίαι istius, sive istius Provinciæ dicendæ. Sic Dionysius Corinthiorum Episcopus, apud * Eusebium, τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ παροικούσῃ Γόρτυναν, ἅμα τοῖς λοιποῖς μὴ Κρήτῃ παροικίαις Epistolam scribens, Philippum ἐπίσκοπον αὐτῶν, simul omnium Episcopum commendat. Sic de Irenæo * Eusebius, ὃς τῆς κατὰ Γαλλίαν παροικιῶν, ἃς Ἐφέλιος ἐπισκόπει, omnium in Gallia Provinciarum Episcopum fuisse; earum nempe omnium quæ Lugdunensi Metropoli suberant, juxta illud Gulielmi Britonis in Philippeide, & Lugdunensis, quo Gallia tota solebat, ut fama est, Primate regi; Sic Cyprianus Carthaginis Episcopus, sub qua universa Africæ provincia comprehendebatur, Ἀρχιεπίσκοπος τῆς Ἄφρων χώρας κινδύνου, Archiepiscopus Africæ regionis à Concilio Constantinopol. in Trullo dicitur Can. 2. Ideoque plurium Episcoporum in Provincia ejus non semel mentionem facit, † Universis Episcopis vel in nostrâ Provinciâ, &c. Et * alibi, Latiùs fusa est nostra Provincia, habet etiam Numidiam & Mauritanias duas sibi cohærentes. Cùm tamen unaquæque civitas cum territorio sibi adjuncto, ab Episcopo suo administrata, singularis Ecclesia dicenda sit; Ideóque quod κατ' ἐκκλησίαν factum dicitur, Act. 14. 23. κατὰ πόλιν fieri jubetur, Tit. 1. 5. (ut & Apostolorum decreta singulis civitatibus ut singulis Ecclesiis tradebantur, Act. 16. 4.) Ecclesiâ quippe in quâlibet Urbe constitutâ, cùm in quâlibet urbe Episcopus constitueretur. * Ep. 52. † Ep. 40. * Ep. 41.

§. 4. His sic positis, Illud statim sequitur, ut (in Imperii cognitione) in provinciâ qualibet, cùm plures urbes sint, una tamen primaria, & Principalis censenda erat, μητρόπολις ideò dicta, cui itidem inferiores reliquæ civitatis subjiciebantur, ut civitatibus regiones, sic & inter Ecclesias & Cathedras Episcopales unam semper primariam & Metropoliticam fuisse, à quâ reliquæ inferiorum Civitatum & regionum Ecclesiæ, & Episcopi dependebant, cum quâ concordiam & unitatem omnem colere tenebantur.

§. 5. Illud

§. 5. Illud ex Judaorum exemplari transcripsisse Apostoli videntur, cùm Mosaicâ id lege cautum esset, ut Judices, & Ministri in qualibet civitate ordinarentur, Deut. 16. 18. Illi verò in rebus dubiis ad Judicem Mosis successorem, Synedrio Hierosolymitano cinctum, recurrere tenerentur, c. 17. 9.

§. 6. Illud his ipsis Apostolorum temporibus observatum fuisse monstrat Historia Saulis, Act. 9. 2. ubi à summo Pontifice, ut Hierosolymitani Synedrii principe (vel ut Act. 22. 5. dicitur, à summo Pontifice, & toto Synedrio) literas poscit ad Synagogas Damasci, ut Christianos, quotquot ibi reperiret, omnes vinctos Hierosolymam duceret, ex quo patet, Judæos Damascenos, ut & aliarum civitatum, Synedrii Hierosolymitani dominio subjectos fuisse. Sic Agrippa de Hierosolymis apud Philonem. Μητρόπολις ἦ ἡ μίας χώρας Ἰουδαίας, ἀλλὰ καὶ τῶν πλείστων, διὰ τὰς ἐποικίας ἃς ἔπεμψεν, εἰς τὰς ἀδρὸν ὁμόρους Αἰγύπτῳ, Φοινίκῃ, Συρίαν τέ τὴν ἄλλην, καὶ τὴν Κοίλην περαιτέρω διαβάσας, Παμφυλίαν, Κιλικίαν, τά τε πολλὰ τῆς Ἀσίας ἄχρι Βιθυνίας καὶ Πόντου, &c. Hierosolyma metropolis non unicæ regionis Judææ, sed & plurimarum, propter colonias quas emisit, in Ægyptum, Syriam, Cœlosyriam, Pamphyliam, Ciliciam, multásque Asiæ partes usque ad Bithyniam, &c.

§. 7. Quod de Hierosolymis dicimus, illud post Hierosolymitanum excidium de Tiberiade monstrat Codex Imperialis, tit. de Jud. & Cœlicol. ad quam igitur, ut ad Metropolim, totam Syriam & Ciliciam pertinuisse monstrat Epiphanius Hær. Ebionit. Idem etiam & in dispersionibus suis observarunt Judæi, Synedrio in Bagdat constituto, ad quod Synagogæ per Assyriam & Mediam, ut & Alexandriæ, ad quod universa Ægyptus pertineret.

§. 8. At & alia hujusce institutionis imago apud Judæos occurrit; Cùm enim Num. 3. tres Levitarum familiæ ad ministeria sacra à Domino separarentur, & eorum singulis Princeps præficeretur, נשיא itidem dictus, v. 24. 30, 35. super hos omnes Eleazarum Aaronis filium constitutum videmus, v. 32. dictum inde נשיא נשיא הלוי ἄρχοντα ὅλῃ τῇ ἀρχόντων Λευιτῶν, ad quem pertinebat suprema ista sacrorum cura & ἐπισκοπή.

§. 9. Ad hanc imaginem Apostolos Ecclesias ubique disponendas curasse, & in omnibus plantationibus suis, minorum ab eminentioribus civitatibus dependentiam, & subordinationem constituisse, exemplis quidem plurimis monstrari posset; Illud in Syriâ, & Ciliciâ patet, Act. 15. Cùm enim ζήτημα illud c. 15. 2. Hierosolymas referretur ab Ecclesiâ ἰδίως Antiochia, c. 14. 26. & 15. 3. & decretum ab Apostolis denuò ad eos, à quibus quæstio proponebatur, i. e. ad Antiochenam Ecclesiam mitteretur, v. 22. in Epistolâ, quâ decretum illud continebatur, simul cum Antiochensibus, τοῖς κατὰ Συρίαν καὶ Κιλικίαν ἀδελφοῖς comprehensos videmus, v. 23. Dein Epistolâ istâ Antiochenæ Ecclesiæ redditâ, v. 30. Paulus tandem & Silas, Syriam & Ciliciam peragrantes, v. 4. c. 16. 4. δόγματα κεκριμένα ὑπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων, singulis Civitatibus observanda tradiderunt, Derbe & Lystræ Lyaoniæ urbibus, Act. 14. 6. quidni & per universam Phrygiam & Galatiam, v. 6. quæ omnes, ut & ipsa Antiochia ad Hierosolymas, primariam tam latæ (ut ex Philone prædiximus) Provinciæ Metropolin, pertinebat, & ad eam ad dirimendam litem istam, se conferebant, & ab arbitrio ejus & Conciliari decreto in re jam dubia [illegible]dua dependebant.

§. 10. Hinc dicti Ignatiani ratio constat in Epistolâ ad Romanos, ubi ille Antiochiæ Episcopus, se τὸν ἐν Συρίᾳ Ἐκκλησίας ποιμένα, Pastorem Ecclesiæ quæ est in Syriâ appellat, cùm ad Antiochiam scilicet, & Metropolim suam tota Syria pertineat. Sic & Author Epistolæ ad Antiochenos, Ἐκκλησίᾳ Θεοῦ παροικούσῃ ἐν Συρίᾳ τῇ ὑπ' Ἀντιοχείᾳ eam inscribens, totam Syriam ejus παροικίαν esse concludit.

§. 11. Hîc & illud rursùs recenseri debet, quod ejusdem Ignatii ad Romanos Epistolæ Epigraphe nobis largitur [Ἐκκλησία ἥτις καὶ προκάθηται ἐν τόπῳ χωρίου Ῥωμαίων] ex quâ, Ecclesiæ Romanæ, ejusque Episcopo, super Ecclesiis omnibus in urbicariâ regione, aut provinciâ Romanâ contentis, Præfecturam competisse videmus.

*L. 2. c. 16'. §. 12. Idem de Alexandrinâ prius monstratum fuit, de quâ inquit * Eusebius, Marcum Ἐκκλησίας θεσπίσαι ἐπ' αὐτῆς Ἀλεξανδρείας συστήσασθαι, Ecclesias, in plurali, primùm in Alexandriâ instituisse. Has omnes ab eo, sub nomine τῆς ἐν Ἀλεξανδρείᾳ παροικίας, administrandas susceptisse Anianum octavo Neronis anno,
*L. 2. c. 24'. idem * Eusebius affirmat. Quibus patet, primariam Alexandriæ, & Patriarchalem Cathedram fixam esse, ad quam reliquæ Provinciæ illius Ecclesiæ à Marco plantatæ (quales in Pentapoli fuisse prædiximus) ut ad Metropoliticam suam pertinebant.

§. 13. Idem etiam sine dubio de Cretâ affirmandum est, aliquam in eâ Metropolim fuisse, ubi sedem suam figebat Titus, & in aliis omnibus civitatibus, & Ecclesiis Episcopos constituebat, qui huic exinde, ut Metropolitano subjacebant, sic certè Eusebius putavit, qui Titum τὸν ὅλῃ Κρήτης ἐκκλησιῶν ἐπισκοπεῖν εἰληχέναι, Ecclesiarum, quæ in Cretâ erant, Episcopatum sortitum esse affirmat, l. 3. c. 4'.

§ 14. Sic Theodoretus in Arg. Ep. ad Titum, Ordinatum eum à Paulo Episcopum, τῆς Κρήτης μητρὸς ὕστις, mandatum à Paulo accepisse, τοὺς κατ' αὐτὸν ἐπισκόπους χειροτονῆσαι, ut Episcopos sub se ordinaret. Sic & Chrysostomus in Tit. 1. Hom. 1. Titum sine dubio virum δόκιμον fuisse, cùm illi ὁλόκληρος νῆσος καὶ πόλεων ἐπισκόπων κρίσις commissa esset.

§. 15. Quæ tum fuerit Insulæ illius Metropolis ex Scriptura non constat. At sub ævo Dionysii Corinthiorum Episcopi (quem ἀρχαῖον τινα appellat Eusebius l. 3. c. 4'.) i. e. circa An. Ch. 175. Gortynam eam fuisse monstrat Epistola ejus, quam τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ παροικούσῃ Γορτύναν, ἅμα τοῖς λοιποῖς καὶ Κρήτῃ παροικίαις, Ecclesiæ Gortynam incolenti, vel adjacenti, simul cum reliquis per Cretam Ecclesiis, aut diœcesibus scripsisse eum ait Eusebius l. 4. c. 23'. quarum, inquit Eusebius, Philippum Episcopum commendat; Φίλιππον ἐπίσκοπον αὐτῶν non unius Diœceseos, sed λοιπῶν, ut videtur, παροικιῶν) ὑπομνήσας.

§. 16. Sic denique de Asiâ, cujus in Novo Codice toties fit mentio, Asiâ scilicet Lydiacâ, pronuntiandum est. Cùm enim 1°. prædicato per Paulum & Johannem per annos aliquot Evangelio, Incolæ ejus omnes fidem recepisse dicantur, Act. 19. 10. & tamen in eâ universâ post tres annos à Paulo inter eos insumptos, septem tantùm Ecclesiæ in Apocalypsi recenseantur: Cúmque 2do, multas Metropoles in eâ fuisse certum sit, (καὶ ἡ Μιλητοπόλεων Ἔφεσον primam apud * Ulpianum) & inter eas || Ptolomæo Thyatira, † Concil. Constant. sub Menâ, Philadelphia, Metropoles appellentur, Laodicea itidem, & Sardis, Smyrna & Ephesus à Plinio l. 5. c. 29. ponantur, ut civitatis in quibus Romani Procos. sedes suas figentes, Civitatibus omnibus circum ambientibus jus dabant, quod & de Pergamo affirmat c. 30. Cùm denique 3tio, Ignatii ævo Magnesiam & Trallin super Mæandri ripis positas (Τράλλεις πόλις Λυδίας πρὸς τῷ Μαιάνδρῳ ποταμῷ, ait Stephanus Byzant. περὶ πόλ.) ideóque in hâc Asiâ locandas, ex Epistolis ad eas conscriptis, & Episcopis Damâ, & Polybio ab Ignatio nominatis, Ecclesias seu Civitates Episcopales fuisse monstretur, & quas postea Ephesino Metropolitano subjectas fuisse cognoscimus: Nemini novum aut improbabile censebitur, quod ex his aut talibus præmissis Reverendissimus Primas Armachanus concludi postulat, (& ad illud elucidatius reddendum, de Asiæ istius ambitu eruditissimam commentationem conscripsit) Has scilicet singulas Ecclesias, eo ipso, quo ad eas missa est Epistola, tempore, Metropoles fuisse, ad quas reliquæ omnes istius Asiæ Ecclesiæ, ut ad Matres filiæ pertinebant, & quamvis earum plures ab hac denuò dignitate exciderint, solâ Ephesô, sub Constantini tempore, incolumi servata, omnes tamen, solâ Thyatirensi exceptâ, ad eandem, à quâ exciderant, tandem restitutas esse.

* In l. Observ. D. de off. Proconſ.

|| Θυάτειρα Μητρόπολις. Geog. l. 5. c. 2.

† Ἐπίσκοπος τῆς Φιλαδελφέων μητροπόλεως τῆς Λυδῶν ἐπαρχίας, Act. 5.

§. 17. In re testatissimâ unicum addo (ne Reverendissimi Primatis scrinia compilasse videar) idque notissimum, Concilia ea, quæ hos Metropoliticarum Ecclesiarum Primatus, aut Exarchatus, decretis ipsorum confirmandos censuerint, cùm de iis sermonem fecerint, Antiquarum, aut Apostolicarum traditionum mentionem solenniter facere.

§. 18. Sic in fronte laudatissimi istius Niceni Canonis sexti (quo totius Ægypti, Lybiæ, & Pentaleos ἐξουσίαν ad Patriarcham Alexandriæ pertinere statuitur, ut & Romano Episcopo, & Antiocheno, & cæterarum Provinciarum Metropolitis πρεσβεῖα σώζεσθαι, privilegia sua servanda esse decernitur) præponitur [Τὰ ἀρχαῖα ἔθη κρατείτω (ipsis Ignatii verbis, de Apostolicis consuetudinibus sine dubio usurpatis) Antiqui, aut Primitivi mores obtineant] ii scilicet, qui à Marco ipso (quem Alexandrinæ, ut & in Lybiâ, & Pentapoli, Ecclesiarum fundatorem fuisse monstravimus) ad ea tempora deducebantur.

§. 19. Sic & in Antiocheno Canone 9. ubi ὁ ἐν τῇ μητροπόλει πρώτως ἐπίσκοπος, Episcopus qui in Metropoli præficitur, πᾶσι φροντίδα ἀναλαμβάνειν πάσης τῆς ἐπαρχίας, totius Provinciæ curam suscipere jubebatur: Cæteri verò Episcopi μηδὲν μέγα ποιεῖν ἄνευ αὐτοῦ, nihil grande facere sine illo, &c. statim additur, κατὰ τὸν ἀρχαῖον κανόνα τὸν κρατήσαντα ἀπὸ πατέρων ἡμῶν καὶ νῦν, secundum Patrum nostrorum antiquum, seu primitivum Canonem, qui jamdiu in Ecclesiâ obtinuit.

§. 20. Sic Ephesini Concilii Can. ultimo, cùm de Cypriorum Archiepiscopi privilegiis agatur, caveatúrque, Ne ille Patriarchæ Antiocheno subjacere existimetur, iterum ad ἀρχαῖον ἔθος, & ἀρχαίαν συνήθειαν, tandémque ad τὰ ἐξ ἀρχῆς ἀνωθεν δίκαια, illa, quæ ab initio plantatæ Ecclesiæ fuerant, jura, & τὸ πάλαι κρατῆσαν ἔθος recurritur.

§. 21. Ex quibus satis patet, Hanc Metropoliticarum Ecclesiarum πρωτείων assertationem, aliarúmque omnium ab iis dependentium subordinationis vindicationem, nihil novum, aut à quo Primitiva praxis abhorruisse putetur, in Ecclesiam Christi invehere, sed ea ab ipsis demum Apostolis Ecclesiarum fundatoribus instituta manasse, & ad Ecclesiarum unitatem, & concordiam conservandam non parum contulisse.

CAP. VI.

Ἐπίσκοπος & Πρεσβύτερος vocum usus promiscuus. De eo testimonia Theodoreti, &c. Ἰσοδυναμίας quatuor modi. Primus Theodoreto, Tertius Theophylacto placuit, Neuter Presbyteranorum sententiæ confirmandæ utilis.

§. 1. ISti sic dispositis, ad quartam dicendorum Classem progredimur, Ἐπισκόπου simul ac Πρεσβυτέρου apellationem, quatenus voces eas in Novo Testamento usurpatas reperimus.

§. 2. Et illud inprimis hâc in re diffitendum non est, quòd Antiquorum Scriptorum quàm multis visum est, eas aut semper, aut plerunque in Novo Testamento promiscuè usurpari, ut voces ἰσοδυναμούσας. Sic Theodoretus in 1 Tim. 3. 1. Τὸς αὐτὸς ἐκάλεσε ποτὲ πρεσβυτέρους καὶ ἐπισκόπους, & in Phil. 1. ἀμφότερα δῆλον καθ' ἑκάτερον ἡ χειρὸς τὰ ὀνόματα. Sic post Chrysostomum Oecumenius in Phil. 1. ἐπισκόπους τὸς πρεσβυτέρους καλεῖ, τότε γὰρ ἦν ἐκοινώνουν τοῖς ὀνόμασι. Et in Act. 20. Ἐπειδὴ λανθάνει τὸς πολλὸς ἡ συνήθεια μᾶλλον ἡ χαρὶς διδάσκουσα, τὸς ἐπισκόπους πρεσβυτέρους ὀνομάζουσα, καὶ τὸς πρεσβυτέρους ἐπισκόπους, σημαντέον πάντα ἐντεῦθεν, καὶ ὅτι ἡ αὐτὸς Τίτον ἐπιστολῆς, ἐν ᾗ καὶ αὐτὸς Φιλιππησίοις, καὶ ὅτι ἡ αὐτὸς Τιμόθεον αὐτός. Sic in 1 Pet. 5. 1. Πρεσβυτέρους γὰρ τὸς ἐπισκόπους, καὶ ἡ ἀπὸ Πεδίων βίβλος οἶδε λεγομένη. Idem etiam sensisse Hieronymum ex Commentariis præcipuè ad Titum à D. Blondello fusè recitatis, constat.

§. 3. Hæc Antiquorum affirmatio quatuor modis explicari, aut intelligi potest; vel sic ut ambæ voces ἰσοδυναμοῦσι [Ἐπίσκοπος, & πρεσβύτερος] rem unicam, & simplicem, quæcunque illa fuerit, significasse putandæ sint, quòd etiam dupliciter fieri potest, 1. Ut Episcopos solos, 2^do. ut Presbyteros (quos hodie dicimus) solos denotasse putentur; vel 3^tio, ut utraque vox utrosque promiscuè significet, quandoque scilicet Episcopum, quandoque Presbyterum, adeóque vox ἐπίσκοπος quandoque Presbyterum significet, quandoque Episcopum propriè dictum, idémque de voce πρεσβύτερος affirmetur, aliquando Presbyterum vulgò dictum, aliquando ἰδίως apellatum Episcopum significasse. 4°. Denique ut vox ἐπίσκοπος semper Episcopum singularem denotet, πρεσβύτερος verò quandoque de Episcopis, quandoque etiam de Presbyteris, quos hodie dicimus, comparibus usurpetur.

§. 4. Horum sensuum primúsne, an secundus, seu tertius demum, quartúsve Antiquorum istorum dictis accommodandus sit, nondum, quod scimus, inter scriptores convenit. Theodoretus ad secundum potiùs sensum inclinasse videtur, cùm voce ἐπισκόπου, Act. 20. Phil. 1. Tit. 1. ut & 1 Tim. 3. non Episcopos, sed Presbyteros solos intelligendos pronuntiet; Ἐπισκόπους, inquit, τὸς πρεσβυτέρους καλεῖ, Episcoporum voce utitur, cùm Presbyteros intelligat Apostolus; sequitur enim, ἄλλως τε οὐδὲ οἷόντε ἦν πολλὸς ἐπισκόπους μίαν πόλιν ποιμαίνειν, Aliàs enim impossibile esset, multos Episcopos unam civitatem pascere, aut administrare.

§. 5. Hæc quidem Theodoreti sententia, quamvis fundamento planè debili nitatur (neq; enim, si ἐπίσκοπος omnibus istis locis pro singularibus & propriè dictis Episcopis sumantur, ex eo quicquam incommodi sequetur, ut * statim patebit) nihil tamen, si pro concessâ habeatur, ad stabiliendam Episcoporum, & Presbyterorum * C. 8, & 12.

byterorum ἰσοτιμίαν factura est, cùm ab ipso, qui sic affirmaverit, Theodoreto, Episcoporum ὄνομα seu * μεῖζον τιμὴ manifestè propugnetur, ipsique, quos nunc Episcopos dicimus, singulares urbium Præfecti, Apostolorum tempore, † Apostoli nuncupati fuisse affirmentur.

* Ἐπισκόπους ἅπερ δὴ καὶ μεῖζον μεταλαχόντας τιμῆς, in 1 Tim. 3.
† Ib.

§. 6. Quid autem hâc in re de Hieronymo pronuntiandum sit, satis superque prædiximus.

§. 7. Verùm post Chrysostomum, Theophylacto & Oecumenio tertium potissimum sensum placuisse video, cùm enim in Phil. 1. nominum κοινωνίαν notasset Oecumenius, eam sic statim explicandam curavit, ut non solùm οἱ ἐπίσκοποι πρεσβύτεροι vocari putentur (uti & διάκονοι etiam) sed & τὸ ἔμπαλιν ἐ converso, οἱ πρεσβύτεροι ἐπίσκοποι. Illud etiam ex verbis ad Act. 20. recitatis patet, Scripturam quippe τὺς ἐπισκόπους πρεσβυτέρους, καὶ τὺς πρεσβυτέρους ἐπισκόπους ὀνομάζειν, Et cùm ad 1 Pet. 5. 1. notasset vocem συμπρεσβύτερον Petro accommodatam, vel ἡλικίαν, vel τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ τιμῷ significare, statim adjicit, πρεσβυτέρους γὰρ τὺς ἐπισκόπους, καὶ ἡ πρὸ πράξεων βίβλος οἶδε λεγομένους, Episcopos (propriè dictos, quibus prædicta ἐπισκόπου τιμὴ competebat) in Actorum libro per vocem πρεσβύτερος significari; sic & in 2 Jo. Joannes, inquit, πρεσβύτερον μόνον ἑαυτὸν ἐξίωσε καλέσαι, ἴσως ὅτι ὀλίγοις ὢν ὕστερον ἔγραφε ταῦτας, ἢ καὶ ἐπίσκοπον καλῶν ἑαυτὸν διὰ τῦ πρεσβυτέρου, Presbyterum solummodo se vocandum putavit, vel quia has Epistolas jam senex scripserit, vel quia voce πρεσβύτερος se Episcopum nuncuparet.

§. 8. Ex quibus itidem manifestum est, ex hoc altero harum vocum ἰσοδυναμίας sensu, nihil ad Presbyteranam ἰσοτιμίαν tuendam concludi posse, cùm & ii ipsi qui in Novo Testamento ἐπισκόπων & πρεσβυτέρων promiscuum usum affirment, & quandoque Episcopos (sequioribus ævis sic dictos) quandoque Presbyteros iis significari censeant, extra omnem tamen illud controversiam ponant, ipsis Scripturarum temporibus, singulares Civitatum Præfectos fuisse, seu Πρεσβυτέρους quidem eos, seu Episcopos nuncupatos.

§. 9. Hæc utrobique verè à me dicta esse, malo Optimi senis Petri Molinæi, quàm meis verbis testatum facere. Dixi, * inquit, in Novo Testamento voces Episcopi & Presbyteri perinde accipi, sed non putavi inde imminui dignitatem Episcopalem, cùm locutus sim de solo nomine, non de solo munere, habeámque———consentientes, præter Presbyterum Hieronymum, celeberrimos Episcopos veteris Ecclesiæ, Chrysostomum, Ambrosium (Authorem Comment. in Epistolas Pauli pseudepigraphum) Theodoretum, qui non putaverunt sibi fraudi esse, aut per hoc de suâ dignitate quicquam detrahi, si voces Episcopi & Presbyteri primitùs eodem sensu usurpatas fuisse crederetur.

* Ep. 1. ad Episc. Winton.

§. 10. His itaque prælibatis, sic ut causæ nostræ quicquid de horum in Scripturâ verborum ἰσοδυναμίᾳ, aut promiscuo usu affirmetur, quovismodo obesse nequeat, nihil jam vetat, quo minus singula Novi Instrumenti loca, ubi aut ἐπισκόπου, aut πρεσβυτέρου mentio occurrit, perlustraturi, obiter etiam (& planè ex abundanti) disquiramus, annon primum, aut quartum demum ἰσοδυναμίας genus hîc locum habere possit, ita, ut aut utroque vocabulo ἐπισκόπου & πρεσβυτέρου soli singulares Episcopi, constanter (& nunquam non) in sacro Codice denotentur, aut saltem voce [ἐπίσκοπος] ad solos singulares Episcopos pertinente, vox πρεσβύτερος communiter ad Episcopos, quandoque tamen licet rarò ad Presbyteros pertineat.

CAP. VII.

Ἐπισκόπου vox in veteri Testamento. אל Ἐπίσκοποι, Ἄρχοντες, Annui Præsides, פקודים. Ἐπίσκοποι δαυάμεως, Artifices principales. Rectores, Præpositi Sacerdotum & Levitarum, ἐπίσκοπος Ἐλεάζαρ. Græca Exemplaria, Is. 60. 17. Emendata ex Clemente. Ἀρχὴ aliqua per ἐπισκοπὴ notata. Christi χειρότης, Jo. 13. 13. Κλῆρος διακονίας καὶ Ἀποστολῆς, Act. 1. 25. Dominium Charitativum. Status Controversiæ.

§. 1. A Voce ἐπισκόπου exordiendum est, ab Hellenistis in Veteri, ab Apostolis dein, in Novo Testamento, non raro usurpatâ. It Veteri Testamento Duo sunt vocabula Hebraica, quæ Græci Interpretes per ἐπίσκοπον reddenda putarunt, 1. אל semel, (Θεῷ, Κυρίῳ, Ἀγγέλῳ, καὶ ἐπισκόπῳ commune) quo scilicet κοινῶς dominium notatur.

§. 2. Sic apud prophanos Authores iidem sunt ἐπίσκοποι & ἄρχοντες; Videatur Aristides in Orat. de Concor. ad Asiat. Civit. ubi post βασιλέων mentionem, adduntur οἱ κατ' ἐνιαυτὸν ἐπίσκοποι ἀφικνούμενοι, de quibus priùs dicebatur, ἡγεμόνες ἢ ἡμῖν ἐκ νόμου φοιτῶσι κατ' ἔτος, Annui scilicet Præsides, Qui Justiniano ἄρχοντες ἐπαρχιῶν, & μητροπόλεων ubique dicebantur. Unde illud forsan Hesychii, ἐπίσκοποι βασιλέα reddentis. Sic & Ciceroni in Epist. ad Atticum, vult me Pompeius esse, quem tota maritima ora habeat ἐπίσκοπον, i. e. speculatorem & custodem.

§. 3. Secundò (à themate (פקד) פקד, פקיד, פקוד, quibus omnibus notatur Præfectus, Præpositus, Commissarius, cui aliqua super homines administratio concreditur, communiter per ἐπίσκοπος redduntur, at & per ἐπισκέπτης, & πρεσβύτης, ut & ἄρχων, ταμίας, κωμάρχης, & semel per θυρωρὸς Janitor, viz. cui claves domus Domini commissi sunt, Ezech. 44. 11. Cùm per ἐπίσκοπον reddatur, ad quinque significatio ejus reduci potest.

§. 4. Primò, in Exercitu, Ducem, ἐπίσκοπον ἢ δυνάμεως, Chiliarchum, aut Centurionem denotat, Num. 31. 14. Jud. 9. 28. 2 Reg. 11. 15.

§. 5. Secundò, in officinâ, Artifices principales, 2 Chron. 34. 12, 17. eos nempe qui restaurando templo præficiebantur.

§. 6. Tertiò, in Civitate, quemlibet Rectorem, aut Principem, Nehem. 11. 9, 14. peculiariter verò Sacerdotum Præpositum, v. 10. qualis erat Jedaiah, dein Levitarum v. 15. qualis Shemaiah, Priorem ἱερέων, posteriorem Λευιτῶν ἐπίσκοπον dictum.

§. 7. Quartò, in Templi ministerio, Eleazarum filium Aaronis (ὃς ἀρχόντων τῶν Λευιτῶν ἄρχοντα dictum, Num. 3. 32) qui Num. 4. 16. ἐπίσκοπος Ἐλεάζαρ vocatur.

§. 8. Quintò, præpositos domus Domini significat, ἐπίσκοπος ἐπὶ τὸν οἶκον Κυρίου, 2 Reg. 11. 18.

§. 9. Quòd

§. 9. Quod verò in Græcis Isaiæ exemplaribus, c. 60. 17. vocem ἐπισκοπὸς pro Hebr. נגש hodiè repositam reperiamus, videtur illud ex Clemente Romano emendandum esse, sic ut ad priorem Commatis particulam vox ἐπισκόπους pertineat, & per eam פקידיך reddatur, quam toties sic redditam videmus, נגש verò, (quæ ad inferiora officia, ἐργοδιώκτου, φορολόγου, πρέκτορος, ἵλαος pertinet, &, cùm semel per ἐπιτάκτης reddatur, Ex. 5. 14. ad ἐργοδιώκτου munus pertinere deprehenditur,) rectissimè (ut ab eodem Clemente in hoc Isaiæ loco, è Codice antiquissimo, & quo Apostoli utebantur, repositam experimur) per διακόνους reddatur, Quod hîc obiter monuisse sufficiat.

§. 10. Ex hâc sub Veteri Testamento vocis hujus significatione, multa sunt, quæ ad rem nostram satis commodè concludi possent, si istis immorari opus esset. Nos ex iis omnibus hoc unum deictice monstratum censemus, ἐπισκέπτω, aut προϊστάμαι (aliquem aliis præpositum, ut ipsorum actiones, & operas observet, curámque suscipiat) hoc ἐπισκόπου titulo constanter apud Interpretes eos Hellenistas significari, ideóque nullam dubitandi causam esse, quin ἀρχὴ aliqua in Ecclesiâ Christianâ à Novi Testamenti scriptoribus per ὁποιονῶν indigitetur.

§. 11. Talis quidem erat, quam Magno nostro ψυχῶν Episcopo, Christo ipsi competiisse videmus, qui cùm hîc in terris discipulis suis ministraret, κυβέρνησις tamen sibi vendicabat, Jo. 13. 13.

§. 12. Talis ἐπισκοπὴ, Act. 1. cùm munus, saltem in designatione divinâ, Apostolicum eâ notetur, quòd, ad modum Christi, κυρίου, & tamen διακονοῦντος, dominium certè (inter fideles aut Christianos) sed Charitativum, & cum humilitate summâ conjunctum fuisse, priùs monstravimus. Hinc & illud παρέρχου notari debet, munus illud, quod ἐπισκοπὴ dicitur, v. 20. κλῆσιν τῆς διακονίας καὶ ἀποστολῆς nuncupari, v. 25. διακονίας vocabulo ad ministerium, ἀποστολῆς ad regimen in Ecclesiâ futurum (utroque ad regiminis modum definiendum, dominium scilicet, non ἀναγκαστὸν, aut αὐχεμφόν, 1 Pet. 5. 1, 5. sed, ut dictum est, ὡς διακονοῦντος, Lu. 22. 27. ὡς πόδας νιπτοντος, Jo. 13. 13. ὡς διακόνου καὶ πάντων δούλου, Mar. 10. 43. mansuetum quidem, & charitativum, & ad omnem subditorum utilitatem destinatum) spectante.

§. 13. At de istis nulla inter nos & Presbyteranos controversia futura est. Quæritur tantùm an singulari personæ, an toti demum collegio jus illud competat. Nos singularibus personis, singularum Civitatum Præpositis, Jus regendi Ecclesias in Scripturis attribui contendimus. Illi è contra vocabulorum ἐπισκόπων & πρεσβυτέρων ἰσοδωμίαν in Scripturis se concluisse putantes, unamquamque Civitatem à pluribus ἐπισκοπαῖς, seu ἐπισκόπων seu πρεσβυτέρων titulo notis, administrari affirmant, sèque Novi Testamenti authoritate fulciri existimant. De vocabulorum ἰσοδωμίᾳ statim plura dicemus, & ex eâ concessâ nihil Presbyteranorum causæ accrescere posse monstrabimus. Interim pauca de Ἐπισκόπου significatione in omnibus Novi Codicis locis dicenda sunt.

CAP. VIII.

Ἐπισκόπου usus in Novo Testamento, Act. 20. 28. Πᾶν πρόβατον de totâ Asiâ. Irenæi authoritas. Paulus universæ Asiæ fidem annuntiavit, Act. 19. 10. 1 Cor. 16. 9. Ephesus Asiæ Metropolis primaria, Act. 19. 35. & 38. Ab eâ præcepta Apostolica ad reliquas Civitates optimè diffusa. Per Asiam navia à Paulo insumpta. Ultimum vale, v. 22.

§. 1. EJus prima mentio est, Act. 20. 28. ubi ad πρεσβυτέρους ἐκκλησίας, v. 17. verba faciens, eosdem Episcopos nuncupat, Προσέχετε, inquiens, ἑαυτοῖς, καὶ παντὶ τῷ ποιμνίῳ, ἐν ᾧ ὑμᾶς τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον ἔθετο ἐπισκόπους, ποιμαίνειν τὴν Ἐκκλησίαν τοῦ Θεοῦ, &c. Hinc certè harum vocum ἰσοδωμίαν rectissimè colligi putamus, nec certè alios jam Mileti πρεσβυτέρους repertos esse, quàm quos singulos ἐπισκόπους Paulus appellat.

§. 2. Qui verò, & quales sint hoc in loco ἐπίσκοποι, faciliùs intelligi poterit, si prænoscatur, quodnam sit hoc πᾶν τὸ ποίμνιον, cui ἐπίσκοποι, ut ποιμένες præponebantur. Si enim ad unam aliquam Civitatem restringendus sit grex ille, Presbyteranis fortè herba porrigenda videretur, at secus, si ad plures extendatur; Testis hîc omni exceptione major Sanctus Irenæus, l. 3. c. 14. ubi de vocatis Miletum Episcopis aut Presbyteris sermone habito, statim addit, Ab Epheso, & reliquis proximis Civitatibus convocatos esse. Plures enim Apostolorum tempore in Asiâ Episcopos fuisse, post alios multos ipse etiam * Hieronymus pronuntiat, Ipsorum quippe rogatu Johannem Evangelium suum scripsisse affirmans.

* Catal. Scr. Eccl. c. 9.

§. 3. Id unum si concedatur, frustra contra nos militatura sunt aliorum omnium argumenta, quibus Episcopos hîc nominatos ad Presbyterorum gradum detrudere se cogi existimarunt; Quæ quidem sententia si antiquorum cuivis placuisse videatur, nemini tamen, qui cum Antiquissimo Irenæo, (i. e. Polycarpi, εἰς τὴν Ἀσίαν ἐν τῇ ἐν Σμύρνῃ ἐκκλησίᾳ ὑπὸ Ἀποστόλων πεπιστευμένῳ ἐπισκόπου, auditore) hac in re contendere, aut ei opponi posse videatur.

§. 4. Ad hujus autem rei veritatem perspiciendam, ex v. 31. lux aliqua affulsura est. Γρηγορεῖτε, inquit Sanctus Paulus, μνημονεύοντες, ὅτι τριετίαν νύκτα καὶ ἡμέραν οὐκ ἐπαυσάμην μετὰ δακρύων νουθετῶν ἕνα ἕκαστον, Vigilate, memoriâ recolentes, quòd per triennium nocte dièque non cessavi cum lachrymis unumquemque monere. Quinam verò illi erant, quibus annos tres insumpsit Apostolus? Num unius Civitatis fideles? Imò consulatur historia rei gestæ, c. 19. proposita.

§. 5. Paulus Ephesum venit, v. 1. discipulis duodecim primùm in nomine Jesu baptizatis, v. 5. postea etiam manus imposuit, v. 6. Spiritu statim sancto dona linguarum & prophetiæ iis largiente; Post hæc in Synagogâ Ephesinâ per tres menses prædicavit, v. 8. dein ἀποβαὶς ἀπ' αὐτῶν per spatium aliquod, in Scholâ Tyranni quotidiè διαλέγετο, v. 9. dein prædicationi, & miraculorum operationi biennium integrum insumebatur, & ex eo factum, ut omnes universam Asiam incolentes verbum Domini Jesu audirent, v. 10. Dein v. 22. missis in Macedoniam Timotheo & Erasto, αὐτὸς ἐπέσχε χρόνον εἰς τὴν Ἀσίαν, ipse Paulus in Asiâ moram fecit, tandémque v. 26. manifestum esse ait Demetrius, ὐ μόνον Ἐφέσου, ἀλλὰ σχεδὸν πάσης τῆς Ἀσίας, non solùm Ephesi, sed per universam ferè Asiam ἱκανὸν ὄχλον multitudinem non exiguam ad fidem à Paulo conversam esse. Ideóque θύραν sibi μεγάλην, in partibus istis ἀνεῳγμένην, portam magnam apertam esse affirmat Paulus, 1 Cor. 16. 9.

§. 6. Patet hinc universam Asiam, Lydiocam aut Proconsularem, non unicam Asiæ Civitatem, Ephesum, πίμπτον hîc dici, cujus ἐπίσκοποι convocati sunt, nec igitur quicquam obstare, quin singuli singularum Urbium Præfecti hoc titulo significentur.

* C. 19. & 20. §. 7. Phrasin [τὰς προσευχὰς ἡ Ἐκκλησία] c. 20. 17. nihil nobis officere * postmodum monstrabimus. Duo interim hîc notanda erunt.

§. 8. Primum, Ephesum Asiæ Metropolim fuisse, (Ἐφεσὸς ἐστι τῆς Ἀσίας μητρόπολις, ait Chrysostomus in Arg. Ep. ad Ephesios. Τῶν Ἐφεσίων μητρόπολιν τῆς Ἀσίας, &c. Theodos. Ep. ad Dioscor.) ideoque apud Euseb. l. 3. c. 4. Timotheum τῆς ἐν Ἐφέσῳ παροικίας Episcopum dici. Imò inter primarias Asiæ civitates primò repositam, Apoc. 2. 1. ut & in Notitiis Imperii. Hinc sub Antonini tempore, necessitas Proconsuli imposita, per mare Asiam applicare, καὶ τὴν μητρόπολιν Ἔφεσον primam attingere. Ulpian. in l. Observ. D. de offic. Proconsul. Sic apud Josephum Ἀρχ. ιδ'. κεφ. κ'. Dolabella ab Hyrcano literas recepit, misitque τοῖς κατ' Ἀσίαν ἅπασιν καὶ τῇ Ἐφεσίων πόλει παρεπίδημοι κατ' Ἀσίαν, Ephesiorum urbi Primatum totius Asiæ obtinenti. Hinc & Act. 19. 38. de Epheso dicitur, ἀνθύπατοί εἰσι καὶ ἀγοραῖοι ἄγονται, Jus scilicet Asiaticis omnibus in hâc primariâ Asiæ hujus Metropoli dabatur. Hinc est quòd Antonini Pii de Christianis Epistola περιεῖδεν ἐν Ἐφέσῳ ἐν τῷ κοινῷ τῆς Ἀσίας, in communi Asiæ concilio (confessù quippe aut Curiâ Proconsulari) Ephesi divulgata sit, inquit Euseb. l. 4. κεφ. ιγ'. Sic & Ephesus non solùm Dianæ ναοφόρος, aditua, Act. 19. 35. sed & πρώτη κοινὴ τῆς Ἀσίας καὶ τῆς χρείας καταφυγὴ, inquit Aristides Or. ad Asiat. Civit. de concord. Nec igitur sine ratione scriptor ille (quisquis fuerit) de locis in Act. Apost. sub Hieronymi nomine, Specialiter, inquit, ubi Ephesus Civitas est, Asia vocatur; Et de Ephesi Episcopo, Ordo thronorum Metropol. ad calcem Codini, Ὁ Ἐφέσου κατέχει πάσης Ἀσίας, Ephesi Episcopus, totius Asiæ Primas.

§. 9. Secundum. Ab Epheso ad reliquas Asiæ Ecclesias vigorem præceptorum Apostolicorum commodissimè diffundi potuisse.

§. 10. Illud duobus testimoniis confirmatum dabimus, uno ab Antiquo Martyrii Timothei scriptore, altero à Chrysostomo petito. * Ille sic de Johanne pronuntiat, Ψηφίσμαι Νεῦσα τῆς ὑστεραίας ἀναχωρῆσαι, τὴν Ἐφεσίων κατέχειν μητρόπολιν, καὶ αὐτὸς δὲ ἑαυτὸν, καθὰ συμπεφώνηντο ἐπισκόποις τῆς Ἐφεσίων ἀντιλαμβάνεται μητροπόλεως, καὶ διήρκεσε τὸν τῆς εὐσεβείας κηρύσσων λόγον ἄχρι τῆς βασιλείας Τραϊανοῦ, Johannem scilicet Apostolum, qui cum septem Episcopis (illis sine dubio, quibus septem Ecclesiæ Apocalyptica committebantur) universam Asiam gubernabat, Ephesi substitisse, illique septem illos, ut in Concilio, adfuisse Episcopos.

* Phot. Bib. n. 254.

* Hom. 15. in 1 Tim. 5. 19. §. 11. * Chrysostomus verò de Timotheo, Ephesi hujus Episcopo, Δῆλον, inquit, ὅτι ἐκκλησίαν λοιπὸν ὧν ἐμπεπιστευμένος ὁ Τιμόθεος, ἢ καὶ ἔθνος ὁλόκληρον τὸ τῆς Ἀσίας, Timotheum, quâ Ephesi Episcopum, integræ Gentis, Asiaticæ curam sibi commissam habuisse.

§. 12. Idem etiam, ex Notitiis Imperii confirmari posset; In quibus ut Proconsularis Asiæ Metropolis, Ephesus reperitur, sic & Asia illa totius Asiaticæ διοικήσεως præcipua provincia erant, cujus Proconsulatus ἀρχῶν ἐνδοξοτάτη, inquit Eunapius in vitâ Maxim. Omnium principatuum honoratissima erat.

§. 13. Ex quibus omnibus satis superque probatum est, Ephesum aliarum Civitatum omnium commodissimam fuisse, ad quam nuntio dato, Paulus Hierosolymam festinans, hoc demum compendio omnes totius Asiæ Episcopos ad se Miletum convocaret, v. 17.

§. 14. At illud adhuc dilucidiùs monstratur ex Orationis Paulinæ ad hos Episcopos factæ procemio, v. 18. ubi prædicationis & conversationis ejus inter eos, non Ephesi solùm, sed & per totam Asiam, ipsi ut conscii & testes advocantur, ὑμεῖς ἐπίστασθε ἀπὸ πρώτης ἡμέρας, ἀφ' ἧς ἐπέβην εἰς τὴν Ἀσίαν, ὡς μεθ' ὑμῶν τὸν πάντα χρόνον ἐγενόμην, διδάξας ὑμᾶς δημοσίᾳ καὶ κατ' οἴκους, v. 20. ἐν οἷς, inquit διῆλθον κηρύσσων τὴν βασιλείαν τοῦ Θεοῦ, v. 25. vos nostris, à primo die, quo in Asiam abscessi, quomodo vobiscum omni tempore me gesserim, docens vos publicè, & domatim, Inter quos transivi annuntians regnum Dei. Quinam verò illi fuerunt, inter quos, à quo in Asiam descenderat, omne tempus, πᾶσαν integram, absumpserat? quos publicè & domatim docuerat? inter quos, non sedem fixerat, sed (κατὰ τὴν πάροδον, in transcursu, τὸν τοῦ εὐαγγελίου διαπέραν κύκλον, inquit Oecumenius in 2 Jo.) regnum Dei prædicans, διῆλθεν, à loco ad locum transiverat? Certè non unica Ephesi urbs, sed aut (χώραι καὶ κῶμαι) regio integra, aut saltem principales universæ Asiæ civitates; Quas cùm tanto cum profectu adeò fœliciter Apostolus peragraverat, satis apparet, eum in illis æquè ac Ephesi, Episcopos singulares gregibus singulis præfeciisse, quos hîc universos, & singulos per nuntium Ephesinum, quo omnes mandati Apostolici certiores fiebant, ad se convocandos putabat, ut jam ad πλοῦν καὶ θλίψεις festinans, iis omnibus longum (& * quibusdam ultimum) vale diceret, v. 22. 25. curámque integri ποιμνίου in manus eorum traderet.

* Οὐκέτι πάντες ὄψεσθε.

CAP.

CAP. IX.

Tempus quo Timotheus ad Ephesi Cathedram ascendit, 1 Tim. 1. 3. Act. 20. Reditus per Macedoniam, v. 3. 1 Tim. 3. 14. Timothei titulus Ephesius, 2 Tim. 4. 9, 13. Collatio inter, 1 Tim. 1. 3. & Act. 20. 29. respectu hæreticorum quos prævidit venturos.

§. 1. HÆc omnia adhuc clarius elucescent, si advertatur, huic ipsi Ephesinæ Ecclesiæ Timotheum à Paulo (sub istius fortassis, quod hîc præcesserat, certè) sub alicujus Macedonici itineris tempore præfectum esse.

§. 2. Inter Asiæ Episcopos, Timotheum numerandum esse, sedemque Ephesi fixisse (inter alios innumeros) Patres Concilii Chalcedonensis, Act. 11. testentur, qui à Timotheo ad sua tempora Episcopos 27. intercessisse liquidò affirmant. Hunc verò ad istam Ephesi curam, aut Titulum, sub hoc itineris Paulini tempore, cujus fit mentio, Act. 20. 3, 4. alligatum esse, factâ inter hunc Actorum locum, v. 4, 5. & 1 Tim. 1. 3. comparatione, concludendum videtur.

§. 3. 1 Tim. 1. 3. Παρεκάλεσά σε, inquit Sanctus Paulus, προσμεῖναι ἐν Ἐφέσῳ, πορευόμενος εἰς Μακεδονίαν, Cùm ad Macedoniam iter facerem, jussi te Ephesi commorari, aut sedem figere. Hoc verò Actorum loco, Paulus, inquit Lucas, ἐξῆλθε πορευθῆναι εἰς Μακεδονίαν, exivit Macedoniam profecturus, c. 20. 1. διελθὼν δὲ τὰ μέρη ἐκεῖνα, &c. tandem ἦλθεν εἰς τὴν Ἑλλάδα, v. 2. ibi autem tres menses commoratus est, dein cùm in Syriam iter paranti insidiæ à Judæis struerentur, mutato consilio reversus est per Macedoniam, v. 3.

§. 4. Hâc igitur jam (secundâ, vel potiùs) tertiâ vice Macedoniam transit, & cum eo Sopater Beræensis, v. 4. (ut & Lucas Historiæ scriptor, ut voce [ἡμᾶς] monstratur, v. 5.) cùm alii interim, & inter eos Timotheus, v. 4. relicto Paulo rectà Troadem proficiscerentur, v. 5. Postquam verò Troadem ventum est, v. 6. nulla Timothei ulterior mentio in Actorum libro reperitur, quem igitur Ephesum abscessisse, curâ Ephesinæ Ecclesiæ illi à Paulo demandatâ, ex verbis istis [παρεκάλεσά σε προσμεῖναι ἐν Ἐφέσῳ, πορευόμενος εἰς Μακεδονίαν] non temerè concludendum putamus, ibique sedem suam ita fixisse (quod προσμεῖναι est) ut 1 Tim. 3. 14. Paulus se sperare affirmet, ἐλεύσεσθαί σοι τάχιον, ad eum statim venire.

§. 5. Non diffitemur, quandoque Timotheum à sede suâ Ephesinâ posthæc abscessisse, Paulóque, cui ut Apostolo συνεργὸν in Evangelio, ut patri obedientiam & ὑπηρεσίαν debebat, adfuisse; At hoc concello, nihil tamen obstabit, quo minus qui se Paulo aliquandiu ad alia Ecclesiarum negotia utilem præbebat, adeóque Apostolus dicebatur, ad Ephesum tamen, tanquam ad singularem titulum, & grandem curam suam alligaretur, Sic ut nusquam (nisi à Magno Apostolo, qui eum Ephesi constituerat, ad operam aliquam in Evangelio locandam avocatus & occupatus) ab eâ abscederet, pari modo, quo Silas, ex Judææ Episcopis unus, postea Antiochiam missus, Paulo se comitem adjunxit, Act. 15. 40. de quo • postmodùm videbimus. * C. 13.

§. 6. Certè qui Presbyteros hodiernos eam sibi libertatem, quam Episcopis negandam putarunt, & Episcopos tamen se egregios esse volunt, satis (liberaliter dicam? an) profusè indulgere meminerit, hanc itidem Timotheo (seu Christo Domino, seu suavissimo parenti πιστῷ τέκνῳ Παύλῳ, τῷ δούλῳ Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ operam suam extra Ephesi mœnia navanti) veniam concedere non gravabitur. Id interim notatu non indignum, eum, cùm à Paulo vocatus Romam proficisceretur, 2 Tim. 4. 9. Epistolam ad id scriptam Ephesi accepisse, ideóque per Troadem Epheso non ita procul distantem transitum illi patuisse, v. 13.

§. 7. Addit Apostolus, 1 Tim. 1. 3. Timotheum ideò Ephesinæ Ecclesiæ affixum tunc fuisse, ut παραγγείλῃ τισὶ μὴ ἑτεροδιδασκαλεῖν, notans insigne tunc temporis ab Hæreticis Ecclesiæ isti periculum imminuisse.

§. 8. Idémque per omnes Asiæ Ecclesias metuendum tunc fuisse, monstrat orationis Paulinæ ad Episcopos factæ (quæ unica adjicitur) ratio, Ἐγὼ γὰρ οἶδα, inquit v. 29. ὅτι εἰσελεύσονται μετὰ τὴν ἄφιξίν μου λύκοι βαρεῖς, Novi enim, quod Lupi ovili graves post abscessum hunc meum irrupturi sunt, & ex ipso grege exorituri ἄνδρες λαλοῦντες διεστραμμένα, viri perversa loquentes, discipulos post se ad ἑτεροδιδασκαλίας suas ἀποσπῶντες abstrahentes, v. 30. At ista ex abundanti, nec nimis affirmanter dicta sunt.

CAP. X.

Phil. 1. 1. Walonis argumentum infirmum. Epaphroditus Philippensium Episcopus, Romæ fuit, (Onesiphorus, Familia ejus, 2 Tim. 1. 16. Dogma orandi pro defunctis, ut sine ratione fundatum) Ἐπίσκοποι Phil. 1. 1. verè Episcopi. Plures quandoque in eadem Civitate Episcopi. Dilemma contra Presbyteranos. Philippi μείζης Macedoniæ Metropolis, Act. 16. 12. Epistola ad Philippenses, ad totam provinciam missa. Philippi, Κρηνίδες, Δάπες. Metropolitica dignitas mobilis ex variis causis, Conventus, Fora, Sedes Procuratorum, Macedoniæ primitiæ Philippi. Πρωτοκλισίας privilegium, Phil. 4. 15. 2 Cor. 11. 9. Epistolæ ad Thess. ad Philippenses missi à Polycarpo dictæ. Epistolæ ad Corinthios ad omnes Achaiæ Ecclesias missæ, 2 Cor. 1. 1. Col. 4. 16. Nulli quandoque in primis Ecclesiis Presbyteri, A solis Episcopis & Diaconis administratæ Ecclesiæ. Testimonia Clementis Romani, Alexandrini, Tertulliani.

§. 1. PRocedamus igitur ad proximam ἐπισκόπων mentionem, Phil. 1. 1. Ubi post Sanctos omnes in Christo Jesu, (i. e. fideles) τοὺς ὄντας ἐν Φιλίπποις, adjicitur σὺν ἐπισκόποις καὶ διακόνοις] Hinc rectè Walo Mess. se concluſisse putavit, Cùm nullus inter Episcopos & Diaconos ordo interponatur, Episcopos eos intelligi, qui & Presbyteri, dicebantur.

§. 2. Nos certè & illud rectè concluſum cenſemus; ſi enim inter Philippenſes eo tempore πρεσβύτεροι fuiſſent ab Epiſcopis diſtincti, rationem non conſtare, cur in enumeratione tam accuratâ ab infimis fidelibus ad ſummos Epiſcopos aſcendente, nulla ipſorum mentio fieret, ideóque cum Walone concludimus, eoſdem hîc ἐπισκόπους & πρεσβυτέρους eſſe, nec quoſvis in Eccleſiâ Philippenſium Πρεσβυτέρους tunc fuiſſe qui iidem ἐπίσκοποι non fuerint, ideóque extra omne dubium ponendum eſſe, vocem πρεσβυτέρους, ἀξιώματος æquè ac ἡλικίας titulum, ſingularibus Eccleſiarum Epiſcopis eo toto ſæculo competiiſſe. At non diſſimulandum eſt, alium, ex mente Walonis, ſenſum verbis illis neceſſariò affigendum eſſe, Epiſcopos nempe eo loco memoratos, ex ſententia ejus Presbyteros, quos hodie dicimus, compares ſtatuendos eſſe. Sic certe ante Walonem Hieronymus & Theodoretus exiſtimaſſe videntur; Συνεπισκόπους (ſic enim ſublatâ diaſtole, unâ voce legendum, non σὺν ἐπισκόποις, ſed συνεπισκόποις quidam voluerunt) εἴπε τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους, inquit Theophylactus, ὁ γὰρ δὴ ἐν μιᾷ πόλει πολλοὶ ἦσαν ἐπίσκοποι, ὅπου γὰρ ἦσαν διακριβῶς τὰ ὀνόματα.

§. 3. Pergamus igitur, Et, ſuppoſito pauliſper, ſed nullatenus conceſſo, voce [Ἐπισκόποις] Presbyteros, quos hodie dicimus, compares, eo loco intelligendos eſſe, Illud Waloni reponendum erit, nihil ex eâ hypotheſi concludi poſſe, quod cauſæ noſtræ quoviſmodo officiat, cùm vel Philipporum ſedes vacare, vel ab Apoſtolo ipſo occupari, vel ipſorum Epiſcopus eo temporis articulo à ſede ſua abeſſe potuerit. Et illud quidem conſtat, Epaphroditum (ſi eidem Theodoreto, Chryſoſtomo, Theophylacto, aliiſque credendum ſit) Philippenſium Epiſcopum, ἐπαχθόμενον τὰ πρὸς χρείαν τοῦ Ἀποστόλου, ipſorum liberalitatem ad Paulum in uſus ejus neceſſarios deferentem, c. 4. 18. Romæ nunc, cùm Apoſtolus hanc Epiſtolam ſcriberet, adfuiſſe? ipſámque hanc Epiſtolam (quam igitur nomini ejus inſcribi conſentaneum non fuit) ad eos retuliſſe.

§. 4. Exemplo res clarior futura eſt. Oneſiphorus cum familiâ ſuâ Epheſi degebat, ibíque Paulum non ſemel liberaliter invitaverat (διηκόνησεν ἐν Ἐφέσῳ, 2 Tim. 1. 18.) Hic idem, cùm Paulus Romæ vinctus jaceret, ἐν Ῥώμῃ γενόμενος, eum σπουδαιότερον ἐζήτησε καὶ εὗρε, v. 17. & ſine omni, aut metu, aut erubeſcentia in carcere eum viſitavit, & refocillavit; Hujus tantæ charitatis vicem ei repenſurus Apoſtolus, cùm hoc ipſo tempore ad Timotheum Epheſi morantem ſcriberet, familiam ejus, non ipſum Oneſiphorum, ſecum jam Romæ exiſtentem, ſalutari ab eo jubet, v. 16. adeóque fauſtiſſima quæque comprecatur, Det miſericordiam Dominus domui Oneſiphori.

§. 5. Hinc certè aliqui boni viri, vitâ jam exceſſiſſe Oneſiphorum concludentes, oratione eâ pro illo perſonaliter effuſâ, v. 18. (Δῴη αὐτῷ ὁ Κύριος, &c.) ad ſtabiliendum pro defunctis orandi dogma uti voluerunt; Eâdem planè, aut oſcitantiâ, aut temeritate, quâ nullum hîc Philippis Epiſcopum fuiſſe concluſuri ſunt Presbyterani, ex eo tantùm quod ſine Epiſcopi mentione, Presbyteros, quos dicimus, & Diaconos Philippenſes ſalutaſſe Apoſtolum animo ſuo præſumpſerint.

§. 6. Et hæc quidem velitantium inſtar, ſed & ad obtundendam omnem adverſariorum vim πρὸς ἔντασιν dicta ſunt.

§. 7. Illud jam tertiò addendum eſt. Epiphanio multò ſecus quàm Hieronymo, &c. viſum eſſe. Ἐπισκόπους nempe hîc verè Epiſcopos fuiſſe. Sic enim ille erroris anſam Aerio porrectam eſſe aſſerens, ex eo quòd Apoſtolus Ἐπισκόποις & Διακόνοις ſcribat, ſtatim adjicit, ὅπου μὲν ἦσαν ἐπίσκοποι ἤδη κατασταθέντες, ἔγραφεν ἐπισκόποις καὶ διακόνοις. Ubi Epiſcopi (propriè dicti) erant, Epiſcopis & Diaconis ſcripſit. Quod ſine dubio ejus dictum ad hunc ad Philippenſes locum ſpectat, ideóque, ex ſententiâ Epiphanii Philippis jam Epiſcopos conſtitutos eſſe, concluſurum eſt.

§. 8. Quod verò à contrariæ ſententiæ fautoribus adducitur argumentum [in unâ civitate non fuiſſe plures Epiſcopos] ideóque ἐπισκόπους hîc plures Philippis ſalutatos, ſingulares Epiſcopos non fuiſſe, Ei facilis reſponſio.

§. 9. Primò, non uſquequaque verum eſſe, quod pro conceſſo ſumitur; Quamvis enim in unâ Eccleſiâ, aut Cœtu, plures ſimul Epiſcopi nunquam fuerint, nihil tamen obſtare quin in eâdem civitate dùo aliquandiu diſterminati cœtus fuerint, duobus Apoſtolis ad fidem adducti, diverſis forſan dialectis, & aliquando ritibus disjuncti, quibus duo itidem Epiſcopi ſeorſim & diviſis κλήσεσι præſiderent. Quod * alibi latiùs monſtrabitur.

* Diſſ. 5. c. 1. §. 6. &c.

§. 10. Secundò, quod ad vim argumenti attinet, reſpondemus retorquendo id quod intorquent, idque ex dilemmate utrinque adverſarium ad abſurdum adigente; Axioma certè illud [de unico in qualibet civitate Epiſcopo] aut ad iſta Paulina tempora pertinuit; aut poſt illa demum tempora ab Eccleſia introductum, ad Paulina non pertinuit. Si prius verum, tunc ſtatim ſequetur, (ſummis Presbyteranorum ingratiis,) Eo ipſo Apoſtolorum ævo talis in Eccleſiâ Chriſti Epiſcopos fuiſſe, quales in eâdem civitate tate plures esse non licebat, i. e. Singulares planè, quos hîc contra Presbyteranæ ἰσοπολίας assertores propugnamus, Episcopos. At si posteriùs affirmetur, tunc nihil ex hoc axiomate (temporibus Paulini verbisque ad Philippenses hisce perperàm adaptato) rectè contra nos concludi poterit, qui non sumus adeo ἰλιγγιοι aut εὐήθεις, ut ex posteriorum sæculorum constitutionibus de Paulino sæculo pronuntiari permittamus, aut ea adversùs nos vera esse suspicemur, quæ vera non esse ipse nobis adversarius largitur, & in eo ipso quòd vera non sint, omnem causæ suæ incolumitatem collocat.

§. 11. Hæc iterum πρὸς ἕτερον præmittenda erant; Tertiò igitur, ut verbo uno rem omnem absolvam, Respondetur, Φιλιππησίους, ad quos hæc Epistola dabatur, non unius tantùm Civitatis, aut cœtus nomen esse, at integræ demum περιοικίας, aut provinciæ, in quâ plures Civitates fuerunt, adeòque Ἐπίσκοποι in plurali. Philippos quippe πρώτην τῆς μερίδος Μακεδονίας πόλιν, unius divisionis, aut provinciæ in Macedonia, primam, aut principalem civitatem, Act. 16. 12. ideòque metropolin fuisse; Sic Photius Patriarcha Constantinopolitanus, Epist. 247. Ἡ Φιλίππων πόλις τῆς Μακεδόνων ἐπαρχίας Μητρόπολις ὤν, Philippi Provinciæ Macedonicæ Metropolis. Sic vetus certè scriptor, licet sub sacratiore Ignatii nomine γνησία Σολέα se prodat, in Epistola ad Tarsenses, (Ἀσπάζονται ὑμᾶς αἱ Ἐκκλησίαι Φιλιππησίων) Philippensium Ecclesiarum in plurali mentionem fecit; Quare illud, nisi quod aliæ Philippis, ut Metropoli subjectæ fuerit Ecclesiæ? Exinde id statim sequitur, hanc Sancti Pauli Epistolam Philippensibus suis datam, ut & Polycarpi alteram τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ περιοικούσῃ Φιλίππους inscriptam, ad totam περιοικίαν aut μερίδα, universum scilicet civitatum confinium, (quarum metropolis Philippi) in quibus plures absque dubio Episcopi fuere, (nullique adhuc, quos hodie dicimus, Presbyteri) missam esse, nec temerè igitur Ἐπισκόπων, æquè ac Διακόνων in plurali, (at Presbyterorum planè nullam) mentionem fieri.

§. 12. At Philippos, dices, μικρὰν πόλιν ὑπὸ μητροπόλεως Θεσσαλονίκης τιλοῦσαν, parvam civitatem, & Thessalonicæ metropoli subjectam fuisse, Sic enim in γνησίοις Epistolæ, Commentariis Theophylacti præfixâ affirmari.

§. 13. At respondetur, illam Philipporum definitionem ex Geographo antiquo petitam, ad ædificatam à Philippo civitatem, prius Κρηνίδας dictam, dein Δάτον (unde proverbiale illud Δάτος ἀγαθῶν, ob aurifodinam, quam juxta positam Appianus affirmat) at non ad sequiora illa, sub Romanorum imperium, tempora accommodandam esse. Nec certè novum censendum esse, aut à quo Imperii Notitia abhorreant, è novo metropoles nasci quæ priùs non fuerant, (ut & posterioribus sæculis πόλεις διὰ γεγραμμάτων βασιλικῶν τὸ τῆς μητροπόλεως ὀνόμαν πιμηθεῖσαν inveniuntur, videatur Conc. Chalced. Can. 12.)

§. 14. Notum est illud Strabonis Geogr. l. 17. Αἱ ἐπαρχίαι ἀεὶ διήρηνται ἄλλοτε μὲν ἄλλως, Provinciæ aliis temporibus aliàs divisæ sunt; ut & illud l. 13. quo Provinciarum confusionis, quæ facta est, rationem reddendam curavit, διὰ τὸ τοὺς Ῥωμαίους μὲν μὴ φῦλα διαλεῖν αὐτὰς, ἀλλ' ὕπερον τέλος διατάξαι διοικήσεις, ἐν αἷς τὰς ἀγορὰς ποιοῦνται καὶ τὰς δικαιοδοσίας, quòd Romani eas non distribuerent, secundum Gentium & Geographorum antiquas, & proprias divisiones, sed ex politicâ distribuendi ratione, habito respectu ad civitates, in quibus jus populo reddebatur, & ad quas ἀεὶ χωρῶ ad dirimendas lites congregabatur. Illud in civitatibus Asiæ * priùs notavimus, Laodiceam, Sardin, Smyrnam, & Ephesum à † Plinio ut metropoles ex ea poni, quòd in iis toti civitatum confinio jus redderetur. P. 401. P. 639. *C. 5. §. 15. † Nat. Hist. l. 5. c. 29.

§. 15. Illud etiam hîc locum habere suadet Lucas, qui Philippos sub hoc ipso Paulinæ profectionis tempore, non tantùm πρώτην πόλιν, i. e. metropolin fuisse affirmat, sed & κολωνίαν adjicit, eam Romanorum Coloniam fuisse, unde v. 21. ἡμῶν ἐκ ἔξεστι Ῥωμαίοις ἔστι. Quamvis enim illud satis constet, Præsides Romanos, conventus & consessus suos non tantùm in Coloniis, aut Municipiis celebrandos constituisse, sed quandoque in Foris (quæ dicebantur) Livii, Julii, Appii, Licinii, &c. Nemini tamen dubium erit, Colonias imprimis ab eis electas esse, ad quas reliquarum confinia propter judicia aggregarentur.

§. 16. Quod verò ad Ecclesiam itidem Philippensium attinet, (ut ab Imperiali, ad Ecclesiasticam Notitiam descendamus) illud etiam manifestum est, in Evangelii prædicatione eam totius Macedoniæ ἀπαρχὴν primitias fuisse; Consulatur Apostolicæ prædicationis historia, Act. 16. 9, 10, 11, 12, &c. ut & 1 Thess. 2. 2. ex quâ clarum est, Paulum Philippis exorsum, προπαθόντα, καὶ ὑβρισθέντα ἐν Φιλίπποις, Thessalonicam pòstea progressum esse, in hoc Κηρύγματος cursu, aut agone. Nec certè illud novum, ut Ecclesiasticarum divisionum ratio ex προπολήσει, quòd hæc maturiùs, illa seriùs ad fidem conversa sit, peteretur; Hinc προτόμια olim Antiochiæ data, & Primitiis, aut ἀπαρχαῖς cujusvis regionis solenniter assignata προλεῖα; Quod si hîc etiam obtinuerit, Philippi non metropolis tantùm, aut πρώτη unius μερίδος πόλις, sed & totius Macedoniæ prima metropolis censenda erit (ut ex Ulpiano Ephesum totius Asiæ fuisse * prædiximus) sic ut ei Thessalonicâ, non ut matri (à qua fidem acceperit) filia, sed ut primogenita in Fide soror ætate minor, (ad Fidem Christi δευτεροπλασθεῖσα) cessura sit, eámque non ut metropolim civitas ei subjecta, sed ut metropolim primam metropolis quidem, sed posterius ad fidem conversa, vel secundaria agnitura. *C. 8. §. 8.

§. 17. Ut ut illud sit, liberalem Philippensium κοινωνίαν, Phil. 4. 16. qualem ab aliâ nullâ Ecclesiâ se recepisse profitetur Apostolus, fratribus Macedonicis in commune imputari videmus, 2 Cor. 11. 9. Et cùm Polycarpus Paulum ad Philippenses ἐπιστολὰς in plurali scripsisse affirmaverit, unicæ autem Philippensibus ἰδίως inscriptæ Θεσσαλονικεῦσι Ecclesiæ meminerit, eas intelligi affirmarunt viri docti quas ad Thessalonicenses, aliam Macedoniæ metropolim, scriptas habemus, ex hâc Philipporum & Thessalonicæ cognatione, æquè ad Philippensium Ecclesiam pertinentes, ac quæ ad Corinthios mittebantur ad alias omnes * Achaiæ Ecclesias pertinebant, 2 Cor. 1. 1. & quæ Colossensibus inscribebatur, à Laodicensi etiam Ecclesiâ, primariâ Phrygiæ Metropoli, (cui Colossenses adjungi videmus, Col. 1. 2. ut metropolim secundariam legenda erat, c. 4. 6. At ista ex abundanti. * Vid. diss. 5. c. 2. §. 3.

§. 18. Superest ut Walonis demum argumento (Presbyteros hîc fuisse, qui Ἐπίσκοποι vocantur, ex eo probantis, quòd Presbyterorum mentio non intercedat inter Episcopos & Diaconos) illud unum reponatur, quod contra Aërium, Epiphanius l. 3. t. 1. præfandum duxit, In exordio nempe Evangelii, νῦν ὄντος τοῦ κηρύγματος, πρὸς τὰ συμπίπτοντα γεγράφαι Ἀπόστολον, ad ea quæ iis temporibus accidebant, aut conveniebant, scripsisse Apostolum. Quæ verò sunt illa? Ὅτι, inquit, οὐκ εὑρέθη τις ἀξιος ἐπισκοπῆς, &c. Ubi nemo Episcopatu dignus inventus est, manebat locus sine Episcopo, ὅπου δὲ γένοιτο χρεία, καὶ ἦσαν ἄξιοι ἐπισκοπῆς, κατεστάθησαν ἐπίσκοποι, πολλοὺς δὲ μὴ ὄντος, οὐκ εὑρέθησαν ἐν αὐτοῖς πρεσβύτεροι καταστασθῆναι, καὶ ἠκέσθησαν ὅτι τὸν καὶ τόπον μόνον ἐπισκόπου, ἀνὰ ἡ πλῆθος ἐπίσκοπον ἀδύνατον εἶναι, καὶ ἐπεμελήσατο ὁ ἁγιος ἀπόστολος

Παῦλος

διακόνους ἐπὶ τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ διὰ τὴν ὑστερείαν, Quando autem opus erat, & Episcopatu digni invenirentur, Episcopi constituebantur. Sic itidem cùm tanta fidelium multitudo non esset, ut Presbyteri inter eos constituerentur, solo, in quolibet loco, (aut civitate) Episcopo contenti erant, ita tamen ut Episcopo semper Diaconus ad ministerium adjungeretur, sine quo Episcopus commodè esse non potuit.

§. 19. Illud imprimis in Hierosolymitanâ Ecclesiâ constat, ubi cùm statim post Christi ascensionem Jacobus Episcopus constitutus sit, Diaconos primò adjunctos videmus, Act. 6. nullâ adhuc Presbyterorum factâ mentione. Et illud quidem in universum, Apostolis viventibus & instituentibus factum esse, Clemens Romanus affirmat; Apostoli, inquit, κατὰ χώρας καὶ πόλεις κηρύσσοντες, κατίστανον τὰς ἀπαρχὰς αὐτῶν, εἰς ἐπισκόπους καὶ διακόνους τῶν μελλόντων πιστεύειν, Primitias suas, seu eos, qui primi ubique fidem amplectebantur, in eorum qui posteà crediturі erant, Episcopos & Diaconos constituebant.

§ 20. Quò & illud referri debet, quod apud Eusebium, l. 3. c. κγ'. Clemens Alexandrinus de Johanne Apostolo pronuntiat. Eum, cùm ex Patmo Ephesum rediisset, quorundam rogatu ad finitimas gentes profectum esse, ὅπου μὲν ἐπισκόπους καταστήσοντα, ὅπου δὲ ὅλας ἐκκλησίας ἀρμόσοντα, ὅπου δέ τινα κληρώσοντα τῷ ὑπὸ τοῦ πνεύματος σημαινομένῳ.

§. 21. Ex his ratio constat, quare sine Presbyterorum mentione interveniente, Episcopis Diaconi immediatè adjiciantur, quia scilicet in singulis Macedoniæ Civitatibus, quamvis Episcopus esset, nondum Presbyteri constituti sunt, Diaconis tantùm πρὸς ὑπηρεσίαν ubique Episcopis adjunctis.

§. 22. Manifesta omnia, præsertim cùm hæc ipsa Philippensium Ecclesia, ut & Thessalonicensium altera, à Tertulliano nominatim inter eas recenseantur, apud quas, tempore ipsius, Apostolorum Cathedræ suis adhuc locis præsidebantur, ipsæque eorum Authenticæ literæ recitabantur. Quibus satis apparet, Episcopum singularem in hac Philippensium Ecclesiâ (Epaphroditum dixit Theodoretus) ab Apostolo ipso constitutum esse (cur non & Thessalonicæ, & in aliis Macedoniæ Civitatibus?) nec igitur Presbyteros compares, voce [ἐπισκόποις] sed solos, veréque nominis Episcopos diversarum civitatum, Philippensi metropoli subditarum, intelligendos esse.

CAP. XI.

1 Tim. 3. 1, 2. Omnia per Episcopos & Diaconos administrata. Epiphanius emendatus, πλατύνεσθαι, ἴδιον μέτρον.

§. 1. Succedit notissimus locus 1 Tim. 3. 1, 2. Εἴ τις ἐπισκοπῆς ὀρέγεται, καλοῦ ἔργου ἐπιθυμεῖ. Δεῖ οὖν τὸν ἐπίσκοπον ἀνεπίλημπτον εἶναι, &c. Nulla hîc dubitandi ratio est, quin ἐπισκοπὴ singularem Præfecturam, Ἐπίσκοπος singularem, quem dicimus, Episcopum significet.

* p. 12. §. 2. Quod enim ex Diaconorum immediatè sequente mentione * Waloni nectendum videtur Argumentum, in auras statim abiturum est, si illud unum, quod modò ex Epiphanio monuimus, hîc etiam advertatur, Nascente scil. Ecclesiâ, quandocunque Fides in civitate aliquâ plantari inciperet, aut cùm fidelium numerus supra modicum non excresceret, (quod & post Apostolorum tempora non semel accidit) ubique Presbyteros non fuisse, Diaconis autem accinctos Episcopos omnia administrasse. Hic est iste Ecclesiæ status, τὰ πληρώματα τῆς οἰκονομίας ὅπου λαβόσης (sic enim apud Epiphanium legendum est, non ὅπω) cùm omnibus functionibus suis nondum expleretur; (cui opponitur πλατύνεσθαι, & εἰς ἴδιον μέτρον ἐλθεῖν, & apud Clementem, ὅλαις ἐκκλησίαις ἁρμόζεσθαι) qui igitur huic loco rectissimè accommodari censebitur, cùm Timotheus, à Paulo Ephesi relictus (ut & Titus Cretæ) in omnibus jam Asiæ Civitatibus (ubi nondum erant) divinis officiis defuncturos constitueret, Episcopos inprimis, & Diaconos; Quibus solis (πλήθους μὴ ὄντος, ubi multitudo non fuit, καὶ ὅπου οὐκ ἐφείθησαν πρεσβύτεροι καταστῆναι) contenti erant, inquit Epiphanius.

* In 1 Tim. 3. §. 3. His etiam * Theodoreti dictum addi potest, qui, licèt ad Presbyteros has regulas à Paulo sanctas pertinere affirmet, adjicit tamen, manifestum esse, ὡς τοὺς ἐπισκόπους φησὶ τοὺς πρεσβύτερους τούτους φυλάττειν νόμους, ἅτε καὶ μείζονος μεταλαγχάνοντας τιμῆς, Eas ab Episcopis præcipuè observandas esse, ut qui majorem in Ecclesiâ dignitatem sortiti sunt.

In 1 Tim. Hom. 10. §. 4. At è contra Chrysostomus, de Episcopis dictum esse ait, & deinde Presbyteris adaptari, Ἐπισκόπων ἔδει πολλῶν, καὶ κατ' ἐκείνου πόλιν πρεσβυτερίων, multis Episcopis opus erat, qui per singulas civitates præficerentur, &, Ἃ περὶ ἐπισκόπων εἴπε, ταῦτα καὶ πρεσβυτέροις ἁρμόττει, quæ de Episcopis dixit, ea & Presbyteris conveniunt. Et sic ex Chrysostomo Theophylactus. Nec igitur rationem esse, cur distincta hoc in loco post Episcopos Presbyterorum mentio fieret; præsertim cùm præter Episcopos & Diaconos nulli adhuc Presbyteri partiarii constituerentur.

CAP. XII.

Tit. 1. 7. Πρεσβύτεροι, v. 5. ἐπίσκοπον κ᾽ πόλιν. Titus 100. Civitatum Episcopus.

§. 1. HUic ad Timotheum, alter ille ad Titum locus (planè parallelus) accensendus est, c. 1. 7. Δεῖ γὰρ ἐπίσκοπον ἀνέγκλητον εἶναι, ὡς Θεοῦ οἰκονόμον, &c. Hîc denuò Episcopum singularem intelligendum esse, nobiscum Chrysostomus, Theophylactus, Oecumenius pronunciant, Nec obstare vocis [πρεσβυτέρους] mentionem, v. 5. sed, ex adverso, hos ipsos Episcopos (inter quos, & Diaconos, nulli Presbyteri interceſſerunt) πρεσβυτέρους, ex more sæculi istius, dictos esse, loquatur post alios Theophylactus. Κατὰ πόλιν πρεσβυτέρους] Ἐπισκόπους ὅπως ἐνταῦθά φησι, ὡς κ᾽ ἐν τῇ πρὸς Τιμόθεον, Κατὰ πόλεις δέ φησιν, ὁ γὰρ βούλεται πᾶσιν ἡμῖν ἐπιτηδεῦσθαι ἐνὶ, ἀλλὰ ἑκάστῃ πόλει ἴδιον ἔχειν ποιμένα, ὅπερ κ᾽ ὁ πόντος κυφότερος, κ᾽ ἡ ἐπιμέλεια ἀκριβεστέρα, Episcopos intelligit, ut & in Epistolâ ad Timotheum; Per civitates verò ait, noluit enim universam Insulam (τὴν Κρήτην μεγάλην οὖσαν, ait Oecumenius, Cretam, cùm satis magna esset) ab uno (ἐπισκόπῳ, addit Oecumenius) administrari, sed unamquamque Civitatem suum habere Pastorem, i. e. Episcopum, sic enim & labor levior, & cura exactior futura est.

§. 2. Cùm enim in Cretâ Insulâ, quam Paulus ad fidem converterat, civitates plus minus centum essent, Palam est, phrasi istâ non unam, sed plurimas civitates intelligendas esse, quarum omnium (inquit Eusebius, l. 3. c. 4.) ἐπισκοπὰς sortitus est Titus, ut sub se Episcopos ordinaret, inquit * Theodoretus, ut Episcoporum zelum exerceret, & τοσούτων ἐπισκόπων κρίσιν κ᾽ χειροτονίαν, tot Episcoporum judicium & ordinationem, ait, cum † Chrysostomo, * Theophylactus.

* Arg. Ep. ad Tit.
† In Tit. 1. Hom. 1.
* Arg. Epist.

CAP. XIII.

Ἡγούμενος, Heb. 13. 7. Vocit hujus usus in Vet. Testamento. In Novo. Μείζων ἐν ὑμῖν, Luc. 22. 26. Act. 15. 22. Προφῆται. Deus. Aaron Propheta, Exod. 7. 1. Μάντις σκλοσος. Propheta, specialis in Ecclesiâ muneris nomen, 1 Cor. 12. 28. Eph. 3. 5. & 4. 11. Apostoli, Evangelistæ, Prophetæ, Διδάσκαλοι. Judas, & Silas à sedibus suis distenti, nihilominus Episcopi, & ex abundanti Propheta, Ἡγούμενοι ἐν τοῖς ἀδελφοῖς. Ἡγούμενοι simpliciter dicti, Episcopi. Hebræi, totius Palæstinæ Christiani; Episcopi חבמונים.

§. 1. ISTis de Episcoporum titulo adeò prolixè propositis, adjicienda jam pauculis aliarum vocum, quæ ad eandem materiam pertinent, explicatio. Hujus generis est, [ἡγούμενοι] Heb. 13. 7, 17, 24. Μνημονεύετε τῶν ἡγουμένων ὑμῶν, πείθεσθε τοῖς ἡγουμένοις ὑμῶν, & ἀσπάσασθε πάντας τοὺς ἡγουμένους ὑμῶν.

§. 2. Ἡγουμένων vocem ad Præfectos quoscunque, Provinciis, Civitatibus, aut familiis præpositos, pertinere, notius est, quàm ut probationibus indigeat. Sic ἡγούμενος λαοῦ, Syrac. 10. 2. ἡγούμενος ἐκκλησίας, c. 13. 9. ἡγούμενος δυνάμεων, 1 Mac. 13. 54. ἡγούμενος Ἰουδαίων, 1 Mac. 13. 53. ἡγούμενος ἔθνους, Syrac. 17. 17. ἡγούμενος τῆς πόλεως, Syrac. 10. 2. ἡγούμενος ἀδελφῶν, v. 20. & c. 49. 15. & frequenter ἀπλῶς ἡγούμενος.

§. 3. Sic & apud Interpretes vet. Testamenti, quandoque נשיא quandoque משל, & נגיד, aliáque quàm plurima, per ἄρχων sæpiùs reddita, ἡγούμενος etiam vertuntur.

§. 4. Potestas igitur, aut ἀρχὴ, isto verbo significatur, an summa in quovis genere, an subordinata, non ex vocis usu, aut origine, sed ex contextus circumstantiis judicandum est.

§. 5. In novo Testamento, de Christo in Israëlem suum dominum summum sanè, & αὐτόνομον exercente, usurpatum videmus, Mat. 2. 6. ex Prophetâ. Dein de summâ Apostolorum, aut Episcoporum in Ecclesiâ futurâ dignitate, Luc. 22. 26. Ὁ ἡγούμενος ὡς ὁ διακονῶν, ubi ἡγούμενον, τὸ μείζονα ἐν ὑμῖν, majori, i. e. maximo inter vos, æquipollere constat. Sic & Josephus, Act. 7. 10. ἡγούμενος ὅλης Αἰγύπτου, universæ Ægypto præpositus erat, quamvis Regi Pharaoni subjiciebatur.

§. 6. In Concilio, aut Synodo Hierosolymitanâ, Act. 15. 22. Judas & Silas ab Apostolis & πρεσβυτέροις, i. e. ab universo Episcoporum conventu, cujus ipsi pars erant, ἐξ αὐτῶν electi, ut Paulo & Barnabæ adjuncti, Epistolam Synodicam ad Ecclesias Antiochenas deferrent, dicuntur ἄνδρες ἡγούμενοι ἐν τοῖς ἀδελφοῖς. Quid illud sit indagaturis, duo potissimum sunt, quæ viam præmonstrent.

§. 7. Primum, Quòd Ἀπόστολοι & πρεσβύτεροι, hos ἐξ αὐτῶν ἐκλέξασθαι, ex seipsis elegisse hîc dicantur, ex quo sequitur, hos ἡγουμένους, non multùm ab Apostolis, qui hîc dicuntur, i. e. Petro, Jacobo Hierosolymitano Episcopo, ab aliis verò (ut alibi monstramus) Judææ Episcopis, nullo planè intervallo disjunctos esse, eâdem in concilio dignitate utentes, adeóque cum illis in eodem βαθμῷ, aut gradu repositos; Quod de nullis infra Episcoporum ordinem subsidentibus dici, aut censeri potuit. Secundum, quòd, qui hîc ἡγούμενοι dicuntur, Judas & Silas, v. 32. προφῆται appellentur. Qui verò fuerint isti prophetæ, obiter etiam hîc dicendum erit.

§. 8. Prophetæ nomine, ut in Veteri, sic & in Novo Testam. significatur ille, qui verbum Dei quibuscunque notum facit, exponit, interpretatur; at præcipuè, qui ex revelatione divinâ illud facit. Sic cum Aaron Mosi, in legatione ad Pharaonem, adjunctus, jubeatur ad Pharaonem loqui, Ex. 7. 2. i. e. nuntium Dei ad eum deferre, (quod à Mose tardiloquo, & blæso non ita commodè fieri potuerat,) erit tibi, (inquit Deus, v. 1.) Prophetа Aaron frater tuus. Ibi Moses tanquam Deus Pharaoni futurus erat, v. 1. (ut qui mandatum à Deo sibi commissum habent, Dii dicuntur) Aaron verò Mosis Interpres, & oris vicem suppleturus, quoties nimirum opus esset, sermonem ad populum habiturus (quod cùm Paulus fecisse legatur ἡγούμενος τοῦ λόγου dicebatur, Act. 14. 12. & ut Ἑρμῆς alter colebatur, i. e. ὑποφήτου, interpretis

interpretis Divini (quales in Oraculorum responsis mentem numinis exponebant) &, quod idem est, προφήτου munere defuncturus, Ex. 4. 16.

§. 9. Eodem planè modo (nec de futurorum tantummodo prædictione) apud Ethnicos, Glaucus, qui nautas monebat, ὡς δεῖ ποιεῖσθαι τὸν πλοῦν, Θαλάσσιος μάντις, Marinus vates, aut propheta vocabatur.

§. 10. Verùm cùm in Novo Testamento vocem hanc peculiari modo usurpatam reperiamus, Prophetas scilicet ab Apostolis, 1 Cor. 12. 28. Eph. 3. 5. & ab Evangelistis etiam, Eph. 4. 11. divisos, palam est specialis officii, aut muneris in Ecclesiâ nomen esse; Quodnam illud sit, ex cognatis & simul positis judicandum est.

§. 11. Apostoli qui fuerint, satis notum, singulares viri, universæ Ecclesiæ in μαθητὰς & πιστοὺς dividendæ, ex speciali Christi mandato, immediatè præpositi.

§. 12. Evangelistæ item, ii, qui ad eos, quibus fides nondum prædicata ab Apostolis, (& ad quos ipsis non vacabat) ab Apostolis mittebantur.

§. 13. Inter hos medii reponuntur Prophetæ, Eph. 4. 11. Ii quidem, qui illis, quibus Evangelium ab Apostolis, aut Evangelistis priùs prædicabatur, doctrinam fidei uberiùs annuntiarunt, ex Mose & Prophetis, cùm speciali interpretationis dono divinitùs instructi essent, Evangelicam doctrinam stabilientes, & sic ubique hoc insigni fulcro Judæorum fideles ὁπισυελίζοντες, per modum confirmationis; Et licet spiritualibus χαρίσμασι cumulatissimè instructi, tamen οὐκ εἶχον τὸν Ἀποστολὴν, ad Apostolicam dignitatem, aut ἀναβεβήκεσαν non ascenderant, inquit Theophylactus. Talis Agabus, aliique ab Hierosolymis Antiochiam descendentes, Act. 11. 27. Tales in Antiochenâ Ecclesiâ προφῆται, cum διδασκάλοις conjuncti, Act. 13. 1. (προφῆται πάντα ἀπὸ πνεύματος ἀγίου λαλοῦντες, inquiunt Scholiastæ in 1 Cor. 12. 28. οἱ δὲ διδάσκαλοι οἰκοδομὴν) qui Barnabæ, & Saulo manus imposuerunt. Tales hîc Judas & Silas, qui cùm Judææ Episcopi essent, simul hoc Prophetico dono instructi erant, ideóque προφῆται ὄντες, quatenus Prophetæ, διὰ λόγου πολλοῦ παρεκάλεσαν ἀδελφοὺς, καὶ ἐπεστήριξαν; Tales denique duo μάρτυρες, Apoc. 11. 3. qui Episcopi Hierosolymorum cùm esset (ut * posteà dicetur) προφητεύσαι dicuntur, Prophetarum more, in sacco, mandata Dei explicare, prophetiæ etiam dono iis accedente.

* Diss. 5. c. 1. §. 24.

§. 14. Hos jam à Concilio Hierosolymitano Antiochiam missos Episcopos, aliquandiu à Cathedris suis distentos esse constat, Silam enim Antiochiæ mansisse, Act. 15. 34. & Paulo dein se comitem adjunxisse, v. 40. quod, cùm res postulet, ab Episcopis fieri quis gravabitur?

§. 15. Eos interim Episcopos fuisse, omnia monstrant; Concilii scilicet Hierosolymitani ex solis Apostolis & (sub πρεσβυτέρων titulo) Episcopis conflati deputatos, quos ideò, 1. διδάσκοντας, διδασκάλους, 2. ὁπισηελίζοντας, ut & alios c. 13. 3. χεῖρας ἐπιθέντας, docentes, confirmantes, manus imponentes, omnia ferè Episcoporum munera exercentes videmus, at ex abundanti, προφήτας ὄντας, διὰ μιᾶς πνεύματος χάριν, charisma illud Prophetieum supra alios, quibus διδασκάλων nomen & officium competebat, sortitos.

§. 16. Si verò tandem quæratur, cur, cùm propriè dicti Episcopi essent, hîc tamen non ἡγούμενοι, aut ἐπίσκοποι simpliciter, sed cum adjecto, ἡγούμενοι ἐν τοῖς ἀδελφοῖς nuncupentur. Respondeo, inprimis advertendum esse, à quibus sic appellentur, scilicet à Synodo Hierosolymitanâ, eos ad totius Syriæ Ecclesiam jam mittendos designante, ideóque cùm nec iis à quibus, nec ad quos mittebantur, quovismodo præficerentur, sed tantùm Ecclesiis particularibus, quarum Episcopi erant, nec ἡγουμένους jam simpliciter, nec ἡγουμένους ὑμῶν, sed cum limitatione, Ἡγουμένους ἐν τοῖς ἀδελφοῖς (hâc satis opportunâ & idoneâ μειώσει) dicendos fuisse, cùm tamen eosdem [ἐξ αὐτῶν] ex ipsis electos fuisse difertè affirmetur.

§. 17. Cum verò de Ecclesiis particularibus, seorsim consideratis, nec in Concilio, ut hîc, conjunctis, sermo sit, Ἡγουμένους ὑμῶν appellatos videas, Heb. 13. 7. ubi περὶ ἐπισκόπων λέγει, de Episcopis planè sermo est, inquit Chrysostomus, aliique. Qui verò sunt hi ὑμῶν, i. e. Hebræorum, Episcopi? Hierosolymorum certè, & omnium in Palæstinâ Civitatum, ad quarum fideles missa hæc Epistola, ([τοῖς ἐν Παλαιστίνῃ καὶ ἐν Ἱερουσαλήμ] inquiunt * Græci) singulares Præfecti.

* Ὑποθ. Ep. ad Heb.

§. 18. Nec enim ad unam aliquam civitatem restringendos esse, ipsa in prographe Hebræorum mentio, satis latè patens, abundè testatur, Nec quicquam Presbyteranæ ἐπιτιμίας fautoribus in contrarium suppetit. Quod enim D. Blondellus affirmat, A. D. 61. quo Epistolam ad Hebræos in vinculis scripsit Paulus, plures unâ Hierosolymis Episcopos, vel Ἡγουμένους, Ecclesiam communi curâ ac consilio pavisse, nullâ certè ab eo, aut ratione, aut testimonio firmatum est; At è contrario Ἡγούμενοι hi, ὑμῶν, i. e. Hebræorum, omnium quippe Palæstinæ, non unius tantùm Hierosolymitanæ civitatis Christianorum Præfecti, aut Episcopi difertè hîc dicuntur.

§. 19. Unicum hîc ex abundanti addidisse licebit, sequioris ævi Judæos, Episcopos Christianorum (voce huic affini) Ἡγεμόνας, nominéque peregrino (Civitate sanctâ donato) הגמונים aut אגמונים appellare.

§. 20. Sic Abrabaneel in Is. 34. f. 54. c. 4. de illustri illo Burgensi verba faciens, ex Judaismo ad fidem Christi conversò, tandémque ad Episcopalem sedem evecto, priùs, inquit, Solomon Levita dicebatur, postquam autem factus esset שר וגדול בין הנוצרים dux (ἄρχων) & magnus inter Nazareos, i. e. Christianos, appellatus est, אגמון ברגינשיש, Egemon, i. e. Episcopus, Burgensis. Videatur Elias Levita in Thisbi, & Buxtorfii, si placet, Rabbinicum Lexicon in verbo אגמון.

CAP.

CAP. XIV.

Ποιμένες, ducet, de Christo, de Petro, de Asiaticis Episcopis, de Judæorum dispersorum Præfectis, Eph. 4. 11. Pastor pro Episcopo.

§. 1. POst Ἡγουμένους addendi ποιμένες, quibus Presbyteros suos notari D. * Blondellus voluit, sed sine omni itidem probatione. Vox ista à Gregibus ovium ad Homines traducta, Regem, λαῶν ποιμένα, apud Homerum, & Mat. 2. 6. † Ἡγούμενον, ὅστις ποιμανεῖ † λαόν, & Apoc. 12. 5. ποιμαίνοντα ἔθνη, idque ἐν ῥαβδῷ σιδηρᾷ, i. e. Ducem aut Regem denotat. * Præf. p. 2

§. 2. In Novo Testamento vox hæc primò de Christo, Mat. 26. 31. Joh. 10. 11, 14. Heb. 13. 20. 1 Pet. 5. 4. & (semel cum ἐπισκόπῳ conjuncta) 1 Pet. 2. 25. usurpatur. Dein Apostolo Petro accommodatur, Jo. 21. 16. ποίμαινε τὰ πρόβατά μου, pasce (aut guberna) oves meas, dein Episcopis Asiaticis, Act. 20. 28. προσέχετε τῷ ποιμνίῳ παντὶ, ἐν ᾧ τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον ἔθετο ὑμᾶς ἐπισκόπους, ποιμαίνειν τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, &c. attendite gregi universo, super quem Spiritus sanctus Episcopos vos constituit, ut pascatis, (aut gubernetis) Ecclesiam Dei. Ut & fidelium Judæorum ubicunque dispersorum in Ponti, Galatiæ, &c. Civitatibus, Præfectis, totidem singularibus Episcopis, 1 Pet. 5. 1. Πρεσβυτέρους τοὺς ἐν ὑμῖν παρακαλῶ ὁ συμπρεσβύτερος, ποιμάνατε τὸ ἐν ὑμῖν ποίμνιον τοῦ Θεοῦ, ἐπισκοποῦντες, &c. Seniores qui inter vos sunt, ego pariter Senior adhortor, pascite (aut gubernate) gregem qui est inter vos, Episcopos agentes, &c. Nihil hic à voce [πρεσβυτέρους] metuendum, cùm eâ ἰδίως hoc sæculo, (ut mox loco suo dicetur) Episcopi singularum urbium, quales hîc per Pontum, Galatiam, Cappadociam, Asiam, Bythiniam, plures fuisse constat, singulares designentur.

§. 3. At præ omnibus notabilis ista, Eph. 4. 11. inter distinctos eorum, quos Christus Ecclesiæ indulsit, gradus, ποιμένων mentio. Ad cælum, inquit, ascendens Christus, hominibus dona dedit, v. 8. Quæ vero sunt illa? Αὐτὸς ἔδωκε τοὺς μὲν Ἀποστόλους, τοὺς δὲ προφήτας, τοὺς δὲ εὐαγγελιστὰς, (de tribus istis abundè dictum est) τοὺς δὲ ποιμένας, &c. Ipse dedit Apostolos, Prophetas, Evangelistas, & hos tandem, de quibus jam loquimur, Pastores.

§. 4. De his Chrysostomus, & Scholiasta. Τοὺς τῶν ἐκκλησιῶν ἐγκεχειρισμένους λέγει τοὺς ἐπισκόπους, οἷος ἦν Τιμόθεος, Τίτος, καὶ οἱ τοιοῦτοι. De iis loquitur, quibus Ecclesiæ commissæ sunt, diserte de Episcopis, qualis erat Timotheus, Titus, & alii hujusmodi. Nec immeritò igitur apud Ignatium, ποιμήν, & in antiqua Ecclesia Pastoris nomen ad Episcopos ἰδίως, & nunquam non pertinuisse videmus, quod pluribus monstrari posset, si jam illis vacaret.

CAP. XV.

Διδάσκαλοι Episcopi, 1 Cor. 12. 28. Eph. 4. 11. Doctrina unitas ad pacem necessaria. Λόγος διδαχῆς. Doctoris munus. Διδάσκαλος ut à Prophetâ distinguatur, Doctores in scholis. Presbyteris Docendi licentia ut competat.

§. 1. HIc cùm Pastoribus adjungantur διδάσκαλοι, nec ab iis (ut ab Apostolis Prophetâ, & à Prophetis Ποιμένες, &c. per πρῶτον, δεύτερον, & ἔπειτα) distinguantur, sed per [καὶ] tantùm ἑρμηνευτικὸν, aut conjunctivum copulati, in idem planè coalescant, patebit itidem, quid per διδασκάλους significetur, quoties iis peculiare in Ecclesiis munus denotatur, 1 Cor. 12. 28. & Eph. 4. 11. In qualibet certè Ecclesiâ singulares Præfecti, aut Episcopi. Sic apud Bedam Eccle. Hist. l. 11. c. 2. Episcopos sive Doctores convocasse ad colloquium Augustinus dicitur, i. e. sine dubio, sub duplici nomine solos Episcopos.

§. 2. Quomodo à κηρύσσειν & εὐαγγελίζεσθαι distinguatur διδάσκειν, * priùs, cùm aliud ageretur, dictum est, Eo planè modo, quo à λόγῳ, διδασκαλία distinguitur, 1 Tim. 5. 17. priori ad fidei primam plantationem, secundâ ad ποτισμὸν, irrigationem, νουθεσίαν, διδαχὴν, institutionem, exhortationem, & demum ἐπιστηριγμὸν confirmationem in fide, pertinente. * Differt. 3. c. 6.

§. 3. Hæc in unaquâque Ecclesiâ primariò ad Episcopum, aut Præfectum spectabat, nec alteri cuivis, nisi cui ab Episcopo illud mandatum, competebat. Exinde enim omnium sectarum, & hæreseon semina, quoties in Ecclesiâ, ubi fides una plantata, variæ insuper διδαχαὶ, aut διδασκαλίαι superseminarentur. Ideóque ut unitatis cura, sic & διδασκαλίας (ut & baptizatorum confirmationis) Episcopis ubique concredita est. Sic apud Justinum, Apol. 11. Cùm Anagnostes portionem Scripturæ, seu ex Apostolis, seu ex Prophetis legisset, illo quiescente, προεστὼς (quem Episcopum fuisse mox dicemus) τὴν νουθεσίαν, &c. ποιεῖται, quo modo Act. 13. à Paulo factum legimus, Ubi, ut videtur, ἀναστὰς Νόμου, statim, suo quasi loco, succedit λόγος παρακλήσεως πρὸς τὸν λαὸν, verbum adhortationis ad populum, at id non Lectoris sed Doctoris munus.

§. 4 Διδάσκαλον autem, 1 Cor. 12. sic à Prophetâ distinguunt Graci Patres, ut hic πάντα ἀπὸ τῆς προφητείας, ille verò καθ' ἑαυτὸν, à seipso etiam locutus sit. Quod in illud ipsum recurrit, quod modo de Prophetis & Episcopis, seu Ἡγουμένοις dictum est. Nec mirum igitur, aut ab usu nominis (cùm Christus ubique διδάσκαλος vocetur, aut cùm διδασκάλῳ μαθητὴ, ut & Cathedra, ἰδίως competant) alienum futurum est, ut Episcopi in singulis Ecclesiis (non, ut D. Blondello placet, Presbyteri compares) διδάσκαλοι vocentur, ab unâ officii parte sic dicti, ut ab aliâ parte ποιμένες, & ἐπίσκοποι.

§. 5. Quod enim ad Doctorum aut Professorum in Scholis gradus attinet, ii longè recentiores sunt, quàm ut in Pauli scriptis locum habere possint.

§. 6. Si verò διδάσκειν, docere populum, & ex Scripturis instruere, Presbyteri hodiè secundarii non permittantur tantùm, sed & pro officio teneantur, illud quidem exinde natum apparet, quòd Episcopi in ordinandis Presbyteris, eam illis potestatem largiantur, nec tamen ἁπλώτως, sed postquam literis, aut mandato Episcopi ἰδίως licentiati fuerint, exercendam, juxta Canonis Ancyrani & Laodiceni de Presbyteris decretum, ab Ignatio, & primis temporibus in Ecclesiâ observatum, χωρὶς τοῦ ὁπισθεν τῶν ὁπισθίων μὴ γεγραμμένων μηδὲν ποιεῖν ἐν ἐκθέσει πρεσβύτερον. De quo * alibi fusiùs.

* Dissert. 3. c. 9.

CAP. XVI.

Ὑπηρέτης λόγου, Luc. 1. 2. χειρισαί. Οἰκονόμος Θεοῦ, Episcopus. Unus ejusdem familiæ Oeconomus. Apostoli οἰκονόμοι μυστηρίων.

§. 1. ALia quædam sunt, quæ, ut ἐπισκόποις, ἡγουμένοις, ποιμέσι, διδασκάλοις, ἐπισκοπὴν memorat D. Blond. ita singula, non aliâ quàm suâ Authoritate fretus, Collegis Presbyteris accommodat.

§. 2. Sic 1. ait, Ὑπηρέται λόγου, Luc. 1. 2. At quid illis, aut cum Episcopis nostris, aut cum Presbyteris Blondellianis, commune fuit? Apostoli certè qui Historiæ, aut rerum narrandarum (εἰ λόγοι hîc sunt, & ῥῆμα τὸ γεγονὸς, c. 2. 15.) non solùm αὐτόπται, sed & χειρισταὶ fuerunt, pars quidem ipsarum non exigua (cùm multa ab ipsis gesta sint, damones ejecti, &c.) ideò sine dubio ὑπηρέται λόγου dicuntur.

Præf. p. 5. §. 3. Miror igitur quid D. Blondello in mentem venerit, ut ἱσυμβόλους (per Apostolos & eorum συνεργοὺς, Ecclesiæ κατὰ πόλιν & χώραν tributos) à Lucâ sic appellatos censeret. Fœliciùs certè quod Οἰκονόμων Θεοῦ in hâc classe reponat, Talis enim diserte Episcopus dicitur, Tit. 1. 7. cui totius familiæ administratio à Deo tribuitur, eodem planè sensu, quo Claves, insignia Οἰκονόμου, aut Patris domus, Is. 22. 20, 21. Petro dabantur. At nec Collegis, nec comparibus commodè aptari potest φράσις ista. Ecquis enim ejusdem familiæ plures unquam Oeconomos, unius Clavis plures gerulos audivit? Videatur Lu. 16. 1. ubi in Divitis familiâ unus Οἰκονόμος, ut & in civitate unus, Ro. 16. 23. Et si Apostoli οἰκονόμοι μυστηρίων Θεοῦ dicantur, in plurali 1 Cor. 4. 1. Illud etiam ad plures familias divisas, plures scilicet particulares Ecclesias, distinctos ejusdem universæ Ecclesiæ κλήρους, & μερίδας, quas inter se Apostoli dispertiebant, pertinuisse censendum est.

CAP. XVII.

Πρεσβῦτες. Justinus post tempus, quo discrimen inter Episcopos & Presbyteros in Ecclesiam inductum agnoscunt Walo, & Blondellus. Ejus evo nulli quibusdam in locis Presbyteri. Πρεσβῦτες pro Episcopis. Tria antiquissima testimonia, Præsidentes apud Tertullianum.

§. 1. SUperest unus πρεσβατῶν, aut πρεσβυμβόων titulus, ille quidem neutiquam in Scripturis sacris, seu Episcopis, seu Presbyteris accommodatus. At istis affinis est πρεσβὼς Præsidens, Antistes, Præpositus, cujus apud Justinum Martyrem satis crebra mentio est, Προσφέρεται, inquit ille, τῷ πρεσβύτῃ τῶν ἀδελφῶν ἄρτος καὶ ποτήριον, Apol. 2. Offertur Antistiti panis & poculum fratrum.

§. 2. Ubi primò sciendum est, Justinum hunc, post illud tempus, quo discrimen inter Episcopum & Presbyterum inductum esse Walo, & D. Blondellus ex Hieronymo agnoscunt, hanc Apologiam suam scripsisse. Videatur D. Blon. Apol. p. 3. Meminerit, inquit, veri studiosus lector, Hieronymum nequaquam scripsisse, simulac Corinthi dictum fuit, Ego sum Pauli, &c. toto orbe decretum, ut unus de Presbyteris electus superponeretur cæteris, sed postquam id dictum in populis, i. e. postquam alii passim Corinthiorum more in partes discerpti sunt, quod ante annum 140. evenisse, idoneè vix quisquam probaverit. Videatur præf. p. 7. ubi præcedentem Ecclesiarum (quem dicere amat) morem, orbe toto ad An. Ch. circiter 136. mansisse affirmat, sic tamen ut probationes, quas sibi fingit, ultra annum 104. aut 108. non produxerit. Et ne quempiam hâc in re incertum relinquamus, videatur Præf. p. 11. Nullum, inquit, momentum illustrius occurrit in quod insignis illa mutatio commodè conferri posse videatur, quàm An. Ch. 135. Videatur itidem Walo, cujus hæc verba sunt, p. 7. Trapezitici, inquit, Fœnoris scriptor, &c. nusquam negarunt antiqua etiam tempora discrimen illud inter Episcopos & Presbyteros agnovisse, qui sciunt rem esse antiquissimam, ut duo hi ordines in Ecclesia fuerint distincti, si excipiantur Apostolica tempora, quorum evo nullum constat eorum ordinum fuisse discrimen. Certè si ad Johannis exitum Apostolorum ævum protelandum putemus, ultra Centesimum Christi annum durasse non putabitur, post quem hoc inter Episcopos & Presbyteros discrimen in Ecclesiam statim invectum esse Walonis verba evincunt.

§. 3. Justinum interea Martyrem non ante An. 150. Apologiam suam, in quâ ista πρεσβῶτος mentio facta est, scripsse, & Ecclesiarum sui temporis statum graphicè descripsisse, fatetur D. Blondellus, Apol. p. 21.

§. 4. Nec igitur cuivis æquum videbitur, ut contra Hieronymum, contra Walonem, contra ipsum D. Blondellum ter in eadem ferè verba consultò, & de industriâ testimonium ferentem, singulari (ne quid gravius dicam) D. Blondelli testimonio in causâ suâ credatur, * istum Ecclesiarum ordinem (quo Episcopis Presbyteri adæquabantur) ad Justini tempora inviolatum permansisse.

* Apol. p. 22.

§. 5. Secundò

§. 5. Secundò igitur notandum est (quod Epiphanius nos docuit) hoc ipso Justini ævo (νῦν jam tunc ὑπὸ κηρύγματος, Fideque per Orbem Romanum non ita diu Gentibus annuntiatâ, &, ubi annuntiaretur, persecutionibus omnimodis exceptâ) nondum Presbyteros in Ecclesiis ubique constitutos esse, sed civitates non paucas Episcopo & Diaconis, duobus istis Christiani Cleri gradibus, cùm Presbyteri idonei non reperirentur, aliquandiu contentas fuisse.

§. 6. Tertiò, ut ad ipsa Justini verba accedamus, notari debet vocem ἀδελφῶν cum panis & poculo copulandum esse (sic ut omnium fidelium, i. e. Fratrum προσφορὰν προεστῶτι adductam aut oblatam denotet) non cum προεστῶτι (ut cum Lango, D. Blondellus legi voluit, Præposito fratrum, aut, Ei qui fratribus præest,) alibi enim ubique apud Justinum non προεστὼς ἀδελφῶν, sed simpliciter προεστὼς dicitur.

§. 7. Quartò, Προεστῶτι apud Justinum πολλαχοῦ adjungi, sic ut ad προεστῶτι pertineat εὐχαριστῆσαι, panem & poculum consecrare, Diaconis ad distribuendum benedicti panis & poculi paratis; Εὐχαριστήσαντος τοῦ προεστῶτος οἱ καλούμενοι παρ' ἡμῖν διάκονοι διδόασιν ἑκάστῳ, &c. Cum Præpositus gratias egerit, Diaconi qui apud nos vocantur, dant unicuique.

§. 8. Hic rectè quidem D. Blondellus concluſit, * Binos tantùm Christiani Cleri gradus, Præpositorum & Diaconorum agnosci. Imò & Ecclesiis, quæ ab unico Præposito regerentur, nihil ad integritatem deesse creditum esse; At cùm ad identitatem aut ἰσοτιμίαν Episcopi, & Presbyteri adserendam, Cùm ad Ecclesiarum per plures simul Præpositos gubernationem confirmandam, hæc ex Justino testimonia ab eodem proferantur, nec aliud illi ad hoc cuivis persuadendum argumentum suppetat, præter hanc unicam προεστῶτος cum solis Diaconis conjunctam mentionem; sufficiet, uti spero, paucis monuisse, Primò, Nihil frequentius esse inter hos primorum temporum Scriptores, quàm ut Episcopi singulares, Diaconis suis accincti (ubi Presbyteri nondum constituti sunt) omnia Ecclesiastica munera obirent: Secundò, hoc προεστῶτος titulo, sub istis primis temporibus, Singularem Episcopum (non compares Presbyteros) insignitum esse. * Apol. p. 111.

§. 9. Illud, præ aliis, tria Antiquæ Ecclesiæ illustria testimonia confirmata sunt.

§. 10. 1. Dionysius Corinthiorum Episcopus, Justino post 40. annos succedens, in Epistola ad Athenienses apud * Eusebium, qui Πουβλίου προεστῶτος αὐτῆς mentione priùs factâ, statim Κοδράτου μὲν τὸν μαρτυρήσαντα Πούπλιον κατασήσαντος ἐπισκόπου αὐτῆς μέμνηται, post Martyrium Publii, Quadrati Episcopi eorum creati meminit. Nec illud quidem ex eo, quòd priùs προεστῶτες tantùm, postea, aucto fastu, & mutato nomine, ἐπίσκοποι constituerentur, nam in verbis immediatè sequentibus, Dionysii Areopagitæ meminit, ab ipso Paulo ad fidem conversi, qui πρῶτος, inquit, ἐκ Ἀθηναίων παροικίας τῶν ὁποιωνδὴ ἐγκεχείρικε, primus Athenienſium Diœceſeos Epiſcopatum ſuſcepit. * Hist. l. 6. c. 23.

§. 11. 2^do. Marcellus Ancyranus Episcopus, in * Ep. ad Julium Romæ Episcopum, ubi de seipso, aliisque Ecclesiarum Episcopis ab Hæreticorum audaciâ infestatis locutus, Δεινὰ, inquit, καὶ τὰ πρὸς τῶν Θεοῦ ἐκκλησιῶν καὶ ἡμᾶς τοὺς προεστῶτας αὐτῶν τετολμήκασι, Pessima quæque contra Ecclesiam Dei, & nos earum Præfectos aut Antistites ausi sunt. * Epiph. Hær. 72.

§. 12. 3^tio. Concilium Ephesinum, Act. 8. Ἔξωθεν τοῦ κλήρου οἱ πρὸς ἀγῶνα ἐκκλησιῶν καὶ τῶν Κύπρου προεστῶτες, Ab omni violentiâ & injuria immunitatem habebunt Antistites Ecclesiarum quæ in Cypro sunt, iidem sine dubio qui in priori Canonis parte ἐπίσκοποι τῆς Κυπρίων ἐπαρχίας appellantur.

§. 13. His singulis in locis, ut προεστῶτες & ἐπίσκοποι idem sunt, sic in singularibus Ecclesiis singulares προεστῶτας reponi palam est, nunquam compares, aut Collegas. Nec quicquam igitur D. Blondellum adjutura, quæ ex Justino Antiquissimo Martyre hausit, testimonia, Quæ, singularis ubique προεστὼς, cui * plures διάκονοι ministrarent, factâ mentione, singularem nobis Episcopum in unaquâque Ecclesiâ nobis proponunt, de Presbyteris comparibus syllabam unam non adjiciunt. * Ὁ προεστὼς εὐχὰς καὶ εὐχαριστίας ἀναπέμπει, καὶ ἡ διάδοσις καὶ μετάληψις ἀπὸ τῆς εὐχαριστηθείσης ἑκάστῳ γίνεται, καὶ τοῖς οὐ παροῦσι διὰ τῶν διακόνων πέμπεται, Apol. 2. p. 77.

§. 14. Illud itidem à Tertulliano eodem ferè modo de Præsidentibus enuntiatur, de Cor. mil. Cui tamen Episcopos singulares incognitos fuisse, quis nobis persuasurus est?

CAP. XVIII.

Sacerdotes, Episcopi apud Tertullianum, Cyprianum, Pontium Diaconum, Ambrosium. Ἱερεῖς apud Chrysostomum. Blondelli lapsus in Pontii loco, ut & in Hilarii.

§. 1. HIS addi potest Ἀρχιερέων & Ἱερέων, at præcipuè apud Latinos, Sacerdotum appellatio, Episcopis non semel peculiaris. Sic Tertull. de Baptism. Summus sacerdos qui est Episcopus, Debinc Presbyteri & Diaconi, &c. Sic Cyprianus Rogatiano Episcopo, Ep. 65. Si ultrò Te —— provocaverit Diaconus, eum vel deponas, vel abstineas, & siqui alii tales extiterint, & contra Sacerdotem Dei fecerint, vel coercere poteris, vel abstinere. Idem planè Episcopus, & Sacerdos dei, cui coercendi Diaconos jus competebat.

§. 2. Sic cum Ambrosius de se, Episcopo Mediolanensi, & de aliis sui similibus pronuntiet, Claves illas regni cœlorum in beato Petro Apostolo cunctis susceptimus sacerdotes; cúmque de Dignitate Sac. c. 2. ex scripturis ostendat, Oves Sacerdotibus concreditas esse, iisque ut Gubernatoribus suis subjiciendas esse, Patet utrinque Sacerdotes Episcopos esse.

§. 3. Sic & Chrysostomo τοὺς ἱερεῖς. Ποιμένες & ἱερεῖς idem sonant, & non semel Episcopos significant. Sic iterum cùm apud Cyprianum Ep. l. 11. de lapsis sermo sit, quos, inquit, absolvere Presbyteri præsumebant, eos Episcopo honorem sacerdotii sui & Cathedræ non reservare concludit. Ubi Potestas Clavium, Sacerdoti, i. e. Episcopo propria, Presbyteris non competebat. Quod prius Ep. 10. distinctiùs affirmaverat, Eos quippe Presbyteros, qui sic lapsos absolverent, præpositum sibi Episcopum non cogitasse, quod nunquam, inquit, omnino sub Antecessoribus factum est.

§. 4. Sic l. 1. Ep. 3. De Episcopali authoritate Deo immediatè imputandâ, Sacerdotalis, inquit, Authoritas, & Potestas, Divinâ dignatione firmatur; Quibus statim adjicit, Omnium schismatum fontem esse, quòd Sacerdoti Dei non obtemperatur, nec unus in Ecclesiâ ad tempus Sacerdos & ad tempus Judex, vice Christo cogitatur. Sic cùm illi Sacerdotum collegium, & Coepiscoporum consensus idem sonent, statimque addatur, Quicunque se supra Sacerdotem unum efferat, se non Episcopi, sed Dei Judicem facere.

§. 5. Sic cùm Pontius Diaconus de Cypriano affirmet, ad officium Sacerdotii, & Episcopatus gradum, novellum electum esse, ex antecedentibus patet, Sacerdotem æquè ac Episcopum Presbytero opponi. Sic enim ille in laudem tanti viri, Multa sunt, quæ jam Presbyter fecit, Ad probationem bonorum operum (eorum scilicet, quæ Presbyter fecit) satis est, quod ad officium Sacerdotii, & Episcopatus gradum adhuc novellus electus sit. Adeò sine omni ratione, ex his ipsis Pontii verbis, concludendum putavit D. Blondellus, Episcopum scriptorii illi, eundem qui Presbyter, fuisse, nihilque ex Hieronymi sententiâ (in quâ sic ille triumphat) dici magis potuisse. Apol. p. 45.

§. 6. At clarissimè Pontius contrarium dixit, Presbyterium quidem, & Sacerdotium accepisse, nullâ morâ, nullâ dilatione, statim quippe post acceptum Presbyterii gradum (ita tamen ut multa jam Presbyter fecerit) Sacerdotali, aut, quod idem est, Episcopali donatum esse, Quis enim (inquit ille stylo panegyrico) non omnes honorum gradus crederet tali mente credenti? ubi Presbyteratus, & sacerdotium, Diaconatui superadditi) omnes honorum gradus sunt, non ideò ejusdem honoris βαθμοὶ, aut gradus.

§. 7. Fefellit sine dubio D. Blondellum Sacerdotii mentio, quòd ille de Presbyteratu dictum putavit, cùm clarissimè ad Episcopatum pertinuerit.

§. 8. Eundem planè errorem erravit, aut nos errare voluit D. Blondellus, cùm ex Hilario Pictavienſi verbis his prolatis [In Aaron sacerdotes significari non dubium est, in Levi autem ministros ostendi absolutum est.] Sic statim concludit, Non ignorabat Pia anima, usu longo confirmatam Episcoporum super Presbyteros ὑπεροχὴν, sed (intento in Primitivam sacri Regiminis sub Apostolis, Apostolicisque viris formam, oculo) consuetum Ecclesiarum morem prætervectus, duo tantum in Clero capitum genera recensuit, Sacerdotum nimirum, seu Præpositorum, ac seniorum quorumcunque in Aarone præfiguratorum, & ministrorum in Leviticâ tribu.

§. 9. Verùm sciat D. Blondellus per Sacerdotem hîc Hilario, ut modò Cypriano, & Pontio, & Ambrosio, &c. Episcopum significari, non Presbyterum: Ideóque hanc ab Hilario dicti sui rationem reddi, Sacerdos enim in lege primus fuit Aaron, & exinde in successione ejus Sacerdotum honor manſit. Piget istis immorari, ad quæ tamen ubique aut festinatio, aut partium studium doctissimum virum prodidit.

§. 10. De voce [Sacerdos] pro Episcopo usurpatâ, unicum addo ex Concilio Taurino de Palladio, A Triferio Sacerdote fuerat mulctatus. Ubi Triferium Episcopum fuisse, si cui dubium subesse posset, monstrabit Canon 4. qui ab eo Exuperantium Presbyterum excommunicatum affirmat. Et de Ἐπαινέτου nomine, aliisque ejusdem monetæ, vel apud sacros, vel Ecclesiasticos Scriptores, hactenus dictum esto.

CAP. XIX.

Πρεσβύτεροι apud Græcos, & Hebræos, & alias Gentes, ἀξίωμα æquè ac ætatem denotant, Heb. 11. 2. זקן œconomus, Gen. 24. 2. 15. 2. Luc. 7. Num. 22. 7, 8. Gen. 4. 7. Patriarchæ, Seniores Israëlis, Ex. 3. Chilias pro Civitate, Jud. 6. ἡγεμὼν, Mat. 2. Πρεσβύτεροι dicti priusquam in Synedrium admitterentur. Ἀρχιερεῖς & γραμματεῖς in Synedrio. Epiphanius de primâ Episcoporum constitutione sine Secundariis presbyteris. Comparatio inter Mosaicam, & Apostolicam historiam. Quæstio de presbyterorum Secundariorum mentione in N. T. 1 Tim. 5. 1. & 19. & 17. Sententiæ Epiphanii & Chrysostomi. Timothei, ut & Titi primatus super Episcopos. Duplex portio. Primogenitorum dominium, Act. 13. 2. ἀφορίζειν. Duplex alimoniæ portio. Episcopi πρεσβῦται, Κοπιῶντες ἐν λόγῳ καὶ διδασκαλίᾳ. Laici presbyteri.

§. 1. AD Πρεσβυτέρους jam accedamus. De quibus illud præmitti oportet, quid Græcis, quidve Hebræis voce illâ potissimum denotetur. Apud Græcos, notissimum illud Dionysii Halicarnassensis, l. 2. Πρεσβυτέρους καὶ τοὺς ἀρίστους, καὶ τοὺς γέροντας εἰώθασιν οἱ παλαιοὶ λέγειν, Seniores & pro Optimatibus & pro Grandævis dicere solebant Antiqui, quod & hodie apud plurimas gentes, Italos, Gallos, Hispanos, Anglos, solenniter invaluit, ut non ἡλικία tantum, sed præcipuè ἀξίωμα, dignitas, authoritas, præfectura, eâ voce ἰδίως significetur. Sic Æthelstanus dux Orientalium Anglorum, qui Half-King, i. e. Semi-rex vocatus est, Aldermannus, i. e. πρεσβύτερος totius Angliæ salutatus est, vid. Auth. lib. Rames. §. 4. & 33. & illustrissimum Dominum Hen. Spelmannum Glossar. p. 28, 29. Idem de Æthelwoldo & Ælwino testantem. Sic Regis Aldermanni, & Presbyteri Regis mentio est in Alvredi Legibus, cap. 34. Unde & illud notandum, Mat. 20. 25. verba illa οἱ ἄρχοντες τῶν ἐθνῶν κατακυριεύουσιν αὐτῶν, Principes Gentium dominantur illis] à Saxonibus verti ealdormen wealdad hyra theoda Seniores dominantur gentibus suis. Et Luc. 11. 22. Seniores & Principes sacerdotum, ealdrum & ealdormannum vocari.

§. 2. Apud Hebræos idem planè constat, apud quos זקנים Senes, aut, quod idem est, Seniores, (Hebræis enim comparationum gradus deesse omnes nôrunt) Πρεσβυτέροις differtè respondent, quibus dignitatem, & præfecturam ubique in veteri Testamento notari omnes agnoscunt. Omissâ igitur latiori istâ ætatis notatione, (quâ vel antiquos, seu majores, quos dicimus, Abelem nempe & reliquos πρεσβυτέρους, Heb. 11. 2. vel grandævos, seu γεγηρακότας κοινῶς significat) illud utique affirmandum est Πρεσβυτέρων appellationem apud Hebræos ad ἡγουμένους, & ἄρχοντας, & ἡγεμόνας, qui aliis quovismodo præficiebantur, κυρίως & ἰδίως pertinere. Sic œconomus Abrahami Eleaser, qui præerat omnibus & servis & facultatibus ejus, Gen. 24. 2. זקן ביתו, Senior domus ejus, & simpliciter πρεσβύτερος & οἰκίας ὠνῆ, ἄρχων πάντων τῶν ὠνῆ nuncupatur. Nec enim זקן cum עבדו conjungendus est, sic ut Senior servus dicatur, sed cum diastole, servus ille, qui domus ipsius Senior, שליטא, inquit Targum Hierosolymitanum, præpositus, rector, administrator, vel œconomus fuit & ita distertis verbis appellatur, Gen. 15. 2. Sic sine dubio, bio, domus Pharaonis, totiusque Ægypti פרעה aut Seniores, Gen. 50. 7. sunt regiæ domus, totiúsque Ægypti præfecti & administratores. Sic πρεσβύτεροι Moabitarum, Num. 22. 7. sunt שרי Principes Moab, v. 8. Sic cum in filiorum Primogenitorum privilegiis dominium omne fundaretur, Gen. 4. 7. & Gen. 49. 3. Familiarum aut cognationum, aut πατριῶν principes Patriarchæ pariter, & * πρεσβύτεροι dicebantur. Tales sine dubio Seniores Israëlis, Exod. 3. 16, 18. & 4. 29. primariarum familiarum, aut Gentium Præfecti, aut capita c. 6. 14. congregationis præpositi, aut rectores c. 16. 22. qui deinde Seniores Israelis vocantur, c. 17. 5, 6. & 18. 12. (& Seniores tribuum, Deut. 31. 28.) Tandémque, cùm à Socero admonitus Moses, Judices ubique constitueret, Exod. 18. 22. qui in levioribus causis populo jus redderent, & super mille, super centum, super quinquaginta, & decem familias potestatem haberent (quibus majorum, & minorum civitatum, & oppidorum præfecti, & consistoriorum, seu synagogarum principes succedebant) Chiliade civitatem notante aut certam aliquam in tribubus divisionem, Jud. 6. 15. Mic. 5. 2. cujus præfectus ἡγεμὼν dicitur, Mat. 2. 6. (quo nomine Episcopos Christianorum insigniri à Judæis * vidimus) hos itidem πρεσβυτέρους & ἄρχοντας, & Judices, & ἀρχοντας συναγωγῶν, & ἀρχισυναγωγὸς vocabant, ideóque quos Lex secunda Cod. Theod. de Judæis Presbyteros vertit, Altera lex Synagogarum Patres rectè nuncupat. Denique cum Septuaginta Seniores Mosi sufficerentur, Num. 11. 16. (quibus itidem Magnum Hierosolymitanum Synedrium successisse constat) palam est, hos ideò Seniores dictos esse, quòd populi, aut Israëlis præfecti, aut ἄρχοντες fuerint, priusquàm à Mose in Synedrium admitterentur. Illud ex contextu patet. Convoca, inquit Dominus, Septuaginta viros, Seniores Israëlis, quos nosti Seniores populi esse, & illorum præfectos, & ad tabernaculum congregationis adducito, ut illic tibi adstent, & veniam ego, & accipiam de spiritu, qui est super te, &c. Palam est πρεσβυτέρους [aut Seniores Israëlis] dignitatis & Principatus nomen esse, nec eò quidem collegas, aut Compares, aut συνέδρους, quâ tales, notari (imò nec omnes πρεσβυτέρους nuncupatos esse, qui in Synedrio Hierosolymitano consistebant, sed ἀρχιερεῖς etiam, & γραμματεῖς simul cum πρεσβυτέροις sedisse, Novi Testam. Scriptores * ubique testantur) sed ἄρχοντας primario & † ἡγεμόνας, populi Judaici rectores, aut præpositos, & dein secundariò συνέδρους, quòd qui Principes populi fuerunt, etiam in Synedrium admitterentur.

* Τῶν συγγενῶν κύριος ὁ πρεσβύτατος, cognatorum Dominus est Senior, ait de Arabibus Strabo, Georg. l. 16. p. C. 13. §. 20.

* Vid. Mat. 26. 31. 57.

† Ὁ πρεσβύτερος ἀεὶ τῆς ἡγεμονίας ἔχεται, καὶ τέλος πάντες πείθονται, Diodor. Sicul. l. 2.

§. 3. Hinc statim constat, quid de vocabulo isto [πρεσβυτέρων] Christianâ jam civitate apud Novi Instrumenti scriptores donato, pronuntiandum sit. Eo quidem non incommodè Christianæ Ecclesiæ præfectos, aut Pastores, singulares, ut diximus, שרי אלפים, chiliadum, i. e. civitatum ἡγεμόνας, seu Patriarchas, seu Episcopos significare posse, (quos ideo Alvredi Leges promiscuè Episcopos & Aldermannos appellant) quod & singulis hujus Codicis locis factum esse statim patebit.

§. 4. Illud interim * Epiphanii † denuò præmittendum est, ex historiis, quas ille βαθυτάτας, profundissimas, & antiquissimas vocat, petitum. Initio prædicatæ per orbem fidei, cum multitudo fidelium nondum esset, nec digni presbyteratu (secundario) reperirentur, Ecclesias quasque, & civitates, Episcopis singulis, iisque adjunctis Diaconis contentas fuisse. Nam, inquit ille, οὐκ ἦν τὸ πρᾶγμα ἐκ ἀπαρχῆς τὸ πάντα ἔχον, ἀλλὰ, προβαίνοντος τοῦ χρόνου, τὰ πρὸς τελείωσιν τῶν χρειῶν κατηρτίζετο——Nihil ab initio completum, sed procedente tempore omnia ad perfectionem necessaria subministrata sunt. Sic, inquit, Moses ad Ægyptum mittitur ῥάβδῳ μόνῃ solâ virgâ munitus, tandem ei Aaron sufficitur, dein Principes populi, tandémque Septuaginta Seniorum Synedrium.

* L. 3. t. 1.

† Vid. c. 10. §. 18.

§. 5. Pulcherrima certè totius rei σκιαγραφία, Primò Mosem (ut duodecim Phylarchas taceam, quibus totidem Christi Apostoli ἐν Θεσσαλίᾳ respondent) singulares tantùm Rectores, aut Principes (additis tantùm, ut fas erat, ὑπηρέταις, licloribus, aut ministris) populo per familias, aut πατριὰς gentésque diviso, ubique præfecisse, & ita per singulares præfectos omnia aliquandiu administrata esse. Sic & Apostolos, seu Commissarios Christi, huic Dei populo, Mosis instar, (quem à Domino missum scimus, Exod. 3. 10.) præfectos, primitias prædicationis suæ, tanquam primogenitos populi verè Israëlitici in πρεσβυτέρους, i. e. Præfectos, vel Episcopos constituisse, iisque Diaconos tantùm adjunxisse. Tandem verò, crescente, & fœliciter aucto populi numero, ipsi Mosi Septuaginta collegarum Synedrium, ut & Principibus singulis viginti trium conventum, aut Consistorium suffectum esse, ne soli tanto oneri, aut invidiæ non sufficerent; Et eodem planè modo Episcopis singulis plures tandem, quos hodie Presbyteros dicimus, in partem officii onerisque assumptos, & suffectos esse. Illos quidem Synedrii, & Consistorii Collegas, & Compares, sub Capite, aut Principe suo congregatos (qui ipsis manus imponebat, & cui ipsi nullatenus exæquabantur) eandem tamen ἀρχόντων, Mat. 9. 18, 23. Lu. 18. 18. & ἀρχισυναγωγῶν, Act. 13. 15. Mar. 5. 22. appellationem nactos esse, Sic & hos Ecclesiæ συνέδρους ad opem Episcopo ferendam allectos, πρεσβυτέρους etiam dictos esse, quamprimùm tales in Ecclesiâ constituerentur; Id verò Apostolorum tempore (si unicus excipiatur Johannes, qui ad Trajani imperium vixit, & ὅλως ἀρμόσαι ἐκκλησίας fertur) factum esse, nullis quidem indiciis, aut vestigiis nobis comparuit.

Clemens apud Euseb. l. 3. c. 23. sic Chronicon Alexand. πρωτόθρονα αὐτὸν τῆς Ἀσίας, καὶ τὰς πλησιοχώρους πατρίδας, ἐπισκόπους καθιστῶντα, καὶ κληρικούς.

§. 6. Nec igitur mirandum erit, si scribentibus Apostolis rara, aut potiùs nulla Presbyterorum, quatenus ii Episcopo in secundis erant, mentio occurrat.

§. 7. In re quidem non adeò magnâ, & in quâ fortunæ nostræ neutiquam positæ sunt, non ingratum, uti spero, facturus sum, si quid hîc aliis visum sit, pauculis perstringam.

§. 8. Geminam certè Presbyterorum secundariorum mentionem ab Apostolo factam esse, * Epiphanius, ni fallor, pronunciavit, & ex eâ Aerianam insaniam oppugnandam esse contendit. Primam 1 Tim. 5. 1. cum Timotheo ἐπισκόπῳ ὄντι edixerit, πρεσβυτέρῳ μὴ ἐπιπλήξῃς] Quid verò, inquit ille, hoc sit, si non Episcopus ὑπὲρ τὸν πρεσβύτερον ἐξουσίαν ἔχῃ, super Presbyterum potestatem habeat; Secundam v. 19. κατὰ πρεσβυτέρου μὴ παραδέχου κατηγορίαν] contra Presbyterum accusationem non admittas. Non inquit, vultis Presbyterorum præcepit, ne contra Episcopum accusationem admitteret, non curvis, μὴ ἐπιπλήττειν ἐπισκόπῳ, sed Episcopo Timotheo, ne Presbyterum, &c.

* Const. Hær. l. 3. t. 1.

§. 9. His certè in locis potestatem Timotheo in πρεσβυτέρους competere, at nullatenus πρεσβυτέρους in Timotheum, ex ipsis Apostoli, & Epiphanii verbis satis constat. Cùm verò ad Timotheum, non Episcopum tantùm, sed & Asiæ totius Metropolitanum sermo fiat, non satis convenit inter Doctos, an ad unius tantùm civitatis, vel Ecclesiæ secundarios Presbyteros, Apostoli primùm, dein Epiphanii verba limitanda sint, an ad omnes Asiæ Episcopos latiùs extendenda. Ego certè, quicquid de Epiphanio dicendum sit, Apostolum non ambigo de Episcopis planè locutum esse, quos Diaconis solis accinctos (nullâ intermedii Presbyterorum Ordinis factâ mentione) per omnem ubique Asiam ordinandos præceperat c. 3.

(quos

(quos & ad Titum c. 1. 5, 7. tam sub πρεσβυτέρων, quàm ἐπισκόπων nomine indigitaverat) eosdémque jam sine dubio Timotheo, Ephesino Primati subjiciendos, & ab eo, si necessitas postulet, in judicium vocandos pronuntiat, Eodem planè modo, quo Tito tot Episcoporum non χειροτονίαν tantummodo, sed & χρίσιν commissam esse, post alios * Theophylactus affirmat.

* Tit. c. 1.

§. 10. Chrysostomus certè, aliíque (ad caput 5.) utrumque locum περὶ τῦ γηγεραικότος, de sene (περὶ παντὸς γηγεραικότος, de omni sene) intelligendum affirmant, nec ad ἀξίωμα, sed ἡλικίαν referendum.

§. 11. Ubi tamen illud notari poterit, hos ipsos, qui περὶ παντὸς γηγεραικότος, de omni sene, Apostolum hîc explicandum censuerant, nullatenus tamen seniores Ecclesiæ excludisse (cùm ratio dicti Apostolici ab illis reddita [quia nimirum propter ætatem senes Juvenibus minus peccant] ad omnes senes, at præcipuè ad Ecclesiasticos pertinere putanda sit) statim enim, Quæstione proposita [Τί ἐν ἀν ὁμολογωμέθα μὴ ἔχειν τὰ ἁμαρτήματα, μάρτυρας δὲ μὴ ἔχῃ, ἀλλὰ πονηρὸν ὑπόνοιαν; Quid si peccata in confesso sint, testes verò non habeant, sed pravam suspicionem?] Respondent omnes, iisdem verbis, Εἶπον ἄνω, φησὶ, δεῖ δὲ αὐτὸν καὶ μαρτυρίαν καλὴν ἔχειν ἀπὸ τῶν ἔξωθεν, Suprà, inquit, dixi, Oportet verò eum ab iis qui extrà sunt, bonum testimonium habere, ubi ad Apostoli de Episcoporum qualificationibus dictum, 1 Tim. 3. 7. Lectorem rejici clarum est, adeóque versum istum de Ecclesiæ item πρεσβυτέρους, ipsis planè, si Chrysostomo credendum, Episcopis intelligendum esse.

§. 12. Quò & illud clariùs spectat, quod post pauca adjiciendum curavit * Chrysostomus, ἅλλον, inquit, ὅτι ἐκκλησίας λοιπὸν ὅλῃ ἐμπιστεύθη Τιμοθέῳ, ἢ καὶ ὅλον τὸ τῆ Ἀσίας, διὰ καὶ περὶ πρεσβυτέρων αὐτῷ διαλέγεται, Manifestum est Ecclesiam ei concreditam esse, imò integram Nationem Asiæ (istius Proconsularis) idcóque ad eum de Senioribus, i. e. Episcopis planè Asiaticis verba fieri, cùm ὁλοκλήρου ἔθνους, integræ Timotheo Metropolitano concreditæ Gentis, mentio facta sit.

* Hom. 15. in 1 Tim. 5. 19.

§. 13. Huic geminæ πρεσβυτέρων acceptioni, tertiam ejusdem vocis, quæ in hoc capite reperitur, mentionem accommodandam esse non dubito, 1 Tim. 5. 17. Οἱ καλῶς προεστῶτες πρεσβύτεροι διπλῆς τιμῆς ἀξιούσθωσαν, Seniores qui bene præsederint, vel præclarè officio suo defuncti fuerint, duplici honore digni existimentur.

§. 14. Ubi illud primò definiendum est, quid per διπλοῦν πλοῦν significari voluerit Apostolus. Potest φράσις ista ad Hebræorum פִּי שְׁנַיִם, aut duplicem portionem illic respicere, eâ enim πρωτοτόκια notabantur, i. e. Primogenitorum portio, & privilegia (sic appellata Deut. 21. v. 7.) inter quæ Præfectura super totâ familiâ, & tam in fratres minores, quàm in servos dominium numeratur, Gen. 4. 17. Sic cùm Paulus & Barnabas ad Apostolatum, aut regimen in Ecclesiâ designarentur, Act. 13. 2. eâdem dictione usus est Spiritus sanctus, quæ Ex. 13. 2. in primogenitis Deo consecrandis usurpatur, ἀφορίσατέ μοι, inquit Lucas, Separate mihi Paulum & Barnabam; Ut & in Clementis quæ dicuntur, constitutionibus, l. 11. c. 28. διπλῆ, inquit, αὐτοῖς ἀφοριζέσθω μοῖρα, duplex illis portio separetur.

§. 15. Potest itidem ἴσως ad uberiorem in distribuendâ hæreditate μερίδα, ad duplicem alimoniæ portionem, in distribuendâ collectâ, κοινωνίᾳ, offertorio fidelium, pertinere. Et sic certè restringendam hîc esse, persuasissimum mihi fecit adductum in proximis, v. 18. Scripturæ testimonium, dicit enim Scriptura, Bovi trituranti os non alligabis; &, Dignus est operarius mercede suâ.

§. 16. Quidni igitur de Episcopis Ecclesiarum προεστῶσι (ea ipsâ voce, quâ Justinus, ut prædiximus, aliíque antiquæ Ecclesiæ antistites de Episcopis usi sunt) munúsque suum probè obeuntibus, & non solùm annuntiando, ubi nondum innotuerat, Evangelio (illud per λόγον intelligendum * monstravimus) sed & populo fidelium in fide confirmando operam non mediocrem locantibus (id est κοπιῶν ἐν διδασκαλίᾳ) locus integer intelligendus sit?

* Diss. 3. c. 6. §. 7.

§. 17. Quod autem, ad adstruendos temporales, quos Laicos dicunt, Presbyteros, ex eo concludi quidam voluerunt, illud futilius est, quàm ut quovis responso dignum cordato cuivis videatur.

CAP. XX.

Act. 11. 30. Πρεσβύτεροι, Judææ Episcopi. Collecta Episcopis concredita est. Phil. 2. 25. & 4. 18. Act. 14. 23. & 15. 2, 4, 6, 22, 23. & 16. 4. Differentia inter Πρεσβυτέρους τῆς Ἱερουσαλὴμ, & ἐν Ἱερουσαλὴμ. Apostolorum ἀξία super Episcopos. Πρεσβύτεροι 24. Apoc. 4. Concilii Hierosolymitani Imago. Episcopi Judææ, Jacobum cingentes κυκλόθεν, Apostoli & Diaconi, Act. 20. 17. Πρεσβυτέριον, 1 Tim. 4. 14. Susan. 5. 50. Chrysostomi testimonium. Πρεσβύτεροι, Tit. 1. 5. Episcopi, 1 Pet. 5. 1, 5. 2 Jo. 1. 3. 3 Jo. 1. Καταχειροτονοῦντες τῇ χειρῶν.

§. 1. HIS tribus locis sic expositis, Ad reliquos jam ordine procedamus, statim experturi, quid de singulis sentiendum sit.

§. 2. Act. 11. 30. de fidelibus Antiochiæ dicitur, statuisse ipsos διακονίαν collectam mittere τοῖς κατοικοῦσιν ἐν τῇ Ἰουδαίᾳ ἀδελφοῖς, Quod & fecerunt ἀποστείλαντες πρὸς τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους. Hîc cùm πρεσβύτεροι ii fuerint, ad quos non unius Hierosolymitanæ Ecclesiæ, aut alterius cujusvis civitatis, sed totius Judææ cura pertinebat, ideóque collecta ad omnes universæ Gentis Christianos, v. 29. missa, eorum manibus concrederetur, voce hâc (jam primum, quod sciamus) civitate Christianâ donatâ, totius planè Judææ Episcopos intelligi statuendum est.

§. 3. Illud enim inter Primitivæ Ecclesiæ scriptores satis ubique pro concesso ponitur, * Eleemosynas & collectas, χάριν & λογίαν, sive ab ejusdem Ecclesiæ fidelibus ad mensam Domini oblatas, seu demum ab aliis Ecclesiis per nuntios suos missas, & ad indigentium necessitates liberaliter administratas, Episcopo, ut Domus Dei Oeconomo, & dispensatori in terris supremo, concreditas solenniter fuisse, & exinde Episcopum * πάσιν ἐν χρείᾳ ὢσιν κηδεμόνα (curatorem) fuisse. Nec mirum igitur esse, si Epaphrodito, Episcopo Philippensium, hæc ipsa cura incumberet, ut liberalitatem Ecclesiæ ad Paulum deferret, Phil. 2. 25. & 4. 18.

* Vide Diss. 3. c. 7. §. 1.

* Justin. Mart. Apol. 11.

§. 4. Proxi-

§. 4. Proximum est, quòd cùm Act. 14. 23. Paulus & Barnabas, Lystram, Iconium, & Antiochiam peragrantes, discipulorum animas confirmassent, διδάξαντες ἱκανοὺς τῇ πίστει, &c. tandem longum iis vale dicturi, χειροτονήσαντες αὐτοῖς πρεσβυτέρους κατ' ἐκκλησίαν, eos Domino commisêrunt, ubi nulla dubitandi ratio subest quin πρεσβυτέρους κατ' ἐκκλησίαν singulares per singulas urbes, Lystram, Iconium, & Antiochiam constituti Episcopi existimandi sint.

§. 5. Sic Act. 15. 2. Cùm στάσις, & συζήτησις ista de fidelibus Gentium circumcidendis oriretur, lite quidem inter eos, qui à Judæâ venerant, & Paulum & Barnabam satis acriter disceptatâ, placuit mitti Paulum, &c. ἔταξαν τὸν Παῦλον καὶ πρεσβυτέρους εἰς Ἱερουσαλὴμ] Illi autem proficiscentes διηρχόμενοι δὲ τὴν ἐκκλησίας, ὑπὸ τῶν ἀποστόλων, καὶ τῶν πρεσβυτέρων, v. 4. dein συνήχθησαν, in Concilium coacti sunt Ἀπόστολοι, καὶ πρεσβύτεροι, v. 6. & post quæstionem ex omni parte disceptatam in concilio, concluditur, πᾶσι ἔδοξε τοῖς Ἀποστόλοις, καὶ πρεσβυτέροις, v. 22. & in [Epistolæ à Concilio ad Antiochenos missæ fronte, ponitur, [Οἱ Ἀπόστολοι καὶ πρεσβύτεροι] v. 23. Hæc dein dogmata, c. 16. τὰ κεκριμένα ὑπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων καὶ πρεσβυτέρων ἐν Ἱερουσαλὴμ dicuntur, v. 4.

§. 6. Sic & c. 21. cùm denuò Paulus Hierosolymas ascenderet, & Jacobum Episcopum Hierosolymitanum adiret, additur, tanquam in Concilio, [πάντες τε παρεγένοντο οἱ Πρεσβύτεροι.]

§. 7. His singulis locis siquis voce [πρεσβυτέρους] secundarios Ecclesiæ Hierosolymitanæ, sub Jacobo Episcopo, Presbyteros intelligendos esse contenderit, non est quòd nos inde causæ nostræ metuamus, aut cur, si modò tales Hierosolymis Presbyteros tunc fuisse quovis argumento nobis persuasurus sit, ulteriorem ei litem indicamus; Ut tamen, quod res est, liberè pronuntiemus, nihil nobis rationi magis consonum, singulísque contextus circumstantiis accommodatum visum est, quàm ut affirmetur, toties Judææ Episcopos singulares, singulis civitatibus præpositos, Hierosolymas, ut ad μητρόπολιν, aggregatos, Petróque Apostolo, & Jacobo Episcopo Hierosolymitano & Metropolitano, (eidémque Secundario Apostolo) adjunctos, Concilium hoc, cujus disceptationes, & decreta breviter hîc à Lucâ describuntur, constituisse.

§. 8. Illud enim hîc notandum est, in his omnibus locis, eos nunquam πρεσβυτέρους τῆς ἐκκλησίας Ἱερουσαλὴμ appellari, sed aut πρεσβυτέρους simpliciter, aut cum additione [τοὺς, aut τοὺς ἐν Ἱερουσαλὴμ] quâ locus tantummodo, in quo Concilium hoc eo tempore cogebatur, definiretur. Nec igitur multum dubitandum esse, quin iidem hîc describantur πρεσβύτεροι τῆς Ἰουδαίας, totius Judææ Seniores, (aut in singulis urbibus constituti Episcopi) c. 11. 30. dicebantur, de quibus verè etiam dici posset, quod Walo ex Græcis interpretibus notandum censuit, ex his conjiciendum esse, ὅτι ἄλλων τινὰ ἀξίαν τῶν πρεσβυτέρους ἐπαναλαίνουσ εἶχον οἱ Ἀπόστολοι, Apostolos dignitatem Presbyteris præeminentem habuisse, ideóque eos Lucam Presbyterorum nomine complexum non esse.

§. 9. Talem enim ἀξίαν, seu Petro, ut primario Apostolo, ut & cæteris collegis ejus, in quantum Apostoli erant, seu ipsi Jacobo, ut secundario Apostolo, totiúsque Judææ Metropolitano, super ipsos Episcopos competiisse non est dubitandum.

§. 10. Nec inidoneum erit, si huc advocandos putemus Πρεσβυτέρους 24. totidem thronis seu Cathedris insidentes, Apoc. 4. 4. & c. 11. 16. Deum quippe (sententiam excisionis, aut ferale anathema in Judæos parricidas statim pronuntiaturum, adeóque super solio, aut throno suo magnificè locatum) sub specie Jacobi Episcopi Hierosolymitani, in Synodo, aut Concilio sedentis, Johanni, ἐν πνεύματι, v. 2. propositum esse, Eum verò 24. Episcopis Universæ Judææ κυκλόθεν (seu in formam Coronæ, aut semicirculi) stipatum, quibus singulis ἱμάτια λευκὰ, alba, vel splendescentia vestimenta, & coronæ aureæ, Dignitatis quidem Episcopalis characteres & indicia imponebantur, v. 4. Istis Septem Ignis Lampadas, septem Diaconorum emblemata, addi videas v. 5. Et, ne quicquam Hierosolymitano Episcoporum Concilio (Act. 15. proposito) adesset, quod non hîc ad amussim describeretur, sunt & quatuor Animalia oculorum undiquaque plena, quibus Apostolos Hierosolymis degentes, & cum Jacobo Concilio præsidentes, significari pronum est. Sed de his alibi opportuniùs, adeóque fusiùs dictum est.

§. 11. Sic Act. 20. 17. πρεσβυτέρους ἐκκλησίας, iidem, qui statim ἐπίσκοποι ποιμνίου, totius nempe Asiæ Episcopi; Ad quem, ut & alia Actorum loca pertinet illud * Oecumenii, Πρεσβυτέρους γὰρ τοὺς ὁποτόπους ἢ ἀπὸ πόλεων βίβλῳ οἶδε λεγομένης, Episcopos in Actorum libro Presbyterorum titulo nosci. * In 1 Pet. 5.

§. 12. Nec jam novum, aut nimium putabitur, si τὸ πρεσβυτέριον, 1 Tim. 4. 14 (cùm, μετὰ ἐπιθέσεως τῶν χειρῶν πρεσβυτερίου Timotheus ad officium suum evectus, & charismate donatus dicitur) ex prædictis etiam explicandum existimemus (satis interim gnari ab aliis illud ad ipsum officium, aut χάρισμα accommodari, & ita vocabulum illud in historiâ Susannæ usurpari, v. 50. σοὶ δώσειν ὁ Θεὸς τὸ πρεσβυτήριον, Deus tibi Senioris officium dedit) sic ut ad Apostolorum collegium, quod Ignatius πρεσβυτέριον ἐκκλησίας nuncupat, Ep. ad Philadelph. aut Apostolicorum virorum, seu demum Episcoporum (τῆς Ἀποστολικῆς χάριτος ἠξιωμένοι, inquit Theodoretus) cœtum aliquem referatur, qui simul cum Paulo, 2 Tim. 1. 6. Timotheum ad Episcopale munus consecrarunt.

§. 13. Certè, cùm Apostoli indubitati, Petrus, & Johannes [πρεσβύτερος Πέτρος, πρεσβύτερος Ἰωάννης,] se arbitris & æstimatoribus, non inidoneè appellentur, cùm (ut Chrysostomus notavit) ἀξίωμα quandoque significat vox ista, cùm de Paulo & Barnabâ dicatur, Act. 14. 23. eos (in plurali χειροτονήσαντας) Presbyteros urbatim ordinasse, cùm denique de Ignatio affirmet Chrysostomus, μαρτύρων Ἀποστόλων χῆρας, beatorum (in plurali) Apostolorum manus ei impositas esse, Nihil obstat, quo minus quod Pauli, & Barnabæ, aut aliorum quorumlibet Apostolorum, manibus factum fuit, μετὰ ἐπιθέσεως χειρῶν πρεσβυτερίου fieri rectè dicatur, cùm tamen 2 Tim. 1. 6. disertè affirmet Paulus διὰ χειρῶν αὐτοῦ, per manus ejus χάρισμα illi datum esse.

§. 14. Fidenter * Chrysostomus, οὐ περὶ πρεσβυτέρων φησὶ ἐνταῦθα, ἀλλὰ περὶ ὁποτόπων, οὐ γὰρ ἦν πρεσβύτερος ὁ ἐπίσκοπον χειροτονῶν, Non de Presbyteris istîc loquitur, sed de Episcopis, neque enim Presbyteri Episcopum (qualis Timotheus præsumitur) ordinabant, Et iisdem planè verbis Theophylactus, & Oecumenius, Πρεσβυτείου, τουτέστιν ἐπισκόπων. * In 1 Tim. 4. Hom. 13.

§. 15. De unicâ in Ep. ad Tit. 1. 5. πρεσβυτέρων mentione, non est, quòd multa dicamus, cùm in centum Cretæ civitatibus totidem singulares Episcopi ab eo jam totius Insulæ, seu Episcopo, seu secundario Apostolo, certè Archiepiscopo, & Metropolitâ, ex mandato Pauli, constituendi fuerint, quos Episcopos distinctè nuncupatos videmus, v. 7. cúmque, quæ hîc de πρεσβυτέροις (iisdemque ἐπισκόποις) & πρεσβύταις dicuntur, eadem disertè de ὁποτόποις & διακόνοις dicta reperiantur, 1 Tim. 3.

§. 16. Hunc

§. 16. Hunc ad locum, Græci Interpretes, Πρεσβυτέρους ἤ τοὺς Ἐπισκόπους καλεῖ, Episcopi qui erant, Presbyteros appellat, &, Ἀπόστολος Τίτον ὅτι τὸ κατασῶσαι ἐπισκόπους κατέλιπεν, ἐπίσκοπον ἐφησεν ποιήσας, Apostolus Titum ad constituendos Episcopos reliquit, eum prius Episcopum faciens, & in Theodoreti Arg. Ep. ad Titum, ἐπιτέταλτο τὰς ὑπ' αὐτὸν ἐπισκόπους χειροτονῆσαι, Ei commissum est, ut Episcopos sub se ordinaret; & apud Theophylactum, πάντων ἐπισκόπων κρίσιν ἤ χειροτονίαν ἐπιτέτραπται, Tot Episcoporum jurisdictio, & ordinatio ei concredebatur.

§. 17. Illis accensendi πρεσβύτεροι οἱ ἐν ὑμῖν, 1 Pet. 5. 1. & 5. Episcopi scilicet quotquot in omnibus illis conversorum Judæorum διασπορᾶς, fidelibus cujusque civitatis præficiebantur, quibus se Petrus ipse, ut συμπρεσβύτερον adjungit, Eâdem planè ratione, quâ se Johannes, (seu sit ille Apostolus Christi dilectus, seu demum Ephesinæ Ecclesiæ Episcopus ab Apostolo Johanne constitutus, videatur Author Constit. l. 7. 45.) 2 Jo. 1. & 3 Jo. 1. πρεσβύτερος appellat, ἐπίσκοπον ἑαυτὸν καλῶν διὰ τὸ πρεσβυτέρου, inquiunt interpretes. Cùm enim, voce eâ, inter Judæos primò, dein in Ecclesiâ Hierosolymitanâ, non tam Ἡλικίαν, quàm ἀξίωμα, dignitatem aut authoritatem notari constet, simúlque, qui officio aliis præponebantur, ætate ut plurimùm præviisse, Nihil obstat, quin hac duplici ratione, Episcopi, aut singulares Ecclesiarum Præfecti, πρεσβύτεροι nuncupentur (& cum illis comparati alii omnes, νεώτεροι juniores, 1 Pet. 5. 5.)

§. 18. Illud certè ex textu ipso comparet, in quo duæ illæ Ecclesiasticæ λέξεις [ἐπίσκοποι, & ποιμένες] quibus singulares Præpositi noscuntur apud antiquos, cum levi aliquâ flexione [ἐπισκοποῦντες, & ποιμαίνοντες] hîc statim adjiciuntur.

§. 19. Quod verò hîc additur, μηδ' ὡς κατακυριεύοντες τῶν κλήρων, ἀλλὰ τύποι γινόμενοι τῆς ποιμνίου] illud ad Dominii hujus exercendi modum, seu temperamentum tantummodo pertinet, ut qui hominum animas sibi procurandas fuscipiunt, eas suaviter, & diligenter administrent, non ut Proconsules, Provinciis sibi assignatis (eæ sunt κλῆροι, & inde κληρουχία à Phavorino διανομὴ redditur,) vi & rapinâ, ad libidinem & lucrum suum dominaturi (illud est ἀναγκαστῶς, & αἰσχροκερδῶς) sed ut gregibus Pastores, voce & exemplo suo præeuntes, ita ut illi ἑκουσίως καὶ προθύμως, libenter, & alacriter, tanquam ad pascua ipsos sequuturi, obtemperent.

CAP. XXI.

Ja. 5. 14. πρεσβύτερους ἐκκλησίας. Epistolæ istius Author, & tempus scriptionis, Ecclesiæ ad quas scribebatur. Infirmorum visitatio, & pauperum cura ad Episcopum pertinet.

§. 1. REstat unus locus, Ja. 5. 14. ubi in ἀσθενείας (seu morbi, seu minùs prosperæ cujusvis Christiani valetudinis) tempore πρεσβύτερους Ἐκκλησίας advocari jubentur, ut preces super ægro fundant, ungentes eum oleo in nomine Domini, κἂν ἁμαρτίας ᾖ πεποιηκώς, eum absolventes, &c.

§. 2. Hîc cùm 1. à Jacobo Hierosolymorum Episcopo scripta sit Epistola, & 2^do^, numerus credentium auctior jam factus videri possit, quàm ut ab Episcopis & Diaconis, sine medii gradus Presbyteris Ecclesiæ regerentur, & 3^tio^, cùm de infirmorum visitatione hîc tantùm agatur, non improbabile forsan videbitur, si ad eos, quos hodiè dicimus, Presbyteros hæc saltem πρεσβυτέρων mentio pertinere censeatur.

§. 3. Nec certè quicquam nobis obfuturum est, si pertineat, illud lubentissimè cuivis argumento vel testimonio largituris, ut sic quidem (quod Epiphanius ex locis 1 Tim. 5. 1. & 19. concludendum putavit) nobis hoc uno saltem διστυδίῳ teste firmatum redderetur, sub his ipsis primis temporibus, inferiores Episcopis, & Diaconis superiores, medioxumos in quibusdam Ecclesiis Presbyteros constitutos esse. Quod si, neque ex hoc, neque ex illis ad Timotheum locis, Presbyteri evicturi sunt, necessum erit, ut Ignatio Martyri, cui ante omnes mortales minimum imputant, imò pessimè velle se monstrant, ipsi etiam plurimum debeant, & ab eo primario defensore, officii sui dignitatem (licèt non ὄξοχῶ, aut cum Episcopis ἰσοτιμίαν) astrui, & propugnari dignoscant; Optandum certè esset, ut beneficiis victi tandem mansuescerent, nec, quod ille optimè advertit, [παροξυσμὸς ἐμφερεῖς παύεσθαι] sic ipsi improsperè succederet.

§. 4. Sed, ut verum fatear, illud mihi nondum persuasum est, Presbyteros secundarios hîc à Jacobo designari. Primò enim, quod ad scriptorem hujus Epistolæ attinet, quem Jacobum fratrem Domini, & Hierosolymorum Episcopum fuisse jampridem agnovimus, Illum satis notum est, nec Sancto Paulo, nec Petro, muktominus Johanni supervixisse, sed Neronis 7^mo^ πλειάσαι suâ donatum esse; nec igitur vocis hujus pro Secundario Presbytero acceptionem ad sæculum, aut Epistolam Jacobi potius, quàm aut ad Pauli, aut Petri accommodandam esse, præsertim cùm à Johanne, cujus vita post alios omnes prorogata est, & qui, siquis Apostolorum, Presbyteros secundarios in Asiâ, Provinciâ suâ, constituit, non de alio, quàm seipso, Apostolo, & totius Asiæ Primate, (si saltem ab Apostolo Johanne Epistolæ secunda & tertia scriptæ fuerint) eam usurpatam reperiamus.

§. 5. Hinc etiam secundò ab antiquo fidelium numero nihil concludi posse satis patet; Imò, cùm ad duodecim tribus τὰς ἐν τῇ διασπορᾷ, i. e. ad Judæos in variis civitatibus Ecclesias singulas (sed non adeò frequentes, aut numerosas, ut aut Presbyteris secundariis indigerent, aut δυσμῶν, quos ad illud officium assumerent, copiam Apostolis suppeditarent) constituentes, hæc scripserit Jacobus, restat, ut jam tum eos Episcopis (sine Presbyteris secundariis à Diaconis distinctis) contentos fuisse censeamus, eósque per πρεσβυτέρους τῆς ἐκκλησίας non unius civitatis plures (nec enim plures ab eodem ægro convocari necessum fuerat) sed in universa Ecclesia innumeros, hîc significari dicamus.

§. 6. Quod denique ad hoc ipsum infirmos visitandi, super eos orandi, ungendi, absolvendi, simúlque sanitatem illis reddendi v. 15. munus spectat, statuendum est, neutiquam illud inter infima Ecclesiæ ministeria numerandum esse, sed, ut medendi dona, & virtutes, Apostolis ipsis (quos πρεσβυτέριον ἐκκλησίας ab Ignatio nuncupatos vidimus, Ep. ad Philad.) Virisque Apostolicis, dein Episcopis in unaquâque Ecclesiâ imprimis competiisse.

CAP.

CAP. XXII.

Polycarpi cum Jacobi dicto comparatio, Πρεσβύτεροι οὐν ἐνταῦθα in Polycarpo. Νέωτεροι, πρεσβύτεροι. Episcoporum officia. Πρεσβύτεροι, primo sæculo vox πολύσημος. Alia ejus apud Ignatium, alia apud Polycarpum significatio, ut & Papiam, & Irenæum, Clementem Alexandrinum, Tertullianum.

§. 1. UT hujus loci interpretationi lux aliqua accedat, non abs re erit, si Polycarpi Antiquissimi * Episcopi, & Martyris (statim post Ignatii πάθος conscripta) Epistola, huc, licèt loco non suo, advocetur, & cum hoc Jacobi commate comparetur.

* Πολύκαρπος ὁ ἐν Σμύρνῃ καὶ ἐπίσκοπος

καὶ μάρτυς. Polycrates in Ep. ad Victor. ap. Euseb. l. 5. c. κδ'. Οὗτος γέγονεν ὁ Σαυμασιώτατος ἐν τοῖς καθ' ἡμᾶς χρόνοις, διδάσκαλος Ἀποστολικὸς, καὶ ἀγωνιστὴς, ἡγεμὼν, ἐπίσκοπός τε τῆς ἐν Σμύρνῃ καθολικῆς ἐκκλησίας. Smyrn. Eccl. de Martyr. Polyc.

§. 2. Ille vir planè Apostolicus, καὶ τοῦ Ἀποστόλου κατηκολουθηκὼς ἴχνεσι τῷ Ἀσιάρχῃ ἐν τῇ ἐν Σμύρνῃ ἐκκλησίᾳ ἐπίσκοπος (inquit ex * Irenæo Eusebius) ad Philippenses, Ecclesiam, ut diximus, unius Macedoniæ μοίρας primariam, & Metropoliticam, sub quâ igitur plures civitates & Episcopi comprehendebantur, Epistolam scripsit, sic & τοὺς οὐν αὐτῷ πρεσβυτέρους nomine συγγενοῦς.

* L. 3. c. 3.

§. 3. Qui sunt hi in συγγενοῦς [πρεσβύτεροι οὐν αὐτῷ] seu Ecclesia istius Smyrnensis, quos hodiè dicimus, Presbyteri, seu aliarum civitatum, quæ itidem ad Smyrnam, ut ad μητρόπολιν pertinebant, singulares Episcopi, cum Polycarpo Metropolitano, (totius Asiæ Principe, * ait D. Blondellus) tanquam in Synodo, congregati, non est quòd hìc sollicitiùs disquiramus.

* Apol. p. 14.

§. 4. Utut illud sit, Divinus Præsul, cùm in Epistolâ istâ ad pietatis, & disciplinæ regulas omnibus proponendas se accingat, primòque fideles ἀδελφοὺς promiscuè omnes; secundò, viduas; tertiò, Diaconos; quartò, νεωτέρους (ii sunt omnes discipuli, aut inferiores, à Christo communiter sic dicti, Luc. 22. 26. (quintò, πρεσβυτέρους aggrediatur, Νεωτέρους jubet τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις, καὶ διακόνοις, ὡς Θεοῦ, καὶ Χριστοῦ ὑποτασσομένους; Ubi, ut per νεωτέρους, fideles omnes nullum in Ecclesiâ gradum sortiti intelligendi sunt, sic per πρεσβυτέρους, supremum in Ecclesiâ (Episcoporum scilicet) ordinem, Patres quippe, Deo Patri quodammodo comparatos, & per Diaconos inferiorem illum Episcopis adjunctorum, &, ut Christus Patri, inservientium βαθμὸν intelligendum esse, sequentia concludere videntur.

§. 5. De his enim πρεσβυτέροις sic statim orditur, Καὶ οἱ πρεσβύτεροι ἅ ἴυσπλαγχνοι εἰς πάντας, ἐλεήμονες, ἐπιστρέφοντες τὰ ἀπεπλανημένα, ἐπισκεπτόμενοι πάντας ἀδυνάτους, μὴ ἀμελοῦντες χήρας, ἢ ὀρφανοῦ, ἢ πένητος, ἀλλὰ προνοοῦντες ἀεὶ τοῦ καλοῦ ἐνώπιον Θεοῦ, καὶ ἀνθρώπων, ἀπεχόμενοι πάσης ὀργῆς, προσωπολημψίας, κρίσεως ἀδίκου, μακρὰν ὄντες πάσης φιλαργυρίας, μὴ ταχέως πιστεύοντες κατ' ἀλλήλων, μὴ ἀπότομοι ἐν κρίσει, &c. Et Presbyteri sint misericordes erga omnes, convertentes eos qui erraverint, visitantes omnes infirmos, viduam, orphanum, pauperem ne negligant, sed honestum semper procurent coram Deo & hominibus, abstineant ab irâ, personarum acceptatione, judicio injusto, ab omni avaritiâ procul absint, nec citò contra quempiam credant, ne sint severi, aut asperi in judicio, &c.

§. 6. Ubi, ut multa sunt, quæ hunc Episcopi, seu Præfecti, ad quem judicia in Ecclesiâ pertingant, characterem fuisse arguunt, (κρίσεως scilicet, & ἀπονοίας ἐν κρίσει, προσωπολημψίας, & ὀργῆς, & τοῦ ταχέως πιστεύειν κατὰ πάντος, ut & hæreticos reducendi, mentiones) sic &, quæ de infirmorum visitatione, curâque viduæ, orphani, & egeni (quorum omnium, ut ex Justino prædiximus, Episcopus πάντων curator dicitur) præmittuntur, singula itidem ad Episcopi munus referri videntur. Quâ in re si rectè calculos posuerimus, nulla ambigendi ratio supererit, quin etiam Jacobo per [πρεσβυτέρους ἐκκλησίας] in qualibet διακονίᾳ μιᾷ constituti Episcopi intelligantur.

§. 7. Unicum est, quod contra istam Polycarpiani Commatis interpretationem militare video; Epistolam nempe hanc post Ignatianas omnes scriptam esse, earúmque distinctè meminisse) in istis verò vocem πρεσβυτέρων, ad secundum in Ecclesiâ gradum, eósque (quos hodiè dicimus) Presbyteros designandos, ἰδίως usurpari, quidni igitur & apud Polycarpum?

§. 8. At facilis defensio, Hoc scilicet toto sæculo vocem [πρεσβυτέρους] πολύσημον fuisse, aliquando ad Episcopos, aliquando ad inferioris gradus Presbyteros ubicunque tales essent, accommodatam, nec aliter, quàm ex locorum circumstantiis, distinguendam. Nec enim dubitandi causam subesse, quin ante hoc tempus, quo & Polycarpus & Ignatius Epistolas scripserunt, præter Episcopos Presbyteri in quibusdam civitatibus institui fuerint, (Illud enim est ὅλας ἐκκλησίας ἁρμόζειν, quod de Johanne ex * Clemente Alexandrino prædiximus) adeóque tres in Ecclesiâ gradus, his tribus Ἐπισκόπων, πρεσβυτέρων, διακόνων notissimis nominibus, dignoscendi, ideóque vocem hanc, cùm per se usurparetur, ambiguam, seu potiùs de Episcopis solis dictam, de Presbyteris tamen secundariis satis commodè usurpari, quotiescunque distincta singulorum enumeratio facienda erat.

* Vide Euseb. l. 2. c. κγ'.

§. 9. Illud apud Ignatium ubique factum videmus, Episcopis πρεσβυτέριον, aut πρεσβυτέρους, πρεσβυτέροις διακόνοις adjungentem; At secus apud Polycarpum in hâc Epistolâ, πρεσβυτέρων solummodo, aut πρεσβυτέρων, & διακόνων mentionem facientem.

§. 10. Sic & à Papiâ Ἰωάννου ἀκουστῆ, & Πολυκάρπου ἑταίρῳ, Hierapolytano etiam in Asiâ Episcopo, vocem πρεσβύτερος ita usurpari videas, ut aliquando Apostolos ipsos, & ab iis constitutos Episcopos, aliquando eorum γνησίους quoslibet significet; Videantur fragmenta ejus ab Irenæo, dein ab * Eusebio recitata; Εἰ δέ που, inquit, παρηκολουθηκώς τις τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις ἔλθοι, τοὺς τῶν πρεσβυτέρων ἀνακρίνοι λόγους, τί Ἀνδρέας, ἢ τί Πέτρος εἶπε, ἢ τίς ἕτερος τῶν τοῦ Κυρίου μαθητῶν, ἅτε Ἀριστίων, καὶ ὁ Πρεσβύτερος Ἰωάννης, οἱ τοῦ Κυρίου μαθηταὶ λέγουσιν, Si quando quispiam venisset qui seniores secutus esset, Seniorum sermones sciscitabar, quid Andreas, vel quid Petrus dixit, vel quispiam aliud discipulorum Domini, Aristion scilicet, & Senior Johannes Domini discipuli dicunt. Ubi πρεσβύτεροι adeò clarè de Apostolis à Papiâ enuntiantur, ut [Ἀποστόλοις] & [Ἀποστόλων] legendum suspicati sint.

* Hist. l. 3. c. λθ'.

§. 11. Sic postea de Marco Evangelii scriptore, Τοῦτ' ἐ πρεσβύτερος ἔλεγε Μᾶρκος, ἑρμηνευτὴς Πέτρου γενόμενος, hoc Senior Marcus dixit Petri interpres.

§. 12. Apud Irenæum verò, p. 497. Presbyteri, qui Joannem viderant, & l. 2. c. 39. Omnes seniores qui in Asiâ apud Johannem Discipulum Domini conversarunt, quod Eusebius ex Græco exemplari exscripsit, πάντες οἱ πρεσβύτεροι οἱ κατὰ τὴν Ἀσίαν Ἰωάννῃ τῷ τοῦ Κυρίου μαθητῇ συμβεβληκότες, omnes Seniores qui per Asiam cum Johanne Domini discipulo versabantur, quos quidem ipsos à Clemente Alexandrino indifferenter πρεσβυτέρους, & ὁσιωτάτους dici statim monstrabimus.

§. 13. Imò, post Papiam Irenæus ipse, vir Magnus, idémque Lugdunensis Episcopus, quique ab Apostolis in Ecclesiis constitutos Episcopos, eorúmque successores, adnumerat, l 3. c. 3. hâc etiam πρεσβυτέρων voce ad Episcopos designandos utitur. Traditio ab Apostolis per successionem Presbyterorum in Ecclesiis custoditur, l. 3 c. 2. Iis, qui in Ecclesiâ sunt, Presbyteris obedire oportet, statim enim sequitur, His, qui successionem habent ab Apostolis, qui cum Episcopatus successione charisma veritatis —— acceperunt, l. 4. c. 43. Qui creditii sunt à multis esse Presbyteri, serviunt autem suis voluptatibus; sequitur iterum, Et principalis consessionis (πρωτοκαθεδρίας, sine dubio, Episcopalis) tumore elati sunt, l. 4. c. 44. & eodem capite, Tales Presbyteros nutrit Ecclesia, de quibus propheta ait, Dabo Principes tuos in pace, & Episcopos in justitia, pro quibus Isaiæ verbis, ὁσιωτάτους καὶ δικαίους apud Clementem Romanum reponi videmus.

* Vid. Euseb. l. 4. c. 18. §. 14. Sic & de Polycarpo ipso (quem Episcopum fuisse satis clarâ voce* pronuntiat) in Epistolâ ad Florinum. Ἐκεῖνος ὁ μακάριος καὶ Ἀποστολικὸς πρεσβύτερος. Sic & in Ep. ad Victorem, οἱ πρεσβύτεροι οἱ προεστῶτες τῆς ἐκκλησίας, ἧς νῦν ἀφηγεῖ, Ἀνίκητος, Πίος, Ὑγῖνός τε, καὶ Τελέσφορος, &c. de Romanis Episcopis singularibus dictum.

§. 15. Ubique patet vocem πρεσβύτερος de Episcopis, aut singularibus Ecclesiarum Præpositis usurpatam esse.

§. 16. Huic etiam Clementem Alexandrinum addamus, Qui, cùm tres istos in Ecclesiâ gradus distinctè agnoscat, * Τὰς κατὰ τὴν ἐκκλησίαν ἀγωγὰς, διακόσμου, πρεσβυτέρων, διακόνων, eósque tot ἀγγελικῆς δόξης μιμήματα, Angelici honoris, aut hierarchiæ imitationes pronuntiet, * alibi tamen, πρεσβύτερος appellat, ad quem ἀρχιεπισκοπὴ pertineat. Videatur etiam ejusdem insignis apud * Eusebium locus, de Juvene à Johanne, τῷ ἐπισκόπῳ, Episcopo tradito; ἐλθὼν ὃν δὴ πυθὰ ἔφη ὁ μακαρίτης πόλεων, καὶ πάλιν ἀναπτύσας τὰς ἀλλαχοῦ, δὴ πᾶσι τῷ κοσμοῦσι φιλάδελφος ἐπισκόπῳ, νεανίσκον ἰδὼν, Τοῦτον, ἔφη, σοι ἐκδικῶ —— δὲ πρεσβύτερος ἀναλαβὼν οἶκαδε, τὸν ἐκδεδόμενον νεανίσκον ἐτήρει,— ἐφώπευε, καὶ μὴ τοῦτο ὑφῆκε τῆς πολιτικῆς ἐπιμελείας, καὶ ἐκφυλακῆς, ὡς τὸ τέλειον αὐτῷ φυλακτήριον ἐπιθεῖναι τῷ σωτηρίῳ τοῦ Κυρίου, Veniens igitur ad civitatem quandam —— Episcopum super omnibus fratribus constitutum conspiciens, Hunc, inquit, Juvenem fidei & curæ tuæ committo, Ille verò Senior juvenem sibi commissum accipiens, &c. Hîc idem planè Senior, seu πρεσβύτερος, & ἐπίσκοπος, ὁ δὴ πᾶσι κοσμοῦς. Posteà, ὦ ἐπίσκοπε τῆς ἐκκλησίας ἧς κατέστης, inquit Johannes, ὧν ἐγώτε, καὶ ὁ Χριστὸς σοι παρεκατέθεμεθα, δὴ ἐ ἐκκλησίας προκαθίζῃς, μάρτυρες, O Episcope, redde nobis depositum, quod ego & Christus tibi tradidimus, Ecclesiâ, cui præsides, teste. Palam est ἐπίσκοπον (eum quidem propriè dictum Episcopum, adeóque omnibus in civitate fratribus præpositum, ad quem ἀρχιεπισκοπὴ pertinebat, δὴ ἐ ἐκκλησίας προκαθιζόμενον, quippe post baptismum, τέλειον insuper φυλακτήριον, τῆς σφραγῖδα τοῦ Κυρίου ἐπιθεῖναι, sacramentum confirmationis, soli Episcopo proprium, administrasse dicebatur) statim etiam τὸν πρεσβύτερον nuncupari.

* Apol. p. 38. §. 17. Idem etiam de Tertulliano dicendum est, quem communi usu receptam ordinis in Episcopos, Presbyteros, & Diaconos distinctionem apertè tueri* D. Blondellus agnoscit. Illi enim vox [Seniores] de Episcopis seu Præsidentibus quandoque usurpatur, Præsident probati quique Seniores, Apol. c. 39. Sic & majores natu] (quod idem est, & Græco πρεσβύτερος directè respondet) de Romanorum Episcoporum serie dicitur, l. 5. contra Marc.

§. 18. In istis diutiùs morati sumus, ut exinde appareat, quàm sine omni rationis prætextu, ex his, & talibus πρεσβυτέρων, aut in Scripturis, aut apud Antiquos, mentionibus, D. Blondellus causæ suæ patrocinium quæsiverit, cùm aliud nihil ex istis concludi palam sit, præter promiscuum voculæ unius usum, quam sanè πολύσημον esse, quandoque de primo, quandoque de secundo Ecclesiæ gradu antiquitùs (at nunquam, quod scimus, in scripturis) usurpatam, nos illi, sine omni probatione, lubentissimè largiemur, neque enim, cùm ipsæ Christianæ Religionis ἀκροπόλεις satis acriter impetantur, nobis aut λογομαχῆν, aut ἀέρα δέρειν, umbratilem aut, quod idem est, verbalem pugnam cum quovis mortalium instituere vacabit.

§. 19. Et de vocis πρεσβυτέρων in novo Codice, simúlque (ὡς παρέδω) apud Polycarpum, & Papiam, Irenæum item, & Clementem Alexandrinum, & Tertullianum, usu, hæc dixisse sufficiat.

CAP. XXIII.

Διακονεῖν, κονεῖν. Διάκονοι in Vet. Testam. & in Novo Ro. 13. 4. 2 Cor. 6. 4. Apud profanos scriptores διακονία vox convivalis. Διακονήματα. Ἐγκύκλια διακονήματα, (μαθήματα.) Διάκονοι qui mensas dispensant, Lu. 17. 8. Ἀρχιτείκλινος, Οἰκονόμος frangit, dividit & distribuit, Mat. 20. 28. διακονεῖσθαι, κατακλειδίων, κατεξουσιάζειν.

§. 1. DEnique ad Diaconorum appellationem progrediamur. Quid per διακονέω primariò notetur, ex Grammaticis petendum est, Apud quos, κονεῖν] ut σπεύδειν, πτίσσειν, sic & ὑπηρετεῖν significat, (unde κονιταὶ, διερέσσοντες, & ἀγκόνοι, δοῦλοι —— Hesychio) à πονεῖν, inquit Eustathius, Ionico more deflexum, putarim potius à κόνις deductam, quòd pedites, & in pulvere versantes famulentur, Eâdem analogiâ, quâ in Foro nostro, Pie powder, i. e. Pedem pulverizatum, usurpatum dignoscimus. Unde [διακονεῖν] cuiquam operam locare, ministrare, famulari.

§. 2. Sic Veteris Testam. Interpretibus διάκονοι, & διερέσσοντες, & λειτουργοὶ, pro iisdem sumuntur, & Heb. מְשָׁרְתִים respondent.

§. 3. Sic

§. 3. Sic & in Novo, cùm Θεοῦ διάκονος Rex dicatur, Ro. 13. 4. Dei hîc in terris minister, ut &. (ad Ecclesiastica ministeria quod attinet) cùm Θεοῦ διακόνους Apostoli se nuncupent, 2 Cor. 6. 4. 1 Thess. 3. 2. διακόνους Χριστοῦ, 2 Cor. 11. 22. Col. 1. 7. διακόνους ἐν Κυρίῳ, Eph. 6. 21. & ἁπλῶς διακόνους, Col. 4. 7. eodem plane modo usurpatos, ac cum δοῦλος, & συνδοῦλος, vel simpliciter, Col. 1. 7. vel adjectis Θεοῦ, Χριστοῦ, ἐν Κυρίῳ, repositos videmus.

§. 4. Ab hâc vulgari, & primariâ significatione ad alias duas deflecti vocem eam satis omnibus notum est, primam scriptoribus profanis æquè ac sacris familiarem, secundam Ecclesiasticis scriptoribus plane peculiarem.

§. 5. Apud profanos scriptores διακονεῖν, & διάκονοι inter convivales ritus usurpantur (quomodo διακονία apud Athenæum, l. 5. (& 1 Mac. 11. 58.) & διακόνημα, l. 6. mensalem supellectilem significant (sic ut ad munera servorum eorum qui mensis ministrant ἴδιον referantur; Ea Aristoteli ἐγκύκλια διακονήματα dicta sunt, Pol. l. 1. c. 4. sic ut ἐγκύκλια μαθήματα literæ humaniores, significant, Grammaticam, Gymnasticam, Musicam, (πρὸς ἀντιπαιδοτριβὴν τῆς φιλοσοφίας, καὶ ἅμα μαθημάτων) quas omnes liberaliter instituti tenebant) quod universis κατὰ τοὺς famulis competeret.

§. 6. Sic, cùm apud Lucian. in Cronosol. inter leges Convivales memoretur, [Οἱ διάκονοι πρὸς χάριν μηδένι μηδὲν] palam est, διακόνους eos esse, qui in conviviis, μοίρας, & μερίδας, aut τομὰς, dimensum convivæ cuilibet suum dispensant, sic enim apud Lucian: sequitur μηδὲ τῷ φίλῳ ἐ μείζω, τῷ δ' ἐ γνάθος σύας, ἀλλ' ἴσους ἅπαντας.

§. 7. Illud inter ritus convivales observatum videmus, ut διάκονοι μοίρας primò διανέμῃ convivatori, dein convivis singulis singulas, vel ex præcepto ἀρχιτεικλίνου, principalis Festi dispensatoris, vel ex lege ἰσότητος (μὴ τῷ υἱῷ μεγάλα, τῷ δ' κομιδῇ μικρὰ ἐδαπιδᾶσθαι) distribuerent. Videatur ubique Lucianus in Cronosol. Et Ep. Saturn. ubi de iniquis ministris verba faciens, Ἐκομιδῆτος, inquit, συὸς, οἰκίτης διανέμων τῷ μὲν διανέμῃ ἐδαπιδᾶσθαι τὸ ἡμίτομον ὅλον σὺν τῇ κεφαλῇ, τοῖς δ' ἄλλοις ὀστᾶ φέρει ἀγκαλυμμένα. Ep. Saturn. ubi de iniquis ministris verba faciens, Ἐκομιδῆτος, inquit, συὸς, οἰκίτης διανέμων τῷ μὲν διανέμῃ ἐδαπιδᾶσθαι τὸ ἡμίτομον ὅλον σὺν τῇ κεφαλῇ, τοῖς δ' ἄλλοις ὀστᾶ φέρει ἀγκαλυμμένα.

§. 8. Juxta hunc διακόνων ritum, intelligendum est illud Christi, Lu. 17. 8. de Domino famulos suos convivio excipiente, ἑτοίμασον, καὶ ἀνακλινεῖ αὐτὰς, καὶ περιζωσάμενος διακόνησόν, eodem planè modo, quo apud Lucianum τὰς οἰκίτας ὁ πλοῦτος ἐυνοεῖ διακονῶν, καὶ οἱ φίλοι σὺν αὐτῷ. Hoc, ut diximus, ἀρχιτεικλίνου imprimis, aut οἰκονόμου τροφῶν munus erat, cujus igitur speciem præ se ferens Dominus noster, cùm multitudinem exciperet, εὐχαριστήσας (ἔκλασε, inquit Matthæus 15. 36.) δέδωκε τοῖς μαθηταῖς αὐτοῦ (ut ἀρχιτείκλινος, vel οἰκονόμος διακόνοις) οἱ δὲ μαθηταὶ τοῖς ἀνακειμένοις, Jo. 6. 11. Sic ut ad διακόνους distribuere μερίδας, licèt ad οἰκονόμων frangere, aut dividere pertineat. Ex hoc ritu illud Christi, Mat. 20. 28. Mar. 10. 45. rectè intelligi poterit, cùm de seipso pronuntiet, Ὁ υἱὸς τοῦ ἀνθρώπου οὐκ ἦλθε διακονηθῆναι, ἀλλὰ διακονῆσαι, Venit filius hominis, non ut alii illi, sed ille aliis omnibus subministret, liberales gratiæ suæ, & benignitatis μερίδας distributens, &, ut sequitur [δοῦναι τὴν ψυχὴν λύτρον ἀντὶ πολλῶν] animam ipsius, ut λύτρον, multis, imò omnibus, secundum leges convivales, ἐξ ἴσου (ait S. * Maximus) inter se dispertiendam, traditurus.

* Κεφ. οβ' Ἀγαπ.

§. 9. Neque enim huic loci istius interpretationi obsistit, quod immediatè præcesserat [ὁ ὢν ἐν ὑμῖν μείζων γενέσθω ὡς ὁ νεώτερος, καὶ ἡγούμενος ὡς ὁ διακονῶν] quasi ad Præfectorum Ecclesiæ παίδευσιν hæc tota pertineret oratio. Duo enim sunt, quæ de Gentilium principibus, quatenus illis Christiani Episcopi contradistinguuntur, enuntiantur, Primum, eos κατακυριεύειν subjectis suis, ut ὑπηκόων δυνάστας, & ad lucrum, & commodum suum liberè abuti; (illud Christo est διακονεῖσθαι, * Xenophonti ὠφελεῖσθαι ὑπ' αὐτῶν) Secundum, κατεξουσιάζειν, herilem potestatem, aut authoritatem, i. e. ait S. Petrus, ἀναγκαστικὼ exercere.

* Præf. Κύρου παιδ.

§. 10. Horum utique, futurorum in Ecclesiâ Præfectorum, officium opponi Christus voluit, ita ut 1. Illis benefacere & prodesse, 2. Omnem erga illos mansuetudinem, & humilitatem exercere satagant, Quorum primum est διακονεῖν, secundum δοῦλον γενέσθαι.

CAP. XXIV.

Jo. 2. 9. Septem Diaconi, Est. 1. 10. Diaconorum officium, διακονία τραπεζῶν (& λόγου) apud Julianum Ἐπιστολία, Ep. 4. 11. Διακονία ex alienis & ex suis. Phœbe γυνὴ ἀδελφὴ, 1 Cor. 9. 5. κοινωνία διακονίας. Procopii interpres notatus.

§. 1. AB hoc in conviviis διακόνων munere, ritúque, quem ex omni parte accuratum habemus Jo. 2. 9. (Ibi enim primò νύμφιος occurrit, γάμου, i. e. convivii nuptialis διανέμης, dein ἀρχιτείκλινος, cibi vinique primarius dispensator, dein διάκονοι, v. 5. vinum ἀντλοῦντες, & φέροντες ἀρχιτεικλίνῳ, v. 8.) septem primorum sub Apostolis in Ecclesiâ Hierosolymitanâ ἡ τραπέζας διακονούντων officium, leviter immutatum videmus (numero ipso ad ἐπὶ τὰ ἐυσύχους τὰς διακόνους, Est. 1. 10. fortean respiciente) qui toti quasi familiæ Christi, omnibúsque ad mensam ejus vocatis, μοίρας suas distribuebant, pauperibus primò omnibus in hoc Cœnobio victitantibus, prout unicuique opus esset, ex facultatibus Ecclesiæ (sub Apostolis Oeconomis, aut primariis dispensatoribus) χορηγοῦντες, dein in celebratione Eucharistiæ, aut cœna Dominicæ, operas suas locantes, panémque quem illi εὐχαριστήσαντες ἐκλασαν, vinúmque itidem cum εὐλογίᾳ effusum fratribus omnibus dispertientes.

§. 2. Ita ritum hunc Apostolicum à Justino Martyre Apol. 2. delineatum cernimus, ubi Episcopus ut οἰκονόμος εὐχαριστεῖ, &c. & καλούμενοι διάκονοι δίδασιν ἑκάστῳ τῶν παρόντων μεταλαβεῖν, &c. P. 97.

§ 3. At ad Pauperum præcipuè curam hanc eorum operam destinatam esse Lucas monstrat, Act. 6. 1. Ἐθνικὰ, inquit, γογγυσμὸς τῶν Ἑλληνιστῶν, ὅτι παρεθεωροῦντο ἐν τῇ διακονίᾳ τῇ καθημερινῇ (in quotidianâ facultatum Ecclesiæ distributione) αἱ χῆραι αὐτῶν. Hæc erat διακονία τραπεζῶν, v. 2. (vel, ut * Concilii in Trullo verbis utar, ἡ ἐν τῇ χρείας τραπεζῶν ἀκουρία) quatenus διακονίᾳ τοῦ λόγου opponebatur, v. 4. & ὑπὲρ χρείας ταύτης instituti διάκονοι, v. 3. * Can. 16.

Fragm. p 558. §. 4. Sic de Galilæis, quos nuncupat, i. e. Christianis, ὁ Φλαβιανὸς Julianus, Apud eos, inquit, τὸν λεγόμενον παρ' αὐτοῖς ἀγάπην, καὶ ἀποδοχὴν, καὶ διακονίαν, πτωχῶν reperietis, quibus, inquit, multos ad cultum suum pellicichant.

§. 5. Imò notissima est, & frequentissima διακονίας, & τῶ διακονεῖν significatio pro χορηγία, (& χορηγεῖν) necessariorum quorumcunque suppeditatione quovismodo factâ, quam pari modo Latinè administrationem, vel subministrationem dicimus. Sic διακονεῖν, Mat. 25. 44. & 27. 55. Mar. 1. 13. 2 Tim. 1. 18. Heb. 6. 10. 1 Pet. 4. 10. διακονία, Act. 11. 29. 1 Cor. 16. 15. 2 Cor. 8. 4. & 9. 1. & quidni Eph. 4. 11. ubi inter cœtuum Ecclesiasticorum (χαρισμῶν τῶν ἁγίων) beneficia, ἔργον διακονίας (ista omnium Christianorum, liberalitas, κοινωνία, προσφοραὶ, χάριτες, λογίαι, promiscuè dicta, & v. 16. ἐπιχορηγία & πάσης ἁφῆς, cáque in sacrario, aut gazophylacio, aut, ut dicebatur, diaconio, primò ad sacrorum, dein ad indigentium omnium usum reposita) numeratur.

§. 6. Illud tantummodo hîc addendum est, quosdam quidem, ut alienæ ἐπιτροπίας ministros, & ἐπιτρόπους, hoc fecisse, ex facultatibus Ecclesiæ, necessitatibus pauperum subministrasse, verùm & alios ex suis, ἐκ τῶν ὑπαρχόντων αὐτοῖς διακονῆσαι, Luc. 8. Sic Onesiphorus, 2 Tim. 1. 18. qui Paulum sæpiùs ἀνέψυξε, v. 16. πολλὰς διηκόνησε, v. 18. Sic Phœbe ἀδελφὴ ἡμῶν, inquit Paulus, Rom. 16. 1. (alibi, ni fallor, γνησὶ ἀδελφὲ, 1 Cor 9 5. cujus benignitate, si uti voluisset Apostolus, φαγεῖν καὶ πεῖν poruisset, v. 4. & tamen μὴ ἐργάζεσθαι, v. 6.) & διάκονον ἐκκλησίας τῆς ἐν Κεγχρεαῖς, Apostolis ex suis facultatibus opitulata videtur, ideóque προστάτις πολλῶν, v. 2. i. e. προέξενον nuncupatur.

§. 7. Hinc Act. 11. 29. εἰς διακονίαν πέμψαι, ad Egenis opitulandum mittere, ut & Act. 12. 25. Hinc 2 Cor. 8. 4. κοινωνία τῆς διακονίας εἰς τοὺς ἁγίους, liberalitas administrationis erga sanctos, & 1 Pet. 4. 10. ἑαυτοῖς, διακονοῦντες (ut & v. 11.) de sublevandis egenis.

* Schol. in 1 Sam. 9. §. 8. Nec igitur cùm apud * Procopium, ἀποστόλων διακονημάτων mentio fiat, rectè Interpres reposuit [Apostolorum ministrantium] Reddendum sine dubio [administratione, aut liberalitate aliorum utentium] cùm statim ex S. Paulo adjiciatur, ὡς εἰς χρείαν μὲ ἐπέμψατε.

CAP. XXV.

Διάκονοι. Eorum munus, Fidei prædicatio, non solùm πτωχῶν διακονία, Rom. 15. 8. Act. 6. 4. Ὀφθαλμὸς λόγου, 2 Tim. 2. 15. Eph. 3. 7. Διάκονος refertur ad οἰκονομίαν, 2 Cor. 3. 6. Gal. 2. 17.

§. 1. ISTis de primâ διακονίας acceptione sic prælibatis, primò notandum est, Ipsam διακόνου vocem (si unicam Phœbes τῆς ἐν Κεγχρεαῖς ἐκκλησίας διακόνου mentionem excipias) nullibi aut in Veteri, aut in Novo Testam. usurpari ad denotandum eum, qui aut πτωχείαις, aut χρείαις subministraverit.

§. 2. Nec igitur rationem constare, cum διακόνου munus in primis vagientis Ecclesiæ incunabulis, his tam arctis carceribus finiatur, præsertim cùm ex septem illis ad τραπέζων διακονίαν allectis, Act. 6. 5. non solùm Stephanus, v. 8. Sed & Philippus, c. 8. verbum Dei prædicaverit, universam Samariam ad fidem, & baptismum receperit. Videatur Hilarius, aut quisquis ille sit (D. Blondello præcharus) sub Ambrosii nomine in Paulinas Epistolas Commentarii Autbor. Quamvis, inquit, non sint sacerdotes, evangelizare possunt sine Cathedrâ, quemadmodum Stephanus & Philippus, in Ep. 4.

§. 3. Secundò, διάκονον quandoque sic in novo Codice usurpari, ut levi quâdam mutatione ab hoc sensu deflexisse videatur. Sic cum ὁ χειρὸς τῆς περιτομῆς (Judæorum) διάκονος dicatur, Rom. 15. 8. eâ φράσει significatur Christum eum esse, qui omnem operam suam navaverit, ut Judæis, veritatem Dei iis annuntiando, benefaceret, eos ad fidem vocaret, & ἐπαγγελίας τῶν πατέρων his Abrahami filiis βεβαιώσῃ. Sic & 1 Cor. 3. 5. Cùm Paulus & Apollos διάκονοι, δι' ὧν ἐπιστεύσατε Corinthii, appellentur, ex immediatè sequentibus apparet, ad hanc Evangelii, tanquam animarum cibarii, distributionem, διακονίαν λόγου, Act. 6. 4. (quam igitur ὀρθοτομίαν λόγου Θεοῦ, 2 Tim. 2. 15. verbi Dei ut in τομὰς & μεληδὼν (sic ut cuiquam dimensum suum assignetur) distributionem appellat) pertinere; [καὶ ἑκάστῳ, inquit, ὡς ὁ Κύριος ἔδωκεν] Prout unicuique διακόνῳ summus ille οἰκονόμος, aut ἀρχιτέκτων divisit, sic & nos convivis omnibus administramus.

§. 4. Sic Eph. 3. 7. (ut & Col. 1. 23.) cùm Evangelii διάκονον se Paulus appellet, statim sequitur κατὰ τὴν δωρεὰν τῆς χάριτος τοῦ Θεοῦ, ipsum quippe, ut à Christo summo Oeconomo acceperat, sic & aliis distribuere divinam hanc Evangelii gratiam.

§. 5. Sic cùm Col. 1. 25. ἐκκλησίας διάκονος dicatur, Sequitur enim κατὰ τὴν οἰκονομίαν τοῦ Θεοῦ τὴν δοθεῖσάν μοι εἰς ὑμᾶς, verbum quippe Dei, à magno Oeconomo, aut dispensatore Christo, Paulo, gentibus distribuendum, committebatur.

§. 6. Sic cum iidem Apostoli, 2 Cor. 3. 6. διάκονοι τῆς καινῆς διαθήκης nuncupentur, quatenus ab iis τὸ πνεῦμα ζωοποιοῦν (γράμμασι ἐγκεκολαμμένον oppositum) διακονοῦσθαι, suppeditari, aut fidelibus omnibus distribui dicatur, palam est, ad hanc primam διάκονου acceptionem spectari.

§. 7. Sic Gal. 2. 7. διάκονος ἁμαρτίας] designat eum qui Gentilismo favet, (cujus institutis qui inhærent, eo ipso versu, & ubique in hoc codice, ἁμαρτωλοὶ dicuntur) qui fovendo & sublevando Gentilismo operam collocat, & ita quasi subministrat.

CAP.

CAP. XXVI.

Secunda Diaconi significatio, Phil. 1. 1. & 1 Tim. 3. 8, 12. Ministri Judicum, Deut. 16. 18. שוטרים, חזנים, Ἄζανται. Ταζοφύλακες. Ἐπιμεληταί. Grotius à Riveto sine ratione notatus. Παρεδιακονοῦσαν, Act. 6. 1. Τεσσαράκοντα. Καλῶς διακονήσαντες, 1 Tim. 3. 13. Καλὸς βαθμὸς, Episcopis inserviebant diaconi. Cur nulla Presbyterorum mentio, Phil. 1. 1. 1 Tim. 3.

§. 1. PErgamus nunc ad secundam vocis hujus acceptionem, eam quidem scriptoribus sacris, & postmodum Ecclesiasticis peculiarem, adeóque inter Codicis sacri τυχηρολογήματα numerandam. Sic tribus præcipuè in locis usurpatam reperies, Phil. 1. 1. 1 Tim. 3. 8. & 12. & διακονήσαντες, v. 13.) in quibus singulis, cùm Episcopis primariis Ecclesiæ Præfectis Diaconi adjungantur, ad peculiarem aliquem in Ecclesiâ βαθμὸν, seu gradum pertinere censendi sunt. Quibus autem officiis designati, jam pauculis disquiremus.

§. 2. A Judæis sine dubio hujus rei (ut aliorum plerunque in Ecclesiâ rituum) origo petenda est.

§. 3. Apud eos, ministri Judicibus in qualibet civitate adjuncti, Deut. 16. 18. qui ipsis in Consistoriis inserviebant, in scripturis שטרים, à Rabbinis חזנים ministri, & חזנים הכנסת ministri Synagogæ vocantur. Juniores, inquit Maimonides, qui ad ætatem Doctoris nondum pervenerant.

§. 4. Hos * Epiphanius, leviter ab Hebræo deflexâ voce, Ἄζανται appellat, iísque in Ecclesiâ ἐπὶ τὰ μεγάλα Diaconos (ut & Ἀρχισυναγώγους Episcopos, Senioribus Presbyteros) respondere affirmat. Hos ait Philo Ταζοφύλακας fuisse, & διακονητὰς χρείας ὑπηρετῶν, Josephus ὑπηρετὰς χειροτονητὰς, Curatores per manuum aut elevationem electos, aut impositionem ordinatos. * Hær. Ebion.

§ 5. Nec est, quod hâc in re * Andreas Rivetus Hugonis Grotii manibus litem intenderet, ex eo tantùm, quòd productis tabulis non probaverit, Ἄζανται in Synagogis, Præfectos esse ut ministrarent mensis, cùm illud oculatis omnibus palàm sit, διακονία τραπέζων, Act. 6. 1. nihil aliud quàm χηρῶν, viduarum, & indigentium omnium ὑστερήσεων indigitari, adeóque ipsum Ταζοφυλάκων munus; quod in Corbanæ custodiâ, & alendi pauperes curâ, ἴδιος versabatur. Quibus & illud fortassis addendum erit, eo ipso Actorum loco voce [διαδιωκῶν] ad Judæorum חזנים respici, quos à radice חזה vidit, sic dictos scimus, eámque per διωκεῖν non semel redditam esse. * Grot. discuss. Riv. p. 1474.

§. 6. De his Hebræorum חזנים notabile (inter alia multa) illud Judæorum dictum, sub ἀλλόφυλος, aut cædis Hierosolymitanæ tempore, Sapientum (i. e. Doctorum) eruditionem in eam quæ Azanitis, Azanitarum verò in eam quæ Notariis competebat, degenerasse. Ubi, ut in Synagogâ Archisynagogis Doctores, sic Doctoribus חזנים immediatè subordinari, iísque demum Scribas aut Notarios apparet, ut & in Ecclesiâ, Episcopis Presbyteri, Presbyteris Diaconi, & Diaconis etiam ὑποδιάκονοι adjungebantur.

§. 7. Ex his constat, quid de Diaconis, cùm post Episcopos & Presbyteros, tertio demum loco subsistentes reperiantur (quod in Scripturis sacris nunquam factum) censendum sit; Quid verò, cùm Episcopis immediatè subnectantur, adhuc dubitari potest.

§. 8. Et primò, illud in comperto est, quod ex Epiphanio notavimus, νῦν ὄντως κηρύγματος; in primâ Evangelii prædicatione, ὅπου τῆς ἐκκλησίας λαζόντος τὸ πλήρωμα τῆς οἰκουμένης, vel cùm Ecclesia εἰς ἴδιον μέγεθος nondum pervenissèt, idoneos ubique reperios non esse, qui ad secundarii Presbyteratûs officium, citrà omnem præcipuè necessitatem (paucis adhuc ad Fidem conversis) admitterentur; ideóque Episcopo in qualibet civitate contentos fuisse, ei Diacono tantùm, aut unico, aut pluribus adjunctis, διὰ πλῆθος ὑπηρεσίαν, qui illi ministrarent, aut inservirent, ἀνὰ ὃν ἔδει τοσοῦτον ἀριθμὸν εἶναι, sine quibus Episcopus esse nequibat.

§. 9. Tales autem infimi gradus ministri, inter hos mediocritatis terminos se per spatium aliquod continentes, tandem, cùm probè hoc munere defuncti fuerint, (καλῶς διακονήσαντες, inquit Apostolus, 1 Tim. 3. 13.) παρὰ τοῖς ἄνω ἑλίσσονται, inquiunt Scholiastæ, καλὸν ἑαυτοῖς, inquit Apostolus, βαθμὸν περιποιοῦνται, bonum sibi, i. e. excelsiorem, vel Episcopalem in Ecclesiâ gradum (sic Clemens Πέτρου διάκονον, ei in Cathedrâ Episcopali Romæ successit) acquisituri erant, (interea in hoc infimi ordinis Ecclesiastici gradu, Episcopis inservituri.) Quò & illud spectat, quùm addatur [καὶ πολλὴν παῤῥησίαν ἐν πίστει] Παῤῥησία enim inter alia ἔξοδον notari affirmat Hesychius, ideóque hîc à Theophylacto explicatur per ἐνδοξοτέρους γενέσθαι, & ἐκκλησίᾳ λάμπειν, ἐν πρεσβυτερικῷ βαθμῷ ἢ ἐπισκοπικῷ, honoratiores fieri, & in Ecclesiâ splendere, in Presbyterano, & Episcopali gradu.

§. 10. Et ita quidem de isto ad Philipp. loco pronunciandum esse prædiximus. De altero verò ad Timotheum multò magis. Ubi cùm de Episcopo & Diacono leges aut regula Timotheo ferantur, qualiter imbutos esse oportuit, qui ad duos istos gradus promovendi erant, nihilque de Presbyteris hac in re adjiciatur, (cùm tamen in omnibus ad Ecclesiam pertinentibus se eum instituendum curasse affirmaverit, 1 Tim. 3. 14, 15, &c.) commodissima facti ratio cuivis constat, nullos quippe adhuc, scribente Apostolo, Presbyteros medioxumos institutos fuisse.

CAP.

CAP. XXVII.

Πρεσβῦται, πρεσβύτιδες, Tit. 1. & 2. cum 1 Tim. 3. comparata. Πρεσβύται non de senibus simpliciter intelligendi, sed de Ecclesiasticis. Κατάστημα, κατασὰς, καταλογὰς, ἐν καλοῖς, Ἱερὸς, Ἱερομάρτυς, Ἱερουργία. Pseudo-Ambrosius notatus, Περιβόλαια ἐν Ἐκκλησίᾳ. Σωφρονισταὶ. Ἀρχιάνναι. Canonis Laodiceni explicatio. Χειροτονίας duo genera. Viduarum duo gradus. Diaconissa.

§. 1. HIS de Diaconis sic propositis, adjicienda videntur, quæ in Epistolâ ad Titum de πρεσβύταις dicuntur, simúlque, ut γυναῖκας ad Timotheum, sic πρεσβυτίδας ad Titum mentio, factâ breviter inter 1 Tim. 3. & Tit. 1. & 2. comparatione, elucidanda.

§. 2. Quæ de Episcopo constituendo ad Timotheum dicebantur, oportere eum ἀνεπίλημπτον εἶναι, μιᾶς γυναικὸς ἄνδρα, &c. 1 Tim. 3. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7. ea planè omnia ad Titum iisdem ferè verbis posita reperimus. Δεῖ τὸν ἐπίσκοπον ἀνέγκλητον εἶναι, &c. Tit. 1. 6, 7, 8, 9. Eodem ferè modo, quo de instituendis Israëlitarum præfectis Moses à socero instruitur, Exod. 18. 21.

§. 3. Pari itidem modo, quod ad Timotheum de Diaconis præcipitur, v. 8. διακόνους ἀνεπιλήπτους σεμνὰς, μὴ διλόγους, μὴ οἴνῳ πολλῷ προσέχοντας, μὴ αἰσχροκερδεῖς, ἔχοντας τὸ μυστήριον τῆς πίστεως ἐν καθαρᾷ συνειδήσει, idem ferè ad Tit. c. 2. 2. de πρεσβύταις mandatur, πρεσβύτας νηφαλίους εἶναι, σεμνὰς, σώφρονας, ὑγιαίνοντας τῇ πίστει, τῇ ἀγάπῃ, τῇ ὑπομονῇ. Tandémque quod δεῖ γυναικὰς ad Tim. 3. 11. γυναῖκας ὡσαύτως σεμνὰς, μὴ διαβόλους, νηφαλίους, πιστὰς ἐν πᾶσι, idem etiam δεῖ πρεσβυτίδας, ad Tit. 2. 3. πρεσβύτιδας ὡσαύτως ἱεροπρεπεῖς, μὴ διαβόλους, μὴ οἴνῳ πολλῷ δεδουλωμένας, καλοδιδασκάλους, ἵνα σωφρονίζουσι τὰς νέας, &c.

§. 4. Hîc illud unicum cavendum est, ne (quod quibusdam placuisse video) aut πρεσβύται de senibus quibuscunque, aut γυναῖκες de διακόνων uxoribus, aut πρεσβυτίδες de vetulis promiscuè omnibus (& νέαις oppositis) intelligendi censeantur.

§. 5. Quod ad πρεσβύτας attinet, manifestum est eos intelligi, qui ad munus aliquod Ecclesiasticum ordinabantur, quorum igitur approbandorum & constituendorum regulas eadem, quas Timotheo Asiæ Præposito, hîc itidem Tito (ad id Cretæ relicto, c. 1. 5.) proponit Apostolus, (cùm de Junioribus, i. e. fratribus, vel fidelibus Laicis, hoc tantùm adjiciat, monendos à Tito esse, ut sobrios se præstent, v. 6.) Sic in Commentariis sub Hieronymi nomine, Senes, inquit, ætate & ordine possunt intelligi, Ecclesiæ præcipuè Seniores.

§. 6. Illud etiam ab ipso πρεσβυτὴς nomine fortassis colligendum erat. Πρεσβύτης enim in positivo, ad comparativum πρεσβύτερος, v. 5. ut inferior ad superiorem gradum referri putandus est.

§. 7. Illud clariùs eluceseet, si ad (iis adjunctas) πρεσβυτίδας accedamus, quas ab Antiquorum non nemine Presbyteras dictas esse Baronius memorat.

§. 8. Has hîc à Paulo disertè πρεσβυτίδας ἐν καταστήματι nuncupatas videmus.

§. 9. Quid sit κατάστημα, ex voce καθιστάνειν, de Episcoporum, & Diaconorum ordinationibus usurpatâ, Tit. 1. 5. Act. 6. 3. (unde Suidæ κατασὰς (sensu passivo, constitutus, creatus, ut apud * Polycratem, πέμπτος κατασὰς διάκονος. Publius Episcopus creatus) προχειρισθεὶς redditur, & καθίστατο, ἐπιμελεῖτο, ἐφέστηκε de curâ aut officio cuivis commisso) petendum videtur; sic ut à καταλέγειν, de Electionibus Ecclesiasticis usurpato, κατάλογος ἁπλῶς sumptus, & quandoque ἱερὸς κατάλογος Ecclesiasticum album aut Matriculam denotat.

* Euseb. Eccl. Hist. l. 4. c. κγ'.

§. 10. Quidni igitur [πρεσβυτίδας ἐν καταστήματι] idem sonet, quod οἱ, aut αἱ ἐν κλήρῳ; quâ φράσει sacris ordinibus imbutos quoslibet significari omnes norunt.

§. 11. At, si ista cuivis non arriserint, si, ut apud Ignatium ad Trall. Episcopi κατάστημα habitum σεμνὸν significare videtur, sic & hîc definiendum videatur de γυναικῶν καταστήματι, Eadem nihilominus conclusio ex sequenti [ἱεροπρεπεῖς] firmabitur, quam (iidem qui κατάστημα ἀμφίασιν, indumentum reddunt) per [ἁγίαις ἀφιέρωσαι ὑπηρεσίαις] exponunt scholiastæ; ἱερὸς enim de Ecclesiasticis dici solet, nec de sanctitate quavis, sed de separatione ad officia, aut usus sacros, quemadmodum ἱερομάρτυς Clerico-Martyr, non tantùm à μεγαλομάρτυς Heroe, καλλιμάρτυς virgine, sed & ab ἀνομάρτυς quovis de plebe fidelium martyre distinguitur, ideóque, quibus ἱεροφάντεια præcipitur, eæ ordinibus sacris initiatæ censendæ sunt.

§. 12. Sic in Commentariis Pseudo-Ambrosii, Anus, inquit, in statu religione digno] malè quidem, quod ἱεροπρεπεῖ in tertio, pro ἱεροπρεπεῖς in quarto casu legendum putaverit, at rectè, quòd ἱεροπρεπὴς Religione dignum reddiderit, religione functionem sacram denotante.

* Ad quam sedem eliguntur. Tertull. de Veland. Virgin. quia scilicet certam sedem habeant in Ecclesiâ.

§. 13. Sic & Canon 11. Concilii Laodiceni, Μὴ δεῖν τὰς λεγομένας πρεσβυτίδας, ἤτοι * προκαθημένας ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ, καθίζεσθαι. Ubi προκαθήμενοι ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ] Ecclesiastici muneris Character est, imò Præfecturæ cujusdam titulus (qualiter apud Athenienses σωφρονισταὶ, Ἄρχοντες χειροτονητοὶ, inquit Phavorinus, ἐπιμελούμενοι τῆς ἧβῆ ἐφήβων σωφρονύνης, ut & apud Lacedæmonios Ἀρμόσυνοι) quatenus ad eas pertineret † σωφρονίζειν τὰς νέας, v. 4.

† Viduæ vel sanctimoniales, quæ ad baptizandarum mulierum ministerium eliguntur, tam ad officium instructæ sint, ut possint apto & sano sermone docere imperitas & rusticas mulieres, quo tempore baptizandæ sunt, qualiter baptizatori respondeant, & accepto baptismate vivant, Con. Carth. 4. 12. Diaconissæ mulieres in suo sexu ministrare videntur in baptismo, sive ministerio verbi: quia privatim docuisse fœminas invenimus. Sicut Priscillam— Hieron. in Rom. 16. Diaconissas in baptismo seu ministerio verbi mulieribus ministrare, sedulius in Rom. 16.

§. 14. Cùm verò de his, isto Laodiceno canone, statuatur, μὴ δεῖν καθίζεσθαι, eas ordinandas non esse, sic sine dubio intelligendus est Canon, ut solennis, quæ aliis insignioribus in Ecclesiâ gradibus competat, per manuum impositionem ordinatio, iis non competeret; Duo enim χειροτονίας genera fuisse ait * Tharasius, εὐλογίας, & χειροτονίας, seu καθιερώσεως, has per εὐλογίαν, non per χειροτονίαν, per benedictionem Episcopi, non per ordinationem, aut consecrationem constitutas esse.

* Concil. Nic. 2. Can. 1.

§. 15. Quâ

§. 15. Quâ de re Concilii Epaunensis Canon 21. Viduarum consecrationem, quas Diaconas vocant, penitus abrogamus, solùm eis pœnitentiæ benedictionem imponendo. Quod contra Catophrygarum hæresin cautum erat, qui, ut Montani Prophetissis faverent, mulieres, ad prædicandum, & docendum in Ecclesiâ, ordinari, & consecrari voluerunt. De quibus Commentarii Ambrosio adscripti in 1 Tim. 3. Catophrygæ erroris occasionem capiantes, propter quod Diaconas mulieres aliquibus, & ipsas Diaconas ordinari debere defendunt, &c. sed Apostoli verbis contrà sensum accipiunt Apostoli, ut etiam ille mulierem in Ecclesiâ in silentio esse debere præcipiat, illi è contrà, etiam docturas mulieres in Ecclesiâ ministerii.

§. 16. Ex quibus patet, illud solum ministerium illis vetitum esse, ne mulieribus his τὸ κηρύσσειν ἔσται, (τὸ ἐφεξῆς ἐξαπλοῦσθαι, ait Canon Nicænus 19. & quibus διακονία θεοῦ ἐνεργήσει, inquit Theodosius Imp. Concil.) ministrandi, i. e. prædicandi in Ecclesiâ authoritas (Paulino tacendi præcepto è diametro opposita) multo minus sacramenta administrandi (ἱερατεύειν ait * Epiphanius) cœnam Dominicam conficiendi facultas permitteretur, & exinde ne per χειροτονίας (qualiter ii, quibus hæc munera competebant) in Ecclesiam admitterentur. * Hær. 79.

§. 17. De his πρεσβύτισι aperte * Epiphanius, Παρεκτρεπόν ἦν ἔν ἄχει διακονισσῶν τὸ ἐκκλησιαστὸν ἐπιδιδόναι τάγμα, χήρας τε οὐδαμῶς, καὶ τούτων τὰς ὑπογεγηρακυίας πρεσβύτιδας. Ubi hunc πρεσβυτίδων ordinem, viduis (de quibus alibi Apostolus) superiorem esse pronuntiat. Duos quippe viduarum (ἢ ἐν χήραις ἐξαπλοῦσθαι, earum quæ in habitu numerantur, Concil. Nicen. Can. 19.) gradus fuisse, juniorum, quæ simpliciter χήραι, γεγοτέρων, quæ ἰδίως πρεσβύτιδες nuncupabantur. * Hær. 79.

§. 18. Sic & de mulieribus ad Tim. affirmant Commentarii * Hieronymo adscripti, Similiter tot, ut Diaconos eligi jubet; unde intelligitur, quòd de his dicat, quas adhuc hodiè Diaconissas in oriente appellant. * In 1 Tim. 3. 2.

§. 19. Quod & de πρεσβύτισι, aliis visum esse fatetur, qui aliter ipse sentiebat, * Theophylactus, Τινὲς τὰς ἐν ἐκκλησίᾳ διακόνους φασὶν, ἃς ἂν αὐτῇ ἡ ἀμφιέσεως ἀπειρία φαίνοιτο ἐφεπομένη, τούτους, ἢ ἐφεξῆς πρεσβύτους ὀνομάζειν, Diaconissas in Ecclesiâ aliqui hîc intelligi dicunt, quas ipse amictu ad sanctitatem composito, tali scilicet, qui sacris ministrantes decet, uti jubet Apostolus. Et de istis hactenus. * In Tit. 2. 3.

DISSER-

DISSERTATIO QUINTA.

De omnibus Clementis Romani, aliorumq; primi ævi Scriptorum locis, quæ ad Regiminis Ecclesiæ formam pertinent.

CAP. I.

Clemens Romanus quis fuerit. Romanorum Episcoporum series ad Irenæi tempora. Hegesippi, & Hieronymi testimonium; Quæstio an primus, an tertius, an quartus post Petrum Clemens, Epiphanii testimonium. Paulus & Petrus Romanam Ecclesiam fundabant. Testimonium Gaii, Dionysii. Duo Romæ cœtus, Judæorum & Gentilium. Petro Clemens, Paulo Linus successit. Idem Antiochiæ factum. Evodius & Ignatius. Ignatius ab Apostolis constitutus Episcopus. Idem Ephesi, Johannes & Timotheus. Idem Corinthi, Paulus & Cephas. Constitutio de uno in civitate Episcopo post nata. Idem fortè Hierosolymis. Quindecim Episcoporum successiones, à Christo ad Adriani obsidionem. Hugonis Grotii testimonium de duobus Hierosolymæ conventibus.

§. 1. POst omnes Sacri Codicis periochas, quæ ad hanc materiam pertinere videntur, leviter perlustratas, Ad primi ævi scriptores, adeóque primo loco ad Clementis Romani ad Corinthios Epistolam accedamus, De ipso imprimis paucula præfati.

§. 2. Hunc Pauli συνεργὸν, διάκονον Petri, tandémque Episcopum Romanum fuisse ex [a] Paulo, [b] Ignatio, [c] Irenæo, & Antiquorum omnium constanti affirmatione discimus. Ideóque [d] Apostolicum virum, [e] Apostolorum Comitem, imò [f] Apostolum nuncupatum esse prædixmus.

§. 3. De eo, & hâc ejus Epistolâ à [g] Romanâ Ecclesiâ ad Corinthios, ad acerrimam [h] ζῆλον inter ipsos sedendam missâ, loquatur præ aliis [i] Irenæus qui simul Romanorum Episcoporum seriem ad ipsius tempora ab Apostolis deducit, Θεμελιώσαντες, inquit, καὶ οἰκοδομήσαντες οἱ μακάριοι Ἀπόστολοι τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, Λίνῳ τὴν τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς λειτουργίαν ἐνεχείρησαν, διαδέχεται αὐτὸν [k] Ἀνέγκλητος, μετὰ τοῦτον τρίτῳ τόπῳ ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων τὴν ἐπισκοπὴν κληροῦται Κλήμης, ὁ καὶ ἑωρακὼς τοὺς μακαρίους Ἀποστόλους, καὶ συμβεβληκὼς αὐτοῖς, καὶ ἔτι ἐναυλον τὸ κήρυγμα ἔχων καὶ τὴν παράδοσιν ἀφ' ὑφαλμοῦ ἔχων ὁ μόνος· ἔτι γὰρ πολλοὶ ὑπελείποντο ὑπὸ Ἀποστόλων διδαχθέντες· ἐπὶ τούτου ἐν τῷ Κλήμεντος στάσεως οὐκ ὀλίγης τοῖς ἐν Κορίνθῳ γενομένης ἀδελφοῖς, ἐπέστειλεν ἡ ἐν Ῥώμῃ ἐκκλησία ἱκανωτάτην γεγραφὼ τοῖς Κορινθίοις, εἰς εἰρήνην συμβιβάζουσα αὐτοὺς, καὶ ἀνανεοῦσα τὴν πίστιν αὐτῶν, καὶ ἣν νεωστὶ ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων παράδοσιν εἰλήφει. Τούτῳ Κλήμεντι τῷ τὸν διαδοχὴν Εὐάρεστος, καὶ τὸν Εὐάρεστον Ἀλέξανδρος, εἶθ' οὕτως ἑκτὸς ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων κληροῦται Ξύστος, μετὰ ὃν τοῦτον Τελεσφόρος, ὃς καὶ ἐνδόξως ἐμαρτύρησεν, ἔπειτα Ὑγῖνος, εἶτα Πίος, μεθ' ὃν Ἀνίκητος, διαδεξαμένου τὴν Ἀνίκητον Σωτὴρος, νῦν δωδεκάτῳ τόπῳ τὴν τῆς ἐπισκοπὴν ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων κεκλήρωκε κλῆρον Ἐλεύθερος, &c. Clarissima, & illustrissima singularium Episcoporum series, ab Apostolis fundatoribus, per Linum, Cletum, (vel Anacletum) Clementem, Evarestum, Alexandrum, Xystum, Telesphorum, Hyginum, Pium, Anicetum, Soterem ad duodecimum Eleutherium, Irenæi ætate superstitem, deducta.

§. 4. Eadem etiam ab Hegesippo, hoc ipso tempore historiam suam adornante, &, ut ait * Eusebius, ὀλίγα τῆς κατὰ τῶν ἀπὸ τῶν Ἀποστόλων ἀκοὴν διαδοχῆς, sub primâ Apostolorum successione vivente, à Novatorum omnium calumniis vindicatur. † Γενόμενος, inquit, ἐν Ῥώμῃ διαδοχὴν ἐποιησάμην μέχρι Ἀνικήτου, οὗ διάκονος ἦν Ἐλεύθερος, καὶ ἐπὶ Ἀνικήτου διαδέχεται Σωτὴρ, μεθ' ὃν Ἐλεύθερος, &c. quod idem ἐν ἑπτὰ διαδοχαῖς

a Phil. 4. 3.
b Ep. ad Trall.
c L. 3. c. 3. Euſ. l. 5. c. 6. Hieron. Catal. & in Iſ. 52.
d Hier. in Iſ. 52.
e Hier. in Interp. Com. Orig. in Ep. ad Rom.
f Clem. Al. Strom. l. 4.
g Ὡς ἀπὸ τῆς Ῥωμαίων ἐκκλησίας τῇ Κορινθίων διεπυπώσατο Κλήμης, Euſeb. l. 3. c. 15'.
h De hac cæſa Hegeſip. Euſ. l. 3. c. 15'. l. 4. c. κβ'.
i L. 3. c. 3. Euſ. 4. c. 6.
h Epiphanio aliiſque Κλητὸς vocatus.
* L. 2. c. κγ'.
† Euſ. l. 4. c. κβ'.

καὶ ἐν ἑκάστῃ πόλει ὅπως ἔχειν, in unaquaque civitate, & Episcoporum successione, eodem modo se habere confirmat, & exinde τὰς τῶν αἱρέσεων ἀρχὰς, hæresium origines, quatenus his Apostolicæ doctrinæ propagatoribus se opposuerint, deducit.

§. 5. Idem etiam ab Hieronymo didicisse non gravabitur, quisquis Hieronymo Authore Presbyteranam ἱστορίαν amplexus est; Clemens, * inquit ille, quartus post Petrum Romanus Episcopus, siquidem Linus secundus fuit, tertius Anacletus, tametsi plerique Latinorum, secundum post Petrum putent fuisse Clementem. * Catal. Eccl. script.

§. 6. De re ipsa mirus omnium consensus, Clementem Romæ Episcopum fuisse, eúmque singularem; at quo ordine aut loco successerit, seu secundo, seu quarto post Petrum, seu demum τρίτῳ τόπῳ ἀπὸ Ἀποστόλων, magnis, ut videtur, authoribus diversa placuere. Ab Hieronymo quartus, ab Irenæo tertius, à Latinis, i. e. * Tertulliano, & reliquo satis prolixo comitatu, secundus illi assignatur, ut & ab authore Constitutionum. * De præscr.

§. 7. In hac tantâ scriptorum antiquorum varietate, non dicam inconstantiâ, non gravabimur hîc quædam, licèt extra orbitam, breviter proponere, rémque non ita omnibus notatam paucis diluci-dare, facto initio ab Epiphanii verbis, quatenus ea cum Irenæo satis pulchrè concordant, ei itidem lucem non minimam allatura, l. 1. adverſ. Carpocra. Ἐν Ῥώμῃ, inquit, γεγόναμεν Πέτρος καὶ Παῦλος, οἱ Ἀπόστολοι αὐτοὶ, καὶ ὁμόσκοποι, εἶτα Κλητὸς, εἶτα Κλήμης. Hic quod ab Irenæo de beatis Apostolis, illud ab Epiphanio de Petro, Paulóque, disertè Apostolis & Episcopis dictis, affirmatum videmus, ab utroque scilicet ἁμιλιωθεῖσαν, καὶ οἰκοδομηθεῖσαν, fundatam Ecclesiam Romanam, & ædificatam esse.

§. 8. Magna quidem non ita pridem inter doctos viros orta & in utramque partem disceptata controversia est, an Petrus & Paulus unum idémque Ecclesiæ Romanæ caput constituerint, cui Episcopus Romanus postmodum successerit, (μονάμπυξ συνωείδι) an demum uni Petro Primatus & Cathedra imputanda, & vindicanda sit. Nolo me liti isti immiscere, paucis tantummodo intercessurus, quæ omnem litigantibus materiam, omnem antiquorum scriptis ἐναντιοφάνειαν præripiant.

§. 9. Utrosque, Paulum & Petrum, Apostolos, Romæ fidem Christi inseviisse, & sanguine suo obsignasse, præter prædicta Irenæi, & Epiphanii suffragia, præter ipsam κοιμητηρίων ἀρχαιότητα, inscriptionem in cœmeteriis ipsorum, εἰς τὸ δεῦρο, inquit * Eusebius, κρατήσασαν, ad ipsius adhuc tempora permanentem, his duobus testimoniis extra dubium ponetur. * Euſ. hiſt. Ec. l. 2. cap. 25.

§. 10. Primò Γαΐος ἐκκλησιαστικὸς ἀνὴρ satis antiquus, Zephyrini Episcopi σύγχρονος apud Eusebium, l. 2. c. 25. de Pauli & Petri monumentis verba faciens, ea τροπαῖα τῶν τοιούτων ἱδρυσαμένων ἐκκλησίαν appellat. Sic & secundò * Dionysius Corinthiorum Episcopus, (annis post ipsorum exitum 20.) in Ep. ad Rom. Romanam æquè ac Corinthiorum Ecclesiam τῶν ἀπὸ Πέτρου καὶ Παύλου φυτείαν γενομένην affirmat. Hæc verò ab illis non incommodè, sed, secundum rei gestæ Historiam, exactissimè affirmata esse, constabit illicò, si unicum illud recolatur, non Gentiles tantùm, sed Judæos Romæ fuisse, Eos quidem satis inter se dissitos, ante fidei prædicationem, nec subitò in eundem cœtum compingendos. Eodem igitur tempore, quo Petrus (ὁ θεῖος Ἀπόστολος) Judæis, Paulus etiam (ἀποστολικῆς ἐξουσίας Ἀπόστολος) Gentilibus ἐν ἰδίῳ μαθήματι Romæ prædicabat, εἰσπορευομένους εἰς αὐτὸν ἀπροσκόπως, Act. 28. 30. postquam Judæorum maxima pars ab eo discesserant, v. 29. * Ibid.

§. 11. Hoc uno prælibato, Illud statim sequitur, quod ex * Ignatio laudat Walo, Linum Paulo, Clementem Petro seorsim adjunctos Diaconos fuisse, qui, cùm per aliquod tempus χηλῶς διηκόνησαν, Apostolis tandem in Episcopatu succedebant, Linúsque Gentilium Romæ fidelium, Clemens Judæorum Episcopus creabatur. * Ep. ad Trall.

§. 12. Exhinc prima ista scriptorum varietas exorta est, dum alii Petro, alii Paulo Romanæ Ecclesiæ Originem imputaverint, sed utrique eorum rectissimè Epiphanius.

§. 13. Exhinc secunda varietas, dum alii Linum, alii Clementem, primum post Apostolos Romæ Episcopum statuerint, singulis quidem id quod res est affirmantibus, sed diverso respectu (& sic ut nobis rerum gestarum ignaris, erroris quandoque ansam porrexerint) Lino quidem Paulo, Clemente Petro succedente, tandémque post Lini & Anacleti (vel Cleti) exitum, sublato omni discrimine, atque in unum Ecclesiæ consessum coalescentibus Judæis & Gentilibus, Clemente simul omnes pascente.

§. 14. Exhinc & tertia varietas de hoc uno Clemente, aliis cum Petro primum, * authore Constitutionum, post Linum, secundum, aliis post Linum Cletúmque, tertium, & inclusivè loquendo, (quod fecisse Hieronymum constat) sic ut Apostolis ipsis primæ deferrentur, etiam quartum successisse affirmantibus. * L. 7. c. 46. Κλήμης μὲν ὁ Λίνου δεύτερος ἐμοῦ Πέτρου δευτέρου χειροτονηθείς.

§. 15. Quod de Romanâ diximus, idem & in Antiochenâ evenisse apparet. In Epistolâ ad Magnesios (licèt in Laurentiano codice non compareat) Antiochena Ecclesia à Petro & Paulo πεδιμελιωθεῖσα fundata dicitur, & in Epistolâ ad Antiochenos satis antiquâ, & à Walone sub Ignatii nomine laudatâ, Vos, inquit, Antiocheni Πέτρου καὶ Παύλου μαθηταὶ γεγόνατε, quod & alii non semel affirmarunt. Id verò sic intelligi debet, ut, quemadmodum Petrus Judæorum Antiochensium, ita Paulus Gentilium, Apostolus fuisse statuatur. Nam Ecclesiæ, vel cœtus Gentilium Antiochensium (sub Paulo ad fidem perductorum) diserta mentio est, Act. 15. 23. ubi Decretalis Epistola Concilii Hierosolymitani, [τοῖς κατὰ Ἀντόχειαν, καὶ Συρίαν, καὶ Κιλικίαν ἀδελφοῖς, τοῖς ἐξ ἐθνῶν] inscripta, hunc ἰδίως Gentilium cœtum indigitat.

§. 16. Quod ex Gal. 2. 9. satis clarè monstrari potest; Ibi enim junxisse dextras Apostoli dicuntur, & pactum iniisse, ut Paulus cum Barnabâ εἰς τὰ ἔθνη, ut ad provinciam ipsorum, Petrus verò (ut & Jacobus Hierosolymorum Episcopus, &, ut statim dicetur, Joannes) ad Judæos; i. e. cùm in unâ aut civitate aut provincia, ubi & Judæi & Gentiles essent, fidem Christi prædicarent, hi ad Gentium Synagogas, illi ad Gentilium ædes privatas se reciperent.

§. 17. Quod ad hanc Antiochiæ civitatem ἰδίως pertinere videmus, v. 11. Ubi Petro Antiochiam venienti, & (ut Judæis Hierosolymitanis, legis Mosaicæ æmulis, licèt ad fidem conversis, gratum faceret, & à se proculcatæ legis scandalum procul arceret) se à Gentilium consortio subtrahenti, v. 12. idémque reliquis Judæorum Antiochensium fidelibus facientibus, Paulus itidem præsens, se κατὰ πρόσωπον in faciem, i. e. coram, & publicè obstitisse profitetur.

§. 18. Postquam verò & Petrus, & Paulus Antiochiâ abscesserant, ad alias Apostolicæ sollicitudinis suæ partes profecti, quid mirum, si, quod Apost. Const. scriptor asserit, Evodius pariter, & Ignatius, alter Petro (in Ecclesia Judæorum) alter Paulo (in parte Gentilium) succederet, utrisque tandem cœtibus, dirutâ divinitùs maceriâ omni, sub Ignatio fœliciter coalescentibus, qui igitur * Origeni & † Eusebio Hom. 4. in Luc. † L. 2. c. 22.

secundus, Hieronymo (iterum inclusivè Apostolos complexo) tertius Antiochiæ Episcopus dicitur, * Athanasio itidem τῶν τὸν Ἀποστόλων καταξιωθεὶς ἐπισκοπῆς, post Apostolos non unum, sed plures) constitutus Episcopus. Quod & † Chrysostomus sic effert, Αἱ ἐκ μαχαιρῶν Ἀποστόλων χεῖρες, &c. eum ab Apostolis (in plurali) creatum Episcopum fuisse, cùm tamen Theodoretus τῆς μεγάλης Πέτρου δεξιᾶς, &c. à magni Petri dextrâ ἀρχιερωσύνης χάριν καταξιωθῆναι, summi sacerdotii, i. e. Episcopatus gratiam accepisse pronunciet. Ita enim rem integram gestam esse, veterum scripta diserte monstrant. De Euodio imprimis illud in voce χειροτονοὶ Suidæ notissimum est, ὅτι χλαυδίου βασιλέως Ῥωμαίων, Πέτρου τοῦ Ἀποστόλου χειροτονήσαντος Εὐόδιον ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ μετονομάζονται οἱ πάλαι λεγόμενοι Ναζωραῖοι, καὶ Γαλιλαῖοι Χειριανοί, Regnante Romæ Claudio, Petro Apostolo Euodium Antiochiæ ordinante Christiani cognominabantur, qui prius Nazores & Galilæi dicebantur. De Ignatio verò illud Pseudo-Clementis, Constit. l. 7. c. 47. testabitur, Ἰγνάτιος ὁ ὑπὸ Παύλου, Ignatius à Paulo Episcopus ordinatus est. Cùm verò in Ignatii Actis à Simeone Metaphraste congestis, Ignatius Euodio successisse dicatur, ut Euodius Petro, Πέτρου μὲν ἦν μέγας Εὐόδιος διάδοχος, Εὐόδιον δ' Ἰσιάπος, accinente itidem Actorum Ignatii vetere Scriptore. Manuscripto, Εὐόδιον γὰρ (Ἰγνάτιος) διαδέξασθαι, cumque illud, ut diximus, ipsius Petri dextra factum esse affirmet Theodoretus [in Ἀφέλῳ] ut & Felix tertius Papa in Epistola ad Zenonem, ἐναυτοφανείαν hic omnem abstulit Johannes Antiochenus in [l. 10.] Chronico, ita rem integram disponens, Ἐν τῷ ἀνελεῖν αὐτὸν (Πέτρον) ἐν τῇ Ῥώμῃ, διερχομένου ἀπὸ δ' Ἀντιοχείας τῆς μεγάλης, συνέβη τελευτῆσαι Εὐόδιον τὸν Ἐπίσκοπον, καὶ Παγκράτιον Ἀντιοχείας, καὶ ἔλαβε τὸ ῥῆμα τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς Ἀντιοχείας μεγάλης Ἰγνάτιος, τοῦ ἁγίου Πέτρου τοῦ Ἀποστόλου χειροτονήσαντος αὐτὸν καὶ ἐνθρονίσαντος. Cum Petrus Romam contenderet, iterque per Antiochiam magnam faceret, Euodium Episcopum & Patriarcham Antiochenum mori contigit, & Ignatius (prius Gentilium Antiochenorum Præfectus à Paulo constitutus) Episcopatum Antiochiæ Magnæ suscepit, (Judaicæ nempe μοίρας, cui vivus præfuerat Euodius) Sanctio Petro Apostolo manus illi imponente, & in solio collocante. Clara itidem omnia, si quis animum adverterit.

* Τὰς αὐτοῦ δεήσεις ἐκκλησίας, l. 3. c. κγ'.
† Vid. Tolieratem ap. Euseb. l. 3. c. 24.

§. 19. Idem etiam Ephesi obtinuisse videtur, ubi præter Gentiles à Paulo conversos, & in manus Timothei traditos, alios posteà è Judæis, sub Sancto Johanne Apostolo (cujus provincia Judæi ex pacto erant, Gal. 2. 9. & illi quidem per Asiam, ut ex * Eusebio ubique patet, universam, præcipuè verò Ephesi, † ubi diem obiit, degentes) post ejus ab exilio reditum, in sacros cœtus collectos fuisse constabit, si adeatur Eusebius, l. 3. c. κγ'. Idque ex antiquâ φιλοδοσει affirmat constitutionum author, τῆς δ' Ἐφέσου Τιμόθεος μὲν ἀπὸ Παύλου, Ἰωάννης δ' ὑπὸ ἐμοῦ Ἰωάννου χειροτονηθέντα. Ephesi quidem Timotheus à Paulo, Johannes verò à Johanne Episcopus ordinatus est.

§. 20. Idem ferè de Corintho credendum suadet, Dionysii, antiquissimi Corinthiorum Episcopi, priùs laudatum testimonium, qui Corinthum, æquè ac Romam, non Pauli tantùm, sed & Petri φυτείαν plantationem fuisse affirmat. Paulus nempe Gentiles Corinthi repertos (tales Crispus, Gaius, Stephanæ integra familia) ad fidem vocatos baptizavit, 1 Cor. 1. 14, 16. Judæos itidem nonnullos ἔπειθε, Act. 18. 4. qui tamen (ex potiori eorum parte) ἀντιπάσσοντο obsistebant, & blasphemabant, v. 6. & exinde Paulus se ad Gentiles solos recipiebat. Judæis verò Cephas, i. e. Petrus Evangelium prædicavit, ut patet 1 Cor. 1. 12. & 3. 22. & hæc duplex φυτεία, statim (licèt non in diversos cœtus sub diversis Episcopis, tamen) in partes perquam dissitas μεριζομένη discessit, c. 1. 13. & ex hac ipsâ duplici plantatione (uno dicente, Ego sum Pauli, c. 3. 4. & altero esse se ex parte Cephæ affirmante, v. 22.) omnes illæ notissimæ ἔριδες, & διχοστασίαι, inter fideles ortæ sunt. Quod quum à proximis Apostolorum successoribus, idem ubique docente experientiâ, satis animadversum esset, tunc demum toto orbe decretum est, ut ad unum ubique in singulis civitatibus Episcopum res tota deferretur; Quod iis quidem quæ ad Hieronymi sententiam dicenda putavimus, satis commodè addi posset, si iis jam vacaremus.

§. 21. Tunc certè constitutioni isti locus fuit (quam tacito primùm consensu firmatam, dein Canonibus sancitam esse verissimè pronunciavit * D. Blondellus) ἕνα ἐπίσκοπον δεῖν εἶναι ἐν καθολικῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ. Illis enim verbis hunc sensum inesse [in eâdem civitate unicum Episcopum esse oportere, ad quem omnes convenirent, Judæi, Gentésque] vox [καθολικῇ] mihi persuasit, quâ, sub istis temporibus, Gentilium, & Judæorum in Ecclesiâ Christi amicam conjunctionem, intelligi, Apostolorum Symbolum confirmat, ideóque Polycarpum τῆς ἐν Σμύρνῃ καθολικῆς ἐκκλησίας ἐπίσκοπον dici videmus, in Epist. Eccl. Smyrn. apud Euseb. Hoc certè, ante ea à Cornelio prolata verba, tacito consensu jamdiu invaluisse D. Blondello elargiemur, Tandémque Niceno * Canone, contra Novatianos in universum decretum esse, μὴ ἐν τῇ πόλει δύο ἐπίσκοποι ὦσιν, in qualibet civitate unicum tantùm, non plures Episcopos admittendos esse. Quam ad rem qui plura cupit, adeat Notas in Cod. Can. Ecclesiæ Universæ, p. 146. eademque apud D. Blondellum relegat, Apol. p. 189.

* Apol. p. 188.

* Can. 8.

§. 22. Hæc certè de Româ, Epheso, Antiochiâ, Corintho satis manifesta, si etiam Hierosolymis locum habere possent, exinde lucem aliquam tenebris istis, quæ τὰς ἀφ' ἑκάστων Ἱεροσολύμοις ἐπισκόπων χρόνους occupasse dicuntur, exorituram seperarem. Episcoporum enim Hierosolymæ primorum (post Jacobum, & Simeonem usque ad Marcum) tempora σωζόμενα nequaquam se reperisse fatetur * Eusebius, id tantùm ἐξ ἐγγράφων accepisse, A Christo ad obsidionem Judæorum ab Adriano factam, quindecim Episcoporum successiones fuisse, quos, inquit, omnes Hebræos fuisse affirmabatur, Jacobum scilicet, Simeonem, Justum, Zacchæum, Tobiam, Benjaminum, Joannem, Matthiam, Philippum, Senecam, Justum, Levi, Ephræmum, Josephum, Judam, post quem primus è Gentibus Marcus sedere cœpit.

* L. 4. c. ε'.

§. 23. Ex hâc βεκκείων, ut Eusebio visum est, historiâ, mirum est quàm sibi prolixas tragœdias exordiendi occasionem arripuerit * D. Blondellus, ut sic ὑποθέσει suæ de πρωτοχειροτονηθέντων φυγαδείᾳ inserviret. Eæ quidem tanti non sunt, ut hîc Lectori extra orbitam, & ad nauseam proponantur. Verùm si conjecturæ (in re obscurâ) non adeò improbabili locus, aut venia sperari posset, non gravarer ego ἔφαρον, aut symbolam meam hîc adjicere; scilicet ut alibi, sic & Hierosolymis, post excidii saltem sub Tito tempora, Gentilibus jam tum non paucis civitatem occupantibus, & ad fidem demum Christi conversis, suum à Judæis disterminatum cœtum fuisse, cui licèt, ad Marci illius tempora, Hebræi Episcopi præsiderent (eodem planè exemplo, quo & Paulus, Hebræus ipse ex Hebræis, Romæ, Antiochiæ, Corinthi, Ephesi, Gentiles ad fidem à se vocatos aliquandiu gubernabat, & quo Timotheus, circumcisus & ipse, Gentilibus Ephesinis præponebatur) poterant tamen Hebræi fideles ut aliis multis, sic & ipsâ, quâ utebantur, linguâ ad alienigenis disjuncti, (præsertim cùm ab ipsis Hellenistis, i. e. Græcè loquentibus Judæis quadantenus diversi essent, Act. 6. 1.) suum etiam cœtum separatum, atque à Gentium fidelibus distinctum, sub Episcopo suo usque servare.

* Præf. p. 14.

§. 24. Qua

§. 24. Quâ in re, conjecturæ nostræ suffragium suum tulisse Hugonem Grotium, † πάνυ, ex annotationibus posthumis ad Apoc. 11. 3. nuper editis, & postquam hæc omnia Typographo transmissa essent, cursim perlectis edoctus gratulor. Sic enim ille, de duobus testibus. Duo Christianorum genera ex multitudine Æliam deductâ exstiterunt, ex Judæis orta & alienigenis, Qui cum diversâ linguâ loquerentur, Judæi Hebraicâ, alienigenæ Græcâ, necessariò & duos fecere conventus, sive Ecclesias, Hîc duo illi conventus (putarim potius Episcopi horum conventuum) vocantur testes duo, quia illustre Deo testimonium præbebant. Et quia facti ex Judæis Christiani opponebant se aliorum Judæorum vitiis, sicut olim Moses fecerat, ideò Mosi comparantur, & quia vocati ex Gentibus idololatriam oppugnabant, ideò Eliæ comparantur, qui Idololatriam & olim destruxerat.——Tempus autem hîc expressum terminatur, in principio motus Judaici, qui fuit sub Adriano. Atque inde futurum erit, ut quindecim isti à Christo ad Adrianum excidium Episcopi non in uno Judæorum omnes, sed divisim alii in Judæorum, alii in Gentilium cœtu, aut Ecclesiâ (i. e. in cathedra non unâ, sed geminâ) præsederint. Neque nobis opus erit, ut aut ad Eusebii βεγχροβιότητα, aut ad perpetuam D. Blondelli seniorum præsidentiam confugiamus; Judicent viri docti. Nos interim in orbitam redeamus.

CAP. II.

Epistola ad universam Corinthi περιοχὴν scripta. Corinthus Achaiæ Metropolis, Act. 18. 12. Pauli Epistolæ Corinthiis inscriptæ, ad omnes Achaiæ fideles missæ sunt, 1 Cor. 1. 2. ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ, 1 Cor. 16. 15. c. 3. 6. Act. 18. 27. Rom. 16. 1. & v. 1. & 5. Rom. 15. 26. 2 Cor. 9. 2. & 11. 8. Episcopi singulares Clementis tempore aliquando πρεσβύτεροι dicti. Per singulas Civitates & Regiones Episcopi constituti.

§. 1. ISTis de Authore ipso prælibatis, ita ut ab eo, qui tantæ Civitatis singularis Episcopus fuerit, causæ nostræ valdè timendum non sit, Quædam deinceps de hâc ejus Epistolâ prænoscenda sunt.

§. 2. Primò, Eam ad Corinthios scriptam esse, aut ad Ecclesiam Dei περιοῦσαν Κόρινθον; Eâ φράσει idem sine dubio significatur, quod, cùm à Polycarpo, cum dativo, usurpetur, περιοικέω φιλίπποις, aut, cùm apud Ignatium τόπῳ χωρίῳ Ῥωμαίων, aut hîc ἐκκλησίας Θεοῦ περιούσης Ῥώμην mentio fiat, sic ut ubique πόλις simul, & χώρα significetur, cùm urbe Regio integra (territorium Corintho adjacens) quæ ab Antiquis περιοικὶς dicebatur, & apud * Eusebium, cùm de Dionysio Corinthiorum Episcopo loquatur, ἡ ἐν Κορίνθῳ περιοικὶς. *L. 4. c. 23.

§. 3. Secundò, Hanc Corinthiorum civitatem, Achaiæ, i. e. Græciæ, (Ἀχαΐαν πᾶσαν Ἑλλάδα καλῶ) metropolim fuisse, In quâ siquidem, ut in civitate, πολλῷ πλούτῳ καὶ σοφίᾳ, multâ opulentiâ & sapientiâ superbiente, Achaiæ Proconsul sedem suam figebat, Act. 18. 12. Judicia exercebat, v. 15.

§. 4. Tertiò, Ex his consectaneum esse, ut quæ hîc Ecclesiæ περιούσης Κορίνθου dabatur, Epistola, non ad unius civitatis Ecclesiam, sed ad omnes totius Achaiæ Christianos, per singulas civitates, & regiones, sub Episcopis, aut Præfectis suis, ubique collocatas missa existimetur.

§. 5 Hoc de Pauli ad Corinthios Epistolis omnino pronuntiandum esse, nobiscum statuet, quisquis eas vel leviter degustaverit, (nec igitur de hâc Clementis ambigi poterit, qui ad eos ipsos, qui à Paulo Epistolam receperant, se jam scribere affirmavit.) De posteriori earum, Clarissima Apostoli verba sunt, 2 Cor. 1. 1. τῇ ἐκκλησίᾳ τοῦ Θεοῦ τῇ οὔσῃ ἐν Κορίνθῳ, σὺν τοῖς ἁγίοις τοῖς οὖσιν ἐν ὅλῃ τῇ Ἀχαΐᾳ, Ad Achaicos nempe universos, sub unius Corinthi nomine missam esse; Et in eandem fortè sententiam explicanda est φράσις ista, 1 Cor. 1. 2. [πᾶσιν ἐπικαλουμένοις τὸ ὄνομα Χριστοῦ ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ] omnibus Christianis in omni loco, (non in omni, per universum orbem simpliciter, loco, nec enim Catholicam scripsisse Epistolam censebitur, nec incestuosos concubitus Individuo, ut loquuntur, vago objecisse, 1 Cor. 5. 1. nec ab universâ per omnes mundi plagas sparsâ Ecclesiâ literas, quibus hîc responsum adornaret, c. 7. 1. accepisse, sed) ἐν παντὶ τόπῳ in totâ demum regione, quatenus illa uni Corinthi civitati opponitur, & πᾶσι τοῖς κλίμασι τῆς Ἀχαΐας, omnibus Achaiæ oris æquipollet; A quibus Stephanus, totius Achaiæ ἀπαρχή, 1 Cor. 16. 15. (quod cùm eodem modo de Epæneto affirmetur, Rom. 16. 5. vel de diversis Achaiæ civitatibus explicandum videbitur, sic ut in unâ Stephanus, in aliâ Epænetus fidem Christi primus amplexus sit, vel quòd Epænetus omnium primus, Stephanæ familia, prima familia,) simúlque Fortunatus, & Achaicus, v. 17. omnium in Achaiâ Ecclesiarum nomine (ὑστέρημα, inquit Paulus, αὐτοὶ ἀναπληρώσαντες, & ἀναγγείλαντες αὐτῷ καὶ τὴν ὑμετέραν ἀγάπην καὶ τὴν ἀλλων ἁμαρτημάτων, inquiunt Græci scholiastæ, contentionem, aliáque non pauca, quæ ab eo corripienda erant, flagitia annuntiaturi) ad Apostolum iter susceperant.

§. 6. Sic, quod apud Corinthios fecisse Apollos dicitur, [Ἀπόλλως ἐπότισεν ὑμᾶς] 1 Cor. 3. 6. illud ad totius Achaiæ Christianos spectasse, rei gestæ Historia monstrant, Act. 18. 27. Βουλομένου αὐτοῦ διελθεῖν εἰς τὴν Ἀχαΐαν, cùm in Achaiam profectionem institueret, scripserunt fratres discipulis (non Corinthi tantummodo, sed per universam denuò Achaiam) ut eum alacriter reciperent, Ὃς παραγενόμενος, qui cùm venisset (in Achaiam sine dubio, quam statuebat διελθεῖν) πολὺ συνεβάλετο τοῖς πεπιστευκόσι, iis qui credebant (per universam iterum Achaiam) multùm contulit, inquit Lucas, ἐπότισε, inquit Paulus, glebas omnes, quibus fides priùs inseminata est, irrigavit.

§. 7. Sic in Epistolâ ad Romanos, ἀπὸ Κορίνθου scriptâ, salutant, inquit, vos, in plurali (non quæ Corinthi tantùm erat) ἐκκλησίαι τοῦ Χριστοῦ, c. 16. 16. Sic & τῆς ἐν Κεγχρεαῖς ἐκκλησίας, cujus Phœbe διάκονος, mentio est, Rom. 16. 1. (ne πρὸς κατ' οἶκον αὐτῶν (i. e. Priscillæ & Aquilæ) ἐκκλησίαν, v. 5. adjicere opus sit.)

§. 8. Sic quod in Epistolis ad Corinthios de collectâ in Judæam mittendâ scribit Apostolus, 1 Cor. 16. 1. 2 Cor. 8. & 9. ad totam Achaiam pertinuisse apparet, Rom. 15. 26. Εὐδόκησαν Μακεδονία καὶ Ἀχαΐα κοινωνίαν τινὰ ποιήσασθαι, & 2 Cor. 9. 2. Οἶδα τὴν προθυμίαν ὑμῶν, Novi alacritatem vestram, ὅτι Ἀχαΐα παρεσκεύασται ἀπὸ πέρυσι, Achaia enim jamdiu parata est; Palam est ὑμῶν, i. e. Corinthios, (ad quos Epistola scripta est) & Achaiam ἑτοιμασμένα esse.

§. 9. Sic quod c. 11. 9. dicitur [πρὸν ἐφ' ὑμᾶς, ἢ ὑστεροῦσι ἃ κατενόησα ἐλάχ] ad Corinthum, unicam civitatem, restringendum non esse, sed ad universam Achaiæ Ecclesiam spectare, monstratur, v. 10. ἡ καύχησις αὕτη ἡ φραγήσεται εἰς ἐμὲ ἐν τοῖς κλίμασι τῆς Ἀχαΐας. In re manifestâ pluribus opus non est.

§. 10. Quartò igitur, ex his præmissis patet, cùm in universâ Achaiâ, pluribus civitatibus ad fidem Christi conversis, plures itidem ab Apostolis Episcopi præficerentur, cúmque Episcopi singulares, & ante, & sub, & post Clementis Romani tempora, πρεσβύτεροι etiam nuncuparentur, nihil causæ nostræ officere, si plurium in Epistola ista πρεσβυτέρων mentio reperiatur, nec enim ex ea consequi, quod * D. Blondellus concludendum putavit, [Episcopos qui fraternitati per singulas urbes præfecti sunt, una plures, illosque Presbyteros fuisse,] sed illud tantùm per plures civitates, plures Episcopos, seu in singulis civitatibus singulos, totidem διοικήσεων, aut παροικιῶν singulares Præfectos, ab Apostolis constitutos esse. Illud disertis verbis affirmante Clemente, κατ' χώρας δὲ καὶ πόλεις (quod enim de Chorepiscopis hinc colligit D. Blondellus jamdudum ad examen revocavimus) κηρύσσοντες Ἀπόστολοι καθίσταν τὰς ἀπαρχὰς αὐτῶν, δοκιμάσαντες τῷ πνεύματι, εἰς ἐπισκόπους, &c. eósque sic constitutos, quandóque πρεσβυτέρων, quandoque & frequentius ἐπισκόπων titulo donatos esse.

* Apol. p. 11.

CAP. III.

Occasio Epistolæ. Seditio secunda, à pauculis nullam in Ecclesia dignitatem adeptis, contra Episcopos, eos à sede suâ deturbans. Clementis Interpretatio semel emendata. Contentio hæc in forum erupit. Ἡγούμενοι pro civilibus Magistratibus. Οἰκονόμος πόλεως. Clementis verba sine causâ à D. Blondello mutata. Status hæc pejor eâ, quæ Pauli tempore præcesserat.

§. 1. ISTis sic prælibatis, pauca etiam de occasione hujus Epistolæ subjicienda sunt.

§. 2. Et primò notissimum est, seditionem in Ecclesiâ seu Corinthiacâ, seu, rectiùs, Achaicâ, secundo obortam, hanc nunc Clementi, ut priùs Paulo, Epistolam extorsisse.

§. 3. Secundò, seditionem hanc à pauculis, iisque nullam in Ecclesiâ dignitatem adeptis, contra Episcopos, aut Ecclesiarum Præfectos, excitatam esse, & in tantum profecisse, ut Episcopos ipsos sedibus suis deturbaverit.

§. 4. Hæc singula ex ipsius Epistolæ verbis clarissima redduntur. A pauculis] sic enim Clemens [a] Μιᾶς τάσις, ὧν ὀλίγα πρόσωπα ἀρχηγοὶ καὶ αὐθάδη ἐξήκασιν, &c. &, [b] αἴσχος, ἀγάπητοι, δ' ἂν ἦ δύο πρόσωπα στασιάζειν. Nullam in Ecclesiâ dignitatem adeptis] [c] ἐπηγέρθησαν, inquit, οἱ ἄτιμοι, οἱ νέοι, &c. & [d] postea, καταγνόντες, πνὲς ὑμᾶς ἐλύπησαν—Contra Episcopos, aut Ecclesiarum Præfectos] [e] ἐπὶ τοὺς ἐντίμους, inquit, & ἐπὶ τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους. Episcopos denique à sedibus suis deturbatos esse.] [f] Τοὺς, inquit, καταστάντας ὑπ' ἐκείνων, (i. e. Ἀποστόλων] ἢ μεταξὺ ὑφ' ἑτέρων ἐλλογίμων ἀνδρῶν—καὶ λειτουργήσαντας ἀμέμπτως τῷ ποιμνίῳ τοῦ Χριστοῦ—τούτους δικαίως νομίζομεν ἀποβάλλεσθαι τῆς λειτουργίας, Ab Apostolis, & postea ab aliis illustribus viris (Apostolis nempe secundariis) constitutos, & inculpatè ovili Christi inservientes, non existimamus ministerio suo justè deturbari; & [g] iterum, ἁμαρτία ἐ μικρὰ ἡμῖν ἔσται, ἐὰν τοὺς ἀμέμπτως καὶ ὁσίως προσενέγκοντας δῶρα, τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς ἀποβάλωμεν, ubi quod priùs dicebatur [ἀποβάλλεσθαι τῆς λειτουργίας] jam explicatiùs dicitur [ἀποβάλωμεν τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς] quod ideò sic intelligendum, non ut [τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς] cum [δῶρα] nectatur, reddatúrque [Episcopatus munera offerunt] (quod doctissimo Clementis Interpreti, quomodocunque exciderit, jam certè non placet) sed ut cum verbo [ἀποβάλωμεν] conjunctum, in hanc sententiam dilucidè conspiret, Inculpatos, & pios Ecclesiarum Præpositos, Episcopatu dejectos, & deturbatos esse. Et iterum, Ὁρῶμεν γὰρ ὅτι ἐνίους ὑμεῖς μετηγάγετε καλῶς πολιτευομένους ἐπὶ τῆς ἀμέμπτως αὐτοῖς τετιμημένης λειτουργίας.

a Pag. 21
b Pag. 61.
c Pag. 4.
d Pag. 61.
e Pag. 4. & 61.
f Pag. 59.
g Ibid.

§. 5. Tertiò, Procellam hanc in Ecclesiâ ortam, etiam in forum erupisse, ipsúmque civilem statum sollicitâsse. Hinc est, quòd non solum * ζῆλος καὶ ἔρις, sed & στάσεις καὶ διχογνωμίαι, καὶ ἀκαταστασίαι eos incuset. Hinc obedientiæ τοῖς ἡγουμένοις debitæ mentio; Ubi per ἡγουμένους Magistratus civiles, à Præfectis Ecclesiasticis distinctos, (ἡγουμένους ὑμῶν dictos, cùm illi παρ' ὑμῖν inter vos, in Ecclesiâ vestrâ πρεσβυτέροι dicerentur) ipsos fortassis ad fidem conversos (qualis Erastus ipsius Pauli tempore, οἰκονόμος τῆς πόλεως, Rom. 16. 23. i. e. ὁ ταμιοπώλης καὶ διοικητὴς Κορίνθου, πλούτῳ καὶ ἀξιώματι, opibus & dignitate præcellens, inquit Theophylactus) intelligendos esse (contrà quàm [h] D. Blondellus censet) quamplurima demonstrant. Ut, cùm de Paulo dicatur, quòd [i] μαρτυρήσας ἐπὶ τῶν ἡγουμένων ἀπηλλάγη τοῦ κόσμου, cùm de Jacobo, quòd ab eo orti [k] βασιλεῖς, καὶ ἄρχοντες, καὶ ἡγούμενοι, cùm de Chiliarcho, quòd [l] φαλδόντα τοῖς ἡγουμένοις, cùm Pharaoni adjungantur [m] πάντες ἡγούμενοι Αἰγύπτου, cum simul ponantur [n] πολλοὶ βασιλεῖς καὶ ἡγούμενοι, & jubeantur ἐπιτελεῖν τὰ ὑποτασσόμενα ὑπὸ τῶν βασιλέως, καὶ τῶν ἡγουμένων.

* Pag. 4.
h Apol. p. 12.
i Pag. 8.
k Pag. 4.
l Pag. 48.
m Pag. 67.
n Pag. 70.

§. 6. Quæ omnia hîc recitanda erant, ne quis Ecclesiarum Præfectos, quos Heb. 13. 7. sic appellatos videmus, hîc etiam hâc voce intelligendos esse suspicaretur. Quod ut faceret D. Blondellus, duplici molimine illi opus erat, 1. πρεσβύτεροι (illis postpositi, p. 2.) Seniores, i. e. ætate graves reddendi erant; dein textus Clementis sollicitandus, & pro iis, quæ in vulgato codice sic legimus [ἐν τοῖς νόμοις τοῦ Θεοῦ ἐπορεύεσθε, ὑποτασσόμενοι τοῖς ἡγουμένοις ὑμῶν, καὶ πρέπον τῷ καθήκοντι ἀπονέμοντες τοῖς παρ' ὑμῖν πρεσβυτέροις, νέοις τε μετεῖναι, καὶ σεμνὰ νοεῖν ἐπιτρέπετε] (contra totam contextus seriem, & sine quâvis exemplaris emendatioris πρόφασει) subsistituenda [ἀπονέμειν ἐπιτρέπετε] Adeò nihil non liberè tentabitur, quod ὑποδύσει servire quovismodo videatur.

§. 7. Quartò, Σάσιν hanc eodem ferè fundamento nixam esse, quo ea quæ Sancti Pauli tempore se prodiderat, cùm se Pauli unus, alter Apollo, alter Cephæ discipulum, & sectatorem venditaret; Eâ tamen multò turpiorem (ut & magis cruentam) quòd tunc, inquit Clemens, Apostolis testatissimis viris, Petro, & Paulo, & ἀνδρὶ παρ' αὐτοῖς δεδοκιμασμένῳ, Appollo scilicet, προσεκλίθησαν, nunc verò à duobus, aut tribus vilibus mancipiis, qui sine omni missione se ad clavum Ecclesiæ sistebant, abriperentur.

CAP.

CAP. IV.

Primum Clementis testimonium. Secundum. Episcopi ab Apostolis, ut illi à Christo, Christus à Deo. Iis soli Diaconi adjuncti. Apostoli πνεύματι δοκιμάζοντες eos quos ordinabant. Revelationes Apostolis data. Nemo tunc sine Spiritus dictamine promotus. Matthias, Paulus, Timotheus, 1 Tim. 4. 14. & 1. 18. προφητεία, Act. 20. 28. Asiæ Episcopi.

§. 1. TAndem igitur opportunum erit, Clementem ex professo loquentem, & quibus demum argumentis hæc illis ferocia minuenda erat, monstrantem, audire, simúlque suffragio tanti viri & testimoniis uti, singulis certè ad stabiliendam thesin nostram, non ad destruendam, gnaviter operam daturis.

§. 2. Primum testimonium, * Ἐν τοῖς νόμοις τοῦ Θεοῦ πορεύεσθε, ὑποτασσόμενοι τοῖς ἡγουμένοις ὑμῶν, καὶ τοῖς παρ' ὑμῖν πρεσβυτέροις τιμὴν πρέπουσαν ἀπονέμοντες ——Hîc, ut obedientia ἡγουμένοις, ita debitus honor πρεσβυτέροις Ecclesiarum Præfectis, præstandus, inter Dei leges numeratur. Sic & posteà, Timori isti, qui Domino Jesu Christo, reverentiæ, quæ magistratibus debetur, τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις τιμὴν immediatè subjiciendum curavit; * Τὸν Κύριον Ἰησοῦν Χριστὸν ὑπηρετῶμεν, τὰς ἀποκειμένους ἡμῖν ἀπολαύοντες, τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις ἡμῶν τιμῶντες. * Pag. 2. * Pag. 3.

§. 3. Secundum testimonium, Ἐξεπέμφθη, inquit, ὁ Χριστὸς ἀπὸ Θεοῦ, καὶ οἱ Ἀπόστολοι ἀπὸ τοῦ Χριστοῦ, illi verò εὐηγγελίζοντο, —— Κατὰ χώρας οὖν καὶ πόλεις κηρύσσοντες, κατίστανον τὰς ἀπαρχὰς αὐτῶν, δοκιμάσαντες τῷ πνεύματι, εἰς ἐπισκόπους καὶ διακόνους τῶν μελλόντων πιστεύειν. Hîc ut Christus (magnus Apostolus noster) à Patre, sic Apostoli à Christo, Episcopi ab Apostolis missi dicuntur, iísque, hoc primo Evangelii mane, soli Diaconi adjuncti. His stipati Episcopi, ut olim Levitis Ἀρχιερεῖς, quamprimùm in regione aut civitate quâvis fides reciperetur, ubique constituebantur, Ecclesias nondum natas, sed ad partum (bonis Dei auspiciis) festinantes, brachiis atque ulnis suis susceptúri, & administraturi.

§. 4. Hæc quàm pulchre cum iis, quæ ad Phil. 1. 1. notavimus, & βαδυπάτους, quas laudavit Epiphanius, ἱστορίας conveniant, * prius dictum est. Diss. 4. c. 10.

§. 5. In hoc secundo testimonio, Illud etiam notandum est, Apostolos, cùm Episcopos ordinarent, eos τῷ πνεύματι δοκιμάσαι, Spiritu examinasse, & probasse, i. e. revelationibus edoctos esse, quibus demum hæc dignitas communicanda esset (quod & postea non semel innuitur, cùm Apostoli προγνῶσιν, præcognitionem, i. e. revelationem ἐληφότες τελείαν, hos constituisse, & ἕτεροι δεδοκιμασμένοι, eodem Spiritu approbati, his successisse dicantur. Quod & Mosis exemplo illustrat, qui προέγνω, inquit, Deo revelante, præscivit, Aaroni Sacerdotium obventurum esse, &c.) Nec igitur quempiam sine ipsius Divini Spiritus dictamine ad dignitatem istam promoviisse.

§. 6. Illud de Matthiâ primùm, Act. 1. 24. dein de Paulo & Barnabâ factum novimus, Spiritum quippe sanctum disertè edixisse, ἀφορίσατέ μοι, separate mihi Paulum & Barnabam ad opus, &c. Act. 13. 2. Sic Timotheo χάρισμα illud Episcopalis authoritatis διὰ προφητείας ἐδόθη, 1 Tim. 4. 14. & καὶ πᾶς προαγόμενος ἐπ' αὐτῷ προφητείας, c. 1. 18. per prophetiam, vel prophetias dabatur: quibus rei præsentis (non solùm futuræ) revelationem significari monstrat Paulus, 1 Cor. 14. ubi quod [προφητεύειν] est v. 24. & 31. v. 30. per [ἀποκαλυφθῆναι αὐτῷ τι] explicatur. Videatur Chrysostomus, & Theophylactus ad illa Apostoli ad Timotheum, 1 Ep. c. 4. 14. verba: Τὸ τῆς διδασκαλίας καὶ ἱερωσύνης ἀξίωμα μέγα ὄν, τῆς τοῦ Θεοῦ δωρεᾶς ἦν, ὥστε καὶ ἄξιον δέξασθαι, διὰ τὸ πάλαιον ἀπὸ τῆς προφητείας ἐγίνοντο οἱ ἱερεῖς, τουτέστιν, ἀπὸ τοῦ πνεύματος ἦν ὁ Τιμόθεος ἠρέθη διὰ τὴν ἱερωσύνην. * L. 3. c. 25.

§. 7. Imò non de Timotheo solo (adolescente ad Episcopatum evecto) sed de omnibus Asiæ Episcopis affirmatum videmus, Spiritum sanctum eos gregi ipsorum præfeciisse, Act. 20. 28. Ita quidem de Johanne Apostolo Clemens Alexandrinus apud Eusebium, ad vicinas gentium regiones rogatum iisse, Ὅπου διδασκάλους καταστήσοντα —— ὅπου δή γε κλῆρον ἤδη πνεύματι κληρώσοντα, τοῦτ' ἐστὶν τοῖς πνεύματος σημαινομένοις.

§. 8. Nihil, ad Primorum Episcoporum Authoritatem magis vindicandam, & Apostolis ipsis μικρῷ δεῖν æquandam, ab Apostolico viro, & Episcopo, dici potuit.

CAP. V.

Prima Blondelli conclusio ex hoc secundo Testimonio deducta, examinatur. Tota Blondelli spes de πρωτοπαθεῖ θεσίᾳ concidit. Jacobus & Simeon promoti, ut Christi ἀνέψιοι. Sic Diaconi non ætate, sed merito electi. Καθιστάνειν quid, Act. 6. 3, 6. Blondelli inventum de πρωτοχειροτονηθέντι θεσίᾳ soli Pseudo-Ambrosio innixum. Scripturæ adductæ nihil probant, Act. 1. 21. Andreas primus ad Christum accessit, Philippus πρωτοκλητός, & tamen πρῶτος Simon. Sortes πρωτοκληθέντα non indicant. Concilia frustra advocata, ut & ἀπαρχῶν mentiones in Scripturâ.

§. 1. EX hoc secundo Clementis testimonio quid de Chorepiscoporum antiquitate concludi voluit D. Blondellus, * priùs perpendimus; At & alia itidem tria sunt, quæ (in rem & commodum suum futura) hinc colligenda putavit vir Doctissimus. * Diss. 3. c. 3. §. 17. &c.

§. 2. 1. Apostolos

§. 2. 1. Apostolos primitiis suis, i. e. primis ad fidem vocatis (si modò probabiles essent) Ecclesiastica munera demandare solitos.

2. Binos tantùm Cleri gradus, Episcoporum scilicet, & Diaconorum, hîc recenseri, in Episcopis autem Presbyteros fuisse.

3. Apostolos binorum istorum graduum institutores, non Moysis Septuaginta Seniores cooptantis exemplo, non Synagogæ sacrarii ministros, in Pontificem, Sacerdotes, Levitas distinguentis præscripto, non Christi septuaginta discipulos Apostolis succenturiantis mandato, sed solâ Oraculi prophetici authoritate permotos fuisse.

§. 3. Hæc tria quàm rectè hinc concluſa, & quàm commodè dicta sint, libet paucis disquirere.

§. 4. Ad primum quod attinet, 1. Verum est, & quod Clementis testimonio firmatum agnoscimus, Apostolos, ἀπαρχάς, i. e. primitiis, seu sint illi, ad morem primitiarum legalium, selectissimi ac præstantissimi quique, seu, ut Blondello nimium allubescit, Primi ad fidem vocati, & conversi, Ecclesiastica munera demandâsse.

§. 5. Verùm 2^do^, & illud statim à Clemente, ad modum restrictionis, adjectum est [δοκιμάσαντες τῷ πνεύματι.] Ex hoc igitur æquè concludi debuit, non quosvis ὡς ἔτυχε, primò conversos, sed ipsorum optimos, eosque non nisi à Spiritu destinatos, aut, cùm plures primò conversi fuerint, aliquos tantùm eorum, ex sententiâ Clementis, non omnes, eósque ἰδίως qui à S. Spiritu probati essent, non qui (minutias temporis æstimando) primi omnium primorum crediderant, aut baptizati fuerant, solâ Ordinis, nullâ meriti, aut approbationis divinæ ratione habitâ, Episcopos, & Diaconos constitutos esse.

§. 6. Illud quodammodo agnoscit D. Blondellus, cùm parentbesi istâ [si modò probabiles essent] thesin suam emollire cogeretur. Quod tamen illud ipsum est, quod postea in Ecclesiam invectum sæpius conqueritur, merito scilicet, non ætate creatos esse.

§. 7. At quid demùm ex hâc observatione lucraturus erat D. Blondellus? Illud in his ad Clementem scholiis nondùm elocutus est, sed cùm p. 52. ex Pseud-Ambrosio notasset [nascente primùm Christianismo, ubicunque Presbyterorum aggregari collegium cœpit, Presbyterum inter collegas antiquissimum, consessus totius caput, & πρωτοκαθεδρίαν, jure quodam πρωτοτυπίας factum esse] id (ne ex unâ tam belli scriptoris auctoritate pendere videretur) ex intimo remotissimæ Antiquitatis sinu repetitis argumentis undique muniendum suscepit, & tunc statim, [scripserat, inquit, Clemens ex Romana Ecclesiæ Persona, Primitiis suis Episcopatum ab Apostolis ubique concreditum.]

§. 8. Videmus jam quare hoc Clementis testimonium in tantum D. Blondello placebat, nimirum, ut ex eo, Apostolica Presbyterorum paritas, inter quos πρωτοκαθέδρια, inquit, præsidentia, aut primatus obtigit, confirmata putaretur.

§. 9. At piget dicere, quàm nihil hoc Clementis dictum, ad hunc omnis spei Blondellianæ fundum pertinuerit.

Primo enim, Nullus hîc de aggregando Presbyterorum collegio Clementi sermo instituebatur, sed de eo tantùm nascentis Ecclesiæ statu, in quo plures fideles nondum essent, ideóque sine dubio, nec Presbyteri instituerentur. Tunc, inquit Clemens, οἱ μέλλοντες πεδίων, tantæ Apostolis curæ fuerunt, ut Episcopum in qualibet civitate, solo Diacono accinctum, constituendum putarent. Nec igitur quicquam hîc in voce [ἀπαρχάς,] quod πρωτοχειροτονίαν, aut πρωτοκαθεδρίαν, i. e. antiquissimo Presbytero competat, sed de primis solummodo ad fidem conversis, πρωτοκλησίαν, (quibus iccirco præ aliis fidelibus, siqui essent, non præ aliis Presbyteris, qui omnino nulli erant, πρωτοκλησία, aut primatus competebat) sermo omnis nectebatur. Et sic ilico in auras evanuit unicum illud, quod D. Blondello usui futurum erat, testimonium.

§. 10. Secundò, Quod de ἀπαρχαῖς hîc dicit Clemens, æquè ad Diaconos, ac ad Episcopos pertinebat, [in Diaconos nimirum primitias istas constituisse Apostolos.]

§. 11. Imò Tertiò. Nec uni illi, qui inter conversos simpliciter primus fuit, hanc πρωτοκλησίαν contigisse affirmat Clemens, tunc enim nullus τῇ τῆς πνεύματος δοκιμῇ locus esset, sed inter eos qui primi conversi sunt, quotuscunque illorum numerus esset, aliquos in variis provinciis, & civitatibus, in Episcopos ordinatos fuisse, (quos scilicet Spiritus sanctus tali munere dignos pronuntiaverat) alios itidem ubique in Diaconos; Illud unum est, quod hîc Clemens pronuntiat.

§. 12. Nec igitur πρωτοκλησία, sed S. Spiritus revelationi, & approbationi imputandum esse, quod quispiam in Episcopum constitueretur.

§. 13. Hoc in Matthiæ ad Apostolatum surrogatione satis patet. Patet etiam in Jacobo, primo Hierosolymorum Episcopo, ejúsque successore Simeone, nulla πρωτοκλησίας prærogativâ ad Clavum istum evectis, sed (præter meriti præstantiam) ex eo potiùs, quòd Christi ἀνέψιοι, aut fratres vulgò dicti essent, ad eam dignitatem assumptis. Sic enim Hegesippus apud * Eusebium. Μετὰ τὸ μαρτυρῆσαι Ἰάκωβον τὸν Δίκαιον, πάλιν Συμεὼν ὁ τῦ Κλωπᾶ καθίσταται ἐπίσκοπος, ὃν προέθεντο πάντες ὄντα ἀνέψιον τῦ Κυρίε δεύτερον, Post Jacobi Justi Martyrium, iterum Symeon filius Cleophæ Episcopus constituitur, quem secundum Domini consobrinum existentem, aliis omnibus unanimi consensu omnes præposuerunt. Quod & fusiùs ab Eusebio narratur, l. 3. c. κα'. Fama, inquit, est Apostolos & discipulos Domini, qui adhuc supererant, unâ cum his, quibus cum Domino secundum carnem cognatio intercessit, consilium iniisse, τὲ τῦ τίνα χρὴ τῆς Ἰακώβε διαδοχῆς ἐπικρίναι ἄξιον, quisnam dignus censendus esset, qui Jacobo succederet (nulla hîc ordinis, qui sic apud Pseud-Ambrosium, D. Blondello allubescebat; sed tantùm ἀξίας seu meriti mentio) καὶ δὴ ἀπὸ μιᾶς γνώμης, τὸν πάντας Συμεῶνα τῦ τῆς αὐτόθι παροικίας θρόνε ἄξιον εἶναι δοκιμάσαι, ἀνέψιον, ὡς γὰ φασὶ, γεγονότα τῦ Σωτῆρος, Omnes ergo uno consensu Simeonem Ecclesiæ illius throno dignum esse existimarunt, Consobrinum quippe Servatoris existentem.

* Hist. l. 4. c. κβ'.

§. 14. Ubi itidem electionis per suffragia factæ mentio toto cœlo disterminatur ab eo, quod ex Clemente, D. Blondellus colligendum putavit.

§. 15. Consulatur itidem Clementis dictum Hypotyp. l. 6. apud Eusebium, l. 2. c. α'. Petrum nempe, Jacobum & Johannem (Zebedæi filios, μὴ ἐπιδιώξαι δόξης, ἀλλ' Ἰάκωβον τὸν Δίκαιον ἐπίσκοπον Ἱεροσολύμων ἑλέσθαι, de gloriâ (i. e. honore Hierosolymitani Episcopatus) non contendisse, sed Jacobum Justum Episcopum Hierosolymitanum elegisse. Apertissimum testimonium, quo ex electione, non ex primogenituræ privilegio his primis temporibus Episcopum constitutum esse apparet.

§. 16. Idem

§. 16. Idem etiam de Diaconis dici posset, Act. 6. quos ad illud munus nullâ solius πρωτοκλισίας ratione habitâ, sed quatenus μαρτυρούμενοι ἄνδρες πλήρεις πνεύματος ἁγίου, καὶ σοφίας, evectos legimus, v. 3.

§. 17. Quartò igitur & illud notandum est, Hos ipsos, qui ex primorum conversorum numero Episcopi fiebant, probatos prius, dein constitutos ab Apostolis fuisse, Καθίστανον Ἀπόστολοι εἰς ἐπισκόπους, inquit Clemens (quid verò sit καθιστάνειν prius diximus, & ex comparatione 3tii & 6ti versus sexti capitis Actorum clariùs patet, ubi quod [καθιστάνειν ὑπὸ πάντος χειρὸς] dicitur, v. 3. est [προβεβλημένοι ἐπιθῆναι αὐτοῖς τὰς χεῖρας] v 6.) Quod unum si advertisset D. Blondellus, has scilicet Apostolorum primitias, seu eos qui fidem primi receperint, post δοκιμασίαν πνεύματος, per χειροθεσίαν demum Apostolorum in Episcopos, &, quòd minus est, Diaconos constitutos esse, certè fabrica omnis, quam huic ex intimo remotissimæ antiquitatis sinu petito testimonio superstruendam optavit, i. e. totius Blondellianæ sententiæ, & causæ tibicen, & columna in terram ilico concidisset.

§. 18. Et quoniam in istis nunc sumus, licèt causa nostra istis suppetiis non indigeat, (Quid enim nostri interest, an πρωτοκλήτα, an alium quemvis in Christo post-natum Apostoli in Episcopum constituerint?) videbimus paucis, ecquod aliud magis idoneum firmamentum, cui hypothesis ista inniti posset, ex remotissimæ Antiquitatis sinu D. Blondello suppetat. Certè, præter unicum illum sub Ambrosii larvâ in Ep. Paul. comm. scriptorem, nullum.

§. 19. Quæ enim de Scripturis peti voluit, ea nihil probant: Primò enim Christum ait, eos, quos primos ἐμαθήτευσεν, ad Apostolicum fastigium evexisse. At 1. nullibi illud constat, Hos singulos duodecim discipulos omnium mortalium primos fuisse, qui Christi fidem amplexi sunt; Hos ab eo constitutos affirmat Marcus, c. 3. 14. ἵνα ὦσι μετ' αὐτοῦ, καὶ κηρύσσωσι, &c. at præter eos alii sine dubio non pauci eo tempore Christo nomina dederant.

§. 20. Imò cum Josepho, & Matthia, alios multos, ἐν παντὶ χρόνῳ, ἐν ᾧ εἰσῆλθε καὶ ἐξῆλθεν ἐφ' ἡμᾶς ὁ Κύριος, ἀρξάμενος ἀπὸ τοῦ βαπτίσματος Ἰωάννου, discipulis his consociatos fuisse, Petrus, ipse pronuntiat, Act. 1. 21.

§. 21. Secundò, De his ipsis Christi duodecim Discipulis, & Apostolis, illud utique notandum est, Andream, & cum eo alterum innominatum (Johannem, crediderim, historiæ illius scriptorem) à Baptistâ primùm Jo. 1. 36. dein ab ipso Christo v. 40. edoctos, fidem Christi primos accepisse, ut patet v. 42. Post hos, Simonem dein ad Christum ab Andreâ deductum esse v. 43. Philippum interim omnium primum, ad discipulatum, vel famulitium Christi, admissum esse, illi primò omnium mortalium dictum esse, ἀκολούθει μοι, v. 43. Philippo dein alios accensèri, c. 2. (Nathanielem, uti videtur, c. 1. 51. aliósque) quibus accinctus Canam, v. 2. Capernaum, v. 12. post & Hierosolymas, v. 13. profectus est; Dein Judæam peragravit, c. 3. 22. Jesus, & μαθηταὶ αὐτοῦ, καὶ διέτριβε μετ' αὐτῶν, καὶ ἐβάπτιζον, (non ipse tamen, sed discipuli ejus, c. 4. 2.) & hæc omnia perfecit, cùm Johannes Baptista ἐν Αἰνὼν βαπτίζων, v. 24. nondum custodiæ traderetur, v. 34. nec igitur adhuc Andreas, & Simon, Mat. 4. 19. ut nec Jacobus, & Johannes, v. 21. ad discipulatum assumerentur, quod ex Mat. 4. 12. Mar. 1. 14. manifestum redditur, Audito enim quod Johannes tradebatur, divertit (jam secundò) Christus in Galilæam, & ibi demum eos vocavit. Hìc certè, nec Andream, qui primus accessit, nec Philippum, qui primus vocatus, primus etiam Christum secutus est (cui igitur πρωτοκλησία planè contigit) quâvis inter compares πρωτοσία, quâvis præ aliis collegis primogenituræ prærogativâ gaudentem, videmus, πρῶτος Σίμων, inquit Matthæus, c. 10. 2. qui & apud Marcum primo loco reponebatur.

§. 22. At & tertiò, de Episcopis ab Apostolis, non de Apostolis à Christo constitutis, hypothesis D. Blondelli procedit, nec igitur fundamento isti (satis quidem invalido) inniti debuit.

§. 23. Secundò, ex Petri verbis Act. 1. 21. illud probari existimat. At Petri verba sic sonant, Ἕνα τούτων, Unum eorum, qui omni tempore à baptismo Johannis ad diem ascensionis Christi συνῆλθον ἡμῖν, in defuncti Traditoris loco surrogandum esse, tandémque ex horum numero ἕνα δύο, Josephum, & Matthiam, neutrum, in quantum sciamus, πρωτοκλησίας prærogativâ utentem; Et denique (ne quid unquam in hac causâ D. Blondello prosperè succedisse putaretur) ad sortes deventum est, quæ πρωτοκληθέντα à post-nato non distinguunt, sed tantummodo propositi divini decretum nobis indicant.

§. 24. At tertiò, inquit D. Blondellus, Gentium magister Paulus (ille sine dubio nullo primogenituræ jure gaudens) 1 Tim. 3. 6. & ex eo Laodicena Synodus, Can. 3. Nicena, Can. 2. Sardic. c. 10. Syricius, Ep. 3. c. 3. Concilium Arelat. 2. Can. 1. (Quid verò hæc tanta nomina decreverunt? primogenitum Collegis omnibus præsidere? Imò post tantum conatum, illud tantùm) Neophytum ab Ecclesiæ regimine arcendum, conceptis verbis sanxerunt.

§. 25. Verum advertisse debuit D. Blondellus, æquè primogenitum, quamprimum nascatur, ac post-natum, νεόφυτον esse, nec igitur concludi posse, hunc post-natum non esse, qui novitius non fuerit, aut illum novitium non esse, qui primogenitus fuit.

§. 26. Quartò, Erant, inquit, summo inter pios omnes in pretio οἱ πρωτοκληθέντες, nequis miretur, Andronicum, & Juniam, in Apostolis nobiles, quia ante Paulum fuerant in Christo, Epænetum, Stephanumque, hoc ab Apostolo nomine commendatos, quòd fuerant ἀπαρχὴ τῆς Ἀχαΐας, cui se Corinthii subdere tenerentur.

§. 27. Verùm non omnes, qui ante Paulum in Christo fuerunt, cujusvis civitatis, aut regionis primitiæ fuerunt, ut nec, qui summo inter pios omnes in pretio, erant qui in Apostolis nobiles, ii statim singuli Presbyterorum collegiis præficiebantur. Quod unicum hypothesi ejus profuturum erat. Si verò Epænetum æquè, Stephanumque Achaici cujusvis Presbyterii πρεσβῶτας fuisse existimet, bicipitem planè Parnassum in cognominem Presbyterorum consessum migrantem, somniasse par erit.

§. 28. Interea, si Stephanæ familiæ (ea enim ἀπαρχὴ Ἀχαΐας, 1 Cor. 16. 18. dicebatur) Corinthii se subdere tenerentur, non tamen Epæneto tenebantur, Ro. 16. 5. imò nec integræ familiæ inter πρωτοκλήτας πρεσβεία attribuenda erit.

§. 29. Denique de Stephanæ familiâ dicitur, ἔταξαν ἑαυτοὺς εἰς τὴν διακονίαν τοῖς ἁγίοις, & ob id demum, ἀπαρχὰς dictos, viros primarios, & præstantissimos, ideóque reverentiam aliquam, & ὑποταγὴν iis deberi, non ideò tantùm, quòd ἀπαρχὴ essent, sensu Blondelliano, i. e. primo conversi.

§. 30. Quintò, Illud *ad elogium ob fidem dispersorum Judæorum feciss*e affirmat D. Blondellus, quòd eos à Deo ad verbum veritatis genitos εἰς τὸ εἶναι ἀπαρχήν τινα τῶν αὐτοῦ κτισμάτων scripsit Jacobus; c. 1. 18. Eorumque 14. Myriadas primitias Deo Agnóque sacratos dixit Johannes.

§. 31. At

§. 31. At verò, nec istos omnes Judæorum fideles apud Jacobum, nec 14. Myriadas apud Johannem, totidem Presbyterorum consessibus præsedisse, putavit D. Blondellus, nimis certè luforius in re seriâ.

§. 32. Unicum adhuc supereſt, quo obiter uti D. Blondellus voluit, ex antiquitate petitum testimonium, Canon scil. 4^us^ Nicenus, quo, ut illi videtur, mos hic immutatus perhibetur. Sic enim in recensendis Pseud-Ambrosii verbis [immutata est ratio, prospiciente concilio, ut non ordo, sed meritum crearet Episcopum] ad vocem [concilio] Nicen. Can. 4. in margine apponendum * duxit. Idem à Cl. Salmasio, in Apparatu, prolixiùs factum est.

* Apol. p. 49.

§. 33. At piget dicere, quàm sine omni rationis specie, Canone isto mos ille immutatus dicatur. Videatur Canon. Ἐπίσκοπον μεσοίκει μαλιστὰ μὴ ἐπὸ πάντων ἅμα ἐν τῇ ἐπαρχία γενέσθαι, &c. Integer Canon illud unum curat, ne Episcopus sine tribus ad minimum Episcopis, cum consensu omnium totius Provinciæ Episcoporum ordinetur. At 1^mo^. quid illud πρὸς Διόνυσον, quid ad hujus moris immutationem pertinet? Certe vix potuit longiùs abesse.

§. 34. Secundò Episcoporum per Provincia Episcopos Ordinationes omnes, quarum ante Concilium Nicenum satis crebra mentio est, hoc ab illis deridiculo confictum esse monstrant. Imò tertiò, ne plura in re manifestâ accumulem, cùm Concilium Nicenum An. Ch. 325. hæc decreverit, mos verò iste, ipso

* Præf. p. 11.

* D. Blondello fatente, An. Ch. 135. immutatus sit, quæ demum hæc temporum confusio erit, si Canone isto mos ille immutatus dicatur.

§. 35. Et sic tandem experti sumus, quid sit [ex intimo antiquitatis sinu argumenta petere.]

CAP. VI.

Secunda, & Tertia Blondelli conclusio. Differentia inter Episcoporum, & graduum constitutionem.

§. 1. Quod verò secundo loco ex hoc Clementis commate concluſit D. Blondellus, illud ex parte verum est, binos tantum Cleri gradus illic recenseri, Episcoporum, & Diaconorum. At in Episcopis Presbyteros fuisse, cùm tale nihil apud Clementem reperiatur, illud ex propriis mentis suæ ideis exscripsisse putandus est D. Blondellus.

§. 2. Denique, quod ad tertium D. Blondelli corollarium attinet, mirum est, quòd vel sic sibi, aut à se aliis, imponi permitteret: Ubinam, quæso, illud Clemens affirmavit? Apostolos, binorum illorum graduum institutores, solâ oraculi prophetici authoritate permotos fuisse? Ait certè, Apostolos, aliquos in Episcopos, alios in Diaconos constituisse, δοκιμάσαντας πνεύμασι.

§. 3. At 1. hoc erat personas constituere, non instituere ipsos gradus. De eâ graduum institutione, nihil hoc loco Clemens, nisi quod in priori periodi parte dictum fuit, ut Christum à Deo, sic Apostolus à Christo, & Episcopos demum ab Apostolis missos, & constitutos esse, &, quod prætereundum non est, non ad constitutionem graduum, sed ad dijudicationem personarum, an idonei, vel minùs idonei essent, ista πνεύματι & δοκιμασία pertinebat.

§. 4. Imò 2^do^. Si oraculi prophetici authoritas, ad hos etiam gradus instituendos, eos permoverit, nihil tamen impedit, quin & cum authoritate oraculi prophetici, alii etiam Veteris Testamenti ritus, & exemplaria pulcherrimè consentiant, quæ tamen Clementem hîc memorare nulla necessitas cogebat; satis omnes novimus, quàm nihil concludat Argumentum à testimonio negativum.

At & 3^tio^. Quis adeò vecors unquam fuit, ut hîc, ubi solorum Episcoporum, & Diaconorum sine Presbyteris mentio à Clemente facta est, exemplum Mosis Septuaginta Seniores cooptantis, aut Synagogæ Ministros in Pontificem, Sacerdotes, Levitas distinguentis, aut Christi Septuaginta discipulos duodecim Apostolis succenturiantis, Lectoribus suis tam inficetè obtrudat, atque ad rem istam rectè accommodari somniet? Certè exæ singulæ trium, non duorum Ecclesia graduum, imagines & umbræ censendæ sunt, nec sine dementiâ quâdam, binorum mentioni coaptari, aut adjici potuerunt. Quod igitur factum non esse, Clementi neutiquam imputamus, sed D. Blondello dicam hanc justissimè inscribimus, quòd, talibus observationibus testimoniisque per vim ad suas partes pertractis, librum, heu nimis intumescentem, ampliandum existimaverit. Diutiùs certè, quàm par fuit, istis immorati sumus, non sic denuò molestiam nobis, lectori tædium adaucturi.

CAP. VII.

Tertium testimonium. Episcopi ex Isaiâ פקוד, נגש. Judaicorum forensium rituum ad Ecclesiasticos Christianorum accommodatio. Excusatus Clemens. Quartum testimonium. Forma hæc Regiminis à præcepto divino. Quintum Testimonium. Μεταξὺ. Ἐπινομὴ. Immediato spiritus impulsu Episcopi in Achaia constituti, & successores assignati. Populi acceptatio à Blondello ficta. Περισφάλεια δεῶν. Blondelli duæ conclusiones infirmæ, Quatuor aliæ à nobis concessæ.

§. 1. Tertium Testimonium, Ἐκ πολλῶν, inquit Clemens, χρόνων ἐγγέγραπται περὶ ἐπισκόπων, καὶ διακόνων, Κατατάσσω τὰς ἐπισκόπους αὐτῶν ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ, καὶ τὰς διακόνους αὐτῶν ἐν πίστει, A multis temporibus scriptum est de Episcopis & Diaconis, Constituam Episcopos eorum in justitiâ, & Diaconos in fide.

* Isa. c. 60. 17.

§. 2. Hîc quàm idoneè vir Apostolicus ἐπισκόπων & διακόνων mentionem, ex Græco * Isaiæ Interprete petitam, ad propositum suum accommodaverit, paucis dispiciemus.

§. 3. Et

§. 3. Et primò illud agnoſci debet, verba, quæ Clemens ex Iſaiâ laudaverat, in codicibus noſtris Græcis hodie non reperiri, ut nec apud Irenæum, l. 3. c. 44. ſed eorum vice repoſita eſſe, [Καὶ δώσω τὰς ἀρχοντάς σου ἐν εἰρήνῃ, καὶ τοὺς ἐπισκόπους σου ἐν δικαιοσύνῃ] Clementinam interim lectionem, antiquiorem, & ex codice, quo Apoſtoli utebantur, vetuſtiſſimo petitam, ideóque hodiernæ noſtræ longè præferendam, Hebræus, ſi conſulatur, ſatis monſtrat. In eo ſic legimus וְנִגְשִׂיךְ צֶדֶק, וְשֹׁטְטַי פְּקֻדָּתֵךְ שָׁלוֹם, ubi licet פְּקוּד per ἄρχων reddi ſatis fœliciter poſſet, cùm alibi, ut priùs diximus, στρατηγὸς, & κωμάρχης reddatur, neutiquam tamen נָגַשׂ per ἐπίσκοπον reddi potuit, at è contra & פָּקוּד per ἐπίσκοπον, novem vicibus redditur, ideóque hoc decimo loco ſic reddi debuit, & שׁוֹטֵט per ἐργοδιώκτην & φορολόγον, & στρατήγους (inferiorum officiorum nomina) ſubinde vertitur, Imò cum ἐπισκοπὴ Præfectus ſemel reddatur, Exod. 5. 14. pro operarum exactore, qui, cùm Iſraëlitis præficeretur, Pharaoni tamen ſubjiciebatur, clariſſimè ſumitur.

§. 4. Secundò itidem ſtatuendum eſt, Iſaiæ verba ſic intelligenda eſſe, ut, primariò ad Judices Judæorum, & ipſorum miniſtros pertineant, quales in omnibus civitatibus, juſſu Domini, conſtitutos videmus, Deut. 16. 18. Judices, inquit, & officiarios conſtitues tibi in omnibus portis; Quo tamen non obſtante, §. Tertiò, æquiſſimum erit & ſacrorum Scriptorum genio valdè conſentaneum, ut, quod primariò in Judæorum foro locum habuerit, ſecundariò ad Chriſti Eccleſiam accommodetur. Illud ab Apoſtolis ipſis & Evangeliorum ſcriptoribus non rarò factum videmus, nec igitur Clementi neganda libertas iſta, qui voculas illas duas Chriſtianâ civitate jam (ante ſcriptam hanc Epiſtolam) donatas, & à Paulo ſimul poſitas, Phil. 1. 1. apud Græcum Iſaiæ Interpretem, cujus authoritas, apud Helleniſtas, ipſóſque, ad quos ſcribebat, Corinthios, multùm valebat, repererat.

§. 6. Quartò igitur, Licèt huic Iſaiæ vaticinio, ut columnæ, aut tibicini ſuo, ſingularis in Eccleſiâ Epiſcopatus non innitatur, verè tamen à Clemente dici potuit, τοῦτο ὐ καινὸν, nihil ab Apoſtolis novitium fieri, qui Epiſcopos, & Diaconos in Eccleſiis quibuſque conſtituebant, cùm Judices & officiarii à Deo ipſo per Moſem inter Judæos in omnibus civitatibus creati (viva hujus regiminis Eccleſiaſtici imago) his ipſis nominibus jamdiu inſignirentur.

§. 7. Quartum teſtimonium, Καὶ τί θαυμαστὸν, εἰ οἱ ἐν Χριστῷ πεπιστευκότες ὑπὸ Θεοῦ ἔργον τοῦτο, κατέστησαν τοὺς προειρημένους; Et quid mirum, ſi quibus opus hoc à Deo in Chriſto concreditum eſt, ii conſtituerint prædictos? Hoc igitur, Præpoſitos, & Miniſtros Eccleſiæ conſtituendi opus Apoſtolis à Deo in Chriſto concreditum fuit, Ex quo ſequetur, Hanc in Epiſcopis, & Diaconis fundatam regiminis formam, præcepto divino non minùs adſcribendam eſſe, quàm ſi in ſingulis civitatibus Epiſcopos & Diaconos Chriſtus ipſe conſtituiſſet.

§. 8. Quintum, (& illud ſanè illuſtriſſimum, teſtimonium) ſic ſe habet, Οἱ Ἀπόστολοι ἡμῶν ἔγνωσαν διὰ τοῦ Κυρίου ἡμῶν Ἰησοῦ Χριστοῦ, ὅτι ἔρις ἔσται ὀπὶ τῷ ὀνόματι τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς, διὰ ταύτην οὖν τὴν αἰτίαν, πρόγνωσιν εἰληφότες τελείαν, κατέστησαν τοὺς προειρημένους, (ſcil. ἐπισκόπους καὶ διακόνους τῶν μελλόντων πιστεύειν) καὶ μεταξὺ ὁδὸν νομὴν δεδώκασιν, ὅπως, ἐὰν κοιμηθῶσι, διαδέξωνται ἕτεροι δεδοκιμασμένοι ἄνδρες (i. e. quos ut prædixerat τὸ πνεῦμα ἐδοκίμασαν) τὴν λειτουργίαν αὐτῶν, Apoſtoli noſtri per Jeſum Chriſtum dominum noſtrum cognoverant (Chriſto ipſo, ut videtur, prædicente) contentionem de Epiſcopatus nomine orituram eſſe (ſcilicet aut de dignitate (ut ὄνομα ſignificat ἀξίωμα) & authoritate Epiſcopali in Eccleſiâ, aut de re ipsâ, adeóque de nomine rem ipſam, ſuperioritatem & præfecturam denotante) Ob hanc igitur cauſam, cùm perfectam præcognitionem (à Chriſto ſcilicet præmonente) accepiſſent (talem nempe futuram eſſe de Epiſcopatu ἔριδα, ſeu ad ejiciendum ex Eccleſiâ Sacerrimum Ordinem, ſeu ad illud, quod jam conſtituebatur, quoviſmodo immutandum, aut intervertendum) ut venienti malo occurrerent, prædictos (Epiſcopos & Diaconos) conſtituerunt, & poſtea (ſic enim μεταξὺ in verbis proximè ſequentibus, ut & in Epiſtolâ Barnabæ, cum Jacob λαὸν τὸν μεταξὺ populi poſt futuri typus dicitur, §. 10. & Act. 13. 42. explicatiùs [εἰς τὸ μεταξὺ] ſignificat) aut * ſeriem, aut modum ſucceſſionis, aut catalogum, aut diſtributionem, aut fortè ordinationem dederunt, ut, cùm illi vitâ excederent, alii probati viri (quos ſcilicet eodem prophetico, quem prædixerat, ſpiritu approbaverant) huic miniſterio, aut officio ſuccederent.

* Vox ὀπνομὴ alibi apud auctores non reperitur; poteſt fortaſſis Ordinandorum ſeriem, ſucceſſionem, διαδοχὴν ſignificare (quomodo apud Heſychium ὀπίνομοι κληρονόμοι dicuntur, cui conſentaneum eſt ut ὀπνομὴ κληρονομίαν ſignificet) ſic ut ex ſequentibus explicari poſſit, ὅπως διαδέξωνται ἕτεροι, ut alii ſuccedant, &c. Poteſt iſtius ſucceſſionis jus, ac modum, ὅπως ut, vel quemadmodum alii de natis ſuccedant, ſcilicet ut δεδοκιμασμένοι ἄνδρες perpetuâ ſucceſſionis ſerie ordinarentur; Poteſt & Catalogum, Album, matriculam, ἱερατικὸν κανόνα denotare; Poteſt & diſtributionem (ab ὀπνόμω diſtribuo) i. e. diſtribuendorum ad ſingula, aut Epiſcoporum, aut Diaconorum munera deſcriptionem ſignificare, ſic ut Heſychio ὀπνόμησις ὀπαμερισμὸς redditur. At & non incredibile eſt νόμον & διαταγὴν, ordinationem, vel conſtitutionem, eâ notari.

§. 9. Patet hîc immediato Spiritus Divini impulſu in ſingulis Eccleſiis, adeóque Corinthi, & in reliquis Achaiæ civitatibus Epiſcopos conſtitutos eſſe, (ſolis Diaconis iis adjunctis) eodémque prophetiæ, aut revelationis divinæ juſſu, ſucceſſores illis poſt diſceſſum ipſorum, aſſignatos eſſe, ſic ſcilicet Eccleſiæ paci conſulente, & præcavente Chriſto, ne Epiſcopalis dignitas ad unitatem Eccleſiæ conſervandam inſtituta, ambitioſorum & æmulorum oculos ad ſe trahens, μεῖζον ἔριδος quoviſmodo fieret.

§. 10. Ex hoc Epiſcoporum conſtituendorum ritu ab Apoſtolis & Apoſtolicis viris hactenus obſervato, σασιαζῶν molimina fortiter retundit Clemens in ſequentibus, Τοὺς ὑπ' ἐκείνων, ἢ μεταξὺ ὑφ' ἑτέρων ἐλλογίμων ἀνδρῶν, συνευδοκησάσης τῆς ἐκκλησίας πάσης, καὶ λειτουργήσαντας ἀμέμπτως τῷ ποιμνίῳ τοῦ Χριστοῦ μετὰ ταπεινοφροσύνης, ἡσύχως καὶ ἀβασανίστως, μεμαρτυρημένους τε πολλοῖς χρόνοις ὑπὸ πάντων, τούτους ὐ δικαίως νομίζομεν ἀποβάλλεσθαι τῆς λειτουργίας: Ab illis igitur (i. e. ab Apoſtolis ipſis) vel poſtea ab aliis illuſtribus (i. e. Apoſtolicis, & Spiritu Dei approbatis) viris conſtitutos, applaudente, aut congratulante tota Eccleſiâ (nihil hîc de acceptatione totius Eccleſiæ, ſine quâ Epiſcopos & Diaconos ab Apoſtolis & Apoſtolicis viris conſtitutos non eſſe ex hoc loco concludit * D. Blondellus, quaſi qui ex Dei juſſu, & approbatione conſtituebantur, populi etiam acceptatione indigere putandi eſſent) quique jam Chriſti gregi inculpatè, quietè, & ingenuè inſervierint, & ab omnibus jamdiu teſtimonium & laudem reportaverint, hos non juſtè (imò injuſtiſſimè) officio aut miniſterio ſuo deturbari putamus. Ἁμαρτία γὸ ὐ μικρὰ ἡμῖν ἔσται, ἐὰν τοὺς ἀμέμπτως καὶ ὁσίως προσενέγκοντας δῶρα, τῆς ἐπισκοπῆς ἀποβάλωμεν, (ſcelus enim non exiguum nobis erit, ſi inculpatè ſanctéque dona (i. e. ſacrificia Chriſtiana, quæ ſolus, inquit Juſtinus, πρόσκλησις Θεοῦ προσφέρει) offerentes, ab Epiſcopatu dejiciamus. Omnia iterum clariſſima, & quæ omnem in Eccleſiâ Dei authoritatem, in Epiſcopi manus traditam fuiſſe confirment.

* Apol. p. 11.

§. 11. Quò itidem & sequentia spectant, Μακάριοι, inquit, οἱ προοδοιπορήσαντες πρεσβύτεροι, Beati Seniores (seu Episcopi qui ante has procellas pacatè obdormiverant) qui, emenso vitæ stadio, ante has σασιαζῶν turbas excesserunt, οἵτινες ἔξαρτιν καὶ τελείαν ἔσχον τὴν ἀνάλυσιν, quotquot * perfectam & fructuosam dissolutionem consequebantur, ὃ γὰρ ἐυλαβοῦνται, μὴ τὶς αὐτὲς μετασήσῃ ἀπὸ τῆ ἱδρυμένε αὐτοῖς τόπου, Illis enim metuendum non est, ne quis eos loco aut sede, in quâ locati sunt, deturbet.

* Cum Martyrio, illâ Christi athletarum πλειάσει, conjunctam.

§. 12. Quàm probè hinc octo corollaria concinnaverit D. Blondellus, quibus artibus falsa veris intertexenda curaverit, facilè ex prædictis æstimabitur; In illis quartum est, Episcopos fraternitati (at cur non Ecclesiæ?) per singulas urbes præfecti sunt, unâ plures fuisse, Sextum, Presbyteros quosque dona obtulisse, Episcopatu functos, adeóque veri nominis Episcopos fuisse.

Apol. p. 11.

§. 13. At monendus est vir oculatissimus, qui me monitore non indiguit, nec plures illos totius Achaiæ Episcopos, unius statim urbis Præfectos dicendos esse, Nec ex πρεσβυτέρων (voculæ πλυσίμου) pro Episcopis singularibus usu, ad Episcoporum, & Presbyterorum, quos nunc dicimus, ἰσοπμίαν, valere argumentum.

§. 14 Cætera verò, quæ ex hoc loco rectè conclusa sunt, 1. Ecclesiastici regiminis formam nusquam ab Apostolis immutatam esse, 2. Toto eorum tempore, & (postquam consummati sunt) intermedio, sub eorum discipulis, Ecclesiæ cujusque regimen penes Episcopos & Diaconos in commune fuisse (modò per illud suum [in Commune] Clementi obtrusum, nullam sive ordinis, sive authoritatis paritatem ipse intelligat, & nobis per Episcopos, aut plures successivè in eadem civitate, aut plurium quidem civitatum in eâdem Provinciâ simul plures intelligendi licentiam permittat) 3. Presbyteros eosdem ministerio ritè functos nequaquam deturbandos fuisse, (imò nec ad populi arbitrium, si minus rectè officio functi iis videantur) 4. Corinthios hoc nomine violatæ fraternitatis (licèt ejus rei nulla in Clementis verbis mentio occurrat, sed tantùm, ὡ δικαίως fieri dicatur, i. e. Ecclesiæ sine dubio violatæ) reos, quòd aliquos ex administratione transduxissent (sic ille [μετηγάγετε λειτυργίας, i. e. ministerio movistis] reddendum maluit) D. Blondello lubentissimè largimur, nec quicquam causæ nostræ decrescere opinamur, si hæc omnia ex tripode protulisse virum doctissimum agnoscamus. De tertio interim, quod unicum restat, [Episcopos & Diaconos ab Apostolis Apostolicisque viris nunquam, nisi totâ acceptante Ecclesia, constitutos] quid sentiendum sit,

* §. 10. * prædiximus.

CAP. VIII.

Plures πρεσβυτέρων pro Episcopis Achaiæ mentiones. Potestas plebis circa sacra, sine omni rationis specie à Blondello asserta.

§. 1. PLura adhuc apud Clementem supersunt, in quibus πρεσβυτέρων (quos nos totius Achaiæ Episcopos fuisse jam antè monstravimus) mentio facta est, quæ hîc etiam apponenda erunt. Primò, Αἰσχρὸν, inquit, καὶ λίαν αἰσχρὸν —— τὴν βεβαιοτάτην καὶ ἀρχαίαν Κορινθίων ἐκκλησίαν, δι' ἓν ἢ δύο πρόσωπα σαλεύειν πρὸς τὲς πρεσβυτέρους. Turpe, imò valdè turpe est, firmissimam & antiquam Corinthiorum Ecclesiam (de quâ αὐτόπτης Hegesippus apud * Eusebium, ἐπέμενεν ἡ ἐκκλησία μέχρι Κορινθίων ἐν τῷ ὀρθῷ λόγῳ μενόντων Πείμε ὀπισκοπεύοντος ἐν Κορίνθῳ) propter unam aut alteram personam adversus seniores seditionem concitare, Illud est σασιάζειν, quod priùs per [καταστάντας ὑπ' Ἀποστόλων, &c. λειτυργίας, & ὑπισκοπῆς ἀποβάλλειν, ut & per τεπμωμένης λειτυργίας μεταγαγεῖν] edixerat.

* L. 4. c. 23.

§. 2. Hîc interim more suo D. Blondellus vera falsis immiscens, quatuor itidem nobis cudit corollaria, quibus, cùm incognitum tunc temporis Episcopum fuisse, & Presbyterorum in commune ministrantium regimini subditam fraternitatem, sine omni probationis specie, ex verbis illis elici cupiat, non est quòd nos aerem aut umbram feriamus.

§. 3. Secundò, Εἴ τις ἐν ὑμῖν ἡγυσῦτο, ἐυσπλαγχνο, &c. εἰπάτω, εἰ δι' ἐμὲ σάσις, καὶ ἔρις, καὶ σχίσματα, ἐκχωρῶ, ἄπειμι, ὅ ἐὰν βέλησθε, καὶ ποιῶ τὰ προσταυόμενα ὑπὸ τῆ πλήθυς, μόνον τὸ ποιμνίον Χρισῦ εἰρηνδέτω μετ' τῶν ἡγυσαμένων πρεσβυτέρων. Πολλοὶ ἐξεχώρησαν ἰδίων πόλεων, ἵνα μὴ σαλεύσωσιν δῆμον πλέον, Siquis inter vos (quorum gratiâ seditio contra Episcopos orta est) generosus, aut misericors, aut Christianâ charitate imbutus est, populum tumultuantem sic alloquatur; Si mei causâ seditio, contentio, schismata concitata sunt, excedo, abeo quocunque me abire vultis, quicquid multitudo præceperit, facturus, modò unum illud curetur, ut ovile Christi cum senioribus (Episcopis illis ab Apostolis, Apostolicisque viris) constitutis, pace fruatur. Multi quidem (qui ipsorum causâ quietem publicam sollicitari, aut moveri experti sunt) ex civitatibus suis ultrò excesserunt, ut ulterioris seditionis ansa & occasio omnis partium studiosis præscinderetur.

§. 4. Ad hæc verba, Prodigii instar est, quod notandum duxit D. Blondellus, [potestatem plebis circa sacra] (de quâ tandem integram dissertationem elucubravit) artificiis quibuscunque asserturus. Hîc, * inquit, nos monet Clemens, fideles etiam de Episcopatu aut Presbyterio contendentes, non ab Episcopi singularis καθεύχο nutu, sed à multitudinis præceptis pependisse.

* Apol. p. 12.

§. 5. Certè, si seriò rem egerit D. Blondellus, de Presbyteris suis (non de Episcopis nostris) actum plane & triumphatum erit, nec enim ab universo aliquo Presbyterorum Collegio, quod ille tam efflictim ardet, sed à multitudinis solius arbitrio tum contendentes de Presbyterio, tum fideles omnes Corinthios pependisse æquè concludendum erit.

§. 6. At quis, sodes, à fidelibus de Episcopatu, ut ais, (contra ipsos ab Apostolis constitutos Episcopos) contendentibus, quis à populo contra principem suum tumultus ciente, quis à verbis ad retundendam seditionem ad plebem factis, argumenta ad authoritatem populo adjudicandam, principi derogandam, duci posse existimaverit?

§. 7. Imò adhuc Clementis manibus iniquior es, D. Blondelle. Ille φιλοσρο[illegible]δόντων, siqua sit, pietatem, generositatem, charitatem appellat, ut si quovismodo (licet summo cum damno suo) insanam plebem, ad debitum Episcopis suis obsequium revocare possint, incumbant sedulò, seque licita omnia ipsorum

gratiâ

gratiâ facere paratos affirment, ultroneas aut peregrinationes, aut exilia suscepturi, modò ad pacem Ecclesiæ Christi redire permittatur, modò Episcopis à Christo ipso Ecclesiis præpositis, sua dignitas sarta tecta conservetur. Tu verò, D. Blondelle, suavissimam hanc, & in solorum Episcoporum gratiam, efficiam oratiunculam, perspicillis, nescio quibus, perlustrans, serio quidem & constanti vultu, omnia à multitudinis præcepto, non ab Episcopi singularis nutu pependisse concludit. Quid verò est, si hoc non sit, adversus Clementem ex Clemente militare, ne dicam contra apertissimam lucem cæcutire? Imò, quod adhuc magis dolendum, & stupendum est, * D. Blondellus, quasi post unius paginæ breviculum intervallum sui planè oblitus esset, sic tandem è sententiâ Clementis concludit, Eosdem, qui communi concilio Ecclesiam regebant, Presbyteros, nihil ἀρχοντικῶς attentasse, sed multitudinis dicto audientes fuisse. At meminisse debuit vir Doctissimus, non de Presbyteris, aut Episcopis veris, sed de fratribus, aut fidelibus (i. e. Christianis ad Clerum nondum evectis) de Episcopatu, aut Presbyterio contendentibus, Clementis verba, ipso D. Blondello arbitro, intelligenda fuisse. * Pag. 13.

§. 8. Concludit tandem Clemens (& cum hoc testimonio Clementina hæc nostra dissertatiuncula finienda est) Ὑμεῖς οὖν οἱ τῶν καταλαλιῶν τῆς στάσεως παύσαντες, ὑποτάγητε τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις, καὶ παιδεύθητε εἰς μετανοίαν, Vos igitur qui seditionis fundamentum fecistis, senioribus (i. e. Episcopis in qualibet Ecclesiâ) vestris subjicimini, & ad resipiscentiam erudimini.

§. 9. Ex quibus omnibus satis patescit, quàm sine omni veritatis specie concluserit * D. Blondellus, nominale tantùm inter Episcopos & Presbyteros fuisse discrimen, reale nullum, Cùm revera solorum (cum Diaconis) Episcoporum, καθ' πόλεις singulas constitutorum mentio reperiatur, quandoque sub ὁμωνύμων, quandoque sub πρεσβυτέρων titulo, nullo planè Presbyterorum, quos hodiè dicimus, nedum plurium in eadem Civitate, Episcopo suo comparium, aut ἰσοτίμων, indicio, aut vestigio comparente. * Pag. 13.

§. 10. Et de Clemente, & ex divinâ Epistola ejus (Episcopalis ordinis firmissima columnâ) productis testimoniis, hactenus dictum esto.

CAP. IX.

Syllabus dicendorum. Hermas. Ejus Censura. Testimonia ex Herma quatuor nihil Blondellum juvant.

§. 1. POst Clementem Romanum sequuntur apud D. Blondellum Polycarpus, Hermas, Pius Papa, Ecclesiastici regiminis forma, quo tempore Romam advenit Marcion, Tandémque Justinus, Papias, Ecclesiæ Gallicanæ testimonium, & Irenæus. Hos omnes causæ suæ favere D. Blondellus sibi fortiter persuadet.

§. 2. Polycarpi testimonia obiter se nobis offerentia * jamdudum perlustrata sunt, ut & Papiæ, & Irenæi, & † alibi etiam Justini. Reliqua jam pauciſſimis perstringenda sunt. * Dissert. 4. c. 22. † C. 16. 17.

§. 3. De Hermâ, seu libri, qui Pastor inscribitur, Authore, mirum est quàm sine omni lucri, aut mercedis intuitu, molestiam sibi creaverit * vir doctissimus. Scripta quidem ejus, Larvati Prophetæ somnia, ipsum Scriptorem impurum Dogmatistèn, Novatianorum, & Pelagianorum fontem, Montanisticarum superstitionum gurgitem, disertè * appellat, &, cùm sic fecerit, ejus patrocinio statim utitur, Nobis, inquit, hoc unum propositum est antiquissimum scriptorem (certè quem larvatum dixerat, jam tamen verè antiquissimum) de Ecclesiarum sui temporis statu loquentem audire, impurum (ante duas lineas) dogmatistèn, jam tamen dignum ut audiatur, & testimonium ferat. * Apol. p. 16. * Pag. 17.

§. 4. Non hîc lector perspicillis meis indigebit, ut statuat quid in hâc, aut quavis demum lite dirimendâ, ab iis expectandum sit, qui sub inani φιλαρχαιότητος specie, omnia, quæ ad partes ipsorum quovis artificio trahi possunt, ex trivio (ne cum D. Blondello dicam, ipsâ impuritatum sentinâ) corradunt, quæ verò ex purissimis intemeratæ Ecclesiæ fontibus petita contra ipsos militant, ea aut non advertunt, aut uno statim fastidientis stomachi halitu, calami obeliſco conficienda, uno flatu, unò [* Quid tum?] dissipanda existimant. Deus pacis & veritatis, Christianissimum puræ & illibatæ Antiquitatis amorem non calamis, sed intimis mentibus nostris indere dignetur. * Vid. Diss. 2. c. 23.

§. 5. Verùm, ut D. Blondello rem gratam faciamus (ut & Waloni, qui hunc impurum dogmatistèn, larvatum prophetam, ut * Pauli discipulum seriò laudat, & eadem omnia, quæ Blondellus testimonia ex eo solenniter producit) per nos licet, Hermæ loquatur, & de sui, quodcunque illud fuerit, temporis statu liberè testetur. * Wal. Mess. Pag. 250.

§. 6. Primum testimonium l. 1. Vis. 2. Κλήμης πέμψει εἰς τὰς ἔξω πόλεις, σοὶ γὰρ ἀναγκαῖον τοῖς πρεσβυτέροις τῆς ἐκκλησίας.

§. 7. Respondeo, 1mo. Quid si in Ecclesiâ Presbyteri tunc fuerint? Fuerunt itidem & Episcopi, Talis Romæ Clemens, cujus istic in prioribus mentio est. Sic Clemens Alexandrinus, Strom. 6. Ἔξεστι γοῦν τῶν Κυριακῶν ἐνασκήσαντας ἐντολῶν, καὶ τὸ εὐαγγέλιον πεῖσαντας καὶ γνωσικῶς, εἰς τὸν ἐκλογὸν καὶ ἀπόστολον ἐγγεγράφθαι, ἅτις πρεσβύτερος ὢν τῷ ὄντι τῆς ἐκκλησίας, &c.

§. 8. 2do. Quid si universæ Ecclesiæ, aut plurium civitatum ad unam Metropolim pertinentium, Episcopi, hîc, ex more sæculi iſtius, quo Episcopis πρεσβυτέρων nomen tributum concedimus, Πρεσβύτεροι τῆς Ἐκκλησίας dicantur? Certè si utrumvis statuatur (utrumque verò statuendum esse eo ævo, quo iste, quisquis erat, dogmatizaverit, parum dubitamus) satis causæ nostræ consultum putabimus.

§. 9. Secundum testimonium l. 2. Mand. 8. Inter Christiani officia recenset, Majores natu colere, fraternitatem conservare.

§. 10. Ita quidem. Sed quid inde? Ergóne jam iidem sunt Episcopi & Presbyteri? Nos certè Hieratici, natu majores, quicunque illi sunt, seu Episcopi, seu Presbyteri, seu demum Laici canicie venerandi, colendos, itémque fraternitatem, seu cum fratribus unionem omnem, conservandam putamus, sed ex eo nihil contra superioritatem Episcoporum concludi posse confidimus.

§. 11. At ubique, inquit D. Blondellus, communi Seniorum Concilio Romæ regi solitam fraternitatem insinuat.

§. 12. Insinuat, sed quibus demum verborum involucris? Dicatur apertè; certè non his, quæ à D. Blondello apponuntur, nec quidem aliis uspiam, Siqua enim summæ diligentiæ viro spes talis affulserat, styli eum sui non adeò parcum novimus, ut lectori suo ea invisurus fuisset. At 2do. si illud concedatur cedatur (quod tamen nullatenus concedendum nobis persuasit, aut Pastor, aut Blondellus) nihil tamen nobis, communi Seniorum consilium officiet, quamdiu Clemens singularis Romæ Episcopus, qui ad regendam Ecclesiam hoc consilio uti potuit, nobis ereptus non fuerit.

§. 13. Tertium testimonium Vis. 3. hæc, inquit, habet. Lapides quadrati & albi, &c. sunt Apostoli & Episcopi & Doctores & Ministri, qui ingressi sunt in Clementiâ Dei, & Episcopatum gesserunt & docuerunt & ministraverunt, Et l. 3. sim. 9. Tales sunt qui crediderunt quidem Episcopi, i. e. Præsides Ecclesiarum, alii vero, &c. Et deinde, qui Præsides sunt ministeriorum. Hîc utroque, inquit Blondellus, loco Cleri, post Apostolos, duos tantùm gradus facit, Episcoporum, qui Ecclesiis, Diaconorum, qui ministeriis præsunt.

§. 14. Liberè igitur D. Blondellus hujus testimonii beneficio fruatur, sibique prolixè gratuletur; Certè siquid exinde Presbyteris ipsius minùs fausti obvenerit, quorum nulla planè hîc mentio est, Blondello sic jubenti imputandum erit. Nobis interim Episcopi incolumes manent, iisque Ecclesiarum Præsides, nec unius Ecclesiæ plures compares, sed singulis Ecclesiis accommodati singuli Episcopi, Episcopatum gessisse permittuntur; Nihil causæ nostræ optatius dici potuit, nihil Clementis Romani dicto de constitutis ab Apostolis κατ' πόλιν Episcopis & Diaconis convenientius.

§. 15. Quartum. Idem, inquit l. 2. Mand. 12. Quem Spiritus terrestris, vacuus, & fatuus, non habens virtutem, agit, his notis dignosci vult, Exaltat se, & vult primam cathedram habere, &c. Et l. 3. Sim. 8. Qui virides quidem virgas & scissuras habentes tradiderunt, fideles semper fuerunt, & boni, sed habentes inter se quandam invidiam, & contentionem de Principatu & dignitate, Verùm omnes hi insipientes sunt, & fatui, qui habent inter se æmulationem de principatu, &c. Vita etiam eorum, qui custodiunt mandata Domini, in mandatis consistit, non in principatu, aut aliquâ dignitate, per patientiam enim & humilitatem animæ, vitam homines consequentur, per seditiones verò & contemptum legis, mortem sibi acquirunt.

§. 16. Certè hoc tanto conatu nihil adhuc novùm, aut quod Prælaticis minùs faveat, productum videmus. Omnia contra contentionem, æmulationem, ambitionem, φιλοπρωτείαν satis sobriè prolata, nec, ut, ab impuro dogmatiste expectandum erat, quicquam contra Episcopalis ordinis, aut officii dignitatem, quam potius sub Primæ cathedræ, Principatus, dignitatis mentione assertam videmus, & ab hoc ipso larvato prophetâ confirmatam.

* Dissert. 1. c. 13.

§. 17. Quæ verò de Diotrephis φιλοπρωτείᾳ * fusè disseruimus, omnia ad hanc rem satis commodè reponi possent, si istis vacaremus.

CAP. X.

Pii Papæ testimonia nihil Blondello prosunt. Πρωτοπαγῶν jus. Blondelli syllogismus in ipsum retorquetur. Præfectus Ecclesiæ, Christi tamen servus.

§. 1. SUccedit Pius Papa: anno, inquit, Domini 146. in Hygini locum suffectus, anno 150. Martyrium passus (qui ideò & ipse Episcopus Romæ decimus fuit, & post Blondellianam æram scripsit, qua, ipso fatente, caput extulerat Episcopatus) Et certè si ab illo contra Episcoporum superioritatem testimonia Blondello suppetant, quid est, quod de eo non sperent, qui patrocinio ejus utuntur, quid nos Prælatici non metuamus?

§. 2. Hîc, inquit, Pius Hygino post 4. annorum vacationem suffectus est. Illud verène an secus dictum sit, causæ nostræ non interest, Nec igitur de talibus litigamus; At hujus, inquit, tempore, πρεσβυτέρων ἀδελφίας καὶ διακονίας prærogativa, quæ passim antiquissimo inter Presbyteros jure quodam naturæ, reservata fuerat, in alios jure electionis ac suffragiorum transferri cæpit. Itidem in re istâ nos nemini litem moturos pollicebamur, verùm si 1mo. certum fuerit, Hyginum clerum composuisse, gradúsque primum distribuisse; si 2do. (ut Justus Vienna à fratribus constitutus, & Collobio Episcoporum vestitus à Pio dicitur, ideóque Presbyteri & Diaconi eum observare jubentur, sic) ipse Pius suffragiis Ecclesiæ communibus ad Episcopatum aut Præfecturam electus fuerit (quæ duo D. Blondellum fatentem habemus) sequetur illud, Pium quidem ex primogenituræ jure Hygino non successisse, ideóque aut talem in Ecclesia succedendi morem nunquam viguisse (quod satis in prioribus manifestum redditum est) aut ante Pii scriptam Epistolam immutatam esse.

§. 3. At quicquid hâc in re, aut affirmetur, aut negetur, Pius sine dubio Episcopus fuit, Justúsque sic supra Presbyteros, ipsâ Episcopalis ordinis prærogativâ, efferri ab eo dictus, ut eum Presbyteri observare jubeantur. Et quid, quæso, lucelli ex hoc tam importuno molimine D. Blondello accreviſſe putandum est? Certè in contrarium luculenter omnia. Ne quis tamen Episcopali gradu, & pristino jure, ob institutum, &c. præpositum, dejectos Presbyteros putet, Apostolicos, inquit, viros, quotquot ad sua tempora gregem paverant, generali Presbyterorum nomine, more majorum nuncupat. Presbyteri illi, inquit, qui ab Apostolis educati usque ad nos pervenerunt, &c. & Ep. 2. Presbyteri & Diaconi non ut majorem, sed ut ministrum Christi te observent.

§. 4. Ex his Pii dictis syllogismum statim ovans nectit D. Blondellus, Quisquis à Presbyteris Episcopum ut majorem observandum negat, is revera Presbyteris parem——agnoscit, At Pius à Presbyteris Viennensibus Justum Episcopum ut majorem observandum negat, Ergo——

§. 5. Quisnámne verò hoc ferìò à D. Blondello factum putabit? Si putaverit, recordetur, quæso, quæ hîc de Presbyterorum, eadem etiam de Diaconorum observantiâ dici; Presbyteri, inquit, & Diaconi te-observent. Eâdem igitur ratione, eodem medio Episcopum Viennensem, adeóque ipsos Blondellianos Presbyteros Diaconis exæquatus ex Pii verbis concluſuri sumus. Quisquis à Diaconis Episcopum ut majorem observandum negat, is revera Diaconis parem agnoscit. At Pius à Diaconis Viennensibus Justum Episcopum, ut majorem, observandum negat, Ergo Pius Diaconis parem Episcopum agnovisse putandus est. Vides, Lector, quid sit γραμμόντα πυκλδειν, nec curare quibus demum ictibus ipsi pateamus, modò nos alios feriisse videamur.

§. 6. Verùm 2do. Nihil ex hoc Pii dicto seu Episcopis seu Presbyteris metuendum est. Episcopus certè Presbyteris & Diaconis major fuit, at & ipse Christi minister, eóque magis ab inferioribus observandus, quòd ipse Christo, quàm, quòd illi inferiores inserviant. Ipse quippe Christus discipulis suis major, idem

se

se κύριον Dominum esse affirmat, & ita ab illis appellari, & ut Dominum observari permisit, cùm tamen & ipse illis ministraverit, pedes laverit, illis Episcopalis, non fastus, sed humilitatis, charitatis, modestiæ ὑπογραμμὸν exhibens. Ideóque, quisquis ἐν ὑμῖν μείζων, in Ecclesiâ Christi aliis major fuerit, Luc. 22. 26. quisquis ἡγούμενος præsultus, ὡς ὁ διακονῶν, sit ut junior, & ut qui ministrat. Et sic certe Episcopis locutum Christum nos Prælatici fatemur, nec quenquam ad Christi exemplar efformasse vitam censemus, qui non observantiam omnem sibi, non ut majori, sed ut ministro Christi præstari expectet.

§. 7. At rursus Pius adversus eos qui Ecclesiæ communi Presbyterii totius consilio regendæ non putant, longè alium Patrum fuisse morem docet, hac salutationis formulâ, Salutat te Senatus pauper Christi apud Romam constitutus, &c.

§. 8. Piget talibus immorari, crambenque toties recoctam Lectori porrigere. Concedimus Senatum sub Pio Romæ, eúmque, ut D. Blondello adblandiamur, pauperem fuisse, Et hunc quidem Presbyterorum fortassis (nam in principalibus civitatibus quandoque Episcoporum, totidem urbium singularium Præfectorum, Senatus fuisse, in prioribus satis monstratum est.) Hos verò soli divino Christi Monocratoris imperio subfuisse, & ab iis communi ipsorum consilio Ecclesiam gubernatam fuisse, sic ut nec Presbyteris Episcopus, nec Episcopis demum Metropolitanus præponeretur, illud quidem ex nudâ pauperis Christi Senatus mentione (probatione certè perquam exili, liceat dixisse pauperrimâ, & conclusionem planè emendicante) nemo nobis persuasurus est. Multò minus (quo claudi hanc rem omnem D. Blondellus voluit) Pium præpositum servum, non Dominum fuisse. Certè, qui fratrum, qui Presbyterorum præpositus, & Dominus fuit, fuit idem Christi & Ecclesiæ Christi servus, ideóque Ecclesiæ inservivit, quia iis à Christo præpositus fuit, at & nunquam magis Dominus (ex ipsius Christi exemplo & doctrina) quàm cùm sic inservierit.

CAP. XI.

Regiminis forma Marcionis tempore. Blondelliana æra à seipso conculcata. Conclusiones Blondelli ex narratione Epiphanii, quàm infirma, & quàm nihil contra nos valent. Marcionis Historia, Absolutionis & communionis non Episcopatus petitio. Canon Ap. 13. Πρεσβύτεροι de Episcopis. Excommunicatum non admittere ad communionem, ad Presbyteros pertinet. Συλλειτουργὸς paritatem non arguit, ut nec σύνδουλος, συστρατιώτης.

§. 1. SEquitur Ecclesiastica, quam D. Blondellus vocat, Regiminis forma, quo tempore Romam Marcion advenit.

§. 2. Res aliquantò implicatior, & quæ paulatim, & per gradus à nobis explicanda est. Marcionem, inquit (postquam ab Episcopo parente ob stuprum virgini illatum Ecclesiâ pulsus est) Romam, Aniceto Pii loco An. Dom. 150. ordinato, se contulisse memorat Tertullianus. Melius tamen Epiphanius, transfugium illud antequam Pius sederet, contigisse refert. Ἄνεσιν δὲ Ῥώμῃ μὴ τὸ τελεσθὲν τύπον ἢ διάστημα Ῥώμης, &c. Adver. Marci. l. 3.

§. 3. De annorum hâc in re quatuor, aut quinque intervallo, aut discrimine, Patres illos venerandos committendos curare, nulla nos necessitas cogit, nec enim D. Blondello in rebus tantillis litem intendimus, quibus tanto majora non desunt, in quibus æquitatem ejus desideremus.

§. 4. Concedamus igitur ante Pii, sed & post Hygini Papatum, Marcionem Romam venisse. Certè siquid ex hâc ἀκριβείᾳ exurgere putetur, quod Episcoporum dignitati obesse videatur, necessarium erit, ut D. Blondellum iterum monendum curemus, hunc ipsum Epiphanio, & D. Blondello definitum temporis articulum solenni Blondellianæ (Episcopatus caput supra Presbyteros attollentis) æræ, An. Ch. 135. integro septennio, si non decennio, posteriorem esse, Ideóque aut hoc advenientis Romam Marcionis tempore, Episcopos Presbyteris majores fuisse, aut cum Walone D. Blondellum calculos suos rectè non posuisse, etiam cùm ex alterâ potius parte errasse ipsorum plurimùm interfuerit.

§. 5. At quid demum hoc advenientis Romam Marcionis tempore factum est, quod Presbyterorum causæ faveat? Illud omne, ut videtur, ex his Epiphanii adventum ejus recensentis verbis petendum est. Romam, inquit Epiphanius, petit Marcion, postquam Hyginus Episcopus decesserat, Et τοῖς ὑπ' ἐκεῖνον πρεσβύτοις καὶ ἀπὸ τῶν μαθητῶν τοῦ Ἀποστόλων ἐρωμένοις συμβαλὼν, ἤτει συναχθῆναι καὶ ὁδοὺς αὐτῷ συγχωρῆσαι, Σὺ γὰρ λοιπὸν ἐπαχθεὶς δὲ οὐκ ἀπέλιπες τὸ κήρυγμα τοῦτο ἐκκλησίας, ὅπου ἐὰν σὺ, καὶ πρεσβύτερος τις τοῦ ἀποστόλου Κύριον καὶ σέβεται, καὶ ἔρχεται πρεσβύτερος τοῦτο ζήτημα, Τί μὴ διελέσθαί με ἐκκλησίαν; illis statim respondentibus, Ὅτι ὁ διάβολος ἐνὸς τῶν ὑπηρετῶν τῆς πίστεως ἐκείνου κωφοῦ πρεσβυτέρους τοῦτο ποιῆσαι, μία γὰρ ἔστιν ἡ πίστις καὶ μία διάνοια, καὶ ὁ διάβολος ἐναντιοῦται τοῦ συλλειτουργοῦ παρεὶ τοῦ. Cum senioribus usque tunc superstitibus, quique ab Apostolorum discipulis prodierant, collatione factâ, se in Synaxin recipi petierat: Nemo verò ipsi permisit. Cæterum invidiâ (potius irâ) elatus, velut cui nec præcedentia, nec ingressus Ecclesiæ datus; id sibi cogitavit, ut ad Cerdonis impostoris hæresim confugeret. Incepit autem Presbyteris, qui tunc temporis erant, hoc quæsitum prætendere, Quâ de re me non suscepistis? Illi verò, Quia id facere non possumus, sine honorandi Patris tui permissu, una enim fides est, una animorum consensio, nec possumus Collega (ad verbum, Comministro) bono Patri tuo contraire.

§. 6. Quid hinc ad D. Blondelli causam adserendam elici magis possit, quàm ex quâcunque πρεσβυτέρων mentione sperandum erat, ego certè defixis & intentis oculis nullus video.

§. 7. Tria sunt, quæ D. Blondellus, ad πεπυσμένος, aut συμμαχίας modum, hîc prælibanda censuit, quæ an vera sint, an secus, scire, nostri certè non interest.

§. 8. Quartò igitur hinc concludit, de fide Romanâ, per quadriennium viduatâ, invadendâ Marcionem cogitasse.

Quintò, Turbonem hunc sexennio ad minimum in ipso conatu oppressum.

§. 9. Hæc certè nec verè ex Epiphanii narratione concluſa sunt, nec quovismodo rem nostram attingunt.

§. 10. An

§. 10. An sedem, i. e. Cathedram seu Episcopatum Romanum invadendi lubido Marcioni unquam insederit, non opus est, ut, inspectio perspicillis nostris vafri hominis pectore, definiamus. Aut quid hâc in re ab aliis definiatur, huc adferamus. Certè de εἰσδύσῃ τῆς ἐκκλησίας, ingressu Ecclesiæ, de receptione ad sacram Synaxim ab eo petitâ, præcipuus hîc sermo est; & προσδείας fortuita quædam, &, si non mendoso Codici imputanda, saltem, secundaria mentio.

§. 11. Ille ob stuprum à Patre suo, Episcopo existente, Ecclesiâ Helenopontica arcebatur, Romamque adveniens ἄπρακτος συναχθῆναι, ad communionem recipi, nec certè ad Episcopatum promoveri, sed in Ecclesiam, à quâ justè amovebatur, admitti postulabat.

§. 12. Hoc planè infimum Christiani hominis privilegium ei negabatur, nec igitur, sine magnâ insaniæ mixturâ, cui ad ima aditus non patebat, ad summa adspirare poterat. Imò, cùm hâc spe excideret, vilissimum sibi remedium excogitat, ad Cerdonis hæresin fugit, non jam Episcopi, aut Doctoris, sed Discipuli locum avidè arripiens.

§. 13. Imò, cum Presbyteros, quorum nemo petitionem ejus admisit, interrogaret, quâ de causâ eum non susceperint, ex ipsorum responso patet, non cathedram Episcopalem, sed aliquem inter fideles locum ab illo expetitum fuisse. Illud enim & ex usu Ecclesiæ, & Can. Apol. 13. cautum fuit, ne qui ab uno Episcopo excommunicatus sit, & ad aliam properet civitatem, sine commendatitiis literis, i. e. sine prioris Episcopi permissu, sucipiatur.

§. 14. Verùm, post multas, & quas piget referre, ambages, rem tandem acu pungit D. Blondellus, Hinc, inquit, apparet secundo à Christo nato sæculo (imò post æram tuam, Doctissime Blondelle, ex quâ id factum ipse alibi negas) pares Episcopis Presbyteros, ejusdem collegii fratres, & ministerii consortes, Romæ creditos, Nullum tunc temporis reale inter eorum munera discrimen ibidem excogitatum, solumque πρωτοκαθεδρείας, jus pro Cleri fraternitatisque totius arbitrio, relictum esse.

§. 15. At undenam hæc omnia tam festinantèr, & currenti calamo concluſa sunt? Ex eo tantummodo, quòd qui hîc πρεσβύτεροι dicuntur, Episcopum Ponticum συλλειτουργὸν appellent.

§. 16. At, quid si Romanæ Provinciæ Episcopi, demortuo jam Metropolitano, seu Papæ Hygino superstites, πρεσβύται & πρεσβύτεροι hîc dicantur? Certè uno indicio ipse contextus illud nobis satis probabile reddit, cùm dicatur, petitioni ejus ἀδίνα συγκαταθήκλωσαν neminem annuisse.

§. 17. Certè si de Presbyteris, quos hodiè dicimus, communi consilio Ecclesiam administrantibus, sermo esset, dicendum fuit, πρεσβυτέριον, vel γερουσία, vel συνέδριον, vel demum junctis consilio πρεσβύτεροι illud non permiserunt. Cùm verò de singulis dicatur, ἰδίᾳ αὐτῷ συγκαθήκα, argumentum non quidem δεικτικὸν, at nec improbabile, hinc necti potest, de eo, quod ad singulos pertinebat sermonem fuisse.

§. 18. At, ne in re non adeò certâ quicquam definiamus, illud secundò addi potest, hoc Episcopalis sedis vacantis intervallo, nec novum, nec, à quo nos Prælatici abhorreamus, inauditum censendum esse, si, qui viduatam Ecclesiam procurabant, Presbyteri, excommunicatum, & literis commendatitiis ab Episcopo, qui eum excommunicaverat, nullatenus munitum, ad pacem & communionem Ecclesiæ admittere recusaverint. Quod tamen unicum ex hâc rei gestæ historiâ concludi potuit.

§. 19. Denique, quod ad συλλειτουργῶ nomen attinet, non est quòd ex eo collegarum, aut comparium æqualitas omnigena argui, aut concludi putetur, sed tantùm hujus particularis λειτουργίας, de quâ istic sermo est, participatio; quo modo Apostoli Θεῷ συνεργοὶ, 1 Cor. 3. 9. Priscilla & Aquila, & Urbanus, aliique Pauli συνεργοὶ, Ro. 16. 3, 9. Epaphras Apostolorum σύνδουλος, aliique συστρατιῶται in sacro Codice dicti sunt, qui nullam tamen sibi cum Apostolis, ut nec Apostoli cum Deo, ex vi istorum titulorum, æqualitatem vendicârunt.

§. 20. Presbyteros interim, quos secundarios dicimus, æquè ac Episcopos, & Christi, & Ecclesiæ, cui præficiebantur, λειτουργοὺς fuisse (licèt non Episcopis pares) nihil mirum si hîc Epiphanius (Aëriana ubique & Blondellianæ sententiæ satis notus hostis) libenter agnoverit, aut si nos, ut gratum illi faciamus, liberaliter largiamur. Reliqua, quæ ex hoc testimonio concluſisse se putat, ea sunt, quæ à nobis commemorari, nec vacat, nec litis hujus interest.

CAP. XII.

Gallicanæ Ecclesiæ testimonium. Hieronymus à Blondello arguitur. Irenæus πρεσβύτερος, verè dictus, qui & Episcopus. Νεώτεροι, Lu. 22. 26.

§. 1. RESTAT unicum, quod appellat, Gallicanæ Ecclesiæ testimonium, quod, ut cum commodo suo proponat D. Blondellus, Eusebii imprimis, dein Charissimi Hieronymi (ut & Fastos Græcos taceam) παρεράματα, necessariò per modum παρασκῆς, ab illo coarguenda erant. Nam, si aut Eusebius non deliraverit, aut Hieronymus Eusebianam hallucinationem novis παρεράμασι non cumulaverit, aut Fasti Siculi totam luculentissimæ Historiæ seriem non conspurcaverint, nullum planè hîc, quod in nos vibrari posset, telum, Gallicana Ecclesia D. Blondello largitura erat.

Apol. p. 23.

Illud hîc nobis fixum & rarum esse volumus, Chronologicis disceptationibus, satis quidem & turbidis, & obscuris, in operis non adeò fœcundi, aut placidi exitu, nullatenus immisceri.

§. 2. Nos, ne à D. Blondello hâc in re vel latum unguem abscedamus, & sic pro thesauro Carbones in pretio habuisse dicamur, libenter concedemus Polycarpum An. Dom. 167. gladio confossum esse, Junilque sequentis 2^do^, Potbinum, Christum Lugduni confessum, animam efflâsse, sic ut Irenæus successor ejus relictus, anno Episcopatûs, vel nono, vel decimo A. Ch. 177. Romam Gallorum Legatus profectus sit.

§. 3. Quid igitur ad Episcoporum & Presbyterorum ἰσοτιμίαν confirmandam, Gallicanæ istius Epistolæ, quâ munitus Irenæus legationem istam susceperit, testimonium facturum est? Certè quicquid sit, ab Irenæo Episcopo, jam supra Presbyterorum paritatem assurgente (nec, uti spero, Uriæ, quas dicimus, literis, ab Ecclesiâ, cui præsidebat, bonisque Christi martyribus, instructo,) deferebatur. Certè & id integris 40. annis post D. Blondelli æram, ex qua Ecclesiarum, inquit ille, consuetudo immutata est, & toto orbe ad unum cæteris superpositum omnis Ecclesiæ cura pervenit; Nec igitur à testimonio hoc, qualecunque demum sit, nobis valdè metuendum erit.

§. 4. At

§. 4. At quale tandem testimonium? Quæ Lugdunensium Martyrum ad Eleutherium Papam Romanum verba sunt? scilicet, Ταῦτά σοι τὰ γράμματα ἐπεμψάμεθα ὁ ἀδελφὸν ἡμῶν, καὶ κοινωνὸν Εἰρηναῖον κομίσαι, Πάπᾳ Ἐλευθέρῳ, καὶ σοῦ καλῶς ἔχειν σε αὐτὸν ἐν σπουδῇ, ζηλωτὴν ὄντα τῆς διαθήκης τῆ Χριστῦ. Εἰ γὰρ ἔνομεν τόπον τινὶ δικαιοσύνῃ σπεισάμενοι, ὡς Πρεσβύτερον ἐκκλησίας, ὅπερ ἐστὶν, ἐπ' αὐτῷ ἂν σπεύδειν ἂν παρεδίμεθα, Ut has ad te literas deferret fratrem nostrum communicatoremque Irenæum hortati sumus, Pater Eleutherie, Te etiam rogamus, ut eum Christi testamenti Zelatorem existentem, in pretio habeas. Si enim putassemus locum cuiquam justitiam parare, ut Presbyterum Ecclesiæ (ita enim est) eum imprimis commendassemus. Euseb. l. 5. c. 4.

§. 5. Hîc certè libet exclamare, Ad quid perditio hæc? Certè omnia tam prolixè producta ad illud unum collimant, ut Irenæus Episcopus Novennio jam toto in Lugdunensi cathedrâ sedens (ipsius D. Blondelli fidem appello, quàm sit hoc verissimum) à Martyribus Lugdunensibus (nec enim [à delegantibus] illud factum apparet) πρεσβύτερος, (aut Latinè potius loquentibus, Senior) dicatur.

§. 6. Certè de vocis hujus pro Episcopo acceptatione, abundè in prioribus, præsertim *, cùm de Polycarpo sermo incidisset, disseruimus, & in hac re summam & Papiæ, & Irenæi, & Clementis, & Tertulliani concordiam advertimus. Nec igitur Episcopum Irenæum à Lugdunensi Ecclesiâ, aut Seniorem, aut πρεσβύτερον rectè dici potuisse dubitamus. Eo quidem modo, quo à Christo, discipuli, (subjecti, aut inferiores omnes) νεώτεροι simpliciter, Luc. 22. 26. Et in sacro Codice, primíque ævi scriptoribus, Ecclesiarum Pastores aut Præpositi, πρεσβύτεροι, non ut ætatis tantummodo, sed ut ἀξιώματος, aut authoritatis potissimùm titulo, dicebantur. * Dis. 4. c. 2.

7. Mirum est, tanto conatu, & apparatu hoc unum (toties decantatum) denuò ad fastidium à D. Bl. productum esse; At magis stupendum, hâc unâ æquivoci nominis usurpatione, omnem statim Episcoporum ὑπεροχὴν sublatam censeri, idque post tempus illud, quo Episcopos toto Orbe cæteris superpositos esse, ut & Irenæum ad hanc Lugdunensis Cathedræ dignitatem ascendisse, ipse nobis D. Blondellus largiatur.

§. 8. Dabit verò nobis res ista æstimandi copiam, quid demum, aut nobis, aut Lectori expectandum sit, si D. Blondelli vestigiis insistentes, eum ab hoc Gallicana Ecclesiæ de Irenæo testimonio, ad ipsum dein Irenæum, qui proximè succedit, latiùs vindicandum, si insuper ab Irenæo, & ipso singulari Episcopo, ad Victorem Papam, à Victore ad Clementem Alexandrinum, à Clemente ad Tertullianum, à Tertulliano ad Originem, ab Origine ad Cyprianum, aliósque notissimos Episcopalis apicis, vel dignitatis assertores, & propugnatores fidissimos, sequi velimus.

§. 9. Nos quidem prudentiùs otio nostro, pariter, & Lectoris commodo consulendum putavimus, & Dissertationi satis jejunæ & horridæ finem jamdiu exoptatissimum aliquando imposituri, sarcinulas jam nostras breviter colligendas decrevimus.

CON-

CONCLUSIO.

HÆC, quæ jam fusiùs dicta sunt, si cui nondum persuaserint, si post mysterii ἀνομίας, & Antichristi (ut & Diotrephis, & Corinthiaci schismatis) procul ab Episcopis nostris depulsam invidiam; Si post Ignatio primævo Martyri, & Hierarchiæ nostræ fidissimo ὑπερασπιστῇ abstersam labem omnem, authoritatémque ejus, firmissimis demum columnis stabilitam, & testimonia tam frequentia & manifesta ex eo pro Episcopis prolata, ut nihil contra apertissimam lucem adhuc vel fingi potuerit, nisi ut Ignatius Epistolas nunquam scripsisse credatur; Si post ipsius etiam Hieronymi liquidissimas confessiones, sic ut causæ nostræ satis prolixè suffragari, refragari neutiquam existimandus sit; Si post singula hâc in re S. Scripturarum loca, æquâ lance perpensa (sic ut ἄπιστος nunquam non, πρωτοβάτης plerunque, si non semper, veri nominis Episcopum significare reperiatur) si post regimen Ecclesiæ Christianæ adeò graphicè in iis delineatum, ut à Christo magno animarum pastore, & Episcopo, ad singulares Apostolos, eosdemque Episcopos, ab Apostolis dein ad singulares in quolibet cœtu, & propri dictos Episcopos (ipso Christo instituente officium, Spirituque sancto personas designante) continuâ successione derivatum, ad Universæ tandem, per quindecim sæcula, Ecclesiæ Episcopos (solo, per tot sæculorum decursum, Aërio contrà hiscente) descendisse appareat; Si post Clementis Romani (Petri primùm Diaconi, dein in cathedrâ ei succedentis Episcopi) de Episcopis, & Diaconis ab Apostolis ubique constitutis, apertissima producta testimonia; Si post aliorum omnium, quos à Presbyteranorum partibus stetisse D. Blondelli interest, à strophis & technis ejus vindicatas sententias, sic ut per universum Blondellianæ æræ spatium, ad An. Chr. 140. porrectum, quo integro intervallo à solis Presbyteris ἰσοτίμοις Ecclesias ille singulas procuratas affirmat, testimonium unicum, aut è sacris, aut Ecclesiasticis scriptis (ipsóve demum Hermâ) produci nequeat, quod ἰσοτιμίαν isti quovismodo faveat; Denique, si post tot ab omni ævo producta decreta, quibus in universum Presbyteris sine Episcopo quidvis faciendi potestas abjudicatur, omnísque in Ecclesiâ Christi potestas singularibus Episcopis, Apostolorum successoribus, concredita affirmatur; adhuc cuivis dubitandum videatur, annon omnis administrandæ Ecclesiæ (Episcopis postmodum natis) Presbyterorum consessibus à Christo & Apostolis tradita fuerit; Si post tantam, inquam, undique circumfusam claritatem, adhuc cæcutire quisquam, aut oculos obfirmare decreverit, Unicum certè supereſt, quod istis, quæ dicta sunt, adjici opportunè queat, nempe ut Paritatis, aut ἰσοτιμίας Presbyteranæ Origines, aut Natales juxtà positi, coram æquis judicibus trutinentur, ut integræ rei gestæ Annales (quibus demum initiis, & gradibus inter mortales primùm conspici, dein augeri, adolescere, tandémque lacertos movere Presbyteratus cœperit) dilucidè, & ex ipsis, seu χάρτων, seu ἀντίγραφων archivis aut commentariis desumpti, & à primo (parente dicam, an creatore?) Johanne Calvino, ad ultimum D. Blondellum deducti, conscribantur, ut sic, factâ comparatione, ad æquos arbitros res tota referatur, simúlque omnibus palam fiat, quid in hâc filiorum contra Patres insurgentium arenâ, hâc νεωτερίζοντων palæstrâ, & agone unusquisque præstiterit, & quæ demum tanti moliminis gratia, à Christo, ab Apostolis, à primævis Ecclesiæ columnis, à φιλαρχαίοις (ad quos D. Blondellus provocat) omnibus, à pace, & unitate Ecclesiæ universæ, à Principibus Christianis, ab ipsâ denique plebe, cui rem adeò gratissimam se fecisse spondent, singulis debeatur.

At & hæc certè ea sunt, quæ aut à me, aut à fratribus meis (utut breviter) perstringi (cùm sine Satyrâ non possint) non optaverim. Det Deus, ut consiliis istis locus non sit, ut ingratissimas operas nulla à nobis necessitas extorqueat.

Valeat Vir Doctissimus, Pacémque & Ordinem Ecclesiasticum boni consulat, Nec ad illud (adeò ipsi non inutile futurum) hac qualicunque operâ nostrâ uti dedignetur.

INDEX

INDEX copiosus Rerum & Verborum, & Locorum Sacræ Scripturæ.

Numerus 1 Dissertationem, 2 Caput, 3 Paragraphum, 4 Paginam denotat.

A.

Abel sacrificium, 2. 6. 10. 749.

Acius Apostolorum unius Pauli historiam describit, 4. 1. 2. 793.

Ἀδιάπαυστον Εὐσέβειαν exercent, qui pro Christo pati recusant, 1. 3. 26. 727.

Adventus Christi medius ad ultionem de Judæis χειροκτόνοις sumendam, 1. 2. 2. 721. Ejus σημεῖα, ibid. Adventus Christi, quibusdam astantibus, Joanni proculdubio spectandus, de secundo intelligendus contra Judæos, 1. 3. 22. 726.

Acrius argumento Cathedræ honoris pro Presbyterorum ἰσοκαθεδρίᾳ militat, 3. 8. 6. 787.

Ἀγοραῖοι, ὑπηρέται aut lictores, qui ἐν ἀγορᾷ τοῖς ἄρχουσι inserviebant, 1. 3. 2. 723.

Αἷμα τῶν δικαίων, 1. 3. 2. 723.

Τῆς Αἰῶνος συντέλεια, Judaici aut Mosaici sæculi consummatio, 1. 2. 2. 722.

Αἰῶνος μέλοντος πατήρ, Christus, 3. 2. 4. 777.

Alexandrina Cathedra Patriarchalis à Sancto Marco plantata, 4. 5. 12. 798.

Alexandrinus Patriarcha, 3. 10. 2. 792.

Alphæum inter & Cleopham differentia, 4. 3. 3. 794.

Altare cingere, 1. 13. 8. 740. Altaris & Mensæ discrimen in eo, quòd Mensa communiter pro qualibet communi mensâ sumatur, Altaris nomen ad usus sacros ἰδίως accommodatur, 2. 6. 1. 748. Intra Altare esse, est cum Episcopo unitatem colere, 2. 6. 16. 750. Altare unum tantùm antiquitus in unius Regionis Ecclesiâ, 3. 8. 15. 788. Altare contra Altare, ibid.

Ἀμφίασις ἱερατικὴ, τυπίσι τῶν ἱερῶν φρίκτρων ὑπερεσίαις, 4. 27. 18. 823.

Ἀναγνώσης apud S. Justinum Martyrem legit populo Scripturas, 4. 15. 3. 809.

Ἀνάμνησις θυσίας in Cruce præstitæ, in Altari quotidie celebratur, 2. 6. 11. 749.

Ἀνάστασις σαρκικὴ καὶ πνευματική. Quid? 2. 11. 3. & 4. 756.

Ancyranus Canon de Chorepiscopis non stabilit Presbyterorum ἰσοκαθεδρίαν, 3. 8. 1. &c. 787. Ancyrani Canonis mens, de Cathedrâ Presbyteris concessâ, 3. 8. 7. 787. Ancyrani Canonis 12. partis 1. mens de Chorepiscopis tractantis, 3. 8. 3. 786. Ejusdem, partis 2. mens & varia lectio, 3. 9. 1. &c. 791. Ancyranus Canon truncatus, verbo uno aut altero supplendus, 3. 9. 4. & 5. &c. ib. Canon ejus 12. ἰσοτιμίᾳ Presbyteranæ non favet, ib. 10. 792.

S. Andreas in Achaiâ, 3. 4. 15. 781.

Angeli Apocalyptici, Episcopi, 4. 4. 2. 796. Ephori, ibid. Astra, à Christo saltem comprobati, ibid. §. 4. Metropolitæ, 4. 5. 1. 797.

Ἀσχέλει titulo summus sacerdos insignitus, 4. 4. 2. 796.

Anglicanæ Reformationis fundus, ut primæ Scripturis, secundæ primorum sæculorum Episcopis, &c. deferantur, 1. 14. 13. 742.

Anianus Alexandriæ Patriarcha, 3. 10. 4. 792. Idem dictus Ananias, §. 9. 179. Neronis 8. 4. 5. 12. 798.

Animam salvam facere, S. Mat. 16. 25. non de æternâ animæ salute, sed de vitæ nimiâ, & cum fidei dispendio conjunctâ solicitudine intelligendum, 1. 3. 22. 726.

Ἀνομίας μυστήριον de Simone & Gnosticis intelligendum, 1. 9. 20. 335.

Ὁ ἄνομος ἔπεκλ. Gnostici scil. exutâ Christiani nominis larvâ, se palam ostentantes, 1. 9. 18. 334.

Antichristi descriptiones apud SS. Joan. & Paulum Episcoporum σφετερίαν non enervant, 1. 2. 1. 721. Ἀντίχριστος ἤδη νῦν, Sancti Joannis ævo, 1. 12. 3. 737. Antichristus non negat Dei Monarchiam, 1. 12. 13. 738. sed JESUM esse Christum, ibid. Antichristi, 1 S. Joannis 2. 18. & 4. 3. iidem, 1. 12. 20. 21. 42. & 1. 10. 1. 735. Antichristi nominis notatio, 1. 10. 11. 737.

Ἀπλολογία Κορέ, 1. 12. 5. & 6. 738.

Antiochia Metropolis fuit, 2. 7. 14. 752. Syriæ, 4. 5. 10. 798. A SS. Petro & Paulo πεπαμπιμβόλη, 5. 1. 15. 825. Antiochiæ utraque Ecclesia tam Judæorum quàm Gentium sub Ignatio feliciter coaluit, 5. 1. 18. 825. Ejus Episcopus tertius, Ignatius, ibid.

Antiochenus Canon 10. explicatur, 3. 8. 25. 789. Antiocheni Canones à Blondello detorti, 3. 8. 32. 790.

Aoristus ἐφορδίσατι non præterita tantùm sed futura etiam comprehendit, 1. 3. 2. 723.

Ἀπαρχαὶ quid apud S. Clementem, 5. 5.

Ἀπόκρυφον non statim πίβδηλον, aut ψευδεπίγραφον, 2. 7. 4. 751. Non semper γνήσιῳ & δοκίμῳ, sed libris Canonicis opponitur, ibid.

Ἀπολελυμένως æquivalet τῷ sine titulo, 3. 8. 39. 790.

Ἀποστασία ante Christi adventum futura, quid significat, 1. 9. 4. & 5. 733.

Apostolorum à Judæis abscessio ansa à Gnósticis arrepta ad Christianos opprimendos, 1. 8. 3. 732. Apostolorum nomine Apostolica scripta intelliguntur, 2. 21. 3. 762. Apostoli πρεσβυτέριον Ἐκκλησίας, 2. 21. 3. 762. Christianum Synedrium, ib. Apostolorum primus regendæ Ecclesiæ modus, 2. 29. 20. 773. Apostoli per gradus promoti, 3. 1. 6. 776. Apostoli inter Judæos nuntii ordinarii, ib. §. 8. Archisynagogorum nuntii, inter Talmudicos, ibid. ἐξάποστοι, ib. διόδευμοι, & διαπρεσβύται, ib. literis scriptis semper muniti, §. 9. & ad tempus tantùm, ib. Apostoli apud τὰς συνέδρια, συμφώνους, &c. §. 10. γραπτοί. §. 11. Apostoli missi cum diplomate ad ἀρχὼ originem ducunt ex illo πέμπειν S. Joannis 20. 21. 3. 1. 12. ibid. Apostoli munus ut ab ἄρχουσι πρὸ ἐθνῶν differat, 3. 2. 8. 777. 778. non in lucrum cedit, sed ministerium trahit secum, 3. 2. 8. 778. Apostoli cujusque singularis ὑπεροχὴ, 3. 2. 12. ib. singuli δημόσιοι, 3. 3. 11. 779. Apostolorum successores Episcopi; testantibus Patribus, 3. 3. 14. &c. 780. 4. 1. 9. 781. Eorum χλῆροι singulares, 3. 4. 2. 781. sua cuique Provincia assignatur, ibid. 781. tanquam ad μονομαχίαν singuli, non ut ad πόλεμον universi προδίδοσθαι jubentur, 3. 4. 5. 781. per gradus evecti ad Apostolatum, 3. 4. 16. ib. ad Diaconatum quasi, primò. Quasi ὑπηρέται, ib. ad Presbyteratum, 17. 782. ad Episcopatum, ib. 16. ad Apostolatum, ib. 20. Per se, ut Episcopi Ecclesias, quas plantarunt, administrarunt, 4. 2. 1. 793. Apostoli secundarii ejusdem jurisdictionis & nominis participes cum primariis, 4. 3. 1. 794. Ἀποστόλους ὠνόμαζον τοὺς τῶν καλουμένων Ἐπισκόπους. Theodoret, 4. 3. 24. 796. Apostoli, qui, 4. 13. 11. 808. Apostolorum ævum ad S. Joannis exitum protelandum, 4. 17. 2. 810. Eorum ἀξία super Episcopos, 4. 20. 8. 815. Apostoli Ignatio πρεσβυτέριον Ἐκκλησίας, 4. 21. 6. 817.

Archiepiscopi, per provincias instituti Episcopi, 3. 8. 19. 788.

Ἀρχιερωσύνης arrogatio ἀπλολογία Κορέ, 1. 12. 8. 738. Gnosticis impacta ab Apostolis, ibid.

Ἀρχισυνάγωγος, 1. 13. 6. 740.

Ἀρχιτεκλίνου munus, 4. 23. 8. 819.

Ἄρχοντες, qui, 3. 2. 9. 778.

Argumentum ab Actis Ignatianis negativum nihil concludit contra Epistolas Ignatii, 2. 10. 2. 755.

Argumentis Blondelli contra Epistolas Ignatii respondetur, 2. 8. &c. Argumenta probabilia ex reipsâ nihil valent contra testimonia, 2. 23. 6. 763.

Armachani versio Latina Epistolarum S. Ignatii Vossiano Græco Exemplari respondet, 2. 2. 9. 746.

Asiæ septem Ecclesiæ, Metropoles, 4. 5. 16. 798. Earum fata, ibid.

Asia, quæ & Natolia, non unica Asiæ civitas, S. Paulo πλίνθιον dicitur, 4. 8. 6. 802. Ejus Metropolis, Ephesus, 4. 8. 8. 802. per Asiam πεντάπολις à S. Paulo insumpta, 4. 8. 13. ib.

Astra, quo nobis propiora, eò lucidiora, 2. 18. 5. 760.

Authoritas Charitativa & Despotica, 3. 2. 11. 778.

Azanitæ: illis Diaconi respondent, 4. 26. 4. 821.

Ἀφθαρσία charitatis, Gnosticorum impurissimis doctrinis, factisque opponitur, 1. 6. 8. 730.

Ἀφελίζειν, quid, 4. 19. 14. 814.

B.

Baptismus, Ignatio βάπτα, 2. 12. 2. 756.

Baptista Discipulus Christi, ideóque Apostolis minor, 3. 5. 9. 783.

Barchochebas, sub Adriani imperio, Judæorum ἀρχηγέτης contra Christianos, 1. 3. 2. 723.

S. Barnabas Dei καρδιογνώστου ἀναδείξει ad Apostolatum electus, 3. 5. 25. 784. & 4. 1. 1. 793. Epistola ejus mysticis Gnosticorum Scripturæ explicationibus opposita, 1. 7. 5. 731. & 4. 13. 18. 195.

Barsabas è Septuaginta unus, 3. 5. 11. 783.

Basilides venena sua Simoni accepta refert, 1. 3. 10. 724.

Basilius de Virginitate Mariæ Diabolum latente, 2. 17. 5. 759.

Bellum cœlestium & terrestrium Fide & Charitate dissolvitur, 2. 10. 1. 761.

Blondelli Objectiones contra Ignatium, 2. 11. 1. 756. ad Armachanum literæ, 2. 9. 7. 754. Blondello τὸ ψεύδους αἶπος, mutatio Μαθητὴς in Ἀποστόλους, 3. 5. 26. 784. Blondellus agnoscit discrimen inter Episcopos & Presbyteros ante Justini tempora, 4. 17. 2. 810. agnoscit receptam à Tertulliano Episcopi, Presbyteri & Diaconi distinctionem, 4. 22. 16. 818.

Burgensis ex Judaismo ad fidem Christi conversus, 4. 13. 20. 808. Egemon, i. e. Episcopus dictus, ibid.

Βύθου καὶ Σίγης mentio apud Ignatium non abjudicat illi Epistolas, 2. 9. Eorum combinatio Gnosticis ab Irenæo imputata, 2. 9. 13. 755.

C.

Canon Apostolorum 33, illustratur, 3. 7. 10. 786.

Canonum vim de Episcopis σοφῷ φαρμάκῳ eludere conatur Blondellus, 3. 7. 9. ib.

Carnem vestram, ut Templum Dei servare, 2. 9. 5. 760.

Caroli τοῦ μαγέλπου Hendersono de interpretandis Scripturis responsum: scilicet cum Scripturæ sensus sit ipsum κρινόμενον, nullam sibi Primitivæ Ecclesiæ suffragio methodum idoneam magis videri, 1. 14. 15. 753.

Cataphryges mulieres ad prædicandum ordinari voluerunt, 4. 27. 15. 823.

Cathedræ honos Presbyteris concessus, quis, 3. 8. 7. 787.

Cathedra Episcopi non nisi in urbe, 3. 8. 16. 788.

Cathedra Doctori ἰδίως competit, 4. 15. 4. 809.

Censuræ Ecclesiasticæ sub titulo Mysterii Iniquitatis rejectæ, vah, 1. 1. 4. 721.

Charitas refrigescens, 1. 2. 5. 722.

Charitas μεθ' ὕβρεως, 1 S. Joan. 4. 18. aut ea est quæ inter verè Christianos reperitur, aut ipsius Dei erga nos, 1. 6. 4. 730.

Character, quid, 2. 9. 9. 754.

Chalcidii Philosophi testimonium de stellâ à Chaldæis observatâ, 2. 18. 3. 760. Illâ scil. descensum Dei venerabilis ad humanæ servationis rerumque mortalium gratiam prænuntiari, ibid.

Χάρις τοῦ πνεύματος ἁγιαστική, 1. 3. 5. 740.

Χάρις Eleemosynæ, 4. 20. 3. 814.

Χειρεῖαι, 4. 16. 2. 810.

Chilias Civitatem denotat, 4. 19. 2. 813.

Χώρα, quid, 3. 8. 18. 788. Ejus variæ acceptiones, ibid.

Chorepiscopi, qui? 3. 8. 12. ibid. Episcopi ex vi nominis, ibid. Canon Ancyranus de Chorepiscopis non stabilit Presbyterorum ἰσοβαθμίαν, 3. 8. 1. &c. 787. Episcopalem ordinationem aliquando acceperunt, 3. 8. 25. 789. Vicarii Episcoporum, ibid εἰς τύπον τῶν ἑβδομήκοντα, 3. 8. 29. 789. Non licuit illis Episcopum, Presbyterum aut Diaconum ordinare, 3. 8. 34. 790. Licuit illis inferiores ordines constituere, ibid. de illis Ancyrani Canonis mens, 3. 8. 37. ibid. attestatur Antiochenus Canon 10. §. 38. ib. de iisdem & eorum autoritate S. Basil. 3. 8. 38, ibid. verè Episcopi, sed non Civitatum, 3. 8. 41. ib. Civitatis Episcopis subjacentes, ib. Episcopi quantum ad Ordinationem, non titulum, ib. sine titulo ordinati, suadente necessitate, ib. nihil illis licebat ἐν Κυριακῇ πόλεως præsente Episcopo aut Presbytero Civitatis, ibid. §. 42. Protestatum priùs concreditarum exercitium illis interdicitur, ibid. Ne faciant Presbyteros aut Diaconos: sic Ancyranum Canonem legit M. S. Arabicus, 3. 9. 2. 791.

Christiani ad Pellam, 1. 2. 4. 722.

Christianæ fidei potissima pars est Crucis gestatio, 1. 3. 3. 723.

Χριστοῦ ἡμέρα, 1. 12. 2. 737. Χριστὸς διὰ τοῦτο μέγαν ἔλαβεν ὕδη τῆς καρδίας ἄπω, ἵνα πνεύῃ τῇ Ἐκκλησίᾳ ἀφθαρσίαν, 2. 16. 1. 758.

Christus ἀρχιερεύς, 2. 5. 1. 747. Christi mors, ut purgaret nos, 2. 16. 5. 759. Christus propriè Episcopus, 3. 1. 5. 775. in terris administravit officium in propriâ personâ, 3. 1. 6. 776.

Civitati cuique suus Pastor, 4. 12. 1. 807.

Claves Οἰκονόμου insignia, 4. 16. 4. 810. Clavium potestas donatur à Christo, 3. 3. 1. 778. per modum ἀγελήψεως, S. Mat. 16. 19. ib. §. 2. quibus terminis clauditur, ib. §. 3. denotat singularem autoritatem in domo Regiâ, ib. §. 4. Clavis domus Davidis primariò & independenter Christo attribuitur, ib. §. 5. Petro, ut singulari personæ data, 3. 3. 8. 779. & §. 12. Apostolis etiam singulis, §. 9. solenni ἐμφυσήσεως ritu, ib.

Clementis Epistola ἀπόκρυφος διάς γεγραφῆς, 2. 7. 5. 751. Locus, Presbyteros Episcopis adæquare visus Blondello, explicatur, 3. 7. 11. 787.

S. Clemens Romanus συνεργὸς S. Pauli: διάκονος S. Petri, Apostolus nuncupatur, 4. 3. 22. 795. & 5. 1. 2. 824. à Petro ordinatus Romanus Episcopus, 4. 4. 5. 797. Vir Apostolicus, Apostolorum comes, Apostolus, 5. 1. 2. 824. Romæ Episcopus singularis, §. 6. quo autem ordine diversæ sententiæ, ib. Epistola ejus ad φάσιν inter Corinthios sedandam missa, ib. §. 3. S. Petro Diaconus postea in Episcopatu succedebat, 5. 1. 10. 825. Judæis & Gentilibus Romæ coalescentibus, simul omnes pascebat, 5. 1. 13. ib.

Cleopham inter, & Alphæum differentia, 4. 3. 3. 194.

Cœtuum frequentium commoda, 2. 20. 1. 761.

Collecta Episcopis concredita, 4. 20. 3. 814.

Confirmatio baptizatorum Episcopis concredita, 4. 15. 3. 809.

Confecrandi Sacramenti potestas nemini, præter Episcopum, canonicè competit, 3. 7. 6. 786.

Consignare pro Consecrare, 3. 7. 7. 782.

Consistorium Judaicum Con. Christiani icon. 1.13.6.740
Corinthiorum Episcopus S. Dionysius, 4.5.15.798. ad Corinthios Epistola ad omnes Achaiæ civitates pertinet, 4.10.17.805. Eorum seditio contra Episcopos Epistolæ S. Clementis occasio, 5.3.3.828.
Corinthum non S. Pauli tantùm, sed & S. Petri φυσείαν fuisse suadet Dionysius Corinthiorum Episcopus, 5.1.20.826. in partes μεριζομένη, Ego Pauli, Ego Cephæ, ib. inde toto orbe decretum, ut ad unum ubique in singulis Civitatib. Episcopum res tota deferretur, ib. Achaiæ, i.e. Græciæ Metropolis, 5.2.3.827. ad Corinthios Epistolæ ad omnes totius Achaiæ Christianos missæ, ib. §.4. & 5. Corinthii & Achaia ἐπισκώμμα, ib. §. 8.
Corpus Christi, Ecclesia, 2.16.4.759.
Cretæ Episcopus, S. Titus, 4.5.15.798. in Cretâ Civitates plus minus centum, 4.12.1.807.
Crucis gestatio Christ. fidei pars potissima, 1.3.3.723.
Cyprianus maluit præceptis Christi obedire, quàm martyrio coronari, 2.10.6.756.

D.

Damas Magnesiorum Episcopus ætate junior fuit, 2.8.3.753. 2 25.17.767. pro Defunctis orandi dogma sine ratione fundatum, 4.10.3.804.
Διακονήματα ἐκκλησίας, 4.23.5.819.
Διακονεῖν quid primariò significet? 4.23.1. ib. vox convivalis apud prophanos autores, ib. §.5.
Διακονεῖσθαι, quid? 4.23.8. ib.
Διακονία ἐκ ἀρ' ἑαυτῶ, modestiam Episc. notat, non extraordinariam, qualis S. Pauli, missionem, 2.19.1.& 2 760
Διακονία τραπέζων, 4.24.3.819. pro χρημάτα, 4.24.5.820. ex alienis, & ex suis, ib. §.6.
Diaconissæ, 4.27.15.823. αἱ ἐν ἡμῖν ἐξητασμέναι, simpliciter χήραι, & ἰδίως πρεσβύτιδες, ib. Earum ἀμφίεσις ἱερατικὴ, ἐκ τῆ ἱερατικῆς σχήματος ὑπογραφείσα, 4.27.18.ib.
Διάκονος ἁμαρτίας designat eum, qui Gentilissimo favet, 4.25.7.821.
Διακονούμενοι Apostoli apud Procopium, reddendum est, aliorum administratione aut liberalitate utentes: cum statim à S. Paulo adjiciatur, ὃς οὐ χρείαν μὴ ἐπέμψατε, 4.24.8.820.
Διακόνες Walo Ministros reddit, solenniter ab omni ævo Diaconos dictos, 2.2.3.745. Diaconi clamantis, μή τις κατὰ τινος, formula unde desumpta? 2.6.3.748. Diaconis Evangelium annuntiandi, & baptizandi potestas competit, 3.4.16.781. Diaconorum officium non restringebatur ad mensarum administrationem, 3 6.2.785. Diaconi distribuebant panem & poculum benedictum apud S. Justinum, 4.15.7.811. Eorum emblemata, septem lampades ignis, 4.20.10.815. Diaconi in V. Test. 4.23.2 818. in Novo, ib. Diaconi apud prophanos, qui μυῖδας dispensant, 4.23.6.819. secundùm hunc ritum intelligendum est illud Christi, S. Luc. 12.17. de Domino famulos suos convivio excipiente, §. 8. ib Diaconi septem in Ecclesiâ Hierosol. numero ipso ad septem Eunuchos τὰς διακόνες, Isth. 1.10. forte an respiciunt, 4.24 1.819. Eorum officium, ib. ex sensu V. & N. Test. 4 25.1.& 2.820. Diaconus refertur ad οἰκονομίαν, 4.25.5.298. Diaconus sacri Codicis τυχολόσημα, 4.26.1.821. Eorum à Judæis origo petenda, 4.26.2. ib. Diaconus tatùm unus, aut plures Episcopis adjuncti, νῦν ὄντες κηρύσσοντες, 4 26.8 ib. Diaconi soli Episcopis initio adjuncti, 5.4.3.829. non ætate sed merito electi, 5.5.16.531.
Diaboli quorundam nescientia, 2.17.1.759.
Διαβόλῳ λατρεύειν, quid? 2.14.6.758.
Διδασκαλία differt à λόγῳ, 3.6.7.785.
Διδάσκαλοι, qui? 4.13.13.808. Episcopi, 4.15.1.809. ut à Prophetis distinguuntur, 4.15.4. ib. Cathedra illis ἰδίως competit, ib.
Διδάσκειν differt ab εὐαγγελίζεσθαι, 3.6.7.785. primariò Episcopo, nec alteri cuivis competebat, nisi cui ab Episcopo mandatum, 4.15.3.809.
Dilectio animatrix confessionis, 1.3.14.725.
Dilectio Christi apud S. Paulum, 1 Cor. 16.22. non de interno amore explicari debet, cum interni affectus, utcunque vitiosi, sub censuram, seu Anathema Ecclesiasticum non cadant, 1.6.7.730.
Διοικήσεις contradistinguuntur Ἐπαρχίαις sive Provinciæ, 4.5.3.797.
Dionysius Corinthiorum Episcopus, circa annum Christi 175. 4.5.15.798. ἀρχαῖον τι, ibid.
Dionysius Areopagita primus Athenensis Episcopus, 4.17.10.811.
Discipulorum Prophetarum officium, 3.5.6.782.
Dispositio Dominica quid Hieronymo in hac quæstione? 2.29.18.124.
Doctores & Pastores idem, 3.6.8.785.
Doctores in Scholis, S. P. longè recentiores, 4.15.5.809
Doctrinæ unitas ad pacem necessaria, 4.15.3. ib.
Δοκηταὶ ab Ignatio vapulant, 2.11.4.756.
Dominicus dies Sabbato præferendus, 2.4.2.747. Ejus observandæ traditio, ibid.
Dominicum celebrare te credis, qui in Dominicum sine sacrificio venis? S. Cyprian, 2.6.8.749. tam de loco, quàm de die dictum.
Δώρων ἁγίων, quam antiqui Patres nuncupant, unde sumpta? 2.6.3.748.
Dositheus Samaritanus se Christum esse suis persuasit, 1.2.3.722.
Δόξας βλασφημεῖν, 1.12.5. & 6.738.
Δωμάτων πλήρης Stephanus, i. e. miraculorum dono præditus, 3.5.13.783.
Duplex bonor apud Apostolum ad Tim. quomodo intelligendus? 4 19.14.814.
Δυσκρασία, fœda libidinum colluvies, 2.16.3.759. illi opposita ἀφθαρσία, ibid.

E.

Ebionitæ πλαττῶς & παιπαλῶς de Christo dogmatizabant, 1.12.17.739.
Ἐκκλησία ἡ ἐν Ἀντιοχείᾳ τῆ Συρίας, 2.13.4.757.
Ecclesiæ constitutio quid Hieronymo in hac quæstione? 2.29.18.773.
Ecclesiæ regimen in personâ Chr. fundatum, 3.1.2.775.
Ἐκκλησίαι in plurali in S. Scripturâ & Ἐκκλησία in singulari: discriminis ratio, 4.5.2. & 3.797. κατ' Ἐκκλησίαν, 4.5.3 ib.
Ecclesiarum dependentia à Metropoli ab Apostolis instituta, 4.5.9.798. Ecclesiæ status τὰ πληρώματα τῆ οἰκονομίας ὑπὸ λαοῦσης, apud Epiphanium, 4.11.2.806.
Ἐλαχιστότεροι, vox ex summâ Apostolicæ mentis humilitate efficta, 2.3.5.746.
Electio ad Presbyteros pertinere potest; atque hanc solam Presbyteris astruit S. Hieron. 3.10.9.792.
Ἐνεργεῖται in passivo sensu, 1.9.21.335.
Ἐνταφιασμὸς ad vindicandum mortuorum corpora à putrefactione, 2.16.4.759.
Ἐπαγγελία γνωστικὴ. Professio Gnostica, non esse palam confitendum Christum, nec pro eo subeundum Martyrium, 1.3.12.724.
Epaphroditus Philippensium Apostolus, i.e. Episcopus, Theodoreto, 4.3.21.795.
Ephesi 27. Episcopi ante Conc. Chalcedonen. 4.4.4. 797. Asiæ Metropolis, 4.8.8.802.
Ἐφέσιοι ἀπὸ Σμύρνης, 4.5.10.798. & 4.10.3.804.
Ἐπὶ cum quarto casu significat κατὰ, adversùs, 1.9.11.733.
Ἐπαγγελία, quid, 4.24.5.820.
Ἐπινομὴ apud S. Clementem, quid, 5.7.8.833.
Episcopalis dignitas nullo, præter Aerium, autore rejecta, 1.12.23.739. Ejus semina sub Apostolorum ævo sata, 1.14.1.741. Episcopalis Ordinatio sine titulo, 3.8.28.789. Ep. dignitatis characteres, 4.20.10.815.
Episcopatus Gnosticis nihil debuit, 1.12.5.738. Episcopatus desiderium omne (sive per ἐπίνοιαν sive per ἐπιθυμεῖν significatum) non est malum, 1.3.9.740. Episcopatus, si κανονικὴ τάξις in Ecclesiâ fuerit sub temporib. Ignatii, Apostolicus certè & antiquus satis, 2.8.8.753. Rem esse antiquissimam agnoscit Walo, 1.4.10.742. Circa initium aut medium secundi sæculi, Anno Christi 135. Anno à S. Joannis dormitione 35. 1.14.18.743.

Ἐπισκοπὴ ἀρχὴ significat in N. Test. & dominium, sed charitativum, 4. 7. 12. 801.

Episcopi honos custoditus, Gnosticorum gangrænæ minuendæ optimum remedium, 1.12.13.738. Episcopi δῆθεν, 1.13.7.ib. Episcopus in medio sedet, 1.13.8.739 Episcopi & Presbyt. ἀρχιερεῖς & ἱερεῖς dicti, 2.5.1.723 Christi in cœlis regnantis vicem in Ecclesiâ gerunt, 2. 5.1.748. Episcoporum necessitas triplex, apud Ignatium, 2.21.763. 1. Unitatis conservatio, §.3. 2. Disceptationum præventio, §.4. 3. Gnosticorum venena, §.5 Eorum superioritas ex Hieronymi testimoniis comprobata, 2 28.1.771. inter Traditiones Apostolicas ab eo numerata, ib. & 2.29.1.ib. Apostolorum successores, 3.3.14.&c.780. Principes Ecclesiæ Hieronymo in Psal.45. Episcopi κατὰ πόλεις Ignatio, 3.4.6.781. Illis totius Ecclesiæ ὄπισθεν in clavibus promissis, & datis concredebatur, 3.4.18.782. Illis solis potestas in Ecclesiâ ab Apostolis communicata, 3.5.1.ib. Ἐπίσκοπον εἰς πρεσβυτέρου καταγειν βάθμον ἱερωσυλίας, Conc. Chal 3.5. 23.784. Episcopus δεῖ πᾶσι δμῦν τὸ λαὸν τῦ Κυείυ. Apostolorum Can.41.3.7.1.786. Curator indigentium, 3.7.8.ib. Magnus Ecclesiæ Oeconomus, Apost. Can.41 3.7 1.ib. Episcopi κατὰ πόλεις, 3.8.14.788. Episcoporum Cathedræ extra necessitatem non sunt multiplicandæ, 3.8.23.ib. Ἐπισκόπυ χειροθεσίαν λαβεῖν, quid, 3.8.25. & 26.789. Ἐπισκόπυς τὲς νῦν καλυμβρῦς ὠνόμαζον Ἀποστόλυς, Theod.4.3.24.796. Episcoporum ordo ad originem recensus in Joannem (Apostolum) stabit autorem, *Tertul.*4.4.5.797. Episcopi & Presbyteri vocum promiscuus usus, 4.6.2.799 non adjuvat Presbyteranos, 4. 6.5. & 8.801. singulares urbium præfecti, Apostolorum tempore, 4.6.5.800. Episcopi vocabulo soli singulares Episcopi in N. Test. intelliguntur, 4.6.10.ib. Episcopi vox in V. Test. variè usurpatur, 4.7.1.ib. apud prophanos autores, ib. 2. Episcopi titulo ὄπισθε aut πρεσβύτης constanter apud Helleniftas Interpretes in V. Test. indigitatur, 4.7 10.801. Episcopi vocis usus in N. Test 4 8.1.ib. Episcopi quandoq; plures in eâdem civitate, 4.10 9.805. nunquam sine Diacono, 4.10.18 806. per Episcopos & Diaconos administrata omnia, nascente Ecclesiâ 4.11.2.ib. Episcopi κατὰ πόλιν, 4.12.1. 807. Episcoporum χρῖσις & χειροτονία, 4.12.2.ib. quandoq; à Cathedris distenti, 4.13.14.808. Pastores ἰδίως, 4.14.3. & 4.809. Διδάσκαλοι, 4.15.1.ib. Episcopis διδάσκειν primario competit, nec aliis, nisi quibus ab Ep. mandatum, 4.15 3.ib. illis concredita Doctrinæ & unitatis cura, & Confirmatio, ib. Episcopus οἰκονόμος Θεῦ, 4.16.4 810. Episcopos inter & Presbyteros discrimen ante Justini tempora agnoscunt Walo & Blondellus, 4.17.2. ib. de Episcoporum primâ institutione sine secundariis Presbyteris, Epiphanii testimonium, 4.19.4.813. Episc. Collecta concredita, 4.20.3.814. Infirmorum visitatio & pauperum cura ad illos pertinet, 4.21.6.816. de Episcopis locus illustris S. Clementis, 5.7.8.833. Episcoporum constitutio non προπυλωσία, sed S. Sancti revelationi imputatur, 5.5.12.830

Episcoporum Asiæ rogatu S. Joan. Evan. scripsit, 4.8.2.801

Episcopi in Egypto plures præter Alexandrinum Patriarcham, 3. 10. 3.792.

Ἐπισυναγωγὴ, 1.9.2.732. δῆθεν συναγωγῆς ἐγκατάλειψις, 1.7.1.731

Erastus οἰκονόμος τῆ πόλεως, 5.3. 5.828.

Ἐυαγγέλιον ὡς σὰρξ Ἰησῦ, quid, 2. 21. 3. 762.

Evangelista Apostolorum σύνεργοι & συγκαπῶ), 3.6.1.785 è 70. Discipulis allecti, ib. Eorum munus, 3.6.2.ib. Diaconi illis exæquati, 3. 6. 3. ib. Eorum munus non extendebatur ad χειροτονίαν, 3.6.6.ib. Qui? 4.13.12. 808. Ἐυαγγελισῦ ἔργον, quid? Non credentibus fidem annuntiare, & κηρύσσειν, 3. 6. 9.785.

Ἐυαγγελίζεδαι ut differat à διδάσκειν, 3. 6. 7. ib.

Euodius Petro in Ecclesiâ Judæorum Antiochiæ successit, 5. 1. 18. 826.

Eutychius Author non adeò venerandus, Analista Alexandrinus, Originúmque scriptor, 3. 10. 1. 792. Patriarchas Alexandrinos cum ordinatione manuum 12. Presbyterorum factos ex S. Marci jussu affirmat, ibid. Fides nulla illi adhibenda, ib. aperta ejus ἀγνοησία, ib.

F.

Fermentum putre in ore Th. non bene olet, 2.3.5.746

Fides ἀναγωγὴς, 2. 12. 2 756.

Flamma Hebræis, lingua ignis, 3. 3. 10. 779.

G.

Galilæa Gentium, Gentium via, 3.5.33.784.

Gazophylacium, Thesaurus seu Corban, apud Cyprianum, reponendis καρποφορίαις, 2.6.10.749.

Γενεὰ, quid, 1. 2. 2. 722.

Genevensis, sive Videliana, fornax Hieraticis non favet, 2. 2. 7. 745.

Gentibus Evangelium annuntiandum immediatè ante cladem Hierosolymitanam, 1. 8. 1. 732.

Γλῶσσαι πνεῦς super singulos, 3. 3. 10. 779.

Gnostici ante excidium Hierosolymitanum, 1.3.1.723. &c. Gnosticorum historia à S. Paulo sub titulo γνώσεως, à Christo per τὰ βεβήλε κενοφωνίας designatur, 1. 3. 1.ib. ψευδάδελφοι, 1.3.2.ib. Gnosticorum illecebra duplex, quâ ibidinibus, quâ incolumitati consulebatur, 1.3.4.724. Carnales & timidi, ib. Apoc. 21.8. designati, ib. γνώσεως ψευδωνύμε ἀρχηγοὶ, & οἱ ἀληδῶς γνωστικοὶ apud S. Clementem opponuntur, 1.3.5.ib. Eorum argumenta contra Martyrium, 1. 3. 13. 725. Inimicorum crucis σκιαφοσι innuuntur, 1.3.26.726. Christianorum infestissimi hostes, 1.4.1.ib. Eorum schisma, 1.4.2.728 Gnostici tantùm æquivocè dicti, 1.4.2.ib. illis n. applicandum illud S. Joannis, ἐκ ἦσαν ἐξ ἡμῶν, ib. ἔδιακτον καὶ κατάδικον, ideóque κύνες λυκοῦντες, & κατατομὴ appellantur, 1.4.2.ib. & διωκτὰ πλὴν ἀγαδῶν, 1.4 3.ib. Illis etiam ἀνταλλαγία τῆ Κορὲ, & ἡ πλάνη τῆ Βαλαὰμ, & ἡ ὁδὸς τῆ Κάϊν objicitur, 1.4.4.729. E Simonis familiâ orti per Menandrum & Carpocratem, 1. 5. 1. ib. Pseudoprophetæ, Pseudodoctores, Pseud-apostoli, πνεύματα πλάνα, διδασκαλίας δαιμονίων invehentes, ib. ἑτεροδιδασκαλοῦντες. Ποιεισμὸν εἶ) εὐσέβειαν putantes. Ψευδωνύμου γνώσεως, & τῦ μηδὲν ὄντος βίβλους, πεπυρωμένους ἢ titulo insigniti. Illis etiam φιλαργυρίας malum, & τὸ βούλεδαι πλουτεῖν objicitur, 1. 5. 2. ib. Illis opponitur ὁ ἀληδῶς γνωστικὸς, qui novit jejunii ænigmata, dierum scil. quartæ & sextæ, 1. 5. 2. ibid. ad eorum castra defecerunt Christiani plurimi, per speciosum fidei nomen illecti, 1.5.4.ib. γνῶσιν, i.e. Scripturæ S. mysticè interpretandæ facultatem sibi arrogabant, 1.7 4 731. Eorum simulatio, donec Apostoli solennem nuncium Judæis remisissent. Canes λαροδόκλαι, 1.8.3.732. in ordinem redigere Apostolos volunt, ἀνυπόταικοι, 1.12.12.738. instantis exitii Judaici prodromi, 1. 8. 14. 739. multa in usus suos deprompserunt à Paganis & Judæis, ibid. Eorum παιδεία, ibid. Simoni Deo πρεπεία deferunt. Christóque autoritatem abrogant, ib. §.19. Simonem Spiritum S. à Deo promissum ἔδιγλυπον venditant, ib. Eorum hæreseôs tria capita, 2. 19. 5. 761.

Γνώμη Apostoli Pauli, quid? 2. 29. 19. 773.

Gortyna Cretæ Metropolis, 4. 5. 15. 798.

H.

Hæresiarchæ ab Apost. λύκοι βαρεῖς dicti, 1.4 6.729.

Hæretica segetis universæ semina in ψευδωνύμου γνώσεως hæresi jacta sunt, 1. 3. 10. 724.

Hæreticis solenne est contra-sentientes condemnare, 1. 4. 6. 729.

Hebræis desunt comparationum gradus, 4. 19. 2. 812.

Hegesippus δῆθεν τῆς πρώτης τῶν Ἀποστόλων διαδοχῆς, 5.1.4 824. Testimonium ejus de Episc. Romanorum serie, ibid.

Ἡγούμενοι, vocis usus in V. Test. 4.13.2.807. in N. ib. §.5. Dominium summum & ἀνύπονομον significat, ib. Ἡγούμενοι simpliciter, 808. ἐν τῖς ἀδελφοῖς, quare? ib. §.16. ib. Ἡγούμενοι ὑμῶν, Magistratus Civiles dicti: Ecclesiastici, οἱ παρ' ὑμῖν πρεσβύτεροι, 5. 3. 5. 828.

Helena Simonis, primi & supremi Dei, vah! πρώτη ἔννοια, colitur, & adoratur, 1. 9. 11. 734.

Helkesaitarum hæresis, Fidem persecutionis tempore abjurari posse sine peccato, modò quis corde eam retinuerit, 1. 3. 11. 724.

Hellenistæ dicti Græcè loquentes Judæi, 5. 1. 23. 826.

Ἡμέρα ἐπισκέψεως, visitationis scil. eâdem clade Judæos & Gnosticos æquatura, 1. 7. 1. 731.

Hermes & Pastor ejus quid de iis sentiat Blondellus? 5.9 835. Pastor ejus Waloni & Blond. laudatur, 2.7.7.752
Heteriæ vetabantur edicto Plinii, 1.3.28.726.
Ἱερεῖς Episcopos significant, 4.18.3.811.
Ἱερεῖς, 4.27.11.822.
Ἱερεὺς non de sanctitate quavis, sed de separatione ad officia, aut sacros usus, exponendus. Sic ἱερομάρτυς distinguitur ab ἀγομάρτυς: hic quivis de plebe, ille ordinibus sacris initiatus, 4.27.11. ib.
Hieronymi Testimonium de Ignatio, 2.17.3.759. de virginitate Mariæ Diabolum latente, ib. Ejus Testimonia de primitivâ Episc. & Presbyt. ἰσοτιμία à Blond. ovante congesta, 2.27. §.2.3. &c. 269. Natus An. Ch. 342. denatus ante 429. ib. §.8.771. Testimonia 15. ab illo producta pro superioritate Episcop. 2.29.1 ib. commoda interpretatio dictorum ejus de Episcop. & Presbyt. ἰσοτιμία, ib. §.17.772. Diaconorum fastum calcat, ib. §.30.774. nunquam à nostris partibus in hac causâ discessit, quin pariter à seipso abit, ib. Testimonia ejus de Episcoporum Romanorum serie, 5.1.5.825 Hierosolymæ obsidio per Gratum, 1.2.4.722. Hierosol. exercitibus obsessa explicat τὸ βδέλυγμα ἐρημώσεως ἑστὸς ἐν τῷ τόπῳ ἁγίῳ, 1.2.5. ib. Ejus cladis præludia quinq; ib.
Hierosolymitani Episc. 15. ad Adrianeum excidium, divisim alii in Judæor. alii in Gentilium Ecclesiâ (i.e. in Cathedrâ non unâ, sed geminâ) præsederunt, 5.1.24.827
Historiæ soli fides debetur de rebus gestis, 3.5.16.783.
Τῆς Ἁγίας, Apocal. 2.24. sensus, 4.4.3.796.
Ὑπὲρ eodem sensu, quo περὶ non rarò usurpat. 1.9.2.732
Hyperbolæ in S. Scripturis, 2.18.6.760.
Ὑπερχῆ non interdicitur à Christo, sed fastus in Ecclesiâ, 3.2.13.778.
Ὑπερέπει λόγου, 4.16.2.810.
Ὑποδιάκονοι, 4.26.6.820.
Ὑποστολὴ, quid? Heb. 10.33. 1.7.1.731.

I.

S. Jacobi gladio percussi (pari modo quo Ephraim & Manasses demortui Josephi) vicem supplent Paulus & Barnabas, 4.1.1.793.
Jacobus frater Domini non unus è 12. Apostolis, 4.3.2.794. Justus dictus, ib. §.4. Hierosolymitanus Episc. 2.2.3.745. in Ecclesiâ suâ ipsi Petro & Joanni præponitur, ib. §.12.195. Author Epistolæ Cath. sub Jacobi nomine, 4.21.2.816. Neronis 7. πλειώσει suâ donatus, ib. §.4. ib ad Hierosol. Episcopatum promotus, ut Christi ἀνάψυχος, 5.5.13.830.
Identitas tantùm nominalis Episcopi & Presbyteri ab Hieronymo asserta, 2.29.27.773.
Ἴδιον δεῖπνον, 1 Cor. 11.21. quid? 1.14.6.741. ἴδιον μέγεθος, quid S. Ignatio? 2.13.4.757. ἴδιον μέτρον de Ecclesiâ dictum, quid? 4.11.2.806. ἴδιος τόπος, Act. 1.25. non ad Judam defunctum, sed ad successorem superstitem pertinet, per τόπον Provincia intelligenda, 3.4.3.781.
Ignatius, Ejus de Gnosticis Testim. 1.10.7.736. magnificè de Episc. loquitur, & quare, 1.12.13.738. εὐχαρίστως quidem, at nunquam ἁγιάτως, ib. Episc. inprimis favet, 2.1.2.744. Episcopus Antiochenus, Apostolorum σύσχολος, ib. Walo & Blond. illi infensiores, ib. pientissimo athletæ animus martyrii desiderio flagrabat, 2.3.3.746. ἱερομάρτυς, ib. §.4. ib. Θεοφόρος dictus, à Trajano Cacodæmon, ib. §.7.747. Episc. Syriæ, cujus Metropolis Antiochia, 2.7.14.752. illo sublato ἐκκλησία in Syriâ, 2.13 2.757. falli potuit, 2.17.2.759. Epistola ejus ad Romanos nihil habet de Episc. 2.2 1.7.762. Epistolis ejus Patres fidem habuerunt, 2.23.1.763. Ejus Epistolæ in eâdem semper classe cum Clementis & Polycarpi, 2.24.1.764. de ejus Epistolis Testimonia, ib. §.4. ib. Testimonia de Episc. Presbyt. & Diaconis, 2.25 per tot. 766. Doctrinæ ejus de Episc. Presb. & Diac. capita sex. 2.26. per tot. 769. Christum vidisse affirmatur ab Hieronymo, 2.27 8.770. Apostolus vocatur à Chrys. 4.3.23.796. S. Paulo in Ecclesiâ Gentium successit Antiochiæ, 5.1.18.825.
Incisionem arborum in aliam speciem prohibitam Judæis affirmat Maimonides, ut elongemur à causis Idololatriæ & fornicationis, 1.7.5.731.
Innovationum omnium πρόφασις Mysterium Iniquitatis à Presbyteranis arreptum, 1.1.4.721.
Interpolatio & suppositio differunt, 2.2.5.745.
S. Joannis τὸ manere ἕως ἔρχομαι de secundo Christi adventu contra Judæos intelligendum, 1.2 2.722. Ephesi diem obiit, 1.6.4.730. & 5.1.19.826. in Asiâ Episcopus, 3.4.15.781. Evangelium scripsit rogatu Episcoporum Asiæ, 4.8.2.801. Ephesi subsistens universam Asiam gubernabat usq; ad Trajani imperium, 4.8.10.802. Joannes (seu Apostolus, seu Ephesinæ Ecclesiæ Episcopus) 2. & 3. Epistolæ Author sub nomine Joannis, ὁ πρεσβύτερος ἑαυτὸν καλεῖ διὰ τὸ Πρεσβυτέρου, 4.20.17.816. Joannes, si quis Apostolorum, Presbyteros secundarios in Asiâ constituit, 4.21.4. ib. à Joanne juvenis commissus fidei Episcopi, 4 27.15.818. ad vicinas gentium regiones rogatus venit, ὅπου ἐπισκόπους καταστήσων, ὅπου δέ γε κλῆρον ἕνα τινὰ κληρώσας ἢ ἕνα τῶν πνεύματος σημαιοφόρων, 5.4.7.829. creditur esse ille innominatus cum Andreâ. S. Joannis, 1.36.5.5.21.831.
Irenæus puer Polycarpum senem vidit, 2.24.11.765. & 4.4.5.797. Lugdunensis Episcopus, 4.22.12.818. Pothini successor Lugduni, 5.12.2.838.
Ἰσοδυναμίαι quatuor modi, 4.6.3.799.
Judæa primò, ex decreto Dei, Christi fides annuntianda, 3.5.33.784. Judææ Episcopi, Presbyteri dicti, Act. 11.30. 4.20.2.814.
Judæorum rabies in Christianos, 1.2 5.722. persecutionum in Christianos fontes, 1.3.2.723. & ex Tertull.
Judæi vocant Christianorum Episcopos ἡγεμόνας, 4.19.2.812. Judæor. Episc. 15 ad Adrian. obsidionem; omnes Hebræi, 5.1.22.826. Eorum nomina, ibid.
Justini Martyris ævo nondum Presbyt. ubiq; constituti, 4.17.5.811. floruit an. Chr. 135. aut circiter, ib. §.2.
Juvenis à S. Joanne Episc. fidei commissus, 4.22.15.818

K.

Καλὸς βαθμὸς, 4.26.9.821.
Καλῶς διακονήσαντες, 4.26.9. ib.
Καρποφορίαι ad usum pauperum reservatæ, 2.6.10.749.
Κατάκριτος S. Ignatius, non respectu Dei, sed Tyranni, 2.20.2.761.
Καταγνωσθῆναι, 4.23.8.819. καταγνωσθέντες ἢ κλήρων, 4.20.19.816.
Κατάλογος ἁπλῶς sumptus de Ecclesiasticis Electionibus usurpatur, 4.27.9.822. ἱερὸς κατάλογος Ecclesiasticum album, aut matriculam denotat. ib.
Κατάστημα, quid? de Episcoporum & Diaconorum Ordinationibus usurpatum, 4.27.9. ib.
Κατηχισάζειν, 3.2.9.778. & 4.23.8.819.
Τὸ Κατέχον, legis Mosaicæ observatio nondum à Christianis in universum abdicata, 1.9.16.734.
Ὁ κατέχων, aut ὁ νόμος, aut Mosaicorum rituum observatio, 1.9.18. ib.
Καθιστάνειν, quid, 5.5.17.831.
Καθίστασθαι verbum Eccles. pro Ordinare, 4.27.14.822.
Κοινὸν τῆς Ἀσίας Commune Asiæ Conc. 4.8.8.802.
Κυριακὰς ἡμέρας observandæ traditio, 2.4.1.747. annua & hebdomadaria, ibid. cum Κυριακὴ sabatum aliquando observ. ib. τὸ μὲν ἡμιτρίας ἀναίμακτον, ἢ δὲ ἀναστάσεως, ib.
Κυριότης omnis non prohibita. 3.2.10.778.

L.

Laicorum & Clericorum distinctio inde oritur, quòd illi in Ecclesiam per Baptis. hi per χειροτονίαν, aut χειροθεσίαν assumuntur: illi ad modum Gregis, hi Pastorum, 2.6.21.750. Λαϊκῶν Clem. Rom. disertis verbis meminit, quod & Blondellus adversùs Walonem observandum censuit, 2.6.23.751. Laici Presbyteri nulli sunt S. Paulo, 1 Tim. 4. 4.19.17.814.
Laodicenus tepor, 1.6.3.730.
Laodicenus Canon 57. Ancyranum sanat explicátque de potestate Presbyterorum, 3.9.9.792.
Latinæ voces apud S. Ignatium in Græcas versæ, ut ἀκκατία, λοίδορος, &c. illi sæculo familiares, 2.3.8.747. plurimæ etiam in S. literis, ut κεγχρία, &c. §.9. ib.
Λατρεία λογικὴ & ἀναίμακτος, 2.6.6.748.
De Laurentiano Ignatii Codice quid sentiendum, 2.15. 1. &c. 758. Emendatus, 2.19.5.760.

Legationes

Legationes Ecclesiarum non raræ, 2. 13. 1. 757.
S. Linus S. Paulo adjunctus Diaconus, postea in Episcopatu successit, 5. 1. 10. 825. Lino Anacletus vel Cletus, 5. 1. 13. ib.
Λογίαι εἰς τὸν ἄγιον, omni Dominico faciendæ, 2. 6. 5. 748.
Λογίαι, 4. 20. 3. 814.
Λόγος ἀπὸ Σιγῆς ἀρχεληθών, Valentini idioma, 2. 9. 1. 753.
Λόγος ὢν τῷ (Patris scil. Christus) ὑ ῥητὸς ἀλλ' ὑπόστης, 2. 9. 2. ib.
Λόγος differt à διδασκαλία, 3. 6. 7. 785.
Λόγος διδασκάλου, Doctoris munus, 4. 15. 3. 809.
S. Lucas inter Apostolos reponitur, 4. 3. 17. 795.

M.

Το' Manere S. Joannis, ἕως ἔρχομαι, de secundo Christi adventu (contra Judæos scil.) intelligendum, 1. 2. 2. 722.
Μάντις διαβολικός, 4. 13. 9. 808.
Marci hæretici sectatores Apostolis se præferebant, 1. 12. 14. 738. & 4. 3. 26. 796.
Marci duo: Marcus Joannes; & Marcus, filius ipsius à Petro dictus, Evangelii à Petro prædicati scriptor, Alexandriæ Episcopus, Apostolus ab Eusebio vocatur, 4. 3. 19 795. S. Petri ἑρμηνευτὴς, 4. 22. 11. 818. S. Marcus Neronis 8 mortuus, 2. 29. 27. 773.
Marcion ob stuprum virgini illatum Ecclesiâ pulsus est ab Episcopo parente, 5. 11. 2. 837. ob præcedentiam & ingressum Ecclesiæ negatum ad Cerdonis hæresin confugit, 5. 11. 5. ib.
Marcus, primus è Gentibus Hierosolymitanus Episcopus, 5. 1. 22. 286.
Μαρίας ἡ παρθενία ἔλαθε τὸν ἄρχοντα τοῦ αἰῶνος τούτου, S. Ignat. 2. 17. 1. 759.
Martyres dici non debent, qui sese offerunt, 2. 10. 5. 755.
Μαθήματα ἐγκύκλια, literæ humaniores, πρὸς ἀνάπλασιν τῆς φιλοσοφίας, καὶ τῶν μαθηματικῶν, 4. 23. 5. 819.
Μαθηταὶ, 12 Apostolis manifestè opponuntur apud Eusebium, Eccl. Hist. l. 1. c. ult. 4 3. 2. 194.
S. Matthias è 70 unus, 3. 5. 11. 783. Dei καρδιογνώστου ἀποδείξει ad Apostolatum electus, 3. 5. 23. 784.
Μεγάλοι, qui? 3. 2. 9. 778.
Μείζων ἐν ὑμῖν, 4. 13. 5. 807.
Ἡ Μέλανος ὁδὸς in Epistolâ S. Barnabæ ad Gnosticos pertinet, 1. 3. 7. 724.
Melchizedechis oblatio, 2. 6. 10. 749.
Mensam per Altare, tanquam per notius, explicat Cyprianus, 2. 6. 2. 748.
Μεσιδάρχαι, 3. 2. 6. 777.
Μετὰ [ὀπαδίσεως] Apostoli, contra omnium exemplarium fidem, in δια mutandum censuit Rivetus, 2 8. 9. 753.
Metropoles, quæ? 4. 5. 2. 797. ex Judæorum exemplari transcriptæ, 4. 5. 5. 798. & §. 8. ib. fundatæ ἐν ἀρχαίοις ἔθεσι, 4. 5. 18. 799. Cæteri Episcopi nè quid grande faciant absque Metropolitâ ἀρχαῖος καὶ πατέρων κανὼν, Antioch. Can. 9. 4. 5. 19. ibid. Metropoliticarum Ecclesiarum πρεσβεῖον assertio manavit ab Apostolis, & ad unitatem conservandam non parum confert, 4. 5. 20. ib. Metropolitica dignitas mobilis, 4. 10. 13. 805.
Μισεῖν, quid? apud Ignatium, 2. 6. 23. 750.
Missæ Canon in relatione ad dona & oblationes populi institutus est, 2. 6 9. 749.
Missio à Patre, 3. 1. 5. 775.
Missio duplex, Ἐργάτων & ἀρχόντων. Vulgaris & solennis, πρόσκαιρος & ad finem duratura, 3. 5. 20. 783.
Monarchiam Dei oppugnare, est πολυθεότητα Paganorum propugnare, 1. 12. 13. 738.
Montani Prophetissæ, 4. 27. 15. 823.
Mulieres ad prædicandum ordinarunt Cataphryges, 4. 27. 15. ib.
Mysterium Iniquitatis à Presbyteranis arreptum, 1. 1. 1. 721. revelatum, 1. 12. 3. 737.
Μυστήριον Ecclesiæ administratio sub titulo Mysterii Iniquitatis, vah! rejecta, 1. 1. 4. 721.
Μυστικὸν in N. T. rem quovis modo obtectam significat, 1. 9. 22. 735. in meliorem plerunque sensum, quandoque in pejorem, ibid.
Μυστηρίου appellatione Gnostici indigitantur, Apocal. 17. 5. 1. 9. 23. ib.

N.

NAὸν S. Matthæus, S. Lucas οἶκον vocat, 1. 3. 2. 723.
Νεωτερικὴ τάξις, quomodo Episcopatus dicendus? 2. 8. 2. 752. νεωτερικὸν ὄνομα, ib. §. 7. νεωτερικὸς non reddendus est κενὸς, sed pertinens ad νεότητα, 2. 8. 5. 6. 753.
Νεώτεροι, Juniores omnes vocati, comparati cum Presbyteris, 4. 20. 17. 816.
Nicolaus Proselytus non fuit Apostolus, 3. 5. 28. 784.

O.

Οἶκος τοῦ Θεοῦ puriores Christiani, 1. 4. 5. 729.
Οἰκονόμος Θεοῦ, Episcopus, 4. 16. 4. 810. οἰκονόμοι μυστηρίων, Apostoli, ib. Ejus insignia, Claves, ib. Unus tantùm in eâdem familiâ, ib. Ejus munus, 4. 23. 8. 819.
Onesimus Ephesiorum Episcopus, 2. 25. 9. 767.
Ὠφελεῖσθαι ὑπ' αὐτῶν, quid? 3. 2. 9. 778.
Ὠφελιμάτη S. Joanni dicta excidium Hierosol. sub Tito & Vespas. Imp. insinuat. 1. 12. 2. 737.
Ὀρθοτομία λόγου, unde dicta? 4. 25. 3. 820.

P.

P*Aganorum* multiplex πονηρία, 1. 1. 13. 738.
Παλιγγενεσία, quid? 3. 2. 2. & 3. 777.
Papias S. Joannis Auditor, 4. 22. 10. 721.
Παραδιωρεῖσθαι, Act. 6. 1. quid? 4. 26. 5. 821.
Παροικία, 3. 8. 12. 788. Ἐκκλησία παροικοῦσα Ῥώμην, 3. 8. 13. ib. Παροικίαι contra distinguuntur ἐπαρχίαι, sive Provinciæ, 4. 5. 3. 797. Παροικία Corinthi, quid? 5. 2. 2. 827.
Παῤῥησίαν ἔχειν ἐν τῇ ἡμέρᾳ τῆ κρίσεως, 1 S. Pet. 2. 19. 29. Ut fidenter Christum confiteamur, (sic παῤῥησία significat, Heb. 10. 35.) in die judicii; i. e. cum pro tribunali à Judæis sistamur, &c. 1. 6. 4. 730.
Παῤῥησία πολλὴ, quid? 1 Tim. 3. 13. 4. 26. 9. 821.
Pastores & Doctores, iidem 3. 6. 8. 785. Pastores Episcopi, ἰδίως, 4. 14. 3. & 4. 809.
Πατὴρ μέλλοντος αἰῶνος, Christus, 3. 2. 4. 777. S. Paulus speciali Spiritus præceptione Apost. allectus, 4. 1. 1. 793
Περιοδεύειν, 3. 8. 25. 789. & §. 30. 31. 790.
Πρεσβυτερος ad Episcopum pertinet, 3. 8. 14. 788.
Persecutionum temporibus Idolothyta gustare, fidémq; abjurare Gnosticorum dogma, 1. 3. 9. 724.
Πέτρος, lapis, in Masculino, Homero, 3. 3. 11. 779.
Pharisæi φιλοῦντες πρωτοκαθεδρίας, 1. 13. 6. 740.
Philippi, priùs Κρηνίδες Δάτου, 4. 10. 13. 805.
Philippus omnium primus Christi Discipulus, 5. 5. 21. 531
Philippensium Presbyteri, Episcopi, 4. 10. 2. 804. Non unius tantùm Civitatis nomen, sed integræ Provinciæ, 4. 10. 11. 805. Metropolis, ubi multi Episcopi, nulli adhuc Presbyteri, ib. Macedoniæ ἀπαρχὴ. §. 16. ib.
Philo Judæus, Apostolorum σύγχρονος, 3. 10. 4. 792.
Phœbe χωρὶς ἀδελφῆ, 4 24. 6. 820.
Phœnicis historia apud S. Clem. 2. 24. 2. 764.
Phrases barbaræ in S. Scripturis, 2. 3. 9. 747.
Phylarcharum dignitas, 3. 2. 5. 777.
Pii PP. de Episcopatu Testimonia nihil Blondello prosunt, 5. 10. 1. 836.
Πλανᾶσθαι de Ecclesiâ dictum, quid? 4. 11, 2. 806.
Πλεονεξίας voce non nummorum amor, sed masculæ veneris usus in plurimis Apostolorum locis notatur, 1. 3. 6. 724.
Πλῆθος ἀνομιῶν, 1. 2. 5. 722.
Τὸ πνεῦμα S. Scripturam significat, non extraordinariam missionem, aut particularem revelationem, 2. 19. 4. 760. πνεύματι δοκιμάζοντες Apostoli eos, quos ordinabant, 5. 4. 5 829. πνεύματος δοκιμασία non ad constitutionem graduum, sed ad dijudicationem personarum pertinebat, 5. 6. 3. 382.
Ποιμαίνειν ad tempus Presbyteri jubentur, non tamen Ordinare permittuntur, 2. 7. 10. 752.
Ποιμὴν de Christo, Petro, Episc. Asiaticis, 4. 14. 2. 809.
Ποίμνιον πᾶν de totâ Asiâ, 4. 8. 2. 801.
Polybius Trallensium Episcopus, ἓ αὐτὸ τὸ κατάκτημα (potiùs κατάκτυλον) μεγάλη μαθητεία, 2. 25. 31. 768.

Polycarpi de Gnosticis Teſtimonium, 1.10. 10.737. Presbyteris & Diaconis, ὡς θεῷ καὶ χριστῷ ſubjici jubet, 2.14. 5.758. Ejus Epiſtolam amplectuntur Walo & Blondellus, 2.24. 1.764. Ignatii σύγχρονος, ibid. Eccleſiæ Smyrnenſis Epiſcopus & Martyr, ib. illum ſenem Irenæus puer vidit, 4.4.5.797. affirmatio ejus, ad Philippenſes inſcriptas fuiſſe Epiſtolas, in plurali, quomodo vera? 4.10.17.805. Illi, Presbyteri ſunt Epiſcopi, 4.22.3.817. Epiſtola ejus ſcripta poſt Ignatianas, ib. §. 7. ib. Anno Chr. 167. gladio confoſſus eſt, 5.12.2.838.

Polycrates, 8 Epheſi Epiſcopus, 4.4.4.797.

Ποιμενικὴ ἡμέρα, quæ? 1.2.5.722.

Poteſtas in terris, 3.1.5.775. Apoſtolis, dein Epiſcopis univerſæ Eccleſiæ competit, 3.3.5. & 6. 779. Poteſtas clavium Petro, ut ſingulari perſonæ, data, 3.3.8. ib. Apoſtolis etiam ſingulis, §. 9. & 12. ſolenni ἐμφυσήσεως ritu, ibid.

Pothinus Anno Chriſti 167. Junii 2 Chriſtum Lugduni confeſſus animam efflavit, 5.12.2.838.

Præſidens apud Tertullian. idem cum Epiſcopo, 3.7.5.786.

Πρεσβύται & πρεσβύτιδες de Eccleſiaſticis intelligendi, 4.24. §.1.5.7.822.

Πρεσβυτείου στέφανος, 1.13.7.740. πρεσβυτέριον, 1 Tim. 4.14. explicatur, 4.20.12.815. πρεσβυτείου, τουτέστιν Ἐπισκόπων, ib. 14. ib. Presbyterium Eccleſiæ Apoſtoli vocantur ab Ignatio, 4.21.6.816.

Πρεσβύτιδες ἐν κατασήματι quidni αἱ ἐν κανόνι, 4.27.10.822. πρεσβύτιδες παρακαθημένας ἐν Ἐκκλησίᾳ, ib. §.13. ib.

Presbyteranis contra Epiſcoporum poteſtatem faventes objectiones, 3.5.3.782.

Presbyteris Sacramenti conficiendi poteſtas data, 3.4.17.782. Presbyteri primi & ſecundarii, 3.7.1.786. Presbyteri ſecundarii nihil ſine Epiſcopo faciendi poteſtatem habent: teſtantibus Conciliis & Patribus, 3.7. per tot. ib. Eorum adæquationem cum Epiſcopis nec Canon Apoſtol. 33. nec Clementis Teſtimonia, à Blondello producta favent, 3.7.10. ibid. Presbyteri & Epiſcopi vocum uſus promiſcuus, 4.6.5.777. non adjuvat Presbyteranos. Presbyteri vocabulo ſoli ſingulares Epiſcopi in N. T. intelliguntur, 4.6.10.800. Presbyteri Philippenſium, Epiſcopi, 4.10.2.804. Presbyteri vox ἀξιώματος titulus ſingularibus Eccleſiarum Epiſcopis ſæculo Apoſtolico competit, ib. Presbyteri in primis Eccleſiis quandoq; nulli, & quare? ib. §. 18. 805. Presbyteri partiarii, 4.11.4.806. Presbyteris ſecundariis docendi munus quomodo incumbit? non ἀπολύτως, ſed literis Epiſcopi ἰδίως munitis, licentiatis, 4.15.6.809. Nondum ubique conſtituti Juſtini Martyris ævo, 4.17.5.811. Presbyteros inter & Epiſcopos diſcrimen ante Juſtini tempora agnoſcunt Walo & Blondellus, ib. §.2. 810. apud Hebræos, Græcos, & alias gentes ἀξίωμα æquè ac ætatem denotat πρεσβύτερος, 4.19.1.812. Presbyteri ad formam Conſiſtorii Judaici in partem officii, onerisque ſuffecti, ib. S.5.813. Presbyteri ſecundarii nulli tempore Apoſtolorum, ſi unicus excipiatur Joannes, ibid. de Presbyterorum ſecundariorum mentione in N. T. ſententia Epiphanii & Chryſoſtomi, ib. §.8.9.10.814. Presbyteri κατ' Ἐκκλησίαν, Epiſcopi, 4.20.4.815. Presbyteri τῆς Ἱερουσαλὴμ, & ἐν Ἱερουσαλὴμ differunt, ib. §.8. ib. Presbyteri 24. Apocal. 4. Cathedris inſidentes, Concilii Hieroſol. imago, ib. §.10. ib. Presbyteri Eccleſiæ, ἑκατονταετοῦς ποιμνίου, ib. Πρεσβύτεροι οἱ ἐν ὑμῖν, Epiſcopi Judæorum converſorum, ib. §. 17.816. Presbyteri Eccleſiæ apud S. Jacobum, 5.14. qui? ad ſecundarios forſan pertinent, 4.21.2. ibid. Presbyteri mediorumi, inferiores Epiſcopis, Diaconis ſuperiores in quibuſdam Eccleſiis conſtituti, ibid. §. 3. ibid. Ignatio officii ſui dignitatem Presbyteri debent, ibid. Secundarii à S. Joanne, ſi quo Apoſtolorum, conſtituti, ibid. §.4. Presbyteri Polycarpo ſunt Epiſcopi, 4.22.3.817. Vox primo ſæculo πολύσημος, §8. ib. Presbyteri vox quandoque de primo, quandoque de ſecundo Eccleſiæ gradu antiquitus (at nunquam in Scripturis) uſurpatur, 4.22.17.818. Presbyteri mediorumi, ſcribente S. Paulo, inſtituti nulli, 4.26.10.821. Presbyteri quo ſenſu apud S. Clementem? 5.4.2.829. Presbyteri nulli, ſtrictâ nuncupatione, S. Clementi, 5.5.9.530. Presbyteri apud S. Clementem, Epiſcopi Achaiæ, 5.8.1.834. Presbyterorum apud Alexandriam, abſente Epiſcopo, conſecrandi poteſtas, 3.7.6.786.

Primatus Timothei & Titi ſuper Epiſcopos, 4.19.12.814.

Primogenitorum privilegia, 4.19.14. ib.

Prodici hæreſis, non eſſe palam confitendum Chriſtum, nec pro eo ſubeundum Martyrium, 1.3.12.724.

Προεστὼς apud Juſt. Mart. pro Epiſcopo, 3.7.5.786. & 4.17.1.810. Latinis, Antiſtes, ibid. 6.

Προγεγραμμένοι εἰς τοῦτο τὸ κεῖμαι, præſcripti, i. e. prædicente Chriſto & Apoſtolis, deſignati, 1.3.21.725.

Prophetæ, qui? 4.13.7.807. & §.8. & 13. ſpecialis in Eccleſiâ muneris nomen, ib. §.10.

Προσβιάσομαι, διαφόρου mentis hyperbole, ſe ad patiendum quidlibet pro Chriſto paratum eſſe ſignificans, 2.10.4.755.

Proſelytorum duo genera; 1 Fœderis & 2 Portæ, 3.5.29.784. Fœderis, iidem cum Judæis. Aliis ſola filiorum Noæ præcepta obſervanda, ib. Proſelytis Fœderis Chriſtus miracula ac verbum ſuum impertiit, æquè ac Judæis; atque ipſorum miniſterio uſus eſt, 3.5.32. ib. Ἐπήλυτοι, ib. §.33. ib. Regnum Proſelytorum, ib. §.31.

Προσμένειν, ſedem figere, 4.9.4.803.

Προσφορὰ, 2.2.6.748. & 10.749. ad inſtituendam fidelibus menſam, ib.

Πρωτεῖα licita, φιλοπρωτεία culpanda, 1.13.3.740. & §.5. ib. Πρωτεῖα Judæ & Joſephi, 3.2.5.777.

Πρωτοκαθεδρία in Sacris & Civilibus, 1.13.6.740.

Πρωτοκλισίας privilegium, 4.10.16.805.

Πρωτοπαθὴς ἔκστασις, quid, apud S. Clementem? 5.5.

Πρωτοτοκὸς ἔστι τῷ Σατανᾷ, ὃς ἂν μεθοδεύῃ τὰ λόγια τοῦ Κυρίου πρὸς ἰδίας ἐπιθυμίας, dictum S. Polycarpi, 1.7.4.731.

Pſeudochriſti ſinguli ſe liberatores Patriæ futuros ſpondent, & Meſſiæ titulum ſibi vendicant, 1.2.3.722.

Pſeudoprophetarum & πλάνων tres claſſes, 1.2.3.722. prima immediatè poſt Chriſti aſcenſionem, 1.2.3.722. tertia poſt obſeſſam Hieroſol. prodibat, ib. §.4. media ἀκμάζουσα, 1.2.5. ib. Pſeudoprophetæ & Antichriſti iidem, 1.10.11.737.

R.

Regium jus, 3.2.9.778.

In Reſurrectione gaudium ſpirituale, 2.14.4.757

Roma Gentiles & Judæi, Gentilium S. Paulus, Judæorum S. Petrus, Apoſtolus, 5.1.10.825.

Romana Eccleſia fundata à S. Petro & Paulo, 5.1.7. ib. Epiſcoporum Rom. ſeries ad Irenæi tempora, 5.1.3.824.

Romana lingua cum imperio ſe per Judæam diffudit, 2.3.9.747.

S.

Sabbatum in Primitivâ Eccleſiâ, 2.4.2.747.

Sacerdotes, Epiſcopi, 4.18.1.811. Presbyteris opponuntur, ib. §.5.812.

Sacrarium (Secretarium) reponendis σκευοφυλαξίοις, 2.6.10.749.

Sacrificia non repudiata, ſed ſpecies immutata, 2.6.7.748.

Salmaſii confeſſio de Hieronymo, 2. 29. 16. 772.
Sanctuarium inter Judæos ſacerdotibus ſolis acceſſum præbuit; ſic in ſanctuario ſeu Ναῷ Chriſtiano Epiſcopus & Presbyteri, Diaconis aſtantibus, cathedras ſuas habebant, 2. 6. 17. 750.
Sardicenſis Canon de non ordinando Epiſcopo in vico aliquo, 3. 8. 22. 788.
Σκανδαλισμὸς Chriſtianorum, 1. 2. 5. 722.
Σκανδαλίζεσθαι, quid ſit? 1. 3. 3. 723.
Τῶν Septuaginta munus θεόπνευστον, 3. 1. 6. 776. & 3. 8. 29 789. non fuerunt Apoſtoli, 3. 5. 5. 782. S. Lucas ſolus eorum meminit, ib. § 8. ib. in Diſcipulorum numero ſubſiſtebant, donec vel ad Apoſtolatum, vel Diaconatum, vel ad Evangeliſtarum munus admoverentur, 3. 5. 11. &c. 783. Eorum, quâ tales, nulla in Eccleſiâ Apoſtolicâ autoritas, 3. 5. 20. ib. Quinque eorum nominantur, 3. 6. 1. 785.
Σιγῆς καὶ Βύθου mentio apud Ignatium illi Epiſtolas non abjudicat, 2. 9. Eorundem combinatio Gnoſticis ab Irenæo imputatur, 2. 9. 13. 755.
Silas ex Judææ Epiſcopis unus, 4. 9. 5. 803.
Simeon ad Hieroſolymitanum Epiſcopatum promotus, ut Chriſti ἀνέψιος, 5. 5. 13. 530.
Simon Magus ut Deus adoratur, 1. 9. 11. 734. Simoni Deo Sancto ſtatua Romæ conſecrata, 1. 9. 13. ib. πρῶτος ἐπόλμησε ſe eum eſſe jactare, qui in monte Sinai ſub ſpecie Patris apparuit, 1. 10. 8. 736. ὄχι ἐν σαρκὶ, vel ἐνσάρκως, ſed δεκήσει ſolùm Chriſtum hìc fuiſſe pronuntiavit, 1. 10. 6. ib.
Σωμάτιον, 2. 13. 4. 757.
Σωτηρία, evaſio & incolumitas, 1. 7. 2. 731.
Spiritus Unctionis materialis locum ſupplevit in Chriſto, 3. 1. 2. 775. Spiritus S. χρίσιον Ignatio, 2. 12. 3. 757.
Stella Magos ducens terræ proxima, 2. 18. 5. 760. Ignatio dicitur ὑπερβάλλειν τὸ φῶς ἀπὸ ὑπὲρ πάντα, quomodo ſumendum? 2. 18. 4. ib.
Stephanus S. Jacobi Diaconus, 2. 2. 3. 745.
Στιχομυθία Syncello præfixa inter τῆς νέας γραφῆς Apocrypha Ignatii omnia reponit, 2. 7. 1. 751.
Σωαγωγαὶ, quid? 1. 13. 6. 740.
Synedrium magnum Hieroſolymitanum ſucceſſit 70 ſenioribus, 4. 19. 2. 813.

T.

Τὸ Τέλος πάντων, 1 S. Pet. 4. 7. excidium ſeu παντελεθρίαν Judaicam denotat, 1. 6. 5. 730.
Tertulliani Scorpiacon contra Gnoſticorum ſcorpios alexipharmacum, 1. 3. 15. 725. in Scorpiaco Martyrii bonum ex inſtituto demonſtrat, 1. 3. 12. 724.
Teſtes duo, qui, Hugoni Grotio τῷ πάνυ? 5. 1. 24. 827.
Teſtimoniis ſolis in rebus geſtis fides debetur, 2. 13. 3. 757.
Thaddeus (non ille ἅγιος ἀπόστολος unus) à S. Thomâ Apoſtolo ad Abgarum miſſus, Ἀπόστολος τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, & ἁπλῶς Ἀπόστολος nuncupatur, 4. 3. 16. 795.
Thebuthis, διὰ τὸ μὴ ἡνῶσθαι αὐτὸν Ἐπίσκοπον, Eccleſiæ pacem ſolicitavit, 1. 12. 12. 738.
Theodoreti celebre teſtimonium de Apoſtolis & Epiſcopis, 4. 3. 24. 796.
Θεόδεσμος, 2. 13. 5. 757.
Θεοπρεσβυτὴς, ib.
Theſſalonica alia Macedoniæ Metropolis, 4. 10. 17. 805
Theudas duplex, 1. 2. 3. 722.
Θυσίαι Chriſtianæ: ἔναιμοι Chriſtianis abolitæ; ſine ſanguine, adhuc Chriſtianis offerendæ, 2. 6. 5. 748. ἄναιμοι, ib.
Θυσιαστήριον, Altare ἐναίμων ἐν ναοειδεῖ poſitum, 1. 2. 2. 723. Eſt Ναὸς in quo ſacra menſa proponitur. Sacrarium, Altarium, ſeu, ut Philoxenus, Ἡρῶον, 2. 6. 17. 750. vocem ejus accepit Eccleſia è S. Mat. 5. 24. 2. 63. 748.
S. Thomas in Indiâ, 3. 4. 13. 781.
Thronus Dei & Agni, 3. 3. 6. 779. Throni 12. Apoſtolorum judicandi in Eccleſiâ poteſtatem denotant, 3. 3. 7. ib.
Tiberias poſt excidium Hieroſol. ſedes Metropolitica, 4. 5. 7. 798.
Timor negationis author, 1. 3. 14. 725.
Timotheus non tantùm Evangeliſta, 3 6. 4. 785. jam credentium Epiſcopus, τῶν μελλόντων πιστεύειν reſpectu, Evangeliſta, 3. 6. 9. ib. ab Antiquis Apoſtolus vocatur, 4. 3. 20. 795. Ἐφέσου μητροπόλεως Ἐπίσκοπος, καὶ χειροτονεῖται, καὶ ἐνθρονίζεται, §. 21. Ἀποστόλων Ἀπόστολος, Theodoreto, ib. Epiſcopus Epheſinus, 4. 8. 11. 802. quo tempore ad Cathedram Epheſinam aſcendit, 4. 9. 1. 803. Epheſus Titulus ejus, ibid. §. 5. ib.
Titus, non tantùm Evangeliſta, 3. 6. 4. 785. Κρητῶν Ἀπόστολος, Theodoreto, 4. 3. 21. 795. Metropolita Cretæ, 4. 5. 13. 798.
Τύπῳ ἐν παντὶ, 2 Cor. 1. 2. omibus Achaiæ locis æquipollet, 5. 2. 5. 827.
Τράπεζαι, πυτίδες, τὸ ἅγιον θυσιαστήριον vocat Magnus Athanaſius, 2. 6. 2. 748. Τράπεζα ἁγία, & θυσιαστήριον ἄχραντον eadem Nyſſeno, ibid.
Trinitatis Myſterium ſub titulo Myſterii Iniquitatis rejectum: vah! 1. 1. 4. 721.

V.

Valentini dogma non eſſe palam confitendum Chriſtum, nec pro eo Martyrium ſubeundum, 1. 3. 12. 724. Hæreſium antiquarum compilator, 2. 9. 4. 754. Ex Gnoſticorum hæreſi doctrinas veteres ad ἴδιον χαρακτῆρα concinnavit, ib. §. 5. Vivo Ignatio multos clam ſeduxit, ib. Epiſcopatu affectato excidens ad hæreſin divertit, 3. 10. 6. 792.
Vicani cum urbe, una Eccleſia, 3. 8. 24. 789. Vicani Epiſcopi diu poſt Apoſtolos, ib. §. 25.
Videliana, ſeu Genevenſis, fornax Hierarchicis non favet, 2. 3. 7. 745.
Viduarum duo genera, 4. 27. 14. & 17. 822.
Vincula Sanctorum πνεύματικοὶ μαργαρίται, 2. 12. 4. 757.
Virtutes ſingulæ Chriſtianæ Baptiſmali armaturæ addendæ, 2. 12. 2. 756.
Unctio ſpiritus, 3. 1. 2. 775. Unctionis materialis locum Spiritus ſupplevit in Chriſto, ib. Ritus ejus ſatis inter Judæos notus, promotionem ad munus ſolenne deſignat. Unde per exaltationem explicat Chald. Paraph. 3. 1. 3. ib. ſub ſecundo Templo exolevit, ib. Teſtimonio Dei de cœlo ſuppletur, ib. Unctio ſeu χρίσμα ἀπὸ τοῦ ἁγίου, quid ſit? 3. 1. 4. ib.
Unitatis origo & fons à ſanctuario, i. e. Epiſcopis & Presbyteris petenda eſt, 2. 6. 19. 750. Unitatis & Doctrinæ cura Epiſcopis concredita, 4. 15. 3. 809.
Voſſii Editio Ignatiana interpolationibus & ſuſpectis ſatis liberata, 2. 2. 7. 745. de eâ Salmaſius & Blondellus mirifica ſibi ſpondent, 2. 2. 7. ib. Ejus, cum Teſtimoniis ab antiquis Patribus ex Ignatio laudatis, concordia à Blondello agnita, 2. 2. 8. ib.

W.

Walo agnoſcit Ignatium Authorem Epiſtolarum ad Trallenſes & Philadelph. 2. 2. 2. 745. Concludit contra Epiſcopos argumento à Teſtimonio ducto negativo, 2. 2. 2. ib. decretoriam ſententiam pronuntiat de omnibus Ignatii Epiſtolis, 2. 2. 4. ib. ſex Argumenta ejus contra Epiſtolas Ign. 2. 3. Ignatii omnia inter Apocrypha reponit, 2. 7. 1. 751. turpiter ſibi imponit de Presbyterorum Cathedris, 3. 8. 9. 788. agnoſcit diſcrimen inter Epiſcopos & Presbyteros ante Juſtini Mar. tempora, 4. 7. 2. 810.

Z.

Zebedæi uxor φιλοσοφίας rea, 1. 13. 10. 741.
Ζύμη νέα, Chriſtiani, 2. 20. 3. 762.

S. Scripturæ Loci propoſiti & expoſiti.

Numeri priores CAPUT & COMMA ſignant, poſteriores Diſſertationem & Caput.

Gen.

4. 7. 4. 19.
15. 2. 4. 19.
24. 2. 4. 19.
50. 7. 4. 19.

Exod.

3. 16. 18. 4. 19.
7. 1. 4. 13.

Num.

3. 24. 32. 4. 5.
11. 17. 3. 4.
22. 7. 8. 4. 19.

Deut.

16. 18. 4. 5. & 26.

Judicum.

6. 15. 4. 19.

1 Sam.

8. 11. 3. 2.

Eſth.

1. 10. 4. 24.

Iſai.

9. 6. 3. 1. & 2.
22. 20. 3. 3.
60. 17. 4. 7.
61. 1. 3. 1.

Ezech.

28. 24. 1. 3.
41. 22. 2. 6.

Mal.

1. 7. 2. 6.

Suſan.

5. 50. 4. 20.

S. Mat.

2. 6. 4. 19.
3. 11. 3. 5.
4. 15. 3. 5.
5. 23. 2. 6.
9. 6. 3. 3.
10. 17. 1. 3.
11. 10. 3. 5.
16. 19. 3. 3.
16. 25. 1. 3.
16. 27. 28. 1. 2.
19. 28. 3. 1.
20. 21. 3. 2.
20. 28. 4. 23.
23. 6. 1. 13.
23. 50. 1. 3.
24. 6. 1. 2.
24. 3. 27. 37. 39. 1. 2.
24. 10. 1. 2.
24. 20. 1. 2.
26. 18. 20. 3. 5.
28. 18. 3. 3.
28. 19. 3. 4.

S. Marc.

3. 14. 3. 4.
13. 9. 1. 3.

S. Luc.

1. 2. 4. 16.
10. 1. 3. 5.
10. 11. 1. 8.
12. 17. 4. 23.
22. 19. 3. 4.
22. 26. 4. 13.
22. 26. 5. 12.
24. 21. 1. 2.

S. Joan.

2. 9. 4. 24.
13. 13. 4. 7.
20. 21. 3. 1.
20. 23. 3. 3. & 3. 4.
21. 23. 1. 2.

Act.

1. 21. 5. 5.
1. 25. 3. 4. & 4. 7.
2. 3. 3. 3.
3. 5. 3. 5.
4. 1. 3. 5.
4. 3. 6. 5. 5.
6. 1. 4. 26.
6. 4. 4 25.
8. 23. 1. 9.
9. 1. 4. 5.
10. 22. 4. 8.
10. 35. 4. 8.
10. 38. 4. 8.
11. 23. 4. 3.
11. 30. 4. 20.
12. 17. 4. 3.
13. 2. 4. 19.
14. 23. 4. 5. & 20.
15. 6. & 22. 4. 3.
15. 2. 4. 6. 22. 23. 4. 20.
15. 22. 4. 13.
16. 4. 4. 5. & 20.
16. 12. 4. 10.
15. 35. 3. 6.
18. 12. 5. 2.
18. 27. 5. 2.
19. 9. 1. 9.
19. 10. 4. 8.
20. 1. 2. 3. 4. 9.
20. 28. 4. 8. & 5. 4.
20. 17. 4. 20.
20. 29. 4. 9.
21. 18. 4. 3.
21. 21. 1. 9.
24. 17. 2. 6.

Rom.

13. 4. 4. 23.
13. 11. 1. 8.
15. 8. 4 25.
15. 26. 5. 2.
16. 1. & 5. 5. 2.
16. 16. 5. 2.

1 Corinth.

1. 1. 2. 5. 2.
2. 12. 2. 29.
3. 4. 1. 14.
3. 6. 4. 2. & 5. 2.
4. 15. 16. 21. 4. 2.
5. 3. 4. 4. 2.
8. 1. 1. 3.
9. 9. 4. 23.
11. 18. 1. 14.
12. 28. 4. 13. & 4. 15.
13. 7. 1. 6.
15. 7. 4. 3.
16. 1. 2. 6.
16. 9. 4. 8.
16. 15. 5. 2.
16. 22. 1. 6.

2 Corinth.

1. 1. 4. 10.
3. 6. 4. 25.
6. 4. 4. 23.
8. 18. 19. 23. 4. 3.
9. 2. 5. 2.
11. 8. 5. 2.
11. 9. 4. 10.
11. 13. 1. 5.
11. 28. 4. 3.
12. 7. 1. 3.

Gal.

1. 19. 4. 3.
2. 9. 4. 3.
2. 17. 4. 25.
4. 13. 1. 3.
4. 29. 1. 3.
5. 15. 1. 4.
5. 20. 1. 4.
6. 13. 1. 3.

Epheſ.

2. 14. 3. 5.
3. 5. 4. 13.
4. 11. 4. 13. 14. 15.
4. 12. 4. 24.
3. 1. 4. 25.
5. 2. 1. 6.
6. 24. 1. 6.

Philip.

1. 1. 4. 10. & 26.
2. 25. 4. 20.
3. 2. 1. 4.
3. 18. 1. 3.
4. 15. 4. 10.
4. 18. 2. 6.
4. 18. 4. 20.

Coloſſ.

4. 16. 4. 10.

2 Theſſ.

2. 1. 2. 3. &c. 1. 9.

1 Timoth.

1. 3. 4. 9.
1. 18. 5. 4.

3. 1. 2. 4. 27.
3. 2. 4. 11.
3. 8. 4. 26.
3. 12. 13. 4. 26.
3. 14. 4. 9.
3. 15. 4. 25.
3. 15. 4. 26.
3. 23. 4. 26.
4. 2. 1. 5.
4. 14. 4. 20.
4. 14. 5. 4.
5. 1. 17. 19. 4. 19.
5. 17. 3. 6.
6. 3. 1. 5.
6. 20. 1. 3. & 5.

2 Timoth.

1. 16. 4. 10.
2. 22. 2. 8.
3. 3. 1. 4.
3. 4. 1. 6.
3. 5. 3. 6.
4. 9. 13. 4. 9.

Tit.

1. 5. 4. 20.
1. 6. 7. 8. 9. 4. 27.
1. 7. 4. 2.
1. 10. 1. 12.
2. 14. 2. 16.

Heb.

10. 33. 1. 7.
11. 2. 4. 19.
12. 15. 1. 3. & 9.
13. 7. 4. 13.
13. 10. & 11. 2. 6.
13. 16. 2. 6.

S. Jacobi.

5. 14. 4. 21.

1 S. Petri.

2. 11. 16. 19. 21. 1. 6.
4. 17. 1. 4.
5. 1. 5. 4. 20.
5. 13. 4. 3.

2 S. Petri.

2. 1. 1. 5.
2. 10. 1. 12.

1 S. Joannis.

2. 1. 1. 4.
2. 27. 3. 1.
5. 8. 1. 4.

2 S. Joannis.

1. 5. 4. 20.

3 S. Joannis.

1. 5. 4. 20.

S. Jude.

1. 5. 1. 3.
11. 5. 1. 4.

Apocal.

1. 10. 4. 4.
2. 1. 4. 4.
2. 4. 1. 6.
2. 14. 1. 4.
2. 24. 4. 4.
3. 7. 3. 3.
3. 16. 1. 6.
4. 2. 1. 13.
4. 4. 4. 20.
9. 20. 1. 4.
17. 5. 1. 9.
19. 10. 3. 1.
21. 8. 1. 3.
21. 14. 17. 3. 5.
22. 3. 3. 3.

DE

DE CONFIRMATIONE, SIVE BENEDICTIONE, POST Baptiſmum Solenni,

Per Impoſitionem Manuum Epiſcopi celebrata,

COMMENTARIUS EX SENTENTIA ECCLESIÆ ANGLICANÆ.

AUTHORE
H. Hammond, S. Theol. Prof. Oxonienſi.

Cui Acceſſit

Diatriba Præliminaris.

LONDINI:

Typis Tho. Newcomb, Impenſis R. Royſton Bibliopolæ Sacræ Regiæ Majeſtati, ad Inſigne Angeli in Amen-Corner, & R. Davis Bibliopolæ Oxon.

MDCLXXXIII.

DE

CONFIRMATIONE,

SIVE

BENEDICTIONE,

POST

Baptismum Solenni,

Per Impositionem Manuum Episcopi celebrata,

COMMENTARIUS

EX SENTENTIA

ECCLESIÆ ANGLICANÆ.

AUTHORE

H. Hammond, S. Theol. Prof. Oxoniens.

Duplex Præliminaris.

Typis Jos. Norcomb, Impensis R. Royston Bibliopolæ Sacræ Regiæ Majestati, ad Insignia Angeli in Area-Cœmet, & R. Davis Bibliopolæ Oxon.

MDCLXXXIII.

Erudito & Pio Lectori S.

QUUM primùm ad sanctissimum, æquè ac doctissimum, τὸν μακαρίτην, Hammondum nostrum, Clarissimi Dallæi de Confirmatione Exemplar perlatum esset, offendissétque nonnulla ab ipso scripta redargui à Dallæo; amicissimis Literis (pro summa ejus erga Senem eruditissimum benevolentia, quem non solùm in privatis alloquiis debitis auxit semper encomiis, sed insuper à Thoma White malè habitum eum scripto in publicum emisso palàm defendit) causam suam privatim cum doctissimo Viro disceptare voluit; atque adeò Literas confecit, easdem propediem missurus. Postea verò, re acriùs pensitatâ, animadvertit doctissimum Virum in hoc maximè incumbere, omnésque adhibere machinas, ut probaret Confirmationem meram esse Baptismi laciniam, & appendicem; adeóque jam non suam agi causam, sed Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ, imò veteris purioríque Ecclesiæ disciplinam iri labefactatum: optimo igitur usus consilio, rem novam aggressus, minutatim omnia argumenta, testimonia omnia (quorum locuples Dallæus) pertractat noster, versátque studiosè; ingenuam ubique Verborum vim aperit, ad veræ Antiquitatis normam, & pulcherrimum Ecclesiæ consensum revocat omnia, & explanat: statim quale nunc vides, justum exsurgit opus. Idem deinde ad me destinat: ante septimum Calend. Feb. Anno 1659. ad me pervenit: quâ erat animi demissione, quo in me studio, voluit ὁ μακ. meum subire examen; addere, detrahere jussit, prout mihi visum foret. Ego inter legendum mirâ delibutus voluptate sæpius repeto, tanquam exhausturus; sed & morosulus examinavi penitus, non dicam ἀκριβῶς, sed concessâ mihi usus: nihil mutandum censui: attamen, nè officium & fidem negligere viderer, unum & alterum paulò latiùs ab ipso explicandum monui; & sic demum ad illum remeant Schedæ. 4. Idus April. se recepisse mihi renuntiat, sed non inspexisse, tertium enim tunc diem renum calculo laborantem à studiis abstinuisse; verùm si quando convalesceret, curis & monitis meis fruiturum. Sed ecce post paucos dies tristissima advolat Epistola, narrátque pertinacem morbi vim omnibus remediis restitisse, Lotium refundi, tantùm non conclamatum esse de salute. Insomnem ago noctem, proximo manè do me in viam, magnis contendo itineribus, ut saltem ultima divinissimi Viri verba exciperem, & cujus Vita Virtutis, & Pietatis erat exemplum, Illius mortis spectaculum in me excitaret dissolutionis meæ desiderium: sed ante vel inceptum iter, jam ad cœleste bravium evolârat sanctissima Anima; quúmque primùm ædes afflictissimas accessi, hæsi defixus & lacrymabundus; háncque animi mei ægritudinem auxit communis totius Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ jactura, in ipsis quasi temporum insidiis. Sed hasce querelas reprimebat Dei Opt. Max. reverentia, qui nobis omnia in melius prospicit, & disponit suaviter. Tandem igitur ad opus me meum accingo, me enim Testamenti executorem in extremâ scripserat cerâ. Dum omnia pro officii mei ratione ordino, Schedarum fasciculum de causâ cum Dallæo disceptata, prout à Me obsignatus fuerat, unà cum Literis meis inveni. Decrevi protinus typis mandari hasce optimi Virî lucubrationes, meras, nullâ meâ interpolatas curiositate; atque ità Typographo tradidi: sed operas aliquandiu distinebant publica gaudia: tandem etiam ante senos menses opus suum absolverat Typographus; sed rationibus ductus idoneis hucusque premebam.

De jure Episcop. Dissert. 3. p. 162.

Nunc demum paucula illa quæ ab optimo Hammondo adjicienda vellem, istiusmodi sunt: Inter clarissimos Viros Erasmum, Cassandrum, Chemnitium, qui conquisitâ & propositâ Confirmationis utilitate Causæ suæ Suffragatores numerantur, Calvinum insuper Ecclesiæ Gallicanæ Reformatæ Ducem ac Coryphæum, nec non Theodorum Bezam eidem succenturiatum, justissimè laudare potuisset. Calvini verba admodùm commoda describam ἐν πάσῃ.

Hic mos olim fuit, ut Christianorum liberi, postquam adoleverint, coram Episcopo sisterentur: ut officium illud implerent quod ab iis exigebatur qui se ad Baptismum adulti offerebant. Hi enim inter Catechumenos sedebant, donec ritè Fidei mysteriis instituti poterant fidei confessionem coram Episcopo ac Populo edere. . . . Ab Episcopo examinabantur secundum formam Catechismi quam tunc habebant certam & communem. Quò autem hæc actio, quæ alioqui gravis sanctáque meritò esse debebat, plus reverentiæ haberet ac dignitatis, Ceremonia quoque adhibebatur manuum impositionis. Ità puer ille, fide suâ approbatâ, cum solenni benedictione benedictione dimittebatur. Hujus moris ſæpe mentionem faciunt Veteres——— Talem ergò manuum impoſitionem, quæ ſimpliciter loco benedictionis fiat, laudo, & reſtitutam hodie in purum uſum velim.— Et poſtquam in ſequentibus Pontificiorum in hac materia errores & corruptelas prolixè ſugillârit, hæc habet; Utinam verò morem retineremus quem apud veteres fuiſſe admonui, priuſquam abortiva hæc ſacramenti larva naſceretur.— Hæc diſciplina ſi hodie valeret, profectò Parentum quorundam ignavia acueretur, qui Liberorum inſtitutionem quaſi rem nihil ad ſe pertinentem ſecurè negligunt, quam tum ſine publico dedecore omittere non poſſent. Major eſſet in populo Chriſtiano fidei conſenſus, nec tanta multorum inſcitia & ruditas. Non adeò temere quidam novis & peregrinis dogmatibus abriperentur. Omnibus denique eſſet quædam velut Methodus doctrina Chriſtianæ.

Calvinus l. 4. Institut. c. 19. §. 4.

Ibid. §. 13.

Lubet ulteriùs eundem magni nominis virum alibi ſacras Literas explicantem audire. Baptiſmos nominat (de Apoſtolo loquitur) ſolennes ritus, vel ſtatos baptizandi dies. Manuum impoſitionem cum Baptiſmo conjungit: quia ut duo erant Catechumenorum ordines, ità duplex erat Ceremonia. Nam qui erant extranei, non antè perveniebant ad Baptiſmum quàm editâ fidei profeſſione: in illis igitur Catechiſmus præcedere ſolebat. At liberi fidelium, quoniam ab utero adoptati erant, & jure promiſſionis pertinebant ad corpus Eccleſiæ, infantes baptizabantur: tranſactâ verò infantiâ, poſtquam inſtituti erant in fide, ſe quoque ad Catecheſin offerebant, quæ in illis Baptiſmo erat poſterior; ſed aliud Symbolum abhibebatur, nempe manuum impoſitio. Hic unus locus abunde teſtatur hujus Ceremoniæ originem fluxiſſe ab Apoſtolis——— Sciamus ergò a primis authoribus inſtitutum fuiſſe ut eſſet ſolennis precandi ritus, quemadmodum etiam Auguſtinus nuncupat. Fidei quidem profeſſionem, quam adoleſcentes pueritiam egreſſi edebant, voluerunt approbare hoc ſymbolo. Sed nihil minùs cogitârunt quàm vim Baptiſmi diſcerpere: quamobrem hodie retinenda pura inſtitutio eſt, Superſtitio autem corrigenda. Atque hic locus ad Pædobaptiſmi approbationem facit.

Ca'vinus in Ep. ad Hebræ. cap. 6. v. 2.

Advocatus planè Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ prodit Calvinus, ejúſque cauſam agit ſtrenuè, & dum veterem depingit Eccleſiam, qualémque reſtitui optat, noſtram ipſam imaginat & refert, quæ ceremoniis, verbíſque gravibus, aptis, caſtis, magnificíſque, Confirmationem (quam vocamus) alumnis ſuis deſcripſit.

Beza in Hebr. cap. 6.

Theod. etiam Beza Annotator, breviter quidem, at non ſegniter, Apoſtolicam eſſe noſtram Confirmationem comprobat. Quinque capita (inquit) Catechiſmi numerat (intellige Apoſtolus) nempe profeſſionem Emendationis vitæ; Fidei ſummam de Deo; Doctrinæ explicationem compendiariam, quæ in Baptiſmis & impoſitione manuum tradi rudibus præſertim ſolebat (id eſt, cùm ad baptizandos infantes vel adultos, item cùm ad imponendas aliquibus manus conveniebatur) caput Reſurrectionis mortuorum, & futuri Judicii. Quod ſi neque Helvetica, neque Bernenſis, neque Tigurina, nedum ipſa Genevenſis Eccleſia hanc ſolennem profeſſionem, ejuſdémque per manuum impoſitionem Confirmationem, quâ nulla poteſt eſſe ſanctior, quámque non è lacunis nuperis, ſed fontibus petitam Apoſtolicis, duo ſummi è Gallis viri conſtanter aſſerunt, vel praxi à ſuis uſurpandam, vel ſaltem bono nomine & euphemiâ ornandam cenſuerant; ipſi viderint quorum intereſt: nos certè Calvinum & Bezam in noſtras partes transfugii manifeſtos tenemus.

Præfat. §. 12.

Rectè præfatur noſter, non minimam eſſe Confirmationis utilitatem ut Antipædobaptiſtis obſtruantur ora: dicebam, addi inſuper potuiſſe, ut deſinerent tandem novitatum, ac jurgiorum noſtrates opinatores, dum hi ex ſententia Parochi, aſſidentibus ei uno & altero Laicis, protervis æquè ac ignariſſimis; iſti verò ex plebiſcitis & vulgi rerum ſacrarum rudis opinione, aut admittunt ad ſacram Euchariſtiam, aut abſtinent, aut demum arcent gregales ſuos: vaneſcere nimirum importunas haſce ipſorum rixas & velitationes, ſi Confirmationis ritus curatè, auguſtè, ſeverè celebretur, talémque ſe indè uſum & beneficia ſperare nonnullos, qui inter ipſos ſunt doctiores, agnoviſſe & profeſſos eſſe. Hæc atque talia tunc temporis bonos iſtos viros dicebam prolixè pollicitos eſſe. Sed in caſſum omnia. Quorſum igitur hæc ab iſtis dicta? nimirum ἀπβυκολῶντες ἡ χαιταῖς ἐλπίον ἐξαπατῶντες· ſub obtenu veteris diſciplinæ rerum novitatem, & inſolentiam in Scenam producere ſatagebant; ſcilicet ut iſti ipſi Epiſcoporum partes in ſe reciperent: nam niſi manus in Confirmatione imponendi jus & poteſtas Presbyteris (aut ſaltem iis Presbyteris qui inter eos eminentiores ſibi videntur) & Paſtoribus (quos vocant coitiones ἀυτοκίφαλαι) concedatur, nihil ex eorum promiſſis profecimus; in hoc enim otium, in hoc negotium, in hoc totus illis labor eſt, ut Epiſcopis φαντάσματα ſurriperent. Sed & aliud præſentiſſimum Eccleſiæ malum commenti ſunt; ut iis ſolummodo manus imponerentur, qui ſcita quædam ſua & novatam indies tum loquendi, tum ſentiendi formam amplecterentur, palàm profeſſi, neque ſecundum formulam Catechiſmi certam ac communem gregales ſuos examinandos (quod venerandæ antiquitati, & Apoſtolicis viris placuit, quódque Calvinus ſummopere laudavit) voluere: ſed ſi qui placita ſua non bene edocti eſſent, eadémque imbiberent, protinus rejiculi: Catecheſes enim ſuas ſibi concinnârunt, & deindè pupam ſuam amant perditè. Nihil eos movet à primæva Chriſtianitate ſtianitate ſancita ratáque fidei myſteriorum tabula, nihil movent prudentiſſimi Calvini monita: Major eſſet in populo Chriſtiano fidei conſenſus—— Non adeò temerè quidam novis & peregrinis dogmatibus abriperentur; Omnibus eſſet velut quædam Methodus doctrinæ Chriſtianæ: Nihil (inquam) hæc movent, ſed convenire ſe poſſe ſomniant abeundo in adverſas vias, flammam oleo citiùs reſtincturi, quàm iſtiuſmodi inſtitutis domeſtica ſua conciliaturi diſſidia, quorum nova indies exorietur progenies, & immortalis.

Calvinus ut ſupra.

Neque ſolùm laudare potuiſſet Noſter præcepta & ſancita ſive Helvetiæ Eccleſiæ ſive Bituricenſis de Matrimonio non contrahendo niſi priùs ſponſi & ſponſæ Catecheſi probè inſtructi fuerint; rectiſſimè enim accenſeri meruit Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ decretum. Cap. 12. Sect. 6. p. 761.

Rectores, Vicarii & Parochi—— admonebunt adoleſcentes & juvenes, non tantùm Mares, ſed etiam Fœminas, cautum eſſe Legibus, ne quis illorum accedat ad ſacram Communionem, vel contrahat nuptias, vel infantem è ſacro fonte ſuſcipiat, niſi antea didicerit Rudimenta Religionis Chriſtianæ, & poſſit ad omnes partes Catechiſmi convenienter & dextrè reſpondere. Inſuper ſeverè cautum eſt in Liturgia Anglicana, neminem ad ſacram Euchariſtiam admittendum, donec & Catecheſi inſtructus, necnon Epiſcopali Benedictione confirmatus fuerit. Lib. Canon. 1571.

Porrò etiam Gregorii verba à Dallæo diligentiſſimè obſervata nollem à noſtro prætermiſſa: nam etiamſi ad præſentem ſuam controverſiam haud ità propriè pertinent; quia tamen iſta Gregorii reſcripta à Scholaſticis non bene intellecta, miros inter ipſos excitârunt tumultus, qui nova quædam de Sacramento, de Miniſtro Confirmationis Ordinario & Extraordinario; de plenitudine poteſtatis Pontificis Romani philoſophati ſunt; eadémq; poſtmodum Novatores in ſuum trahebant uſum: genuinum Gregorii ſenſum explicuiſſe fuiſſet opportunum. Poſtquam enim Septimus Gregorius poteſtatis Papalis antiquos limites indignatus, & niſi quos ipſe ſibi facit, agnoſcens nullos, omnium Epiſcoporum jura ubique devolvit, & præter unum Pontificem Romanum cæteros falſi nominis, & æquivocè Epiſcopos haberi ſatagit; huic immani Romanæ ſedis tyrannidi mancipia ſeſe præbuere maxima pars Scholæ, (& in hac cauſa præſertim Dominicani) qui veteris Eccleſiæ, præſertim Græcanicæ, rituum inſcii, factum Gregorii Magni ex ſua opinione ſunt interpretati: deinde argumentoſi iſti Senes Strophas & Sophiſmata nectendi Artifices, ſpiſſis denſiſque ſeſe Lectoréſque ſuos implicuêre difficultatibus, divinationes ſuas, non ſenſum Gregorianum, perſequentes. Rectiſſimè enim cenſuit eruditiſſimus Dallæus, Gregorium Virum prudentiſſimum nihil extra ordinem, nihil præter Divina vel Eccleſiaſtica jura geſſiſſe, dum Sardorum Presbyteris conceſſit, ut Neophytos in fronte chriſmarent. Ipſe enim Gregorius ſui optimus interpres hunc ſcrupulum eximit, dum diſtribuit varium Orientis & Occidentis uſum. Unde (inquit ille) Arrianos per impoſitionem manûs Occidens, per unctionem verò ſancti Chriſmatis, ad ingreſſum Sanctæ Eccleſiæ Catholicæ, Oriens reformat. Uſum enim Chriſmatis Presbyteris non vetuit Oriens, ſed confectionem. Caralitana igitur in Sardinia Eccleſia Græcanicis ritibus aſſuefacta, ægrè ſibi iſtos prohiberi tulit; omnes enim inſulani Græciæ finitimi, atque inter eos *Siculi Sardi*que, ritibus, cæremoniis, liturgicis, æquè atque linguâ Græcorum, in omni officio (quod vocant) Eccleſiaſtico, uti ſolebant. Hiſce igitur innutritos Sardos peregrinum (Romanum ſcilicet) morem averſatos nil mirum. Prudentiſſimus verò Papa Gregorius, & Græcanicæ Eccleſiæ Rituum callentiſſimus, (ut qui aliquandiu Conſtantinopoli Romanæ Sedis Apocriſiarius commoratus fuiſſet) noluit præfervidum & concitatum populum irritare, ſed ipſorum murmura & pertinaciam placidè devoravit, avitiſque Eccleſiæ ſuæ moribus uti frui permiſit. Poſt ducentos verò annos Nicolaus primus, Pontifex imperioſior, ſive poteſtatis ſuæ limites proterminandi libidine abreptus, ſive veteris apud Græcos perpetuæque diſciplinæ inſcitiâ, temerè ad Bulgaros nuperrimè Chriſtianiſmo imbutos, & à Sacerdotibus Græcis Chriſmate inunctos, legavit Epiſcopos, iiſque in mandatis dedit, ut eos denuò in fronte Chriſmate linerent. Quod quidem (inter alia) Nicolai facinus adeò commovit Eruditiſſimum P. Conſtantinopolitanum, Photium, ut accerſeret omnes Orientis Epiſcopos, & colligeret in Synodum, ut vindicarent jura ſua, nec paterentur Eccleſias ſuas in leges Romanas adigi. Τὰ ἀρχαῖα ἀνωθεν ἀγαλλιάσθω conſenſêre omnes, & Chriſma ab Epiſcopo confectum, poſſe à Presbytero mero εἰς βάπτισμα Neophytorum uſurpari. Ex adverſo Nicolaus craſſâ fidentiâ calumniam eſſe Græcorum aſſertionem pronunciat: Quod alicubi (inquit) conceſſum Presbyteris ut Baptizatorum frontes linant Chriſmate, ex magna cauſa ſi diſpenſatum; in contrarium planè eſſe uſum oſtenditur. Ac pervicax auſis excidere noluit; grandi Epiſtolâ huc atque illuc in Occidente ſparſâ, Græcorum morem contumeliis oneravit: tandémque longo pòſt tempore apud Latinos percrebuit opinio, nullam apud Græcos fuiſſe Confirmationem. Et licèt Nicolaus Cabaſilas aliique docti Græci hanc commentitiam & futilem calumniam refutârunt; recentiores tamen Latini, an ignorantiâ, an invidiâ ducti, haud facilè dixeris, Confirmationis neglectum iis objicere non deſinunt. Dallæus de Confir. l. 3. c. 6. p. 333. Greg. lib. 9. Epiſt. 61. Bin. Con. Tom. 6. p. 634. Edit. Par.

Non

Non adeò confusæ & turbatæ fuissent hac in parte res Ecclesiasticæ, si probè Gregorii verba interpretati fuissent Scholastici: sed postquam in Scholis jactari cœperat, Pontificem posse Romanum potestatem confirmandi Presbyteris dare, hinc indè de Confirmationis Ministro acriter dimicatum. Novatoribus itaque nostris argumentorum supellectilem suppeditârunt nonnulli Scholastici, qui gradu, non ordine, Episcopum à Presbytero distingui contendunt: scilicet, lubet istis Scholæ, non dicam opiniones, sed errores potiùs amplecti, quàm Episcoporum αξιωμάτων non imminuant. Prudentissimè hosce homines monuit insignis pietatis & summi judicii Præsul, Reverendiss. Joannes Sarisburiensis: Neque hîc, inquit, opus erit subtiliter disquirere, utrùm Episcopatus sit diversus ordo à Presbyteratu, an alius & altior tantùm gradus in eodem ordine——— Nobis utique sufficit (hâc verborum velitatione sepositâ) si ostendamus, eos qui appropriatè vocantur Episcopi, habere dignitatem altiorem, potestatem majorem, & eminentiora officia (certò Confirmationis) sibi annexa, quàm habent alii Presbyteri, idque Verbo Dei minimè repugnante.

Greg. l. 3. Epist. 9. & 26.

Jo. Episc. Sarisbur. Qu. Theo. Dcter. 42.

Magis igitur consultò perpetuæ Ecclesiæ Catholicæ disciplinæ & praxi acquiescerent nostrates Sectarii, nec argutiis hisce, ac contortis aculeatisque Scholasticorum scitamentis sese immiscerent & implicarent. Veterum Patrum sanctitatem & sapientiam suspicerent & colerent, qui non solùm longo rerum usu periti, sed Sancti Spiritûs ductu gubernati decrèvêre, Non aliunde hæreses obortas, aut nata esse schismata, quàm indè quòd Sacerdoti Dei non obtemperatur, nec unus in Ecclesia ad tempus Sacerdos cogitatur. Et hac ipsa in Causa de Confirmatione differens Hieronymus, hæc habet: Ecclesiæ salus in summi Sacerdotis dignitate pendet; cui si non exors quædam & ab omnibus eminens detur potestas, tot in Ecclesiis efficientur Schismata quot Sacerdotes. Hisce (inquam) Ecclesiæ Magnatibus auscultarent, & tandem exiles & evanidas suas conjecturas (vigilantium planè somnia) venditare erubescerent. Sed ubi statio opinandi? ubi expunctio inveniendi? Novator semper molestus, & ὀπαδός.

Cypr. l. 1. Epist. 3.

Hier. adv. Lucif. c. 4.

Faxit Deus, ut gens ista hominum vel Marcomannis, Quadis, & Sarmatis irrequietior, κακοηθεστέρα, & malignè diligens, pacatè & citra pugnam, modestè & compositè, venerandæ antiquitatis regulas, actus, rerúmque sacrarum administrationes investigent; hisce enim instrumentis rerum Ecclesiasticarum directiones exiguntur. Si interpretem & Monitorem adhibeant hunc libellum, si studio & attentione perlegant, non inanem spem foveo, tum de utilitate Confirmationis, tum de consuetis & legitimis Episcoporum juribus in eadem administranda, consensuros.

Reverendissimos Ecclesiarum Præsules qui lapsam & dissolutam Politiam constituere dant operam, τῷ μαρτυρίῳ ardori & votis respondebunt, nil dubito; reliquique Symmistæ omnes, Presbyteri, Diaconi, solennia Ecclesiæ nostræ de Catechizandis rudibus præcepta complebunt sedulò. Sin hæc animis nostris non insideant, ubi tot per annos meditata & (dum incumberet & sæviret tyrannis) promissa disciplina, modò unquam serena affulgeret dies? Ecce candidos Britanniarum soles, rerúmque civilium tranquillum, redire jussit, votique Nos omnes damnavit, clementissimus & misericors Deus: ipsi sanctam hanc & sinceram immolemus latriam, dum quisque nostrûm sua in hac parte munia prompti obeamus.

Quum scelere & furiis Alastorum turbatæ essent res Anglicanæ, pollutis sacris, vastitate Sanctuarii ubique cum summo oculorum convitio adspectui objectâ, veritate obrutâ & compressâ, imò intermortuâ, prono cursu sese proripiunt Romanenses, Sectarii, & in Ecclesiam Anglicanam irruunt; devictam, triumphatam esse, usque ad delicias ostentabundi, clamitant: sed utrumque hostem noster Hammondus sustinuit certissimus vindex, sempérque pedem referre jussit. Nec hisce gyris coërceri sese passus est inquies & magnificus animus; mutavit sæpe industriam. Nonnunquam succrescentes hæreses, & errores qui mores Rémque publicam corrumperent, Zelotes refregit: Divina eloquia minutatim examinare, loca difficiliora explicare, hoc illi studium, hæc voluptas; ab hisce oblectamentis se avelli ægre passus est. Quandocunque in spinosas & ingratas quæstiones divertere coactus, etiam in hoc scribendi genere pietatis & sanctimoniæ incrementa totus cogitabat; nec alia ei instituti ratio, quum in hanc arenam descendit. Operæ tuæ erit pretium, Erudite Lector, utriusque doctissimi disputatoris præstantiam, virtutisque specimen inspectare. Clarissimus Dallæus, quâ pollet dicendi copiâ, causam suam latissimè explicavit: Noster acerrimè disputat; evolvit, perscrutatur omnia; acumen, diligentiam, eruditionem, probitatem, pietatem miraberis. Verùm hîc tuâ lectione, non meâ commendatione opus est. Vale.

H. Sarisburiensis.

PRÆ-

PRÆFATIO.

Mores Christianorum quàm Christi instituto dissimiles. Pietatis εὐσεβείας, & Charitatis, unica Christi Cura: Redemptionis, Prædicationis, Sacramentorum, Clavium, Apostolici Symboli, Catecheseos, at ἰδίως Confirmationis scopus. σύμπας γραφὴ, 2 Tim. 2. 19. Ejus duplex σκοπὸς. Confirmationis institutio, debitus usus, beneficia. Consilium hujus Commentarii, duplex.

§. 1. QUOD de nascente olim mundo Epiphanius observat, Primo illo humani generis diluculo nullas tenebrarum mixturas, * nullas hominum sectas, Nullum opinionum aut dogmatum dissidium fuisse, μόνον γὰρ δόξαν, καὶ εὐσέβειαν, impietatem, & pietatem, aut, quod idem plane est, ἀπιστίαν καὶ πίστιν, infidelitatem, & fidem, universum orbem inter se dispescuisse, († fide quidem Christianismi Effigiem sibi insculptam, infidelitate verò impietatis & Apostasiæ Characterem & imaginem inscriptam præferente) fallor Ego, si magis ad felicis & intaminatæ Mundi infantiæ, ætatisque illius, non poeticè, sed verè aureæ Encomium, quàm ad senescentis & degeneris sæculi, sub quo, ut sub face Romuli hodiè nascimur, improperium & opprobrium dictum fuerit.

* Οὐχ αἱρέσεις, ἢ γνώμης ἐπίσεις καὶ ἐπίσεις, ἀλλ' ἢ μόνον ἀνθρώποις ἐκλῦπτα Panar. li. 1. Edit. Bas. p. 8. l. 46.

† Εἶχε μὲν ἐπίχρυσον τῆς χριστιανισμοῦ εἰκόνα, ἀπιστίαν δὲ ἐπίχυσιν ἀπιβείας τὸν χαρακτῆρα καὶ ἀθεμιτίας. Ib.

§. 2. Multò quippe felicius, si illi credamus, apud primi (de terrâ terreni, ejusque prævaricantis) Adami posteros, quàm inter secundi (de Cœlo Cœlestis, & ad restaurationem sæculi nati) discipulos, pietati & genuinæ morum probitati prospectum est. Quò certè nihil uspiam infelicissimo sæculo magis probrosum, & pudendum, nihil universæ Christi incarnati prosapiæ, ipsique θεανθρωπείῳ Consilio, & æconomiæ Contumelioſius aut dici, aut fingi potuit. 1 Cor. 15. 47.

§. 3. Illud quippe divino Thesmothetæ, adeoque Soteri nostro imprimis Curæ fuit, ut redimeret nos ab omni iniquitate; & mundaret sibi populum peculiarem & acceptabilem, * Sectatorem aut æmulum bonorum operum. Dedit ille seipsum pro nobis, non ut fœcundo, & scientiâ inflante turgido Cerebello Minerva aliqua (erudita quidem, at & pugnax proles) nasceretur, sed ut obstetricante Charitate, ex visceribus intimis, humano generi salubres prodirent Gratiæ, ut hanc Dei Civitatem, mundique illam, ut Castra mitissimi Agni, atque rugientis Leonis, adeò inter se latissimè, & toto Cœlo disparata, hoc unico Bonæ indolis Insigni & quasi βασιλείῳ, palam distinguenda & dignoscenda curaret: eodemque licèt non æquali, puritatis splendore Ecclesiam suam coruscantem redderet, quo ipsa Cœlestis Aula, Spirituum Consummatorum (vereque ὁλυμπίων) πανήγυεις, in æternum micatura creditur.

* Ζηλωτὴν καλῶν ἔργων.

§. 4. Sic certè Apoc. 21. Civitatem Sanctam, novamque, quæ à Deo descensura erat, Hierosolymam describi videmus, * ut sponsæ marito suo paratæ, omnique muliebris mundi supellectile, purissimo auro, & pretiosissimis omne genus margaritis ornatissimæ, imaginem referret, verè σκηνὴν τοῦ μὴ ἀνθρώπων, Tentorium sanctissimi numinis, & majestaticæ præsentiæ Schecina, & plenitudo quædam, (ut Hebræi loqui amant) futura, ubi [a] habitare dignabitur Deus, & secundam tantùm non συνοικησιν pati, ubi cum morte & lacrymis, [b] impuritate omni, & hypocrisi in exilium missis, singula demum supernam, & plusquam humanam munditiem, & [c] novitatem sortientur.

* Ἡτοιμασμένην ὡς νύμφην κεκοσμημένην ἀνδρὶ αὐτῆς, V. 2.

[a] Σκηνὴ τοῦ θεοῦ, V. 3.

[b] Πᾶν κοινὸν καὶ πᾶν βδέλυγμα καὶ ψεῦδος, V. 27. βδελυγμένοις —— καὶ πορνοῖς καὶ πάντες οἱ ψευδεῖς, V. 8. Ἔξω οἱ κύνες καὶ πορνοὶ — καὶ πᾶς ὁ φιλῶν καὶ ποιῶν ψεῦδος, C. 22. 15. [c] Ἰδοὺ καινὰ πάντα ποιῶ, V. 5.

§. 5. Hoc certè Concionum Christi Consilium unicum, augustissimæ præsertim & divinissimæ istius, quam ad naturalis & Mosaicæ Legis πλήρωσιν, & βεβαίωσιν, & αὔξησιν, supplementum, extensionem, ampliationem, ex altero, eoque præcelsiori monte (Sinaitico quodammodo superstructo) sine tonitru, at [a] non sine potestate, sine astantis populi metu, at non sine [b] stupore, & ecstasi habitam fuisse legimus; Mat. 4. Hûc facta, dicta, instituta magistri nostri omnia palàm collimarunt, huc geminum vitæ mortisque ejus martyrium, Aquæ, sanguinisque sacramentum, ex [c] latere in Cruce confosso erumpens, & ad Ecclesiam quotidie descendens. Huc universa Ἀποστολὴ, solennis ad prædicandum & baptizandum [d] Missio, ut ipsi à Patre, sic Discipulis ab ipso facta. Huc œconomorum [e] Claves, quibus filios familias, seu immorigeros, seu etiam ad bonam frugem redeuntes, pro cujusque merito, flectant, temperentque fidi procuratores. Huc [f] Militiæ Apostolicæ tela, quibus strenui Summi Ducis legati subditos protegant, hostes verò Contumaces fundant & debellent, & πᾶσαν κτίσιν universam lapsi Adami prosapiam ad obsequium Christi Captivam ducant, unicè collimant, & diriguntur.

[a] Ὡς ἔχων ἐξουσίαν, Mat. 7. 29.
[b] ἐξεπλήσσοντο ἐπὶ τῇ διδαχῇ αὐτοῦ, v. 28.
[c] Joh. 19. 34.
[d] Joh 20. 21.
[e] Mat. 16. 19.
[f] 2 Cor. 10. 14.
Mar. 16. 15.

§. 6. Huc omnia (post triumphalem Magistri exitum) Consilia, Cœtus, peragrationes, ministeria Apostolorum spectant; præ omnibus verò selecta Fidei Capita, paucula quidem ea, sed ad ingenerandos bonos mores imprimis idonea, & efficacia; [g] salubrium verborum formula (inquit Paulus) Ecclesiis singulis, contra quoscunque animæ morbos, concreditum antidotum, & παγφάρμακον: quod unum [h] ad omnis impietatis depulsionem, & ad pietatis Evangelicæ Stabilitionem aut constitutionem abunde sufficere Magnus pronuntiavit Athanasius. [i] Hâc quippe unâ armaturâ expugnari mundum, hoc solius Catecheseos exorcismo exulare dæmones, nec aliis contra omnem Satanæ ictum amuletis indigere, quàm quæ ex hac auspicatissimâ pyxide promi rectissimè dixeris. Idem igitur apud antiquos Catechista, & Exorcista Munus, & ministerium fuit; nec, sine insigni aliquo dementiæ, & ἀλογίας mixturâ, Gentilium impietatibus inhærere putabantur, qui sub hâc sacro sanctâ formâ, Christianorum fidem fuerint amplexati.

[g] Ὑγιαινόντων λόγων τύπος, 2 Tim. 1. 13.
[h] Ἡ ἁγία καὶ πατέρων, κατὰ τὰς θείας γραφὰς ὁμολογηθεῖσα πίστις αὐτάρκης ἐστὶ πρὸς ἀνατροπὴν μὲν πασῶν ἀσεβείας, οὐ μὴν δὲ εὐσεβείας ἐν Χριστῷ, Epist. ad Epict. T. 1. p. 582.
[i] 1 Jud. 3.

§. 7. Unicum adjicio, sed illud Celeberrimum, & quod rem omnem (quam per has præfandi ambages moliti sumus) ad præsens nostrum institutum aperte deducat, à Confirmationis venerando, in Ecclesia, ritu, quatenus ille à baptismo latè differt, petendum Exemplum. De hac semel dixerim, post Fidem ipsam ἅπαξ παραδοθεῖσαν, [1] geminaque Novi fœderis à Christo ipso instituta, & omnibus districtè mandata sacramenta, nihil esse, quod ad perenne ejusdem Christi, aut duraturum obsequium, ad sinceram & ἀμεταμέλητον Evangelicæ legis obedientiam fortius obliget, Nihil, à cujus diligenti & prudenti administratione, auctiores Reipublicæ Christianæ fruges sperari possent, Nihil denique, cui aut neglecto, aut pro formâ & ex opere ut ajunt, operato, ἀνεπιγνωμόνως majora & pernitiosiora pietatis dispendia imputanda videntur. Ad hunc enim præcipuè finem, ritum istum antiquitùs institutum, & celebratum esse, tùm ut observantia Christo debita firmiùs sponderetur, & hâc quasi arrhâ, & σφραγὶδι obsignaretur, tùm ut uberiore Sanctificantis spiritus rivo in fideles & illuminatos cælitus evocato, ab eô intimè prolui, & inungi, & ad novitatem vitæ roborari possent.

§. 8. Huc etiam Paulus ipse respexisse videtur, cùm adversus omnes Gnosticorum κακοζηλίας & βδελύγματα, ipsiusque futuræ resurrectionis abnegationem, Ignita quidem illa Nequissimi tela, hoc unum Fidei scutum opponat. 2 Tim. 2. 19. Ὁ μέντοι στερεὸς θεμέλιος τοῦ θεοῦ ἕστηκεν, ἔχων τὴν σφραγῖδα ταύτην, Ἔγνω Κύριος τοὺς ὄντας αὐτοῦ, καί, Ἀποστήτω ἀπὸ ἀδικίας πᾶς ὁ ὀνομάζων τὸ ὄνομα τοῦ Χριστοῦ. Ad θεμέλιον quod attinet, viro Doctissimo Sam. Petito lubens assentior, vocem ad modum Hebrææ עקר πολύσημον esse, & cùm alibi fundamentum denotet, hic, & 1 Tim. 6. 19. pro συνθήκη pacto, aut Chirographo sumendam esse, (sicut & מַסֶּכָה quæ aliquando θεμέλιος, Is. 30. 1. συνθήκη redditur) adeoque ad fœdus aut pactum Christi, illud Dei cum hominibus contrahentis Instrumentum respicere, cujus στερεότης, solida & immutabilis firmitas, ex ipso, quod ei appenditur, signaculo, aut σφραγὶδι judicanda est: Signaculi verò hujus gemina facies, duplex Epigraphe, Ex unâ parte, divini promissi, aut Fœderis Icona impressam videas, Cognovit Dominus qui sunt ejus] Fideles scilicet servos Deus nunquam non agniturus, tutaturus & remuneraturus est, nullo non gratiarum spiritus sui imbre perfusurus; Ex alterâ, Officii Nostri imago exertè, sed summatim, & ἐν τύπῳ inscribitur, [Omnis qui nominat nomen Domini, ab iniquitate procul discedat] Quisquis salutem ab Evangelico Fœdere quærit, Quisquis Christo Nomen dedit, Obsequium despondit, Mercedem à tanto brabeutâ & agonothetâ expectat, sciat se severâ, & indispensabili lege teneri, ut improbitati, impuritati, impietati omni nuntium remittat, vitam [m] piè, sobriè, justè instituat, se ab omni [n] Voluntario peccato, [o] à quocunque, aut Carnis, aut Spiritus, inquinamento mundandum sollicitè cûret, perficiens sanctificationem in timore Domini, Deo constanter, & [p] ἐυαρέστως serviens cum metu, & reverentiâ.

[m] Tit. 2. 12.
[n] Heb. 10. 26.
[o] 2 Cor. 7. 1.
[p] Heb. 12. 28.

§. 9. Ab

§. 9. Ab hâc σφραγίδος & σημείου σφρηδονος, Sigilli, cultique ſolidi, & ſtabilis mentione, hic διαγράφω factâ, nolim perſuadere mihi Confirmationis, Obſignationis, apud Latinos, σφραγὶς, ὑποσφραγὶς, apud Græcos, nomina adeo lucidè deſumpta eſſe, & huic impoſita, ut aliunde hauriri omninò ſit impoſſibile; ſicut nec inunctionis aut Chriſmatis a phraſi iſtâ, quâ verè Chriſtianos dignoſcendus proponitur, ὁ ὀνομάζων τὸ ὄνομα Χριστοῦ, Vncti aut Chriſti (pro quo malè vulgatus [Domini] repoſuit, pro Χριστοῦ, Κυρίου, legens) nomen nominans.] Illud unicum contendo, quod nemo, uti ſpero, diffitebitur, clariſſimam Antiquiſſimi Ritus Effigiem (non tàm fronti ſignandam, quàm ipſis cordium tabulis inſcribendam) ſi alibi non extaret, ab hoc uno ſigillo non incommodè peti poſſe. Ad hæc enim duo Confirmationem inſtitutam ab initio fuiſſe, extra dubium pono, 1. ut nuper baptizati (quos fratrum & fidelium titulo Eccleſia ſemper dignata eſt) per Epiſcopi preces, Charitate, aliiſque Spiritus Sancti donis aucti (quibus, ceu charagmate per cauterium inuſto, ſervos ſuos dignoſcendos voluit Chriſtus) de cætero, ſpes bonas nutriant, pro certo habentes Deum, ſuos, ſeu famulos, ſeu diſcipulos efficaciter agniturum, ſolido & paterno amore amplexurum, nec unquam, niſi prius deſeratur, deſerturum; idque non obſcurè teſtari ſigilli chirographo divino affixi Epigraphen, ex ſuperiore parte, Cognovit Deus qui ſunt ejus. 2. Ut profeſſio, & abrenunciatio ſemel in baptiſmo facta, non jam, ut in infantiâ per ſponſores, ſed ore proprio Novitii iterata; Deo, Angelis, Epiſcopo, & frequenti cœtu, inſpectantibus & conteſtantibus, hoc tam ſacroſancto & verendo ritu ſolenniter firmaretur, nec jam temerè, aut impunè violari poſſe putaretur, quod tantâ cum pompâ & Cæremoniâ ratum & fixum fuit: Illud quaſi de cælo clarè buccinante, & tonante σφραγίδος facie alterâ, Diſcedat ab iniquitate omnis qui nominat nomen Chriſti.

§. 10. Hæc certè, ſi, quàm ſanctè & prudenter in Eccleſiâ Chriſti (ſeu per Apoſtolos ipſos, ſeu, ad eorum Exemplar, per Apoſtolicos viros, ipſorum Cathedræ & poteſtatis ſucceſſores) ordinata ſunt, tàm piè & reverenter, & conſtanter à Prælatis adhiberentur, aliis inſuper, loco & ordine ſuo, Militiæ Eccleſiaſticæ telis, in ſubſidium, quotieſcunque res poſtulaverit, vocatis; ſi in infantiâ baptizati, ſtatimq; ubi adoleverint, Catecheſi, & dilucidâ voti baptiſmalis & Univerſæ Fidei capitum explicatione imbuti, ad Epiſcopum demum ἐν ἀρχιερεῖ poſitum, nec honore magis, quàm morum ſanctitate omnibus prælucentem à ſingularum Parochiarum Rectoribus adducendi curarentur, manuque, & benedictione ejus, ut & monitis, & interminatione paternis, ad ſolennem ὁμολογίας & ὑποταγῆς βεβαίωσιν, profeſſionis & abrenunciationis confirmationem admitterentur, ſub his tantum auſpiciis ad menſam Domini aſpirare permiſſi; depellendi inſuper, & poteſtate clavium ligandi, & privilegiis diſcipulorum interdicendi, & abſtinendi, quoties * præoccupati in delicto aliquo deprehenderentur, aut *voluntariæ prævaricationis rei peragerentur, ſolo genuinæ & ſolidæ reſipiſcentiæ tabulâ ab hujuſcemodi Naufragio redimendi, aut eripiendi; ſi, inquam, hâc non tétricâ ſed ſeverâ lege, nec ad inanem, & præfulgidam pompam, ſed ad ſolennem, & ſtatam cum nequitiis pugnam, comparatâ, in Chriſti Caſtris mereri, & proficere conſueſceremus Chriſtiani, vix dici, aut concipi poteſt, quàm uberem & felicem meſſem ex hâc ſemente, & Culturâ, qualem Contra Carnem & Satanam victoriam, quæ trophæa ab his militiæ Apoſtolicæ telis non carnalibus & infirmis, ſed potentibus Deo & πρὸς καθαίρεσιν ὀχυρωμάτων apprimè idoneis, ex pectari fas eſſet, cùm ſpretis jamdiu his politiæ noſtræ μαθήμασι, & aut univerſum in deſuetudinem abeuntibus, aut ad inanem tantùm pietatis μόρφωσιν compoſitis, & in meram tandem operis, ut ajunt, operati umbram degenerantibus aut (quod adhuc pejus) ad lucrum, & avaritiam (ut * Spalatenſis queritur) converſis, Eccleſiam hodie in Eccleſiâ, ſervos in familiâ Dei, Diſcipulos Chriſti inter Chriſtianos, fruſtra requiramus, nec quicquam pium aut ſanctum, præter Unbram & Nomen, inter candidatos Pietatis, reperiamus.

* Gal. 6. 1.
* Hcb. 10. 26.

* De Rep. Eccleſ. l. 5. c. 12. n. 24.

§. 11. Ut ex hoc profundo animarum torpore Evigilet aliquando Chriſtianus Orbis, ut à tenebris pluſquam Cimmeriis aut Ægyptiis, ad aliquem Crepuſculi ſaltem, ſi non lucis gradum aſpiret, viſum eſt his pauculis ſupinum & ſomnolentum Sæculum inquietare; & in hunc finem, Sacrum Confirmationis ritum, Eccleſiæ Antiquæ ſatis Cognitum, ut ut in modernâ contemtui habitum, adeoque aut in aërem, aut in umbram abeuntem, tandemque à Doctiſſimo Dallæo inter meras Baptiſmi Cæremonias numerari juſſum, hoc breviculo Commentario, ſi non in integrum vindicare, ſaltem ex cineribus, quibus opprimi, & ſepeliri videtur, ſuſcitare & ἀναζωπυρῆσαι, aliiſque, quorum intereſt, præferre facem, aut viam aperire, ut cujus adeò damnoſum, & lugendum neglectum experimur, ab eo ad genuinos uſus evocato, pari gradu felices ſucceſſus, & res lætas invicem ſortiamur.

§. 12. At & præter hos inſignes & planè divinos Confirmationis Uſus aliud eſt (ut id obiter notem) non infimi Ordinis beneficium, ad Eccleſiæ Concordiam, & pacem imprimis ſpectans, quo ſcilicet Anabaptiſtis, & Antipædobaptiſtis, fatalibus, & Epidemiis Occidentis noſtri (nec hujus tantùm ſæculi) peſtibus, Zizaniis quidem illis, quæ in Agro Reformationis, juratissimus Pacis, puritatis, & antiquitatis hostis feminanda curavit, ora in omne ævum obstruantur. Nec enim vel minimam Argumenti Umbram supereſſe, quâ adversus Infantium tinctionem, aut pro baptismi semel adhibiti iteratione, contra perpetuum Ecclsiæ dogma, & praxim novatores militent, quæ non hoc uno confirmationis Ritu, in subsidium Baptismi instituto (si, quemadmodum ad quævis Lavacri σφάλματα redimenda aut defectus supplendos opportunè paratur, sic à Pastoribus Ecclesiæ legitimè, & diligenter fuerit adhibita) tanquam Clypeo, aut potius panopliâ repelli possit. Id semel, & ἐπιεικῶς, paucis notasse, Cordato Lectori satis erit.

§. 13. Det Deus, ut quæ sunt Pacis & sobrietatis, quæ non ad lites feminandas, sed sopiendas, nec ad πολύφρονα, sed σωφρονεῖν apprimè conducunt, sollicitè, & gnaviter curemus omnes, nec per novitatem dogmatum, sed morum, ad Hierosolymam supernam &
* Apoc. 11. 17. Novam, ad * Manna absconditum, Calculum candidum, eique inscriptum nomen novum, tandemque ad verè Olympium ἀμάραντον στέφανον, immarcescibilem Coronam, Cœleste bravium aspiremus.

DE

DE CONFIRMATIONE, SIVE BENEDICTIONE, POST Baptiſmum Solenni,

Per Impoſitionem Manuum Epiſcopi celebrata.

CAP. I.

Brevicula Defenſio Authoris, Johanni Dallæo, & Samueli Mareſio, oppoſita.

SECT. I.

Dallei Diſputatio de Confirmatione, Loci duo ex Hilario Sardo. Hammondi Commonitorium in Diſſertationibus contra D. Blondellum in jus vocatum. Rei geſtæ Hiſtoria.

JOhannes Dallæus, vir Doctiſſimus, in Diſputationis, quam de duabus ex unctione Latinorum Sacramentis nuper edidit, parte prima, de Confirmatione L. 2. Cap. 18. Cum Græcorum Chriſmationem à Latinorum Confirmatione ſollicitè diſtinguendam curaſſet, eo fretus argumento, quod hæc unctio apud Græcos à Presbytero & nunc miniſtratur, & ſemper olim miniſtrata ſit, Cum Latinorum Chriſmationem non ab alio, quam ab Epiſcopo conferri fas ſit, Miſſis tribus primis Chriſtianorum ſæculis, ex quibus oſtendiſſe ſe putat, haſce Officii ſacerdotalis partes nuſquam ita diſpertitas, ut Presbytero cum Baptizare licuerit, conſignare non liceret, ac ne veſtigium quidem hujuſmodi diſcriminis apud ullam Eccleſiæ partem poſſe deprehendi; Miſſis itidem Firmiliani ſupra ab ipſo deſcriptis verbis, quibus eum in genere affirmantem ſuggerit, Majores natu (id eſt, ait ille, Presbyteros) nullo habito Epiſcopum inter & Presbyterum diſcrimine, Baptizandi, & manum imponendi poſſidere poteſtatem; Miſſo etiam Eliberitana Synodi Canone, ex quo ſe ſupra demonſtraſſe Commemorat, Latinos ipſos Presbyteros manum impoſuiſſe Baptizatis, nedum ut eos Chriſmare non potuiſſe putemus: Miſſis denique (id eſt) leviter tactis) Græcis, quos viam poſt Sylveſtri tempora (id eſt, poſt an. D. 335.) Eundem uſum conſuetè tenuiſſe, clarum eſſe pronunciat; Tandem ſe, poſt tot velitationes, ad prælium accingit, ad diſcrimen eâ de re hominis Latini, & quidem vetuſtiſſimi, teſtimonium provocans, Scriptoris ſcilicet Commentariorum in Paulum, qui Ambroſii quidem nomine circumfertur, veriſimilius tamen Hilarius Eccleſiæ Romanæ Diaconus Pag. 118.

eſſe

esse putatur. Hic enim cum ab an. Dom. 354. Florere cæperit, facile potuit ad Damasi, sub quo ipse se testatur scribere, ætatem pervenire. De Ecclesiâ certe Alexandrinâ, Nobilissimo illo Græcanicæ membro, hæc habet Author ille, quisquis tandem sit, Denique apud Ægyptum Presbyteri consignant, ubi præsens non sit Episcopus. Idem quoque (inquit Dallæus) testatur Scriptor ille Quæst. in vet. & Nov. Test. sive is sit supra nominatus in Paulum Commentator (quod placet Aurelio) sive alius, In Alexandriâ (inquit) & per totam Ægyptum, si desit Episcopus, consecrat Presbyter.] Pag. 120.

§. 2. In istis dum versatur Dallæus, commemorare voluit, quod nuper attentaverit Vir Doctus ex Angliâ Hen. Hammond de jure Episcopat. Diss. 3. Ubi duobus viris summis Salmasio & Blondello ἀζηλίαν exprobravit, ipse fidenter asseverans Consignationis (apud Ambrosiastrum) vocabulo solam Eucharistiæ Consecrationem significari, idque ex alterius de Quæstionibus Scriptoris loco satis constare dictitans.] Pag. 161.

§. 3. Sic quidem Dallæus. Ego, licet Curis istis sanè diu sepositis, nullum, post lustrum alterum, à Blondelli aut Salmasii manibus, placidè quiescentibus, aut periculum metuens, aut inimicitias expectans, ad aliam palæstram me, nec invitum, trahi passus fuerim, in quâ fortunæ Reformatæ Angliæ magis magisque indies videbantur positæ, quam primùm tamen, me, sic inopinato, at articulate, à viro Doctissimo in arenam evocatum animadverterem, nolui quidem aut detrectare pugnam, aut ad eam tardus accedere videri, sed quicquid esset, seu mihi, seu Dallæo veritas faveret, dum ille Consecrationis vocem ad Consignationem, Ego è contra consignationis potius ad consecrationem trahendam contenderem (uterque pro indubitato supponens, Hilarium hunc geminis locis unum idemque affirmasse) candidè & breviter experiri, paucissimis interim rem omnem ab initio resumendam & exordiendam existimans, quo faciliori compendio interveniat æquus Lector, deque hâc Causa sententiam ferat.

§. 4. Ante annos octo mihi cum Doctissimo D. Blondello, & Salmasio, de Episcopatûs juribus, res fuit. Inter alia vero, Duo erant quæ D. Blondellus, in suâ, pro sententiâ Hieronymi, de Episcopis & Presbyteris, Apologiâ, Causæ suæ imprimis favere censuit, ex viri non ita Magni Nominis, Hilarii (ut putat) Sardi, hujus, de quo nunc lis est, Scriptis, sub Ambrosii & Chrysostomi Larvâ fallentibus, desumpta. Hic certe, si Hilarius sit (nec enim de Umbræ nomine cuiquam litem movebo) in Commentario in Epistolas Paulinas, & ad Eph. 4. Post alia multa, Centunculi in modum, consarcinata, concluſit, verbis à Dallæo allatis [Denique apud Ægyptum Presbyteri consignant, si presens non sit Episcopus] ut & in alio opere, Quæstionum scilicet in vetus & novum Testamentum, Quæst. 101. cum in iisdem esset, hanc antedictorum rationem subjungit [Nam in Alexandriâ & per totam Ægyptum, si desit Episcopus, Consecrat Presbyter.] His geminis locis ad partes suas vocatis, ex priori sic infert Blondellus, Ergo eadem (naturâ suâ) utrorumque [Episcoporum scilicet & Presbyterorum] potestas est, sive enim Consignationis nomine Baptizatorum Confirmationem, sive Pœnitentium (impositione manuum signatam) benedictionem, sive ordinandorum consecrationem denotari velis, eodem res recidit: Ad totum scil. Presbyterium (qualiscunque illa sit) jure Divino pertinet. Ex posteriori autem sic, Samaritanos Petrus & Johannes (si Hilarii Nostri ductam sequamur) quia Sacerdotes & quâ Sacerdotes Confirmarunt, passimque per Ægyptum absentibus Episcopis Presbyteri consecraverunt, Quod sive de Eucharistiæ confectione, sive de Chrismatione do ordinationibus sacris, interpretari placet, perinde est.] Pag. 57. Sollicitius.

§. 5. Ego cum adversus eum & Alios, Episcoporum jura vindicanda susciperem, non nisi ad Scripturas, & Primævam Antiquitatem, de quibus præcipuè cum adversariis lis erat, provocandum duxi, nec certe, aut ad Ambrosium, aut Chrysostomum, multo minus ad Sardum, nullius in Ecclesiâ Dei, aut nominis aut æstimationis homuncionem, Diaconum quippe Larvatum, Disputationis filum deducendum putavi. Interim ἐν παρόδῳ, & aliud planè agens, cum de Eucharistiâ, Tertulliani ævo, non nisi de Præsidentium, id est, Episcoporum manu sumendâ sermo incidisset, ut & de dandi Baptismum jure, quod habuit summus sacerdos, dein Presbyteri & Diaconi, non tamen sine Episcopi Authoritate, posteriorem Pseudambrosii locum (non quod post tot, & tanta Apostolicorum Canonum, Ignatii, Justini, Concilii Laodiceni, Tertulliano ὁμοψήφων, nomina, istis suppetiis opus esset, sed tantum ut cumulum augerem) Coronidis loco adjeci, ex eo concludi ratus, per omnia Primævæ Antiquitatis Sæcula Eucharistiæ Consecrandæ authoritatem nemini, præterquam Episcopo, Canonicè competiisse, dein verò Presbyteris, quibus Episcopus eam largius sit. At & istis (ne quid diffitear) minus contentus, ex hoc insuper Testimonio Blondelli & Salmasii ἀβλαψίαν obiter perstringendam duxi, quod in altero hujus Authoris loco, ab utroque laudato, de Presbyteris apud Ægyptum, si præsens non sit Episcopus, Consignantibus, aut Confirmationem Baptisatorum, aut Pœnitentium benedictionem, aut ordinandorum Consecrationem hac Obsignandi voce denotari affirmarent, quam ex antedicto loco ad solam Eucharistiæ Consecrationem pertinere arbitrabar, adjiciens [illud satis constare.]

§. 6. Quid in hoc Commate minus ad rei ἀκείωσιν limatum sit, quantum, aut potius quantillum Scriptæ peritiæ recudendum monuerint, & quam planè nihil ex eo aut Blondelli de Ordinatione, aut Dallæi de Confirmatione hypothesi accrescat, mox fusius monstraturus sum: sufficiat interim, ut ab his Carceribus ordiatur concertatio nostra, seu potius Defensio mea, quam viro Doctissimo & Contribulis sui existimationis Studiosissimo, & de me, si cum altero illo Presbyteranæ causæ assertore conferatur, optimè merito, debere me sentio.

SECT. II.

Digressio de Maresii intempestivâ bile. Illi quid regerendum. De Antichristo. Situe inter futuri Christi adventus Prodromos expectandus. Episcopi Wigornienſis sententia de Pastorum ambitione.

§. 1. ALter is est Samuel Maresius, Professor Groningensis, nemini, credo, inauditus, qui Dallæum ipsum, libro integro, satis acriter invasit, nec umbris parcendum ratus, ne manè Blondello inter alia nonnulla, etiam de desertâ contra D. Hammondum suâ ipsius causâ pro sententiâ Hieronymi de Presbyteris diem dixit. Maresi. ὀπίσ. Part 1. Pag. 70.

§. 2. Hic

§. 2. Hic ergo Magnus, poſt denatum Blondellum, Presbyterianorum Athleta, ſeu μεσίχμιον אויש דבנים (τὸν δυώτατον αὐτῶν vertunt LXXII, גבורא מבוני הון Chaldæus) cum nuper ex fervore magni animi, Hierarchiam noſtram, totam (ſi novo Aruſpici, ſic ex extis hariolanti, credimus) labefactantem pro virili proſternere, ipſoſque Reverendi Præſulis Wigornienſis, Doctoris Prydeaux, cineres debellare ſtatueret, nihil antiquius habuit, quam ut Hammondum una in Triumphi & Prædæ partem duceret. Exam. Theol.

§. 3. Hunc in Diſputationis ſuæ limine, pro tribunali ſiſtendum curat, & dicto citius, furioſum pronunciat, ligat, flagriſque, ut bonum Presbyterum decuit, proſcindit [Eo, inquit, furoris Hic Hammond proceſſit, ut cauſam Papæ ex profeſſo propugnet, eumque neget eſſe Anti-Chriſtum, aut illi convenire vaticinium Pauli quod extat, 2 Theſſ. 2.

§. 4. Huic certe tam diræ ſententiæ nihil erat (coactus, ſed & lubens fateor) quod ego miſer opponerem, nihil quod Lictori meo contra-mutirem aut hiſcerem, nihil quod (non tam pugili, ſed Triumphatori) regerendum putarem, præter illud Pythagoræ, πὺξ σιδήρῳ μὴ σκαλδίειν, geminos quippe furores nullatenus eſſe committendos. Suadente itidem Θεοφόρῳ Martyre, Ignatio, Hierarchicorum Patrono, τοῖς πεφυσιωμένοις ἐμβεχαῖς πιέζειν.

§. 5. Huic ergo tam conſulto & tempeſtivo Monitori obſecundandum decrevi, ac quoniam, quæ ſint illa molliora tempora fandi, ſi quando Mareſio accidunt, plane ignoravi, viſum eſt mihi, molliſſimo ei ſilentio ſitare, & præ omnibus ambitioſorum faſcinis, Novatorum lenociniis, Apoſtolicum illud imprimis meditari, & intimo pectore haurire, & fovere, φιλοτιμεῖσθαι ἡσυχάζειν.

§. 6. Fieri tamen poteſt (ſpero certè) ut tandem poſt biennii integri moram Profeſſoris bilis paulum deferbuerit. Quâ in re, ſi falſus non ſum, non diffido me illi paucis perſuaſurum, qui Papam nunquam nominaverit, illum nondum cauſam ejus ex profeſſo propugnaſſe, nec certè omnes, qui Papicolas argumentis, malunt, quam convitiis, ſuperare, ſtatim ad Anicyras relegandos, aut helleboro proluendos eſſe.

§. 7. At ſummum eſſe hoc piaculum clamitat Mareſius, ei tamen, ut & univerſo Hierarchicorum veneno paratum antidotum, divino plane conſilio; E contrario enim Dn. Prideauxium ex profeſſo diſputare, præter Papam, ante ultimum Chriſti adventum non eſſe expectandum alium Antichriſtum, idque non ſine juſto Dei Judicio eveniſſe, ut ſcil. duo Hierarchicæ Turris vindices inter ſe committerentur.

§. 8. Verùm, dic ſodes, Mi Mareſi, quis eam oculis tuis obduxit nebulam, ut qui de Pauli ſynchronis, Pauli verba intelligenda putavit, is de Ultimi adhuc futuri ejus Adventus prodromis ea intellexiſſe tibi videretur? Certè ſi, cum μυστήριον ἀνομίας ἤδη, ſub Apoſtoli ævo, ἐνεργούμενον, ut & Antichriſti definitionem, quod ſit ὁ ἀρνούμενος τὸν πατέρα, καὶ τὸν υἱόν, & alia multa τῆς ἐσχάτης ὥρας indicia ſeu γνωρίσματα, imprimis verò illud, ὅτι ὁ Ἀντίχριστος ἔρχεται, καὶ νῦν Ἀντίχριστοι πολλοὶ γεγόνασιν, de Simone (ſi ipſi credamus) ſummo Deo (ſi Patribus) Satanæ primogenito, de ſpurciſſimis ejus Aſſeclis ἀδυνάμοις Gnoſticis interpretanda duxerim; ſi, inquam, hæc omnia eo modo prius interpretatus, poſt mutato quaſi conſilio, meique planè diſſimilis, ac μεγαχαρίζων, eadem ante ultimum & adhuc futurum Chriſti adventum expectanda docerem, ſi Judæos de Eliâ ſuo ſomniantes Evigilare juberem, & pro Eliâ Simonem præſtolari, Eſſet, cur Ira Profeſſoris etiam vehementiùs in me inſurgeret, eſſet cur me in amentiam & inſaniam uſque prolapſum clamaret, eſſet denique cur me cum Reverendo Præſule Commiti, idque (quia Hierophantæ noſtro ſic placuit) ex juſto Dei judicio contigiſſe agnoſcerem. 1 Joh. 11. 22. Ibid. v. 18.

§. 9. Verùm non ſunt hæc mea, ſed Mareſii viſa, qui errore non diſſimili, affixum ad nomen Papæ Acroſtichum. [Paſtorum Ambitio Peperit Antichriſtum] ex præliminari Reverendi Præſulis Epiſtola allatum, in totius cauſæ ejus præjudicium trahendum putavit, ſatis quidem, δόκει. Siquidem, tametſi Acroſtichon hoc vel de cælo lapſum daremus, atque ob id ſummam ei fidem deberi, nulla tamen cogit neceſſitas, ut quod Author ejus de Paſtoribus prophetavit, de Præſulibus intelligatur: Præſertim cum quod in depictâ tabulâ ſe puerum vidiſſe narrat Præſul, ipſe jam ſenex, & ad Tribunal Chriſti ſtatim ſiſtendus, non de aliis, quam Mareſianis Paſtoribus (Presbyteris ni fallor, ſunt hi) interpretandum duxiſſet. De illis nempe, ante omnes mortales, verbis immediatè ſubjectis (ſi ea vidiſſet, aut nos videre voluiſſet Mareſius) pronunciavit ὁ Μάγος Dominari volunt, nemo ut oportet obtemperare; ſic ut tandem fiat, hoc non gladio Oris, ſed Ore Gladii decidendum Problema, An ſuprematus Papalis habeatur potius Antichriſtianus, quàm Presbyterialis & enthuſiaſticus.] Ep. Ded. ad Faſcicul. controv. 2.

§. 10. Meminerit, obſecro, Problema illud Hammondi non eſſe, qui ut nullos in Pauli Epiſtolis Presbyteros ſecundarios inveniſſe ſe profitetur, ſic in hodierno ipſorum conſiſtorio Antichriſtum Paulo εὐγχεφον non potuit quæſiviſſe. Sed accidere illud viris doctis & bonis, ut quos vehementius averſantur, iis peſſima quæque ominentur. Quod ſupereſt, valeat bonus Profeſſor, & ab homine furioſo ſibi mentem bonam, & optima quæque voveri patiatur, nec aliud fervidioribus monitis ſuis reſponſum expectet.

SECT. III.

Conceſſio Dallæi quàm opportunè Hammondo ſubvenerit. Oppoſitio prima Dallæi. Reſponſio noſtra. Non omnia vidit Blondellus, imo nec Dallæus. Locus Firmiliani de Epiſcopis, ad Presbyteros detortus. Euchariſtiæ conſecratio Presbyteris, niſi abſente Epiſcopo, olim non competebat. Teſtimonia Canonis Apoſtolici, Ignatii, Canonis Laodiceni, Juſtini, Tertulliani, Firmiliani, Paciani, Hieronymi, Dallæi. Blondelli conceſſio, Labyrinthus, Conſignationis vox ambigua. Mendæ in Sardi Commentario.

§. 1. VErùm Dalleo, venerando ſeni, alia victima, nec ea planè ἀδάματος, paranda eſt: Nec certè aut Blondello, aut Salmaſio, aut cuivis mortalium tantillam injuriam feciſſe me patior, paratus, ſi quid erraſſe me comperio, veniam deprecari, eamque in gratiam, commation integrum, cum viro optimo (breviter, ſi id fieri poſſet) ad in cudem revocare.

§. 2. Et

§. 2. Et certè cum omnia penſiculatius libraverim, me vix, aut ne vix quidem, à lapſu aliquo liberandum deprehendi, niſi idem, qui me lapſum monuit, Dallæus ſublevaſſet. De conſecratione non eſt quod quicquam immutem, aut recudam, de Conſignatione certè aliter me ſentire faterer, niſi Dallæus, cui id maximè intereſt, lubenter concederet, id ſanè verum eſſe (ſi illi credimus) quod à me ponebatur, eandem eſſe utriuſque loci rationem, nam & rem, & verborum germanitatem id ſatis docere, & eundem eſſe utriuſque loci ſcriptorem, multa ſuadere.

Quod cum nec poſtulanti mihi Doctiſſimus Monitor Meus, tam pronus largiatur, non diffido me ipſi perſuaſurum, & ex ipsâ Blondelli ſententiâ, & ſuâ, rectè & irrefragabiliter procedere, quicquid iſto Diſſertationum Commate contra Blondellum, propoſui: Si enim quod de Presbytero Conſecrante dixit Sardus, revera de Euchariſtiæ confectione intelligendum ſit, nihilque, ipſis fatentibus, per Conſignationem Sardus voluerit, quod non idem vocabulo conſecrandi intellexerat, non aliis cauſa mea ſuppetiis indigebit, quam quas ipſi mihi Adverſarii opportunè, & liberaliter largiti ſunt.

§. 3. Hæc ſtatim fuſius monſtraturus ſum, ſingula interim, quo ille propoſuit ordine, diſtinctiùs proſecuturus.

§. 4. Et primò hoc ſibi mirabile videri affirmat, quod rem, quæ, ſi ipſi Theologo creditura ſit, ſatis conſtat, conſtare tamen non viderint, non modo Salmaſius & Blondellus, Noſtrorum Eruditiſſimi, ſed etiam Sirmondus & P. Aurelius, Adverſariorum fere Coryphæi.

§. 5. At reſpondeo, Primò, (omiſſis Sirmondo & Aurelio, quibuſcum nullum mihi negotium erat, & Oratione ad Blondellum, & Salmaſium, quibuſcum univerſa Res mea agebatur, converſa) illud equidem nimis conſtare, non omnia ſeu vidiſſe, ſeu agnoviſſe viros illos, licet verè perſpicaciſſimos. Multa quippe eos ſedulò conquiſiviſſe, & coacervaſſe, quæ τοπικὸν ſuæ quovis modo prodeſſe, infinita celaſſe, vel omiſiſſe, quæ officere videbantur. Horum non exiguos manipulos, ſed meſſem integram Diſſertationes iſtæ de Epiſcopatus Juribus, contra eorum ſententiam lucubratæ lectoribus æquis propoſuerunt, nec eſt quod hic ſpicæ ſublegantur.

Pag. 154. Inter Cypr. Ep. 75. §. 6. Imò nec Dallæus ipſe, licet oculatiſſimus, in iis quæ alibi Blondello addidit, & in hoc ipſo capite nobis retudit, id quod cuivis attento facile conſtaret, perſpexiſſe videtur. Cum enim Firmiliani locum de Hæreticis baptizantibus (ut dictum eſt) proponant, præſidere in Eccleſiâ Majores Natu affirmantis, qui & baptizandi & manum imponendi & ordinandi poſſident poteſtatem, & per Majores Natu, non ſolos Epiſcopos, ſed unâ cum iis Presbyteros propriè ſic dictos intelligi jubeat, palam eſt de Epiſcopis ἰδίως locutum eſſe Firmilianum. Sic enim poſt paucula ſequitur in ea ipſa epiſtola, niſi ſi his Epiſcopis, de quibus nunc, minor fuit Paulus (vides Epiſcopos diſertè nunc dici, quos modò majores natu nuncupaverat) ut hi quidem poſſint per ſolam manus impoſitionem venientibus hæreticis dare Spiritum Sanctum.] Et iterum, Nos etiam illos, quos hi, qui prius in Eccleſiâ Catholicâ Epiſcopi fuerunt, & poſtmodum ſibi poteſtatem Clericæ Ordinationis aſſumentes baptizaverant, pro non baptizatis habendos judicavimus.] Id fuſiùs monſtrari poſſet, niſi res ipſa, & univerſa Epiſtolæ ſeries loqueretur.

Pag. 155. & Pag. 218. §. 7. Secundò etiam reſpondeo, nedum illud prodigii eſſe, ſi, qui ad illa ſingula, quarum auxilio interpretationem noſtram concinnavimus, animum non adverterint, illi ea omnia non perſpexerint, quæ aliis quibuſque, perſpicillis iſtis uti dignantibus redduntur perſpectiſſima. Nos certè locum iſtum de Presbytero conſignante ambiguum & obſcurum, ex alio ejuſdem Authoris luculento, & (ſi Dallæo ipſi credamus) planè cognato, ubi diſerte conſecratio repoſita eſt, explicandum cenſuimus; ſimulque praxim antiquam Alexandrinam aut Ægyptiacam, de Presbyteris, non niſi cum deeſſet Epiſcopus, Euchariſtiam conſecrantibus, Ambroſiaſtro noſtro memoratam, & ſive ex Canone vetuſto, ſeu tantum ex more iſtius Eccleſiæ obtinentem, Ex Canonibus totius Eccleſiæ antiquiſſimis, primorumque Patrum dictis huc pertinentibus, imo ex ſynchronis, & ætatem Authoris hujus (quiſquis ille fuit, ſen Hilarius Diaconus, ſeu quis alius, circa medium ſæculi quarti; paulo ante Damaſi Epiſcopatum) proximè attingentibus, dilucidare conati ſumus.

§. 8. Nempe ex Canone imprimis Apoſtolicorum 40, omnia Epiſcopis concredente, ſic ut nihil omnino ἀνεὺ γνώμης τοῦ Ἐπισκόπου πράττειν ſine Epiſcopi ſententiâ facere Presbyteris liceat. Concinente plane Ignatio, Ep. ad Smyrnenſes. Μηδεὶς χωρὶς τοῦ ἐπισκόπου τι τῶν ἀνηκόντων εἰς τὴν ἐκκλησίαν, Nemo ſine Epiſcopo quicquam eorum, quæ ad Eccleſiam pertinent, faciat. Ut & Laodiceno Canone 56. An. Chr. 364. tribus tantum ante Damaſi Papatum annis, cui Ambroſiaſtrum Noſtrum ὁμόλογα rectè ſtatuit Blondellus) τοὺς πρεσβυτέρους μηδὲν πράττειν ἄνευ γνώμης τοῦ Ἐπισκόπου Presbyteri nihil agant ſine ſententiâ Epiſcopi. Dein ex eodem Ignatio de Euchariſtiâ diſertè decernente, ad eoſdem Smyrnenſes, ἐκείνη βεβαία εὐχαριστία ἡγείσθω ἡ ὑπὸ Ἐπίσκοπον οὖσα, ἢ οἷς ἂν αὐτὸς ἐπιτρέψῃ. Illa firma Euchariſtia exiſtimetur, quæ vel ab Epiſcopo ſit, vel ab eo cui ab Epiſcopo commiſſa eſt. Et, οὐκ ἔξον ἐστὶ χωρὶς τοῦ Ἐπισκόπου οὔτε βαπτίζειν, οὔτε ἀγάπην ποιεῖν· ἀλλ' ὅταν ἐκείνῳ δοκῇ, ἵνα ἀσφαλὲς ᾖ καὶ βέβαιον, &c. Non licet ſine Epiſcopo offerre, ſed cum illi videatur, ut tuta & firma ſit, &c. Juſtino itidem Martyre, ſub finem ſæculi ſecundi, & Tertulliano, ſub initium Tertii, idem affirmantibus, Non de aliorum (ait hic de Cor. Mil.) quam de præſidentium manu (μεγιστάνων, ait ille, Apol. 2.) Euchariſtiam ſumimus (quos alibi ſummos ſacerdotes, & Epiſcopos dici, ſatis certum eſt.) Quibus illud Firmiliani modo prolatum, ſatis concinit, in Eccleſiâ præſidere Majores Natu (hoc eſt, ut oſtendimus, Epiſcopos) & baptizandi, & manum imponendi & Ordinandi poteſtatem poſſidere. Cui & par illud Paciani eſt, Ser. de Bapt. Lavacro peccata purgantur, Chriſmate Spiritus ſuperfunditur, utraque verò iſta manu & ore Antiſtitis inpetramus. Quibus & illud Hieronymi addi poteſt, qui licet eminentem & exortem Epiſcopi poteſtatem non Chriſto ſed hominibus imputet, eam tamen ita Epiſcopis dari affirmat (adverſus Lucifer.) ut ſine Chriſmate & Epiſcopi juſſione, neque Presbyter, neque Diaconus jus habeat baptizandi.

§. 9. Placet hîc ipſum de Temporibus, ex quibus prælatus Presbyteris Epiſcopus, fatentem audire: Obtinuit, inquit, ut non Chriſmare, non baptizare, non pœnitentiam reconciliare, ne uſitatiſſima quidem & infima ordinis ſui Miniſteria, ſi adeſſet Epiſcopus, invadere vel attingere, niſi eo imperante, annuente, auderent Presbyteri.] Rectiſſimè quidem, modo advertiſſet ab Apoſtolicorum Canone, ab ipſius Ignatii ævo, hoc argumentum ſimulque κριτήριον non inane aut fallax, quod Epiſcoporum prærogativam ſtabiliat, eoſque Presbyteris quibuſcunque longo intervallo anteceſſiſſe teſtetur, nobis deſcendiſſe.

§. 10. Hæc cum ita ſe habeant, ſimulque omnibus in Confeſſo ſit, Conſecrandi vocem de Euchariſtiæ confectione ſolenniter omni ævo Uſurpatam eſſe; quis quæſumus dubitandi locus ſupereſt, quin hæc

Ambroſiaſtri

Ambrosiastri sententia, quæ consecrationem disertè nominat, de Eucharistiâ intelligi posset, quam nondum in Ægypto, si huic Authori credamus, conficiebat Presbyter, nisi aut abfuerit aut defuerit Episcopus.

§. 11. Blondellum hic ipsum audiamus, Cujus hæc verba sunt. Possim per Ægyptum absentibus Episcopis Presbyteri consecravere, quod sive de Eucharistiæ Confectione, sive de Chrismatione, sive de Ordinationibus sacris, interpretari placeat, perinde est.]

§. 12. Nos igitur, ne longi simus, de tribus unum eligimus, & quandoquidem ipse affirmaverit, quodcunque horum placuerit, perinde esse, bonâ cum venîâ Doctissimi viri, quia maximè placuit, Consecrationem ibi loci de Confectione Eucharistiæ Exponendam esse diximus. Quod si nobis poscentibus (si non nostri, saltem Blondelli Clientis sui gratiâ) largiturus sit Dallæus, necesse erit in eandem nobiscum sententiam festinet, de altero Ambrosiastri hujus loco, [Apud Ægyptum Presbyteri confignant, si præsens non sit Episcopus] eumque de Confectione Eucharistiæ interpretandum statuat. Illud quippe* Vir Doctissimus, ut prænonui, libenter agnoscit, Eandem utriusque loci rationem esse, & consecrationem unius, alterius confignationem esse.] Nullum sanè hic (si quid video) effugium patet, nisi illud quod candidè, & liberaliter, sed ut causæ suæ prodesset, largitus est Blondellus [Consecrationem scil. pro Eucharistiæ Confectione accipi posse] ex ejusdem denuò Causæ necessitatibus retractetur, & plane negetur. Quod si fiat, agnoscet æquus Arbiter, hoc esse, si quid aliud, κατὰ δύο δικάζειν.

§. 13. Illud interim, Tertiò, observatu non indignum accidit, in quam inextricabilem Salmasius & Blondellus, suarum partium studio, Labyrinthum inciderint; incerti planè, & addubitantes, an de Confirmatione baptizatorum, an de Pœnitentium benedictione, an de Ordinandorum consecratione, Confignatio Sardi intelligenda sit; Illud quippe pronum esse, ut qui à verò aberraverint, in varias semitas & sententias dissecentur. Quibus & illud adjiciendum est, ex sententiâ Dallæi, inter Baptismi ritus Confignationem ponendam esse. Quâ in re si Calculum rectè posuerit, sequetur etiam ex mente ejus, Consecrationem Baptismi ritum esse, quo quidem posito, quis quæsumus eam Presbytero abjudicaturus est?

§. 14. Mihi interim nihil promptius visum est, quam vel vocem satis ambiguam (ipsis fatentibus, qui, tribus propositis sententiis, quæ demum præferenda est, non statuerunt) à notiori, & magis vulgari [Consecrationis] (idque ex ipsorum suffragio) explicandam esse, vel levi demum Librariorum mendâ (quales huic Commentario non infrequentes subesse* Aurelius notavit, nec refragatur Doctissimus † Dallæus) confignant] hoc in loco, pro [Consecrant] in illo repositam esse.

* Dall. de confirm. p. 220.

* Ait ille (Aurel.) hoc opus præter innumeras mendas, &c. Dall. de Confirm. p. 221.

† De mendis frustra huic invidiam facit Aurelius. Vix enim quicquam Patrum à mendis immunis est. Dall. Ibid.

SECT. IV.

Secundæ Dallæi oppositioni respondetur. Consecrandi vox quam generalis, Confignandi specialis.

§. 1. AT inquit Vir Doctissimus, Consecrandi vocem generalem esse & maximi ambitus, tam de personis, quam de rebus dictam (Hammondo, ut putat, non negante) confignare angustius esse, nec, quod meminerit, de Eucharistiæ Confectione, simpliciter ut hoc loco, usurpatam.

§. 2. At respondeo, 1. Nec Consecrandi vocem ita generalem esse, nec Confignandi Angustam, ut quicquam exinde Blondello & Salmasio, Clientibus ipsius, lucrari possit Dallæus. Nec enim consecrationem apud idoneos Authores pro Confirmatione aut pœnitentium Benedictione Usurpatam inveniri, nec Confignationem de Ordinationibus; de quibus Hammondo cum Blondello præcipualis erat, dici constat: ut interim de pœnitentium Benedictione nihil dicamus, quibus nec Consecratio, nec Confignatio competit.

§. 3. Et certè si Hammondus Novus Interpres audiat, qui, cum mendam subesse credat, ideoque Exemplo non indigeat, Exemplum Nullum attulit in quo confignare diceretur Episcopus, dum Eucharistiam celebraret; Cur non æquè, imò magis Novus Dallæus, qui Exemplum cum opus esset æquè non adduxit, in quo consecrare simpliciter dicatur, vel qui baptizatos confirmat, vel qui pœnitentibus manuum impositione benedicit?

§. 4. At & eadem hæc recoquit, & fidentius prosequitur Vir Doctissimus, & cum sit eadem utriusque loci ratio, & unius Consecratio, alterius sit confignatio, omnino potius & verius videri statuit, ut id quod generalius est, ex eo interpretemur quod est specialius & magis proprium, quam contra, & consecrare de obfignatione intelligamus, quam obfignationem de Eucharistiæ confectione, cum Confignationem quidem Consecrationem & esse & dici omnes confiteantur, Eucharistiæ Confectionem dici simpliciter Confignationem, nemo (ut opinatur) audiverit.

§. 5. At itidem respondeo, 1. Confignandi vocem non esse specialiorem aut magis propriam, quam sit Consecrationis: Nec verò hîc Argumentis opus esse, ipsis quippe Blondello & Salmasio lubenter fatentibus, qui Confignationem & Confirmationi, & Pœnitentium benedictioni, & Ordinandorum Consecrationi Communem (hoc non est, propriam) posuerunt, Cum tamen Consecratio (de Confectione Eucharistiæ & Ordinatione frequenter usurpata) non ita latè pateat, nec dum enim (ut dictum est,) exemplum attulit Vir Doctissimus, in quo de Confirmatione, aut pœnitentium benedictione usurpetur.

§. 6. At 2. Si Consecrari Neophyti dici possent, cum vel Chrismate vel impositione manuum perficiebantur, (quod Causæ suæ prodesse credit Dallæus) quid quæsumus prohibet, quo minus, qui pani in Eucharistiâ signum Crucis, æquè ac Catechumenorum fronti in baptismo imprellerint, æquè itidem, & pari vocis proprietate, Confignare dicantur? At Nos (ut dictum est, & mox etiam fusiùs demonstrabitur) istis auxiliis non indigemus.

§. 7. Obiter hic notari potest, pro Confignatione, quæ procliviori Mendâ à Consecratione degenerare potuit, & frequenter, (ut Dallæo placet,) de Baptismi Cæremoniâ usurpatur, Obfignationem à viro Doctissimo substitui, (quæ de ἐπισφραγισμῷ in Confirmatione ubique usurpatur) quo jure ipse viderit, nec tamen quicquam ei exinde lucri accrevit, nihilo enim probabilius redditur Consecrationem simpliciter usurpatam, de Obfignatione aut Confirmatione intelligendam esse.

SECT. V.

Tertia Dallæi Oppoſitio. De Euchariſtiæ per Presbyteros confectione ſub Damaſi ævo. Libertas Ægypto peculiaris, quænam fuerit. Concluſio hujus litis.

§. 1. SUpereſt ut altari tandem rationi, ex rebus, inquit, ipſis, ſcil. Ex eo quod Ægypto peculiaris ſit mos ille, petita reſpondeamus: ſic enim Dallæus [ejus Author non modo concedit, ſed ipſe diſertè ponit Presbyteralem Conſignandi, abſente Epiſcopo, libertatem hic ut rem Commemorari Ægypto peculiarem. At (inquit) poteſtas Euchariſtiam, abſente Epiſcopo, conſecrandi Presbyterorum in quibuſvis Orbis Chriſtiani Provinciis, etiam Romæ & in toto Occidente Communis; Neque (inquit) puto ullum Chriſtianiſmi vel Tempus, vel Clima monſtrari poſſe, quo Presbytero non licuerit, extra Epiſcopi præſentiam, Euchariſtiam rectè conficere.]

§. 2. At ex antedictis conſtat, Canone præſertim Laodiceno, Ambroſiaſtro recentiore, & Damaſo plane συγχέαι, Univerſam Eccleſiæ Adminiſtrationem adhuc penes Epiſcopos manſiſſe, nec quicquam feciſſe Presbyteros ἀνδ' γνώμης, ſine eorum juſſu & mandato, nec dum enim Morem illum Juſtini, & Tertulliani ævo celebrem, exoleviſſe, aut de aliorum Euchariſtiam, quam de Præſidentis, aut Epiſcopi manu, aut ex juſſu ejus, rite, i. e. Canonicè & ordinariò ſumi conſueviſſe; Univerſæ rogo Eccleſiæ Codicis Canones Vir Doctiſſimus conſulat, & percurrat, nec quicquam inveniet, quod opponat. Si igitur aut ex Canone aliquo Alexandrino, aut ex more ſaltem per Ægyptum univerſam obtinente, vel defuncto, vel abſente Epiſcopo, ſine ullâ γνώμης ejus ſignificatione, Euchariſtiam Presbyteri, ex authoritate ordini Presbyterali adjunctâ, liberè conſecrabant, nil obſtat, quin hujus libertatis, ut Ægypto peculiaris, nec tamen, niſi cùm deeſſet Epiſcopus, ad Presbyteros Canonicè pertinentis, Ambroſiaſter Noſter opportunè mentionem faceret.

§. 3. Videt Jam Doctiſſimus Dallæus, quibus argumentis ſtabiliri ſententiam ſuam ſentiat Hammondus, nec adhuc deſperet tritiſſimam voculæ ſatis notæ expoſitionem, Conſecrationis ſcil. per Euchariſtiæ Confectionem explicatæ, non ita novam & inauditam æquis arbitris cenſeri poſſe: ſimulque ex eâ, ſi non meo, ſaltem ipſius Dallæi calculo, Conſignationis Vocem metiendam eſſe; ni fortè proclivi, & facili librariorum errore, hæc pro illâ ſubſtituatur, & utrobique [Conſecrat & Conſecrant] non [Conſignant] reponenda ſit.

CAP. II.

Alia quædam præliminaria de Blondello, & Dallæo.

SECT. I.

Presbyteralis Ordinationis Exemplum in Colutho & Iſchyrâ, Blondelli hypotheſi oppoſitum. Alexandrina ſynodus Κοινὴ, Sardi honori faventior Hammondus, quàm Blondellus. De Sardi Commentariis paucula.

§. 1. DE Commate integro, prout in Diſſertationibus propoſitum eſt, hæc paucula dicta ſunto. Cæterùm quia hac in re ἀβλεψίαν duobus viris ſummis Blondello, & Salmaſio exprobrari (ſi notaſſe tantum, idque leniter, ſit exprobraſſe) adeo mirandum optimo Dallæo videtur, ſimulque ex his Ambroſiaſtri verbis ab ipſo novum petitur argumentum, quo ſub Conſignationis titulo Confirmationem (ut & Ordinationem Blondellus & Salmaſius) Presbyteris, non Epiſcopis ſolis competere, lectoribus perſuadeat; Duo hæc in gratiam Eruditiſſimi Viri, ex abundanti adjicere haud gravabor, alterum quod Blondellum & Salmaſium Clientes, alterum quod ipſum tam nobilis paris Advocatum ἰσόπιμον reſpiciat.

§. 2. Et primò, cum Blondellus & Salmaſius, qui ut Epiſcoporum θεοφιλίαν labefactarent, ex hoc Ambroſiaſtri loco cauſæ ſuæ ſuffulciendæ tibicinem aptarunt, in hoc planè conſenſerint, eodem rem recidere, * ſive Conſignatione baptizatorum Confirmationem, ſive pœnitentium benedictionem, ſive Ordinandorum Conſecrationem denotari velis, eam tamen, qualiſcunque ſit, ſeu Ordinatio, ſeu Confirmatio, ſeu benedictio, ad Presbyteros jure divino pertinere: Annon eo ipſo ſatis teſtantur ſe Notiſſimæ illius, apud † Athanaſium alioſque, Coluthi & Iſchyræ Hiſtoriæ, quam uterque ſatis clarè vidit, Blondellus * alibi ſatis latè deſcripſit, eâque Patrum ſaltem Canoni derogatum eſſe agnoſcit, aut parum memores, aut de illa nequaquam ſollicitos fuiſſe: Cum in hac ipſa Ægypti primaria metropoli Alexandriâ, Coluthus (non ut in altero Athanaſii loco Pariſienſis editio bis, & Latinus Interpres P. Nannius ſemel legit, Καθολικὸς Catholicus quidam) Presbyter Presbyteros ordinans, & ſic (ſi Blondello credamus) conſignans, graves quidem, at non immeritas temeritatis hujus pœnas dederit, Καὶ πᾶσα γοῦν ἀπὸ γέγονεν ἀκυρος, καὶ πάντες οἱ παρ' αὐτῶ καταξιόντες ἐν τῷ κλήρῳ λαϊκοὶ γεγόναση, καὶ ὅπως συνάγοντες, Omnis ejus actus reſciſſus eſt, omnes ab eo ordinati in ſchiſmate, ad Laicorum Claſſem redacti, & ut Laici ad ſynaxim admiſſi? Quâ in re non fidentius Hammondus ipſe pronuntiaſſet, eam ſatis conſtare] δῆλον enim inquit Athanaſius, καὶ ὑδένι καθέστηκεν ἀμφίβολον, Manifeſtum, & nemo de eâ re dubitandum putavit.

* Blondel. Apol. p. 57. Salm. Appar. ad lib. de Prim.
† Tom. 1. 732.
* Apol. pro Hieron. p. 168.

§. 3. Sic

§. 3. Sic & de Iſchyrâ * alibi, λέγει ἑαυτὸν εἶναι Πρεσβύτερον, ὁς ἐκ τοῦ Πρεσβυτερίου, ſe Presbyterum jactat, cùm Presbyter non ſit, ὑπὸ τὸ Κολούθου (fœde iterum ut dixi, Καθολικῶ, Pariſienſis Editio legit) τῶ Πρεσβυτέρου φαντασίντος Ἐπισκοπεῖν, ἢ ὕστερον ὑπὸ κοινῆς Συνόδου Ὅσιν, ἢ σὺν αὐτῷ Ἐπισκόπων, καλουμένου ἀρχιπρεσβυτέρου εἶ καὶ ἢ ἀξίωσιν ἦν κατιέναι, ἢ κατ' ἀκολουθίαν πάντες οἱ ὑπὸ (Καθολικῶ iterum) Κολούθου καταλήντες ἀνέβαινον εἰς τὸν ἀυτὸν τόπον, εἰς ὃν ἢ ἀξίωσιν ἦσαν, ὡς ἢ αὐτὸς Ἰσχύρας λαϊκὸς ἀριθμῆ. A Colutho enim Presbytero ordinatus eſt ſe Epiſcopum fingente, & poſt in communi Synodo Hoſii & Epiſcoporum cum eo, ad Presbyteratum redire juſſo, & ex conſequenti omnes à Colutho ordinati ad locum, in quo prius fuerant recurrebant, & ita Iſchyras Laicis annumerabatur. * Pag. 764. D.

§. 4. Quid clarius? In hac ipſa Alexandrina Synodo (quam κοινὴν, non generalem ut Nannius reddidit, ſed totius Ægypti communem, dixit Athanaſius) An. Ch. 319. paucis (triginta circiter) ante Hilarium Sardum Ambroſiaſtrum noſtrum annis celebrata, ſolenniter ſtatutum eſt, Presbytero Presbyterum, Colutho Iſchyram ordinare non licere, (adeoque non conſignare, ſumptâ conſignandi voce, eo quo vult Blondellus ſignificatu) ipſo etiam Colutho, ob hoc ipſum, quod ſibi jus iſtûd aſſumſerit, φαντασθῶτα τὸν Ἐπισκοπεῖν, imaginarium, non verum Epiſcopatum aſſumſiſſe pronuntiato. Adeò ſollicitè Ægyptiorum, de quibus Sardus loquitur, Eccleſia Epiſcoporum ἀεγόμια, & exortem dignitatem ſæculo iſto tutabatur; incredibilem planè & plus quàm mythicam μετεμέρωσιν, aut μετεμψυχωσιν paſſa, ſi nullo lethæo aut venenato poculo abſorpto, intra XXX annorum ſpatium ſic univerſam immutatam credamus, ut id jam impune (ſi non cum mercede) ſub Sardo liceat, quod ſic ἀνοσίως ſub Hoſio mulctabatur. Vidit hæc, inquam, & ad commoda ſua quàm potuit ſuaviter inflectenda alibi curavit Blondellus, facto Colutbi Patrum Canones violatos lubenter agnoſcens, at nullo pœnitentiæ aculeo, aut ſtimulo tangitur, quòd hanc per Univerſam Ægyptum Presbyteris omnibus licentiam ipſe indulſerit, cujus à Colutho, & Iſchyrâ pœnas ſatis inclementes exigi non gravatur. Hæc ſi aut non perſpexit, aut inter ſe, ratione temporum & locorum habitâ, componere, & conciliare neſcivit Blondellus, quomodò ἀβλεψίαν vitabit? Si quod ipſe probè noverat, máluerit nos non videre, malo patrocinio cauſa non bona pejor fiet.

§. 5. Quicquid contrà afferatur, palam eſt Blondellianum Ambroſiaſtri interpretamentum Alexandrinæ (adde etiam Univerſalis Eccleſiæ) praxi, & decretis adverſari, ideoque melius Hilario huic conſuluiſſe Hammondum, qui ſi fortè minus commodè, nec planè ex mente ipſius, voculam [Conſignant] interpretatus eſt; id certè curavit, ut qui eâ uſus eſt, cum Univerſâ Chriſti Eccleſiâ ſenſiſſe putaretur. Nec enim opus fuit, ut qui Pelagianæ hæreſeos ab Aurelio, Luciferiani ſchiſmatis etiam ab ipſo Blondello, Dallæo, adque adeò ab omnibus inſimulatur, idem Aeriani quoque dogmatis reus, i. e. Presbyterianæ ἰσοτιμίας aſſertor putaretur, preſertim cùm * eodem loci, Epiſcopum Sacerdotum Principem, & Apoſtolos Epiſcopos eſſe nobis ſatis liberaliter largitus ſit. Et ſi quædam nec nobis nec reformatis Gallis grata futura miſcuerit, ſcil. in populo inter initia (naſcente Eccleſiâ) omnibus conceſſum eſſe, & Evangelizare & Baptizare, & Scripturas in Eccleſiâ explanare, nunc (ipſius ævo) neque Diaconos Prædicare, &c. Æquum tamen erit, & Charitati optima quæque ſperanti congruum, ut nec de malis pejora, nec de pejoribus peſſima quæque ſuſpicemur. * In Eph. 4.

§. 6. Relegat interim Vir Doctiſſimus (ſi non nimis diſpliceat) quæ per ſeſqui-alteram paginam ex hoc Ambroſiaſtro laudavit & deſcripſit (ſimulque prolixo ornavit Commentario) Blondellus, & ex animo reſpondeat, an hic demum Hilarius Sardus, Eccleſiæ Romanæ Diaconus, Orbis Deucaleon (naſutè & Ironicè) ab Hieronymo nuncupatus, Luciferiani Schiſmatis ſtrenuus advocatus, qui Græcorum (ut videtur) rituum æquè ac linguæ ignarus, de Alexandrinæ Eccleſiæ praxi pronuntiavit, qui Centones & Stromata, ſic ſibi, ſic aliis omnibus difformia, nullis antiquorum aut ὁμολόγων teſtimoniis fretus, undique conquiſierit, ſtatuminandæ Univerſæ Politiæ Eccleſiaſticæ ſatis idoneum firmamentum cenſeri debeat, ad cujus ideam, Normamque ipſi Alexandrinæ Eccleſiæ, de quâ pronuntiat, Canones (ex quibus ipſis Presbyteralem Ordinationem ἄκυρον, & planè nullam, omnéſque qui ſic ordinati, ad Laicorum Communionem denuò redactos, ſupra docuimus) reformandi ſunt.

§. 7. De Blondello hactenus, cujus cauſæ interfuit, ut Conſignatio Ordinandorum Conſecrationem ſignificaret, eaque ex hujus tam antiqui, ſub medium quarti ſæculi ſcriptoris Authoritate, Presbyteris competeret.

SECT. II.

Dallæi Sententia proponitur, & per partes examinatur. Vox Sacramenti latè ſumpta de quolibet ſacro ritu. De Confirmatione quid ſenſerit Eccleſia Anglicana ſub Henrico VIII. Unctio ſine Confirmatione, Chriſmatis uſus in Baptiſmo apud Græcos, * Damaſcenum, Oecumenium, Simeonem, Harmenopulum, Baſilium. Apud Latinos, Hieronymum, Gregorium, Tertullianum, Honorium Auguſtodunenſem: Ritus Eccleſiaſticus & mutabilis. Ejuſdem Symboli multiplex uſus. Impoſitio manuum in Confirmatione, à Chriſmate in Baptiſmo diſtinguitur. Confirmatio per ſolam χειροθεσίαν, ſine Unctione. Rituum διαφορία. Pacis cura. * Authorem Eccleſiaſticæ Hierarchiæ.

§. 1. AD Dallæum quod attinet, Ille quidem his paucis lineolis rem ſuam omnem concluſiſſe, & ex voto confeciſſe ſibi videtur, 1. Conſecrandi vocem generalem, & maximi ambitûs eſſe ſtatuit, quæ tam de perſonis, quàm de rebus dicitur; quo poſito, deinde aſſumit Conſecrari ſatis idoneè dici poſſe Neophytos, cùm vel Chriſmate vel manuum impoſitione perficiebantur. 2. Cùm eadem ſit utriuſque Sardiani loci ratio, & unius conſecratio alterius ſit conſignatio, conſignationem etiam de eâdem Chriſmatione intelligendam eſſe, adeoque Chriſmationis, & Manuum impoſitionis poteſtatem, Pag. 120. Pag. 121.

ex ſuffragio Sardi, & aliorum Complurium, pænes Presbyteros fuiſſe autumat. 3. Chriſmationem hanc, & manuum impoſitionem meram baptiſmatis Cæremoniam ſemper habitam fuiſſe docet, & proinde ſequi, Confirmationis, quem dicimus, ritum, licet hodiernæ eccleſiæ notiſſimum, prioribus tamen & purioribus ſæculis planè inauditum, ſequiorum Latinorum * figmentum eſſe, qui Sacramentorum numero à binario ad ſeptenarium aucto, non-niſi ſomnia pro Sacramentis nobis venditarunt.

Pag. 224. & ſequent.

* Veſtrum illud Epiſcopalis Confirmationis figmentum, de Conf. p. 100.

§. 2. De hac universâ Doctiſſimi viri ſententiâ, præcipuè quidem contra Bellarminum, & Aurelium, cæteroſque Papalis Hierarchiæ propugnatores inſtitutâ, in multis tamen Prælaticæ ſeu Epiſcopalis dignitatis aſſertores ex æquo premente, adeoque contra Reformatam (necdum deformatam) Angliam noſtram, reliquoſque Primævæ Antiquitatis, & puritatis, & ſimplicitatis indefeſſos aſſeclas, aut vindices, qui Epiſcopalem θεοδοσίαν, contra Presbyteranam ἰσοκαδμίαν, tutandam duximus, & inter ritus Apoſtolicos, aut Eccleſiaſticos, licèt non inter Sacramenta à Chriſto inſtituta, Confirmationem Epiſcopalem numerare conſuevimus, militante, quid nobis viſum ſit, paucis docebimus. Id autem rectius facturi videmur, ſi omiſſis iis, quæ modo attigimus, de Sardo, de Conſecrandi, & Conſignandi vocibus, &c.) rem ipſam aggrediamur, & in limine nonnulla diſtinguamus ambigua, alia explicemus obſcura, ita enim fiet, ut res omnis verborum involucris doliſque, quibus imponi incautis ſolet nudata; clariùs tum conſpiciatur, tum dijudicetur.

§. 3. Et primò, quod ad vocem Sacramenti attinet, eam aliquando Latè, aliquandò ſtrictè apud Latinos uſurpari notum eſt: Latiori ſignificatu, quilibet ſacer, præſertim Symbolicus Ritus, Sacramentum non incommodè dici poteſt. Sic * Cypriano dicuntur utroque Sacramento naſci, qui præter manus impoſitionem ad accipiendum Spiritum, Eccleſiæ etiam Baptiſmum acceperunt. Sic in † Synodo Carthaginenſi, neque Spiritus ſine Aqua operari poteſt, neque aqua ſine Spiritu, (ait Nemeſianus à Thubunis Epiſcopus) Malè ergo, inquit, ſibi quidam interpretantur, ut dicant quod per manus impoſitionem Spiritum ſanctum accipiant, & ſic recipiantur; Cum manifeſtum ſit utroque Sacramento debere eos renaſci in Eccleſiâ Catholicâ. Utrobique palam eſt Sacramenti vocem latè ſumptam, æquè manus impoſitioni, ac Baptiſmo accommodari. Nec deſunt ejuſdem Locutionis Exempla apud antiquos.

* Ep. 72. p. 103.
† Inter opera Cypriani, Pamel. edit. p. 230.

§. 4. Nos verò qui Sacramenti voce ſtrictè ſumptâ, non quoſlibet Novi fœderis ritus, ſed paucos & primarios, eoſque à Chriſto ipſo exertè inſtitutos, & omnibus univerſim ad ſalutem, ex neceſſitate præcepti, ſi non & medii, propoſitos, intelligi volumus, nullam hic cum Dallæo litem nectimus, ſed binario Sacramentorum numero contenti, ſeptenarium aut ὀγδοάδα jubemus; aut Eccleſiæ Romanæ, Novorum ut dogmatum, ita Sacramentorum feraciſſimæ matri lubentes relinquimus: Sit modo in Eccleſiæ albo cenſuque, & Apoſtolorum ſeu præcepto, ſeu ſaltem praxi Originem ſuam imputet Confirmatio; de aliis moleſti, aut ſolliciti non erimus.

§. 5. Libet hic commemorare quæ in Eccleſiâ noſtrâ ſub Henrico 8. ante factam doctrinarum, quàm dicimus, reformationem, in libro An. Chri. 1543. Ex juſſu Regiæ Majeſtatis edito, cujus titulus eſt Neceſſaria Doctrina & Eruditio, &c. Hâc in re definita ſunt. A Scripturis ordiuntur, ubi Apoſtoli, naſcente "Eccleſiâ, quamvis indubitanter crederent baptizatos omnes eo Sacramento perfectè rege-"neratos eſſe, perfectè Corpori ejus inſitos, plenariam peccatorum remiſſionem accepiſſe, doniſque "& gratiis Sancti Spiritus imbutos eſſe, Baptizatos tamen poſt acceptum lavacrum reviſiſſe reperi-"untur quorum precibus & manuum impoſitione, Spiritus Sanctus donari, & conferri legitur. Lin-"guis enim loquebantur, & prophetabant, Quibus omnibus non ſolum ipſi, qui tam miris donis ſplen-"debant, in fide Chriſti magis ſtabiliebantur, & ad majorem Confeſſionis Conſtantiam proficiebant, "ſed & ipſi infideles, à Chriſto adhuc procul poſiti, facilius ad fidem, & Evangelium amplectendum "trahebantur.

§. 6. Ab his initiis Confirmationis Ritus ad "Eccleſiam pervenit, cujus, Primævi Patres, ſumpta "hinc occaſione, & in hâc Apoſtolorum praxi facto fundamento, reputantes inſuper quam ſit illud "pronum & facile, in Baptiſmo regeneratos, Spirituque donatos, tentationibus, infirmitatibus, imo "peccatis & malitiâ ſua proditos, ab eo excidere; hunc ſemper morem obſervandum duxerunt, (ſi-"cut per omnes Seculorum ſucceſſiones celebratum videmus) ut Chriſtiani omnes poſt acceptum la-"vacrum ad Epiſcopos adducerentur, nempe ut Oratione, & manuum impoſitione, & Sancti Chriſma-"tis conſignatione Confirmarentur, i. e. eas à Spiritu Sancto Gratias impetrarent, quibus freti, in do-"nis & beneficiis Baptiſmo collatis, firmiores & conſtantiores perſiſterent, ne ab iis leviter reſili-"rent, aut exciderent, ſed ad majorem, & magis athleticam ἕξιν provecti, non ſolum fidem Chri-"ſto deſponſatam contra omnes Perſecutionum minas inconcuſſi profiterentur, ſed & contra hoſtes "Spirituales, Mundum, Satanam, Carnemque acrius militarent, ſublatâ alacriter Chriſti Cruce, "tribulationes, & afflictiones hujus vitæ fortiter tolerarent, & denique largiores, & locupletiores "Spiritus Sancti virtutes & gratias à Chriſto reciperent.

§. 7. Nec igitur Sacramentum hoc Confirmationis (nomine, ut diximus, latè accepto) à "quovis con-"temni debere, ſed in infantiâ Baptizatos liberos (ſive à Paſtoribus, ſive à Parentibus) ad Epiſco-"pum adducendos, & offerendos eſſe, ut manus ejus impoſitione, hoc Confirmationis Sacramentum "reciperent. Nec tamen eam de neceſſitate Infantes Confirmandi opinionem ita fovendam eſſe, "quaſi Baptizati, & in infantiâ, & innocentiâ, ante acceptam Confirmationem denati, aut à ſalutis, "aut vitæ Æternæ per receptum Baptiſmum, certitudine exciderent.

§. 8. Hæc certe ſic à majoribus noſtris accepta, & ab Henrico VIII. adverſus Lutherum defenſa, & vindicata, Reformatio noſtra (ſolâ Sacramenti voce omiſsâ, quam nos ſtrictiori acceptione, ad ea ſola quæ à Chriſto, ut omnibus neceſſaria inſtituta ſunt, accommodandam cenſuimus; & Chriſmatis Uſu, inter Cæremonias liberè inductas, liberè itidem omittendas, habito) integra, & nullâ ex parte mutilata, ad nos deduxit; nec quicquam aut de Origine, aut fundamento, illâ Eccleſiaſticâ, hoc Apoſtolico, nedum de uſu, & beneficiis hujus Ritus immutandum exiſtimavimus.

§. 9. Secundò & illud præmonendum eſt, nexum inter Chriſmationem, & Confirmationem (fuerit licet inter eas alicubi nonnullus) non ita tamen perpetuum, & indiſſolubilem fuiſſe, ut rectè aut Confirmari dicendi ſint, quicunque liniuntur; aut liniri, quicunque Confirmantur. Fuit certe ſuus in Baptiſmo (ut & in aliis nonnullis Eccleſiæ ritibus) Unguenti, & Chriſmatis Uſus, fuit & ſine Chriſmate Confirmatio, ſolâ manus impoſitione peracta.

§. 10. De

§. 10. De Priori loquatur, inter Græcos, præcipuè Eccleſiaſticæ Hierarchiæ Author, Κεφ. Β. ἐπὶ πλείους ἀπαμφισβήτητον αὐτὴν τῆς λειτουργίας, κομίζουσι μὲν οἱ ἱερεῖς τὸ τῆς χείσεως ἅγιον ἔλαιον, ὁδὲ τῆς χείσεως διὰ τῆς σφραγίσεως εἰς ἀπαξάπασι, τὸ λοιπὸν τοῖς ἱερεῦσι τὸν ἀνδρα χείσει παντοίως ἁγιάζειν, &c. Poſt trinam Catechumeni Profeſſionem fidei factam, antequam ad aquam ducatur, veſtibus, inquit, eum ſpoliant miniſtri, Sacerdotes dein Unctionis oleum Sanctum afferunt, Epiſcopus verò, aut Hierarcha, cui Baptizandi officium incumbit, incipit eum inungere, ter eum ſignans ſigno crucis & tunc eum Sacerdotibus toto corpore inungendum tradit. Poſtea ad μητέρα υἱοθεσίας, matrem adoptionis, i. e. fontem pergunt. Sic & [a] Damaſcenus, ἔλαιον ἐν τῷ βαπτίσματι ἀγιάζεται, Unguentum in Baptiſmate accipitur; ut & [b] Oecumenius, ἁλίζεται διὰ τῆς βαπτίσματος τὸ χρίσμα τὸ ἱερὸν, Sacrum Chriſma per Baptiſmum accepiſtis. Et Simeon Theſſalonicenſis inter recentiores, ὀφείλουσι χρίεσθαι τῷ μύρῳ ἐν τῷ βαπτίσματι, Unguento liniri debent in Baptiſmo; ſed nemo clarius, inquit, [c] Dallæus, quàm Harmenopulus, apud quem legitur de Chriſmate, εἰ καὶ τοῦτο μέρος δοκῇ τῆς περὶ βαπτίσματος, quamvis Baptiſmi pars eſſe videatur. Nec recuſarim certè [d] Baſilii locum, licet minus dilucidum, huc trahi poſſe, cùm inter ἀγράφους διδασκαλίας, & traditiones, ſimul enumeret benedictionem aquæ Baptiſmatis, & τὸ ἐλαίου χρίσεως olei Unctionis, & etiam ipſius Baptizati, ut & (ſtatim) αὐτῷ τῷ ἐλαίου χρίσει, ipſam olei Unctionem, trinam immerſionem, ἄλλα ὅσα ἐπὶ τῷ βαπτίσματι, & reliqua quæ fiunt in Baptiſmo. Quibus equidem ſatis probabile fit, Unctionem, de quâ ille eo loco agit, eam eſſe quæ in Baptiſmate adhibetur.

[a] Περὶ πίσ. ὀρθοδοξ. p. 107.

[b] To 11. p. 374.

[c] Pag. 213.

[d] De ſpir. S. C. 27. to 1. P. 211. A.

§. 11. Apud Latinos audiatur, (nec enim recuſamus) ſæculi iſtius teſtis, Hieronymus in [e] Dialogo inter Orthodoxum & Luciferianum, Cap. 4. Inde, (inquit) venit, ut ſine Chriſmate & Epiſcopi juſſione nec Presbyter, nec Diaconus jus habeant Baptizandi.] Ad hæc verba [f] Marianus Victorius ſine morâ pronuntiat, Vetuſtiſſimam eſſe conſuetudinem, ut in Baptiſmo Chriſma etiam addatur: Idem confirmante Dallæo ex alio ejuſdem Patris genuino opere, Cap. 3. in Habakuk, ubi Baptiſmi Chriſma diſerte legitur. Sed & huc referendum judico, quod in [g] Dialogo prædicto, Baptiſma ſacerdotium Laici nuncupari videmus, Scriptum eſt (inquit) Regas quippe vos & Sacerdotes, &c. Sacerdotes nempe & Reges oleo ſolenniter inungi, Moſaici moris erat; nec mirum igitur, ſi qui à Chriſto Rege & Pontifice noſtro per Baptiſmum in ſplendidiſſimæ ſortis hæreditatem aſſumi dicuntur (fecit, inquit, nos Reges & Sacerdotes Deo, &c.) hâc Unctionis Cæremoniâ inaugurandi cenſerentur. Sic & [h] Gregorius: Presbyteri, inquit, Baptizatos ungant in pectore, ut Epiſcopi poſtmodùm ungere debeant in fronte. Binæ (palam eſt,) Unctiones, prior Presbyterorum in Baptiſmo, ut & poſterior Epiſcoporum in Confirmatione.

[e] To. 2. p. 166. G.

[f] Schol. in Dial. contra Lucif. 20. p. 44.

[g] Orthod. & Lucif. cap. 2. p. 166.

[h] Ep. ex Regis, L. 3. Ep. 9.

§. 12. Imò ſub Tertulliani ævo idem ſuadent, quæ lib. de Baptiſmo, Cap. 7. legimus, ubi benedicta Unctionis, quâ Egreſſi de lavacro perunguntur, mentio eſt. Ut & l. de reſurr. Car. Cap. 8. Ubi ut in Baptiſmo ablui Caro, ita & ungi & ſignari dicitur. Certè ſi [i] Honorio Auguſtodunenſi credamus, Apoſtolis ipſis imputandus eſt hic ritus. Sciendum, inquit, eſt, quod Apoſtoli & eorum Diſcipuli in fluviis vel in ſtagnis, vel in fontibus Baptizabant. Sed Clemens, docente Petro, Chriſma vel oleum addebat. At quo minus ei credamus, aut ab Apoſtolis morem hunc, ſeu ſcripto, ſeu ſine ſcripto traditum fuiſſe putemus, ſicut quam multa alia intercedunt, ita ejuſdem potiſſimum Tertulliani locus obſtare videtur, de Coron. Mil. Cap. 3. Ubi de Traditionibus loquens, iis præſertim quæ Baptiſmum diſertè attingebant, & abrenuntiationem trinam, mergitationem, lactis & mellis præguſtationem, à lavacro quotidiano per totam inſequentem hebdomadam abſtinentiam, inter Traditiones ἀγράφους recenſens, de Unctione aut Chriſmatione profundum ſilet. Verùm illud pronum & præceps in Eccleſiâ ſemper fuit, Cæremoniarum Numerum, pro locorum & temporum ratione mutabilem, & inconſtantem, nunc augeri magnificentiùs, nunc prudentiùs minui, nec igitur quicquam prohibere, quo minus Apoſtolorum ævo incognitum Baptiſmi Chriſma, ſub Tertulliani & Hieronymi ſæculo, in quibuſdam Eccleſiis obtinuerit, in aliis itidem, aut neutiquam invaleſcente more, aut in deſuetudinem paulatim abeunde.

[i] Gemma animæ, L. 3. cap. 106.

§. 13. Nec igitur in hoc fortunæ Anglorum, aut quæſtionis Noſtræ fundus poſitus eſt, ſitile idem Alipta qui Baptiſta; nec unquam ad Lavacrum ſine myrothecio deſcendendum ſit, necne; Baptiſmum Aquæ Legiſlatori noſtro acceptum ferimus, ideoque infantes ſingulos ſolenniter inundamus, tingentes ſaltem quos non judicamus mergitandos; de Oleo quidem aut unguento parum ſolliciti, nec enim minus perfectè Baptizatos cenſemus, qui Lavacro Chriſma non adjecerint, nec Superſtitionis aut piacularis φιλοσοφουμένης θρησκείας veneni, aut noxæ incuſamus, qui quos lavant, ſimul etiam liniunt. Hos & alios innumeros ritus inter adiaphora numeramus, quæ ut laudabiliter adhiberi, ita & liberè omitti poſſe nulli dubitamus.

§. 14. Illud interim Clariſſimum eſt, ab hoc Chriſmatis in Baptiſmate uſu nullam Argumenti ſpeciem trahi poſſe, quo aut Confirmationi Chriſma abjudicetur, aut inter Cæremonias Baptiſmatis Confirmatorium Chriſma reponendum credatur; Quid vetat eodem olei aut Unguenti Symbolo plures Eccleſiaſticos ritus celebrari? Id certè nobis ſatis liberè largitur Spalatenſis, Dallejanæ ſententiæ anteſignanus; Chriſmate, [k] inquit, Baptizamus, Chriſmate Confirmamus, imo Chriſmate Presbyterum, Chriſmate Epiſcopum ordinamus. Quod & de ſigno Crucis obſervavit Ibid. vir doctiſſimus, plura quidem eo conſecrari, Eccleſias, Altaria, Calices, æquè ac homines. Quod & de impoſitione Manus manifeſtum eſt.

[k] De Rep. Eccleſ. l. 5. c. 3. n. 28.

§. 15. Certè ex Leonis Epiſtolâ 88. Ubi de Chorepiſcopis ſermo eſt, diſerte diſtingui videas impoſitionem manuum, quâ fidelibus Baptizatis, vel converſis hæreticis, Paracletus Spiritus Sanctus traditur, (quam ad Confirmationem pertinere nullus dubitabit) & Chriſma, quo Baptizatorum frontes ſignantur; vel ſi, ut Blondellus & Dallæus ſtatuunt, ea Leonis non ſit Epiſtola, idem planè [l] Araſicanus Canon, Leoni genuino σύγχρονος, Confirmabit, qui de eo qui in Baptiſmate Chriſmatis non fuerit, Sacerdotem in Confirmatione commoneri jubet, ut mox fuſius declarabimus.

[l] Can. 7.

§. 16. De priori parte hactenùs. Ad poſteriorem jam progrediatur Oratio, Nullum ſcilicet dubitandi locum eſſe, quin nuda & ſolitaria χειροθεσία ad Confirmationis ritum peragendum abunde ſufficiat, illud quippe ab Apoſtolorum praxi (ea præcipuè quæ Act. 8. traditur) originem ſuam traxiſſe, adeoque impoſitione manus Apoſtolicæ (aut quod in idem recidit, Epiſcopalis) cujus v. 17. exerta mentio occurrit, Univerſum compleri; & unguento aut Chriſmate, cujus nulla ibi aut alibi in ſacro codice, aut vola aut veſtigium extat, neutiquam indigere.

§. 17. Nec tamen quod neceſſarium non eſt, ſtatim inter Sacrilegia numeramus, nec ab omnis ſupervacaneæ Cæremoniæ ſarcina ſic horremus, ut aut in fronte, aut in vertice inungi contumeliæ loco ducamus; Conſignent liberè, per nos licet, Latini Græcique, inungant liniantque, quibus id moris eſt, nihil nihil certè culpamus, qui interim antiquæ ſimplicitati, & ſalubrium Cæremoniarum paucitati inhærentes, ſolâ manus Epiſcopalis impoſitione, & benedictione Neophytos noſtros ſtabilimus. Nobis ad graviora Certamina ab Agonotheta, & brabeutâ noſtro vocatis, non vacat, non licet, aut de umbra, aut de Cortice, de Cæremonia, vel de vocula, cuivis Mortâlium, nedum Chriſtianorum cætui litem intendere; ad pacem ſuaviter, & efficaciter, amiciſſimè, & fortiſſimè compellante nos Deo, ſolamque τῦ ἡσυχάζειν φιλοτιμίαν ingenerante: dum clientes ſuos Princeps hujus ſæculi ad æterna diſſidia, truceſque & nunquam finiendas Tragædias, tanquam ad Metalla damnandos curaverit.

SECT. III.

Confectio chriſmatis, Conſecratio, ſed quæ ad perſonas non pertineat, & Epiſcopo peculiaris ſic confecti uſus & Presbyteris competebat; Arauſicanus Canon primus. Quinque concluſiones ex eo. Innocentii Decretalis. Ex eâ, & Epaunenſi Canone, & Beda, argumentatio Blondelli examinatur. Epiſcoporum Primitiva poteſtas. Multa Presbyteris ab Epiſcopo liberè communicata, Reſervata quædam, inter ea Confirmatio: Bedæ verba de Arrogantiâ non Epiſcopali ſed Presbyterali intelligenda ſunt.

§. 1. TErtiò, ut à theſi ad hypotheſim tandem deſcendamus, ſimulque litem omnem, ſeu de Chriſmate, ſeu de Chriſmatis Miniſtro, Dallæo præripiamus, diſtinguenda ſunt in Chriſmate Confectio, & Confecti uſus, illa χείσμα & μύρον, hic χρίσις dicatur; Prior quidem, (quemadmodum Sardo placet,) Conſecratio ἀρρήτου μύρου nuncupari poteſt, ſed quæ ad res tantum, neutiquam (quod Dallæo viſum eſt) ad perſonas pertingat. Nec enim perſonas conſecrat, qui unguento, quo perſonæ demum imbuendæ ſunt, ſolenniter & pro officio benedicit, ut nec qui pani εὐλογεῖ populum conſecrare dicendus eſt. Alia quippe eſt benedictio, & Conſecratio ſeu Confectio Elementorum, quâ ad ſacros uſus invocato ſpiritu ſancto, deſtinantur; alia eſt Confectorum diſtributio; prior inter ſacerdotalia opera & peculia ſemper numerata, poſterior Diaconis cum ſacerdote communis habita eſt; Nec mirum igitur, ſi Confectione Chriſmatis inter μεγαλείας μεγάλια Epiſcopis reſervata, Confecti uſus aut miniſtratio, ubi Epiſcopus preſertim non fuerit, ſacerdoti, aut etiam Diacono indultus aliquando fuerit.

§. 2. Ad Chriſma quod attinet nihil certè nobis officiet, ſi hac in re omnia planè ita, ut contendit Dallæus, factitata credantur. Neque enim hypotheſi noſtræ quicquam decedet, ſi quod de Ægypto edixiſſe Hilarius putatur, etiam de totâ Græciâ, & univerſo demum Oriente pronunciatum agnoſcatur, ad Presbyteros ſcil. pertinuiſſe & χρίσαι, & σφραγίσαι (ungere & ſignare) Et ita demum (ſi aut Sardo, aut Dallæo placeat) cum preſens non fuerit Epiſcopus, conſignare.

§. 3. Imò ne nimis parcus videar, qui Orientem dixi, de Occidente itidem, ejus ſaltem particulis, nec paucis, nec contemnendis, eadem dici non gravabor; Interim quid antiqui canones hâc in re teſtentur, operæ precium ſit vidiſſe; Et primò quia Dallæo volupe eſt, Concilii Arauſicani Canon Primus (ſub Leone, non multò poſt Damaſum, Sardo ὁμιλήσας, conſtitutus) de Galliâ loquens liberè audiatur: Nullus, inquit, miniſtrorum qui baptizandi recepit officium, ſine Chriſmate unquam debet progredi, quia inter nos placuit ſemel (Sirmondino Codici addit Binianus, in baptiſmate) chriſmari. De eo autem qui in baptiſmate quacunq; neceſſitate faciente, non chriſmatus fuerit, in confirmatione ſacerdos commonebitur.] Iſtis quidem finiri canonem, eaque quæ ſequuntur, (& Sirmondum, Aureliumque inter, tam prolixum contentionis funem nectunt) recentioris manus aſſumenta eſſe, & mera utique ludibria Dallæo libenter concedimus; Et ex iis quæ nulli ſuſpicioni obnoxia ſunt, palam concluſum putamus, 1. (quod ex Tertulliano, Hieronymo, & aliis ſupra attulimus) Chriſmate Gallos, quos baptizabant, eoſdemque & baptiſmatis & Chriſmatis Miniſtros fuiſſe, quicunque demum illi fuerant, qui ab Epiſcopo Confectum Chriſma, cum baptizandi officio receperant. 2. Conficiendi Chriſmatis ut dignitatem, ſic Curam ad Epiſcopos peculiariter pertinuiſſe, ejuſque confecti copiam Baptiſtis ſingulis (ſeu ſint illi Presbyteri, ſeu Diaconi) ab Epiſcopis ſolenniter ſuppeditatam fuiſſe ut ad baptiſmales ſemper uſus ad Manum & præſto eſſet; cui cum ſatis proviſum ſit, nullam dein 3. Neceſſitatem eſſe, ut qui in baptiſmate ſemel unctus fuerit, in confirmatione rechriſmetur, ſatis enim eſſe, ſi quilibet ſemel inungatur, in baptiſmo, ſi fieri commodè poſſet; ſin minus, in confirmatione. Nec enim 4. (quod itidem prius diximus) ſic confirmationi neceſſariò adjectam Chriſmationem, ut qui in baptiſmo ſemel unctus ſit, in confirmatione denuo inungendus eſſet, tunc enim ſola benedictione, & Epiſcopalis manus impoſitione, auctiorem ſpiritus ſancti irrigationem in Confirmatione obtinuiſſe, qui loti ſimul ac Chriſmati fuerant. Quibus utrobique libenter conceſſis, id demum 5. ex vi Canonis hujus, & Arauſicanorum Patrum celeberrimo ſuffragio fixum ratumque ſupereſt, à baptiſmate confirmationem procul disjungi: illud à miniſtro ſeu forte Diacono, qui baptizandi recepit officium; hanc ab Epiſcopo, qui Sacerdos frequenter dicitur, celebratam; quæque in baptiſmate, faciente quacunque neceſſitate, omiſſa ſunt, ea in Confirmatione ſupplenda & reparanda eſſe.

§. 4. Hæc omnia, celeberrima Innocentii Decretalis (à Dallæo non ſemel laudata, triginta circiter annis Arauſicano Canone antiquior,) extra dubium poſuit; ſic enim ille Decentio, de nonnullis Eccleſiaſticis ritibus conſulenti reſpondit: * De conſignandis infantibus manifeſtum eſt, non ab alio, quam ab Epiſcopo fieri licere. Nam Presbyteri licet ſint ſacerdotes, Pontificatus tamen apicem non habent: Hæc autem Pontificibus ſolis deberi ut vel conſignent, vel Paracletum ſpiritum tradant non ſolum Conſuetudo Eccleſiaſtica demonſtrat, verum & illa Lectio Actuum Apoſtolorum, quæ aſſerit Petrum & Johannem eſſe directos, qui jam baptizatis traderent Spiritum ſanctum; Nam Presbyteris, ſeu extra Epiſcopum, ſeu præſente Epiſcopo baptizant, Chriſmate baptizatos ungere licet; ſed quod ab Epiſcopo fuerit Conſecratum, non tamen frontem ex eodem oleo ſignare, quod ſolis debetur Epiſcopis cum tradunt Spiritum Paracletum.] Ecce Conſignationem, qua Spiritus Paracletus traditur, à baptiſmo procul disjunctam, illam, quâ frontes oleo Conſecrato fecrato inunctæ signantur, hunc, quo ex lavacro Crismantur, illam ex vi Consuetudinis Ecclesiasticæ, & Lectionis Apostolicæ, nec Sacerdotum cuivis gregario, sed Pontifici reservatam, hanc quidem, quatenus eâ Baptizatorum Unctio intelligitur, Presbyteris liberè permissam; Confectionem verò, seu Consecrationem Chrismatis soli Episcopo peculiarem: Clarissima omnia, nec de sæculi hujus sententiâ dubitandi ansa supereſt, Innocentio Arausicanis Patribus facem adeo lucidam præferente, illis Innocentio lampadem vicissim referentibus.

* Epiſt. 1. c. 3. concil. to 1. pag. 751.

§. 5. Verùm si hæc ita sint, planè de Hierarchicis actum esse acclamat * Blondellus, quis enim adeo Supinos Patres nostros (Gallos Arausicanos) fuisse credat, ut quod Spiritui sancto, summo Divini Juris conditori, à Presbyteris fieri non placuit, ab iisdem exerceri placere sibi decernerent, quodque Episcoporum singulare πρωτόμιον fuisse putatur, ab Episcopis collate cælitus ἐξουσίας prodigis, subditis tantæ Gratiæ imparibus ullo casu communicandum videretur? Hæc & alia ex hoc primo Arausicano Canone, contra Hierarchicorum jactantiam & factum, Non minori aut jactantia aut supercilio effudit vir magnus, cum ex hoc de Confirmatione per manus impositionem fonte argumentum pro sententiâ suâ Hieronymianâ procuderet. * Apol. pro Hier. sent. p. 148.

§. 6. Nec isthoc Contentus, dogma illud ex * Epaunensis Synodi A. D. 517. Canone, desperatis & decumbentibus hæreticis (si conversionem subitam petant) Presbyteris subvenire chrismate permittente, firmius stabilivit, tandemque universam Præjaticorum Machinam, uno venerabilis Bedæ, sed eo truci, flatu concussit, & solo æquavit: Ne-quis, inquit, ulteriùs scrupulus hæreat, reclamante hactenus nullo, aperto ore, post An. 700. profitetur * Beda, unctionem illam quæ per manuum impositionem ab Episcopis quasi aliis à duabus prædictis, & vulgo confirmatio dicitur, eandem cum secunda esse, (Chrismate scil. post Baptismum) propter arrogantiam tamen non concessam esse singulis Sacerdotibus, sicut & multa alia. * Cap. 16. * In Psal. 26.

§. 7. Hæc certè Bedæ (exceptis quæ parenthesi inclusit) & his tanquam totius Latii spoliis, & exuviis, supra modum locupletatus Blondellus, gratulari Hieronymo suo permittendus est, qui tam irrefragabilis Doctoris clypeo armatus supra omnem Hierarchici Livoris ictum securus triumphaverit: si enim, inquit eadem revera est cum Presbyterali Episcopalis Consignatio, si tantundem Neophytis Presbyter Ungens, ac Episcopus manus imponens præstat, si par in se utriusque potestas, in speciem tantùm dispar, propter arrogantiam effecta est; si arrogantiam Divino Juri, charitatisque nunquam tumentis, sua nunquam quærentis, sed ubique ac semper beneficæ legibus inimicam nemo nesciat, tunc certè desperata, & Conclamata & in omne ævum triumphata Episcoporum causâ vacuâ lusurus in Aulâ est Presbyter, nec est quod quisquam ogganniat, & obmurmuret.

§. 8. At quid si ad calculos tandem nostros (licet ὀψὲ παίζω) hoc totum viri magni ratiocinium revocetur? Certè eâdem operâ Dallæo, qui iisdem fulcris utitur, & præ aliis potissimum confidit, simul ac Blondello, vicem rependemus. Nec multis indigebimus, statim experturi, quam nihil planè sit, quòd in hac universa fabricâ (ipsis ex animo succedente, & ad votum ferruminata) Presbyteranæ ὁσπιλαι advocati lucraturi sunt.

§. 9. Et primò, quid si liberè concedamus, Episcopos Apostolorum successores, potestatisque omnis ordinariæ quam ipsi à Christo, Christus à Patre, acceperant, ex asse hæredes factos, hanc aliis sicut ipsis visum fuit vel in integrum, vel ex parte communicasse, adeoque augescente, & in infinitum fere crescente fidelium numero, multa tandem Presbyteris secundariis aut partiariis ab Episcopo ubique concredita esse, ad quæ ipsi in personis suis non sufficerant, paucis tantum sibi ipsis ἰδίως reservatis, quibus originalis ἀρχιερωσύνης dignitas, & exortis potestatis Apex incolumis, & integer conservaretur?

§. 10. Sic certè rem verè, & non per somnum gestam, esse, βαθυπλουτοι ἰσχυλαι nos certos faciunt omnem quippe sub νεκρύγματος, fideique in Cunis vagientis infantia, & baptizandi, & conficiendi cœnam, & sponsalia celebrandi, & Eleemosynas recipiendi, dispensandique, & quidlibet demum Ecclesiasticum procurandi potestatem penes Episcopos fuisse affirmant, quæ postmodum suis modulis finibusque Presbyteris, imò Diaconis & Subdiaconis concredita sunt; nec enim unquam à spiritu sancto, Summo Divini juris Conditore, hujuscemodi latam legem, aut tale quicquam Hierarchicis nostris per somnia visum fuisse, quâ Presbyteris ex sententia Episcopi ea facere non liceret, quæ consultò decreverant Episcopi Presbyteris committenda esse.

§. 11. Multa certè sunt, quæ Episcopi communi per totum orbem consensu Presbyteris relinquenda, paucula quæ sibi reservanda decreverant. Fruantur igitur liberè istis quæ concessa sunt, modo quæ non concessa non attingant Presbyteri; Chrisment in baptismo, imminente præsertim mortis periculo, quandoquidem Chrismate ab Episcopo confecto ad baptismales usus instructis ex eorundem Episcoporum sententiâ hoc jus Presbyteris permissum est. A Confirmatione verò, manus impositioni, & benedictioni Episcopali, ex consensu Universæ Ecclesiæ, reservatâ, prudenter sibi abstinendum censeant, nec assumant sacrilegè, quod ipsis nullatenus indultum est.

§. 12. Nec quicquam igitur supereſt, quod in Arausicanis aut Epaunensibus, Blondelli, aut Dallæi Patribus, aut proavis, culpari posse somniemus Hierarchici, Omnia rite, & ordinatè, & ex mente Spiritus decreta agnoscentes; nihil quod divino, aut Ecclesiastico Juri quovis modo deroget, si Presbyteri desperatis & decumbentibus, hoc Confecti ab Episcopis chrismatis subsidio, idque ex Episcoporum, ipsiusque concilii sententiâ, subveniant.

§. 13. Ad Bedam quod attinet, quamvis verè φιλέγγλους crudum, & singulare recentis Doctoris, aliud planè agentis, ex octavo sæculo petitum Testimonium, nihil grande, aut præter Nominis ὁμωνυμίαν venerabile sonet, aut quod universæ puriorum sæculorum Ecclesiæ legem figat, aut de nativis Episcoporum πρωτοτόκοις pronunciet; Nulla tamen aut Novitatis aut prodigii species huic ejus qualicunque effato ineſt, à quâ adeo horreamus Prælatici.

§. 14. Esto, eadem sit Unctio ea quæ sit per manuum impositionem ab Episcopis, & Confirmatio dicitur cum secundâ unctione Chrismatis dicta in qua, ut ibidem ait Beda, magis firmamur, quia & nomen Christi in eâ profitemur, & ab eo nomen accipimus, scilicet ut Christiani dicamur, Quid ex hinc contra Hierarchicorum placita concludere potuit? Quibus demum malleis extundere Chrismationem, aut Confirmationem (quam Blondellus ipse post Baptismum fuisse asserit) Baptismi ex sententia Bedæ, partem esse? Quibus denique fidicinis extorquere, sacrum Chrisma à Presbyteris administratum, aut (quod adhuc majus) confectum esse? Nunc (inquit Beda) in Sacramento olei & Chrismatis unginur, per quod sacramentum quiddam mirum & ineffabile, quod in fine futuri sumus, significatur.] An de mero baptismo hæc Bedæ philosophatus est, & cum Beda eadem pronutiaturus erat Blondellus?

§. 15. Audiatur,

§. 15. Audiatur, si placet idem Beda, lib. 6. in Lucam, nec minus uti spero, venerabilis, cum in Evangelium quam cum in Psalmos commentarios scriberet. In montem, inquit, Olivarum discipulos educit, ut omnes in morte sua baptizatos altissimo sancti spiritus Chrismate Confirmandos esse designet, Baptismus (videtis) in morte Christi, Chrisma ad impetrandum spiritum S. Præcedit Baptismus, chrisma sequitur, qui jam jam baptizati sunt, dein Chrismate altissimo donandi, & sic demum confirmandi. Alius itaque à baptismo confirmatorii chrismatis Ritus. C. 22. 39.

§. 16. Verùm & si illud omittatur, nihil tamen adhuc pronuntiavit Beda de Chrismate à Presbytero adhibito, nedum confectio. Relegat Dallæus integrum Bedæ Commentarium in Psalmi Epigraphen, & verba ea [ante quam liniretur] ut & in illa [Dominus illuminatio mea] nihil inveniet, quod Chrismationem Presbyteris adjudicet. Hoc tantum dixit, unctionem illam, quæ per manuum impositionem ab Episcopis facta vulgò confirmatio dicitur, eandem esse cum Unctione chrismatis in qua magis firmamur &c. (nec quisquam certè negaverit) dein eam singulis sacerdotibus concessam non esse. Quod verò exertè additur, propter arrogantiam esse, quod singulis sacerdotibus concessa non sit, Id planè contra Bedæ sensum, ad suum detorsit Blondellus; nec enim Episcopali arrogantiæ fœtum hunc adjudicavit Beda, sed adversus arrogantiæ Presbyteralis periculum, ex paritate, & ἰσοτιμία, nisi quædam Episcopis σεμνότιμία nisi singularis aliqua & exors dignitas reservaretur, oriturum, hoc prudenter paratum antidotum pronunciavit, (videatur Toletanæ Synodi Canon 20. mox producendus.) Nec hoc tantum, sed & multa alia Ariana æqualitati consultissimè oppositi Ecclesia, quæ si quis Prælatorum fastui imputanda suggesserit, næ ille in venena Panaceam, & in morbos remedia transmutaturus est, & ex ferro, galeæ aut loricæ (salutaribus istis armis) destinato, infensissima tela contra Politiam Ecclesiasticam fabricaturus. Quod an inter perspicacitatis nimiæ indicia reponendum sit, penes Lectorem arbitrium esto.

§. 17. Valeant tandem, & per me licet, placidè recumbant Blondelli manes, ad tales congressus non temerè dehinc, nisi Dallæus evocaverit, sollicitandi.

SECT. IV.

Arausicanus Canon Secundus de hæreticis à Presbyteris in mortis periculo consignandis. Canon Silvestri in Pontificali. Toletanus Canon. Photii Testimonium. Confectio ad solum Episcopum pertinebat. De eo Canon Silvestri. Quid ex eo concludi cupiat Dallæus. Canones Africani. Toletanus. Quid ex eo Dallæus: Author Hierarchiæ Ecclesiasticæ. Paraphrastes ejus Pachymeres.

§. 1. SEd & * alius ejudem Arausicani Concilii Canon hic apponendus est, Hæreticos, inquiunt, in mortis discrimine positos, si Catholici esse desiderent, si desit Episcopus, a Presbyt. cum Chrismate & benedictione consignari placet.] Hic certè Canon, post alia nonnulla, mihi omnino persuasit, prædictum Sardi, locum (si tandem detur mendâ vacare) planè de Chrismate intelligi debere, Et ita nobis non abnuentibus imò (ut ex prædictis patet) suffragantibus liberè concludatur, Chrismatis, cujus conficiendi jus soli Episcopo, ex Sacerdotalis Apicis prærogativa, competit, Confecti usum, & potestatem penes Presbyteros fuisse, ubi Episcopus deesset, præsertim si illud ambientibus, periculum Mortis immineret. * Can. 2.

§. 2. Et quod de Galliâ Patres hi, idem etiam de Româ testetur (me neutiquam renitente) quod ex * Pontificali adduxit † Dallæus (licet ex concilio sub Silvestro, aut Epilogo, cujus verba ille ut gemina * adjecit, nihil tale adstrui aut stabiliri possit) Hic (de Silvestro refert Pontificale) & hoc constituit, ut liniat Presbyter Chrismate levatum de Aquâ propter occasionem transitus mortis.] 1. Esto, Unusquisque fidelis, in Christi familiam, aut Cognationem admissus, Materiali Chrismate ad Spiritualem uncti Domini συμμόρφωσιν, solenniter instauretur, idque vel in Baptismo, vel in Confirmatione, si periculum maturari jubeat, si occasio transitus mortis postulet, providè & paternè Silvester monet, ut è Lavacro Levatus sine morâ ungatur, Presbyteris ad id Chrismatis ab Episcopo confecti copia, simul ac inungendi Baptizatos potestate instructis: Si verò nulla necessitas festinandum suadeat, ad Confirmationem opportunius differatur, & à Præsule ipso; in Sacerdotii apice locato, cum solenni manus impositione, & benedictione, visibile Chrisma Invisibilis Gratiæ Symbolum adhibeatur, & sic demum in Athletam ungatur, & ad ἕξιν perfectè Christiani (i. e. Spiritu Christi inuncti) firmam, & planè pancraticam instituatur. Quid clarius? à Lavacro exertè distinguitur Confirmatio, Ungit in lavacro Presbyter, sed ex sententia Episcopi, & Chrismate ad id ab Episcopo confecto, seu consecrato, idque non alias, quam propter occasionem transitus mortis, quo periculo non suadente, ad Episcopum solum in Confirmatione Universa Chrismatis Cæremonia reservatur. * In Silvest. † P. 239. * Ibid.

§. 3. His concinunt Toletani Patres, An. Dom. 400. Statutum est, inquiunt, Diaconum non Chrismare, sed Presbyterum, absente Episcopo; præsente verò, si ab ipso fuerit præceptum.] In eundem planè sensum, nobis non renitentibus, ut scil. Presbyteris, non Diaconis, cum Baptismi potestate, Chrismandi etiam jus competat, quotiescunque Sacramentum urgente ex causa accelerandum sit, nec Chrismatio ad Confirmationem differenda.

§. 4. Ad Græcos quod attinet, illud ante omnia, Epistola * Photii, apud nos nuper edita, & à Doctissimo Dalleo ad partes ipsius vocata, extra dubium posuit; æquè enim Presbyterum (ἱερέα Sacerdotem dictum) μύρῳ σφραγίζειν, ἀλείφειν, χεῖρα τὴν τελοῦσαν, καθάπερ δοῦναι τῷ βαπτιζομένῳ τελεσιουργοῦν, Unguento signare, sanctificare, ungere consummatos, expiatorium donum Baptizato Consummare, (quæ omnia ad Chrismationem pertinent) ac βαπτίζειν ὅλως ἢ ἱερᾶσθαι, Baptizare omnino aut sacrificare. Illud igitur Dalleo lubenter concedimus, (nec litem quovis modo intentamus) non solum Baptizasse Presbyterum, sed & hoc sensu Chrismasse, & consignasse. * P. 50. 51.

§. 5. Hoc

§. 5. Hoc interim inter antiquos, saltem inter Damasi συγχρόνους, non ignotum est, Consecrandi Chrismatis facultatem Episcopo propriam fuisse; etiam iis temporibus cùm administrandi, post consecrationem, potestas Presbyteris commissa fuit; Id de Sylvestro Romæ sedente An. Ch. 314. Et in Concilio decernente, An. 325. Fatetur [a] Dallæus, adductis & ex [b] Pontificali, & ex [c] Epilogo Concilii verbis, Constituit, inquit, & Chrisma ab Episcopo confici, & Constituit etiam voce clara Sylvester Episcopus Urbis Romæ, ut nemo Presbyter Chrisma conficeret. Decreta autem hæc, si reverâ sic se habuerint, (ea autem sic se habuisse Dallæus contendit) 62. annis ante Damasi Papatum, 30. ad minimum ante Sardi Commentarios facta sunt.

a P. 239.
b In Sylvester.
c Concil. t. 1. p. 314.

§. 6. Quod verò concludi exinde vult [d] Dallæus, hanc Conficiendi Chrismatis potestatem, peculiariter hic ad Episcopos restrictam, Presbyteris quoque cum iisdem hactenus fuisse Communem, id nemini persuasurus est, cum (ut alia omittam) ipso [e] fatente, æquè concludi possit ipsius Chrismatis Usum in Ecclesiâ Romanâ antea incognitum, in hoc Sylvestri Concilio primò institutum fuisse, & quidem ita ut ejus Conficiendi penes Episcopum jus futurum esset. Quod si in Gratiam Doctissimi Disputatoris concedatur, videat necesse est, quam sit prorsus impossibile, ut quod Romæ nondum cæptum supponebatur, id hactenus Presbyteris pariter ac Episcopis commune statuatur.

d P. 240.
e Ibid.

§. 7. At omisso Sylvestro (nec enim aut Pontificali aut Epilogo multum confidimus) Consulatur præ cæteris Africani Codicis Canon Sextus, cujus titulus est, Ὅτι χρίσμα ἀπὸ πρεσβυτέρων μὴ γίνεσθαι, Chrisma à Presbyteris ne conficitor. Prodiit hic Canon, si Dallæo credimus, An. Ch. 390. Nec proinde aut Damaso, aut Sardo, aut Ambrosiastro nostro multo recentior. Verùm & eandem porro sententiam à prioribus Conciliis repetit: Conciliis dico, multitudinis numero, non enim à solo illo Carthaginense hoc proximè præcedenti (ut ex Latino Exemplari colligit Dallæus, minus quidem rectè, cum nulla ibi hujus rei extet mentio) Fortunatus (inquit) Episcopus dixit, ἐν τοῖς πρώλαβούσαις συνόδοις μεμνήμεθα ὁρισθέντα, ὥστε χρίσμα, &c. ἀπὸ πρεσβυτέρων μὴ γίνεσθαι. In præcedentibus Synodis definita meminimus, Chrisma à Presbyteris conficiendum non esse. Et sic ex omnium suffragio χρίσματος πίνοις— ἀπὸ πρεσβυτέρων μὴ γίνῃ)— Confectio Chrismatis à Presbyteris ne fiat, τοῦτο πᾶσιν ἀρέσκει, hoc omnibus placet—— videmus Chrismatis voce χείσμα]& ποίησιν, Confectionem Chrismatis, τὸ ἄλουμύρου πλάσιν, inquit Balsamon, Consecrationem sacri Unguenti notari, eamque Presbyteris, qui tamen confecto μύρῳ ungebant Baptizatos, abjudicatam, & æquè ac καταλλαγὴ μετανοούντων Pœnitentium reconciliationem, & κόρων παρθενίαν (scil. ὁμολογουσῶν) καθάρσιον, puellarum virginitatem profitentium, interdictam, ac proinde nec consecrationem Hilarianam, si ea consecrationi Chrismatis æqui polleat, Presbyteris competiisse.

§. 8. Sic & prædicta Toletana Synodus, [f] Quamvis pæne ubique custodiatur, ut absque Episcopo Chrisma nemo conficiat, tamen quia in aliquibus locis vel provinciis Presbyteri dicuntur Chrisma conficere, placuit ex hoc die nullum alium nisi Episcopum Chrisma facere——Et mox, Episcopo sanè certum est omni tempore licere Chrisma conficere, sine conscientiâ autem Episcopi nihil penitus, faciendum. Statutum verò est, Diaconum non Chrismare, sed Presbyterum absente Episcopo; præsente vero, si ab ipso fuerit præceptum.] Hic si absit Episcopus, permittitur quidem Presbyteris Chrismatis Usus, non autem ex qualibet demum ἀφθόνου ipsa Chrismatis confectio. Si præsens sit, hoc ab Episcopo ipsis præcipitur, non ipsi ex suo jure assùmunt; aut aliis præcipiunt. Altera potestas Presbyteris ab Episcopo conceditur, Diacono interim interdicta, altera Presbyteris interdicitur, Episcopo soli reservata.

f Can. 101.

§. 9. Quomodo autem ex hoc Canone Certissimum, ut statim pollicetur Dallæus, argumentum necti possit, quo probetur [g] Chrismatis etiam conficiendi jus Presbyteris ab antiquo fuisse, alii penitius perscrutentur, mihi certè caligant oculi, nec quicquam tale perspiciunt. Nec enim adeo certum apud omnes, & indubitatum est, ipsum Chrismatis Usum Hispanis ab antiquo cognitum fuisse, nec si fuerit, à Presbyteris illud ab antiquo confectum esse; Leges quippe & Canones haud rarò moribus novis & malis corrigendis, æquè ac immutandis antiquis & bonis fuisse comparatos nemo nescit.

g De Confirm. pag. 270.

§. 10. Nec certè contemnendus est Ecclesiasticæ Hierarchiæ Author, ex aliorum Doctorum sententiâ, (licet Dallæo ea non placeat) Damaso saltem suppar, qui Chrismatis Consecrationem adeo diligenter (dabit veniam, spero, Dallæus, si stylo usus sit plus æquo turgescente) soli Episcopo vindicandam curavit. Ἡ θεία (inquit) διαμορφώσα πάλιν ἡμῖν τὴν ἱεραρχικὴν τάξιν ἀγιασίαν, ἐν μὲν τῷ θείῳ μύρῳ τελείωσιν, ἐν δὲ τῷ συναγαγόντι τελεσιουργίαν τοῖς ἡμῖν ἐνδεῶν ἱεραρχῶν τελεσιουργικὴν δωρεὰν ἐναλοις ἀποπληρώσιν. Ecclesiastici (quos de more divinos appellat) Canones Hierarchicorum ordinum sanctificationem, & sacrum Altaris Consummationem in potestate Episcoporum peculiariter esse statuerunt. Ad quæ verba Paraphrastes Pachymeres ἐξαιρέτως τὴν ἱεραρχὴν φησὶν ἀνατρέχειν (ἐν ᾧ διὰ τῆς ἡμῶν ἐτέρων ἀναγκαίας) ἀποκλήρωσιν ὁ τοῦ μύρου ἁγιασμὸς, &c. Unguenti, &c. Consecratio peculiariter Episcopo tribuitur, ut ipsius manibus, non ex aliorum ministerio fuit. Et iterum, θεία Ἀρχιερέως εἰς τὸ χρίσαι τὸ μύρον τὸν βαπτισθέντα, ἀνατρέχειν ἂν ἐν δεχαλα συνήθεια· καλῶς ἄρα ἐλέγομεν, ὅτι τὰ θεῖα μυστήρια τελεσιουργικὰ δυνάμεις εἰσὶ, καὶ πῶς ἐναλοις τὴν Ἀρχιερεῖ ἀποκληροῦσιν, τοτέστι μονομερῶς καὶ ἀπεξαπλῶς, καὶ ὃ ἐστὶ τὸ καὶ μερικῶς. Episcopo opus est, ad baptizatum unguento liniendum, ea enim antiqua Consuetudo fuit; rectè igitur diximus, Mysteria hæc tria Consummativas potentias esse, & quodammodò peculiariter ad Episcopum pertinere, i. e. unicè & in universum, non secundum quid & partialiter.

§. 11. Quare ex his omnibus & singulis sive postulatis, sive concessis, nihil dum Dallæi causæ accessit roboris, frustra enim pertendit memoratam apud Sardum Chrismationem ad Presbyteros pertinuisse, nisi illam etiam probaverit Chrismatis Confectionem, quæ & sola est, & dici debet Consecratio, ex Coævorum Calculo, ad Presbyteros unà cum Episcopis pertinuisse.

CAP. V.

Baptismi perficiendi potestas Presbyteris communicata. Confirmatio à Baptismo semper distincta. Aliqua Presbyteralis benedictio ante baptismum. De eâ Canon Eliberitanus 39. Euchologium. Clemens Alex. Eusebius, Constitutionum Scriptor. Ecclesiasticæ Hierarchiæ author. Augustinus. Severus Alexandrinus, Simeon Thessalon. Cyprianus. Benedictio ad perficiendum Baptismum. De eo Canon Eliberitanus 77.

§. 1. Adultimum Dallæanæ Sententiæ articulum quod attinet, 1. Concedimus baptismum administrandi jus, eumque omnium rituum numero perficiendi, & absolvendi potestatem Presbyteris omni ævo, ex quo tales creati sunt, (non tamen ἀνὰ γνώμην Ἐπισκόπου sine sententia Episcopi) competiisse. Ideoque si sententiam suam, quâ Chrismationem, aut manus impositionem, non aliam, quàm Baptismi Cæremoniam esse contendit, ex primævæ antiquitatis monumentis Dallæus stabiliverit, si, inquam, hoc unicum solidè præstiterit, non erit cur de Chrismandi, & Consignandi facultate Presbyteris in universum concessâ dubitemus aut repugnemus, modò reservetur Episcopis illud (quod prius stabilivimus) Chrismatis Conficiendi privilegium.

§. 2. Verùm secundò, post singula, quæ à doctissimo viro ad hanc rem adducta sunt, pensiculatius librata, mihi adhuc extra dubium ponitur, Confirmationis Ritum (Sacramentum non dicimus, nisi ut Cyprianus eam manuum impositionem, quæ baptismum præcessit baptismo jungens, utrumq;, sacramentum dixit, i. e. latè, & improprie, ut prædiximus) vel Chrismatione, & Consignatione, i. e. impositione manuum, vel etiam sine Chrismatis usu, solâ manuum impositione, variè, in diversis Ecclesiæ seculis, & partibus, celebratum, alium planè à baptismatis sacramento, & Cæremoniis ejus, in Ecclesiâ Antiquâ semper habitum esse, & nunc quoque haberi.

§. 3. Quædam certè sunt, quæ distingui, suisque separatim classibus reponi optarim, ut res integra, quatenus ex antiquis Canonibus, & scriptoribus, tam Græcis quàm Latinis, ipsiusque Ecclesiæ praxi colligi potest, apertè cernatur.

§. 4. Esse certè aliquam Presbyteri benedictionem in baptismo vel ante Baptismum, ut & aliam, quâ post baptismum perfici dicitur is, qui privatim, aut raptim in periculo mortis baptizatus fuerit, non repugno; Eliberitani quidem Concilii Canones 39 & 77 id genus nonnulla commemorant, Gentiles (inquit prior) si in infirmitate desideraverint sibi manus imponi, si fuerit eorum ex aliquâ parte honesta vita, placuit eis manum imponi, & fieri Christianos] Hic ut fieri Christianos] baptismum significat, sic impositio manuum, illi viam sternens, de eâ, quæ dicitur cum oratione conjuncta ad faciendum Catechumenum, vel εἰς τὰς εἰς τὸ ἅγιον βάπτισμα εὐχρηστιζομένας ad eos qui ad sacrum baptisma instructi sunt, (cujus alia non rara apud Patres vestigia reperiuntur) intelligenda est.

Concil. to. 1. p. 237. c.

*Euch. per Goar. p. 334. *P. 343.

§. 5. Videatur in Euchologio * εὐχὴ εἰς τὸ ποιῆσαι κατηχούμενον, Oratio ad faciendum Catechumenum, Ubi ἐμφυσᾷ, σφραγίζει, καὶ ἐπιτίθησι χεῖρα, inflat, signat, manum imponit &c. Ut & ex * MSS. Barberino, qui S. Marci dicitur, clamat Diaconus, Ὅσοι μέλλετε τὸ φώτισμα, προέλθετε τῇ χειροθεσίᾳ καὶ εὐλογεῖσθε, καὶ πάντας χειροθετῶν ὁ Ἱερεύς, &c. Quotquot ad Baptismum dispositi estis, accedite ad manus impositionem, & benedictionem accipite, dein manum imponit sacerdos.

§. 6. Ad hanc pertinet Clementis Alexandrini dictum in Pædag. Τίνι γὰρ ὁ φοιτήτῃ ἐπιτίθησι χεῖρα; τίνα δὲ εὐλογήσει; Cui verò Presbyter manum imponit, cui benedicet?

*De vit. Constan. l. 4.

§. 7. Ad hanc, quod de Constantino scribit * Eusebius, Ἐξομολογούμενος τε διὰ χειροθεσίας εὐχῶν ἠξίου, Confessione factâ, precum per impositionem manuum particeps factus est.

§. 8. Ad hanc Constitutionem antiquus scriptor respexit, ubi post eorum, quibus imbuendus est Catechumenus, enumerationem, addit, προσευχέσθω δὲ ὁ χειροθετῶν αὐτὸν τὸν θεὸν εὐχαριστῶν, &c. εἰς τὸ κατηξιωθῆναι αὐτὸν τοῦ λάτρου, &c. Deum adoret qui manus imponit, gratias agens, ut ille ad lavacrum admittatur. Cujus & mentio fieri videtur, in syllabo Capitis 41. ὅπως χρὴ τοὺς κατηχουμένους ὑπὸ τῶν Ἱερέων ἐν τῇ ἀνάσει εὐλογεῖσθαι, quomodo debent Catechumeni in initiatione benedici (licet in capite ipso nihil tale reperiatur) idem enim valere manus impositionem, & benedictionem nullus dubitaveris; Id Clementis Alexandrini modò allata verba, id Severi mox apponenda apertissimè demonstrant: Malè itaque dividi Constitutionem illarum Capita, & priorem syllabi Capiti 41. præfixi partem ad Cap. 40. pertinere, si loca inspexerit, statim mecum lector agnoscet.

*Edit. Mor. p. 116.

§. 9. Ad hanc Autboris Ecclesiasticæ Hierarchiæ diserta verba clarissimè pertinent * c. 2. ubi cùm interrogaverit sacerdos an vitam Deo gratam instituturus sit Catechumenus, καὶ τῷ ὁμολογίαν ἐπιθῆσαι αὐτῷ τὴν κεφαλὴν τῷ χεῖρα, καὶ σφραγισάμενος ἁγιάσθαι καλέσαι, post professionem capiti ejus manum imponit, & cùm eum consignaverit, perscribi nomen jubet. Et iterum, cùm ter illi professionis formam posuerit, & Catechumenus, ter professionem fecerit * ἀποδεξάμενος εὐλογεῖ, καὶ χειροθετεῖ, Oratione habitâ benedicit, & manus imponit, & tunc etiam * sancto oleo totum corpus inungit, & hæc omnia antequam aquâ proluatur, aut * baptizetur. Ad hanc etiam respexit Augustinus * de pecc. meri. & remiss. Catechumenum, inquit, secundum quendam modum suum per signum & orationem manus impositionis puto sanctificari.

*P. 117.
*P. 118.
*Ibid.
*lib. 2. c. 26.

§. 10. Idem ex * Severi Alexandrini baptismali ritu Jacobus Goar laudavit, his verbis Imponit eis manus Sacerdos, & in omni invocatione facit Crucem super vultum eorum; & ex Simeone Thessalonicensi, ἐπιτίθησιν ὁ Ἱερεὺς αὐτῷ τὴν χεῖρα, ἁγιασμένην ὄντως, καὶ ἐν τῷ πνεύματι ἀναπλάττουσαν, & εὐλογεῖ τὸν θεὸν ὁ Ἀρχιερεὺς------ εἶτα χειρὸς ἐπιθέσει ὑπὲρ------ διὰ τῆς (legendum crediderim δι' αὐτῆς) μεταδιδόμενος χάριν καὶ τὴν ἀνάπλασιν, Manum ei imponit sacerdos, manum quidem ipsam sanctificatam, & in spiritu reformantem, & benedicit Deo Episcopus, dein manus impositione gratiam & renovationem eâ significatam significat. Quod licèt hic Simeon de Episcopo, vel summo Sacerdote, edicat, prius tamen apud eundem ὁ Ἱερεὺς, ut & apud Augustinum Sacerdos, apud Clementem ὁ Προεστώς hâc ceremoniâ fungi dicebatur. Nec vel minimus dubitandi locus est, quin ut baptismus, sic hæc Manuum impositio, Consignatio, benedictio, baptismo prævia, à Presbytero, ex more, peracta sit.

*Not. in Euchol. p. 348. Not. 8.

§. 11. Et certè quid ni ad hanc Classem referri possit Cypriani illud ad Stephanum, cùm parum esse dixerit eis manum imponere ad accipiendum Spiritum Sanctum, nisi accipiant & Ecclesiæ baptismum; tunc enim enim demum, inquit, plenè ſanctificari, & eſſe Dei filii poſſunt, ſi Sacramento utroque naſcantur, (Sacramenti nimirum voce latè, ut diximus, & impropriè, pro quolibet ſacro ritu ſumptâ) Cùm ſcriptum ſit, Niſi quis natus fuerit ex aquâ & ſpiritu, non poteſt intrare in regnum Dei] vides hic poſcentem Cyprianum, ut impoſitioni manuum baptiſmus adderetur, ad exemplar (quod ſtatim ſubdit) * Cornelii Centurionis, & Ethnicorum in domo ejus, quos, poſt Spiritus Sancti in eos deſcenſum, cùm jam fuiſſent adimpleti variis linguis, Beatus Petrus divini Præcepti, atque Evangelii memor, baptizari præcepit: Ideoque non incommodè de eâ manuum impoſitione, quæ baptiſmum præceſſit, intelligi poſſe. * Act. 10.

§. 12. Non quòd egò eam χειροθεσιαν, quâ ad Orthodoxiam ab hæreſi Converſos in Catholicam Eccleſiam recipi mos erat, cum hâc, quæ baptiſmo præluſit, confundi velim, (de eâ mox latius dicturus ſum) ſed quod Cyprianus, qui hâc non contentus, baptizandos urgebat, eo quod parum ſit manum imponere, niſi accipiant Eccleſiæ baptiſmum, & ad hoc Cornelii Exemplo utebatur, qui prius ſpiritus χαρισμαν adimpletus, dein baptiſmo inundatus fuit, eam certè ſic confudiſſe videatur. Sed hæc obiter.

§. 13. De eâ autem, quâ poſt baptiſmum perfici dicebatur is, qui privatim aut raptim in periculo mortis baptizatus fuit, * poſterior Eliberitanus Canon diſertè pronunciat, ſiquis (inquiunt Patres) Diaconus regens plebem ſine Epiſcopo vel Presbytero aliquos baptizaverit, eos per benedictionem perficere debebit, &c. * Can. 77.

§. 14. Ubi cùm * aliqui Codices legant [Epiſcopus eos, &c.] dubitandum non eſt, quin ad alium aliquem vel Epiſcopum, vel ſaltem Presbyterum in prioribus verbis Epiſcopo conjunctum, baptizatus ille à Diacono, adducendus ſit, nec enim ipſe, qui prius baptizabat, Diaconus, poſt perfeciſſe cenſendus eſt. * Vid. Not. 2. in Can. p. 244. E. ex Gratia.

§. 15. Si ad Epiſcopum ſolùm hæc baptizandi perfectio pertineat, ut Garciæ Codex exertè legit, plane de Dallæi Causâ actum eſt, hoc Judice. (Neque enim aliam lectionem agnoſcet, ſat ſcio vir doctiſſimus, ſi attenderit, nullam aliam vocem verba iſta, perficere debebit, ſpectare poſſe.) Si verò Concedamus Presbyterum hic etiam, ut in prioribus verbis, Epiſcopo conjungendum eſſe, cùm tamen ad baptiſmum legitimè, non tamen ita plenè adminiſtratum aperte reſpiciat Canon, nihil adhuc ad Confirmationem, quæ omnibus plenè baptizatis, vel ſtatim, ut in adultorum baptiſmo, vel poſt multorum annorum intervallum, ut in cæteris addi ſolet, pertinuiſſe dicendus eſt.

SECT. VI.

Baptizatus à Laico in periculo mortis, per impoſitionem manuum perficiendus. Eliberitanus Canon 38. At hoc nihil ad Confirmationem. Quid in utroque Eccleſia Anglicana ſtatuerit. Confirmationis in eâ ritus, ſperata beneficia. Nihil retentum quod cuivis cordato diſpliceat, Chemnitius à Bellarmino laudatus, quid ſenſerit. Quid Caſſander, & Eraſmus. Catechetica inſtitutio. Ejus Cura in Dordracenâ Synodo, & Concilio Bituricenſi.

§. 1. PRæmiſsâ igitur hâc duplici Eliberitanorum Canonum benedictione, antè, & poſt baptiſmum, illâ ſine dubio à Presbytero, ad præparandum, hâc ſeu ab Epiſcopo, ſeu à Presbytero ad perficiendum baptiſmum comparatâ, (quarum neutra Confirmatio eſt) ſequatur 3. Impoſitio manuum, quâ Catechumenus, à Laico, in periculo Mortis, baptizatus, donari, ſi ſupervixerit, jubetur, in alio ejuſdem Concilii * Canone. * Can. 38. Concil. ib. p. 235. c.

§. 2. Ea certè ab Epiſcopo peti diſertè præcipitur. Peregrè, inquiunt, Navigantes, aut ſi Eccleſia in proximo non fuerit, poſſe fidelem, qui lavacrum ſuum integrum habet, nec ſit bigamus, baptizare in infirmitate poſitum Catechumenum, ita ut ſi ſuper vixerit, ad Epiſcopum eum perducat, ut per manus impoſitionem proficere (ut Garciæ editio nova legit, perfici, ut prior) poſſit.

§. 3. Si Proficere] legatur, ad Confirmationem ſine dubio attinere Canon cenſebitur, quæ Neophytis ad majorem in fide profectum aſpirantibus deſtinata eſt. Et tunc in propatulo ratio eſt, cur ad Epiſcopum, is qui hâc manuum impoſitione imbuendus eſt, adduci jubeatur.

§. 4. Sin perfici] legatur, non repugnarim ex Canone 77, ubi [per benedictionem perficere] modo legimus, interpretandum eſſe, & de perfectione baptiſmi intelligendum, quam à Presbytero (licet ejus Canon non meminerit) cui integrum baptizandi jus & licentia ab Epiſcopo commiſſa ſunt, rectè poſtulari & adminiſtrari poſſe non abnuimus.

§. 5. Quarè Cauſæ ſuæ non malè conſuluit vir Eruditiſſimus Dalleus, qui (hoc ipſo Capite, quo de Hammondo queritur) Eliberitanæ Synodi Canonem nominans, ſtatim mittendum duxit, ex quo tamen ſe demonſtraſſe pronuntiat, Latinos ipſos Presbyteros manum impoſuiſſe baptizatis, nedum ut eos chriſmare non potuiſſe putetur.] Quæ quidem ſi de baptiſmali chriſmate intelligantur, ut Dalleus vult, nec quiſquam negaverit, qui Hieronymi, & Tertulliani verbis modo adductis attenderit,) aut ſi de baptiſmi, vel à Laico vel à Diacono plebem regente ſine Epiſcopo vel Presbytero (adeoque ἀνὰ γνώμην τοῦ Ἐπισκόπου) non ita legitimè adminiſtrati perfectione (ad quam ſi [perfici] non [proficere] legatur, Eliberitanus Canon reſpexit) nihil hic novum, aut quod ad Latinorum confirmationem pertineat, aut Epiſcoporum αξιωμα quovis modo minuat, licet hoc ad Presbyterum pertinere largiamur, cùm ſic baptizatos, & Presbyterialium manuum impoſitione perfectos, i. e. in Eccleſiæ gremium completè per baptiſmum ſemel receptos, ad Confirmationem, & Epiſcopalium manuum impoſitionem, non ſtatim, ſed poſt luſtra aliquot, promoveri, tam notum ſit, quàm quod notiſſimum.

§. 6. Nos certè ſub incolumi in Angliâ Epiſcoporum regimine, licet nec oleo in baptiſmo, nec unguento in Confirmatione (quorum nulla in ſcripturis, aut primævâ antiquitate mentio) utamur, nec Confirmationem, ut prius dixi, inter Sacramenta à Chriſto inſtituta, & ad omnium ſalutem neceſſaria numeremus, & in baptiſmo, cujus facultas Presbytero, imò Diacono conceditur, frontes infantium, in militiæ Chriſtianæ ſymbolum, ſignemus, Omnes tamen privatim baptizatos, ad Presbyterum in Eccleſiâ adducendos monemus, ut ſi quid legitimæ Sacramenti adminiſtrationi deeſſe intellexerit, ipſe adjiciat, nec adhuc ad Epiſcopum perducimus, donec adulti, & in fide Chriſtianâ ſatis inſtructi; uberioris ſpiritus Gratiæ candidati fiant, factâque exomologeſi, fideque, quam Chriſto pepigerant, obſtricta, & baptiſmali voto, quod per ſponſores iniverant in ſe ſolenniter, recepto, benedictionem Episcopi, per manuum impositionem impetrent. Ut in Rubrica, & Officio Nostro Confirmationis Liturgico baptismati subnexo, videre est. In quo nihil, spero, Doctissimus Dallæus, ut ut Latinorum Chrismationi infensus, reperiet, quod aut Sacræ Scripturæ adversum, aut ab antiquæ & Catholicæ Ecclesiæ praxi alienum culpetur.

* Pag. 1. 2. §. 7. Huic sanè spei meæ non parum favent, quæ in Disputationis * Limine de Matthæi Galeni Confirmationis Definitione [quod sit Sacramentum, quo, ad Episcopalem manuum impositionem, benedictionemque, cuique pro suâ capacitate infundatur Spiritus Sanctus] Vir Doctissimus monuit, Galenum scil. hominem calidum, & in Scripturis Manuum impositionem inveniti, Unctionem nusquam occurrere scientem, sic sibi maturè consulendum putasse, ritumque hunc, non qualis ex publico Ecclesiæ Romanæ Usu, Librisque ritualibus peragitur, definiisse, sed qualem ipse ad Disputationis suæ compendium esse optaret, descripsisse] Nos certè Reformatæ, nec dum deformatæ Ecclesiæ Anglicanæ filii hoc Compendium (si placet, certè non fraudem recentiorum, sed) consultissimam veritatis, & antiquæ simplicitatis tutandæ & retinendæ artem, à matre Nostra sic à teneris, ût ajunt, Unguiculis edocti sumus, ut ipso Galeno callidiores meritò audiamus, qui nondum (quod ab illo factum est) in Sacramentorum Classem evecta Confirmatione, Unctione insuper omissa, ad unicam Episcopalium manuum impositionem, & benedictionem (præeunte tamen solenniter Catechesi, & infantium institutione, in fide, votique baptismalis obligatione, ut & professione publicè recitata, cum paterna Episcopi exhortatione ad constantiam, & ardenti divini spiritus invocatione) ritum integrum reduximus, simulque pristinæ integritati & vigori restituimus, A quibus si nil aliud, saltem Promissa Christi sub novo Fœdere fidei, & obedientiæ, χαλίσῃ συναείδῃ, passim facta, ut & illa tollentibus alacriter benignum & gratum ipsius jugum, confitentibus ipsum coram hominibus, & petentibus quævis ipsius nomine, non uno in loco cauta, & tantum non mancipata, spem certè satis amplam faciunt, uberrimos fructus ex hoc ritu subinde redituros, si non peccata & negligentiæ Nostræ (quod heu nimis frequenter & importunè experimur) obicem injecerint εἰ μὴ (ut * Zonaræ verbis utar) διὰ ἔργων φαυλότητα ἡμῶν ἑαυτὰς τοῦτις ἀποξενώσωμεθα, si non operum nostrorum improbitate aditum propriæ felicitati hac ex parte præcluserimus.

* In Can. Laodicen. 48.

§. 8. Hoc quippe solenni ritu, hâc nec nimiâ nec inani Cæremoniarum pompa, divinæ gratiæ Candidatus monetur, ut Evangelii χρηστὸν ζυγὸν ab alienis (nimirum sponsorum) manibus in proprios humeros susceptum, leniter, & suaviter, & constanter ferat, simulque solenni exomologesi fidem suam in frequenti Cætu, testantibus Deo, Angelis, & nominibus, ore profitetur, ardentissimarum insuper Antistitis, Presbyterorum, totiusque Ecclesiæ precum particeps redditur; Quæ omnia vana, & supervacua futura quisquis sibi aut aliis persuaserit, eadem ille opera Christianæ Religionis Sacratissima mysteria ceu nugas, & figmenta, atque inutilem pompam ludibrio habiturus est.

§. 9. Porrò quòd in his omnibus, ab Ecclesia nostra inter Politiæ suæ leges fideliter retentis, utinam & in Praxi non minus diligenter custoditis, nihil sit, quod cordatis quarumlibet partium viris displiceat, facile ex Cassandro, Erasmo, Lutheranis ex Chemnitio præcipuè comparebit. Is inquit* Bellarminus, accuratissimè omnium describit ordinem Lutheranæ Confirmationis, quem ut ritum veteris Ecclesiæ utiliter introductum, non ut Sacramentum à Christo institutum, ad sex puncta, seu gradus revocat, 1. ut parvuli in infantiâ baptizati, cùm perveniunt ad annos discretionis, instituantur in Doctrinâ Catechismi, & ubi saltem principia didicerint, offerantur Episcopo, qui coram Ecclesiâ admoneant puerum de suo baptismo, quid acceperit, quid promiserit &c. 2. Ut ipsi parvuli confessionem fidei & doctrinæ quam didicerunt publicè recitent. 3. Ut de præcipuis doctrinæ Christianæ capitibus interrogentur, atque ad ea respondeant. 4. Ut moneantur ut hac professione fidei ostendant se dissentire ab omnibus ethnicis, hæreticis, fanaticis, & profanis opinionibus. 5. Ut gravi exhortatione admoneantur ut in pacto baptismi & fidei professione perseverent, & proficiendo confirmentur. 6. Ut fiat publica precatio pro illis pueris ut Deus Spiritu suo Sancto illos gubernare & confirmare dignetur in hac fidei professione, additâ simul manus impositione.

* Exam. 2. part. p. 320. † De Sacr. Conc. firm. c. 1.

* Consult. c. 9. Confirm.

§. 10. Cassander quidem * Sacramenti voce utitur, sed non eo sensu, quo à nobis rejicitur, nec enim aut Christo Authori imputat, aut omnibus ad salutem necessariam statuit: Religiosissimè autem semper in Ecclesia observatam, & per solos Episcopos administrari consuetam, quemadmodum in Apostolica Ecclesia soli Apostoli, in quorum vices Episcopi successerunt, baptizatis manum imponebant, ut ad eorum preces Spiritum Sanctum in donis visibilibus acciperent. De quo quidem dissidium nullum futurum sperare se profitetur vir optimus, si ab Episcopis eâ quâ decet gravitate administraretur, (in ea verò opportunum Reformationi locum esse quis negaverit?) nec enim in conventu Ratisbonensi de eo controversum fuisse. De tempore interim Confirmationis fatetur videre se bonis viris utriusque partis non displicere, si ejus usus ad ætatem paulo adultiorem differatur, vel hanc certè ob causam, ut parentibus, susceptoribus & Ecclesiarum præfectis occasio detur pueros de fide, quam in baptismo professi sunt, diligentius instituendi & admonendi. Hujusmodi sanè institutionem seu Catechismi explicationem in pueris fieri debere, & veteres præcipere, & recentiores ex utraque parte consentire, ex Augustino, & Walafrido, & Ruardo Lovaniensi satis confirmavit, exigendum igitur à pastoribus ut curæ illi diligentissimè incumbant, quod cùm monuerit Calvinus, Ruardus vehementer approbavit. Admonitio, inquit, Sancta & pia est, quam observari omnes desideramus.

* Via ad pacem. p. 291.

§. 11. Hæc eadem ut ad rectum usum Confirmationis imprimis spectantia sæpe monuisse Erasmum à * Grotio discat, qui alias non notavit. Quanto verò cum detrimento Ecclesiæ, quanto & bonæ vitæ, & ipsius Christianæ fidei dispendio, Catechetica Institutio, cum Confirmatione, exoleverit, si aliunde copia non suppeteret, satis docebant Dordracenæ Synodi querelæ, & (necessaria quidem illis visa, utut aliis nova, & inaudita) Helveticorum pastorum disciplina, qua sponsalibus ineundis interdicebantur, qui Catechesin non didicerant. Nec est quod Helvetii de invento hoc glorientur, In Concilio Bitur. Gallicano An. 1548. celebrato, hæc habentur, comminentur (Parochi) neminem hoc Sacramento (Confirmatione) non insignitum se ad Eucharistiam & Matrimonium admissuros. Nec enim alia, ut videtur, adversus fœdissimam ignorantiam, & ferinam quasi barbariem via restabat, nisi maritalis Tori sitis in subsidium vocaretur. Sic certè Helvetia quodammodo in Orientem migrante, cui vetus mos fuit, inquit * Grotius, conjugium contrahentibus manus imponere. Nec enim hoc ritu, sine injuria frandandus erat Thalamus, cui Catechesis adeo, solenniter præcurrebat. Sed illud obiter, in orbitam redeo.

* Via ad pacem. p. 291.

CAP.

CAP. III.

Examinatio eorum quæ Dallæus adduxit ut Impositionem Manuum meram Baptismi ceremoniam esse persuaderet.

SECT. I.

Principalis Quæstio proponitur. Quod de ea Scripturæ, ex interpretatione Chrysostomi & Cypriani. Unctionis mentio in Scriptura. Nihil concludendum ex eo, quod Baptismo adjungebatur eodem tempore.

§. 1. HIS extra omnem dubitationis aleam sic positis, ad reliqua progrediamur, & cum Dallæo, si placet, pensiculatius trutinemus, an (quod ille gnaviter contendit) impositio manuum, quâ neophyti, seu cum, seu sine Chrismatis additione, benedicebantur, mera baptismi Ceremonia, ab initiationis lavacro nullatenus distincta, inter Universos ab ipsius Ecclesiæ primordiis Christianos, semper habita fuerit.

§. 2. A Scripturis ordiamur, quæ non solum Act. 8. post acceptum à Philippo Baptismum, Apostolos Petrum & Johannem ad Samaritanos in hoc delegatos referunt, ut recens baptizati, fæcundiores Spiritus Sancti Latices, Uberiora χαρίσματα, hac manuum apostolicarum impositione imbiberent, (quod idem & à Paulo factum legimus Act. 19. qui baptizatos in nomine Jesu v. 5. statim manibus impositis perficiendos curavit) sed & à baptismis (i. e. unico Christianæ Ecclesiæ Baptismo) Impositionem hanc manuum diserte distingui testantur, ut videre est, Heb. 6. 2.

§. 3. In hanc sententiam interpretanda esse hæc sacri codicis commata, inter alios Chrysostomus testabitur. Is enim Commentariis ad Act. 8. baptismum Samaritanis à Philippo Diacono indultum, sic ab impositione manuum (non qua * Ministri ordinabantur, sed qua Spiritus Dona conferebantur) divisit, ut illam Diacono communem, hanc τῆς Ἀποστόλων ἐξαιρετον, Apostolis peculiarem potestatem fuisse pronuntiet. † Φίλιππος (inquit) βαπτίζων Πνεῦμα τοῖς βαπτιζομένοις οὐκ ἐδίδου, οὐδὲ γὰρ εἶχεν ἐξουσίαν, τοῦτο γὰρ τὸ δῶρον μόνων τῶν ἀποστόλων ἦν δόγμα. Philippus baptizans Spiritum baptizatis non dabat, potestatem enim non habuit, Hoc enim Donum solorum Apostolorum erat.]

§. 4. Vides Impositionem manuum spiritum imputatum, qui in baptismo non dabatur, vides baptismi jus Diacono datum, imponendi manus τελετούμενον solis Apostolis (quibus Episcopi succedebant) reservatum, nec igitur hanc illius Ceremoniam meram esse, quæ non solum ministris, sed & effectibus tam latè se jungebatur.

§. 5. In prioribus id clarius proposuerat, Πνεῦμα ἔλαβον τὸ τῆς ἀφέσεως, τοῦτο δὲ τῶν σημείων οὔπω ἦσαν λαβόντες. Spiritum remissionis acceperant, (in baptismo sc.) Spiritum signorum nondum acceperant; ille verò impositioni manuum debendus erat.

§. 6. Ad hanc itidem Spiritus largitionem non tantùm Act. 19. 5. sed & Heb. 6. 2. accommodanda censuit idem Author [Ἐπιθέσεως χειρῶν, inquit, ὅτι γὰρ τὸ πνεῦμα ἐλάμβανον, impositionis manuum, Sic enim Spiritum accipiebant] (quam interpretationem ab eo mutuatus est Theophylactus, ἐπιθέσεως χειρῶν, δι' ὧν τὸ πνεῦμα ἔλαβον, ὥστε προφητεύειν, καὶ σημεῖα ποιεῖν. Impositionis manuum, per quas Spiritum Sanctum accipiebant, ut & prophetarent, & miracula facerent) ideoque à baptismis, i. e. Unico Christianorum lavacro * (οὐκ ὡς πολλῶν ὄντων τῶν βαπτισμῶν, ἀλλ' ἑνὸς, non quod plures baptismi essent, sed ab uno baptismo) distinxit.

§. 7. Ab hoc Apostolorum Archetypo, sequentium temporum praxim non devialse, testantur fusè Patres: Consulatur præ aliis Cyprianus, Ep. ad Jubaianum, ubi ex ipsius ad unum adversariorum ejus argumentum responsione, (eadem postea ab * Augustino approbata) luce clarius redditur, hunc in Ecclesia ritum ad hoc Apostolorum exemplar, si quid illi viderint, amussitatum præsumi. Locum integrum opportunius posthac reponendum curabimus. Nec igitur in Florentina Synodi Decretis illud culpari potest, quod statuerit, istius manus impositionis loco, per quam Apostoli Spiritum Sanctum dabant, in Ecclesia Confirmationem adhiberi.

§. 8. At & Unctionis mentiones non raro in Scripturis reperiuntur, præcipuè 2 Cor. 1. 22. & 1 Jo. 2. 27. Eæ certè, non dubitarim, figuratæ, quibus non visibile Unguentum, sed invisibilia Spiritus dona significantur, sic tamen, ut allusionibus istis permoti Antiqui Patres, in invocando super neophytos Spiritu S. cujus dona Unctionem ab Apostolis vocitari intellexerant, Unguentum ipsum, quod ad varios Usus Apostolos usurpasse videbant, adhibendum putarent, & Episcopalium manuum impositioni adjungendum: Hinc illud Cyrilli * Καιηχ. γ. plurima Scripturæ loca ad Chrisma suum accommodantis, illud præsertim Johannis, quo Unctionem nos omnia docere scripsit, τοῦτο φυλάξατε ἄφθαρτον, πάντων γὰρ ἡμᾶς τοῦτο διδάσκει, Hoc incorruptum servate, de omnibus enim docebit, καθὼς ἀρτίως ἠκούσατε τῆς Μακαρίας Ἰωάννου λέγοντος, καὶ πολλὰ ἄλλα τούτου χρίσματος φιλοσοφοῦντος, sic ut paulo ante ex Johanne audivistis, cum multa de chrismate hoc philosopharetur. Hinc illæ etiam in sacris literis Ritus ipsius appellationes, Confirmatio, Consignatio, Chrismatio, Arrab, singulæ enim ex 2 Cor. 1. 22. adeò dilucidè desumptæ videntur, scil. [qui Confirmat nos Deus, & unxit nos, & signavit, & dedit pignus spiritus in cordibus nostris] ut de hoc ipso Confirmationis Ritu Antiquorum non pauci interpretati sint.

* Διὰμὲν τοῦ ἁλαζον πιεῖν σημεῖα, ἔχει δὲ καὶ πνεῦμα δοθῆναι ἐντεῦθεν, to. 4. pag. 714. l. 9.

† Ibid. l. 10.

Ep. 73.

* De Bapt. Con. Don. l. 3. c. 19.

* Edit. Morel. p. 536.

SECT.

SECT. II.

Laodicenus Canon 48. Quàm arguta Dallæi concluſio & diſtinctio. Voces φωτιζόμενοι] & βάπτισμα ab argutiis ejus vindicatæ. Quæ eodem tempore ſunt aut tractantur, non ideo ſunt eadem. Loca Theodoreti & Gregorii Nazianzeni examinantur.

§. 1. NOn eſt animus ea ſingula minutiùs ſectari, quæ Spalatenſis, Blondelli, & ſuo penu inſtructiſſimus Dallæus, ex antiquorum monumentis conquirenda, & conſarcinanda putavit, ut rem planè ſecus, inter Græcos præſertim, ſe habere perſuaderet. Iſtis omnibus & ſingulis illud unum reponi ſufficit, ea quidem latè diſtingui poſſe, quæ eodem nonnunquam die, aut horâ adminiſtrari perſpiciuntur, nec enim quicquam ad veri ſpeciem minus accedere, quàm ſi quæ eodem tempore fiunt, ea ſtatim eadem fuiſſe, unumque alteri aut appendi ut umbra, aut adjici ut Ceremonia mera, cenſeatur.

§. 2. De Laodiceno Canone 48. [ὅτι δεῖ τὸς φωτιζομένους μὴ τὸ βάπτισμα χρίεσθαι χρίσματι ἐπουρανίῳ, Illuminatos poſt baptiſma unguento Cæleſti liniendos eſſe] mira planè ſunt, quæ poſt Blondellum commentatus eſt vir Doctiſſimus. Hìc, inquit, baptiſmi ceremoniam fuiſſe Chriſmationem Synodus apertiſſimè docet, quod τὸς φωτιζομένους qui illuminantur, hoc eſt, baptizantur, ſive initiantur Chriſtianiſmo, eos decernit χρίεσθαι, ungi ſacro chriſmate; His enim verbis ſignificat τὸ χρίεσθαι ungi, partem fuiſſe τῦ φωτισμῦ illuminationis, ſive initiationis, ita ut initiatio, quo rite perficeretur, Chriſmate veluti conſignanda ac conſummanda eſſet. Hæc, inquit, omnino vis verborum iſtorum eſt. Si aliud voluiſſent Patres, haud dubio dixiſſent ὅτι δεῖ τὸς πεφωτισμένους χρίεσθαι, eos qui baptizati ſunt, chriſmandos eſſe, non autem, in præſenti φωτιζομένους, illos qui illuminantur.

§. 3. Porrò ne quis novam hanc interpretationem rejiceret, propter vim præpoſitionis μὴ, quæ ſenſum planè diverſum ſuadere videtur, (neque enim in ipſo baptiſmo ungi videtur, qui μὴ βαπτισμα χρίεται) id metuens Dallæus, ſibi ſatis ſollicitè cavit, excogitatâ diſtinctione hâc ſatis certè argutâ, Sciendum, inquit, eſt baptiſmi vocabulum duobus modis ſumi, vel pro toto initiationis ritu, vel pro ſolo merſionis aut tinctionis actu; ſecundò hoc ſenſu, non priori, inquit, baptiſmatis nomen hic Uſurpabant Laodiceni, dum aiunt, τὸς φωτιζομένους μὴ τὸ βάπτισμα χρίεσθαι, eos qui illuminantur, ungi poſt baptiſma, i. e. poſt tinctionem ſeu merſionem, non autem poſt initiationem. Nam ſi hoc intelligerent, πεφωτισμένους eſſent, qui unguntur, non φωτιζομένους, quod aiunt Patres.]

§. 4. Videtis ad quas incitas redactæ, quo demum pharmaco ſanitati reſtituendæ, aut ſublevandæ, quibus argutiis & λεπτολογίαις ſtatuminandæ ſunt Univerſæ viri optimi Fortunæ. Certè ſi Laodiceni Patres aut baptizatos intellexerint, cùm φωτιζομένους edixerint, aut initiatos crediderint, de quorum poſt baptiſmum Unctione Legem exertè tulerint, De Dallæi causâ integrâ conclamatum eſt. Quàm verò hebes, & ſupinus Canonis hujus Scholiaſtes Zonaras, qui pro φωτιζομένους μὴ τὸ βάπτισμα] βαπτιζόντας ſimpliciter repoſuit, nec curioſiùs inveſtigandum cenſuit, an poſt peractam integram initiationem, an tantummodo poſt tinctionem ungendos præceperint Patres? Quàm parum hanc argutandi artem calluit Cyprianus, qui * ungi neceſſe eſſe eum dixit (non qui illuminatur aut initiatur, ſed) qui baptizatus eſt, in præterito, & * ſuper eos qui in Eccleſia baptizati erant, & legitimum & Eccleſiaſticum baptiſmum (is certè eſt pluſquam ſimplex tinctio, integra nimirum initiatio & φωτισμὸς) conſecuti fuerant, oratione pro iis habitâ, & manu impoſitâ, Invocatum & infuſum Spiritum Sanctum affirmat.

* Ep. 70.

* Ep. 72.

§. 5. Nobis certè tam fortuitis rationum ponderibus diſciplinam, & Sanctiones Eccleſiaſticas motari, & circumgyrari, nondum perſuaſum eſt, aut ex his & talibus aruſpicinis, vel auguriis Theologicam veritatem ſtatuminari.

§. 6. Ceſſit interim ſatis feliciter, quòd ab ipſis Laodicenis Patribus edocti ſimus, quid de voce φωτιζομένους] cenſendum ſit. Audiatur Canon 46. Δεῖ τὸς φωτιζομένους πρὸ πάσης ἐκμανθάνειν τὴν πίστιν &c. Oportet eos qui illuminantur, fidem diſcere, & quintâ hebdomadis feriâ Epiſcopo renuntiare vel Presbyteris] Sic ut Can. 47. Οἱ ἐν νόσῳ βαπτιζόμενοι φώτισμα, &c. qui in morbo baptiſmum accipiunt, & dein convaleſcunt, fidem ediſcere debent, & ſcire quod divini muneris participes facti ſunt] quod iis omnino incumbit non in ipſo baptiſmo, ſed poſt baptiſmum, cum à morbo incolumes facti ſint. Nullus igitur dubitandi hic locus eſt, quin quod Canone immediatè ſequente de iiſdem φωτιζομένοις additur, eodem planè ſenſu intelligendum ſit, eos nempe μὴ τὸ βάπτισμα χρίεσθαι, poſt baptiſmum ungi debere, non autem illud poſt tinctionem, aut merſionem ſolam, ſed diſertè poſt φωτίσματος μετάληψιν, poſt initiationis participationem, poſt integrum ſcilicet baptiſmum, in quo ἅπαντες ὁμοίως καταξιώθησαν, Can. 46. divini muneris participes facti ſunt.

§. 7. Quid verò, ſi, qui illuminantur, illi eodem tempore poſt baptiſmum ungi juberentur, præſertim cum aut adultis, & catechumenis, aut in mortis periculo poſitis Lavacrum poſceretur? In tali enim rerum cardine omnia benignè ab Eccleſiâ fidelium votis, & ardentibus deſideriis indulgeri, quæ ipſis quoviſmodo ſubſidio futura crederet, nulla invidia erat.

§ 8. Non tamen confundi ſtatim, aut eadem planè eſſe, aut alteram alterius Ceremoniam meram, aut partem, ut contendit Dallæus, accidentalem, ritualem, aut adjectitiam, quæ eodem aut die aut horulâ, cum occaſio poſtulet, aut permittat, adminiſtrari jubentur, hoc uno (ſi alia non ſuppetant) argumento concluſum putamus.

§. 9. Nemini certè inauditum eſt, aliquandiu Cœnam Domini recens baptizatis, ipſo Baptiſmi die & horâ, communicatam fuiſſe, nec tamen, ſpero, inter Baptiſmi Ceremonias numerabitur Euchariſtia. Eandem certè nos, ut ab antiqua Eccleſia didicimus, Sponſalium ſolennitati, cum in Eccleſia celebrantur, adjungi diſtrictè mandamus, Nec tamen quenquam adhuc inter petulantiſſimos Liturgiæ noſtræ ſugillatores, adeo moroſum aut tetricum experti ſumus, qui Eccleſiaſtico ritui (nec enim Matrimonium inter Sacramenta novi fœderis numeramus) venerandum Euchariſtiæ Sacramentum nos ſubjeciſſe ſuſpicetur, aut qui queratur eam à nobis tanquam nudam Ceremoniam, Matrimonio ancillari juſſam eſſe.

§. 10. Nec certè firmius ex eo argumentum nectitur, quòd in tractandis, vel deſcribendis Eccleſiæ ritibus, Baptiſmo ſtatim ſubjungatur chriſmatio; æquè enim manifeſtum, chriſmationi cœnam, imo nonnunquam (omiſſâ & intacta chriſmatione) baptiſmo cœnam ſuccedere, ac Baptiſmo chriſmationem.

§. 11. Quod

§. 11. Quod de Laodiceno jam Canone diximus, de geminis etiam Theodoreti locis dicendum est, quæ post * Spalatensem † Dallæus ad firmandam hypothesin suam trahi posse confidit. Primum ex Comm. ad Cantica c. 1. 2. Ἀναμίμνησον σαυτὸν τῆς ἱερᾶς [a] μυσταγωγίας, ὅτε τῇ τῆς βασιλείας ἀπαλλοίᾳς, οἷονεὶ σφραγῖδα τινὰ βασιλικὴν ἔσχητε, τὸν πνευματικὸν μύρου τὸ χρίσμα, ὃς ἐν τύπῳ τοῦ μύρου τοῦ ἀφθάρτου τοῦ ἀγίου πνεύματος χάριν ἐκδέχεται. Memor esto mystagogiæ sacræ, in quâ qui initiuntur, post Tyranni abnegationem, & veri Regis professionem, Spiritualis unguenti chrisma, tanquam regale aliquod sigillum recipiunt, in unguento, tanquam in imagine invisibilem Spiritus Sanctissimi gratiam percipientes. Secundum de Novatianis dictum, τοῖς ἐκ τῶν βαπτιζομένων τὸ παράγαν ἀποστέγουσι χρίσμα, iis qui ab ipsis baptizantur sacro sanctum chrisma non offerunt.]

§. 12. Hic certè utrobique iis qui baptizantur, aut initiantur, chrisma offerendum, & suscipiendum supponitur. At quis inde concluserit, meram baptismi Ceremoniam aut partem esse, aut inter baptizandum, ut Dallæus contendit, adhibitam, aut aliud quicquam à Theodoreto innui, quàm quòd præter baptismum à Christo institutum, suus etiam chrismati locus sit, Ecclesiastico ritui, ad invocandam Spiritus Sancti Gratiam parato, qua ad votum baptismi, aut officium viri Christiani fideliter præstandum, præ omnibus indigemus Christiani.

§. 13. Certè nihil in Evangelio, & Patrum scriptis celebrius & notius est, quàm fidelibus, i. e. Christianis militibus, qui fidem suam Christo obstrinxerunt in baptismo, adeoque illis qui jamjam baptizati sunt, Spiritum Sanctum, aut invisibilem Spiritus Gratiam à Christo promissam esse, eam verò chrismate visibili adumbrari, nec igitur incommodè hoc externum signum, in invocandis per Episcopalis manus impositionem & benedictionem, Spiritus sancti donis, constantiâ præsertim, & perseverantiâ, ut sigillum aliquod regale usurpari. Hoc verò non baptismi ad remissionem peccatorum, sed Confirmationis ad impetranda Spiritus dona, & professionem in Baptismo factam obsignandam solenniter adhibitæ proprium esse quis diffitebitur?

§. 14. At sperat * Dallæus aliquid sibi exinde lucri exoriturum esse, quod Theodoretus dixerit, Tyranni abnegationem & Regis confessionem chrismate velut obsignatam esse, & hinc statim concludit, &c. * P. 203.

Ergo & ipsa eodem quo Regis confessio pertinuit nimirum ad Baptismum.] Fateor lubens ipsam abnegationem eodem pertinere ac confessionem, utriusque enim in baptismo locum fuisse; videatur Author Constitutionum L. 7. c. 42. cujus titulus Ἀποταγὴ πρὸς τὸν ἐναντίον, καὶ συνταγὴ πρὸς τὸν Χριστόν, Renuntiatio ad diabolum, & ascriptio ad Christum; At qua tandem machinâ hinc extorserit chrisma ad Baptismum pertinuisse? Illud certè probandum erat, At Conclusio Dallæana de ipsâ] i. e. Abnegatione procedit, non de ipso, i. e. chrismate.

§. 15. Nec verò si [ipsum] legerimus, Dallæus quicquam proficiet. Nihil enim manifestius est, quàm quod ea omnia quæ in baptismo spondentur, in cœna Domini, imò in pœnitentiâ, obsignentur; quæ tamen Baptismi ceremonia, aut partes proculdubio non sunt: Cur non igitur in Confirmatione, idem præstetur, quam ideo τὴν ὁμολογίας βεβαίωσιν, professionis confirmationem aut obsignationem dictam scimus quod in illa ea omnia quæ in Baptismo per sponsores suscepimus, Chirographo planè nostro, aut idiographo obsignentur, & muniantur? Hæc verò post baptismum, non inter baptizandum commodissimè fieri, quæ, quæsumus, invidia est?

§. 16. Nec certè multò feliciùs processit, quod de loco * Greg. Nazianzeni Dallæus molitus est. Verba Gregorii primo proponenda, dein rationes Dallæi recolendæ sunt. * To. 1. p. 646. Orat. 40.

§. 17. De Baptismo non differendo multa Gregorius, ex periculorum quibus vita humana cingitur multitudine, Εἰ δ', inquit, σφραγισαλίδοις σαυτὸν τῇ σφραγῖδι, καὶ τὸ μέλλον ἀσφαλίσῃ τοῦ πολλοῦ τοῦ βοσκημάτων καὶ ῥᾳδιοπάτου σημειώσεις καὶ ψυχὴν καὶ σῶμα τοῦ χρίσματος καὶ τοῦ πνεύματος, οἷς Ἰσραὴλ πάλαι τὸ νυκτερινὸν καὶ φυλακτικὸν τῶν πρωτοτόκων αἵματι, τὸ σὸν συμβήσεται, &c. Si verò sigillo te præmunieris, & pulcherrimo, & firmissimo auxilio tibi in futurum caveris, & animum & corpus chrismate & spiritu signans, ut Israel olim nocturno, & primogenitos custodiente sanguine, & chrismate, quid tibi accidet?

§. 18. Hic certè ut alibi non rarò, σφραγὶς sigillum, simpliciter positum, de Baptismo intelligendum est, quidni verò Chrisma spiritui sociatum, quo & corpus & anima signantur, & firmantur, de Confirmatione explicanda erunt? Illi certè commodissimè conveniunt, quæ de sanguine, quo Israelitarum postes liniebantur, de primogenitorum custodiâ, de consignatione, de præsidio firmissimo, adjecit Nazianzenus, quorum singula optimè conspirant, ut de Confirmatorio Chrismate (Baptismali sigillo, ex more, statim accedente) dictum statuamus.

§. 19. At è contra Dallæus baptismum agnoscens, Confirmationem negat, & ut figmentum rejicit, his tribus argumentis fretus, 1. Authoritate Billianorum Marginum, in quibus ad hunc locum annotatum est, Unctio baptismatis, & quod Gregorius dixerat [præmuniri signaculo, Billius optimè vertit Baptismo] Verum 1. Billiani margines, qui facilè & falli & incautos fallere possunt, nos neutiquam constringunt, qui Dallæo sine Billii suffragio æqui credimus, ac Billio ex suo cerebro sic monenti. Imò ex hinc discimus, quo lenocinio adductus Dallæus, hæc omnia ad baptismum trahenda putaverit, eodem certè, quo Bellarminus, sigillum Domini apud Eusebium, Christoforsoni insertione allectus, ad Confirmationem deflexit, quod, ut * Dallæus rectè monuit, ad Baptismum attinebat. Nec enim Billiano margini contra Confirmationem magis fidendum est, quàm Christoforsoniana Paraphrasi pro Confirmatione contra Baptismum. * P. 169.

§. 20. 2. Quod de baptismo per signaculum intelligendo notavit, nos lubentes concedimus, nec enim σφραγὶς de Confirmatione, sed de baptismo, interpretamur, ut consignationem, firmissimum præsidium, Chrisma, & Spiritum, non de Baptismo, sed Confirmatione.

§. 21. At 2. addit Dallæus, idem clamare Orationis titulum [Oratio in sanctum Baptisma] ipsumque Gregorium, qui initio statim monet de baptismo se beneficio hinc ad nos manente, breviter disserturum, unde concludit Unctionem, quam hic memorat, Baptismi esse, auxilium beneficii partem, quod ex baptismo manat, nec aliter rem habere posse, nisi Gregorium mentitum esse dixeris, & quæ dixit, aliis ab iis esse contenderis, quæ se dicturum professus erat.] At manifestum est, titulum, ut denominationem quamcunque, à potiori rectè sumi, nec tamen vetare, quo minùs de Baptismo dissertationem instituens, verba quædam de Cœna aut Pœnitentiâ, quidni etiam de Confirmatione faceret? certè Dallæus ipse librum suum de Confirmatione inscripsit, statimque initio de Confirmatorio Latinorum chrismate se dicturum præmonuit, nec tamen pauca de Baptismo adjecit, nec enim ullis scribendi legibus cautum putamus, ut qui ἓν ἕν sillum bellè prosequitur, nullum unquam πρᾶγμα, nullam parenthesin admisceat.

§. 22. Ve-

§. 2. 2. Verùm 3, inquit Dallæus, Gregorius ipse hoc muſteum Sacramentum liquidò explodit, dum baptiſmum, præter alia nomina, diſertè ſcribit vocatum fuiſſe χρίσμα & σφραγῖδα, chriſma & ſignaculum, rationem nominis addens, qui ſacer & regius eſt, hujuſmodi enim ea erant quæ ungebantur. At (omiſſo ſignaculo, quod de baptiſmo lubentes interpretamur) reſpondemus, 1. Chriſma illud quod inter Baptiſmi titulos alibi repoſuerat * Gregorius, non de Unctione propriâ, ſed metaphoricâ, ex Scripturæ idiomate intelligendum eſſe, qualitèr Chriſtiani omnes Reges & Sacerdotes dici ſolent, non propriè, ſed figuratè; hic verò, cum chriſmati ſpiritus ſubnectatur, illoque conſignari corpus, ut ſpiritu anima, ad modum Iſraelis, cujus poſtes ſanguine liniebantur, Chriſma propriiſſimè ſumi neceſſum eſt.

* P. 638. D.

§. 23. 2. Nil prohibet eundem titulum diverſis ritibus adaptari. Siè enim alia non pauca, quæ baptiſmo Gregorius æquè tribuit, non incommodè Euchariſtiæ, &c. applicari agnoſces. Inter appellationes Baptiſmatis apud Gregorium reperies, δῶρον, χάρισμα, ἀφθαρσίας ἔνδυμα, πᾶν ὅτι τίμιον, donum, Gratiam, incorruptionis indumentum, & omne quod honoratum aut excellens eſt, Quæ quidem ut baptiſmo, ſic & aliis Eccleſiæ ritibus ubique tribuuntur. Nec certè ratio nominis reddita quicquam probat, cùm, ut dictum eſt, de ſpirituali regno & ſacerdotio intelligatur chriſma illud, quod inter Baptiſmi titulos recenſebatur; hic verò ad præſidium parari jubeatur, ad modum ſanguinis, qui primogenitos Iſraelitarum tuebatur, & ſic Confirmationem diſertè reſpiciat.

§. 24. Videt Doctiſſimus vir, quàm inſtabilibus fulcris nitatur hypotheſis novitia, quàm non cogentibus argumentis confidat ſe nobis perſuaſurum, meram baptiſmatis Ceremoniam chriſma antiquorum fuiſſe. Certè nihil tale Laodicenus Canon, nihil Theodoretus, aut Gregorius teſtantur, quibus præcipuè ſeſe ſtabiliiſſe videtur Dallæus: Nec enim aut ſi baptiſmo Confirmatio ſtatim acceſſerit, aut ſi in ipſo ungerentur Baptiſmo, quâvis ratione ſequetur, aut nullum eſſe Confirmatorium chriſma, aut nullum ſine chriſmate Epiſcopalium manuum impoſitionem, & benedictionem, quâ unicâ contenti, Confirmationis Ritum celebrari legitimè poſſe non dubitamus.

SECT. III.

Pſeudoclementis doctrina ut Dallæo neutiquam faveat. Oleum, quo aqua ſanctificabatur, à Chriſmate differt.

§. 1. AT nec in iis quæ adduxit vir Doctiſſimus, veſtigia ſatis conſpicua nobis deſunt, ex quibus disjungi planè ea ipſa dignoſcamus, quæ ille ſtudioſiſſimè in unum compingenda curavit. De Pſeudoclemente idem, quod certè ante eum Spalatenſis de Repub. Eccleſ. l. 5. c. 5. pronuntiat, Neminem ipſo clarius docere Chriſmationem ævo ejus ex Ceremonialibus baptiſmi ritibus unum fuiſſe. At conſulenti locum res adeò clara non eſt; De ſacro oleo, certè agnoſcimus ejus uſum in baptiſmo fuiſſe, imò illud planè lotioni præcurriſſe, ut aqua hoc ritu ſanctificaretur, Spiritu Domini ſic deſcendente ſuper aquas.

Conſt. l. 3. c. 16.

§. 2. Illud ex Libro 7. c. 43. clarius eſt, quàm ut de eo dubitari poſſit, ubi de oleo myſtico, quatenus illud à chriſmate myſtico, cujus deſcriptio ſequitur, c. 45. diſtinguitur, dictum reperis, Εὐλογεῖται εἰς τὸν κατασκευὴν τοῦ βαπτίσματος, ad præparationem baptiſmi benedicitur, & iterum πρὸς τὴν κατασκευὴν ὁμολογίας βαπτίσματος, præparationem Confeſſionis baptiſmi, ὥστε τὸν χειρόμενον —— ἄξιον γενέσθαι τῆς μυήσεως —— ut unctus dignus initiatione efficiatur. Poſt hanc olei myſtici unctionem, εἶτα ἔρχεται εἰς τὸ ὕδωρ, Poſtea venit ad aquam, &c. Hoc itaque oleum myſticum non dubitamus ad baptiſmum pertinuiſſe, imò benedictioni aut gratiarum actioni, περὶ μυστικοῦ ὕδατος, de * aquâ myſticâ, præcurriſſe, poſt quam demum † ſequitur unguenti Chriſma, eique ſubjungitur c. 45. περὶ μυστικοῦ μύρου εὐχαριστία, de myſtico chriſmate gratiarum actio.

* C. 44.
† C. 44.

§. 3. Sic & hoc l. 3. c. 16. jubetur primò Epiſcopus ἀλείφειν ἐλαίῳ τὴν κεφαλὴν βαπτιζομένων χεῖρα, caput eorum qui baptizantur oleo ſanctio inungere. Dein βαπτίζειν αὐτὸς ἐν τῷ ὕδατι, invocato Patre, Filio, & Spiritu ſancto, aquâ baptizare. Virum Diacono, mulierem Diaconiſſâ ſuſcipiente, ut decenter, & reverenter fiat ſigillum inviolabile, i. e. ut baptiſmus honeſtè, & à quibus decet, adminiſtretur. Quibus peractis, μετὰ τοῦτο, poſt hoc, inquit Ἐπίσκοπος χρίνει τοὺς βαπτιζομένους τῷ μύρῳ, Epiſcopus baptizatos unguento liniat.

§. 4. E diſertâ τοῦ ἀνδρὸς, & γυναικὸς viri & mulieris mentione, patet de adultis baptizatis Scriptorem loqui; nec mirum igitur, ſi ſtatim, ſine quovis intervallo, adjungatur Chriſmatio, & de eo intelligantur quæ l. 7. c. 44. legimus, βαπτίσας —— χρισάτω, cùm baptizaverit, ungat unguento —— &c. Nec tamen hoc in loco tale aliquid ex ipſius verbis facilè extorſeris, qui hoc ſolùm dixit, Μετὰ τοῦτο ὁ Ἐπίσκοπος, &c. Poſt hoc ad Chriſmationem procedit Epiſcopus, an eadem hora, vel die, vel abſente Epiſcopo, Presbyter, non definit.

† Cap. 17.
* Sic & l. 7. c. 44. Θάνατον τοῦ σωτῆρος, ὅπερ ἔδωκε τὸ βάπτισμα. Mortem in cruce, cujus imaginem dedit baptiſmum.

§. 5. Nondum igitur adeò dilucide ex Pſeudoclemente hypotheſin ſuam ſtabilivit vir doctiſſimus, Imò ſi ſequens † Caput inſpiciatur, palam eſt, baptiſma peculiariter εἰς τὸν θάνατον τοῦ Ἰησοῦ, in * mortem Jeſu datum eſſe, Aquam nempe ἀντὶ τάφου pro ſepulchro, oleum pro Spiritu S. (quo nempe Aqua, ut diximus ſanctificabatur) τὸν σφραγῖδα ἀντὶ τοῦ σταυροῦ, ſigillum pro cruce. Bellè hæc quidem cohærent; At non ſic τὸ μύρον, Unguentum quo Chriſmatur, illud enim βεβαίωσις τῆς ὁμολογίας) unde Confirmationis nomen acceptum) Profeſſionis (baptizati ſcil.) Confirmatio. Hæc itaque quomodo baptiſmi pars erit, qui ad mortem Chriſti dabatur?

SECT. IV.

Teſtimonium Cyrilli Hieroſol. à Dallæo allatum quàm nihil pro ipſo concludat; Baptiſmi notio quàm varia Dallæo ut hypotheſi inſerviat, Cyrillus à ſeipſo illuſtratus.

§. 1. IDem de Cyrillo Hieroſolymitano dici poteſt (quem tamen uno baptiſmi vocabulo utrumque complecti Dallæus non ambigit.) Certè Catechеſi myſtagogicâ primâ recens baptizatos alloquitur Cyrillus: ſecundum inſcribit περὶ βαπτίσματος de baptiſmo, totamque inſumit, ut in mortem Chriſti baptizatos monſtraret:

monſtraret: Tertia περὶ χρίσματος de chriſmate inſcripta, Unctionem, quam à Deo habemus deſcribit, ſic ut & quarta ſubſequitur, περὶ σώματος καὶ αἵματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ, de corpore & ſanguine Chriſti; Quæ tota ad Euchariſtiam pertinet. Quinta inſuper anacephalæoſin inſtituens ſic incipit, Ἐν δὲ τοῖς μυσταγωγικοῖς συνάξεσιν ἀκηκόατε περὶ τοῦ βαπτίσματος, καὶ χρίσματος, καὶ μεταλήψεως σώματος καὶ αἵματος Χριστοῦ, de baptiſmo, de chriſmate, de ſumptione corporis & ſanguinis Chriſti, ſatis in ſuperioribus audiſtis; ſingula quidem diſtinctiſſimè, & in ſuas claſſes diſpoſita, nec magis chriſmatio cum baptiſmo, quàm Euchariſtia cum utroque confundenda eſt.

§. 2. Aliud autem ſuadere conatur Dallæus, hoc potiſſimùm argumento fretus, quòd Catechefin de Chriſmate ſic ordiatur Cyrillus, εἰς χριστὸν βεβαπτισμένοι, In Chriſtum baptizati, &c. Quicquid, inquit, iſti hactenus ſuſceperant (ſuſcepiſſe autem tunc Chriſma neophytos recens baptizatos, ad quos Concio habita eſt, agnoſcimus) uno vocabulo amplectitur, dum eos dicit baptizatos eſſe.]

§. 3. At doctiſſimum virum, dum hypotheſi ſuæ ſollicitiùs inſerviit, fugiſſe veritas videtur. Nec enim qui baptizatos dixit, qui lavacri mentionem fecit, confirmatos negavit, aut negâſſe viſus eſt, Imo contrarium planè expreſſit, ut enim primis verbis eos baptizatos ait, ſic & proximis ſtatim adjicit χριστοὺς unctos eſſe, & adhuc ſignantiùs, tunc eos χριστοὺς factos eſſe, cùm Spiritus ſancti ἐπίνοιαν, ſeu figuram (χρίσμα ſc.) ſuſciperent, utrumque enim ſuſceperant, νεοφώτιστοι hi, ad quos myſtagogicæ catechefes deſtinatæ ſunt. Alia interìm (quantum mihi perſpicere licet) baptizatio, alia chriſmatio, nec enim (quod prædiximus) ſi eodem die, eadem hora adhibebantur, ſtatim eadem fuiſſe rectè concluſurus eſt, nec igitur baptiſmi pars, aut ceremonia mera, chriſmatio, quam acceperant.

§. 4. Sanè * cum Synodi Laodicenæ † Canonem modo recitatum laudaſſet Dallæus [Δεῖ τοὺς φωτιζομένους μὴ τὸ βάπτισμα χρίεσθαι τῷ χρίσματι, eos qui illuminantur, chriſmate ungi oportet.]——ne, quæ poſt baptiſmum adhibebatur chriſmatio alia à baptiſmo videretur, baptiſmum non pro integro φωτισμῷ, illuminatione, aut initiatione, ſuis omnibus ex uſu Eccleſiæ ritibus conſtante, ſed pro ſolo merſionis, aut tinctionis actu ſtrictè ſumi voluit; hic verò poſt * paginam unam aut alteram, urgente ſcil. & durius premente ipſum importunâ hypotheſi, vocem βαπτιζομένους (quæ ſine dubio priori baptiſmi voce latiùs non patet) pluſquam hoc ampliſſimo ſenſu intelligendum ſtatuit, ut non tantùm integrum φωτισμὸν initiationem, ſed & chriſmationem (quam baptiſmo ſtatim acceſſiſſe novimus, ſed pauci, ante Dallæum, merum baptiſmi ritum æſtimarunt) totam abſorbeat. Hoc quàm ſine omni rationis ſpecie attentaverit, non alio monſtratore indigemus, præter ipſum Cyrillum, qui ut diſtinctos innueret, ut dixi, ſeorſim repoſuit, & utrúmque expreſſe nominavit (nec igitur hoc pharmaco quovis modo indiguit) utrumque ſeparatim definivit, Baptiſmum per τὸ ἐν ὁμοιώματι συσταυρωθῆναι, καὶ συνταφῆναι καὶ συναναστῆναι τῷ Χριστῷ, per ſimilitudinem mortis, ſepulchri, & reſurrectionis Chriſti, quâ baptizati illi conformes fiunt in iſtis omnibus: Chriſma verò, quod ut Chriſtus ἐλαίῳ νοητῷ ἀγαλλιάσεως ἐχρίσθη, τουτέστι πνεύματι ἁγίῳ, ἀγαλλιάσεως καλουμένῳ ἐλαίῳ, διὰ τὸ αἴτιον αὐτὸ τῆς πνευματικῆς πλήρωσιν ἀγαλλιάσεως, intelligibili exultationis oleo ungebatur, hoc eſt, Spiritu ſancto, exultationis oleo nuncupato, quòd ſit ſpiritualis exultationis cauſa; ſic & illi μύρῳ ἐχρίσθησαν, κοινωνοὶ καὶ μέτοχοι τῷ Χριστοῦ γενόμενοι, Unguento ungebantur; ut qui Chriſti conſortes, & participes facti ſint.

§. 5. Quid quòd & μύρον τοῦτο οὐκ ἔτι ψιλὸν, οὐδ' ὡς ἔτυχεν ἅπαν κοινὸν καθ' ὁπωσοῦν, ἀλλὰ Χριστοῦ χάρισμα, καὶ πνεύματος ἁγίου παρουσίαν τῆς ἀπ' αὐτοῦ θεότητος ἐνεργητικὸν γενόμενον, Unguentum hoc non jam ſimplex, aut poſt conſecrationem, commune æſtimari patitur, ſed Chriſti chariſma, & Spiritus ejus præſentiam, ipſiuſque quaſi divinitatis effectricem appellat, ſimulque varios, & illuſtres ejus uſus enumerat, ut dum corpus φαινομένῳ μύρῳ χρίεται, viſibili unguento liniatur, ſacro & vivifico Spiritu ſanctificetur, dum in fronte ungantur, à ſe pudorem abſtergant, quem primus homo tranſgreſſor perpetuò circumferebat, &c. dum aures ungantur, ad audienda divina myſteria idonei fiant, dum nares imbuantur, illud Apoſtoli occlament Chriſti gratus odor eſt Deo in his qui ſalvantur.

§. 6. Ipſum, quæſo, authorem æquus Lector conſulat, & ad diſpeſcendos hos ritus, ſatis ex ſe, ſatis ex inſtitutione, ſatis ex effectibus diſtinctos, omnia apertiſſimè deſignata dignoſcet.

§. 7. Sic &, cum aliud ageret, Κατηχ. ϛ'. τὸ μυστικὸν ἀντιτύπωμα χρίσμα memorat, & Solomonis dicta Eccleſ. 9. 7. ἔλαιον ἀπὸ κεφαλῆς σου μὴ ἐκλείπω] adumbratum affirmat (ut panem Euchariſticum verbis iſtis immediatè præcedentibus, φάγε ἐν εὐφροσύνῃ τὸν ἄρτον σου) qualiter & * cum de ipſo chriſmate ſermo inſtitueretur, ab Iſaia vate prædictum monuit, c. 25. Ἔσται ἐν ταῖς ἐσχάταις ἡμέραις ἐμφανὲς τὸ ὄρος Κυρίου. Erit in extremis diebus conſpicuus mons Domini, vinum bibent, & (inter alia) unguento ungentur. De quo, inquit, unguento tanquam myſtico dixit, Trade hæc omnia Gentibus, voluntas enim Domini ſuper omnes Gentes. Omnia certè ad hunc in Eccleſia ſtatuminandum ritum ſatis magnificè compoſita; Quo minus Baptiſmi Ceremoniam meram, aut fortuitam quaſi appendicem ſomniemus.

* P. 189.
† Can. 48.
* P. 191.
* Κατηχ. μυσταγ. γ. in fine.

CAP. V.

Author Eccleſiaſticæ Hierarchiæ breviter examinatur. Triplex apud eum unctio. Prima Catechumeni ante baptiſmum, ſecunda aquæ baptiſmalis, tertia poſt Baptiſmum in Confirmatione, cui Euchariſtia ſtatim accedit. Τελεσιουργικὸν χρίσμα non fuit in baptiſmo, licet alia fuerit.

§. 1. REſtat ut de Eccleſiaſticæ Hierarchiæ Authore, de quo fusè Dallæus, (omnia ad hypotheſim ſuam trahi poſſe confiſus) nos breviter diſpiciamus.

§. 2. Nec certè illud jam in dubium vocari optamus, quod * prius diſertè ſtabilivimus, an ſcil. Scriptor ille Baptiſmale oleum agnoverit. Fatemur lubenter ad eam rem clariſſimè pertinere, quæ poſt trinam catechumeni profeſſionem, & ſacerdotis benedictionem, & manus impoſitionem, immediatè ſequuntur, lavacro autem præcurrunt.

* Cap. 1. Sect. 2. §. 18.

§. 3. Nudato quippe Catechumeno, Sacerdotes Unctionis ſacrum oleum afferunt, Hierarcha ungere incipit, ter eum ſignans, dein eum toto corpore inungendum Sacerdotibus tradit; Nec id tantum, ſed & aquam baptiſmati dicatam unguento imbuit, τὸ ὕδωρ ὃ Ἱερεὺς ἐπικλήσεσι τελεταρχικαῖς καὶ τρισὶ τῷ μυρεψικῷ τούτῳ σταγόσι τελειώσας αὐτὸ, Aquam ſanctis invocationibus conſecrat, & trinâ ſacerrimi unguenti profuſione eam perficit, &, poſt alia quædam, baptizat.

De Eccl. Hier. c. 2. p. 117.

§. 4. Verùm peracto baptiſmate, alius adhuc chriſmatis ritus, à Baptiſmali omni ceremonia, ut videtur, æquè, ac ipſum Euchariſtiæ Sacramentum, diſtinctus: Ad illum in fine capitis ſic ſum matim procedit, Παραλαβόντες ὁ ἀυτὸν οἱ Ἱερεῖς ἱσχοειζουσι τὴ τῆς ἀναγωγῆς ἀναδέχῳ καὶ ἡγεμόνι, καὶ τοῦ ἀυτῷ ἀνακλίνητος ἐδόντα τὸ τελειωθέν κατάλληλον, ὅθεν τὸν ἱερέα χῶ ἄδης ἀπέρχονται. Ὅδε τὸ διευχαριστάτῳ μύρῳ τὸν ἄνδρα σφραγισάμενοι μίγνυσι ἀποφαίνει λοιπὸν τῆς ἱερατικοτάτης ἐυχαειτίας. Sacerdotes verò eum accipientes ſuſceptori tradunt, qui junctis manibus eum veſtimento * albo induunt. Quo peracto ad Hierarcham, aut Epiſcopum iterum deducunt. Ille verò unguento conſecrato virum ſignans ſacroſanctæ Euchariſtiæ participem eum eſſe pronuntiat.

* Καπάλληλον, τουτέστι λευκὸν, Maxim. Sch. l. p. 7.

§. 5. Quæ ſic ſatis dilucidè poſita ſunt, ut à baptiſmali officio prius peracto chriſma ſubſequens ſecernatur (ad cujus miniſterium ἄδης, inquit ſcriptor, denùo ad Epiſcopum, à quo deceſſerat, jam Albis indutus, deducebatur) mox in Θυσίαν adhuc clarius efferuntur. * Ἡ δὲ τῆ μύρου τελειωτικὴ χεῖρις ἐυωδῆ ποιεῖ τὸ τετελεσμένον. Ἡ δὲ ἱερᾶ τ' θεουργίας τελείωσις ἐτοῖ τὸ τελεσθέντα τῆ θεαρχικῆ πνεύματα, Perfectiva autem unguenti Unctio initiatum grato odore perfundit, aut ut ſuavem odorem emittat facit. Sacra enim Regenerationis conſummatio initiatos divino ſpiritui unit. Ἐν τέλει ὁ πάντων ὁ Ἱερεὺς ὅδε τῷ ἱερατικῷ ἐυχαειτίαν καλῆ τὸ τετελεσμένον, καὶ τῆς θῆ τελεσθέντων μυτηρίων ἀυτῷ μεταδίδωσι κοινωνίας. In fine verò omnium, Hierarcha ad ſacroſanctam Euchariſtiam initiatum vocat, & Myſteriorum communionis eum participem facit.

§. 6. Quæcunque ad caliginem aliquam tantæ luci offundendam excogitari poterant, perſpicaciſſimus Dalleus ſtatim vidit, & prolixè appoſuit; ſingula tamen, ni fallor, æquè adverſus Euchariſtiam ac Chriſmalem conſignationem dimicantia, quorum aut neutrum inter Baptiſmi ceremonias, ex hujus Authoris ſuffragio collocandum concluſeris, aut utrumque.

§. 7. Non ineptè igitur Maximus Scholiaſtes hanc huic ſecundo Capiti Coronidem, & anacephalæoſin ex Apoſtolicis, quæ dicuntur, conſtitutionibus petitam * aptavit, Ἐν τούτῳ τὸ μὲν βάπτισμα εἰς τὸν θάνατον τῆ κυρίου διδάσκων. Τοῦδε ὕδατος ἀυτὸ τῆς πηγῆς, τὸ ἔλαιον ἀυτὸ τῆ πνεύματος τοῦ ἁγίου, ἢ σφραγὶς ἀυτὸ τῆ σταυροῦ, τὸ μύρον βεβαίωσις τῆς ὁμολογίας. Eſt igitur baptiſmus in mortem Chriſti datus; aqua ſepulchri locum tenet, oleum (baptiſmale) Spiritum ſanctum (in baptiſmo datum) ſignificat, ſigillum crucem denotat. Unguentum aut chriſma Confirmatio eſt profeſſionis. Suum ſcilicet baptiſmo oleum ut & ſigillum erat, at Chriſma non baptiſmi (certè non baptiſmi ſolùm) ſed confirmationis (adultorum Baptiſmum inſecutæ) ritus erat, & ut talis ab utroque tùm Conſtitutionem cùm Hierarchiæ Eccl. authore agnoſcebatur.

§. 8. Si hæc cuiquam minus ſufficiant, addat ſi placet, quæ capite 4. περὶ μὲν ἐν τῷ μύρῳ τελουμένου, καὶ περὶ ἐν ἀυτῷ τελειουμένου prolixè adjecit author ille; nec dubitandi cauſam reperiet, quin poſterior illa (ἐν μύρῳ τελείωσις) de Confirmatorio Chriſmate; non in baptiſmo adhibito, ſed initiati aut baptizati perfectivo intelligenda ſit.

§. 9. Unum certe Scriptor ille * præmonendum duxit, τῷ θείῳ μύρου χρῆσθαι περὶ πάντος ἱερᾶ τελεσιουργίαν, Unguento ad omnia ſacra adminiſtranda uſos eſſe, unde & in baptiſmo ei locum eſſe nullus dubitat (at non in ſolo baptiſmo) τῆς ἱερᾶς, inquit, θεουργίας ἡ τελεσιουργὸς δωρεὰ καὶ χάρις ἐν τῆς τοῦ μύρου τελεσθέντα θεοπάτοις τελευτήσιν, ſacræ regenerationis donum & gratia (ἡ τοῦ βαπτίσματος καὶ χάρις, baptiſmi gratia, ut dilucidè Pachymeres) in diviniſſimis unguenti conſecrationibus peragitur, ὅθεν ὡς οἶμαι, καὶ τῷ καθαρτικῷ βαπτισηρίῳ τὸ μύρον ἐπιχέων Ἱερέως, &c. Unde, ut putat, eſt, quòd baptiſterio unguentum infundat Epiſcopus: Ut enim aqua baptiſmalis unguento affuſo ſanctificatur, ſic & ipſum baptizandum non aquâ ſolùm, ſed & chriſmate initiari, & conſecrari (Quem locum de baptiſmali chriſmate intelligendum eſſe, Dalleo lubenter concedimus, ut & iſtum c. 5. à * Dalleo allatum, ἡ τῷ ἱερᾶν θεουργίαν ὁ ἱερεὺς ἐνεργάνοι τῆ θεοπάτου μύρου χωρὶς, baptiſmum ſine unguento non peraget ſacerdos.)

§. 10. Quod verò mox ſequitur, in baptiſmi cenſu reponi nulla ratio paſſura eſt; * Ἀλλὰ μὲν, inquit, καὶ ἀυτῷ τελεσθέντα τῷ ἱεροτάτῳ καὶ θεουργικῷ τελετῷ, τῷ τῆ θεαρχικῆ πνεύματος θεοποίησιν ἢ τοῦ μύρου δωρεῖται τελειωτικὴ χεῖρις, ὑποτυπώσεως τῆς ἱερᾶς συμβόλων εἰκονογραφίας ὑπ' ἀυτῆ (χειρὶ) ------ ἀναλλοιότῳ ἐπιδίδωσι θειότητος ἕξει τὸ θειότατον πνεῦμα χορηγοῦσθαι. Sed & ei qui ſanctiſſima divinæ generationis initiatione initiatus eſt, (qui ſc. jamjam baptizatus eſt, τῷ βαπτισθέντι, inquit Pachymeres Paraphraſta) divini ſpiritus adventum chriſmatis unctio perfectiva largitur. Hæc ſymbolorum imagine diviniſſimum ſpiritum qui à Chriſto per immutabilem realis divinitatis habitum nobis ſuppeditatur, adumbrante.

§. 11. Nullum hic Baptiſmi veſtigium, nullus Lavacri defectus, aut ἔλλειμα, quod reſarciatur, aut ſanetur, & ſic demum, ut Eliberitanis canonibus cautum eſt, perficiatur; nec enim Baptiſmi perfectivum hìc chriſma dicetur (quod Dalleus voluit, * baptiſmum noſtrum unguenti illius conſecrationibus perfici hinc colligens) ſed Unctio chriſmalis, ſimpliciter, τελειωτικὴ χεῖρις, perfectivum, ſeu conſecratorium chriſma vocatur, quo ſcilicet fidelis, prius baptizatus, conſecratur, aut perficitur, vel, quod idem ſonat, confirmatur, Chriſto Spiritum ſuum unguento adumbratum, ex theſauro ſuo, ad invocationem Epiſcopi, liberè largiente.

§. 12. In re ſatis per ſe clarâ, pluribus opus non eſt, nec igitur à Pachymere Paraphraſtâ ſubſidium, quod in promptu eſt, effiagitamus. Ille certè de hoc Chriſmate ſermonem inſtituens, quatenus deſcriptio illius, Euchariſtiæ immediatè ſubjungitur, ἔστιν, * inquit, ὁμοταγὴς πάντως ἡ τῷ μύρου ἐπὶ τέλεσι, hic alter chriſmatis ritus Euchariſtiæ coordinatus eſt, &, ut * μυσήριον φανισματος, μυσήριον συνάξεως, ſic & μυσήριον τελετῆς μύρου, myſterium, aut Sacramentum chriſmalis ritus, ex ſæculi ſui more, appellat, (quo minus meram baptiſmi ceremoniam, & appendicem ſuſpicemur) & * ἡ τῷ μύρου χρῖσις ἀυτῷ τῷ βαπτισθέντι τῷ ἐπιφοίτησιν δωρεῖται τῷ πνεύματος, hæc, inquit, chriſmatis unctio ei qui baptizatus eſt adventum ſpiritus largitur, ἐπεὶ διὰ τῆς τῷ μύρου χρίσεως ἐπιφοιτᾷ τὸ πνεῦμα τὸ ἅγιον, quia per hanc chriſmatis unctionem Spiritus ſanctus advolat, &c. Quæ omnia ad confirmatorium chriſma pertinere quis non videt?

§. 13. Nec verò Orationis ſeries (ut Dalleus monet) aliud aut demonſtrat, aut ſuadet, imò cum ſibi, ut dictum eſt, Pſeudo-Dionyſius monſtrandum propoſuerit in omnibus ſacris adminiſtrandis chriſmatis uſum fuiſſe, neceſſariò concludendum eſt, ea ſingula quæ produxit exempla, ex Baptiſmali penu petita non eſſe, aut ſi fuiſſe credantur, ipſum θεῖον θυσιαστήριον, altare Dominicum, in Baptiſmali etiam cenſu reponendum erit, cujus * ἱερᾶν τελείωσιν conſecrationem, τῆς τῷ ἱεροτάτου μύρου παναγίαν ἐπιχύσιν τελεσιουργεῖσθαι, ſacerrimi chriſmatis effuſione peragi affirmat.

CAP.

CAP. IV.

Duo Palmaria Dallei Argumenta excutiuntur.

SECT. I.

Verba Cornelii de Novatiano, ex Eusebio & Nicephoro explicata. Dallei objectio examinatur.

§. 1. DUO adhuc palmaria sunt, quibus præcipuè hypothesin suam contra omnem ictum stabiliri putat Dallæus. Unum à Romanis petitum (cui præsertim innititur Spalatensis de Rep. Eccl. l. 5. c. 5,) alterum à Græcis; Unum ex Cornelii Papæ de Novatiano apud Eusebium verbis, alterum verò ex officio baptismatis Græcorum in Euchologio desumptum.

§. 2. Ex Cornelii verbis concludit obsignationem istam, quæcunque tandem illa fuerit (non tantum verum & propriè dictum Sacramentum non fuisse, quod libenter agnoscimus, sed &) Ceremoniam meræ baptismalem fuisse, ejusdem cum illis cæteris census, quæ non expressit Cornelius.]

§. 3. Ut cognoscatur an hoc ritè concluserit vir Doctissimus, locus integer confulendus est, quem incolumem nobis servavit Eusebius, Εκκλ. Ἱστ. βιϐ. ε. Νόσῳ, inquit, σφοδρᾷ χαλεπῇ, ᾗ ὑποδαντὶ ἔδωκε Κεφ. μγ.
ὅσον οὐδέπω νομιζόμενος, ἐν αὐλῇ τῇ κλίνῃ ᾗ ἔκειτο, περιχυθεὶς ἔλαβεν, εἴγε χρὴ λέγειν τὸν περὶ αὐτὸν εἰληφέναι. Οὐμὲν οὐδὲ τῶν λοιπῶν ἔτυχε, διαφυγὼν τὸν νόσον, ὧν χρὴ μεταλαμϐάνειν καὶ τὸν τῆς ἐκκλησίας κανόνα, τοῦτο σφραγισθῆναι ὑπὸ τοῦ ἐπισκόπου. τούτου δὲ μὴ τυχὼν, πῶς ἂν τῶν Ἀγίων πνεύματος ἔτυχε; In morbum quidem Novatianus periculosum incidens, vitaque spe nullâ relictâ, in Lecto quo decubuit, aspersus vel circumfusus, baptismum accepit, si sanè in confiniis mortis positus accepisse putandus sit. At nec postquam morbo liberaretur, reliquorum particeps factus est, quæ secundum Canones Ecclesiæ, obtinere debuerat, nec ab Episcopo obsignatus est, Quo non impetrato, quomodo Spiritum Sanctum obtinuisse putandus est?

§. 4. Hic, siquid video, duo sunt sigillatim posita, ex quibus Novatianum Spiritus Sancti participem non fuisse Cornelius confirmat: Primum, quòd, cùm ἐν κλίνῃ baptizatus esset sub extremo mortis discrimine, morbo tamen devicto, illa non expeteret, quæ expeti & participari à talibus (in Lectio scil. tinctis) Canon Ecclesiæ jubet. Hoc à * Nicephoro aliquantò clariùs explicatur, Ὃς οὐδὲ τῶν λοι- * L. 6. c. 3.
πῶν τῆς ἐκκλησίας συμϐόλων ἠξιώθη, ὧν χρεὼν τοὺς τοιούτους μεταλαμϐάνειν, καὶ τὸν τῆς ἐκκλησίας δεσμόν. Sed enim ille postea reliquis Ecclesiæ Symbolis, quibus ad eum modum tincti, juxta Ecclesiæ sanctiones uti debent, minime dignus est habitus, aut assecutus est. Quænam verò illa fuerint (à Clinicis expetenda) nos hic supra commemoravimus, cum de baptismi perfectivo, ex Synodo Eliberitanâ, verba fecerimus, eaque ad Confirmationem nihil quicquam pertinuisse contendimus.

§. 5. At præter hoc primum ὑστέρημα, restat etiam secundum, quod nempe cum ei benedictio baptismi Clinici perfectiva planè deesset, Gratiæ illius defectum à Consignatione Episcopali, quâ Spiritus sanctus in Confirmatione Neophytis, i. e. fidelibus priùs baptizatis communicari in Ecclesiâ solebat, resarciendum sibi non curasset. Hæc certè duo confundenda non erant, satis in se distincta, satis perspicuè à Cornelio dispuncta, ἃ μὲν, inquit, οὐδὲ τῶν λοιπῶν ἔτυχε, &c. τοῦτο σφραγισθῆναι, &c.

§. 6. Hic si facili & proclivi mendâ, librariis familiari legamus, ὅτι σφραγισθῆναι, &c. (sic certe legendum esse Nicephorus monstrat, ἀλλ' οὐδὲ ὑπὸ ὁποσόπων πω νόσου διαφυγὼν, ἐσφραγίσθη ἐς ὕστερον, neque, inquit, cùm convaluisset signaculum ab Episcopo deinde recepit) Omnia luce ipsâ clariora erunt; Quâ non admissâ, verba cordato & diligenti Lectori nimis aspera videbuntur, nec enim bellè cohærent, οὐδὲ τῶν λοιπῶν, τοῦτε, &c.

§. 7. At nec istis auxiliis indigemus, si enim vulgaris Eusebii lectio retineatur, eodem planè res recidit. Illud enim necessarium est, ut οὐδὲ in prioribus vim suam in [τὸ σφραγισθῆναι] exerat, ut scil. nec reliqua ὧν χρὴ μεταλαμϐάνειν assecutus sit, nec τὸ σφραγισθῆναι, i. e. nec baptismi perfectiva (quæ Eccles. Hierarchiæ Author τελεσιεργικὰ dixit) nec consignationem Episcopalem: Unde est quod in singulari addatur, τοῦτο δὲ μὴ τυχὼν, hoc verò cum non sit adeptus, &c. τοῦτο certe ad τὰ λοιπὰ quæ præcesserant sine fœdo solœcismo referri nequit, sed tantum ad τὸ σφραγισθῆναι, consignationem ab Episcopo receptam, à cujus manuum impositione & benedictione paternâ Spiritum sanctum expectatum fuisse nemini, spero, novum putabitur. Aliud igitur omnino τὰ λοιπὰ reliqua] aliud σφραγισθῆναι consignatio] nec igitur eadem, siqua Cornelio fides debetur.

§. 8. Unicum est quod huic tam illustri Testimonio objici video, ex iis quæ paulo post Cornelius de eodem Novatiano subtexuit, Fabianum scil. Episcopum Romanum, cum illum ad Presbyteratus ordinem provecturus esset, ab Universo Clero, multisque Laicis prohibitum fuisse; ἐπεὶ μὴ ἔδει τὸν * ἐν κλί- * P. 139.
νῃ διὰ νόσον περιχυθέντα, ὥσπερ καὶ ἕτερ, εἰς κλῆρόν τινα ἀγαϐῆναι, quoniam in Lectio aspersum, aut baptizatum, qualis hic, in clerum provehi non licuit, nec tamen Fabianum, quod omissum erat, contulisse, sed ἀξιῶσαι postulasse sibi huic soli manus in sortem Presbyterii imponendi potestatem concedi. Hinc sic arguit Dallæus, * Si illa quâ carebat Unctio non baptismalis baptismoque cohærens ceremonia, sed proprium seorsim Sacramentum erat, qualis Latinorum est hodie Confirmatio, cur Fabianus hominem, cùm eum vellet in Presbyterum consecrare, eo, quo carebat, Sacramento non donavit? Quid prohibebat, quod antea omissum erat, id nunc conferre? &c.

§. 9. Respondeo 1. duo hîc à Dallæo contra Latinos assumi, quæ nos Angli, qui interim Confirmationem Episcopalem tutamur, planè negamus. Nec enim unctionem necessariam Confirmationis ceremoniam, nec Confirmationem Sacramentum esse putamus. 2. Si Novatiano sola, quam dicimus, Confirmatio defuisset, non infeliciter certè procederet Dallæi argumentum. At cum duo, aut potius tria à Cornelio hic Novatiano objiciantur, 1. Quod ἐν κλίνῃ in Lectio aspersus vel baptizatus fuerit, 2. Quod morbo liberatus, cætera, quæ secundùm Ecclesiæ Canonem μεταλαμϐάνειν χρὴ participasse oportuit, non fuerit consecutus, 3. Quod ab Episcopo obsignatus non fuerit (quæ singula satis à se invicem dimpahtur) palam est unum tantummodo (primum illud) de baptizato Clinico, non posteriora, de omissa aut Chrismatione, aut Consignatione ab Universo Clero & plebe objectum fuisse, & ordinationi ejus obstitisse. Illud quippe Canone postmodum Neocæsareensi expresè vetitum [ἐὰν νοσῶν τις φωτισθῇ, εἰς πρεσϐυτέριον ἄγεσθαι ὁ βαπτισθείς, Siquis in morbo baptizetur, ad Clerum promovendus non est] priùs, ex more saltem Ecclesiæ, illicitum fuisse, hinc si non aliunde satis constat.

§. 10. Consulantur ipsa Cornelii Papæ exetta verba, sicut sunt modò à nobis, nec non ab ipso Dallæo allata, διακωλύεσθαι ὑπὸ παντὸς τοῦ κλήρου, ab omni clero prohibebatur——ἐπεὶ μὴ ἀξὸν ἦν τὸν ἐν κλίνῃ διὰ νόσον ἀσπερχῶς, ἄσπερ καὶ ἔτος, εἰς κλῆρον τινα γενέσθαι, quoniam in lecto ob morbum aspersum, vel baptizatum (qualis hic) ad Clerum promoveri non licet. Nulla hic aut χρίσματος, aut σφραγίδος, unguenti, aut sigilli omissi criminatio, sed tantùm baptismi ἐν κλίνῃ in lecto accepti mentio.

§. 11. Nec jam quod semel factum est, infectum esse potuit, nec ulla quidem Fabiani diligentia præstitura erat, ut ἐν κλίνῃ lotus, Clinicus non audiret. Ideoque cùm illa sive lex sive recepta in Ecclesiâ consuetudo, de non promovendis ad sacros ordines Clinicis, non ita arctè constringeret, quin ei ex causis gravioribus laxatio aliqua fieri posset (subesse enim interdum hujusmodi causas, & tempora, testatur * Canon Neocæsariensis [διὰ τὴν μὴ πάντα ἀπαδῶν καὶ πίστιν, καὶ διὰ σπάνιν ἀνδρῶν, propter diligentiam actionibus subsequentibus approbatam, propter fidem eximiam, & infrequentiam & caritatem hominum] ἐκ ἱερατεύειν, scil. ἐπιτηδείων, eorum qui ad Sacerdotium idonei sunt, ut rectè Zonoras) de Fabiano dicitur, quod ἀξιώσει συγχωρηθῆναι αὐτῷ τὸν μόνον χειροτονῆσαι, veniam postulavit, & impetravit, ut huic soli manus imponere permitteretur, nullum posthac Clinicum ad Presbyteratum evecturus. Omnia dilucida, nec jam in hoc celebri facto quicquam restat, quod hic consignationem Episcopalem cum baptismo confundat, aut hypothesi Dallæana ullatenus faviisse videatur.

* Ibid.

SECT. II.

Testimonium ex Euchologio prolatum ad examen vocatur. Officia Baptismi, & Chrismatis divisa. Ordo Romanus à Græco parum differt. Baptismo non semper Chrisma adjungebatur.

§. 1. REstat, ut quid commodi aut subsidii ex Euchologio Græcorum lucrari possit Dallæus, paucis disputiamus. Cùm hùc devenerit vir Doctissimus, sine morâ concludit, * hunc communem esse totius Græcorum Ecclesiæ sensum, publico Gentis Euchologio seu rituali, & ex eo Universali apud eos praxi clamente (id certè Collega ipsius D. * Blondellus jamdudum edixerat, Accedit, inquit, Græcorum antiquiorum solennis, recentiorum omnium praxi confirmata testificatio) nec enim apud eos, ut apud recentiores Latinos, duo diversa esse baptismi & Chrismatis officia, sed unum idemque, quod non diversis capitibus sed uno eodemque totum continetur, cujus titulus est Ἀκολουθία τοῦ ἁγίου βαπτίσματος, consequentia seu potius ordo, vel, ut recens interpres maluit, officium baptismatis.]

* P. 214.

* Apol. Hier. p. 147.

§. 2. At si Euchologium Goari, quo Dallæum uti palam est, introspiciamus, Illud 1. occurrit, Titulum hunc Ἀκολουθία, &c. ut & Rubricam sequentem deesse in M. S. Cryptoser. Falasiæ (ut Jo. Goar monuit) qui sic incipit, Καὶ μὴ τοῦτο. Et post hoc, &c. 2. Quod ad Chrismationem attinet, modus ejus in eodem M. S. aliquantò fusiùs & exactius, quàm in altero, quo Dallæus utitur, proponitur, utru que conferat Lector, & quod rem ex extra omnem aleam collocet, inveniet.

§. 3. Μετὰ τὸ βαπτίζεσθαι, Post baptismum peractum (& prius unctii totius corporis, dein Loti in nomine Patris, &c. mentionem) Patriarcha νίπτεται καὶ ἐκδύλλει τὸ λέντιον καὶ τὰ μανίκια, lavatur, & (quæ prius induerat ad baptismali solennitatem) linteum & manicas deponit: Officii planè finiti indicia non obscura: Et Archi-Diacono dicente Attendamus, incipiunt Psalta, Μακάριοι, Beati sunt quorum remissæ sunt iniquitates, &c. ex Ps. 32. iis qui in Baptismo jam remissionem peccatorum adepti sunt, accommodatissimo: dein dicitur, Εὐλογητὸς Benedictus, &c. Oratio Eucharistica, beneficia Dei erga νεοφώτιστον, jam per aquam & Spiritum regeneratum, Commemorans, simulque postulans à benigno omnium Rege, ut καὶ τὴν σφραγῖδα τὴν δωρεᾶς τοῦ ἁγίου καὶ παντοδυνάμου καὶ φοβερωνύμου πνεύματος, καὶ μετάληψιν, τοῦ ἁγίου σώματος, καὶ τοῦ τιμίου αἵματος τοῦ Χριστοῦ, Sigillum doni Omnipotentis & adorandi Spiritus, & participationem sancti corporis & sanguinis Christi ei largiatur; Ecce consignationem, & Eucharistiam, quarum usum ut Deus recens baptizato indulgeat, qui formulâ illâ utuntur, comprecantur.

§. 4. Quibus sic dispositis & baptismi officio planè finito, sequitur, Καὶ μὴ πάλιν εὐχὴν ποιήσας, ἀποδύεται τὴν στολὴν ἣν τῷ βαπτίσματι, καὶ βάλλει τὰ τῆς λειτουργίας, καὶ ὑπάγει εἰς τὸν ἄμον πίσσον: deponit Patriarcha Baptismatis stolam, & assumit eam quæ missis inservit, & ut stolam sic locum mutat, & Cantore dicente Quotquot in Christum baptizati estis, &c. Χρίει τῷ μύρῳ τοὺς βαπτιζομένους, ποιῶν σταυρὸν πρῶτον ἐπὶ τοῦ μετώπου, εἶτα ὀφθαλμοὺς, τὴν μυκτῆρας, τὸ στόμα, καὶ τὰ δύο ὦτα, λέγων Σφραγὶς δωρεᾶς πνεύματος ἁγίου. Ungit Chrismate baptizatos, signum crucis in fronte, oculis, naribus, ore, & utrisque auribus facit, dicens, sigillum doni Spiritus sancti.

§. 5. Hæc quidem omnia dilucida, nec quicquam quod Consignationem Baptismi ritum fuisse magis suadeat, quàm consignationis Eucharistiam; de ea enim, sine novi officii titulo, nullo intervallo interposito, immediatè sequitur, Μετὰ τοῦτο συμψάλλων εἰσέρχεται μὲ τὰ νεοφώτιστα εἰς εἴσοδον, post hoc simul psallens in introitum ingreditur cum recens baptizatis, καὶ τελεῖ ἀκολούθως τὴν θείαν λειτουργίαν, & divinam missam consequenter celebrat.

§. 6. Adeò illud jam res ipsa loquitur, quod prius monui, Baptismum, Consignationem, Cœnam Domini, licet adultis simul communicentur, tria tamen esse, nec sine prodigio, ne dicam sacrilegio, confundi posse.

§. 7. Idem ex sequentibus liquet, ubi paucis narratur, quid in reliquis festis fiat (priora enim ad Sanctum Sabbatum pertinebant) In parvo, inquit, baptisterio fiunt φωτίσματα, baptismi, sed ἐν ἀποδύτῳ in vestiario σφραγίζει ὁ Πατριάρχης τοὺς νεοφωτίστους τῷ θείῳ μύρῳ, Patriarcha recens baptizatos divino unguento signat, &c. Pluribus in re manifestâ opus non est.

§. 8. A quibus (ut id obiter dicam) parum abest, quod in * Ordine Romano, ubi de baptismo agitur, legitur. Peracto enim baptismo, Pontifex egreditur à fonte in sacrarium, habens ibi compositam sedem, vel in Ecclesia, ubi voluerit, & sedet in eâ, ut, cùm vestiti fuerint Infantes, confirmet eos (Quibus concinit Alcuinus l. de div. Offic. c. 19. Postquam, inquit, vestiti fuerint, deportantur ante Pontificem ad confirmandum. Ad hæc Ordinis Romani verba Georgius Cassander, in Liturgicis exercitatissimus, sic pronuntiat, * Confirmatio Chrismatis qua per Episcopum fit, quamvis auctarium quoddam sacri baptismatis sit habita, non tamen statim, neque immediatè, sed aliquot Ceremoniis interjectis adhibebatur; imò Honorius (inquit) Augustodunensis octavo demum die baptizatos mitras deposuisse, & ab Episcopo in fronte chrismate consignari consuevisse auctor est. Id quod Gulielmus quoque Mimatensis Episcopus testatur. Neque enim semper baptismo hæc Confirmatio chrismatis adjungebatur, ut cùm Episcopi consequendi facultas non erat, præsertim cum extra ordinem infantes in pagis & villis baptizabantur.

* Cap. de die Sabb. S. Pasch.

* Schol. ad Hymn. Eccles. p. 218.

CAP.

CAP. V.

Consignatio in receptione eorum qui ab Hæreticis baptizati sunt.

SECT. I.

Constantinopolitanus Canon 7. Chrismatis, ubi nullus baptismo locus. Redeuntium ab hæresi receptio eadem cum Confirmatione.

§. 1. EST & Chrismatio seu Consignatio adhuc alia, quæ in Hæreticorum, aut ab hæreticis baptizatorum ad Orthodoxiam & Ecclesiam redeuntium receptione adhibebatur.

§. 2. Eam post Laodicenæ Synodi septimum Canonem; Secundi (i. e. Constantinopolitani) Concilii Generalis Canon 7. fusè describit. Τὰς αἱρετιζούσας τῇ ὀρθοδοξίᾳ, καὶ τῇ μελλούσῃ ἁγίᾳ συνοικεῖν ἐκ αἱρετικῆς δεχομένας καὶ πάντα τὰ ἀνοσιούργητα βδελύσσεσθαι, καὶ ὅταν χειμαζόμενον τὸ ἀγέλαιον μύρῳ τότε μίνωνται, καὶ τὰς ὀφθαλμὰς, καὶ τὰς ῥῖνας, καὶ τὸ στόμα, καὶ τὰ ὦτα, καὶ σφραγίζοντες αὐτὰς λέγομεν, Σφραγὶς δωρεᾶς πνεύματος ἁγίου. Eos qui rectæ fidei, & eorum qui servantur (i. e. resipiscentium) portioni ab hæreticis adjiciuntur, recipimus secundum Constitutum Officium, sigillatos, primò scil. unctos sacro unguento Chrismatis, & fronte, & oculis, & naribus, & ore, & auribus, & signantes eos dicimus, sigillum Doni Spiritus sancti. Quod ad verbum exscripsit & stabilivit Synodus sexta quæ in Trullo congregabatur, nec est quod plura adjiciam in re notissimâ.

§. 3. Hoc planè solenni ritu, eos, qui rebaptizandi non erant, in sacrosanctæ Matris amplexus excipi catholica decrevit Ecclesia. Quod ipsum argumento est, ritum hunc, ut sacerrimum & antiquissimum, sic & à baptismo luculentè distinctum fuisse, ex decreto & solenni Ecclesiæ more celebrari jussum, cùm baptismo nullus locus esset, nimioque partium studio (quod rectè monuit * Dallæus) occæcatum Aurelium: qui ne Sacramentum in Ecclesiâ reiterari crederetur, hanc ab hæresi revertentium Chrismationem à Confirmatione distingui voluit, cùm (si verba Canonis Concilii secundi cum celebrandæ Confirmationis ratione in Euchologio conferantur) formæ, voces, universæ ritus particulæ, eædem planè, sine ullâ quantulacunque differentiâ, fuisse reperiantur. * Vid. Dall. p. 175.

SECT. II.

Argumentum Dallæi ex Responsionibus ad Orthodoxos petitum. Responsio. χειροθεσία pro Pœnitentiæ receptione. Ab hæresi redeuntes Clerici non reordinandi. Reconciliatio. Argumentum aut nihil aut nimium concludens. Antiquorum praxis ex Argumentis levibus non est concludenda. Χειροθεσία ὑπὲρ μετανοίας apud Basilium.

§. 1. AT nec hîc Doctissimo Dallæo argumentum defuit, quo hypothesin suam tueatur, statim, & si eum audiamus, * clarissimè probaturo, Veterum unctionem ad baptismum pertinuisse; (quod addit [non aliud Sacramentum] nos, ut dixi, non premit, qui id Dallæo libenter concedimus.) * P. 177.

§. 2. Unde verò hæc fiducia? Certè ex unico * Authoris Responsionum ad Orthodoxos, qui sub Justini nomine fallit, commate, ad qu. 14. τῶ αἱρετικῶ (inquit ille, quisquis sub primævi Martyris larva nobis imponit) ὅτι τὸ Ὀρθοδοξίαν ἐρχομένου τὸ σφάλμα διορθοῦται, τὸ μὲν κακοδοξίας τῇ μεταθέσει τῶ φρονήματος, τοῦτο βαπτίσματος τῇ ὁσιουργίᾳ τοῦ ἁγίου μύρου, τὸ δὲ χειροτονίας, τῇ χειροθεσία, οὐδὲν τῶ πάλαι μᾶλλον ἄλυτον. Cùm hæreticus ad veram fidem accedit, corrigitur lapsus falsæ opinionis, sententiæ mutatione, baptismi sancti Chrismatis Unctione, Ordinationis, Impositione manuum, nihilque quod prius erat, indissolutum manet. Hinc sic arguit vir Doctissimus, Vitia hæreticorum oppositis, sed in eodem genere rebus emendabantur; Error verâ sententiâ, prava Ordinatio, rectâ sanctioris manus impositione. Ut ergo vera sententia in eodem rerum genere est, quo Error, Ecclesiastica manus impositio ad idem genus pertinet, ad quod hæretica Ordinatio, ita & Unctionem in baptismalium rerum censu fuisse necesse est; quæ absurdè alioqui & ineptè ad baptismi correctionem usurparetur.] * P. 399. Dall.

§. 3. At 1. neutiquam constat χειροτονίαν hoc loco cum χειροθεσία ejusdem generis fuisse; Certè si hoc admittatur, constabit hic Ordinationis iteratæ exemplum, id, quod alibi forsan non occurret, nisi cum Presbyter καταδεὶς τῶ ὁμοτόπῳ, Episcopalem potestatem sibi deridiculo asciscens (ut de Colutho diximus ex Athanasio) Presbyteros ordinare præsumserit, cujus πᾶσαν χεῖρα γενέσθαι ἄχειρα, Omnem Ordinationem invalidam fieri, decretum est.

§. 4. Hic verò, cum, qui ab Episcopo, licet hæretico, ordinatus fuerat, εἰ χειροτονίας σφάλμα, Ordinationis vitium χειροθεσία impositione manuum, corrigendum sit, non est quod dubitemus τῇ χειροθεσία Pœnitentiam, solennem istam Naufragantium tabulam intelligendam esse. Consulat antiquos Canones, & me verum monuisse non ambiget. Clericos quippe ab hæresi revertentes non reordinatos, sed per pœnitentiam receptos fuisse.

§. 5. Non pigebit huc Sylvestri prius laudatum decretum (de quo * Dallæus fusè gloriatur) ex Epilogo Concilii Romani adduxisse. Constituit, inquit, Sylvester, ut Presbyterum Arianum resipiscentem nemo susciperet, nisi Episcopus ejusdem loci eum reconciliaret] Reconciliatio plane nec ad baptismum, nec ad Confirmationem, multò minus ad Ordinationem, sed ad Pœnitentiam pertinet. Quod autem sequitur de sacrosancto Chrismate, & Episcopali manuum impositione, licet ea etiam ad pœnitentiam accommodari possent cujus potissimus ritus est manuum impositio, ut & Unctio, (ut mox ex Hieronymo monstrabitur) cùm tamen confirmandi expressa mentio addatur [Sancti Spiritus gratiâ, quæ ab hæreticis dari non potest, confirmaret] de eâ intelligenda esse non dubitarim, nec enim quicquam prohibet utrique hic locum fuisse, Presbyterosq; ex hæresi reversos per Pœnitentiæ æquè, ac per Confirmationis ritum receptos fuisse. * P. 139.

§. 6. His

§. 6. His positis, omnis statim Argumenti hujus vis in fumos abiit, nec enim hæreticam Ordinationem, & Catholicam Pœnitentiam ad idem genus pertinuisse crederis.

§. 7. At 2. non videt vir eximius se argumento uti, quòd aut nimium, aut nihil concluſurum est.

§. 8. Certè si, cùm vitia hæreticorum oppositis ex eodem genere curari dicantur, ea identitas strictè sumatur, sequetur statim, ut falsum dogma vero dogmate, sic hæreticam Ordinationem, Ecclesiasticâ Ordinatione, baptismum denique ab hæreticis datum, baptismo à Catholicis dato sanandum fuisse: Ex quibus si sic arguere liceret, rebaptizationis necessitatem liquidò concludi videt vir Doctissimus. Quod certè nimium esse, & Catholico dogmati toto genere contrarium, sat scio, mecum agnoscet.

§. 9. Quòd si baptismus baptismo corrigendus non est, quæ tandem necessitatis species ex Pseudo-Justini verbis extundi poterit, ut non aliâ, quàm baptismi ceremoniâ, baptismi σφάλμα, error, lapsus, vitium corrigatur? An hic est ille viperæ morsus, qui solo Theriaco sanari potuit? Certè cum peccata contra baptismale votum commissa solo Pœnitentiæ pharmaco, nec eo ex baptismalium rerum censu petito, curari notissimus Ecclesiæ mos sit, nulla necessitas cogit, ut hæreticorum baptismo, quod certè non magis immediatè baptismalem fidem attingit, examini baptismi pharetrâ transfigendum sit.

§. 10. At consulatur iterum Responsionum Author, & ex quæstione, cui Responsio accommodata est, res omnis facile perspicietur: Si (inquit Ἐρώτησις) baptismus hæreticis datum, sive ἐλλιπὲς, ἢ ἐλλιπὲς, ficium & inane, cur Orthodoxi ad Orthodoxiam confugientem hæreticum non baptizant, ἀλλ' οὐ τὸ ἀληθὲς, τῷ ὕδατι τοῦτο βαπτίζεται, sed perinde eum in spurio illo baptismate, ac si verum esset, relinquunt? Huic certè quæstioni Responsio justa, & omnibus absoluta numeris hæc est [σφάλμα διορθοῦται] corrigi scil. lapsum, aut (si Dallæo magis placeat) reparari aut suppleri ὑφῆναι, non aut ἐλλιπὲς spurii, aut ficti, aut vani (ut ἐλλιπὲς suspicabatur) sed veri & legitimi, licet ab hæreticis collati, baptismatis, medicinâ scil. eâ quâ neophytos in Ecclesiâ Christi, i. e. infirmos sustentari notissimum est; ut qui ex Gratiâ Christi, errorem, quem imbiberant, deposuerint, in Orthodoxiâ demum stabiliantur, & ad id largioribus, quibus indigent, Gratiæ divinæ, Septemplicis (aiunt Patres) Spiritus haustibus proluantur, & sic donum felicius in Christo & Spiritu S. adolescant.

§. 11. Vides, quàm nihil ad Eroteſin pertineat, an è baptismatis censu, an ex alio quovis Ecclesiæ thesauro petatur remedium; id solum Authori curæ fuisse, ut quod σφάλμα vitium fuerat, διόρθωσιν emendationem sortitum esse, extra dubium poneretur.

§. 12. Certè si argumentis, ex hujusmodi sedibus, aut fontibus petitis, quicquam concludi, aut colligi posset, non minus credibile foret, impositionem manuum, quâ æquè ac chrismate, apud Latinos, Hæretici ad Ecclesiam redeuntes recipiebantur ad Pœnitentiæ ritum pertinuisse. Cui suspicioni, præter prædicta, favent * Vigilii Papæ verba de iis qui in Arianismum lapsi ad Ecclesiam redibant, Non, inquit, horum reconciliatio per illam impositionem manus quæ per invocationem Spiritus sit, operatur; sed per illam quâ Pœnitentiæ fructus acquiritur, & sancta communionis restitutio perficitur. Ut & Stephani dictum, quod Cypriani * Epistola nobis custodivit, quo ex hæreticorum exemplo praxim Ecclesiæ confirmat, Ipsi, inquit, hæretici ad se venientes non baptizant, sed communicant tantum, i. e. per pœnitentiam ad communionem cœtus sui recipiunt. At statuit Dallæus, cum Vigilii locum lustraret, hæc ex verbis hisce rectè concludi non potuisse, nec enim Arianis simpliciter ad Ecclesiam rediuntibus locutum esse Vigilium, sed de his qui baptismatis gratiâ salutari acceptâ, apud Arianos iterum baptizati, profunda voraginis morte sunt demersi.] Nec ego quidem renitor, imò lubens largior, conjecturis ita levibus locum non esse, in iis quæ antiquis notissima erant. At nec apud illos certè quævis necessitas agnoscitur, ut hæreticus baptismus, cognato antidoto, & ex baptismi τυπικοῖς petito corrigatur. Qui talibus argumentis fretus, de antiquorum praxi, aut ritibus pronuntiat, sciat se non facem præferre, sed tenebras offundere, & quæ explicanda & interpretanda suscepit, conjecturis & divinationibus involvere. Recolat vir Doctissimus alia omnia antiquorum scita, quorum ad hanc rem, supellectilem non mediocrem hic congessit; & tibicinem non reperiet, quo hanc novitiam hypothesin suam suffulciat, aut cuiquam persuadeat, hæreticorum in Trinitate baptizantium Lavacrum, non alio quàm ex baptismi censu desumpto remedio sanari posse.

* Concil. t. 4. p. 160.

* Ep. 74. p. 111.

* P. 179.

§. 13. Ex Augustino laudavit, p. 172. Solenne fuisse manum hæreticis correctis imponi. Ex Syricio, ut ille ex Synodo, Arianos per invocationem solam septiformis spiritus, Episcopalis manus impositione, Catholicorum conventui sociari. Ex Gennadio, purgatos jam fidei integritate, Confirmari manus impositione, & iterum manus impositione & chrismate communitos Eucharistiæ mysteriis admittendos esse. Ex Gregorio, Arianos, per impositionem manus occidens; per Unctionem sancti chrismatis ad ingressum sanctæ Ecclesiæ Catholicæ Oriens reformat.

§. 14. Mitto alia multa quæ vir Doctissimus adduxit, infinita quæ producere potuit, in quibus nullum certè baptismalis cujusvis ceremoniæ vestigium, sed solius Episcopalis Confirmationis; Communionis, Chrismationis, Impositionis manuum expressa mentio.

§. 15. Unum hic interrogem, an in Canonicâ Basilii ad Amphilochium Epistolâ, χρίεσθαι τοὺς (vel ut Dallæus legit, ὅτι, cur non potius τοὺς) πιστῶν ἀκολούθως] non sit, pro fidelibus inungi, vel ad modum fidelium, i. e. baptizatorum? Si sic, Ungi fideles πεφωτισμένους, Illuminatos, perfectè initiatos vides, nec tinctos tantùm, aut eos qui illuminantur, φωτιζομένους in præsenti, ipso baptizandi tempore, ut Dallæus modò suspicabatur; In fidelibus] interpretatus est Gentianus Hervetus, i. e. inter fideles, quod eodem redit.

§. 16. Certè si cum Dallæo reddatur [à fidelibus] non Episcopos aut Presbyteros, imo nec Diaconos, sed πιστοὺς, ad nullum in Ecclesia ἀξίωμα promotos, Chrismatis ministros adoptabimus, sed id obiter.

CAP.

CAP. VI.

Teſtimonia Antiquorum de Confirmatione.

SECT. I.

Locus Irenæi de Valentinianis. Fragmentum Theodoti, Locus Theophili Antiochem, Tertulliani, De differendâ Confirmatione Conſilium Caſſandri. Jus Canonicum, Catechiſmus Romanus. Tertulliani alia duo loca.

§. 1. HIS igitur ſic ſtabilitis, non pigebit Cornelii de Novatiano lucidiſſimis verbis, modò allatis & ab offuciis omnibus liberatis, alia nonnulla profundæ antiquitatis Teſtimonia adjeciſſe, ſeu potius à nebulis, aut caligine, quibus nativa ipſorum vis offundi, & obſcurari poſſe putatur, vindicaſſe, ut extra omne dubium ponatur, Confirmationem, ſeu Epiſcopalem, per manus impoſitionem, Benedictionem, licet inter Sacramenta à Chriſto inſtituta, aut ἐν τῇ θείᾳ γραφῇ ἐμφερόμενα, ut * Hieremias Patriarcha Conſtant. nobiſcum agnovit, non numeretur; eſſe tamen, ſi non ἐκ μαθήσεως τοῦ λόγου, ut ille exiſtimat, ἀλλ' ἀκροάσει, ex Chriſti diſcipulis receptum, ſaltem à celebri ipſorum praxi, Act. 8. deductum ritum in Eccleſiâ Chriſti, omni ferè ævo, Græcis, Latiniſque notiſſimum. * Reſpon. ad Germ. c. 7.

§. 2. Eâ certè hic teſtimoniorum penuria non laboramus, ut Hæreticorum nominibus locupletari Album noſtrum neceſſe ſit; Non pigebit tamen Valentini Arebibæretici, primo naſcentis Eccleſiæ mane, cœtus ſuos ſegreges congregantis, & quæ à Catholicis didiciſſet, ad characterem ſuum transformantis, & intervertentis meminiſſe.

§. 3. Apud eum certè, & ſectatores ejus, ut ex * Irenæo perſpicimus, ſicut baptiſmi, ita & ἀπολυτρώσεως mentio, † baptiſmi quidem ad pœnitentiam, ἀπολυτρώσεως εἰς τελείωσιν ad perfectionem. ὁ δὲ τετελεσμένος, qui verò, inquit, ſic initiatus aut perfectus eſt, reſpondet, inter alia, ἐσφράγισμαι, λελύτρωμαι, &c. Confirmatus & redemptus ſum. Statimque additur, ‡ ἔχετα μυείζουσι τὸ τετελεσμένον τῷ ὀπῷ τῷ ἀπὸ Βαλσάμου, tum eum qui initiatus aut perfectus eſt Opobalſamo inungunt, τὸ γὰρ μύρον τοῦτο τύπον τῆς ὑπὲρ πάντα ὄλα ὐσίας ἔχει λέγουσι, hoc enim unguentum fragrantiæ illius quæ omnia exſuperat, typum eſſe affirmant. Ἔνιοι δὲ αὐτῶν—— μίξαντες ἔλαιον καὶ ὕδωρ ἐπὶ τὸ αὐτὸ ἐπιβάλλουσι τῇ κεφαλῇ ἔτι τελουμένῳ—— μυείζουσι δὲ καὶ αὐτοὶ τῷ βαλσάμῳ. Quidam eorum oleum & aquam unà permixta in initiatorum caput injiciunt, Hi autem ipſi etiam balſamo inungunt. * Lib. I. c. 21. † P. 106. C. ‡ P. 108. B. * Ibid.

§. 4. Vides hic Confirmationis nomen, unguenti uſum, nec olei tantum aquæ mixti, quod ad baptiſmum reſpexiſſe putes, ſed &, quo inungebantur, opobalſami.

§. 5. His certè alia quam multa confundi fateor, nec enim apud hæreticos quicquam ὑγιὲς, ſincerum aut incorruptum expectabis, quorum illud ſemper ingenium fuit, ut quæ ab Apoſtolis aut Apoſtolicis viris tradita perceperint, multis indies ex penu ſuo petitis cumulent & offundant.

§. 6. Sic certè quæ de Unctione in extremis iidem philoſophantur (ἔλαιον ὕδατι μίξαντες ἐπιβάλλουσι ἔτι τῇ κεφαλῇ ὀχεμένῳ, Oleum, * inquit, aquæ immixtum, ut & alii opobalſamum, in caput morituri injiciunt) pálam eſt à Jacobo petita eſſe, ad ſuum interim characterem ſtatim efformata, cum illud factum addunt, non ut, cum Jacobo, infirmum ad ſanitatem reſtituant (σώσει κάμνοντα καὶ ἐγερεῖ αὐτὸν ὁ κύριος, Jam. 5. 15.) ſed ἵνα λαμβάνοντες, &c. ut qui in exitu has invocationum formas acceperint, à ſuperioribus poteſtatibus & principatibus apprehendi & teneri nequeant. * Ibid. D.

§. 7. Ex eadem, fateor, Scholâ Theodotus prodiit, cujus Eclogas, ut ἀνατολικῆς καλουμένης διδασκαλίας, Orientalis quæ dicebatur doctrinæ ſpicilegia, nobis Clemens Alexandrinus cuſtodivit ad calcem L. 8. Strom. inſpiciendus. Illius verba non verebor aſcribere, cum ſint adeò profundæ antiquitatis fragmenta, * Κατὰ τοὺς Οὐαλεντίνου χρόνους, ipſius Valentini hæreſiarchæ temporibus nata, nec hæreſin, aut ἑτεροδοξίαν quoviſmodo ſapiant. * Vid. Clem. Alex. ſtr. l. 2.

§. 8. Ea quidem codices ſic legunt, Καὶ ὁ ἅγιος καὶ τὸ ἔλαιον ἁγιάζεται τῇ δυνάμει τῆς ὀνόματος, ὃ τὰ ἀντὰ ὄντα καὶ τὸ φαινόμενον, οἷα ἐλήφθη, ἀλλὰ δυνάμει, εἰς δυνάμιν πνευματικὴν μεταβέβληται, ὅτως καὶ τὸ ὕδωρ, καὶ τὸ ἐξορκιζόμενον, καὶ τὸ βάπτισμα γινόμενον, ὃ μόνον χωρεῖ τὸ χεῖρον, ἀλλὰ καὶ ἁγιασμὸν σωσαμβάνει.

§. 9. Nullus hic dubitandi locus eſt, quin librariorum mendâ vox ὃ abundet, aut pro δ' reponatur, ſic ut legendum ſit, non ὃ τὰ ἀντὰ ὄντα ſed aut τὰ ἀντὰ ὄντα, aut δ τὰ ἀντὰ ὄντα, & locus integer ſic reddendus, Panis enim & oleum vi aut potentiâ nominis (Chriſti) ſanctificantur, quæ quidem eadem, ſecundum id quod apparet manentia, quæ accepta ſunt, potentiâ tamen, aut quod ad potentiam attinet, in ſpiritualem potentiam tranſmutantur. Sic & aqua, & cum exorcizatur, & cùm baptiſma fiat, non tantùm illud quod pejus eſt retinet, ſed & ſanctificationem aſſumit.

§. 10. Vides hic panem, oleum, aquam pariter diſponi, tria quidem eorum quæ per conſecrationem in ſpirituales potentias mutantur, inſigniſſima exempla, nec magis cum pane, oleum, quàm cum oleo aquam baptiſmalem confundi, totidem quippe ſacrorum rituum elementa, quæ per invocationem nominis divini ad uſus Eccleſiæ ſanctificabantur, ut omnibus notiſſima, memorari.

§. 11. Quod verò hic Theodotus affirmat, Eccleſiaſtici planè numiſmatis eſſe, nemini dubium erit, qui Cyrilli Hieroſolymitani locum planè gemellum contulerit, Κατηχ. μυσ. γ. Ὥσπερ ὁ Ἅγιος μύρῳ τινὶ ὑπὲρ πάντα ἔχρισε—— ὕτω, ἐπ' ἀγίῳ λιτὸς—— ὕτω καὶ τὸ ἅγιον τοῦτο μύρον ὐκ ἐπ' ἀλλὰ—— ἀλλὰ χρισῦ χάρισμα—— Quemadmodum panis poſt invocationem, non jam ſimplex panis eſt, ſic & ſanctum hoc unguentum, non jam nudum & ſimplex unguentum eſt, ſed charisma Chriſti. Sed iſta in præcurſum & tanquam ex abundanti.

§. 12. His igitur ſepoſitis, agmen qui ducat non indignus cenſebitur (qui circa annum 170 floruit) Theophilus Antiochenus, l. 1. ad Autolycum, ubi ab hoc ipſo Chriſmatis uſu Chriſtianorum nomen deducendum ſtatuit, Τοιγαροῦν ἡμεῖς τοῦτο εὐτυχῶς καλούμεθα χριστιανοὶ, ὅτι χριόμεθα ἔλαιῳ θεοῦ, Nos igitur hujus rei gratiâ Chriſtiani vocamur, quod divino oleo perfundimur. Ejuſque imaginem ab Athletis petit, Τίς γὰρ ἄνθρωπος εἰσιὼν εἰς τόνδε τὸν βίον, ἢ ἀθλῶν, ὐ χρίεται ἐλαίῳ; Quis mortalium eſt qui vel ingreditur in hanc vitam, vel certat in arenâ, & non oleo inungitur? Duplex inter homines Unctionis uſus, una recens natis, altera athletis adhibita, ut & in Eccleſiâ ſuam Baptiſmus (regenerationis ritus) Unctionem habet, ſuam Confirmatio, quâ ad ἄθλησιν robboramur. P. 77. B.

§. 13. Huic

§. 13. Huic poſt paucos annos ſuccedaneus Tertullianus qui ſub finem ſecundi, & initio Tertii ſæculi ſcripſit. Et primùm libet celebrem l. de baptiſmo locum huc adduxiſſe, ubi poſt mentionem benedictæ unctionis, quâ egreſſi de lavacro perungimur (aliaque de baptiſmo adjecta cap. 7.) initio cap. 8. ſequitur, De hinc manus imponitur per benedictionem, advocans & invitans Spiritum Sanctum.] Cùm enim hæc ità diſtinctè & ſeparatim ponantur, prius in 7. poſterius in 8. capite (certè non continentur, & uno ſpiritu) ut tradit * Dallæus) ut ad unicum baptiſmum referri nulla jam (ſi cum antedictis conferatur) probabilitas ſuadeat, nedum cogat neceſſitas, cùm manuum Impoſitio Columbæ ex arcâ dimiſſæ hîc comparetur, quæ poſt aquas diluvii, poſt baptiſmum mundi, pacem terris annuntiavit, cum diſſimile veri non ſit, de adultorum per * Epiſcopum baptizatione, aut ſaltem per † Presbyterum aut Diaconum, in præſentiâ ejus, ſermonem eſſe; Nil noſtræ cauſæ officit, ſi ſimul ſemelque, ſine ullâ ſpatii intercapedine, manus impoſitionem, cùm benedictione Epiſcopali, baptiſmum ſecutam eſſe agnoſcamus, idque ex verbis illis [Emergenti, inquit, de Lavacro, Columba Sancti Spiritus advolat] concludi. Illud tantummodò ex prædictis repeto, nullum de identitate argumentum, ex eo quod ſimul adhiberentur, duci poſſe, ni etiam Euchariſtiæ ſacramentum, quoties recens baptizatis communicabatur, cum baptiſmo confundi, aut ejus ſeu Ceremoniam, ſeu partem fuiſſe credamus.

* P. 129.

* Dandi habet jus ſummus ſacerdos, qui Epiſcopus eſt, c. 17.

† De hinc Presbyteri, & Diaconi, non tamen ſine Epiſcopi authoritate. Ib.

§. 14. Aliam interim adultorum, aliam in infantiâ baptizatorum rationem eſſe nemo neſcit; illi enim nonniſi poſt Catecheſin præviam, & anteactæ vitæ pœnitentiam, ad ſacrum fontem admittuntur, Hos verò Presbyter, aut fortè Diaconus tingit, dein, cùm adoleſcere cæperint, μαθητὰς imbuit, tandemque ad Epiſcopum adducit, ut ſpiritum fidelibus à Chriſto promiſſum ex invocatione ejus recipiant.

§. 15. Quod ſi in Romanâ Eccleſiâ minus diligenter obſervatum ſit, Confirmatorio Chriſmate, ex vi antiquæ conſuetudinis ad baptiſmum ſtatim accedente, æquum eſt, ut mitiſſimus, & ſapientiſſimus Georgius Caſſander, pietatis non minus, quàm pacis amator unicus, audiatur, qui de Confirmationis Tempore fateri non veretur, non diſplicituram bonis viris, ſi ejus uſus ad ætatem paulò adultiorem differatur, Quod quamvis, inquit, præter antiquæ Eccleſiæ conſuetudinem ſit (in quâ ad baptiſmum ſtatim, ſi fieri poterat, Confirmatio ſacri Chriſmatis accedebat) tamen exemplo non prorſus caret, Nam & corporis & ſanguinis Dominici Communio, haud ſecus utrique Baptiſmi & Confirmationis Sacramento adjungebatur, quæ & ipſa corporis & ſanguinis Domini ut illa Chriſmatis, Confirmatio dicta fuit, ad quam tamen Dominici corporis & ſanguinis Confirmationem, nunc Communi Eccleſiæ conſenſu in Eccleſiis potiſſimùm Latinis, non niſi adultiore ætate pueros admitti videmus, quod quò minus in Confirmationis quoq; Sacramento obſervetur, nihil prohibet, imò ſuadent non pauca, quæ ibi ſubjungit vir optimus.

Conſult. de pac. c. 9. de Confir.

§. 16. Quin & hoc ipſum Jure * Canonico cautùm eſt, ut ſcil. Confirmandus ſit perfectæ ætatis, ut moneatur prius Confeſſionem facere, ut ſit jejunus, &c. Catechiſmus Romanus duodecimum annum expectandum ſuadet, & inſuper monet, non ſolum fidem, & pietatem adferre Confirmandos, ſed graviora etiam peccata ex animo dolere, peccata confiteri, jejunia & alia pietatis opera ſuſcipere, quæ non niſi ab adultis præſtari poſſunt.

* Decret. par. 3. Diſt. 5. c. 6. & 7.

§. 17. Ab hoc igitur (ſi cui hîc aqua hæreat, aut dubitandi ~~locus ſubſit~~) ~~ad alia~~ ejuſdem Tertulliani dicta progredior, notiſſimum imprimis illud in Lib. de Reſurr. Carnis. Cap. 8. ubi cum de baptiſmo hæc tria diſertè ponantur, Caro abluitur, Caro ungitur, Caro ſignatur, quæ omnia baptiſmo competere agnoſcimus, ſequitur, Caro manus impoſitione adumbratur, ut & anima Spiritu illuminetur, Caro corpore & ſanguine Chriſti veſcitur, &c. Ubi diſtinctè proponuntur hæc tria, Baptiſmus, Confirmatio, & Euchariſtia. Ut & Lib. de Præſcription. Cap. 36. aqua ſignat, Spiritu ſancto veſtit, Euchariſtiâ paſcit. Cùm tamen Cap. 40. ubi de Diabolo veritatem intervertente, ipſaſque res Sacramentorum divinorum in Idolorum myſteriis æmulato, ſermo eſt, duo tantum ſub Sacramentorum titulo, Baptiſmum, & Euchariſtiam proponat [& ipſe quoſdam, ait, utique credentes, & fideles ſuos expiationem delictorum de Lavacro repromittit, & ſic adhuc initiat Mithræ, ſignat illic in frontibus milites ſuos (quibus omnibus Baptiſmum, ut in dicto de Reſurrect. loco reſpexit) dein (nullâ manuum impoſitionis mentione factâ) celebrat & panis oblationem.

SECT. II.

Loca duo Cypriani. Exceptiones Dallæi refutantur. Gratiæ incrementa fidelibus promiſſa. Alia duo Cypriani loca.

§. 1. POST Tertullianum, Cyprianus, Cornelio ſuppar, adjici poterit. Et primò quod Ep. 2. ad Donatum obſcurius dictum eſt, ſed ad hunc Confirmationis ritum, ut à baptiſmo diviſum, reſpexiſſè videtur, hic apponatur. Quantus, inquit, hic animi potentatus, quanta vis eſt? Non tantum ipſum eſſe ſubſtractum perniciosis contactibus mundi, ut quis expiatus & purus (clarè hæc ad baptiſmum reſpiciunt) nullâ incurſantis inimici labe capiatur, ſed & adhuc majorem & fortiorem viribus fieri (in Confirmatione ſcilicet) ut in omnem Adverſarii graſſantem exercitum, imperioſo jure dominetur. At iſta in præcurſum poſita ſunt.

§. 2. Conſulatur autem præcipuè inſignis locus Ep. 73. ad Jubaianum, ubi ſi non ex adverſariorum Cypriani objectione, certè ex ipſius reſponſione, eâque ab * Auguſtino approbatâ, manifeſtum redditur, Eam Apoſtolicarum manuum Impoſitionem, ſaltem ex iſtorum Patrum ſententiâ, ad Confirmationem, nec quovis modo ad Baptiſmum pertinuiſſe.

* De Baptiſ. l. 3. c. 19.

§. 3. Dicunt, inquit, quidam de iis (qui contra rebaptizationem diſputabant) qui de Samariâ baptizati fuerant, advenientibus Apoſtolis, Petro & Johanne, tantum ſuper eos manum impoſitam eſſe, ut acciperent ſpiritum ſanctum, rebaptizatos autem non eſſe] Adductus ſanè locus, ut rebaptizationem oppugnaret, & morem Eccleſiæ, quo ab hæreticis baptizatos recipiebant, ſtabiliret; At & illud obiter pronunciatum tantum ſuper illos manum impoſitam eſſe, ut ſpiritum reciperent.

§. 4. Verùm non permittit Cyprianus hoc Apoſtolorum exemplum ad ritum illum Eccleſiaſticum, recipiendi eos qui ab hæreticis baptizantur, accommodari, ac proinde non de eo, ut de baptiſmi ritu, ſed de Confirmatione omnino loqui cenſendus eſt, ſuis iſtis ad Jubaianum verbis, Locum iſtum, Frater chariſſime, ad præſentem cauſam videmus non omninò pertinere, Illi enim qui in Samariâ crediderunt, fide verâ crediderant, derant, & intus in Eccleſiâ, quæ una eſt -- baptizati erant, & idcirco, quia legitimum & Eccleſiaſticum baptiſmum conſecuti fuerant, baptizari eos ultra non oportebat, ſed tantummodò quod deerat, id à Petro & Johanne factum eſſe, ut oratione pro iis habitâ, & manu impoſitâ, invocaretur & infunderetur ſuper eos Spiritus ſanctus. Quod, inquit, nunc quoque apud nos geritur, ut qui in Eccleſiâ baptizantur, Præpoſitis Eccleſiæ offerantur, & per noſtram Orationem ac Manus impoſitionem Spiritum ſanctum conſequantur, & ſignaculo Dominico conſummentur.]

§. 5. Hic palam Cyprianus affirmat, & dilucidè, ut vix potuerit magis, hunc Confirmationis ritum in Eccleſiam ab iſtâ Apoſtolorum praxi deductum, eumque & manuum impoſitione, & conſignatione celebrari ſolitum fuiſſe.

§. 6. Quod enim doctiſſimus * Dallæus ex voce [deerat] lucrari ſe poſſe ſperat, totus, ni me animus fallat, fruſtra eſt; Illos, inquit, intelligit Cyprianus, quorum baptiſmo aliquid defuiſſet, ut qui vel à Presbyteris cùm adeſſet Epiſcopus, baptizati erant, aut qui à viro Laico, aut ſi fortè à Diacono, baptiſmum receperant, ut à Philippo Samaritani.] At non dixit Cyprianus [quorum baptiſmo aliquid defuiſſet,] ſed è contra, de Legitimum & Eccleſiaſticum baptiſmum conſecutis diſertè loquitur, nec igitur de iis quorum baptiſmo aliquid deerat. Is enim eſt legitimus Baptiſmus, cui nihil, quod leges Eccleſiaſticæ ad Baptiſmum ritè celebrandum præcipiunt, deeſt. * P. 155.

§. 7. Quid Samaritanis à Philippo baptizatis defuit, ſatis explicitè pronuntiavit Cyprianus, nempe ut oratione pro iis habitâ, & manu impoſitâ, invocaretur & infunderetur ſuper eos Spiritus ſanctus. Hoc, verò nuſquam ab Apoſtolis, niſi in baptiſmo præſtitum affirmare, illud eſt, quod Dialectici τὸ ἐν ἀρχῇ appellant, ipſum ſcil. ζητούμενον, inidoneum planè ut ſe, multò magis ut aliud quicquam ſtabiliat, & (ſi quid video) Univerſæ Oeconomiæ Apoſtolicæ contrarium.

§. 8. Illis nihil frequentius, quàm fidelibus, & prius baptizatis, locupletiorem ſpiritus largitionem precibus impetrare, ex vi promiſſi Divini, Joh. 7. 38. quo ἐκ κοιλίας αὐτοῦ (credentes ſc. in Chriſtum) ποταμοὶ ὕδατος ῥεύσουσιν dicuntur. Hæc Spiritus ſancti dona (ſub Apoſtolis miraculoſa) divinæque (etiam cùm δυνάμεις illæ non amplius in Eccleſiâ utiles erant) Gratiæ incrementa non negabit, ſat ſcio, vir Doctiſſimus. Aſt quæ fidelibus tantum promittebantur, in baptiſmo non dabantur, nec enim omnes ab Apoſtolis ipſis baptizati, Linguarum donis, & δυνάμεσιν imbuebantur. Reſtat igitur ut Benedictio Apoſtolica per manuum impoſitionem iis deeſſe potuerit, qui prius fuerant in genere baptiſmi perfecti, i. e. quorum baptiſmo nihil defuiſſet, & quod hoc ſit ſignaculo Dominico conſummari, nemo, crediderim, ambiget, qui nullo præjudicio abreptus, nullis partium ſtudiis addictus (quod de ſe Dallæus conſtanter profitetur) rem ipſam ab origine recenſuerit.

§. 9. His & illa accenſenda ſunt Ep. 70. ubi ſic de Unctione à Baptiſmo diſtinctâ dilucidè pronuntiat. Poſtquam enim de iis quæ ad baptiſmum attinebant, latè diſſeruiſſet, de Aquæ ſanctificatione, & mundatione à Sacerdote facta, de remiſſione peccatorum à baptizante data, de Interrogatione, quæ in baptiſmo fit, Deiq; addit, Ungi quoque neceſſe eſt eum qui baptizatus ſit, ut accepto chriſmate, i. e. Unctione, eſſe unctus Dei, & habere in ſe Gratiam Chriſti poſſit. Quibus peractis tandem ad Euchariſtiam procedit, Porrò autem, inquit, Euchariſtia, & unde baptizati unguuntur oleum in altari ſanctificatur, ſanctificare autem non potuit oleum creaturam, qui nec altare habuit, nec Eccleſiam. Unde nec Unctio ſpiritualis apud hæreticos poſſit eſſe, quando conſtet oleum ſanctificari & Euchariſtiam fieri apud illos omnino non poſſe.] Vides Chriſmationem à Baptiſmo, ut Euchariſtiam ab utroque ſejungi. P. 239.

§. 10. Sic, Ep. 74. Non per manus impoſitionem quis naſcitur, quando accipit Spiritum ſanctum, ſed in Baptiſmo, ut ſpiritum natus accipiat, Sicut in primo homine Adam factum eſt, ante enim Deus eum plaſmavit, & tunc inſufflavit in faciem ejus flatum vitæ, nec enim poteſt accipi ſpiritus, niſi prius fuerit qui accipiat. Ecce per Baptiſmum prius naſcitur, quàm Spiritum jam natus, ex manuum impoſitione, accipiat. P. 3. Col. 2.

SECT. III.

Optati verba Examinantur. Oleum Peccatoris apud Pſalmiſtam. Objectio Dallæi. Reſponſio. Myſteria baptiſmatis. Βαπτίσματα. Cyrillus Optato concinit. Verba Mat. 3. 17. cum Mat. 17. 5. non ſunt confundenda. Secundum Dallæi Argumentum. Tertium. Alter Optati locus. Dallæi obſervatio. Spalatenſis Argumentum ſolvitur.

§. 1. A Cypriano ad Optatum Milevitanum progrediamur, cujus Suffragio liquere affirmat * Dallæus tum Chriſmationem, tum manus impoſitionem baptiſmi partes ac ritus fuiſſe, ad eumque pertinuiſſe. Quàm auſpicatè & feliciter hoc à viro Doctiſſimo pronuntiatum ſit, ipſius Optati verba, contra Parmen. L. 4. teſtentur. * P. 246. Edit. Caſaub. p. 122.

§. 2. Occaſionem ſermonis rectè annotavit Dallæus, objectionem Donatiſtarum ex iis Pſalmiſtæ verbis acceptam, quibus ait, Oleum peccatoris non unget caput meum. Quæ quidem ſæpius ad Baptiſmum diſtorta (utpote à * Petiliano & † Creſconio) Auguſtinus fidenter rejicit, & de adulatoribus intelligenda demonſtrat, Optatus verò, licet myſtico ſenſu admiſſo, non de quovis tamen alio, ſed peculiariter de domino Chriſto, non ab homine ſed à Deo Patre unctio, accipienda, contra Donatiſtarum mentem contendit. Deſcendit, inquit, in aquam (Chriſtus) non quod erat quod in Deo mundaretur, ſed venturum oleum aqua debuit antecedere, ad myſteria initianda, & ordinanda, & implenda baptiſmatis. Lotus, cùm in Johannis manibus haberetur, ſecutus eſt ordo myſterii, & complevit Pater quod rogavit filius, & quod nuntiaverat Spiritus S. Apertum eſt Cœlum, Deo Patre ungente, ſpirituale oleum ſtatim in imagine Columbæ deſcendit, & inſedit capiti ejus, & perfudit eum, unde cæpit dici Chriſtus, quando unctus eſt à Deo Patre. Cui ne manus impoſitio defuiſſe videretur, vox audita eſt Dei de nube dicentis, Hic eſt filius meus de quo benè ſenſi, hunc audite; hoc igitur eſt quod lectum eſt, oleum peccatoris non unget caput meum. * Aug. l. 11. con. Petil. c. 103. & l. 3. c. 33. † Aug. cont. Creſcon. l. 11. c. 24.

§. 3. Hic iis, quæ Chriſto apud Jordanem acciderunt, non unum tantum, ſed tres ſolennes Eccleſiâ ritus adumbrari putavit Optatus, Baptiſmum, Confirmationem, & Ordinationem; Deſcenſu quidem Chriſti in aquam, Baptiſmi in Eccleſiâ Sacramentum; Apertione verò Cœli, ſimul & Columbæ deſcenſu, Chriſmatis ſeu Confirmationis ritum; ut & voce Dei de nube dicentis, hic eſt filius meus, de quo benè ſenſi, hunc audite, ſacrorum Ordinum Conceſſionem omninò deſignari.

§. 4. Quod ad primum attinet, Deſcenſu in aquam figuratum eſſe Baptiſmum Chriſtianorum, res ipſa, & diſerta verba [Myſteria initianda, implenda, & ordinanda baptiſmatis] proclamant. Apertio Cœli, & deſcenſus columbæ, Confirmationem, utroque & unctionis & impoſitionis Epiſcopalis manus ritu celebratam non obſcure deſignant. Apertio quippe Cœli, Alabaſtri, ſeu unguentarii vaſis reſignationem, aut apertionem referebat: Deſcenſus, obumbratio, inſiſſio columbæ ipſiſſimam manus impoſitæ imaginem præſtabant.

§. 5. Nec verò ad aliam quàm Confirmatoriam Unctionem reſpexiſſe Optatum, ſi hinc non pateat, quod poſt apertum Cœlum, ſpirituale oleum in imagine columbæ deſcendiſſe affirmet, (nullibi enim Unctionem, & manus Impoſitionem, niſi in Confirmatione confœderatas reperimus) id aliunde ex ipſo Optato ſatis innoteſcit, L. 7. * Oleum nominant, illum liquorem, qui ex nomine Chriſti conditur, quòd chriſma, poſtquam conditum eſt, nominatur, de quo * ſtatim adjicit, confectum jam chriſma cutem conſcientiæ mollire, animum innovare, ſedem Spiritui ſancto parare, & * tandem eo condiri mores, incendi lumen mentis, ad ſalutem & veram intelligentiam.]

* P. 191. * P. 193. * P. 194.

§. 6. Quibus omnibus Confirmationem deſcribi palam eſt, & ab ipſo Spalatenſi, qui Dallæo in * hac materiâ facem prætulit, † diſertè conceditur.

* De Rep. Eccl. l. 5. c. 5. † Numb. 18.

§. 7. Ultimo verò loco, quod ad vocem Dei attinet de nube dicentis, Hic eſt filius, hunc audite, quâ, inquit Optatus, proviſum eſt, ut non defuiſſe videretur impoſitio manus, eam clariſſimum eſt, verbi præconium, & ordines commodiſſimè deſcribi. Quid enim aliud eſt in eo Deum complacuiſſe, hunc audiendum ab omnibus, quàm hunc ante alios ad voluntatis divinæ revelationem delectum, & miſſum eſſe? Cui miniſtrorum in Eccleſiâ Ordinatio diſertè reſpondet.

§. 8. Hæc cùm ita ſint, quæ quæſo probabilis ratio, aut rationis umbra fingi hic poteſt, quâ aut cum baptiſmo chriſma, aut cum chriſmate ordinationem, ex Optati ſuffragio, confundi nobis perſuadeatur? Baptizatus eſt Chriſtus, ſi illum audiamus, ab homine, à peccatore à Johanne quippe Baptiſtâ, At oleum peccatoris non unget caput ejus, nec igitur à quovis mortalium ungendus erat: A Baptiſtâ lotus, à Deo Patre ungendus. Et, quod amplius eſt, prius lotus, poſt unctus, Lotus cum in Johannis manibus haberetur, nondum verò, dum in ejus manibus eſſet, unctus, ſed ut Matthæus, c. 3. 26. Cum baptizatus eſſet Jeſus, ſtatim aſcendit ex aquâ, & tunc demùm, ſi Optato credimus, Secutus eſt ordo myſterii, & complevit Pater, &c. apertum eſt cœlum Deo patre ungente, planè ut peracto adultorum baptiſmate, Epiſcopus ad chriſmandum procedit, Pater dictus, & Dei Patris imago, ſeu umbra, dum ſic facit.

§. 9. Quid manifeſtius depingi potuit? Omnes certè baptiſmi ceremoniæ à Baptiſtâ petendæ erant; at Unctio, ſi Optato credimus, à nullo mortalium Chriſto adhibebatur: Concludimus ergo, ex ejus ſententiâ, inter baptiſmi ritus, aut partes, non fuiſſe Unctionem.

§. 10. At, inquit vir * Doctiſſimus, Utramque tam unctionem quàm manuum impoſitionem inter ea cenſet Optatus, quæ à Domino in baptiſmo ſuo initiata, Ordinata & impleta ſunt. Initiata autem, Ordinata, & impleta tunc à Domino fuiſſe dicit myſteria Baptiſmatis, ſunt ergo, ex eo, & Chriſmatio & Impoſitio manuum baptiſmatis myſteria] Reſpondeo, quicquid Optatus de Myſteriis ſeu initiandis, ſeu ordinandis dixit, peculiariter ad aquam antecedentem pertinere (quæ ut per διδαχὴν βαπτισμῶν in plurali exprimitur, Heb. 6. 2. ſic & hic per myſteria baptiſmatis) non verò ad oleum quod venturum fuit, & quod Aquæ antecedere debuit, multò minus ad impoſitionem manuum, quæ utique (ſi ipſis Optati verbis credamus) non ſtatim, ſed ex longo, ut mox patebit, intervallo ſequebatur.

* P. 246.

§. 11. Certè de Unctione nullus dubitandi locus eſt; nam poſt Lotionem integram Johannis Baptiſtæ manibus peractam, ſecuta eſt Unctionis imago, magnum illud Eccleſiaſtici ritus prototypon, apertio Cœli, & ſpirituale oleum in imagine columbæ deſcendens, quæ cum inſederit capiti ejus, aliqualem, ut diximus, manuum in Confirmatione impoſitionis umbram nobis exhibuit.

§. 12. His plane Cyril. concinit, Κατηχ. γ. Κἀκεῖνος μὲν ἐν Ἰορδάνῃ λουσάμενος ποταμῷ —— ἀνέβη ἐκ τούτων, καὶ πνεύματος Ἁγίου ὑσιάδης ἐπηρείπησε· διὸ καὶ ἐγένετο, πρὸ ὁμοίου ἐπαναπαυσιδῆναι τὸ ὁμοίον. Cum ille quidem in fluvio lotus eſſet, ex aquis aſcendit, & Spiritus ſanctus ſubſtantialiter ſuper eum deſcendit, ſimilis ſuper ſui ſimilem requieſcens. Vides baptizatum in Jordane, dein poſt aſcenſum ex fluvio, deſcenſum Spiritus: Quibus ſtatim reſpondent Baptiſmus & Confirmatio, καὶ ὑμῖν ὁμοίως ἀναβεβηκόσιν ἀπὸ τῆς κολυμβήθρας ἦν ἑτέρων ναμάτων, ἐδόθη χείσμα τὸ ἀντίτυπον ᾧ ἐχρίσθη Χειστός. Et vobis, poſtquam ſimiliter ex aquis Lavacri aſcendiſtis, datum eſt chriſma, quod imaginem gerit illius, quo unctus eſt Chriſtus. Ὥσπερ ὁ Χριστὸς μὴ τὸ βάπτισμα, καὶ τὴν τῆς ἁγίας πνεύματος ἐπηφοίτησιν ἐξελθὼν κατηγώνισατο τὸν ἀντικείμενον, ὕτως καὶ ὑμεῖς μὴ τὸ θεῖον βάπτισμα, καὶ τὸ μυστικὸν χείσμα, ἐνδεδυμένοι τὴν παυοπλίαν τὸ ἁγίου πνεύματος, ἵστασθε πρὸς τὴν ἀντικειμένην δύναμιν------ Ut Chriſtus poſt baptiſmum, & adventum Spiritus ſancti, egreſſus in prælium devicit adverſarium, ſic & vos poſt ſacrum baptiſma, & Chriſma myſticum, induti armis Sancti ſpiritus adverſus oppoſitam vobis poteſtatem conſiſtitis. Utrobique ut Lavacro ejus Baptiſmus noſter, ſic & deſcenſu ſpiritus Chriſma notatum.

§. 13. At & præter hanc, non defuit, inquit Optatus, Manus impoſitio (exemplar ejus, non quam in Confirmatione, ſed quam in Ordinatione Miniſtrorum obſervat Eccleſia) verùm hæc, ut dixi, ſiqua verbis prolatis vis inſit, è longo intervallo ſuccedanea, cùm in Tabore vox audita ſit de nube dicentis, Hic eſt filius meus de quo benè ſenſi, Hunc audite.

§. 14. Hæc enim verba, non ex Mat. 3. 17. ſed ex Mat. 17. 5. diſertè laudata fuiſſe, ex locorum comparatione clarè patet, præſertim ἐκ νεφέλης ἐπισκιαζούσης καὶ φωνῆς ἐκ νεφέλης, nubis obumbrantis, & vocis de nube venientis mentione c. 17. 5. additis inſuper in calce, ὠσὲ ἀκούετε, ipſum audite (ſine quibus Mat. 3. Οὐρανοὶ ἀνεῳγμένοι, Cœli aperti & φωνὴ ἐκ τῶν Οὐρανῶν, Vox de cœlo reponuntur) ideoque non ad deſcenſus columbæ, ſed Transfigurationis in Tabore, ex diutino intervallo ſubſecutæ, hiſtoriam pertinere mihi videntur. In quibus ſi rectè calculum poſuimus, ſequetur illicò nullum his ultimis periodi verbis baptiſmatis (imò nec Confirmationis) ritum, aut myſterium, ſed manuum in Ordinatione impoſitionem (cujus viva effigies erat ἐπισκιάζουσα νεφέλη adumbrans nubes) adumbratum eſſe. Hæc omnia an * Dallæus adverterit, quia hæc tria tam latè diviſa, de induſtria confudit, & Baptiſmum, Confirmationem, Ordinationem, ſingula ſuis reponenda claſſibus ad unicum baptiſmum in Jordane (Mat. 3. deſcriptum) retulit, ipſe viderit.

* P. 246. * P. 246.

§. 15. At ſecundò, urget * Dallæus, hinc cerni initiatos, ut loti erant, continuò chriſmatos fuiſſe, nam ſpirituale oleum, inquit Optatus, ſtatim in imagine columbæ deſcendit, nunc non niſi multis poſt lotionem annis apud noſtros Latinos inunguntur] Reſpondeo, 1. aliam eſſe adultorum, aliam infantium baptizatorum rationem; infantium baptiſmum non ſtatim, ſed poſt plures annos ſequitur, aut ſaltem ſequi debet

Confirmatio,

Confirmatio, at non ſic adultorum (quorum imaginem in Chriſto nobis depinxit Optatus) eorum enim baptiſmum Confirmatio, ut Confirmationem Euchariſtiæ participatio apud antiquos ſtatim ſequebatur.

§. 16. Alia itidem ni fallor hujuſce rei cauſa ſuberat, nimirum quod antiquitùs Baptiſmus publicè ſtatis anni temporibus, & ſolùm in Baſilicâ, ſeu Cathedrali Epiſcopi Eccleſiâ habebatur, quo competentes omnes ex universâ Diœceſi, illius gratiâ, accedere mos erat. Hinc præſentiæ Epiſcopi frequens mentio, cum de Baptiſmo ſermo incidit, ut & monita illa Greg. Nazianzeni, aliorumque notiſſima, ne ob itineris tædium ſe à ſacro Lavacro deterreri Catechumeni patiantur. Quibus conſequens eſt (ne ſibi duplex negotium faceſſeret Antiſtes, aut Plebi inferat) ut πρωτοπλάστοι ad Epiſcopum ſtatim perducti, eâdem fere operâ inſuper confirmarentur.

§. 17. Hæc verò ſic ad adultos peculiariter, ſub prima antiquitate, pertinentia, ad poſteriorum ſeculorum infantes trahi nulla neceſſitas cogit. Imo morem iſtum (non ſine ratione, at nec ſine laude) tandem obſoletum fuiſſe nemini ignotum eſt, dum extra ordinem (ut rectè monet Caſſander) quocunque tempore, quocunque loco infantes baptizarentur, nec Epiſcopi ſemper ad manum eſſent, ideoque ſolennis illa cum impoſitione manuum & Chriſmatis conſignatione Confirmatio referri cœperit nonnunquam etiam in adultiorem ætatem, quod, inquit ille, antiquitùs non fiebat.

§. 18. At, & tertio, ſic arguit * Dallæus, Optatum hoc loco ſingulos baptiſmi ſolennes ritus, lotionem, chriſmationem, & manus impoſitionem baptiſmatis myſteria vocare,] Imò deſcenſum in aquam, cùm nihil in Deo eſſet quod mundaretur, ideò tantum Chriſto competiiſſe dicit Optatus, quia venturum oleum aqua debuit antecedere. Quibus verbis (deſcenſus nempe in aquam, & mundationis mentione nec unctionis, nec manus Impoſitionis myſteria ab eo attinguntur, ſed tantum baptiſmatis, ritus ſcil. baptiſmales, quos in baptiſmo Chriſti initiari, ordinari, impleri putavit Optatus, quum Chriſmationem ſpirituali Oleo in imagine Columbæ deſcendente, & perfundente eum, manus impoſitionem voce Dei de nube auditâ præfiguratam cenſeret. In re manifeſta pluribus opus non eſt. * Ibid.

§. 19. Eſt & alius * Optati locus, modò laudatus, quo chriſma animum innovare, & lenem ſedem Spiritui ſancto parare dicitur, ut invitatus, aſperitate fugatâ, libenter inhabitare dignetur.] Hunc cùm Tertulliano conferri poſtulat * Dallæus, ubi Spiritus ſanctus manuum impoſitione per benedictionem advocari & invitari dictus eſt, at ex hinc nihil amplius concludit, quàm Chriſmationem præceſſiſſe; manus impoſitionem ſecutam eſſe.] * L. 7. p. 193. * P. 247.

§. 20. Hoc ſi Dallæo concedatur, nihil aut hypotheſi ejus emolumenti, aut noſtræ detrimenti exurget, nec enim de nudo Ceremoniarum ordine litem cuivis intendimus, nec Unctionem in Confirmatione omnino adhibemus, ſolâ benedictione, manuſque impoſitione contenti. Præcedat ergo, nobis neutiquam refragantibus, quoties adhibetur Chriſmatio, ſequatur impoſitio manuum.

§. 21. Verùm & illud adjicio, nullum planè ex hoc Optati loco, huic obſervationi locum eſſe, cùm Chriſmatio, & manuum impoſitio, quatenus eâ Confirmatio notatur, ejuſdem Eccleſiaſticæ inſtitutionis diverſæ appellationes ſint, ideoque Optatus de Chriſmatione idem pronuntiaſſe dicendus eſt, quod Tertullianus de manuum Impoſitione affirmavit, eâ ſcil. in Confirmatione adhibitâ invitari & advocari ſpiritum, lenem ſedem Spiritui ſancto parari, ut & condiri mores, lumen mentis incendi, &c.

§. 22. At (licet id Dallæus omiſit) * Spalatenſis hinc aliud Argumentum nectendum putavit, Optatum ſcil. contra Donatiſtas diſputantem, Eos muſcarum morientium, qui corrumpunt Unguenti ſuavitatem, titulo notandos exinde oſtendere; quod ad eos ex Catholicis venientes rebaptizarent, & conſequenter denuò ungerent, ſi autem Unctio hæc eſſet diſtincta à Baptiſmo, ſat, inquit, fuiſſet Optato Donatiſtis objicere, Eos corrumpere Unguentum qui denuò Chriſmate ungerent, At (inquit) ille rebaptizationem ſumpſit, quia Unctio erat pars Baptiſmi, & qui baptiſmum repetebant, neceſſe erat, ut etiam Unctionem repeterent, quæ apud Catholicos daretur.] * De Rep. Eccl. l. 5. c. 5. n. 174.

§. 23. At advertere debuit Inſigniſſimus Archiepiſcopus, Donatiſtarum Schiſma, & Errorem in eo præcipuè poſitum fuiſſe, quod apud Catholicos ſemel baptizatum, & ad ipſos venientem rebaptizarent, cui quidem conſectaneum fuit, ut & eundem, ſi Chriſmationem apud Catholicos adeptus ſit, reungerent. Verùm illud primarium, reiterati Sacramenti ab ipſo Chriſto inſtituti, piaculum, & ſcandalum, grandius erat, & adverſus quod Catholici acrius & fervidiùs dimicabant, quàm ſecundarium, & conſectaneum hoc, quod Eccleſiaſticum tantummodo ritum attigit. Nec igitur Optato ſatis fuiſſe ad Donatiſtas oppugnandos, ſi Unctionem ab illis repetitam objiceret, niſi & Baptiſmum reiteratum exprobaret, optimè autem utrumque conjunxiſſe, cum illi utrumque facerent, nec enim accuſandum Bellatorum, ſi, quem opprimere inſtituit hoſtem pluſquam ſatis expugnaverit, ſi quem ſuperaſſe, aut fugaſſe ſuffecerat, captivum inſuper duxerit, victoriamque triumpho ornaverit, ex abundanti. Ea igitur planè cauſa fuit, quòd rebaptizationem ſumeret Optatus, non quia Unctio erat quaſi pars baptiſmi, (quod hypotheſi ſuæ acceptum refert Spalatenſis, certè ab Optato non didicit) ſed quia in eo imprimis Donatiſtarum fermentum cerneretur, quod baptiſmum iterarent.

SECT. IV.

Teſtimonium Paciani. Dallæi exceptiones. Obſcuriora Paciani verba ex clarioribus illuſtrata. Agitatio in alvo. Fides pronuba. Objectio Dallæi. Ex alvo matris effundi. Renaſci, & in novitate vitæ ambulare. Alter Paciani locus. Alter.

§. 1. POſt Optatum, Pacianus Barcinonenſis in Hiſpania Epiſcopus, ſub finem quarti ſæculi, ſi placet, audiatur, (qui Chriſmationem inter ſolennes Baptiſmi ritus manifeſtè cenſere * Dallæo viſus eſt) Lavacro, inquit ille, peccata purgantur, Chriſmate Sanctus ſpiritus ſuperfunditur, Utraque verò iſta manu & ore Antiſtitis impetramus, atque ita totus homo renaſcitur, & innovatur in Chriſto, ut ſicuti reſurrexit Chriſtus à mortuis, ſic & nos in novitate vitæ ambulemus.] * De Confirm. p. 288.

§. 2. Lavacro vides purgationem peccatorum diſtinctè tribui, Chriſmati ſuperfuſionem Spiritus ſancti, utrique totius renaſcentiam, & innovationem in Chriſto, priorem morti, poſteriorem reſurrectioni Chriſti parem, quam ſequitur (utroque hoc ritu ſolenniter obſtricta) in novitate vitæ ambulatio. Nec in unum, ſpero, Paciano Judice, compingenda cenſebis, de quibus ille diſertè pronuntiat [utraque.]

§. 3. Alia quidem ſunt, quæ his præcurrere, & facem, ſi placet, præferre voluit Dallæus. Primò enim, inquit, ipſe Sermonis titulus, qui de baptiſmo eſt, clamat, Quorſum enim hæc, ſi non pertinent ad baptiſmum, in eo tractatu agitat, qui de baptiſmo eſt? Tum ipſe Author in limine præfatur, Aperire deſidero, inquit, qualiter in baptiſmo naſcamur, & qualiter innovemur. Dein multa addit quæ baptiſmum manifeſtè reſpiciunt, præcipuè verò ea quibus affirmat nos non ante naſci, quàm ſpiritum acceperimus, ſpiritum porrò Chriſmate in nos ſuperfundi: Denique iſta, de quibus dixit, Chriſtum, ſc. recipere, & naſci] compleri alias negat poſſe, niſi Lavacri, & Chriſmatis, & Antiſtitis Sacramento.] At reſpondeo.

§. 4. Agnoſco quidem, Primò ex Sermone de Baptiſmo hæc deſumi, at eo non minus ad Baptizatos, ſeu fideles, quam ad Catechumenos ſeu nondum baptizatos habito, nec quicquam igitur prohibere, quin qui multa in prioribus de baptiſmo deſeruiſſet, hæc jam de Confirmatione, adultorum baptiſmati ſtatim ſuperadditâ, adjiceret.

§. 5. Secundò, quæ de Lavacri & Chriſmatis, & Antitiſtis Sacramento dixit Pacianus, ea quidem obſcuriora fateor, quàm ut ego huc, injuſſus, adducenda putarem, adducta tamen nequaquam mihi obſtatura, qui Confirmationem inter Sacramenta non numero, & per plurale [utraque] diſcernenda contendo, quæ per Sacramenti mentionem conjungi nulla neceſſitas cogit. Quin etiam ſubobſcuri, quòd ideo non poſui, Commatis ſenſus, ex clarioribus, quæ poſui, dijudicari non difficulter poteſt; ſub Sacramenti quippe σεσεκπκῷ, & generali vocabulo, tres ſolennes Eccleſiæ ritus comprehendi putes, quorum ſinguli ad conſummandos filios Dei comparati ſunt, Baptiſmum, Confirmationem, & Ordinationem, ſive Antiſtitum Creationem, qui ratione officii, & lavant Catechumenos, & lotos chriſmant. Nec igitur cum Baptiſmo magis confundi Chriſmationem, ſtatues, quam cum Chriſmatione Ordinandorum Conſecrationem.

§. 6. Tertiò nobis extra omne dubium ponitur Spiritum Domini in Baptiſmo dari (nec enim aliter verum eſſe ex aquâ & ſpiritu baptizari) cujus tamen largioribus rivis homines & in Confirmatione perfundi, & prolui æquè non ambigimus. Sic certè Samaritani à Philippo loti, Spiritu Chriſti rigabantur, quos tamen poſtea ejuſdem Spiritus uberiora fluenta, ab Apoſtolorum manibus manantia inundabant.

* P. 248. §. 7. Hæc, ſi quid video, eorum quæ in Paciano proceſſerant, & à * Dallæo laudata videas, ipſiſſima ſententiâ eſt, [Chriſti, inquit, ſemen, i. e. Dei ſpiritus novum hominem alvo matris agitatum, & partu fontis exceptum, manibus Sacerdotis effundit, fide tamen pronuba] Agitatio in alvo matris, ad Catecheſin reſpexiſſe videtur, fides ad baptiſmum præparavit, Partus fontis, ipſe baptiſmus fuit, in eo datus eſt Spiritus, Qui verò ſic ex aquâ & ſpiritu baptizatus eſt, novus homo agnoſcitur, & ut totius inſequentis vitæ actionibus innovetur, manibus ſacerdotis, aut Antiſtitis, i. e. Epiſcopi effunditur, aut advolvitur, quo dilucidè Confirmatio baptizatorum notatur, ut & iis quæ paulo præceſſerant [veniente deſuper Spiritu Domini, &c. nos viſceribus matris inoleſcere, alvoque ejus effuſos vivificari in Chriſto] ad hanc quippe vivificationem in Chriſto, Nativitati ſpirituali ſuccedaneam benedictionem Antiſtitis utilem imprimis eſſe (etſi Novatoribus aliter viſum) Pacianus certè nullus dubitaverat.

* P. 249. * P. 250. §. 8. At, inquit * *Dallæus, tunc naſcimur, cùm alvo Matris effundimur, nec alio Sacramento naſcimur, quàm baptiſmo, * nec potuit Pacianus clariùs eloqui, quàm cùm diceret, totus homo renaſcitur, & innovatur in Chriſto: Lavacro ſcil. & Chriſmate innovari, renaſcique totum hominem credidit.*]

§. 9. Reſpondeo 1. Ex eo quod tunc naſcitur quis, cum ex alvo matris effunditur, non ſequi, quod cupit Dallæus: Aliud enim eſt ſimpliciter ex alvo matris effundi, aliud partu fontis exceptum, i. e. jamjam baptizatum, effundi manibus ſacerdotis, eo enim liquidò ſignificatur ad Epiſcopum adductio ejus, qui prius baptizatus eſt. 2. Diſtinguenda ſunt, quæ confundit Dallæus, renaſci, & in novitate vitæ ambulare] Renaſcentia, aut (ut poſt Cyprianum alii) Innovatio eſt ipſiſſima ſine dubio in baptiſmo παλιγγενεσία, cujus Lavacro peccata purgantur. At præter hanc eſt ipſa, poſt vitæ Chriſtianæ ingreſſum, Mandatorum obſervatio, vel in novitate vitæ ambulatio, quam fidelis (fide, inquit Pacianus, pronubâ) in Confirmatione ſolenniter ſpondet, & ad quam felicitèr peragendam largiores ſpiritus rivos baptizato Epiſcopus precatur.

§. 10. Hanc certè Paciani ſententiam fuiſſe palam faciunt verba commatis ultimo, totus homo renaſcitur & innovatur, ut ſicut reſurrexit Chriſtus à mortuis, ſic & nos in novitate vitæ ambulemus. Ubi ſine dubio, ut morte Chriſti, baptiſmus, & renaſcentia noſtra notantur (videantur Pſeudoclementis verba modò prolata) ſic & reſurrectione Chriſmatio, & in novitate vitæ ambulatio. Ad priorem dabatur in Baptiſmo, Spiritus, Aquæ comes, quo purgantur peccata; ad poſteriorem, in Chriſmate ſuperfunditur Spiritus ſanctus, à ſanctitate, quam ingenerat, ſic dictus. Reviſat Dallæus, niſi diſpliceat, locum integrum, & me forſan verum dixiſſe non diffitebitur.

§. 11. Quibus ſic expoſitis, clariora jam erunt quæ ex ejuſdem Paciani Epiſt. 1. Bellarminum adduxiſſe ait * Dallæus, Si ergo & Lavacri & Chriſmatis poteſtas, majorum longè Chariſmatum, ad Epiſcopum inde deſcendit, & ligandi quoque jus adfuit, & ſolvendi] Tres Eccleſiæ ritus, Baptiſmus, Confirmatio, & Pœnitentia: Et ibidem, An tantùm hoc ſolis Apoſtolis licet? Ergo & baptizare ſolis licet, & Spiritum ſanctum dare ſolis, & ſolis Gentium peccata purgare.] Quid clarius? æquè ſcil. diſtingui Baptiſmum à Confirmatione, ac Confirmationem à Pœnitentiâ. Nec certè nobis obſtat, quæ Bellarmino Dallæus objici poſſe putavit, quibus tamen non immorabor.

* P. 250.

* Orthod. p. 130. §. 12. Sed & * alibi idem Pacianus, Veſtræ plebi unde ſpiritus, quem non conſignat unctus ſacerdos?] Conſignatio, ut videtur, Spiritum impetrandi ritus, non quod nullus baptiſmo Spiritus promittatur, ſed quod fuſiores hauſtus ſeptemplicis (ut ait Hieronymus) Spiritus in Confirmatione imbibantur.

SECT. V.

Teſtimonia Hieronymi lucidiſſima. Unctiones plures. Pœnitentes uncti.

To. 2. c. 4. p. 166. §. 1. His adjungatur, ut Paciani, ſic & Damaſi ὀρθοδόξου, Hieronymus, in Dialogo inter Orthodoxum & Luciferianum, ubi hanc, ut Eccleſiæ univerſæ conſuetudinem, & Legem Luciferianus ſuggerit, Orthodoxus libenter agnoſcit. An neſcis, inquit Luciferianus, Eccleſiarum hunc morem eſſe, ut baptizatis poſteà manus imponantur, & ita invocetur Spiritus ſanctus? Exigis ubi ſcriptum eſt? in actibus Apoſtolorum. Etiamſi Scripturæ Authoritas non ſubeſſet, totius orbis in hanc partem conſenſus inſtar præcepti obtineret. Nam & multa alia, quæ per Traditionem in Eccleſiis obſervantur, authoritatem ſibi ſcriptæ Legis uſurpaverunt, &c.]

&c.] Quibus Orthodoxus respondet, Non quidem abnuo hanc esse Ecclesiarum consuetudinem, ut ad eos, qui longè in minoribus urbibus per Presbyteros & Diaconos baptizati sunt, Episcopus ad invocationem sancti Spiritus manum impositurus excurrat.]

§. 2. Et iterum, Quod si quaris quare in Ecclesiâ baptizatus non nisi per manus Episcopi, non accipiat Spiritum sanctum quem nos asserimus in vero baptismate tribui, disce hanc observationem ex eâ authoritate descendere, quòd post ascensum Domini Spiritus sanctus ad Apostolos descendit. Et multùm in locis idem facilitatum reperimus ad honorem potius sacerdotii quàm ad Legis necessitatem. Alioqui si ad Episcopi tantùm imprecationem Spiritus S. defluit, lugendi sunt qui in viculis---per Presbyteros & Diaconos baptizati, ante dormierunt, quàm ab Episcopis inviserentur.

§. 3. Et cùm illud sibi objici posse prævideret, quòd cùm audissent Apostoli, Samariam verbum Dei recepisse, miserunt ad eos Petrum & Johannem, qui cùm venissent, oraverunt pro iis ut acciperent Spiritum sanctum, nondum enim acciderat super ullum eorum. Cur id factum sit, in sequentibus disci jubet [Ipse enim ait, sed solum baptizati erant in nomine Domini Jesu, Tunc imponebant illis manus & accipiebant Spiritum sanctum.]

§. 4. Ecce omnia quæ Hierarchici, ut dicimur, Britanni de Confirmatione à Baptismo divisâ, de Spiritu S. fidelibus per solam manuum Episcopi impositionem dato, &c. philosophamur, ab Hieronymo Presbytero, Prælatis ante omnes Patres infensissimo, ita liberè concessa, ut aliorum testimoniis opus non sit.

§. 5. Quæ hic aut Bellarmino de Sacramento chrismatis Dallæus objicit, aut Aurelio, de chrismatis usu, cum Sirmondo, Dallæus, nos planè non attingunt, qui nec Confirmationem Sacramenti titulo insignimus, nec Episcopali manuum impositioni, & benedictioni, quibus rem totam conficimus, Chrisma ἐκ παρέργου adjungimus.

§. 6. Certè quod ad Aurelium attinet, apertiora sunt Hieronymi verba, à nobis jamdudum recitata, quàm ut de Chrismatis, in Baptismo, usu, sub ejus saltem ævo, in quibusdam Ecclesiis obtinente, dubitari rectè queat. Sed & ante Hieronymum Tertullianus l. * de Baptismo, aliique in eandem sententiam prius à nobis adducti sunt * Cap. 7.

§. 7. At nec argumento à nomine desumpto evicerit vir Doctissimus, seu Confirmationem, quam dicimus, seu, si mavis, Chrismationem, non nisi inter baptismales Ceremonias reponendas esse, cùm eundem ritum (unguenti puta, aut chrismatis) in pluribus officiis sacris adhibitum fuisse, nihil vetet, in Baptismo scil. in Confirmatione, in Ordinatione, imò & in Pœnitentiâ (ut de Extremâ Unctione taceam) sic tamen ut reliqui ab aliis primariis ritibus appellationem sortiantur (Baptismus à mersione non ab unctione, Ordinatio & Pœnitentia ab Ordinatorum & pœnitentium, per impositionem manuum, receptione, non ab Unctione) Una sola, inter has, Confirmatio, eaque ex celeberrimo Orientalis Ecclesiæ usu, chrismationis titulo insigniatur.

§. 8. Audiatur Hieronymus in loco priùs laudato, Ac ne fortè qui chrisma Baptismi perdiderunt, desperent de chrismate reparando, scriptum est enim in Levitico, quòd Leprosus--- cùm ad sacerdotem venerit, mittat sibi sacerdos oleum, &c.] Gemina vides chrismata, ut Baptismi unum, Pœnitentiæ alterum; nec mirum est, si & Tertium, Confirmationis, aliquæ saltem Ecclesiæ partes, omni ferè ævo, agnoverint. Loquatur iterum * Spalatensis, quem hypothesi ipsius imprimis faventem facile agniturus est Dallæus; Chrismate Baptizamus, Chrismate Confirmamus, Chrismate Presbyterum, Chrismate Episcopum Ordinamus, Chrismate & signo crucis consecrantur Campanæ, Altaria, Ecclesiæ, Calices æquè ac homines. * De Rep. Eccl. l. 5. c. 5. num. 28.

§. 9. Quid hinc ad adjudicandam Presbyteris Chrismationem colligi possit, prius vidimus, Confectionem chrismatis Episcopis solis competere monstrantes, cùm interim Confecti usus ad Presbyteros, imò & Diaconos, modò ἐκ ἀνδὸ γνώμης Ἐπισκόπε, pertinuerit, sic quidem dilucidè, verbis modò allatis, pronuntiavit Hieronymus, Chrismate & jussione Episcopi simul positis, sine quibus, inquit, neque Diaconus baptizandi jus habet. Quæ verba de Chrismate ab Episcopo confecto, sine dubio intelligi voluit.

§. 10. Hæc an * Dallæus agnoverit, cum Bellarmino de Confirmatione Hieronymianâ disserenti, eamque Episcopis solis ex Hieronymi suffragio adjudicanti, Hieronymum ipsum strenuè & fervidè opposuerit, illum non modò solis Episcopis Chrismationem non vendicare, contendens, sed contra, clarè liquidòque statuere Presbyteros aut etiam Diaconos cum chrismate baptizare] nolo hic pensiculatius indagare. * P. 262.

SECT. VI.

Ambrosii Liber de Sacramentis rejectus à Dallæo, at à Spalatensi laudatus. Ejus testimonium quàm nobis non infensum. Liber de Solomone.

§. 1. Post Hieronymum, Ambrosius consulendus erat, ex cujus libro de Sacramentis multa * Spalatensis, ut ex libro de Solomone unicum (quod & ab Aurelio quoque citatum) Dallæus adduxit: At illum de Sacramentis adulterinum fœtum fuisse, à Ro. Coco nostro fusè demonstratum ait * Dallæus, cum tamen hunc de Solomone, de quo dubitasse Erasmum fatetur, ipse adducendum existimet. * De Rep. Eccl. l. 5. c. 5. n. 19. * P. 267.

§. 2. Nos Criticorum disceptationibus hic non immiscebimur, ea interim quæ uterque tum Spalatensis, cum Dallæus ex Ambrosio laudavit, nobis nihil officere monstraturi. Post fontem (inquit * liber tertius de Sacramentis) superest ut perfectio fiat, quandò ad Invocationem sacerdotis Spiritus sanctus infunditur. Addit itidem hanc Ceremoniam, tanquam ultimam, & totius baptismi consummationem, ac perfectionem, aliis præcedentibus, albæ vestis, lotionis pedum, &c. subjici. * C. 2.

§. 3. Nos certè omnia concedimus, nihil inficiamur; nec enim nobis officiet, si baptismus in genere baptismi aut sacramenti initiationis, satis perfectus, aliam adhuc alterius generis perfectionem desideret, ulteriori scil. baptismalis professionis Confirmatione, simulque Spiritus sancti fidelibus promissi largitione complendus.

§. 4. Hæc certè doctrinæ nostræ de Confirmatione summa est, quam non aliis verbis commodius aut felicius exprimi posse putamus, quam quibus author ille, quisquis est, utebatur, Post fontem, (scil. baptismalem, cui Catechumenus immergitur) i. e. post baptismum omnibus & partibus, & Ceremoniis suis absolutum, rite & legitime ministratum, superest ut (vel statim, vel post aliquod intervallum) perfectio fiat, eo scil. qui baptizatus est, ad Episcopum (quem ab Ambrosio, & hoc, quisquis est, scriptore, sacerdotis titulo notari extra dubium est; cum hoc ipso loco Petrus sacerdos Romanæ Ecclesiæ dicatur)

tur) adducto, ut professionem baptismalem firmius consignet, & per invocationem ejus, seu benedictionem, spiritus in baptismo datus, auctiore jam, & pleniore fluento in Confirmatione infundatur.

§. 5. Verùm addit Clarissimus Præsul, post eam (Confirmationem) explicatam, pergere adhuc Ambrosium, l. 4. c. 1. 2. ipsum baptismum considerare, Post hæc ad Sacramentum Eucharistiæ considerandum accedere.]

§. 6. Respondeo, libris his de Sacramentis nuncupatis, Duo tantum ea, quæ à Christo instituta sunt Sacramenta tractanda proponi, baptismum, scil. & Eucharistiam, Confirmationem non ex instituto, sed obiter tangi, nec igitur mirum esse, si post ejus l. 3. c. 2. factam mentionem, Baptismum ipsum considerare pergat l. 4. c. 1, 2. Quæ ad institutum imprimis pertinebant, ordine suo disponenda erant, & prius baptismus, posterius Eucharistia tractanda. Quæ præter institutum, ὡς παρέργῳ, & ex abundanti adjiciuntur, ad ea methodus non pertingit, sed liberè, ubi occasio sese obtulerit, cuivis Commati, tanquam in παρεκβάσεσι passim adjiciuntur.

§. 7. Nulla igitur adhuc Argumenti Umbra, quo Confirmationem, aut Obsignationem baptismalis ritus partem esse, ex his Ambrosii de Sacramentis verbis vir magnus concluſum putet.

§. 8. Verum Dallæus, hoc de Sacramentis opere inter apertè spuria, Ambrosio abjudicato, non aliud ex libro de Solomone adduxit, quam [Spiritum per Chrismatis Unctionem à Christo dari] Hoc item satis commodè ad rem nostram, cum per Spiritum auctiora Spiritus dona notari clarissimum sit, quæ non (ut gratis postulat Dallæus) in mysterio initiationis Christianæ Catechumenis dari, sed in Confirmatione recens Baptizatis, seu fidelibus adjici, æquè notum est, ac quod notissimum.

SECT. VII.

Augustini primum Testimonium. Descensus Columbæ in Christum Baptismi pars non erat. Secundum, Tertium, Quartum, Quintum, Sextum.

§. 1. AT Ambrosio, cui hæc abjudicant Critici, tandem omisso, Hieronymo Augustinus, si placet, adjungatur, de * Trinitate, cujus hæc sunt verba, Orabant (discipuli) ut veniret (Spiritus sanctus) in eos, quibus manum imponebant, non ipsi eum dabant. Quem morem in suis præpositis etiam nunc servat Ecclesia.] * L. 15. c. 26.

§. 2. Quicquid ex hujus loci circumstantiis concludi contra Romanistas voluit Dallæus, nos lubentes largimur. Meram autem (quod fidenter etiam pronuntiat) Baptismi Ceremoniam esse, nullo sanè Argumento approbavit. Imo cùm ab Apostolorum praxi morem hunc Ecclesiam duxisse affirmet Augustinus, eumque nonnisi in præpositis servare, Apostolos verò non in baptismo, sed ad impetranda prius baptizatis dona Linguarum, hunc ritum adhibuisse notissimum sit, cumque hoc ipso loco Simonem Magum offerentem Apostolis pecuniam, &c. inducat Augustinus, manifestissimum redditur, de manuum impositione, non ut Ceremoniâ ad baptismum attinente, sed ut solenni ritu Ecclesiastico, Episcopis, sub Præpositorum nomine, reservato, locutum esse.

§. 3. Idem statim per baptizatorum Unctionem notasse videtur, de dono Gratiæ differens, quod, inquit, visibili significatur unguento, quo baptizatos ungit Ecclesia. Ex quo cùm, post Spalatensem, Dallæus chrismatis baptismi ipsius ritum fuisse statim concludat, interrogetque, Quid enim aliud est, quod ait Ecclesiam baptizatos ungere?] Non videt, quod ut alii videant, perspicillis non indigent, æquè saltem, si non magis commodè, dici Ecclesiam baptizatos ungere, quos peracto baptismo statim ungit, ac quos in ipso linit baptismate.

§. 4. Nec sanè, quod addit Augustinus, Christi in baptismo columbam unctionem nostram præfiguravisse.] hoc (ut * Dallæo visum est) certius docet. Nec enim ea sunt Augustini verba [Christi in baptismo columbam] aut, ut Dallæus statim, in Christum columba in ipso baptismo descendit] sed [quando super eum baptizatum velut columba descendit] nec si fuissent, Augustino credendum erat, cùm nos multò certiùs Evangelista doceat, descensum columbæ nullam baptismi partem fuisse, sed baptismum planè secutum esse, καὶ βαπτισθεὶς Ἰησοῦς ἀνέβη εὐθὺς ἀπὸ τοῦ ὕδατος, & cùm (inquit) baptizatus esset Jesus, i. e. cùm omnia ad baptismum à Baptistâ peracta essent, statim ex aquâ ascendit, καὶ ἰδοὺ ἀνεῴχθησαν αὐτῷ οἱ οὐρανοί, καὶ εἶδε τὸ πνεῦμα τοῦ Θεοῦ καταβαῖνον ὡσεὶ περιστερὰν, Et ecce (post ascensum ex aquâ, qui, ut dictum est, baptismo succedaneus erat) Cœli illi aperti sunt, & vidit spiritum descendentem ut columbam, &c. videantur quæ modò ex Optato attulimus. * P. 293.

§. 5. At, inquit Dallæus, cùm nulli in Ecclesiâ sint non baptizati, omninò necesse est baptizatos esse hic τοὺς σωζομένους; τοὺς βαπτιζομένους, eos qui baptizantur] Quasi verò illi qui olim baptismo donati sunt, non sint æquè, imò magis propriè in Ecclesiâ, quàm ipsi qui jam baptizantur.

§. 6. Alterum Augustini locum ex * Bellarmino hic adjungendum curavit vir † Doctissimus. [m] Quædam inquit, Sacramenta ore accipimus, quædam per corpus, quædam in fronte per signum crucis.] Hic certè ut Eucharistia, quæ ore accipitur, à baptismo, qui per totum corpus diffunditur, sic utraque & Eucharistia, & Baptismus, à Consignatione in fronte, i. e. à Confirmatione distinguuntur. * De Conf. c. 8. † P. 294. m In Psal. 141.

§. 7. Sic & de Baptismo contra Donatistas L. 3. * Spiritus autem S. quòd in sola Catholicâ per manus impositionem dari dicitur, &c. Et mox, Neque enim temporalibus & sensibilibus miraculis attestantibus, per manus impositionem, modò datur Spiritus S. sicut antea dabatur ad Commendationem rudis fidei, & Ecclesiæ primordia dilatanda. Quis enim nunc hoc expectat, ut ii quibus manus ad accipiendum Spiritum sanctum imponitur, repente incipiant linguis loqui? sed invisibiliter & latenter intelligitur per vinculum Pacis eorum cordibus divina charitas inspirata, &c. Vides hanc in Ecclesia, Augustini ævo, celeberrimam Impositionem manuum, sic ab Apostolicâ derivari ut hoc tantùm differat, quod Divinæ tunc gratiæ Charitas, non dona, ut olim, miraculosa, hoc ritu impetrentur. * Cap. 16.

§. 8. Dein sic rem omnem concludit, Manus autem impositio non, sic ut baptismus, repeti potest: Quid est enim aliud nisi Oratio super hominem? (ad hanc Sancti Patris normam amussitavit Officium suum Ecclesia nostra, & solâ Oratione, & benedictione paterna rem omnem confecit, omissâ Latinorum recentiori formâ, Signo te Confirmo, &c. Et ita rem, uti spero, gratam Dallæo fecit.)

§. 9. Quid insuper ejusdem operis L. 5. c. 10. cùm contra Donatistas contendat per peccatorem Sacramenta celebrari posse, quomodò, inquit, exaudit Deus homicidam deprecantem, vel super Aquam baptismi, vel super oleum, vel super Eucharistiam, vel super capita eorum quibus manus imponitur?] §. 10. De

§. 10. De Sacramenti voce Dallæo moleſtus non ſum, eam ſatis latè aliquando ſumi agnoſcens: Unum urgeo, æquè à baptiſmo oleum ſejungi, ac ab utrovis Euchariſtia, & manuum Impoſitio, ſive in pœnitentium receptione, ſive in Ordinatione Miniſtrorum.

§. 11. Sic cum cont. liter. Petiliani, de Sacramento chriſmatis loquens, de eo pronuntiat, in genere viſibilium ſignaculorum ſacroſanctum eſſe, ſicut ipſe Baptiſmus. L. 11. c. 104.

§. 12. Sic & * alibi, Manus hæreticis correctis imponitur, &, manus autem Impoſitio ſi non adhiberetur ab hæreſi venienti — quo itidem loco, cum hæreticos ex eo probat Eccleſiam non habere, licet baptiſmum habeant, quia Spiritum ſanctum non habent, & tamen baptiſmum habent, concludetur certè ex Auguſtini ſententiâ, hanc manuum impoſitionem, quâ Spiritus S. in Eccleſiâ donatur, à baptiſmo planè diviſam eſſe. *Cont. Donat. l. 5. c. 23.

CAP. VIII.

Salviani & Euſebii Emiſſeni teſtimonia. Prudentii. Innotatus. Concluſio.

§. 1. PRoximo, i. e. quinto, ſæculo accenſendi Salvianus & Eucherius. * Ille inter bona à Deo chriſtianis aſſignata, ut ſancti baptiſmatis Gratiam, ſic & divini Chriſmatis unctionem recenſet, quod ſtatim Chriſma Eccleſiaſticum nuncupat, poſt quod qui omnia Dei mandata fecerint, ad capiendum laboris præmium vocantur ad cœlum, ut apud Judæos lectiſſimos quoſque per Unguentum Regium Deus vocavit in Regnum. * De Gubernat. Dei, l. 3. p. 68.

§. 2. Hic autem, ſive Euſebius Emiſſenus, ſive Eucherius Lugdunenſis fuerit, in Homiliâ de Pentecoſte, multa de hoc Eccleſiæ ritu congeſſit, eumque à deſcenſu Spiritus S. in die Pentecoſtes deduxit. Quod nunc in confirmandis Neophytis manus impoſitio tribuit ſingulis, hoc tunc ſpiritus ſancti deſcenſio in Credentium populo donavit Univerſis. Sed quiâ diximus quod manus Impoſitio & Confirmatio ei qui jam renatus, qui jam regeneratus in Chriſto eſt, conferre aliquid poſſit, fortè cogitat ſibi aliquis, &c. Quid mihi prodeſt, poſt myſterium baptiſmatis, Miniſterium confirmantis? &c.] Et ſtatim, ut Imperator quemcunque in militum receperit numerum, non ſolùm ſignat receptum, ſed etiam armis competentibus inſtruit pugnaturum, ita in Baptizato Benedictio illa munitio eſt; Dediſti militem, da etiam ei adjumenta militiæ. Et ſtatim, Spiritus ſanctus, qui ſuper aquas baptiſmi ſalutifero deſcendit illapſu, in fonte plenitudinem tribuit ad innocentiam, in Confirmatione Gratiam præſtat ad augmentum. Et, in Baptiſmo regeneramur ad vitam, Poſt baptiſmum Confirmamur ad pugnam. In baptiſmo abluimur, poſt baptiſmum roboramur. Et Regeneratio per ſe ſalvat mox in pace beati ſæculi recipiendos; Confirmatio armat & inſtruit ad agones mundi hujus, & prælia reſervandos. Itaque ante Deſcenſionem Spiritus S. Apoſtoli uſque ad negationem deterrentur, poſt viſitationem verò ejus, uſque ad Martyrium contemptu mortis armantur.

§. 3. Cumulum augebit Prudentius, Poeta Chriſtianus, Paciano, & Hieronymo ſuppar; Sic autem ille in Apotheoſi, ——Totus procul abſit & unctus.

Et contra Symmachum,

——Lateranas currit ad ædes,
Unde ſacrum referat regali Chriſmate ſignum.

Et in Hymno nocturno, cum baptiſmum reſpiciens, dixiſſet,

Cultor Dei memento
Te Fontis & Lavacri
Rorem ſubiiſſe ſanctum——

Addit ſtatim,

——Et Chriſmate innotatum.]

Pro innotatum] Innovatum, fateor, cum vulgatis codicibus (legit * Baronius, & ſic) legendum contendit Dallæus: At illud ex conjecturâ tantùm, & ut hypotheſi ſuæ rem gratam faciat, cùm ſi non omnia, certè * aliqua Prudentii exemplaria Innotatum legant. Quod autem illi durum & barbarum videbatur, ut & Caſſandro inſolens, illud ex aliis ejuſdem Authoris ſatis commodè explicabitur. Quod enim hic chriſmate innotatum ait, idem planè cum iis, quæ unà ex eo * Dallæus deduxit, * Ann. 35. 16. * Vid. G. Caſſan. Schol. ad Hym. P. 220. * P. 268.

Inſcripta oleo fronti ſignacula, per quæ
Unguentum regale datum eſt, & chriſma perenne.

Et in Apotheoſi de Juliano,

——Ecquis alumnus
Chriſmatis inſcripto ſignaret tempora ſigno, &c.

Nempe innotare eſt ſignum aut ſignaculum fronti inſcribere, quod cum oleo fieret [† Epiſcopus enim inungens, intincto in chriſma pollice, notam crucis in fronte deſignabat) is certè chriſmate innotari, æquè ac ſignari dicebatur. † Caſſander. ibid.

§. 4. His certè multo plura appoſuit Dallæus, dùm variè contra Aurelium diſſereret, de Sacramenti voce (quâ quidem in re litem me illi non movere ſæpius dixi) & Confirmationem meram baptiſmi Ceremoniam eſſe contenderet, cum tamen ritus iſtos toto cœlo diſtare, illa ipſa teſtimonia æquo ſaltem lectori abundè comprobent, quæ ille ad ſententiæ ſuæ βεβαίωσιν ſtudiosè conquiſivit.

§. 5. Plura ſequiorum ſæculorum Teſtimonia non accumulo, his primævæ Eccleſiæ anteſignanis hypotheſim noſtram, integramque Eccleſiæ Anglicanæ de Confirmatione ſententiam ſatis ſuperque defenſam & munitam ratus, quæ ab Apoſtolorum exemplo hunc ritum ad nos derivatum pronuntiat, nec in eo, ut videtur, lucidiſſimis Patrum ſuffragiis deſtituitur.

§. 6. Valeat, floreat Doctiſſimus Dallæus, & hanc breviculam Commatis unici, quod illi diſplicuit, defenſionem, eique adjunctam ſimpliciſſimi, & Antiquiſſimi ritus, ut in Eccleſiâ noſtrâ conſtanter retentus eſt, à primis ſæculis derivati deſcriptionem boni conſulat; veritatemque, ſimul ac antiquæ Eccleſiæ puritatem, & ſimplicitatem, non minus aliis, quàm ſibi charum fuiſſe, modò tempeſtivè & ſine aliorum opprobrio aut contumeliâ, ea cura geratur, illi moleſtum non ſit.

FINIS.